At hospital in Winchester, in November, 1864, I saw, among others, a soldier who had been shot by one of a squad of Mosby's guerrillas while out on a reconnoissance. The wound was inflicted by a heavy navy revolver or carbine. The ball entered behind one eye, and apparently took a straight course through the head. It did not come out on the opposite side, and probing failed to discover it. The man was sent to a hospital and given up as one who was certain to die. Yet when I saw him almost two months had elapsed since the wound was inflicted; the sight of one eye was gone, but that of the other was perfectly good. The general health of the patient was good, and everything seemed to indicate his speedy recovery.

A Surgeon of the Second New York Mounted Rifles told me that while before Petersburg, in 1864, a cavalryman came in on his horse one day from a skirmish with one leg entirely torn off below the knee by a shell, and hanging from the seared and ragged stump was the dangling end of the great artery, effectually closed by the heat of the shell. It was impossible that the patient should live with such a wound; the great wonder was that he could have traveled a mile or two on horseback without bleeding to death; and it was quite as strange that he lived three days after being placed in hospital.—J. F. E., in New York Times.

Worse Than Vandals.

A disgraceful outrage upon the most sacred feelings of the Jewish race has recently been perpetrated at Pine Bluff, Ark. Some unknown villains there devastated the Jewish graveyard. All the monuments and grave stones, more than seventy in number, were prostrated and smashed to pieces; the flowers and shrubbery were torn up, and finally fire was brought into play till the desolation was complete. The motive of the deed is not discernible, and the guilty parties have not been discovered. The Hebrew population are very much excited about the matter, and we are glad to see that the Christians of the place have joined with them to find the perpetrators. The Mayor has offered $1,000 reward for their discovery; the Hebrews themselves have offered as much more, and the Governor of the State is expected to do something. We hope that the villains will be caught and properly punished. The search for them must not be allowed to rest till they are in the hands of justice. Among the Hebrews, the graves, the ashes, the memories, and the names of the dead are peculiarly sacred.

Reclaiming the Plain of Marathon.

The famous Plain of Marathon has been drained with complete success by M. Souizo. The Ephemiris takes occasion to remark that this will effect a modification in the topography of Attica. In effect the existence of the marsh explains the defeat of the Persian army by one ten times less numerous. The Persians, incumbered by forces which could only hinder one another during the action, were helpless when victory was declared for the Athenians. Between the sea and the marsh they were completely blocked-in, and the retreat soon transformed itself into a total and bloody route. One thousand five hundred hectares of good land have been obtained by the drainage, and the inhabitants will be saved from the fevers that have hitherto periodically attacked them.—London Athenæum.

A Useful Item.

The English Chemist and Druggist says that a good process for water-proofing cloths is to dip them in a solution of sulphate of alumina or alum cake, and afterward in a warm solution of white Castile or cured soap. Ordinary soap may answer for dark cloths, but white soap is essential in the case of white or light colored goods. The cloths are then to be rinsed in clear cold water, and allowed to dry. The chemical reaction is simple enough in this case. Soaps are mainly composed of stearate of soda, which, on being rinsed with sulphate of alumina, forms sulphate of soda; that disappears in washing, and an insoluble stearate of alumina is formed, which remains on the cloths and renders them water proof.

The Grasshopper Sufferers.

The Secretary of War has made a report to Congress concerning the relief furnished by the army to the grasshopper sufferers. The amount of clothing furnished was as follows:

Great-coats, infantry	10 004
Great-coats, mounted	4
Sack-coats, lined	1,413
Sack-coats, unlined	1,352
Uniform coats	2,392
Trowsers, infantry	53
Shoes, pairs	16,187
Boots, pairs	4,478
Shirts, flannel	689
Drawers	55
Jackets	349
Uniform hats	1,594
Forage caps	1,809
Blankets, woolen	8,354
Blankets, rubber	40
Ponchos, rubber	12

A Stunner.

At a social party in Bernville, Pa., a few nights ago, a young lady present, glancing at a looking-glass, discovered that somebody had marked her face with lampblack. This so enraged her that she planted her fist on an innocent young man's mouth who happened to stand near her, and he returned the compliment. In her wild rage and weeping condition, and with her blackened face, she looked horrible in the extreme. She soon laid the young man out "pretty flat," and then seizing the poker she went at the rest of the company. In less than two minutes she had everybody in the room piled up in a corner. Then she quietly put on her hat and shawl and walked off home. She was a "stunner."

WE have by mail full details of the fearful disaster which took place in the Swiss village of Helliken, on Christmas Day, brief mention of which was made by cable. It seems that the children and their parents collected at the school house; the Christmas tree was lighted and the crowd poured up-stairs. When the guests had reached the top of the second flight the floor gave way, carrying the lower floor with it. The interior of the edifice presented a horrible scene of confusion—human beings, beams, school-desks, chairs, mortar and stones being heaped up together. It was nearly 7 o'clock when this occurred, and everything was in darkness, when the remaining population of the village, hearing the cries of the unfortunate children and their friends, hurried to the spot. They set to work busily to clear the interior as soon as assistance arrived, extracting from the debris seventy-two corpses—those of fifty-six children, fourteen mothers of families, and two men—besides about forty injured persons and children, some of them very seriously hurt.

INDIANA ITEMS.

WALL, the Fort Wayne murderer, will be hanged on Monday, March 13.

THE Wabash and Erie Canal will be auctioned off at Terre Haute, Feb. 24.

AN affectionate wife at New Castle raffled off her bible to get her husband out of jail.

THERE are 2,023 granges in Indiana, with a membership of 59,665, and $17,000 in the treasuries.

A QUANTITY of bones found under a haunted house in Milan, are exciting the inhabitants of that place.

JEFFERSONVILLE is trying to have the county seat of Clark County removed to that place from Charlestown.

THE teachers of Vigo County have been requested by the County Superintendent to donate money equal to one day's salary to the Centennial fund.

THE Mount Vernon Democrat knows of a citizen in Point township, forty years old, who has always lived in that township, the Gibraltar of ague, who was never sick a day in his life.

AT the Indiana Block Coal Company's shafts at Coal Creek, Fountain County, a stable was burned on Thursday night, containing 194 kegs of powder, which exploded, killing seven mules and one horse.

THE drug store of R. Shaw, at Brazil, Clay County, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday last by incendiaries. The building and stock of goods amounted to $5,000; well insured. An effort was made to fire it a week previously.

A FELLOW by the name of Harry Reynolds, professed agent for some dramatic newspaper, has been fleecing hotel keepers and others at Lafayette out of sundry board bills, wearing apparel, etc. They are after him.

A "DRUMMER" for the Y. M. C. A. stands in front of a prominent saloon in Indianapolis and warns the passer-by of the quality of the liquor dispensed inside, while warmly commending the purity of the salvation to be secured a few doors above.

MR. JEFF CARR, of Rushville, has a two-shilling note of old colonial currency, issued by Pennsylvania the 1st day of October, 1773. It was printed by Hall & Sellers, and contains the solemn warning that "to counterfeit this is death."

It was a citizen of Vigo County that built a handsome barn, and made the mistake of having the door too small to admit his new carriage. He then had the whole barn raised to let it in, and then found that he had raised the floor as well as the top of tue door, and that the door was the same size as before.

A SPECIAL from Lagrange says William Kennedy, Sebastian Goss, and Henry Corbett were instantly killed, William Price seriously injured, and a little son of Kennedy dangerously scalded, by the explosion last Thursday afternoon of a boiler in the sawmill of Kennedy & Price, who are among the killed and injured. The bodies of the men were scalded and bruised in a terrible manner.

THERE is trouble among the Hebrews of Indianapolis. Rev. M. Messing, the rabbi, was, by reason of a difficulty with a lady member of the choir, dismissed from his position by the President of the society. This action was not sustained by the congregation, and the rabbi will not retire. The troubles are not of a nature reflecting in the least upon the character of either Mr. Messing or the lady.

THE dry goods store of Miles & Miles, at Covington, was burglarized one night last week. All the silk and linen goods, a lot of boots and shoes, and other merchandise were carried off. The safe was blown to atoms, and the money drawer broken open. A very small amount of money was secured, but the loss will reach several hundred dollars. The thieves effected an entrance by prying open the rear door with a crowbar. No clue.

ON Dec. 18 the remains of William Fenton were found on the railroad track near Princeton, Kosciusko County, in a terribly mutilated condition, several trains having run over them. Fenton was supposed to have been intoxicated, and laid down on the track. Facts have developed since, however, that point very plainly to William Kennedy as having waylaid and killed him for his money, and placed his body on the track to avoid detection. The night was very dark, and Fenton started home, which is near the track, at a very late hour of night.

A YEAR or two ago, says the Turf, Field and Farm, two Rochester (N. Y.) gentleman visited Rushville, Ind., with the view of purchasing some Blue Bull colts, of which stock they had heard a great deal. They found Mr. Wilson at home, but his prices were so high that they could not trade. While waiting at the depot for the train which was to convey them home, Mr. Wilson's son approached them and described a two-year old which he owned. On asking the price, and being informed that it was $200, one of the gentlemen decided to chance it "unsight unseen." He did not like to return without buying something, and so, in a fit of desperation, took advantage of the last opportunity. The purchase proved a lucky one. The young Blue Bull is now at Rochester, the property of Mr. Parsons, the accomplished Secretary of the Driving Park Association, and is trotting fast. It has shown a gait which, we are credibly informed, is equal to a mile in 2:30. We congratulate Mr. Parsons on his good luck.

FROM the annual report of the Directors and officers of the State Prison North, submitted to the Governor, the following abstract was taken: At the last meeting of the Directors the prison contained 457 convicts, which number has since increased to 511. Of these 350 have been on contract, leaving a monthly average of about 80 or 90 men for whom there is no employment, although a standing advertisement for their labor has been made. The revenue from all sources has been $70,666.66, the current and ordinary expenses being $63,869.02, leaving a balance of $6,797.64. Of this balance $1,637.94 has been expended on improvements about the prison and the Warden's house, leaving a net balance over all expenditures of $5,259.70. The net earnings of the prison for the nine months of the administration of the present Board of Directors have been $[illegible]. The sanitary condition is creditable, only four deaths having occurred during the year, one of which was by suicide, and at the present time there are none sick of acute disease. The special appropriation of $600 for an addition to the library has been applied to that purpose, and a new work-shop has been recently completed at an expense of $9,155.62. The report of Warden Mayne sets forth the average number of prisoners during the year to have been 483; number of inmates Dec. 15, 1874, 455; received from courts during the year, 278; recaptured, 1; total, 734. Discharged by expiration of sentence, 174; pardoned by the Governor, 31; escaped, 1; remanded for new trial, 13; died, 4; total, 223. Number now remaining in prison, 511. Of their crimes grand larceny is the alleged cause of 270, murder of 40, burglary and grand larceny 45—a score of other causes being alleged for the remaining criminals. Of the number of inmates, 56 are sentenced for one year, 219 for two years, 5 for twenty-one years, and 25 for life. Of their former occupations decidedly the largest number are farmers, 94; the next in rank being laborers, 69. Of their birth, 370 are Americans and 90 foreigners. Of their ages, 2 are under 15 years of age; 112, 20 and under; above 15, 156; between 20 and 25, 5; and 4 between 60 and 65. The grade of the convicts is designated as follows: Number who can read and write, 422; number who can read only, 27; number who can neither read nor write, 62. Of their relations, 324 are single, 171 married, and 16 widowers. With reference to their habits, 182 are of temperate habits, 118 of moderate, and 211 of immoderate habits. The report also includes an inventory of the prison property and a detailed exhibition of the monthly receipts and expenses of the institution.

Don't Kiss the Baby.

The promiscuous kissing of children is a pestilential practice. We use the word advisedly, and it is mild for the occasion. Murderous would be the proper word, if the kissers knew the mischief they do. Yes, madam, murderous; and we are speaking to you. Do you remember calling on your dear friend Mrs. Brown, the other day, with a strip of flannel round your neck? and when little Flora came dancing into the room, didn't you pounce on her demonstratively, call her a precious little pet, and kiss her? Then you proceeded to serenely describe the dreadful sore throat that kept you from prayer-meeting the night before. You had no design on the poor child's life, we know; nevertheless, you killed her. Killed her as sure as if you had fed her on strychnine or arsenic. Your carelessness was fatal.

Two or three days after the little pet began to complain of a sore throat too. The symptoms grew rapidly alarming; and, when the doctor came, the single word diphtheria sufficed to explain them all. To-day a little mound is the sole memento of your visit.

Of course, the mother does not suspect, and would not dare to suspect you of any instrumentality in her bereavement. She charges it to mysterious Providence. The doctor says nothing to disturb the illusion; that would be impolite, if not cruel; but to an outsider he is free to say that the child's death was due directly to your stupidity. Those are precisely his words; and who shall say, under the circumstances, that they are not justifiable? Remember:

> "Evil is wrought by want of thought,
> As well as by want of heart."

It would be hard to tell how much of the prevalent illness and mortality from diphtheria is due to such want of thought. As a rule, adults have the disease in so mild a form that they mistake it for a simple cold; and as a cold is not contagious, they think nothing of exposing others to their breath, or to the greater danger of libial contact. Taking into consideration the well-established fact that diphtheria is usually, if not alway, communicated by the direct transplanting of the malignant vegetation which causes the disease, the fact that there can be no more certain means of bringing the contagion to its favorite soil than the act of kissing, and the further fact that the custom of kissing children on all occasions is all but universal, it is not surprising that, when the disease is once imported into a community, it is very likely to become epidemic.

It would be absurd to charge the spread of diphtheria entirely to the practice of child-kissing. There are other modes of propagation, though it is hard to conceive of any more general in its operation. It stands to diphtheria in about the same relation that promiscuous hand-shaking formerly did to the itch.

It were better to avoid the practice. The children will not suffer if they go unkissed; and their friends ought, for their sake, to forego the luxury for a season. A single kiss has been known to infect a family; and the most careful may be in a condition to communicate the disease without knowing it. Beware, then, of playing Judas, and let the babies alone.—Dr. Hall.

Enoch Arden in the Right.

As he entered the cabin he found the old woman and her new husband engaged in the double-working, back-acting reciprocative performance of pulling each other's hair. They reversed engines for a moment as he entered. "Stranger," said he, "she was my wife, but I've heard tell as you've married her. I shall never introod on your domestic bliss agin; but I warns you right here, bein' a man as don't like to see his neighbor took in, that this is a game whar you don't stand no show. Stranger, she can draw to a bob-tail and make a full hand ary time." Then he bowed, lifting his hat from a bald head, and withdrew.

Curiosity Satisfied.

"And have you no other sons?" asked a curious lady of a bronzed old sea captain. "Oh, yes, madam, I had one that lived in the South Sea Islands for nearly a dozen years." "Really! Was he bred there, and what was his taste—the sea or land?" "No, madam, he wasn't bread—he was meat; leastways the niggers ate him, and as for his taste, the chief said he tasted of terbaccer." The lady walked to another part of the ship, and the captain smiled and took another quid of "terbaccer."—New Haven Register.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, FEB., 3rd, 1876.

W. H. DILLS.
ATTORNEY AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC.
Office in the basement of this paper.

If Theodore Tilton had wished to inflict diabolical revenge on the sed ucer of his wife he could not have chosen a better method than that he has pursued. Shooting him would have been mercy in comparison. Mr. Beecher remains above ground a live corpse tortured by conscience and cheered by public opinion. In all these United States there is no more miserable man than Henry Ward Beecher. He is in a false position. He is entangled with lies. Justice approaches him with steady step and he sees everything vanishing that made life delightful to him. The moral ruin of this strong man is one of the saddest things in our history. Yet justice must be done.

The positon occupied by Oliver P. Morton, during several days past, has not been of a character to strengthen his chances for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. A complete physical wreck, liable at any moment to fall a victim to the disease that is preying upon him he has stood up in the United States Sehate and in driblets, delivered his speech on Southern outrages, tiring the patience of his hearers, and presenting a spectacle that is simply painful—i. e.—that of a man, with one foot in the grave, struggling for political preferment. For his own sake, and that he may pass his declining hours in peace, let Mr. Morton retire from public life.

A physician of a London hospita writes to the British Medical Journal: "There is no recognized reason why of late years neuraegia of the face and scalp should have increased so much in the female sex as compared with our own. There is no doubt that it is one of the most common of female maladies—one of the most painful and difficult of treatment. It is also a cause of much mental depression and leads more often to habits of intemperance than any other. This growing prevalence of neuralgia may to some extent be referred to the effects of cold upon the terminal branches of the nerves distributed to the skin; and the reason why men are less subject to it then women may to a great extent be explained by the muchl greater protection afforded by the mode in which the former cover their heads when they are in the open air. It may be observed that the surface of the head which is actually covered in man is at least three times that which fashion allows to women indeed the points of contact between the hat or bonnet and the head in the latter are so irregular as practically to destroy any protection which might otherwise be afforded.

Keep Your Eye on your Neighbors.

Take care of them. Do not let them stir without watching. They may do something wrong, if you do. To be sure you never knew them do anything very bad; but it may be on your account they have not. Perhaps, if is had not been for your care they might have disgraced themselves and families a long time ago. Therefore do not relax an effort to keep them where they ought to be; never mind your own business that will take care of itself. There is a man passing along he is looking over the fence—be suspicious of him perhaps he contemplates stealing some of these dark nights; there is no knowing what queer fancies he may have got into his head. If you find any symptoms of any one passing out of the path of duty tel very one else what you see and be particular to see a great many. It is a good way to circulate such things, though it may not benefit yourself or any one else particularly. Do keep something going—silence is a dreadful thing; though it is said there was silence in heaven for the space of half an hour, do not let such a thing, occur on earth, it would be too much like heaven for this mundane sphere If after your watchful care you can not see anything bad; perhaps in unguarded moment you lost sight of them—throw out hints that they are no better then they ought to be—that you should not wonder if people found out what they were after a while, then they may not carry their heads so high. Keep it going, and some one will take the hint and begin to help you after a while—then there will be music, and everything will work to a charm.

Brother Blaine's Advantages.

Speculation is active just now about the Republican nomination for President in case Grant should not insist upon running for a third term The candidates most discussed are Senator Conkling, Gov. Hayes, Brother Blaine Gov. Fish, Senator Morton Secretary Bristow and Gov. Morgan; and their special friends and enemies take excellent care to display with effect the points of strength and weakness of each of these favored gentlemen.

In this debate, we are rather sorry to see that Brother Blaine is not having a fair show just now among the Republicans, and a sense of fairness induces us to make good this deficiency by stating in what particulars he is stronger than any other Republican candidate except Grant.

Blaine has the Republican machine especially in the South. The party organizations are pledged to him.

Blaine represents the Anti-Catholic movement more thoroughly than any other Republican after Grant.

Blaine struck another great key note of the coming Republican campaign in his speech against amnesty reviving the fierce recollections of the civil war. Unless the rebellion can be thus kept alive there can be no genuine Republican victory.

Blaine has more and warmer personal friends than any other Republican statesman. There is probably no man in public life in this country who has such a talent for making friends as he. Most people who know Blaine like him immensely. The women especially are admirers of his Not because he is handsomer than others such as Mr. Fish for instance, but because he is more agreeable and fascinating.

Though nominally from Maine, he is really from Pennsylvania, and the heart of the Republican party in the Keystone State beats in unison with his ambition.

With facts like these in view the politicians who are running the other fellows may just as well make up their minds that Mr. Blaine is not a competitor to be pooh-poohed. N. Y. Sun.

BUTLER ITEMS.

BUTLER, Feb. 1, 1876.

—W. E. Sargent and family have gone to Garrett to start a boarding house. Mr. Sargent is a veteran in that business.

—We now boast of a real newsboy and a good one at that his customers say.

—Prof. Burzier was in town a few days ago the guest of J. R. Snively.

—Writing school commenced last night. Prof. Mulkins of Huntington, is the teacher.

—Mrs. Rex and family of Newville are coming to Butler to live again. Judging by the people who return to Butler, after moving away we must conclude that they have found worse places than Butler.

—On the 27th of Jan. Mr. A. O. Jones was married to Mrs. Marrilla Snively. Mr. Jones was supposed to be a confirmed batchelor but that suspicion is now proved to have been false.

—The oldest house in our town is a little log cabin situated in the very center of business and surrounded by stores A stranger would not dream of its being there, until opening the gate and following a little side-walk he comes upon it all at once, surrounded by ancient lilacs almost as tall as itself.

"LENA."

Spencerville Items.

SPENCERVILLE, Feb. 1, 1876.

—School closes Friday.

—James Boyle is a candidate for next term. The school through all the departments has been a grand success this term.

—Our school is called the model school of DeKalb county.—]Spencerville Weekly News.

—"Bashful Ben," of Jackson Center, correspondent of the "Republican" has at length opened his batteries; the first charge being double-charged shot fired from the depth of his wisdom. Now Ben let us reason just one moment. Suppose for instance, that Mayswinkle is addicted to lying, now, "Ben" you know that it would be 'natural' for 'him' to think every one else is a liar, and would it not be the same if he had the "Swell-head?" You have heard of a man who became drunk and fell agains the lamp-post, and then accused it of being drunk. Have you not? Yours Ben.

ALPH.

A CARD.

During the absence of T. C. Mays, I will act as editor of this paper, and hope to make it as it has been heretofore, a welcome visitor to every subscriber, to contain beneficial reading articles, sound democratic principles, and complete with home and local news items.

W. H. DILLS.

BUSTED HIGHER THAN A KITE!
The Bottom has fallen out.
IMPOSSIBLE TO GIVE MARKET PRICES,
So look out, and think what you will, somebody's hurt.
Only for 30 Days

200 Men's Overcoats from	$3 50 to $5.00.
150 Boys " "	1.50 " 3.50.
500 Men's Winter Suits,	7.00 " 9.50
250 Boys " "	5.00 " 7.00.
Best Shetland Shirts and Drawers per set	75c.
Plush Mask Caps,	50c.

OUR PULSE BEATS REGULAR.
SAM, PETE & MAX,
Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

GREAT
New York Store
—IN—
GARRETT,
LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN
Will be found a complete assortment of
FALL AND WINTER GOODS.
The goods have all been well selected, and make as nice a stock as there is in the county. The stock consists of a complete assortment of
DRY GOODS,
LADIES' FANCY GOODS.
MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,
a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complete line of
BOOTS AND SHOES,
Made to our order, and the nicest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 6 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices All invited to call and see us, whether they purchas or not. Come one, come all, and see our goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargain will be given as we will carry the largest stock i Garrett and we will make it an object for all buy. Call at the Brown building opposite lar hotel. The farmers will do well to come to trade a Garret. You can sell your produce for the highest market price and get the cash, and you can get goods as cheap as any place and you will be buy fied.
N oct1-6m LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

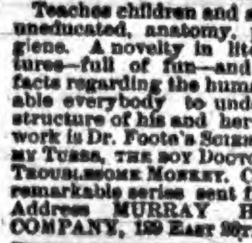
FREE CONSULTATION
Dr Foote, Author of Plain Home Talk & Medical Common Sense, ... New York

☞ As our advertiser has not made his advertisement altogether distinct, we will interpret and elaborate it as follows:
E. B. FOOTE, M. D.,
Author of Plain Home Talk, Medical Common Sense, Science in Story, etc., 120 Lexington Avenue (cor. East 28th Street), New York, an INDEPENDENT PHYSICIAN, treats all forms of Lingering or Chronic Diseases, and receives letters from all parts of the CIVILIZED WORLD. By his original way of conducting a Medical Practice, he is successfully treating numerous patients in Europe, the West Indies, Dominion of Canada, and in every part of the United States.
NO MERCURIAL
Or deleterious drugs used. He has, during the past twenty-three years, treated successfully nearly or quite 40,000 cases. All facts connected with each case are carefully recorded, whether they be communicated by letter or in person, or observed by the Doctor or his associate physicians. The latter are all scientific medical men.
HOW INVALIDS AT A DISTANCE
Are treated. All invalids at a distance are required to answer a list of plain questions, which elicits every symptom under which the invalid suffers. All communications treated strictly confidential. A complete system of registering prevents mistakes or confusion. List of questions sent free, on application, to any part of the world. Sixty-page pamphlet of EVIDENCES OF SUCCESS, also sent free. All these testimonials are from those who have been treated by mail and express.
ADVICE IN OFFICE, OR BY MAIL, FREE OF CHARGE.
Call on or address
DR. E. B. FOOTE,
No. 120 Lexington Ave., N. Y.

BOOK AGENTS
Wanted to sell Dr Foote's Plain Home Talk and Medical Common Sense; Also Dr. Foote's Science in Story. For Particulars address
Murray Hill Publishing Company 129 East 28th St.

IF YOU WANT TO KNOW
1,000
IMPORTANT THINGS you never knew or thought of before, regarding the human body and all its curious organs, read PLAIN HOME TALK AND MEDICAL COMMON SENSE, a sensible book for sensible people, and a good book for every one. You can learn from it a great variety of information you would feel a delicacy to go to your family physician about. Contents table sent free, by mail, to all applicants. Address MURRAY HILL PUBLISHING COMPANY, 129 EAST 28TH STREET, N. Y.

AN AMUSING STORY
Teaches children and adults, educated and uneducated, anatomy, physiology, and hygiene. A novelty in literature—full of pictures—full of fun—and loaded down with facts regarding the human system, which enable everybody to understand the curious structure of his and her own body. Such a work is Dr. Foote's SCIENCE IN STORY; or, SAMMY TUBBS, THE BOY DOCTOR, AND SPONSIE, THE TROUBLESOME MONKEY. Contents table of this remarkable series sent free to all applicants. Address MURRAY HILL PUBLISHING COMPANY, 129 East 28th Street, N. Y.



OLD EYES MADE NEW
The Only Perfect Instrument for Restoring the Sight and Giving up the use of Spectacles.
You have entire control of the suction power, and can produce equal effect upon each eye. Has elicited thousands of testimonials from cured patients in all parts of the United States. Its use entirely safe, and its effect marvelous. The Cheapest and the Best. Price by mail, postage prepaid, $3. Pamphlet upon the eyes, plain to all, the learned and the unlearned, showing how the vision becomes impaired, as is said, "by age," and containing a history of the various instruments invented for the restoration of the sight, sent free on receipt of 10 cents. Agents wanted everywhere. Address
Dr. E. B. FOOTE,
Author of Plain Home Talk, Medical Common Sense, Science in Story, etc., 120 Lexington Avenue, N. Y.

THE FAVORITE
HOME REMEDY.
Is warrented not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is PURELY VEGETABLE,
containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which the all-wise providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure any diseases caused by derangement of the liver or Bowels.
Stimulate the liver and prevent
CHILLS AND FEVER.
Simon's Liver Regulator, or Med'e
Is eminently a Family Medicine, and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour if suffering and many a dollar in time and doctors' bills.
After over forty years trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtue from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC
for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the shoulders Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth billious attacks, Palpitation of the heart pain in the region of the kidneys, despondency, gloom and forbidings of evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased liver.
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, poor appetite and tongue coated you are suffering from torpid liver, or billiousness and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently.
Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the liver the largest organ in the body is generally the seat of the disease and is not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will come.
Armed with this antidote, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a remedy in Malarious fevers, Bowel complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice, Nausea, it is the cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world.
CAUTION.—Buy no powders or prepared Simons' Liver Regulator unless in our engraved wrapper, with Trade Mark Stamp, and Signature unbroken. None other is genuine.
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.
Macon, Ga., and Philadelphia.
For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

LORDIER,
THE FORT WAYNE,
Boot & Shoe!
Store
Is the popular place for all kinks of BO [illegible] & SHOES.
All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely
LOW PRICES
Custom work done the best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.
Remember p
At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store, next to the Bank.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,
No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A
Has the largest and best stock of CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,
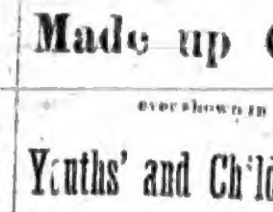
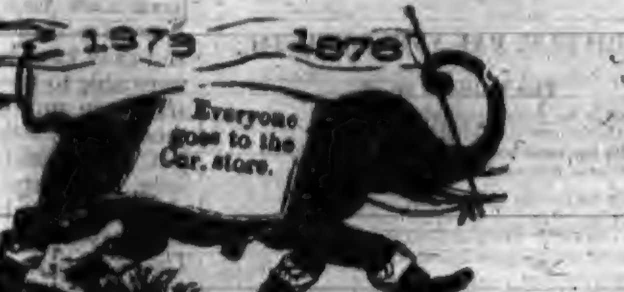
—AND—
CassimereS
in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of
Made up Clothing!
ever shown in Fort Wayne
Youths' and Children's Clothing!
Furnishing Goods, &c.
Merchant Tailoring.
All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Call and see his largest stock



GILES' LINIMENT
IODIDE OF AMMONIA
Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.
Dr. William Osgood Page, of No 265 4th avenue New York, suffered for many years with stiffness and intense pain in his knee, and at times was unable to walk, caused by an injury received on the Hudson River Railroad. Tried every remedy that skill or science could devise, without benefit. Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia gave instant relief and effected a complete cure.
Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle
Sold by J. M. EHLERS.
No. 3



1875
1876
Everyone goes to the Car. store.

BARGAINS
—AT—Millers & Casebeer's!

STI LL CONTINUES
Still in the Field with a Larger Stock of
Lumber,
Lath, Shingles, Doors, Sash, Lime, &c.
than ever before brought to Auburn. We are selling at the Lowest Bottom Prices!
and Defy Competition.
Lumber by the WAGON or CAR load
ALWAYS ON HAND!
☞ YARD ON SOUTH JACKSON STREET.
F. N. WRIGHT & CO.

NEW FURNITUR STORE.
Having purchased the Furniture Store formerly occupied by Mr WM. LONG, I will keep a full assortment of everything in the line of
FurniturE
I buy for cash and can therefore sell at LOWER RATES than those who buy on time.
FINE BED ROOM SETS
AND PARLOR SETS.
furnished customers at prices that cannot fail to suit. First-class workman employed to manufacture to order. I especially desire everybody to call and price my goods before buying elsewhere.
Rooms on Main-st., opposite Shull's new brick.
A. C. Dawson

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$1.00	Hogs—live	[illegible]
Amber—red	1.12	Hogs—dressed
Rye	75	Turkeys—live	.08
Oats	.35	Chickens—live	.06
Corn	[illegible]	Butter	[illegible]
Potatoes	[illegible]	Lard	.15
Flax Seed		Eggs	21
Clover Seed		Tallow	.06
Wool	35	Timothy Hay	10.00

Local and Miscellaneous.

Octoroon to-morrow night.

Ground-hog day yesterday.

Circuit Court next week, in Steuben county.

Monday week, sales for delinquent taxes.

The snow storm heaviest of the season Tuesday.

Mr. A. Wheelock of Stryker, O., was in town this week.

Sixteen whisky ringites are to be sentenced at Indianapolis to-day.

M. Lamb and, wife of Reading, Mich ar visiting Mrs. Bodine of this city.

G. L. Bittinger, Esq., Fort Wayne was here yesterday on legal business.

Redragts and sore throats are on the rage. This is open changable weather.

Birth. To the wife of R. H. Gilbert, a son, Feb. 1st. Uncle Dick says it is 'eavy, ten pounds.

FOR EXCHANGE.—Good Real Estate for a stock of goodes. Address, box 130 Fort Wayne, Ind. 3t.

Albion is to have a leap year dance. Where are our Auburn belles that they are not doing thus.

Feb. 28th inst., court will convene, with the grand jury. Look out for a "whoop'em up" Mary Jane.

J. E. Collins, Esq., president of the Eell River R. R., was in town Monday, attending a lawsuit against the road.

A select party gathered at the residence of G. C. Ralston, last Tuesday to celebrate the birth day of Miss. Alice Fair.

Dry Goods at cost. On account of removal I shall offer my entire stock of dry goods and notions at cost, and less.
GEO. H. MUNN.

Last Monday, January 31st we received a letter post marked, "DeKalb Ind., Feb 31." Cigars for two, Bro. Broughton.

W. W. Humes, has been visiting the hearthstone in Ashland, O. Returned a few days ago. after an absence of two weeks.

A. Stahl & J. Leasure have sold their dry goods store, at Bremen, Ind., to Alex. Hall, of this city. We hope Alex. will succeed in his new undertaking.

After Church of a Sunday evening, is very inoppertune for a minister to stop and talk with a young fellow, and let his girl get out of doors. Wasn't it darned Cool?

It was neither the stool of repentance nor that of humility, that was occupied by a singer in one of our choirs last Sunday evening, but it was the floor.

A terrible explosion took place in La-Grange county, last week, being the boiler at Price & Kennedy's saw mill, a short distance from town. Three men were killed and one man and child injured.

The shop occupied by Mr. J. Latson side of S. J. Locke's Saloon, took fire yesterday, from the pipe running through the roof of the building. No particular damage.

H. E. Little, financial manager of the Courier, will visit the different towns in the county, this and next week, for the purpose of Collecting all accounts due the above office.

As I do not want to move any of my present stock, I shall offer $15,000 worth of dry goods and notions at prices lower than ever offered before. One door, south of J. L. Davi's hardware store, Auburn Ind. GEO. H. MUNN.

A lodge of the order of K. of P. will be organized in Auburn this Afternoon and evening. The members number some of our best citizens and the order has bright prospects for the future in our midst.

Old Dad McKee the editor of the St. Louis "Globe-Democrat", the Republican organ in Missouri has been found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the U. S revenue, in the whisky ring.

That fellow who stopped his paper, because we said something about his neighbor(?) and went and subscribed for the "Republican" has got sick of his investment since last week. Says, he is now going to send for the "Sunday School Union or Little Coporal."

Golden wedding. Invitations are being sent by Mr. and Mrs. W. Griswold to their numerous friends to celebrate with them, their golden wedding, next Wednesday, Feb. 9th, at the residence of R. Elson—Mrs. E. being a grand child of the aged pair. Fifty years of married life is not common. We could hope them as much more.

New Post Office.

A new post office has been established called Concord Corners, on the B. & O. R. R., seven miles east of this place. It is a thickly settled neighborhood and ought to have been supplied long ago. A Mr. Van Hyde is the P. M.

There is recompense, or a compensation in exposing meanness, or doing good. Since a subscriber stopbed his paper, because we said something about his neighbor(?) we have obtained eleven new names. We are going to hit another before long.

The "Sentinal, on Saturday evening, administers a very proper dose to Keennan, the swell, who does Washington things for the Chicago "Times, and who so disgustingly referred to. Indiana ladies accompaning the late excursion.

In the house, Monday, Mr. Morrison, from the committee on ways and meany introduced a bill to revise and simplifs the tariff. The bill is the result of a conference between Messrs. Morrison, Kerr, David A. Wells, Horace A. White and other advocates of free trade.

Postal card correspondents is getting sick, it is Squeamish, and even nauseates the stomaches of the doctors and druggists. If you dont belive it, ask Dr. Cowan or Ehlers. Another such a dose as that given last week will act as both an emetic and cathartic on the whole fraturnity. "Rural" from Cupp's corners, is certainly "bad medicine."

D. W. Jones, Esq' of Fort Wayne, gave us a call this week on business. He is a candidate for Secretary of State before the Republican convention, but didn't electioneer us not a cents worth. He is a gentleman, and every way qualified for the position. Hope he will be nominated.

The Democrats of Texas have done wisely in renominating Richard Coke for Governor. Under his administration the State has recovered from the debility caused by war and by Grantism, and is once more one of the most vigorous and flourishing of the young commonwealths of the Union. Its credit has been restored, its population is rapidly increasing and the semi-barbarism of frontier life is disappearing

Leap Year Ball.

Several of our enterprising ladies have concluded to give a leap year ball, at Ensley's Hall, on Friday Feb. 11th, 1876. The hall will be decorated and arranged in every way pleasant and convenient. Let all avail themselves of this oportunity to attend this "Centennial party" and ask your feller to go along and enjoy a good, lively time. The bill will be one dollar for a dance ticket.

Robt. Zacher is now succeeding T. M. Stephens, at the popular corner grocery. Mr. Z comes highly recommended and will do the boss business in his line. It is generally known that this grocery is and always has been one of our leading establishments and, we are glad to say will maintain its former reputation. Joe Rainier, one of our best and most obliging citizen is head clerk and very many of his old friends and customers will be glad to find him at his post—as be always is.

Another Sensation.

At Ensley's Hall, on Friday eve, will produce for the first time in Auburn, the beautiful picture of life in the South before the war. Representing all the scenes familiar, such as the great sale of slaves, the burning of a steamboat on the Mississippi, also a great lynch trial such as occurred in those days, and is now kept up to some extent on the frontier. This drama is purely moral in its tone, and will be presented with new scenery, wardrobe, properties &c. Tickets for sale at the post-office, and at Kahn's clothing house.

Baxter to Weamer. "You sold out the Butler democrats for 5 dollars a head."

Baxter to Weamer. "You are going to sell out the Republicans at Auburn."

Weamer to Baxter. "You lie."

Baxter to Weamer. "You are going to turn democrat."

Weamer to Baxter. "You lie."

Baxter to Weamer, You arn't the Republican organ of this county."

Weamer to Baxter. "You lie."

Baxter to Weamer. "Your paper ain't printed and published in this county."

Weamer to Baxter. "You lie."

Baxter to Weamer. "You ain't got sense enough to run a paper."

Weamer to Baxter. "You lie."

"Behold how good and how pleasknt it is, for brethern to dwell together in unity

Tit for Tat.

In last weeks "Republican" Weamer made a terrible blow over an item that happened in the COURIER five weeks ago saying that the barber's itch was in the city. What he made this attact on us for, at so late a date, can be explained in no other way than that there was a few nickles at the head of it. We acknowledge that we done wrong, but not as much so as did the above gentleman, on the opposite page of the same identical issue. We gave no names, but Weamer comes out "point blank" and abuses one of our best, and among the oldest of our physicians, Dr. Cowan, and also throws himself on the verge of a libel suit. As times roll on the stronger we will get.

New Townships.

Considerable has been said and written, about having an election precinct formed for the purpose of accommodating the growing town of Garrett. It seems to be conceded that something of the kind should be done before the next election; as it would prove too burthensome for 200 or 300 votes in that place to be compelled to go three or more miles to a voting place. There are several difficulties connected with the subject, one is that the town is located partly in Butler and part in Richland townships—the township line passing through the Round House and some of the village lots, lying in both townships Another is, that Richland township is now divided into two election precincts. But the greatest difficulty is, that it is questionable if an election precinct can be formed of parcels of two or more civil townships. In fact it seems it can not be done, for how could one part of the precinct vote for trustee or other l cal officers of the township in which the voter may reside? If it could be done, then the anomaly would be presented of those in that precinct voting for all the officers to be filed in the several townships, of which the precinct had been a part. With these difficulties in view, we have concluded that the only thing that can be done to give satisfaction, accommodation and legal effect, would be to form a new civil township, embracing the territory in which Garrett is situated. This could be done very easily and we believe give general satisfaction, by forming the three west townships of the county into four, or of making three civil townships out of Butler and Richland, and if divided equally would be each four by six miles, and thereby abolish the precinct in Richland Then Garrett would be in the geographical center, just where it ought to be.

But while this is being done we would ask if it would not be well to also do the same thing with the next tier. Probably some of the details should be different, as for instance, the close proximity of the town of Waterloo, to Smithfield may necessitate the taking a portion of it and making it a township with a portion of Union, and also a part of Jackson township. And for that purpose let us suggest that one mile of Smithfield on the south and one on the north of Jackson be detached from the present townships, and these parts with the whole of Union be made into two civil townships.

The territoreis suggested are sufficiently large and populous to warrant such action, and the locality of the towns all being sentrally, are such to seem to demand it. The foolish bickering, growling and petty jealosy that has so long been fostered in Union township would then be swept away and each would have its own officers, and attend to its own legal wants. We would suggest further, that if anything of this character should be done, it should receive the action of the Board of county Commissioners at their March session for obvious reasons, which all will see is to get the townships in running order by election time, as well as the appointing of assessors to appraise property, so as to be placed on the tax duplicate of the present year.

"What's in a Name?"

Mr. Marmont B. Edson, a maker of steam gauges in this city recently mailed a letter, asking respectfully that trial be made by a board of naval engineers of a lately invented gauge, to Secretary Robeson, addressing him "Hon. Secor Robeson the Navy, Washingron, D. C."Two days afterwards the letter was returned inclosed in a note from Robeson's secretary, reading, "The Secretary of the Navy positively declines to consider the enclosure until it is properly addressed." Mr. Edson ascertaned that Robeson was christened at the baptismal font George M. and having altered the superscription, Mr. Edson remailed his communication The request embraced in it was then refused.—Sun.

The Indianapolis Journal devotes an editorial to an analysis of the condition of Senator Morton's "lower limbs, in reply to some doubts expressed by radicals that he would not be physically able to run the white house. The Journal thinks Morton is improving so rapidly that he will be able to stand on his legs by the time he is elected president and triumphantly cites the fact that in the last ten years many distinguished statesmen have passed from earth, while Morton remains abundantly able to intone the old outrage vell, It really seems distressing that Morton's legs will be made a prominent issue in the coming contest.—Courier-Journal.

The Waterloo "Press" tries to make political capital out of the passage by the House of the 1,500,000 dollars for the Centennial Exposition. Who ever heard that the measure had taken a political shape? No one ever thought of such a thing, except those who are so gangrened with hate that they, can not tell the truth. But let us see how it stands politically, of the 146 who voted for it, 82 were Republicans, 56 Democrats, balance Independent, and the 180 who voted against it, 104 were Democrats, 19 Republicans balance Independents. Now dont it look a little as though it was a Republican measure, more than a Democratic one? 82 Republicans for it, to 19 Republicans against. And 56 Democrats for, to 104 Democrats against it. Come Mr. "Press" try your hand again, that was too thin. Be honest and tell the truth and say that either party could have defeated the game. Our side of the house is willing to take that much of the blame.

MR. EDITOR.

It is said there is not much in a name, and I suppose it is correct. But the acts and doings associated with a name, is what gives dignity or prominence to a name. So if Washington, Jefferson, Lafayette, Napoleon or Alexande had been called by other names, they would have shone with as great luster as they do now, with the names they bare. Sometimes it becomes to the reader of history, very pleasing and of much interest to trace the history of certain names that have shone in the ages of the past—per-the page of fame. Now I do not propose to write the history of a name in full, but to give you a sketch, more for the different spelling of the same name as it occurs in its past history. I know not its anticedents or whether there is any historic fame attached to it, more than is common amongst men. That name is Mallary. Now here comes in a little history. Families bearing that name are scattered all through the United States and Canada, and so far as enquiry has been made, all point to four Brothers, who in the time of the French and English war came from England and settled in old Connecticut, and from these four brothers sprang all that bear the name in the United States. The late Hon. Stephen H. Mallary, Secretary of war (if we remember right,) in the Southern Confedracy under Jeff. Davis, was only two removes from two families now living in Toledo. It is true the families bearing the name at this time are several times removed from the original, yet they are one and the same in name everywhere though scattered as they are. The name of Mallary dates back (so says the biographer,) to the 10th century. The name originated in Normandy, (France.) So they were French originally. The biographer says, the name of Mauleverer now called Mallary, was a latin name. He says that Viscount Mauleverer was one of the generals who came to England in the year 1066 with William the First, the (conquerer.) And this is the earliest date of the name in England. He says the name became nearly extinct in England in 1700; and in 1800 became entirely so. I guess I have wrote enough in this direction so I will give you the different ways the name is rendered and for this more than anything else that I have penned the above. I give the names as they appear at different epochs. The first spelled as given thus, Mauleverer, Malori, Malory, Mallourey, Mallorie, Mallory, Mallery, Mallary. My father spelled his name Mallery, when I commenced writing my name I wrote it Mallary, thinking that Mallery was too femenine, and my boys write it Mallory, which is the most general way it is written at the present day.

WM. MALLARY.

Who are our Crimnals

This question is frequently asked, but is never answered, until some one is caught in the commission of the crime. It may be astonishing to some to know that we have those characters in our midst all the time. Crimes are daily committed, of which we hear nothing afterwards, and the offender is never punished or brought to light. People will generally say, in their charity or ignorance that the act was done by some from a distance, no one who lives in our neighborhood could have did it. But they are almost invaribly mistaken. Did our readers ever think it possible that the perpetrators of most of the crimes, arsons and robberies, are bold, and no doubt mingle with the people in our very midst, meeting them on the streets, roads and almost every public place. Not probably the worst of such but those who commit the smallest grades of offenses. Should community rightly estimate a certain class, which will be found in every city, town and nearly every neighborhood, who have no visible means of living, and will not work, but have to eat and be kept, as in all probability the ones who do the most of this mischief, then there would be less petty crimes in our midst. Men who will not work, must have a living, and get it, they must, and will, even if they steal for it. Let it be laid down as a rule that an industrious man never has time to steal. He can make more money by work than by obtaining it unlawfully. As a learned judge once said, "it costs more to be dishonest than to be honest." If this was generally understood, and the other fact that those who will not work, must live by dishonest means, and that the worthless do-nothing loafers must be the perpetrators of our crimes, we would have less of them and less loafers.

It is no use to say that work cannot be had, for there is plenty to do, if people would only do it. The man who is willing to work, is industrious, can always get something to do, and is always busy, and is never caught or charged with crime.

Would it not be well to have our officers look to the subject of passing and enforcing a law as to vagrancy? In all large towns and cities, such an one is in force and strictly enforced.

We throw out these ideas for all to to think of, so that public sentiment may be set to work to determine who are our crimnals, and compel those who have not been at work to go to work.

See Miller & Cassbeer's new advertisment. They sell more goods than any four stores in this county, and consequestly can offord to sell below other merchants.

CLOTHING!

AT COST

Our entire stock must be SOLD before MARCH 1ST, '76,

as we will make a change in our business at that time. If you wish to secure goods at

Actual Cost

now is the time. WE MEAN JUST WHAT WE SAY. Commencing to-day we will sell our goods at

FIRST COST!

until March 1st, 1876. We mean BUSINESS. Call and see our prices and you will fi:d that this is no Humbug.

DAVID KAHN & CO.

CATARRH.—If you would avoid being rendered deaf or unfit to mingle in society, on account of foul and nauseating discharges from gangrenous ulcers in the head, use Dr. Deitchon's celebrated Catarrh Remedy. It is the greatest cure and control for the hideous destroyer, the world ever saw. It will save every life threatened by it. It immediately arrests its progress, and if perseveringly used, will never disappoint in a cure. Go to Davenport's Drug Store, and get a sample bottle free. Sept. 30 y

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life—When sick, the object is to get well; now, we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Billiousness, &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

Stop that Cough.

No pulmonary complaint however obstinate, can resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound. Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectually in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Hooping Cough and Croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take. Cough-worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxyims that threatened to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10 cents. Ask for Dr. Morris' Syrup take no other. P. E. Davenport Druggist.

COMSUMPTION CURED.

AN old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by and East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering he will send free of charge to all who desire it this receipt with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Munroe Block, Syracuse, N. Y

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County. }

John Hellelinger vs. Frederick Wagoner before Danl Altenberg, J. P. for Union-tp.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishment in said case has been served on the Baltimore Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Co., Indiana division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 5th day of Fabuary 1876, at 10 o'clock am. and answer or demur to the complaint herein or the same will be determined in his absence.

DANL ALTENBERG, J. P.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County. }

John O. Gilkerson vs. James Obrin, before Danl Altenberg, a Justice for Union-tp.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavitn filed that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishment in said case has been served on the Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Co., Indiana division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 9th day of March 1876, at 10 o'clock am. and answer or demur to the complaint herein or the same will be determined in his absence.

DANL ALTENBERG, J. P.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County. }

Jacob W. Swaidner, vs. James Mahady. before Justice Walborn of Union Township.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishee in said case has been served on Samuel W. Ralston. Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 4th day of March A. D. 1876 at 9 o'clock A. M., and answer or demur to the complaint herein or the same will be determined it his absence.

JACOB WALBORN, J. P. [sea l]

Attachment Notice.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County. }

Before Henry H. Fales J. P. for Concord Township, Jonathan Hunt vs. Sarah Jane Fetters.

Comes now the plaintiff, and files his complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendant is not a resident of the State of Indiana. Notice is therefore hereby given to said defendant that unless she be and appear at my office at 12 o'clock noon on the 11 day of February, 1876, in Concord township, said county and State, to answer or demur to said complaint the same will be heard and determined in her absence. Witness my hand and seal this 12 day of January, 1876.

HENRY H. FALES

Execution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed Executor of the last will of Marea Jones deceased, late of DeKalb county, Ind. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

MILES WATERMAN, Executor.

Jan 20th '76.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed administrator of the estate of David Swander, late of DeKalb County deceased. Said estate is supposed to be solvent

WILLIAM H. SWANDER, Ad'm.

AUBURN, IND., Jan 8, 1876.

NOTICE.

AUBURN, Feb., 1st, 1876.

Until further notice the tax duplicate of the town of Auburn, will be at the store of S. W. Ralston, at which place I will receive the taxes due thereon. The last day for payment is March 18th next.

D. K. HOUGHTON,
Marshal & Collector.

MUSIC.

MISS M McCUTCHAN, teacher of instrumental music, harmony and thorough bass, is prepared to give instruction in music in a thorough and practical manner. For further information call at the residence of E. D. Hartman, near the Eel River depot.

Nov. 25, 1875,—tf.

To live on the fat of the land without work is the aim of Traveling Agents.

We dont employ them but sell to the user at factory prices. Send for our free price list which will give you the price. Freight paid by us to your nearest R. R. to be paid for after you have tested and found satisfactory to that the purchaser absolutely runs no risk whatever. This is the way the best Scales in the world are sold by Jones of Binghamton, N. Y.

Jan. 13-1m

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.
CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Indianapolis, Ind.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that there is a petition now on file at the Auditors office of DeKalb Co., Ind, praying for the vacation of a part of Quincy street, in the town of Garrett, in DeKalb county, Ind., as follows: Commencing at a point 25 feet north of the north-east corner of lot No. 22, in Block No. 20, in said town Garrett, and running thence south to the north-east corner of said lot thence west to Randall street thence north 25 feet thence east to the place of begining, and that said petition will be presented to the Board for final action, at their March session 1876, said part of street proposed to be vacated passes over the land owned be Washington Cowen and the Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago R. R. Company Indiana Division, and they are the only persons to be affected by said vacation.

JOHN K. COWEN.
per D. D. M

Application for License.

Notice to the citizens of DeKalb County Ind., is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their regular session in March, 1876, for a license to retail spiritnous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time, on the following discribed premises, to-wit: Commencing at a point 17½ feet east of the south-west corner of lot 28, in the original plat of said town, running thence north 70 feet thence east 17½ feet, thence south 70 feet, thence west 17½ feet to the place of beginning, with the privilege of having the same drank where sold.

THOMAS SUMMERS.

Feb. 3rd, '76.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Ind. that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their March term, 1876, for a license to retail spirituous vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises in said county and State to-wit: Commencing at the south-west corner of lot twenty-eight in the original plot of the town of Auburn, in said county, running thence east seventeen and a half feet, thence north seventy feet, thence west seventeen and one half feet, thence south seventy feet, with the privilege of having the same drank on said premises.

CHAS. G. SMITH.

Feb 2, '76.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given that a petition has been filed in the Auditors office of DeKalb county, Indiana, praying the vacation of certain streets, alleys and town lots, in Brandon's addition to the town of Auburn, said county, as follows. All that part of Brandon Street lying and extending North of Center street. All that part of an alley twenty feet wide lying and extending north of Center street through said addition, and also the following alleys running east and west through said addition, to wit. An alley [illegible] feet wide, between lots number 8, 9 10 and 11, an alley 12 feet wide between lots No. 14, 15, 16 and 17, also an alley 12 feet wide between lots [illegible] 20, 21, 22 and 23, also that part of the street known as Michigan avenue, lying and extending west of west Railroad street, and also a vacation of the following numbered lots 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10 11, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, and 25, all in said addition, and that said petition will be heard at the next session of the Board of Commissioners of said county.

JOHN BRANDON.
Applicant

Jan. 26, '76.

TO MOTHER GOOSE.

BY SUSAN COOLIDGE.

When nursery lamps are veiled, and nurse is singing
In accents low,
Timing her music to the cradle's swinging,
Now fast, now slow—

Singing of Baby Bunting, soft and furry
In rabbit cloak;
Or [illegible] and flurry
Of [illegible] bah;

Of Boy Blue sleeping with his horn beside him;
Of my son John,
Who went to bed (let all good boys deride him)
With stockings on;

Of sweet Bo-Peep following her lambkins straying—
Of Dame in shoes;
Of cows, considering, 'mid the piper's playing,
Which tune to choose.

Of Gotham's wise men bowling o'er the billow,
Of him, less wise,
Who chose rough bramble-bushes for a pillow,
And scratched his eyes—

It may be, while she sings, that through the portal
Soft footsteps glide,
And, all invisible to grown-up mortal,
At cradle side

Sits Mother Goose herself the dear old mother,
And rocks and croons,
In tones which baby hearkens, but no other,
Her old-new tunes!

I think it must be so, else why, years after,
Do we retrace
And [illegible] with shadowy, recollected laughter
Thoughts of that face;

Seen, yet unseen, beaming across the ages,
Brimful of fun
And wit and wisdom, baffling all the sages
Under the sun?

A grown-up child has place still, which no other
May dare refuse;
I, grown-up, bring this offering to our mother,
To Mother Goose;

And, [illegible] with the babies at that olden,
Immortal knee,
I seem to [illegible] smile, benign and golden,)
Falling on me.

THE BLUE-JACKET'S PERIL.

My dear old grandfather! I can see him now—alas, that is only in fancy!—with his tall, spare figure, stooping so slightly for all the weight of his seventy years; his long silver hair brushed up into a point on the forehead, as it used to be worn when George IV. was King, and curling low on the collar of his coat behind, his kind brown eyes beaming with love and goodness for all who crossed his path; his tender, loving mouth, through which no word of anger or aught save peace and charity e'er had exit; and the white regular teeth perfect to the last, with which it was the dear old man's boast he could crack nuts with the best of us. Poor and rich, gentle and simple, all loved the old Admiral. Of children the old sailor was the sworn friend and protector, and it was the drollest sight to witness his attempt to chastise a youthful delinquent: he would look at the child with tightly-compressed lips and a badly-sustained effort to be severe, his brown eyes twinkling the while; then he would take down his cane and hold it suspended over the back of the offender, who could scarcely repress a snigger which quickly became a laugh, for we all know by previous experience what "Granny's punishment" meant; then whiz-z would fly the cane to the other end of the room, the dear old man would join heartily in the laugh against himself, and the culprit finally be regaled with bread and sugar and warned "never to do it again, you young rascal." Well, perhaps it was not exactly correct training, according to Cocker or Solomon; but, my darling, my darling, how we loved you for it! We would not willingly have grieved you for all the world, and you knew it. You have been laid to rest these many years in the pretty little churchyard where you and I loved to sit, and the grass is fresh and green over your grave; but not fresher, not greener, my more than father, than is your memory in our hearts.

Many a happy hour we spent together, sitting hand in hand in the long summer evenings on the mossy trunk of a fallen tree in Barna Wood, or in that same pretty churchyard where my dear sleeps, on Sir Alured Gwynne's tomb, with the rooks cawing solemnly in the great elms overhead a perpetual requiem, or so I fancied it, over the quiet dead at our feet. Many a blood-curdling tale of nautical adventure and superstition did the old man there recount to me, until I used to see in every yew standing out grimly in the fading light a sheeted figure, and occasionally (for I did not reckon even Granny as sufficient protector against the unholy ghosts and bogies he had conjured up) take ignominiously to my heels at the conclusion of some peculiarly thrilling story, the recital of which was as intensely dreaded as it was earnestly begged for.

But of all his repertory, which was a comprehensive one, the tale that pleased us children most was one of which he himself was the hero; and, indeed, on first hearing it, so profound was our reverence for himself and the part he had played in the stirring adventure, that we mentally classed him with Nelson, Collingwood, and other notable sea-worthies whose portraits, and whose alone, decorated the walls of my grandfather's simple little dwelling. The incidents of the Irish rebellion were fresh in his memory, and he—then a lad of sixteen or seventeen—had been the unwilling actor in a remarkable event which very nearly put an end to all chance of our being acquainted.

In the year '98, when, as you know, Irish folk, in addition to their other terrors, were hourly in dread of a French invasion, my great-grandfather, Sir John Hastings, was the possessor of considerable property in the north of Ireland and resided in an old-fashioned, tumble-down manor-house not far from a well-known watering-place in the County Donegal. My grandfather, Arthur Hastings, then a midshipman in the Royal Navy, had contrived to obtain a short leave of absence for the purpose of paying a visit to his parents on his return from a cruise of some months' duration; and he had not been many days in his old home before he determined to while away a portion of the time, which hung heavily enough on his hands in that not too lively abode, by indulging himself with a little of his favorite pastime, deep-sea fishing. Accordingly, one beautiful morning, when there was scarcely a ripple on the water, he got three of his father's tenants, fishermen, to pull him out in their boat to a place where he would be pretty sure of a good day's sport. When they had left land behind at some distance they suddenly descried a large vessel in the offing, which young Hastings assumed to be one of the English gunboats which cruised about in those waters in that perilous time.

The midshipman thought it would be good fun to pull out to her and board her, with one chance of finding some old friends among her officers; accordingly he gave the order to pull with a will, and before very long they found themselves under the bows of a strange-looking man-of-war, about whose appearance there was something strikingly un-English. Hastings began to feel rather uncomfortable, and the men looked blankly at each other; but before they had time to turn the boat's head in the direction of home they were greeted by a shrill volley of words in a tongue which Hastings, knowing somewhat of the language, recognised to be French; a bit of bunting, as to the nationality of which there could be no possible doubt, was quickly run up; and amid roars of laughter from the Frenchman's deck at the trap into which they had so unconsciously fallen, the unfortunate boat's crew looked up and found a perfect chevaux-de-frise of muskets levelled at their heads. The fishermen's blood was roused; and I think they would have made a gallant effort for liberty and home had not Hastings in a few words showed them that the slightest resistance would be nothing short of instant death to all four. He himself stood up in the stern-sheets, and after a short parley with the French Captain surrendered himself and his men, under protest, as prisoners of war. They were taken on board the St. Pierre, for so was the French vessel called, their boat cut adrift, and then they did the best thing they could do, under the circumstances, made friends with their captors, and were consequently very well and courteously treated. The French commander assured Mr. Hastings that he quite believed his story—in fact, were the truth of it not so apparent, he would have been under the painful necessity of executing him as a spy. He was indeed desole that he could not set M. Hastings and his men at once at liberty, but, as a naval officer of a rival power with which unhappily France was at variance, M. Hastings would easily understand that the exigences of warfare forbade it.

That night, a little before midnight, the Frenchman weighed anchor, and with all canvas spread and a steady breeze on her quarter made for the port of Brest. They had fair weather for their voyage, and the French and Irish character harmonized wonderfully, though, with the exception of Young Hastings, the men did not understand a word of each other's language. Indeed, had it not been for the thought of the despair into which the poor wives and children at home would be plunged when the empty boat drifted in with the returning tide, they would rather have enjoyed their trip than otherwise.

However, it was fated that matters were not to go on quite so felicitously. A few hours before they expected to sight Brest, the man on the lookout signalled a sail on the weather-board. The Captain looked first through his telescope, and then exceedingly grave. The stranger was a man-of-war, a three-decker, with the British flag flying, and apparently bearing straight down on them. Should the present wind continue she would be alongside in a short time. Flight was out of the question; so the St. Pierre was quickly hove to, and orders given to clear the decks and run out the guns ready for action. Hastings afterward said that although all his sympathies were on the other side, still, when he saw the French sailors bustling about stripped to the waist, he and his companions being the only idle hands on that busy deck, it was all he could do to refrain from helping them.

At last, by the time their preparations were completed, the English vessel was so close that by the aid of the glass they could count the men on her deck. Then Captain de Condigny walked up to the young midshipman with outstretched hand.

"By right you should have no kindly feeling toward us, mon ami," he said; "but you are sailor enough to know that I have simply done my duty—what would have been yours had our positions been reversed. I think you bear me no ill-will, and you will at least admit that we have done all in our power to lighten your situation. Now, adieu; we shall have sharp work presently, and you and your men must go below; it would be both dangerous and impolitic for you to be seen on our deck. If we do not meet again, mon ami, you will not think of me as an enemy. Adieu."

And the gallant old Frenchman shook the lad warmly by the hand. Before the latter, with his three companions, was half-way down the ladder which led to the cockpit, boom went one of the Englishman's guns, carrying away a portion of the Pierre's rigging, and laying two of her seamen dead on the deck. Boom—boom! went the St. Pierre's guns in answer; and then the action began in earnest, and the cockpit was soon full of the dead and dying.

The fishermen, who in all their lives had never beheld such a scene, crept with white faces into a corner, their clothes red with the blood which spouted from the several arteries of the wounded men. Hastings, half suffocated with the stench of blood and powder in that narrow space, had taken up his position on a water-barrel, just under the port through which the little current of air in that stifling, polluted atmosphere managed to creep. The surgeon, whose hands were full enough, looked up from his work—the amputation of a sailor's arm which had been smashed into atoms by a musket-ball—and said dryly:

"You had better descend from there, my friend, in case of accidents, for I shall not have time to attend to you."

The remark was well-timed, for scarcely had Hastings vacated his seat than—bang—crash—smash!—came a cannon-ball through the port, smashing the barrel into atoms, mingling the water with that other liquid with which the floor was already saturated, until the crimson sea rose above the Irishmen's ankles, and saving the surgeon a job by putting three of his patients out of their misery. He looked up with a grim smile.

"Mille tonnerres, Monsieur, but yours was an escape! Look there! He is a better operator than I; he does his work cleanly—he!" he said, pointing to the three dead bodies.

At last Hastings could contain himself no longer. Boom—boom! went the guns overhead, and with every moment the carnage increased. The atmosphere of the cockpit became oppressive and sickening, the stench so foul that he was determined come what might, to have one breath of fresh air, and at the same time, if possible, discover in whose favor the battle was being decided. So he ran quickly up the ladder and arrived on deck just as the brave old French Captain was carried past dead with a bullet through his brain. The English were evidently gaining the day, and the direst confusion reigned on the Frenchman's deck. Young Hastings was on the point of going below again when a horrid sight met his view. A sailor fearfully wounded, the outer wall of his chest being literally torn away by a round shot, was lying still alive close to the bulwarks; two sailors, almost naked, presenting a terrific appearance from the blood and powder with which they were besmeared, at a signal from the second officer, advanced, and lifting the quivering body of their unfortunate messmate proceeded deliberately to throw him overboard. The Irish lad with a cry of horror sprang forward to the rescue, but an officer stopped him, saying firmly:

"It must be so; the men are already panic-stricken, and such sights make them worse; at furthest he could only live a few moments, and it is more merciful to put him out of his agony."

The men then raised him and with all their force threw him over the side; but the wretched creature, with an amount of vitality which in his condition Hastings would have deemed impossible had he not seen it, clutched at a rope hanging over the ship's side with the tenacious gripe of a drowning man. It was a hideous sight! The poor wretch hung on, his face livid and distorted with agony, his eyes starting out of his head, and the blood welling from the wound in his chest. They tried unsuccessfully to shake him off; at length an officer stepped forward with a cutlass in his hand, and, bending over the side, cut the rope across, and with and awful despairing cry which made itself heard above the booming of the guns and the yells of the sailors the miserable creature sank beneath the waves. Sick with horror the boy, unaccustomed as yet to the active duties of his profession, turned to go below, when—ping—ping! a bullet struck the fleshy part of his arm, and the limb fell nerveless at his side. His friend the surgeon quickly extracted the wicked little bit of lead, and with a grace which only a Frenchman could assume under the circumstances presented it to him as a souvenir of his sojourn on board the St. Pierre; then he bound up the arm, and half an hour afterward the French ship, commanderless, with more than half her crew dead or dying, struck to the English commander.

The officers of the Invincible—such was the name of the British vessel—boarded their prize, and on going below the first sight that met their eyes was the four Irishmen, who on the entrance of their countrymen rose, scarcely able to contain their joy at this unexpected deliverance.

But you may imagine their horror when, instead of being welcomed with open arms as they had expected, their story was received with evident incredulity and suspicion. They implored to be taken before the English Captain, and their request was complied with; but unhappily for them that individual was of a very different stamp from the courteous French commander. He was one of those tyrannical, hectoring, blustering bullies who some years ago were rather too frequently to be met with in the Royal Navy, who, having as a youngster himself tasted weeviled biscuit and the rope's end pretty freely, had determined, when his day came, that life should not be one whit sweeter for his subordinates than it had been for him. Added to these amiable qualities he had the bitterest contempt and hatred for his neighbors on the other side of the Channel—in fact, the very name of Frenchman had pretty much the same effect on him as a bit of red rag on a bull, and as for Irishmen I'm not sure that he did not hate them rather more cordially.

This individual went through the form of hearing their defense, growling to himself the while, "—— rebels, —— rebels!" and when they had finished ordered them, with a few choice nautical expletives, to be put in irons until the next day, when they would be tried by naval court-martial for the capital offense of high treason and lese majeste, in having joined cause with the enemies of his most sacred Majesty George III.

Arraigned they were accordingly, and in spite of all that poor Hastings could say—in spite even of the exculpatory evidence of the French officers, which Capt. Bulmer, not comprehending, sneered at—they were found guilty and condemned to be hung, all four, from the yard-arm!

You can imagine the consternation of the unfortunate fellows, who had indeed fallen from Scylla into Charybdis. In vain did the unhappy Hastings protest against the injustice of the proceeding, stating that notwithstanding the wound he had received, which was one of the points on which special stress was laid by his accusers, despite the suspicious appearance which he and his companions by this time necessarily presented, he had the honor of wearing his Majesty's uniform and serving his country as truly and faithfully as any officer on board. To each of these asseverations the only answer he received was, "You lie, sir!" until, half frantic with indignation and despair, he and his companions were sent back into irons until their sentence could conveniently be carried into effect.

The First Lieutenant, who was the only soul in that great ship who evinced the smallest compassion toward them, luckily happened to pay the unfortunate prisoners a visit in the course of the day, with a view to their safe custody. Though strictly against orders, he could not refrain from speaking to young Hastings, who had a bright, attractive face, and asking him how on earth he found himself dans cette galere. By dint of cross-questioning in the course of conversation it came out that not only had the families of Hastings and Ashburtons—the name of the First Lieutenant—been connected in olden times, but that actually Hastings' mother had interested herself in obtaining for this same Ashburton his commission in the Royal Navy! There was now no doubt that Mr. Hastings was bona fide the person he represented himself to be; so Ashburton went to the Captain and terrified the old sea-bear into granting a reprieve, sorely against his will, until the arrival of the Invincible in port. Accordingly when the man-of-war anchored off Spithead, Hastings obtained permission to be confronted with the officers of his own ship, the Hornet, then opportunely stationed at Plymouth, and in addition his father and other relatives hurried to the spot, so that there was no lack of evidence sufficient to satisfy the crusty old Captain that for once in his life he had jumped rather too hastily to conclusions. His conduct was moreover severely censured by the Admiralty, "inasmuch as through his rashness and pertinacity a very promising young officer was nearly lost to his Majesty's service." In addition to which well-merited contumely, full fifty years after Death and his journeyman, Gout in the Stomach, had claimed him for their own, we children, with infinite gusto, tarred, feathered, and set fire to him in effigy, our enjoyment being only slightly marred by the reflection that, after all, he would never know anything about it.

Such was my grandfather's story, which he was never tired of telling or we of hearing. Few have had so hair-breadth an escape, so exciting a personal adventure. Many a time did the dear old man say—it was a favorite joke of his when he overheard any discussion on the subject—"Children, don't boast; remember you've a grandfather who was all but hung!"—Belgravia.

DESTRUCTIVE TAXATION.

Startling Figures—One of the Causes of the Prevalent Hard Times.

The Cincinnati Commercial says: The question whether the boasted prosperity of America is to be destroyed by taxation is becoming an exceedingly impressive one. Look at these figures of the ordinary expenses of the United States Government:

	1874.	1860.
War Department	$42,313,927	$16,472,202
Navy Department	30,932,587	11,514,649
Civil expenses	17,627,116	6,077,008
Misc llaneous	60,506,414	20,708,223
Indians	6,692,462	2,991,121
Pensions	29,038,414	1,100,802
Foreign intercourse	1,508,064	1,146,143
Total	$178,618,968	$60,010,158
Interest on debt	107,119,816	8,177,314
Population	44,000,000	31,443,321
Increase of "ordinary" expenditures		200 per ct.
Increase of population		40 per ct.

NEW YORK STATE.

State tax levy in 1875	$15,727,489
State tax levy in 1860	4,376,164
Increase	$11,351,318
Population in 1875	4,705,208
Population in 1860	3,880,735
Increase in taxation	260 ⅌ cent.
Increase in population	21 ⅌ cent.

NEW YORK CITY.

Local taxes in 1874	$24,300,430
Local taxes in 1860	6,085,448
Increase since 1860	$18,214,982
Population in 1874	1,000,000
Population in 1860	806,651
Increase in local taxes	300 ⅌ cent.
Increase in population	25 ⅌ cent.

Now take the Illinois and Chicago figures, furnished by the Chicago Tribune:

ILLINOIS.

State tax levy in 1875	$ 3,256,620
State tax levy in 1860	2,522,536
Increase	733,084
Population in 1875	3,039,591
Population in 1860	1,711,951
Increase in taxation	28 per cent.
Increase in population	77½ per cent.

CHICAGO.

Direct city tax in 1874	$ 5,468,692
Direct city tax in 1860	373,315
Increase	$ 5,095,377
Population in 1874	409,000
Population in 1860	109,206
Increase in taxation	1,364 per cent.
Increase in population	262 per cent.

We are now prepared to look at Ohio and Cincinnati:

OHIO.

State tax levy, 1874	$5,356,087.91
State tax levy, 1860	3,508,712 93
Increase in taxation	$1,844,374.98
Population in 1874, estimated	2,810,000
Population in 1860	2,339,511
Increase in population	470,489
Increase in taxation	53 per cent.
Increase in population	20 per cent.

CINCINNATI.

Taxation in 1875	$3,542,373
Taxation in 1860	1,098,100
Increase in taxation	$2,444,272
Population in 1875, estimated	260,000
Population in 1860	161,044
Increase in population	98,956
Increase in taxes	223 per cent.
Increase in population	61 per cent.

These figures are positively alarming. They reveal one of the great causes of persistent hard times. We must react on this, and get back into the good old ways, or property will be confiscated; there will be little employment for labor, and with an impoverished soil and squandered resources, we shall enter upon the downward road traveled by the nations that have decayed.

His Lucid Explanation.

A Chicago woman, who had been reading about the whisky frauds in the paper, turned to her husband last night and inquired:

"My dear, what do the papers mean by saying that the man has 'squealed'?"

"Why," replied the man loftily, "they mean that some member of the ring has 'peached' on the rest."

"Peached on the rest?" exclaimed the wife; "now what does that mean?"

"Why, it means that he's—he's 'blowed on 'em.'"

"Blowed on them?"

"Yes; you see he's given 'em away.'"

"Given them away?"

"Why, of course—dummit! Can't you understand anything? Do you think I'm an unabridged dictionary?" continued the husband impatiently. "It means he's—he's let out on 'em'—'gone back' on his 'pals'—'squealed'—you know?"

The woman did not seem quite satisfied with the man's lucid explanation; but, not wishing to appear ignorant in her husband's eyes, she remarked, "Ah, yes; I see!" and forbore further questioning.—Chicago Journal.

A Man Living with a Broken Neck.

On Sunday, Jan. 2, a man named Joseph Fooits, aged 55 years, living at the corner of California and Eighteenth streets, fell down a flight of stairs, a distance of fifteen feet, receiving serious injury about the neck. Fortunately, a German doctor happened to be at the house at the time, and he, suspecting that the man had broken his neck, had him carefully picked up and laid on a bed without moving his head more than was actually necessary. Other physicians were called in consultation, and they unanimously pronounced that the man had actually broken his neck—that the bone connecting the head to the body was broken. The patient has been kept in one position all the time, being strapped to an appliance to prevent him moving in the least. If he moves his head an inch in any direction, he is, to use the language of our informant, "a goner," but on the other hand, if he keeps perfectly still, he will, remarkable to relate, recover inside of two months. —Omaha Bee.

PASSING EVENTS.

THE National Committee of the Democratic party will meet in Washington on the 22d of February, to fix the time and place for holding the Presidential Convention.

MR. CHARLES O'CONOR is so far recovered as to be able to turn his attention to professional matters. The most alarming symptom at present is that he has consented to obey the directions of his physicians.

THE divorce suit of Mrs. Charity Hayward against Alvinza Hayward, of San Francisco, is one of the most curious on record. The husband and wife have lived together thirty-two years. For nearly ten years they struggled together against extreme poverty in one of the interior counties of California. They are now worth about $10,000,000. The wife prays for an equitable division of the property, and the husband joins in the prayer. The ground of divorce is desertion, though the husband and wife are living but a few hundred feet apart. They are both past 60 years of age.

THE Washington correspondent of the Boston Herald has been studying the Presidential question, and comes to the conclusion that the nomination on the Republican side now lies between Mr. Blaine and Senator Morton, with a large possibility that Gov. Hayes may come in as a compromise candidate. Senator Conkling, he thinks, is only strong in "the ability to derange the plans of those who he deems his rivals." The correspondent adds: "The two men to whom the Democratic nomination to-day is possible are Hendricks and Thurman."

THE consultation of European physicians has ended, and the "Sick Man" is to take the medicine prescribed by Count Andrassy. He will make wry faces, but down the nauseous mess must go, not because anybody cares particularly whether the patient feels well or ill, but because should he die now there would be great trouble over the distribution of his effects. Indeed, it is a German notion that considerable robbing of the Sultan as he lay on his back has already been done. A German comic journal recently contained a cartoon to this effect, showing the doctors at work at the poor fellow, while Disraeli creeps to the head of the bed, stoops and steals from under it a box labelled "Suez Canal."

LIEUT. CAMERON, the Scotch explorer, has made for himself a bright name in the record of African discovery. It looks very much as if he had located the headwaters of the great Congo in Lake Tanganyika, on whose banks Livingstone lived so many years. He found a large river flowing southwestward out of the lake, and traced it toward the West Coast, through another great lake, but was compelled by hostile Indians to abandon it before absolutely establishing its identity as the tremendous equatorial river. The best of it is that he proposes to go back and complete his geography. It is odd, by the way, that many of Livingstone's reports and inferences are proved erroneous by his younger and more thorough successors—Stanley, Gordon and Cameron.

ACCORDING to the annual report of business failures during the past year, just issued by Messrs. R. G. Dun & Co.'s Mercantile Agency, it appears that the number of failures in the United States was much larger than in previous years, while the proportionate liability is somewhat less than the average. There were 7,740 failures in all; gross liabilities, $201,069,353; average liability, $25,960. Of the failures, 1,335 occurred in the New England States, with total liabilities of $40,015,164; 2,395 in the Middle States, liabilities $82,522,346; 2,336 in the Western States, liabilities $36,473,864; 1,333 in the Southern States, liabilities $36,277,777. There were 630,000 business firms in the country during the year, and only one in every eighty-two were unfortunate, which, all things considered, is not very bad.

ICELAND has just unveiled its first public statue. The novel event took place at Reykjavik, the little Arctic Capital, on the 19th of November, in the presence of his Excellency Hilmar Finsen, Governor-General of the island; of the Right Rev. Petur Petursson, Bishop of Iceland; of many lesser dignitaries, and of nearly 3,000 unofficial spectators. The pretty public square, newly inclosed and laid out, in which the memorial is placed, was gay throughout the day with scores of Danish and Icelandic flags, and was illuminated at night with Chinese lanterns. Two of Iceland's most noted poets, Matthias Jochumsson, the translator of Shakespeare, and Steingrim Thorsteinsson, wrote odes for the occasion; and it is noticeable that, at so high a latitude and in so cold a month, the speeches were spoken and the songs sung in the open air without any physical discomfort.

THE Railroad Gazette publishes its annual statistics of construction, from which it appears that the number of miles of railroad built in the United States during the year 1875 was 1,483, against 2,025 miles in 1874, 3,883 miles in 1873, and 7,340 miles in 1872. A closer examination of the figures shows that the work was in its most depressed condition since the war in the early part of last year, and that subsequently there was a very slight revival. Nearly all the new roads are short lines, intended to serve local wants, the average length of each construction being only 17 miles. In the South, railroad building has almost wholly stopped. In the Northwest it has fallen off 90 per cent. since 1872. In New England the amount is very little less than last year. New York built more than any other State last year, namely, 200 miles (against 125 miles in 1874). California came next with 174 miles, and Illinois third with 172. The States of Alabama, Florida, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Minnesota, Mississippi, Oregon, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia, and all the Territories except Utah, built none at all. The first of the railroad States is now Illinois, with 6,981 miles. Pennsylvania is second with 5,805 miles, New York third with 5,450, and Ohio fourth with 4,405.

A FRENCH correspondent writes that when Moltke is offered a pinch of snuff in Parliament, he stuffs it up his nostrils as if he was loading a double-barreled gun.

WALDEMAR'S COURTSHIP.

Prince Waldemar strode through his castle grand,
And swore by the ocean and the land,
That he would woo, and win as well,
The daughter of Reginald von der Hell,
He would woo her by love, and if she declined
In him a true husband [illegible] find,
He would woo her by fire, by lance and by spear,
And gain her consent by terror and fear.

So Prince Waldemar set out at the head of his men,
Ah, how many returned not again!
And he marched with trumpets and flags flying free,
To the castle of Reginald, down by the sea.
Surrender his daughter! "No, never," replied
The true-hearted sire of the coveted bride;
To give her to Waldemar he could not e'er do,
For she now had a lover both faithful and true.

Then Waldemar swore by the sea and the land,
That only to him should be given her hand,
And he drew out his troops in fearful array,
And so there commenced a terrible fray.
But no effort of Reginald ever so bold,
Could make old Prince Waldemar loosen his hold,
And no smoke and no fire reached Von der Hell's ball,
Much less the white flag's surrendering call.

And the fight grew fiercer. It would only take time
Over Sir Reginald's ramparts to climb—
And Sir Waldemar laughed—right willing was he
To wait a little for his bride of the sea.
But the order was given, and as the first man
To the top of the wall unresistingly sprang,
A maiden in white appeared from the door.
"She comes," laughed Sir Wildemar, "grace to implore."

The maiden ran to the brink of the sea—
Instantly into its waves sprang she:
Never again did Sir Waldemar see
The daughter of Reginald of the sea.
Only in dreams sometimes, from the door,
He saw her come, no grace to implore,
And saw her spring into the water blue,
And knew that his courtship with her was through.

Sir Waldemar learned it was best in the end,
Never a woman's will to offend,
And compel her to do what she does not please—
Sooner make water in Quito to freeze!
There is always a sea in which she will go,
And little she cares when the waves o'erflow.
So, men, don't you try it, for what do you gain?
Only, like Waldemar, dreams for your pain.
—Country Gentleman.

Pith and Point.

BORROW trouble if you have not enough already.

A LITTLE editor is a "we" thing.—N. O. Republican.

WHEN is a thief like a seamstress? When he cuts and runs.

GO FORTH in haste, with bills and paste,
Proclaim to all creation:
The men are wise who advertise
In the present generation.

EVANGELIST SANKEY's song, "Ninety and Nine," is so popular that it will probably be up to par presently.

BUD—Mamma, are people ashamed to say their prayers? Parent Stalk—Why, no, child; what put that into your head? Bud—Well, what do they hide their eyes for, then?

SOMEBODY in a Georgia Court "applauded," whereupon the Judge indignantly remarked: "Now dry up; I will let you know that this is no camp meeting."

AN editor, wishing to be severe upon an exchange, remarks: "The subscriber of the —— in this place tried, a few days ago, to carry home some lard in a copy of that paper; but, on reaching home, found that the concentrated lie had changed it to soap."

"Yes, sir," remarked a sanguine speculator to a capitalist whom he was endeavoring to captivate for an investment," "yes, sir, my project is the weightiest on record." "No doubt," drily replied the moneyed man, "and that's why you'll find it hard to carry out."

"JOHN," said Mrs. Smith, "what smell is that?" "Cloves." "But that other smell?" "Allspice." "But isn't there another?" "Yes—apples." "And just one more?" "Cider, my dear." "Well, John," said she, "if you'd only drink a little brandy now, you'd make a good mince pie."

"MARCH of refinement," 1875: Brown (behind the age, but hungry)—"Give me the bill of fare, waiter." Head Waiter—"Beg pardon, sir?" Brown—"The bill of fare." Head Waiter—"The what, sir? O!—ah?—Yes!—(to subordinate) —Chawlee, bring this—this—gentleman—the menoo!"—Punch.

"WHAT would you do," inquired a Police Commissioner of an applicant for a position on the force, "what would you do, if a burglar should turn on you and point a pistol at your head!" "Do? why I'd beg him not to shoot, and then hurry to the station-house for reinforcements." He was rejected.

AN American in a French hotel asked for a toothpick and was told that they were not to be had. Expressing surprise at this, he was effectually silenced by the explanation of the waiter, that the supply had been discontinued because customers were so unscrupulous as to take the toothpicks away with them.

IT would seem from the following that there is much need of a school board at Weardale. A doctor there was lately summoned to a cottage at Harwood, in Teasdale, and found a boy patient in need of his services. "Put out your tongue," said the doctor. The boy stared like an owl. "My good boy," requested the medical man, "let me see your tongue." "Talk English, doctor," put in the mother, and then turning to her son, she said: "Hoppen thy gobbler and push out thy loliker." The boy rolled out his tongue in a moment.—Liverpool Times.

THE NICE LITTLE CONCERT.

'Leven little tuberoses all in a row,
'Leven little neckties all white as snow,
'Leven little chains and 'leven little lockets,
'Leven little watches in 'leven little pockets.

'Leven little clawhammers, with eleven little tails,
'Leven little pair of legs all straight as rails,
'Leven little bodies and 'leven little throats,
'Leven little pair of eyes looking at the notes.

'Leven little pair of hands and 'leven pair of gloves,
'Leven little pretty men, sweet as little loves,
'Leven little ditties and 'leven little bows,
'Leven little encores which vanity allows.

'Leven little baskets and 'leven hundred roses,
Given to the ladies to titillate their noses,
'Leven hundred ladies and 'leven hundred gents
Patronize the concert regardless of expense.
—Omaha Herald.

The Bullion Product.

The following approximate table, showing the precious metal product for the year 1874, has been carefully prepared from the latest statistics and reports of Consular and mint offices:

	Gold.	Silver.
United States	$40,000,000	$32,000,000
Great Britain	8,000	680,000
France	79,089	169,545
Germany	37,242	7,064,780
Spain	7,600	480,000
Austria	2,123,180	2,476,089
Sweden	12,850	98,895
Russia	21,552,020	1,000,444
Italy	90,000	350,000
Africa	1,000,000	....
Central and South America	6,000,000	10,000,000
Mexico	3,000,000	17,000,000
Honduras	50,000	480,000
China and Japan	4,752,000	2,400,000
United States of Colombia	1,800,000	600,000
Austria and New Zealand	38,000,000	320,000
East Indies	6,000,000	12,000
Total	$121,512,191	$85,909,759

CONGRESSIONAL LEGISLATION.

Important Bills Introduced in the Senate and House.

Senator Hitchcock has introduced a bill in the Senate, and Mr. Kidder, of Dakota, a similar one in the House, providing for the formation of the Territory of Pembina out of the northern part of Dakota.

Mr. Sherman has introduced in the Senate a resolution proposing a common unit of money and accounts for the United States and Great Britain. It requests the President to propose a treaty convention between the two countries to establish a dollar as the money of account in both of them. It is to be represented by coin formed of the standard of gold 9-10 pure metal and 1-10 copper or copper and silver alloy. Five of these new dollars are to be the equivalent of one pound sterling. Gold coin of the various denominations conforming to this standard are to be issued and be legal tender within each country.

Senator Booth has introduced a bill in relation to lands heretofore granted to railroad companies. It provides that all such lands on either side of any portion of the road accepted by the Government as completed shall be subject to local taxation, and requires the Commissioner of the General Land Office to prepare and deliver, without delay, patents for all lands thus earned, if free from conflicting claims, and clearly within the limits of the grant. If the costs of survey, etc., are not paid by the railroad company, they may be paid by any purchaser at tax sale of such lands, and constitute a lien upon the patent, which shall then be issued to the company. The bill also requires the Pacific Railroad Companies to sell any land not disposed of within three years after the completion of any road to the first settler, upon compliance with the terms of the Pre-emption laws.

Representative O'Brien proposes the following amendment to the Constitution of the United States:

SECTION 1. No State shall make any law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting free exercise thereof, and no minister or preacher of the Gospel of any religious creed or denomination shall hold any office of trust or emolument under the United States, or under any State, nor shall any religious test be required as a qualification for any office of public trust in any State, or under the United States.

SEC. 2. No money received by taxation in any State for the support of public schools or derived from any public fund therefor, nor any public lands devoted thereto, shall ever be under the control of any religious sect, nor shall any money raised nor lands so devoted be divided between religious sects or denominations, nor shall any minister or preacher of the Gospel of any religious creed or denomination hold office in connection with the public schools in the State, nor be eligible to any position of trust or emolument, in connection with any institution, public or private, in any State, or in the United States, which shall be supported in whole or in part from any public fund.

Representative Hopkins, of New York, proposes to enact that "any citizen of the United States who shall originate or discover any new plant or fruit, or variety of fruit, grain, vegetable, vine, herb, root, tree, wood, plant, shrub or flower, or seed, cion, bulb, tuber, eye or cutting thereof, shall, upon compliance with the conditions of the bill, have the sole right and liberty of growing, propagating and selling the same for a period of seventeen years."

The stealing covered up and carried through Congress in bills for the relief of claimants, and in other forms of special legislation, has grown from year to year until its proportions have become monstrous. Naturally despairing of any cure for the evils short of a process of utter extirpation, Mr. Springer, of Illinois, proposes an amendment of the Constitution of the United States prohibiting special legislation by Congress upon any of the following subjects:

Granting pensions, bounties, lands, or prize-money to any person or persons for correcting the records of any department of the Government in reference thereto; granting relief or authorizing the payment of any claim against the United States, or any officer thereof, except appropriations in general laws to pay the judgments of courts or commissioners authorized by law, remitting fines, penalties or forfeitures; creating, increasing, or decreasing the fees, percentages, or allowances of public officers during the term for which said officers are elected; granting to any corporation, association or individual the right to lay down railroad tracks, or amending existing charters for such purpose by conferring any special or exclusive privilege upon such corporation or association which it does not already have; granting to any corporation, association, or individual any special or exclusive privilege, subsidy, immunity, or franchise whatever, and regulating the practice of the courts of the United States, or commissioners for the auditing of claims against the same, and in all other cases where a general law can be made applicable no special law shall be enacted.

Mr. Springer's proposition is in the line of an important reform already adopted by several of the States.

One of the most important bills introduced during the session is that of Hon. George W. McCrary, of Iowa, providing for the relief of the United States Supreme Court. The business is now from three to five years behind, and steadily drifting farther and farther back. Practically it has become a Court of obstruction and denial of justice. It is, as now constituted, utterly incapable of hearing the cases which overwhelm its docket. A thousand suits now hopelessly await a hearing. The Circuit Courts are similarly, though not quite so badly, overloaded and behindhand. Mr. McCrary's plan contemplates an intermediate Court of Appeals in each circuit, consisting of the assigned Justice of the Supreme Court, Circuit and District Judges, whose decisions shall be final on all questions of fact, and on all questions of law in cases involving not more than $10,000. Appeals are to lie to this Court from both the Circuit and District Courts; the Circuit Court is also to be empowered, after next September, to send any case on its docket to the District Court. It will be noticed that this bill secures the desired relief, at least to some considerable extent, without creating any new Judges.

The Court Knew Already.

At a recent trial in the Elko County Court, our friend Bishoff, of the Humboldt brewery, was called as a witness. Mr. Bishoff is one of the "solid men" of Elko, where he has been in business since the town was started in the winter of 1858. Upon being sworn, Counsellor Rand, one of the attorneys in the case, who, by the way, is an old resident of Elko, said, "Mr. Bishoff, where do you reside?" "Where I reside? What for you ask me such foolish things? You drink at my place more as a hundred times." "That has nothing to do with the case on trial, Mr. Bishoff. State to the jury where you reside." "De shurry! de shurry! Oh, by jiminy! every gentleman on dis shurry has a string of marks on mine cellar door just like a rail fence." His honor here interceded in the counsellor's behalf, and in a calm, dignified manner, requested the witness to state where he resided. "Oh, excuse me, Shudge. You drinks at my blace so many times and pays me notings. I dinks you know old Bishoff, vat keeps the brewery."—Nevada Silver State.

To a Young Married Friend.

MY DEAR KITTY: The music of your "Wedding March" still lingers in the air, and ere its echoes fade from my memory I would seize the inspiration of the moment to write you a little advice on matrimony. In the midst of your joy you can afford to listen for a few moments to the sage counsels of one who has grown old and gray (metaphorically speaking) battling with the inevitable must be's and can't be's of married life. Now, my dear Kitty, these bees are very harmless and amiable when allowed to have their own way; but the moment you show fight they will sting, as it's a part of their nature to unless skillfully met and subdued. But if you pet them and give them plenty of nectar they will make honey for you all their days. I suppose you know, Kitty, that bees don't like vinegar. They will take the poorest molasses in preference, but their natural and favorite food is nectar and ambrosia, so I advise you to lay in large supplies of both these articles, as they cannot be had at all seasons of the year. They only grow on the southern borders of that country called Domestic Felicity. This land is not down on the maps or in the "railway guides," but I am quite sure you will find it. I should be glad to make you happy by telling you that matrimonial life is a perpetual calm of sunny skies and balmy airs, but truth and candor compel me to admit that across the fairest matrimonial horizon there will sometimes come a "squall;" and I suppose this is best. The calm might turn to insipid monotony, whereas a good smart thunder-storm now and then clears the air of foul vapors and leads piquancy to life. That you may the better meet these atmospheric changes I advise you to put on the helmet of fidelity, the breast-plate of true love, the waterproof cloak of charity, and the overshoes of economy (that takes well with men). Then, holding aloft the umbrella of patience, you will be prepared for the worst, for "there are storms on life's dark waters."

From your affectionate aunt,

PUSSY WILLOW.

New Britain, Jan. 8, 1875.

—Hartford Times.

Some Facts About Leap Year.

The necessity of having one year in four with a single day more than the others is founded upon the facts that the rotation of the earth around the sun is accomplished in 365 days, five hours, forty-eight minutes and forty-six seconds, or about eleven minutes less than a quarter of a day. Julius Cæsar, when he attempted to correct the almanac, made the mistake of ignoring the eleven minutes, and a misunderstanding of the imperial degree fixed the leap year one year in three. Augustus, eight years B. C., ordained that for the next twelve years there should be no leap year, and thus corrected the error for the time. But there were the eleven minutes which, as the centuries rolled on, became hours and days. The Council of Nice, in A. D. 325, brought the sun and the almanac into harmony, but left the perplexing eleven minutes unprovided for, and it thus went on for twelve centuries, when Pope Gregory XIII., finding the sun ten days behind the calendar, ordained a radical cure, enjoining that the ten days between the 3d and 15th of October, 1582, should be struck out of the almanac. The different nations of Europe adopted a like course, one after another, Protestant England being the last to conform to the Pope's bull in 1752, when the English calendar dropped eleven days in September, which had then accumulated. To prevent errors in future, it is necessary that three leap years shall be omitted in each 400 years, and this is managed by making the omitted years the even hundreds, that are not divisible by 400. So that 1700 nor 1800 were, and 1900 will not be a leap year, but 2000 will be as 1600 was.

In transposing from "old" to "new style," the time must be taken into account, the farther back we go the fewer days it takes to make it right. The Pilgrims landed in Plymouth December 11, and as the error was only ten days, the celebrations of that event should be on the 21st, and not the 22d. The days of the week were not effected by this change.

The fact that leap year gives unusual prerogatives to the gentler sex who are matrimonially inclined is not of astronomical origin, but may, nevertheless, be worthy of the most profound manual respect.—Milwaukee (Wis.) News.

New York's Large Tax-Payers.

The tax list shows to all who look at details what large sums are collected from some establishments. I will quote a few:

	Assessed.	Taxes.
Stewart's retail store	$1,150,000	$32,[illegible]00
Stewart's wholesale store	850,000	23,800
Stewart's Fifth avenue palace	600,000	16,800
Grand Central depot	1,500,000	42,000
Drexel Building, corner of Wall and Broad streets	1,000,000	29,400
Equitable Insurance	1,100,000	30,200
New York Life Insurance Building	1,000,000	29,400
Brown Brothers' banking house	420,000	11,816
Duncan, Sherman & Co.'s banking house (now closed)	350,000	9,800
Stock Exchange Building	425,000	11,900
Fifth Avenue Hotel	1,100,000	30,200
Metropolitan Hotel (owned by Stewart)	900,000	28,200

In this list we find Stewart paying $56,000 taxes on his stores. On his house and the hotel $42,000 more are paid, making $98,000; but in addition to this he has a large amount of real estate scattered in various parts of the city. It is probable that his tax last year was not less than $120,000.—New York Cor. Troy Times.

A WITTY, popular, and learned Lord on the northern side of the Tweed tells a story of a Scotch wife, after the nuptial knot had been tied, mildly expostulating with her husband for indulging in two tumblers of whisky-toddy just before going to bed. "My dear Agnes, a glass o' whisky-toddy makes anither man o' me." "But, my dear William, you take two." "Ay, Agnes, that gangs to the ither man!"

Sudden Death of a Knife-Eater.

A few days since the celebrated "knife-eater," who, for the past few years has astonished the community in this region by his feats of swallowing knives, nails, etc., came to an untimely end. He was living at Isaac Osmun's, on the State road, doing chores for his board, when in drawing water from the large tank that supplies the cheese factory there with water, he fell in and was drowned. It is supposed that as he leaned over the tank the blood rushed to his head, and so he lost his balance and fell in. His body was examined by Drs. Pixley and Cole, but, to their astonishment, nothing was found unusual, except that the coats of the stomach were very slightly inflamed. That he actually did swallow the knives, etc., with which he is credited, there is the most indubitable evidence, and many are the anecdotes connected therewith, of which I give only the following, as related by an eye-witness:

One day he came along where several of the railroad Italians and others were at work, when a boy told him that if he would swallow a large clasp-knife, with an iron hook in the end by which to suspend it from a belt and which belonged to one of the Italians, he would give him fifty cents. Immediately he seized the knife, closed it, and swallowed it. The astonished owner of the knife gaped upon him with saucer eyes, but recovering his wits he seized a shovel and held it up to him, exclaiming, "You swallow dis! you swallow dis!"—Peninsula (O.) Cor. Akron Beacon.

His Obituary.

It was a very sad woman that came into our sanctum the other day. Not to put too fine a point upon it, she wept. "I am Mrs. Briggs," she murmured, sadly. The sub-editor said he was glad to know it, and inquired after Mr. Briggs. "You don't seem to keep the run of our eminent citizens much," she said, with some asperity; "for, you know, he died last Friday." The sub stammered out that he had indeed overlooked it. "That's just it," said the grief-stricken one. "I want an obituary rit on to him, something strong, you know." "Ah! precisely," said the sub-editor; "I will just take down the points. He was public-spirited, of course?" "Certainly," sighed the widow. "Respected, influential, high-toned?" "Way up," sobbed the relict. "Fine feelings, self-made, rich?" "Well, no," said the mourner, "he would have been rich. His partner was just elected Supervisor, but he didn't wait for the first day even. He faded away, faded away." All right, madam, we will get up a notice that will make all the other bereaved families in your part of the town howl with envy." "On the front page, mind," she sighed. "Just so, ma'am. It will be $8." "Eight dollars for an obituary, with sugar at thirteen cents?" "But reflect, madam, that you will have an article that will make Andrew Johnson and Henry Wilson turn over in their graves." "Eight dollars—and Johnny's shoes will be $4, and Jane's pullback—well, mister, I guess the old man will have to slide through on his merits. The regular four-bit sendoff will about do, I guess," and depositing that coin on the desk she sobbed herself down stairs."—San Francisco News Letter.

"O wearisome condition of humanity!"

How many wretched homes in our land! How many heart-broken invalids! Life with many signifies a mere onerous existence. All are subject to disease, but when health is removed the hope is nearly gone out. Sickness is usually incurred through exposure or carelessness. Especially is this true with those diseases peculiar to woman. Through her own imprudence and folly she is made to drag out a miserable existence—a source of annoyance and anxiety to her friends, and any thing but a comfort and pleasure to herself. Exposure to the cold at times when she should be most prudent, and overtaxing her body with laborious employment, are both fruitful causes of many of the maladies from which she suffers. Gradually the bloom leaves her cheeks, her lips grow ashy white, her vivacity departs, she continually experiences a feeling of weariness and general languor, and altogether presents a ghostly appearance. What does she need? Should she take some stimulating drug, which will for the time make her "feel better," or does her entire system demand reparation? She requires something which not only will restore to health the diseased organs, but will tone and invigorate the system. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do this. It imparts strength to the diseased parts, brings back the glow of health, and restores comfort where previously there was only suffering.

Every invalid lady should send for "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," in which over fifty pages are devoted to the consideration of those diseases peculiar to women. It will be sent, post-paid, to any address, for $1.50. Address R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. Agents wanted to sell this valuable work.

CHICAGO LEDGER—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

DOBBINS' Electric Soap, (made by Cragin & Co., Philadelphia), contains nothing but the purest material, and does the work quickly, but without impairing the finest fabric. Try it without fail.

THE editor of the Covington (Ohio) Gazette offers to eat a quail each day for sixty consecutive days, if anybody will furnish the birds.

PIMPLES AND HUMORS ON THE FACE.—In this condition of the skin, the Vegetine is the great remedy, as it acts directly upon the cause. It cleanses and purifies the blood, thereby causing humors of all kinds to disappear.

THE Kansas State Senate has chosen a colored Methodist preacher as chaplain of that body.

CHEAPEST, best family paper in the world—CHICAGO LEDGER. See advertisement.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEA WEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS.—These deservedly celebrated and popular medicines have effected a revolution in the healing art, and proved the fallacy of several maxims which have for many years obstructed the progress of medical science. The false supposition that "Consumption is incurable" deterred physicians from attempting to find remedies for that disease, and patients afflicted with it reconciled themselves to death without making an effort to escape from a doom which they supposed to be unavoidable. It is now proved, however, that Consumption can be cured, and that it has been cured in a very great number of cases (some of them apparently desperate ones) by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone; and in other cases by the same medicine in connection with Schenck's Sea-Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, one or both, according to the requirements of the case.

Dr. Schenck himself, who enjoyed uninterrupted good health for more than forty years, was supposed at one time to be at the very gate of death, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless, and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery, many thousands similarly affected have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his principal office, Corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists.

CHAPPED hands, face, pimples, ringworm, saltrheum, and other cutaneous affections cured, and rough skin made soft and smooth, by using Juniper Tar Soap. Be careful to get only that made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, as there are many imitations made with common tar, all of which are worthless.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

The fact that five million of pairs of SILVER TIPPED Shoes are made a year, shows how those who use them feel about it. They know that they last three times as long.

Economy is wealth—but the best Shoe is the CABLE SCREW WIRE. They never rip, leak or come apart. Try them. All genuine goods stamped.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

THE CHICAGO LEDGER.
A $3 Paper for $1.50.
It is as good and larger than the New York Ledger. Always an illustrated Serial Story. A new Story commences about Feb. 1. One year, postage paid, for $1.50. Samples sent. Address THE LEDGER, Chicago, Ill.

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

JAMES P. SCOTT, CHICAGO, wants no Agents, but for 10c. sends 1000 advertisements of those who do.

20 SNOWFLAKE or Damask Cards, with name, 20c. Address J. B. HUSTED, Nassau, Rens. Co., N. Y.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. STINSON & CO., Portland, Me.

ASTHMA and CATARRH. Sure Cure. Trial free. Address W. K. BELLIS, Indianapolis, Ind.

KEEP A DAILY EXPENSE BOOK. IT PAYS. Best published. Agents wanted. Mailed, cloth, 50 cts. T. J. MORROW, 61 Warren St., New York.

BUILDING FELT (no tar), for outside work and inside, instead of Plaster. Felt Carpetings, &c. Send for circular and samples. C. J. FAY, Camden, N. J.

YOU BET

AGENTS sell for $3, which cost $25. World over. 3c. stamp for Circular to JNO. A. CLARK, Inventor, Newark, N. J.

DIVORCES legally and quietly obtained for incompatibility, &c.; residence unnecessary; fee after decree. A. GOODRICH, P. O. Box 1037, Chicago.

AGENTS 20 Elegant Oil Chromos, mounted, size 9x11, for $1. Novelties and Chromos of every description. National Chromo Co., Phila., Pa.

1000 Outfits FREE FOOTPRINTS of the AGES. Our Government and History. Goodspeed's Book, Bible and Map House, CHICAGO.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Washington St., Boston.

RICH Books, Kurious Goods, Sporting Articles, etc. 64-page Book for two 3c. stamps. BALDWIN & CO., 111 Nassau St., N. Y.

$350 A Month.—Agents wanted. 24 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents. Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

Decalcomania, Chromos, Steel Engravings, Photographs, Scrap-book Pictures, Mottoes, etc. Elegant samples and catalogue sent postpaid for 10 cts. Agents Wanted. J. L. Patten & Co., 162 William St., New York.

IVINS PATENT HAIR CRIMPERS.
Adopted by all the Queens of Fashion. Send for circular E. IVINS, No. [illegible] North Fifth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

$60 PER MONTH and traveling expenses paid to salesmen who can sell our goods, and better wages to experienced salesmen. Address ARGAND KINDLER CO., 36 LaSalle St., CHICAGO, Ill.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

☞ EDITORS, PUBLISHERS, ☜ And others having RAILROAD TICKETS on Roads leading out of Chicago, will find a purchaser by addressing E. B. MANTZ, 59 Dearborn St., CHICAGO. ☞ RAILROAD TICKETS BOUGHT and SOLD.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT New Buffalo Bill Revolver Sent with 100 Cartridges for $3. Full Nickel Plate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Illustrated Catalogue Free. Address WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill. $3.00

ROSES 700 SUPERB VARIETIES ROSES. Half a Million Greenhouse Plants. Mailing Plants a Specialty. Illustrated Catalogue Free. E. Y. TEAS & CO. Richmond Ind.

MIND READING, PSYCHOMANCY, FASCINATION, Soul Charming, Mesmerism and Lovers' Guide, showing how either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose instantly. 400 pages. By mail, 50 cts. Hunt & Co., 139 S. 7th St., Phila.

WANTED! Men to travel and sell our goods to DEALERS. No peddling from house to house. Eighty dollars a month; hotel and traveling expenses paid. Address ROBB & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

SECRETS WONDERS And Mysteries. A 64 page Book full of peculiar Disclosures Illustrated. Sent free to all for 2 postage stamps. Address FLETCHER & CO., Williamsburgh, New York.

LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 TRANSPARENT VISITING CARDS, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. NOVELTY PRINTING Co., Ashland, Mass.

SEND to HEADQUARTERS 25 First-Class Visiting Cards, with your name neatly printed, sent by return mail upon receipt of 10 cts. and a 3-c. stamp. 5 packs, 5 names, to one address, 50 cts. A list of 70 kinds of cards and samples of 65 styles of printing sent with each new order. I make THIS OFFER as I wish to introduce my cards into every family. All want more when they get one lot. All say: "More than pleased." Write name, town and State PLAINLY. Address W. C. CANNON, 30 Kneeland St., Boston, Mass.

HO! For IOWA!!
TO FARMERS. Better Lands at Cheaper Prices cannot be had in the world, than from the Iowa R. R. Land Co. Soil and Climate strictly first-class. Pure Water abundant. Half Fare Tickets from Chicago out and back with Free Fare to Purchasers. A Descriptive Pamphlet with Maps of Over One Million Acres for sale at $5 and $6 on R. R. Terms sent free. Address Iowa R. R. Land Company, 92 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., or Cedar Rapids Iowa. JOHN B. CALHOUN, Land Commissioner.

DEATH
Is delayed by using R. & T. Tonic Elixir and Liquid Extract of Beef, which is composed of the juice of raw meat with Iron Tonics, Diuretics and mild Cathartics, and prescribed by Physicians for the cure of Indigestion, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Piles, Lung, Liver, Kidney, Children, Blood and all female diseases and weakness. Price $1.00 per bottle. RICHARDSON & TULLIDGE, Proprietors, Cincinnati, O. For sale by all druggists. None other genuine.

S. H. HARRIS'
IMPROVED
CHICAGO SAFES
And VAULT DOORS are the Best.
Address S. H. HARRIS, Manufacturer, 23 and 25 Randolph St.

CENTENNIAL HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES.
by Benson J. Lossing, LL. D., now ready! The only complete History of our whole Country in one large and richly bound, yet low-priced volume—over 800 pages, 450 fine engravings—and the only one worthy to be published in both English and German. Full and splendidly illustrated account of the approaching Grand Centennial Celebration. AGENTS WANTED! Rapidly growing interest everywhere in the thrilling history of our country, hence, rare chance for Agents seeking a first-class book. Send at once for full description and liberal terms, to F. A. HUTCHINSON AND COMPANY, Chicago, Ill.

SEEDS STRICTLY FRESH AND PURE.
MARKET GARDENERS
SEND FOR SPECIAL PRICE LIST.
ENGLISH OR GERMAN.
GEO. S. HASKELL & CO.,
SEEDS ROCKFORD, ILLINOIS.

Only 3 Cents a Week.
1876.
Grand Investment
BRINGING Splendid Returns.
FOR City, Village, Country.

READER, you want for Yourself and Family, for 1876, the most Practical, the most Useful, the most Beautiful, and yet Cheapest Journal in America.—You will certainly find that Journal in the American Agriculturist, issuing its 35th Annual Volume during the Centennial Year. Two numbers now ready for 300,000 old readers, and the 500,000 new ones, who will have it, if they learn its real value.

44 double (or quarto) pages in every number, beautifully printed on fine paper.

45 to 60 Engravings, beautiful, pleasing, and instructive, in every number.

A Great Variety of Practical, Reliable, Instructive Reading, useful to every MAN, WOMAN, and CHILD, in CITY, VILLAGE, and COUNTRY.

HOMES For The PEOPLE.—Every number of American Agriculturist gives engraved House Plans, common-sense ones, with all materials, and the cost. Everybody wants a House, or to improve one. Here is a world of useful, practical information.

HOUSEKEEPERS will find in every number much to aid and relieve their Work and Care—not fancy notions, but really useful suggestions and information.

CHILDREN of all ages find in every number much to interest and instruct them.

A CALENDAR of WORK! with useful hints thereon, in House, Garden, Orchard, Dairy, on the Farm, etc., given in every number, is alone worth the cost.

HUMBUG EXPOSED.—No other Journal in the world so persistently and fully exposes the tricks and schemes of the swindlers that prey upon every individual. These exposures alone save its readers millions of dollars, and will save every reader many times the cost of the paper, in bad purchases and investments, if not in avoiding bare swindling.

The Above are only a few of the good features of the American Agriculturist, that for 34 years have made it so acceptable and useful to its subscribers, who are so numerous that the Publishers can supply the paper at a remarkably low price! It combines Beauty and Usefulness to a wonderful degree, and is the Cheapest Journal in the World. Everybody wants and should have it. The Centennial Volume (for all of 1876) will far excel in value and beauty any previous volume......TRY IT.

Terms: Only $1.60 a year, sent post-paid; 4 to 9 copies, $1.35 each; 10 copies, $1.20 each.

ORANGE JUDD CO., Publishers,
245 Broadway, New York.

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS
My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. WILLIAM E. BOWDITCH, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

DO YOUR OWN PRINTING.

NOVELTY PRINTING PRESS.
For Professional and Amateur Printers, Schools, Societies, Manufacturers, Merchants, and others it is the BEST ever invented. 13,000 in use. Ten styles. Prices from $5.00 to $150.00
BENJ. O. WOODS & CO. Manufrs and dealers in all kinds of Printing Material.
Send stamp for Catalogue.) 49 Federal St. Boston.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL
HISTORY OF THE U. S.
The great interest in the thrilling history of our country makes this the fastest selling book ever published. It contains 442 fine historical engravings and 925 pages, with a full account of the approaching grand Centennial Exhibition. Send for a full description and extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

SENSIBLE TRUSS

THIS NEW ELASTIC
TRUSS
Has a Pad differing from all others. Its action is wonderful. Being cup-shape, with Self-Adjusting Ball in center, it adapts itself to all positions of the body, while the ball within the cup presses back the intestines just as a person would with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is perfectly easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Send for Circular and Truss to EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Marshall, Mich.

1776. A National Family Paper. 1876.
The Great Family Paper of America, the only paper exposing every swindler, quack and humbug, and saving millions to the public, is now ready for the Centennial campaign, and 100,000 more delighted subscribers.
THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER is a large 8-page, 40-column paper, Ledger size, overflowing with charming Stories, Tales, Sketches, Poetry, Wit, Humor and Fun. It gives all new Recipes, Rights, Secrets, Arts, &c., &c.; has a Children's Department, a Medical Department, Puzzler's Corner, etc., etc., and is a perfect Family Paper.
HUMBUGS. Its specialty is to expose every Fraud, Quack, Swindler and "Beat." Every number has five columns of truthful, reliable statements. No sawdust, lottery gift, bond, or "put and call" game can ever "catch" you if you read this great paper. It exposes all swindlers without fear or favor, and gives a list of over 1,000, with names and "games."
IT COSTS But 75 cents a year, and is sent prepaid everywhere. It is just the paper for every home, Southern or Northern. It is not political, religious or sectarian. It wages for all. Started in 1863, it has gone on for 13 years, and is read by 100,000 people. You want it and will have it some time. Why not now?
ELEGANT CHROMOS. We have imported 12 Splendid French Chromos (worth $1 each), size 9x11 inches, finely mounted, and we offer ANY FOUR of these gems and BANNER a whole year, all free, for $1. These are genuine chromos, suitable for any parlor. Fifty other premiums offered.
A LAST WORD. Reader, remember 1876 is our country's centennial. During this one year do take a NATIONAL, patriotic, wide-awake paper; one that is for RIGHT and against wrong; one that knows no party, no North, South, East or West, but a paper intended for every reader, one that saves money to its readers by exposing the "tricks and traps" of swindledom; and now is the time. You have put it off too long. Send to-day. Now is the accepted time.
SEE. Only 75 cents secures this great paper a year. With four charming chromos, only $1. Five numbers sent for 15 cents. Specimens (100,000 ready) SENT FREE TO ALL. Send for it NOW. Costs nothing to see it. Send TO-DAY to BANNER PUBLISHING CO., Hinsdale, N. H.

PRICE, $4.50 p'r hundred.

The Sugar Maker's Friend.
Agents Wanted in every Sugar district to canvass for the sale of Post's Patent Metallic Maple Sap Spout and Bucket Hanger. Samples, Circulars and Terms sent post-paid on receipt of 20 cents.
Address C. C. POST, Manuf. & Patentee, Burlington, Vt.

The Wonders of Modern Chemistry.
Sarsaparillian and Its Associates.
Changes as Seen and Felt as They Daily Occur after Using a Few Doses of
DR. RADWAY'S
Sarsaparillian
Resolvent,
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and hardness of flesh and muscles, etc.
2. Strength increases, appetite improves, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awaken fresh and vigorous.
3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples; the skin looks clear and healthy, the urine changed from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding, little or no sediment; no pain or weakness.
4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands, and functional harmony restored to the several organs.
5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to a clear, lively and healthy color.
6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs, air cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminishing of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system; stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles, legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation; hard breathing and paroxysms of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.
7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken, new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity, disease will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin diseases gradually disappear.
8. In cases where the system has been salivated, and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, (the principal constituent in the advertised Sarsaparillas, associated in some cases with Hyd. of Potassa) have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing caries of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.
9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous or Syphilitic diseases, however slow may be the cure "feel better," and find their general health improving, their flesh and weight increasing, or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better," every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength and flesh.
The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in Consumption of the Lungs and Tuberculous Phthisis, Scrofula, Syphiloid Diseases, Wasting, Degeneration, and Ulceration of the Kidneys, Diabetes, Stoppage of Water (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using these instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder, and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in Chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.
In tumors, nodes, hard lumps and syphiloid ulcers; in dropsy and venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercles of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture wherein this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.
In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.
Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $10 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

RADWAY'S
READY RELIEF
WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.
INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS,
CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS,
SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING,
PALPITATION OF THE HEART,
HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA,
CATARRH, INFLUENZA,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, MUMPS,
NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM,
COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the READY RELIEF to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.
Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will, in a few moments, cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.
Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water.

IT IS BETTER THAN FRENCH BRANDY OR BITTERS AS A STIMULANT.

Price 50 Cents. Sold by Druggists.

DR. RADWAY'S
REGULATING PILLS
Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.
☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:
Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.
A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above named disorders. Price 25 Cents per Box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

DIVORCES LEGALLY OBTAINED for incompatibility, etc. Residence not required. No publicity. Fee after decree. J. H. CONKLIN, Box 565, Cincinnati.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza
BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19,
Young
Selling at the rate of 1,000 a week. Full expose of the horrible system of Polygamy. Illustrated Circulars, with complete information free to all. Address nearest office of Dustin, Gilman & Co., Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O.

Smith Organ Co.,
BOSTON, MASS.
These Standard Instruments
Sold by Music Dealers Everywhere.
AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN.
Sold throughout the United States on the
INSTALLMENT PLAN;
That is, on a System of Monthly Payments.
Purchasers should ask for the Smith American Organ. Catalogues and full particulars free on application.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Fruit House Bulletin

All Goods Retailed at Wholesale Prices

This is the Only Secret of Our Immense Trade.

We purchase at first hands and sell direct to the consumer, so there is no middlemen to eat up profits. Some goods—take teas for instance—pass through four different hands before they reach consumers, and each one has to have his profit, so that 40 to 50 per cent. is added to price. The importer has his profit of 10 per cent., the jobbing merchant his profit of 10 per cent., the speculator and wholesale merchants, 10 to 20 per cent. and the retailer a'l he can get. So Sugars, Coffees, Spices, Prunes, Fruits, Tobaccos, Liquors, or anything we deal in. Our customers get the benefit of all these intermediate profits. No middlemen with us. We are having a great run on Prunes. The Finest

PRUNES ONLY 8c A POUND.

They hardly ever sell lower than 12½c. and when you consider that Dried Apples are 12c, we all know a pound of Prunes will go farther and are considered much richer eating.

TEAS REDUCED

"A penny saved is two pence got." Ten cents reduction on teas. The continued dullness in trade in the east, coupled with the large number of failures in the tea trade, has completely demoralized the market. Teas we used to sell at $1,40, and lately $1,10 per pound, we now sell at $1 per pound. Either Young Hyson, Imperial or Gunpowder, the very Best qualities, now $1 per pound. The best uncolored Japan now 80c. was 90c, the best Oolong now 75c, was 95c. Other grades as low 25c per pound, up to 30, 60, and 70c per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	29 and 30c
Second Best Rio,	23c

Sugars.

New Orleans and Refined Granulated Crushed and Powdered	11c	New Orleans clarified	9c
Coffee A.	10½c	" "	8c
" C.	10c	Good brown	8c

CANNED FRUITS.

Peaches per can	15c	Pumpkin per can	10c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Hominey per can	10c
Canned Corn, per can	10 and 20c

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia Raisins, per pound	12½c	Peaches per pound	12c
Pitted Cherries per pound	35c	Apples per pound	12c
Raspberries per pound	45c

Wines and Liquors.

Good Whiskey, one year old, per gallon	$1 00	Port and Sherry Wines, per gallon, bottle	1 50. in 50c
Rye Whiskey, two years old	1 25	Sweet Angelica and California Muscatel, gallon, 3 00; in bottles	per 75c
Three year old	1 75 3 00	Whiskey in bottles	30c and 50c
The $3 is for medical use and no better is sold anywhere.
CANDIES—Best Stick per pound	18c	French Mixed, choice, per pound	20c

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

Good Navy and Twist, per pound	45 and 50c	Smoking Tobacco	35c. best 40c
Fine Kentucky Bright	60 and 70c	Shorts, best	37

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Coal Oil and Rose Oil, per gallon	20c	Machine Oil, Dark Virginia, per gallon
Fish Oil and Lard Oil, per gallon	1 00	Best Refined	75c
Neatsfoot Oil, per gallon	$1 00

We are Bound to Keep up Our Reputation of Underselling all others And Save You at least

25 Cents on the Dollar

Fruit House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Auburn Fruit House

JUST OPENED

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

Read the Following Prices

TEAS:

Young Hyson from	85 cents to $1.00
Japan "	90 cents to $1.00
Oolong "	70 cents to $1.00
Gunpowder "	60 cents to $1.00

OFFEES:

Roasted Coffee from	25 cents to 30
Best Rio	25 cents
Best Java & Mocha	38 cents
African Male Java	45 cents

SUGARS:

Double Refined A	11 cents
Brown from	8 cents to 10cts
Hard & Pulverized	12½ "

Canned Fruit from......10 to 32 cents	Lemons, per dozen.................. 50c
White Fish per kit.........$1.40	White Fish per half barrell......$5.50
Syrups from.........75c to 1.00	Soap, endless variety, per bar 5 & 10c
Dried Beef, Hams and Peckeled pork	Western Reserve Cheese........15 cents

Dried Fruits.

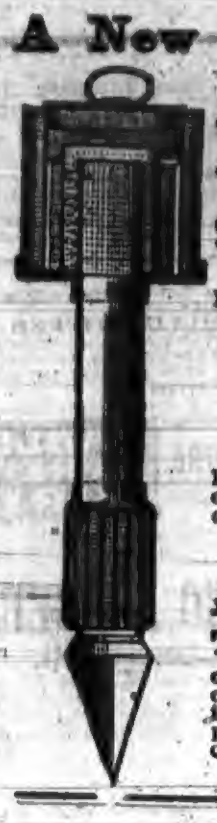
Apples from	11 to 12½
Prunes from	11 to 15
Choice Raisins from	15 to 20

Coal and Head Light Oil. Best Crackers of all kinds at the lowest prices,—Too many goods to enumerate. Call in and price them. Remember the place is the

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

.E .E WILLIAMS.

A New Method of Draining Farms!



YUNDT'S PATENT DRAIN!

FOR DRAINING

Swamps, Ponds & Low Lands.

It sinks the water just where it stands, saving miles of tile drains; keeps the water from cutting up your highways, or flooding your neighbor's, and is as far superior to tile drains as the railroad is to the common wagon.

TESTIMONIAL.

We, the undersigned, having seen one of Yundt's Patent Drains remove a large pond of stagnant water, on Hoyt street, in this city, do cheerfully recommend it to all persons who have wet cellars, or are troubled with ponds or wet lands. It will do all that is claimed for it.

DR. B. ATKINSON, HENRY COLESTHWAITE, J. W. GRIFFITH,
H. B. CROSS, D. V. ROSS, LYMAN CASE,
N. E. RAPER, F. MORTON.

One of the above drains was put down on the premises of J. P. Frenzel, Jr., Cashier of the Merchants' National Bank, of this city, and in less than

Three Hours Had Drained the Cellar

of over 3,000 gallons of water. No better investment can be made of idle capital than in working territory with this Drain. A good, energetic Agent is wanted in every city and county, to whom a liberal commission will be paid. State, County, Township or Farm Rights for sale. Personal property or real estate taken in exchange for territory. Address

J. H. YUNDT, Indianapolis, Ind.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has an exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his potrons the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

Lady Elgin
No 400??
Elgin

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,

Jewelry,

Clocks, Silver Ware!

GOLD PENS,

Ladies GOLD Chains,

Gents Chains,

Gold and Silver Rings,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

B. W. Raymond
Elgin Ill.

Grand Display

The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of

Wall and Window Paper!

SHADES AND FIXTURERS.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Miscellaneous and Blank Books,

Pocket Books,
Bill Books,
Wallets,
Memorandas,
Bibles,
Albums,
Testaments,
Pass Books

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONARY,

Pictures, Picture-cord and Tassel,
Box Papers in great variety,
School Supplies of all kinds,
—AT—

C. P. HOUSER'S,

Main Street, opposite Ford's Block, AUBURN, IND.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 25p	3 35p	2 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 29	5 10	1.30
Tipton	8 30	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 36	2 55
Kokomo	9 11	2 25	7 01
Peru	10 05	3 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 05p	4 15a	9 55a
Noblesville	4 42	3 18	8 34
Tipton	[illegible]	2 20	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	1 50	[illegible]
Miami	3 46	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 35	[illegible]

S. C. MURPHY, Supt. Mich. Div.
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. R. ROBINSON, General Supt.
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R. Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 21, 1875 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:42 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	7:55 p. m
Waterloo	3:00 "	2:51 "	8:14 "
Sedan	3,07	3,01	8:28 "
Corunna	3,13	3,06 "	8:30 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.10 pm	11.35 am	9:35 a m
Sedan	2.20	11.40	6:40 "
Waterloo	2:37 "	11:50 "	6:52 "
Butler	2:47 "	x12:Pt a m	7:15 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Nov 21, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	2 00 pm	3 45a.m	pm
Ossian	2 55
Bluffton	3 35	5 06	7 00
Keystone	3 54
Montpelier	4 02	6 43	7 22
Hartford	4 25pm	6 06	7 50
Eaton	4 50	6 25	8 12
Muncie	5 20	6 55	8 40
McCowan's	5 37
New Castle	6 15
Cam. City	6 52
Beesons	7 11
Connersville	7 25
Indianapolis	7 40	9 30	11 15
Louisville		pm
Cincinnati	10 30	am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am
Louisville
Indianapolis		7 35pm	pm 4 45am
Connersville	10 45
Beesons	11 10
Cam City	11 18
New Castle	11 55
McCowans	12 30pm
Muncie	12 42	10 00	7 13am
Eaton	1 08	11 30	7 51
Hartford	1 27	10 48	8 15
Montpelier	1 51	11 10	8 45
Keystone	2 10		8 55
Bluffton	2 30	11 48am	9 32
Ossian	2 56		10 05
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. RILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Ind.	Exp.
Cincinnati
Louisville	7 00pm			40
Indianapolis	4 43am			36
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 3		45
Auburn	11 33	6 1		41
Waterloo	11 50	6 4		07
Summit				50
Pleasant Lake				56
Ar Angola	12 45pm	8 40	5 30	10
Reading	1 45		7 00	32
Bankers	2 00		7 28	6 45
Jonesville	2 20		7 52	10 15
Jackson	2 3		9 35	6 40
Detroit	6 15p m		12 30	8 37
Grand Rapids	10 15			11 37
Lansing	5 45
Saginaw	9 08
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 40 am		4 10p
Lansing	11 07		7 28
Grand Rapids	6 00		11 30a
Detroit	10 30		5 40p
Jackson Dep	1 20 p m		9 40
Jonesville	2 20		11 00
Bankers	2 36		11 20
Reading	2 47		11 35
Ar Angola	3 40	6 18	12 44
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 20	7 33	1 32
Auburn
Auburn Junction	4 36	8 00	1 52
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 20	9 30	2 45
Indianapolis	11 15	7 40p	9 20
Louisville	8 45 am	11 10
Cincinnati		10 36

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETROIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Nov. 21st, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 8 Fre't	No. 4 Expr's	No 2	STATIONS	No 1	No. 3	No. 7 L. F.
5.00p	4.00p	10 30	lv Logans't ar	11.00	8.50p	1.00a
6.38	4.13	10.45	Adamsboro	10.45	6.38	12.25
7.04	4.23	10.57	Hoover's	10.33	6.27	12.00
7.20	4.43	11.05	Mexico	10.25	6.19	11.45
7.40	4.52	11.15	Denver.	10.15	6.10	11.25
7.54	4.59	11.36	Chili	10.07	5.58	1.12
8.22	5.12	11.48	Roann	9.54	5.40	10.43
8.55	5.26	12.04	Laketon	9.40	5.26	10.10
9.15	5.33	12.12	N. Manchest'r	9.30	5.15	9.50
9.33	5.42p	12.20	Lib. Mills	9.21	5.08	9.33
9.56	5.52	12.30	Collamer	9.10	4.57	9.14
10.04	5.56	12.35	S. Whitley	9.06	4.53	9.05
10.28	6.08	12.47	Taylor's	8.54	4.41	8.42
10.50	6.20	1.00	Columbia city	8.42	4.30	8.20
11.20	6.34	1.13	Collin's	8.27	4.16	7.50
11.40	6.46	1.26	Churubusco	8.15	4.01	7.31
12.00	6.55	1.36	Potter's	8.05	3.54	7.16
12.16			G. R. Crossing
12.30	7.11	1.51	Cedar Creek	7.50	3.39	6.45
12.53	7.23	2.00	Aub. Juncti'n	7.34	3.28	6.22
1.00	7.28	2.04	Auburn	7.28	3.23	6.15
1.30	7.36	2.17	Mooresville	7.15	3.10	5.45
2.00	7.50	2.30	ar. Butler lv.	7.00a	3.00p	5.15

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R'w. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTRAHD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-s first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND AND Pacific Railroad.

The Direct Route for

JOLIET, MORRIS, LASALLE, PERU, HENRY, LACON, PEORIA, GENESEO, MOLINE, ROCK ISLAND, DAVENPORT MUSCATINE, WASHINGTON IOWA CITY, GRINNELL, NEWTON, DES MOINES,

Council Bluffs and Omaha

WITHOUT CHANGE OF CARS,

Where it joins with the Union Pacific Railroad for Denver, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, San Francisco and

All Points West of the Pacific Coast.

Trains leave daily as follows:

Omaha, Leavenworth & Atchison Express (Sundays excepted)	10 15 a.m
Peru Accommodation (Sun ex)	5 00 p.m
Omaha Express (Sun ex)	10 00 p.m

KANSAS LINE.

The Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co., have now opened their Southwestern Division between Leavenworth and Chicago, connecting at Leavenworth with Kansas Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads and at Atchison with Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Central Branch, Union Pacific and Atchison and Nebraska railroads, for all points in Kansas, Indian Territories, Colorado and New Mexico.

This company has built a full complement of Palace Drawing room and sleeping cars, which for external beauty and interior arrangements for the comfort, convenience and luxury of passengers are unexcelled if equalled, by any other cars of the kind in the world.

☞ Through tickets for sale at all General Railway offices in the States and Canada.

HUGH RIDDLE, Gen Supt.
A. M. SMITH Gen Pass Agent,

CALIFORNIA.

THE CHICAGO & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the West and North-west, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, California and the Western Territories. Its

Omaha & California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line.

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and for Madison, St. Paul Minneapolis, Duluth and all points in the great Northwest. Its

Winona and St Peter Line

Is the only route for Winona, Rochester, Owatonna Mankato, St Peter New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Jonesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghton, Handcock and the Lake Superior Country. Its.

Freeport and Debuque Line

Is the only route for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its.

Chicago & Milwauke Line

Is the old Lake Shore route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

Pullman Palace Cars

are run on all through trains on the road.

This is the only line running these cars between Chicago and St Paul Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our sleepers connect with the Overland sleepers on the Union Pacific railroad for all points west of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago & North-Western Railway leaves Chicago as follows

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St Paul and Minneapolis, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, two trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four through trains daily, Pullman Cars on night trains Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta and Winona and points in Minnesota, One through train daily, with Pullman sleepers to Winona.

For Debuque, via Freeport, two through trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains

For Debuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, two through trains daily with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, two trains daily Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, four trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Jonesville, and other points, you can have from two to ten trains daily.

New York Office, No. 415 Broadway, Boston office No. 5 State Street, Omaha office, 253, Farnham Street San Francisco office. 121, Montgomery Street, Kinzie Street Depot, corner of W Kinzie and Canal Streets Wells street Depot, corner of Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agent, apply to,

W. H. STENNETT, Gen Pass Ag't, Chicago.
MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen Sup't, Chicago

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, Dec 12, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No. 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night e
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	5 50 pm	8 30 a.m	3 00 p.
Rochester	3 11 "	....	9 45 "	4 10 "
Alliance	5 25 "	8 35 pm	12 50 p.m	7 00 "
Orrville	7 12 "	....	2 50 "	8 50 "
Mansfield	9 25 "	....	5 14 "	10 55 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 00 "	11 45pm	5 50 "	11 50 "
" lv.	10 20 "	4 50 am	6 25 p.m	11 50 "
Forest	11 40 "	6 25 "	8 13 "	1 07 am
Lima	12 40 p.m	7 55 "	9 35 "	2 10 "
Ft. Wayne	3 00 "	10 45 "	12 01 a.m	4 10 "
Plymouth	5 06 "	1 43 pm	2 55 a.m	6 08 "
Chicago	8 20 "	5 35 "	6.30 "	9 20 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Nig't ex	No. 1 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail
Chicago	10 20p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m	5 25am
Plymouth	1 56a.m	12 00 p.m	9 05 "	9 25 "
Ft. Wayne	4 55 "	2 40 "	11 45 "	12 20pm
Lima	7 08 "	4 35 "	2 10 a.m	2 48 "
Forest	8 30 "	5 37 "	3 10 "	4 08 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 20 "	7 00 "	4 40 "	5 45 "
" lv.	10 40a.m	7 20 "	4 50 "	6 00am
Mansfield	11 11	7 50 "	5 20 "	6 40 "
Orrville	1 15 p.m	9 50 "	7 12 "	9 10
Alliance	3 15 "	11 25 "	9 00 "	11 20 "
Rochester	5 45 "	1 25 a.m	11 12 "	2 07pm
Chicago	6 55 "	2 30 "	12 15 p.m	3 "

Through Mail, (Limited,) leaves Pittsburg daily at 5.50 p.m., stopping only at Alliance, 8.15 p.m Crestline, 11.55 p. m. Fort Wayne 2.50 a. m., arrives at Chicago at 6.55 a. m.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 59	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 35
Defiance	11 32	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 03am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 39	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	 x
Walkertown Junction	4 08	4 08	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25pm	....	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	....	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	....	1 46
Avilla	3 01	....	3.04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 15	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 45	1 00pm	9 1

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tick. Agt.

D. J. Hoffman

THE AUBURN. COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 6. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, FEBRUARY 10th, 1876. Number 6.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1 y.
One square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column.........	6 00	12 00	18 00	25 00
½ Column..........	10 00	15 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Rose's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office opposite N. W. cor. Public Square.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over G. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store. Coel's Block, North of Court House.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Barry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.

C. S. OAKLEY, Prop's.

WOOD'S HOTEL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

O SANDS, Prop'r.

$2.50 per day. GEO. S. PALMER Clerk.

Junction Hotel,

JAMES SMITH, Pro'r.

Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.

L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.

J. H. Fenn, Pres't.

J. A. Cowan, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 77 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND

NEW

Meat Market

The undersigned has opened a meat market at Markle's old stand, where he will keep constantly on hand a good supply of fresh meats of all kinds, at reasonable prices, and asks a share of the public patronage.

Nov. 1-3m. JOHN TREESH.

JAS. CLIFFORD.

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobac os, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the depot.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

OPIUM

Habit cured. Chinese mode of cure, painless.—No publicity. Does not interfere with business or pleasure. Cure guaranteed. Address or consult, DR. WILFORD, Toledo, O.

WOMEN

Diseases peculiar to women treated as a specialty. Cures guaranteed in all curable cases. Address or consult DR. WILFORD, Toledo, Ohio.

Chronic Diseases

of all kinds successfully treated by DR. WILFORD, Toledo, O. Thirty years of experience should insure confidence.

IT IS HERE.

WHAT

The Largest F Stock of Fine

Hats, Caps,

GLOVES, ETC., ETC.

Ever brought to Auburn. Those wanting this line of good can get them from 100 to 150 per cent cheaper than they were ever sold before in the county by calling on

WILLIAM LESSIG.

LORDIER,

THE FORT WAYNE,

Boot & Shoe!

Store

Is the popular place for all kinks of

BOOT & SHOES.

All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely

LOW PRICES

Custom work done th best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.

Remember place

At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store, next to the Bank.

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—the new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

New Books!

JUST ISSUED BY

The Authors' Publishing Co.,

27 BOND STREET, NEW YORK.

(Incorporated, 1873. Paid up Capital, $100,000)

I. HIGHER THOUGHT.

Evolution and Progress; by Wm. I Gill, A. M. price $1 50

Analytical Processes, by Rev Wm. I. Gill, A. M. price. $2 00

Ecclesiology; by E. J. Fish, D. D. $2 00

Lineage of Language, by J. M. Fradenburg, Ph. D. $0 60

II. AESTHETIC THOUGHT.

Wild Flowers Poem by C. W. Hubner, Price $1.25; Gilt $1 75.

Irene: A Prize Story, by Mrs B. F. Baer 1 50

Her Waiting Heart; Novel, by Lou Capsadell 1 25

Egypt Ennis; Novel, by Kelsic Etheridge 50

Travelers' Grab-Bag; by an Old Traveler. 50

Slippers and Gown; by Kelsic Etheridge. In press.

Guarded by a Fear; by Mrs. H. B. Sheridan. In press.

III. PRACTICAL THOUGHT.

Gold and Free Banks; by M. R. Pilon $ 75

The Grangers; by M. R. Pilon 50

Manuscript Manual; How to prepare MSS. 10

Free Trade; by M. R. Pilon. In press.

For sale in all bookstores, or sent postpaid on receipt of price by the publishers. Descriptive Catalogue free.

☞ If you have a book to publish send stamp for pamphlet for the new plan of publishing, inaugurated by the A. P. Co.

CARPETS,

FOR 1876.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,

Reps,

Gimps,

Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,

Lace Curtains,

Oil Cloths,

and Mattings

in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

25 East Berry street

On The War Path

Terrible Slaugh'er in Dry Goods

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT THE

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET.

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of the U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted

Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,

S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,

GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.

JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 28, 1875.

PENCIL AND SCISSORS.

The Auburn Dramatic Company will travel.

Fluke's corner looks as though it might be repaired.

T. M Stevens has sold his stock of groceries.

Owing to a pressure of job work our paper will be—a little in advance this week.

Quite a number from Garrett City attended the performance here last Friday evening.

Remember Sammy Pommert when you want a good shave, hair-cut or dyeing.

Protracted meetings, at the different churches, are meeting with good success.

Quite a number of our citizens attended the Hook and Ladder meeting Saturday eve. last.

A little disturbance was had at the hall last Saturday evening, which disturbed the performers somewhat.

The COURIER will issue the largest paper in Indiana one issue of this month. Everybody should send one to their friends abroad.

The Indianapolis Journal now says that the republican party is the true greenback party. What has become of the "rag baby?"

The South Bend "Tribune insinuates that the presidential canvass on the republican side would fail without " Morton's wind." Morton thinks it would fail without his bloody shirt.

There are a few republican papers still quoting articles from the Chicago Times, as democratic sentiment against the democratic party. But they are anything but reputable papers:

Tennie Claflin's Views on Marriage.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat

"Miss Claflin, I presume you have some opinion on the subject on marriage?"

Most assuredly I have. I regard marriage as a very sacred relation. There is, in fact, no social relation about which there is more sanctity than there is about the marriage tie. Yet marriage should be founded on love, and without love it is a mockery, and there should be no law compelling people to live together when there is not a foundation of strong intellectual attachment. Love is not lust, and no marriage based on lust can be happy. The entire education of women is at fault. They should be taught more utility and less ornament. As women are now made up they are a deception and a snare, an ambush for unwary men. No man knows what he is marrying; he knows nothing except that he's marrying something with pull-backs and pads. Men are very foolish on this point too, and a pretty foot and a finely turned ankle, and a fancy face will attract less style and greater intellect. Women should be brought up purer, and men would be purer and better.

Fate of the Apostles.

Matthew is supposed to have suffered martyrdom, or was slain in the city of Ethiopia.

Mark was dragged through the streets of Alexandria, in Egypt, till he expired.

Luke was hanged to an olive tree, in Greece.

John was put in a boiling caldron, in Rome but escaped death. He died a natural death in Ephesus in Asia.

James the Great was beheaded in Jerusalem.

James the Less was thrown from a pinnacle and beaten to death.

Bartholomew was flayed alive.

Philip was beheaded.

Andrew was crucified and pounded while dying.

Thomas was run through with a lance.

Jude was shot to death with arrows.

Simon was crucified.

Matthias was stoned.

Barnabas was stoned.

Paul was beheaded by the tyrant Nero, at Rome.

The Sheriff's Rules.

While it will be generally admitted that the Sheriff of any county is responsible for the custody of a prisoner, many people may wonder at the Sheriff of an interior county in Michigan, who feels also responsible for the moral character of the man who occupies his cells. On taking his office a fews weeks ago, he had printed and posted up in the ward the following programme:

Prayers

and

Religious Singing

At 7:30 A. M.

Breakfast at 8 A. M.

Prayers and singing at 12

Also at 8 P. M.

Prisoners are expected to leave off smoking and chewing when entering this jail. Swearing will not be allowed. No prisoner will be allowed to have cards or dice. Treat eachother like gentlemen. Let your conduct speak in your favor. Be candid in your speech, honest in your actions and upright in your dealings with each other.

READ CAREFULLY

and conduct yourselves accordingly.

———Sheriff.

The official got along very well with most of his prisoners, but a few days ago a rough fellow was placed in his charge for larceny. He refused to obey the rules of the printed card, and was discovered chewing tobacco and shuffling a pack of cards. The sheriff stripped him of his forbidden things, called him into his office and asked:

"Have you concluded to obey these rules?"

"I never pray and can't sing," was the reply.

"If a man doesn't want to pray I can't force him to, I suppose; but you've either got to sing a hymn or you won't get a mouthful to eat for the next week!"

"I won't sing for no live man," was the determined reply.

He was locked in a cell, and he held out for two days. At the end of that time he broke down and came to the point as follows:

"From all that dwells below the skies,

(Gimme something to eat.)

"Let the Creator's praise arise;"

(For I'm as hungry as a bear.)

"Shall we gather at the river?"

(Pass that coffee this way)

"I want to be an angel, and with the angels stand."

(Pass in them beans, for I'm a Licked man!)

And as the sheraff gave him his breakfast he told the fellow how wrong it was for a prisoner to get his back up and declare he wouldn't be good.—[Detroit Free Press.

Unrewarded Generosity.

A Libby Prison Incident Overlooked by Blaine

Rome Ga.) Courier.

While Pickett's division was before Newbern, Gen. Pickett received, by flag of truce, a letter from a gentleman in Boston accompanied by a package of money containing $2,000, in which the writer stated that he had a brother, a federal officer in the Libby prison; that his brother was a former comrade of Pickett in the Mexican war, and appealed to him by the friendship of their old days to forward the money to his brother. The appeal touched the generous heart of the brave soldier, and he at once dispatched an orderly with the money to the officer. The orderly tempted by the unusual sight of so much greenbacks, basely deserted to the lines and escaped with the booty. As soon as Pickett heard of the desertion he immediately went to Richmond and by a mortgage upon his Turkey island property, succeeded in borrowing $2,000, which he carried to the prisoner with an explanation of and apology for the delay. The officer, when he learned by what means the general had raised the money, declined to accept one thousand dollars of it, but with the nice sense of honor which distinguished the true Southern gentleman, Gen. Pickett compelled him to do so. The two soldiers then talked over the brave old days of the past, when together they fought under the same flag, and as the conversation ripened into a friendly confidence, The prisoner frankly told the general that his object was to escape, if possible, and that he intended using some of the money he had paid him in the effort. The general checked him at once by telling him that he could not receive his confidence in such a matter. That the money was his own, and that he had a right to do with it as he pleased, but it would be improper for him to become a party to his plans. He then left. The prisoner did escape. The war ended disastrously to the South, and Gen. Pickett's estate was sold to satisfy the mortgage which he had executed to pay a federal prisoner in his hands the money which had been stolen from him by the connivance of the enemy. Would it not be better for Blaine to hunt up such acts as these than to gloat so fiendishly over Andersonville.

Representative Men.

From the N. Y. Sun.

Among the forty two patriots who figure as members of the National Republican Committee, which met at Washington last week and claimed to speak in the name of the States and Territories of the Union, there are some rare specimens of personal and political virtue. Take the following examples selected as they come to hand:

George E. Spencer, carpet-bagger, jobber and Senator from Alabama by fraud and corruption.

Powell Clayton, carpet-bagger, who misrepresents Arkansas and author of troubles in that State.

George C. Gorham, political trader from California and Secretary of Senate.

S. B. Conover, carpet-bagger from Florida.

S. B. Packard, carpet-bagger from Louisiana and inciter of strife in that State.

J. T. Averill, back-pay grabber of last Congress from Minnesota.

W. E. Chandler, [illegible], lobbyist and jobber at Washington, pretending to represent New Hampshire.

A. G. Cattell, head of the Navy Ring, from New Jersey, and silent partner of Secor Robeson.

Joseph C. Abbott, carpet-bagger from North Carolina, whom Ben Butler repudiates as a bad investment.

B. R. Cowen, Delano's Assistant Secretary of Interior continued by Chandler and one of the pillars of the Indian Ring from Ohio.

J. H. Mitchell much married Senator from Oregon with two names.

W. H. Kemble from Pennsylvania, author of the following infamous letter:

"Treasury Dep't of Pennsylvania }
Harrisburg March 30, 1867.

"My Dear Titian: Allow me to introduce to you my particular friend Mr. George O. Evans. He has a claim of some magnitude that he wishes you to help him in. Put him through as you would me. He understands addition, division, and silence.

"Yours, W. H. Kemble.

"To Titian J. Coffey, Esq. Washington.

J. J. Patterson carpet-bagger Senator from South Carolina who believes there are five years of good stealing yet left in that State.

H. H. Wells, Jr. carpet-bagger, hailing from Virginia but living in Washington, [illegible] Governor and Assistant District Attorney in place of Fisher indicted.

S. B. Elkins head of New Mexican Ring and general jobber.

This list might be extended, but the foregoing names illustrate the beautiful reforms and sterling principles of the party of which they are conspicuous chiefs. The presidential campaign is to be conducted under their auspices, and the country will know what to expect when addressed from the peculiar plane which they occupy. Gov. Morgan of this State and Gov. Claflin of Massachusetts must have felt comfortable in sitting at the same table with these associates after leaving their pocketbooks at home. Senator Morton had no compunctious visitings about the company into which he was thrown, since politics makes strange bed fellows. Besides he wanted to use these fellows and he did much for poor Blaine's discomfiture.

I was reading the other day of a pine cut by somebody that was some twelve or more feet through, and when fell was found to be 180 feet with some 20 or 30 feet broken off previously. I will tell you of a pine tree that grew in the north part of Saratoga County, York State, from which was cut 17 16 foot logs.—This was told me by my Father, who had something to do with the cutting or sawing the logs.

That is a tall yarn says one as he reads of the tree that made a 17 16 foot logs. Not a tall yarn after all, you shall see they grew to about twenty feet to height and there branches into four branches and each branch cut four logs, and the but one making 17 logs, it was not a tall tree after all.

WM. MALLORY.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1876.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

[illegible] bank robbery are to the effect that the total amount of funds taken is at least $1,000,000, the half of which is negotiable.

FOUR men while filling a lime kiln at Columbia, Pa., one day last week, were overcome by gas and fell into the pit. Only one was rescued alive.... Among the failures reported from the East are Pforzheimer, Dreyfus & [illegible], of New York, [illegible], $114,000; John H. Locke, of Leominster, Mass., liabilities, $65,000; and Patrick Donahue, a [illegible] [illegible], [illegible], $800,000.... The village of Greenpoint, a suburb of Brooklyn, is agitated by a murder of unusual atrocity. A man named Simmons, a blacksmith, in a [illegible] disappeared suddenly and mysteriously. The next day the head of the missing man was found in a ship-yard, wrapped up in a newspaper. Suspicion attached to a man named Kretz, at whose house Simmons had been visiting. They found in the house a trunk locked and corded together so tightly that it was opened with great difficulty. In this they found packed the arms and legs of the murdered victim, and in a boiler they found the trunk of the body, skinned and cut up. The entrails had been removed and quicklime put inside, so as to cause speedy decomposition. Kretz then confessed to the murder, and said he had done it because he had found the victim in criminal intercourse with his wife. Mrs. Kretz, however, denies this, and says that her husband committed the horrible crime for the purpose of robbery; that he first stupefied his victim with liquor and then chopped his head off with a hatchet.

THE residence of David M. Skidmore, near Deer Park, Long Island, N. Y., was destroyed by fire the other night, and all the occupants—Mr. Skidmore, Fleetwecks, an old man who had lived with Skidmore many years, Mrs. Titus, the housekeeper, and her husband—were burned to death.

THE shocking murder of Simmons, in Brooklyn, N. Y., is made more revolting, if possible, by the discovery of the missing portions of his body in the swamps on the outskirts of that city, where they were placed by the murderer Kretz, and by him pointed out to the police authorities.... The town of East Lyndon, Me., was the other day the scene of an unparalleled tragedy. Silas Wilder, a resident of that town, killed his father and mother with an ax, and then cut his wife's throat. He then hung himself.

NEW YORK and vicinity had a terrific gale on the morning of the 2d inst., prostrating chimneys, church steeples, telegraph wires, etc.... The dispute over ten shares of the stock of the New York Times, included in the estate of the late James B. Taylor, has been settled by George Jones purchasing the entire ten shares for $150,000. The stock of the Times is now divided as follows: George Jones, 51 shares; E. Morgan, 40—and Mr. Jennings, the editor, 9 shares.

THE gale of the 2d inst., in the Atlantic States and along the sea-coast, was one of the severest experienced there for a long time. Much damage was done to buildings and other property. The storm extended from Canada to the Carolinas.... While clearing snow from the Midland (N. Y.) Railroad, one day last week, the plow left the track, and crashing into the bridge over the Willimantic River, smashed it down, and the bridge, plow and engine tumbled into the stream, together with nine men on the plow and in the cab. Those on the plow were all more or less bruised and cut, while those in the cab, in addition to other wounds, were severely scalded, one or two fatally.

THE WEST.

THE Ohio Legislature has repealed the celebrated Geghan law, about which there was so much [illegible] last summer.

OHIO proposes, through the Legislature, to make habitual drunkenness for one year a good ground for divorce.... Another boy supposed to be Charley Ross has turned up at Tiffin, Ohio.... Much damage has been caused along the borders of the Ohio River by the recent heavy floods in that stream.

THE trial of William McKee, senior proprietor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, on the charge of complicity in the enormous whisky frauds, has resulted in his conviction. The result was wholly unexpected by McKee and his friends, who had calculated confidently upon a verdict of acquittal.... Four notorious desperadoes and dealers in illicit horseflesh, named Gov. Hutchinson, and Jack and Ed. Comstock, were recently hung by vigilants in Brooks County, Kansas.... Ben De Bar, the popular manager of the St. Louis Opera House, is now making a tour of the country, giving to the public a series of representations not brought out since the death of the lamented Hackett. De Bar's characterization of the "fat knight" (Falstaff) in Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor" and "King Henry IV." is witnessed nightly by crowded houses at McVicker's Chicago Theater the present week. The impudent, witty, lying, blustering, affectionate, cowardly, [illegible] humored Jack Falstaff is portrayed as Shakespeare intended he should be—[illegible] unction that laughter spreads all over the house like a contagion.

FIFTEEN convicted members of the Indiana whisky ring defrauders of the revenue were last week sentenced in the United States Court at Indianapolis—eight of them to two years in the Penitentiary and each to pay $1,000 fine; one to three years in the Penitentiary and to pay $1,000 fine; one to one year in jail and to pay $1,000; and five to six months in jail and to pay $500 each.

CONSTANTINE MAGUIRE, late Internal Revenue Collector at St. Louis, indicted in connection with the whisky frauds, has confessed his guilt, and now, with Avery, McDonald and McKee, and several distillers, awaits sentence.... The first stage of F. D. Yates & Co.'s semi-weekly direct line between Cheyenne and Custer City via Fort Laramie and Red Cloud, carrying the United States mail, left Cheyenne on the 20th inst.... It is reported that Secretary Bristow will shortly turn his attention to the manufacturers and dealers in illicit beer and tobacco at St. Louis. It is believed his prod will reveal a perfect bonanza of rascality.

GENERAL.

THE Japanese Commissioners to our National Centennial—five distinguished representatives—arrived at San Francisco last week.

THE nomination of W. P. Ross as Agent for the five civilized tribes of the Indian Territory, is heartily indorsed by the people of the Indian Nation. Ross was formerly Chief of the Cherokees, and is a half-breed Indian.

A WASHINGTON dispatch to the Chicago Tribune says: "There are rumors of new and extraordinary developments in the whisky business at Chicago, Milwaukee and other Western cities. It is said that additional suspected persons will be presented by the grand juries. Some of the persons are ex-officials of the Government. A very great effort is now making here to prevent the further developments that are anticipated, but it seems certain that these efforts will fail. The Government is in full possession of all the evidence, and it is said, in inner circles, that the [illegible] will soon fall."

WASHINGTON.

[illegible], ex-Representative in Congress from Connecticut, died in Washington last week, aged 59.

T. M. VAIL, of Iowa, succeeds Col. George S. Bangs as Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service.... Mr. Morrison, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, has introduced a Tariff bill in the House. It reduces the duty on all staple articles—woolen, iron, and the [illegible] of common consumption—from [illegible] to 25 per cent. It restores the duty on tea and coffee to the old rates—5 cents per pound for [illegible] 10 [illegible].... According to the monthly report of the [illegible] the public debt of the United States was cut down $1,590,1[illegible] during January. According to the official statement:

Six per cent bonds	$1,012,791,800
Five per cent bonds	687,884,750
Total coin bonds	$1,700,666,600
Lawful money debt	$14,000,000
Matured debt	[illegible]
Legal tenders	371,341,607
Certificates of deposit	40,600,000
Fractional currency	45,861,283
Coin certificates	34,604,400
[illegible]
Total debt	[illegible]
Total interest	[illegible]
Cash in Treasury:
Coin	$72,601,361
Currency	11,999,589
Special deposits held for redemption of certificates of deposit	40,600,000
Total in Treasury	[illegible]
Debt less cash in the Treasury	[illegible]
Decrease of debt during January	$1,590,[illegible]
Decrease since June 30, 1875	[illegible]
Bonds issued to the Pacific Railway Companies, interest payable in lawful money; principal outstanding	$64,623,512
Interest accrued and not yet paid	323,117
Interest paid by the United States	30,141,620
Interest repaid by transportation of mails, etc.	6,060,063
Balance of interest paid by United States	23,672,479

THE Secretary of War has given assurance to the House Special Committee on the Troubles Along the Rio Grande that he will order additional troops to Texas.... The internal revenue receipts for January were $8,833,571. The total receipts from that source for the seven months ending Feb. 1 were $66,671,673, which is an increase of nearly $5,000,000 over the amount received during the corresponding period of last year. The reported receipts of customs for January were $11,077,874. This is an increase over the receipts for December of $2,126,280, and over November of nearly $500,000. The total amount received from customs for the seven months is $87,255,871.... The House Committee on War Claims has 600 bills before it, aggregating $20,000,000.... Cold comfort for parties urging claims on account of Indian depredations is afforded by Prof. Seelye, of Massachusetts, who has been successful in securing the adoption by the House Committee on Indian Affairs of a resolution which excludes all claims of this character except in cases where treaty stipulations render the Government responsible.

THE House Appropriation Committee have completed the Fortification Appropriation bill, and reduced the amount from about $1,000,000 to $315,000. The committee decided that it was unwise to appropriate a sum larger than was actually necessary to keep the fortifications and their armaments in a good state of preservation.... It is stated that a majority of the House Committee on Banking and Currency are in favor of the repeal of the Specie-Resumption act passed at the last session.... The House Committee on Foreign Affairs report to the House that there are now in the Empire of Germany between ten and eleven thousand Germans who, at an anterior stage of their existence, have lived five years in America, secured the rights of American citizenship, and now live nearly scot-free of obligations to any Government.

POLITICAL.

SOUTHERN Republicans of prominence, now in Washington, say that there is a movement on foot in the South to send delegations to the National Convention in favor of Bristow for President and Jewell for Vice-President.

MONTGOMERY BLAIR is out with an open letter on the suffrage question, in which he pronounces the ballot a failure, and declares that open voting is alone secure against fraud.... Speaker Kerr, in a letter to J. H. Reall, of Philadelphia, says it is not his desire that his name shall be used in any connection with the Democratic national ticket, and expresses a decided preference for Gov. Hendricks as a candidate for President.... It is believed that the Mississippi Legislature will impeach and remove from office Lieut. Gov. Davis and Superintendent of Education Cordoza, both colored. It is said the impeachment of Gov. Ames is not probable, as conviction is regarded as uncertain.... John S. Burdett, Treasurer of West Virginia, has been impeached by the Legislature, tried, found guilty, and removed from office. The impeachment trial of E. A. Bennett, State Auditor, is now in progress.... The Kentucky Legislature has, by a note of 25 to 26, instructed the Senators and requested the Representatives in Congress from that State to vote for the Texas Pacific Railroad subsidy.

THE President has made the following appointments: Charles R. Gill, of Wisconsin, to be Commissioner of Pensions, vice Henry M. Atkinson, appointed Surveyor-General of New Mexico; Frederick Morley, of Michigan, to be Consul-General at Cairo, Egypt; William F. Ross, of the Indian Territory, to be Agent for the consolidated agencies of the Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw, Chickasaw and Seminole Indians.

A LARGE number of the Republican journals of Kansas have declared in favor of James G. Blaine as the Republican candidate for President.... The Republicans of Pennsylvania will hold their State Convention March 29.... The Connecticut Republican Convention is called for Feb. 2[illegible].

A WASHINGTON telegram says: "The Senate Appropriation Committee will take up the Military Academy bill on Tuesday next. A majority of the committee hold to the view that as the Government is administered by Republicans, and as they are held responsible for the manner in which its affairs are administered, they should not permit the Democrats to decide as to the amount necessary to run it. The committee will cut off all unnecessary expenses, and reduce the clerical force in the departments fully 20 per cent., but will not favor the sweeping reduction contemplated by the Democratic House.".... Gen. Sherman has added his contribution to the Presidential literature of the day. He declares emphatically that he is not a candidate for the White House, expresses a preference for Gov. Hayes, says his family are strong Catholics but he is not, [illegible] in common schools, etc.

FOREIGN.

THERE has been some severe fighting between the Turks and Herzegovinians near Trebigne, resulting, the cable reports, in favor of the former.... A Paris dispatch informs us that M. Brossel, Bonapartist, has been sentenced, under the provisions of the new Press law, to a fine and imprisonment for distributing, without proper authorization, invitations to a mass for the late Emperor. And yet France claims to be a Republic.... Advices from Panama report that war is imminent between Guatemala and San Salvador.... Austria talks of reducing her army.

CASTELAR has been elected to the Spanish Cortes.... There has been some severe fighting between the Carlists and Alfonsists near San Sebastian, Spain, without decisive advantage on either side.... Francis Deak, the eminent Hungarian statesman, is dead.... A revolution has broken out in Hayti.... The Cuban insurgents are unusually active.... A dispatch from Berlin says there is great agitation in Posen over the proposed law to make the use of the German language compulsory in the public offices and courts of law.

THE political constitution of the French Senate is stated as follows: Monarchists, 65 [illegible]; Republicans, 42; Republicans, [illegible]; and "Monarchists and Imperialists" (so described), 45. Among the Senators elected are ex-President Thiers, Victor Hugo, Peyrat, Jules Favre, and Leon Say. Buffet, Chief of the Cabinet and Minister of the Interior, and Dufaure, Minister of Justice, were defeated.

THE Chinese Government has decided to take its place at the approaching industrial exhibition at Philadelphia.... The Scottish [illegible] [illegible] challenge for the championship of the world.

JOHN FORSTER, the [illegible] of England, and author of the "Life of Charles Dickens," is dead.... London now has a huge defalcation sensation, William [illegible], the head of a bankrupt soliciting firm, having used up [illegible],000 of his customers' money.

OXFORD has decided not to accept the challenge of the American Inter-Collegiate Rowing Association to row in the latter part of July at Saratoga. The invitation is declined on the ground that the date fixed comes too near the Henley annual amateur regatta.... Many Spanish families are fleeing to France to escape the [illegible].... Mt. [illegible] [illegible].... Advices from the Cape of Good Hope report that the Zambesi mission has succeeded in placing a steamer on Lake Nyassa. Seven hundred natives were employed to carry the vessel [illegible].

LITTLE SERVIA is arming, and her people manifest eagerness for the fray with Turkey.... German Catholics are jubilant over the [illegible] Cardinal [illegible] sentence [illegible] on the [illegible] Rome. [illegible] vote [illegible] of slavery in the Island of St. Thomas and the Gulf of [illegible].

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

FRIDAY, Jan. 28.—Senate.—The Committee on Privileges and Elections reported that no vacancy existed in the office of Senator from Louisiana, Pinchback having been elected [illegible] to 1st January, 1870, and recommended that the papers of Eustis, the Democratic claimant, be laid over.... Logan introduced a bill to establish a mint at Chicago.... A large portion of the session was consumed in discussing the bill to pay the interest on the 3.65 District of Columbia bonds.

House.—The House spent another day upon the Military Academy bill without reaching a vote.... The Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill was reported from the committee and made the special order for Wednesday.... Barnum offered resolutions for the appointment of a committee of seven to take order for superintending the funeral of H. H. Starkweather, late member from Connecticut, who died in Washington this morning. Agreed to.

SATURDAY, Jan. 29.—Senate.—Not in session.

House.—The House met for debate only, no business being transacted. Schleicher (Texas), Ward (N. Y.), and Campbell (Ill.) aired their views upon the financial problem, and Mills (Texas) spoke against a protective tariff.

MONDAY, Jan. 31.—Senate.—Wright submitted a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, so as to elect President and Vice-President by the direct vote of the people. Also a joint resolution, proposing an amendment to the Constitution, so as to elect United States Senators by a direct vote of the people of the United States.... Another day was spent by the Senate in debating the resolution to pay interest on the 3.65 District of Columbia bonds.

House.—The West Point Appropriation bill was finally passed. It fixes the pay of cadets at $540 per annum, without rations.... Resolutions were adopted which will probably result in four new investigations—first, into the management of the District of Columbia by the new Commissioners; second, an inquiry as to the amount of cash in any form in the hands of the Government, Jan. 25; third, inquiry into the relations of all the Pacific and land-grant railroads to the Government, with a view of discovering whether or not their charters may be declared forfeited; fourth, an inquiry by the Banking and Currency Committee into the advisability of substituting greenbacks for legal tenders.... Under a call of the States a large number of bills were introduced, including the following: By Willis, for the reconstruction of all tariff and collection laws; also, for the abolition of prize money; by Monroe, to establish an educational fund and to apply a portion of the proceeds of the public lands to public education; by Fort, to forbid Territories incurring indebtedness in aid of railroad or other private corporations; also, to prevent useless slaughter of buffaloes; by Stone, organizing a National Railway Company for the purpose of constructing a double track, cheap freight railway from the Atlantic seaboard to St. Louis, Chicago and Council Bluffs.

TUESDAY, Feb. 1.—Senate.—The joint resolution proposing a common unit of money and accounts between the United States and Great Britain was passed.... Oglesby presented a petition of citizens of Illinois asking the repeal of the Specie Resumption act, and the substitution of legal tender for national bank circulation, etc.... A large portion of the session was devoted to the consideration of the District of Columbia Finance bill.

House.—The House was engaged nearly the whole day in debating the bill reported from the Judiciary Committee limiting the Presidency to one term.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 2.—Senate.—The Senate consumed the larger part of the day in debating the bill to pay the interest on the District 3.65 bonds.

House.—The bill to sell the Kansas Indian lands to actual settlers was passed.... The Judiciary Committee reported unanimously the bill to reorganize the Judiciary of the United States.... The House resumed its discussion of the proposed amendment to the Constitution limiting the President to one term, and finally reached a vote on the measure. It was defeated by a vote of 144 to 106 nays—not two-thirds.

THURSDAY, Feb. 3.—Senate.—The Senate devoted another day to the District of Columbia 3.65 Bond bill, and finally passed it.... Hitchcock submitted a resolution instructing the Committee on the District of Columbia to inquire into the expediency of providing a proper form of government for the District of Columbia, and report by bill or otherwise. Agreed to.

House.—Glover introduced a resolution calling on the Attorney-General for the letters and papers asking for the removal of Judge Belford, of Colorado.... A bill reported by Williams (Ind.), the Chairman of the Committee on Accounts, for the payment of disabled Union soldiers on the rolls of the House, led to considerable discussion as to whether there were so many Union soldiers now on the rolls, Fort undertaking to deny that there were, and Holman and Williams (Ind.) maintaining the contrary. Finally the bill was passed.... Hunton, from the Judiciary Committee, reported back, adversely, the bill to provide that the heads of executive departments may occupy seats on the floor of the House. Laid on the table.... Banning reported from the Military Committee a bill to regulate pay and allowances of army officers, which was ordered printed and referred back to the committee. The alterations are as follows: General of the Army, $10,000 instead of $13,500; Lieutenant-General, $8,000 instead of $11,000; Major-Generals to receive the present pay, namely, $7,500, but the pay of Brigadier-General is reduced to $5,000 instead of $5,500. Chaplain's pay is reduced from $1,500 to $1,000 a year. The salaries of all other officers remain as now established by law.... Kasson introduced a bill to encourage the conduct of commerce in vessels owned by citizens of the United States.... The House devoted considerable time to the consideration of the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill.... The Speaker laid before the House a message from the President returning the bill transferring the custody of certain Indian trust funds from the Interior to the Treasury Department.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Centennial Bill in the House—An Imbroglio Between Two Important Committees—The Military Academy Appropriation Bill—An Act of National Good Faith—Slow Work by Committees—Personal.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 29, 1876.

WHEN the report of the special committee on the Centennial was made to the House, and was unanimous for an appropriation of $1,500,000, it was supposed, as I stated at the time, that the bill would go through with a hurrah. But before it came up, the amnesty debate had occurred, and had aroused partisan and sectional feelings to such an extent that hand-clasping and love-making were not so much in vogue as they had been. The Centennial bill suffered much in consequence. Conciliatory speeches by Banks, of the North, and Lamar, of the South, had a great deal to do with the final success of the bill in the House. Its passage in the Senate is not at this time doubted. Party lines were disregarded in the vote on the bill, but a majority of the Republicans voted for it, and a majority of the Democrats against it. It is a noticeable fact that the [illegible] great States of the Northwest bordering on Lake Michigan—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin—gave only 12 votes for the Centennial appropriation to [illegible] against it. "If you [illegible] New York," [illegible] a popular writer once, "you will find a Commonwealth." [illegible] majority of the members from these Lake States thought they saw a little stock-gambling job under the Centennial bill, and so went against it.

A COMMITTEE IMBROGLIO.

The situation of the Committees on Appropriations and on Foreign Affairs toward each other anent the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill may be said to make a very pretty quarrel as it stands. The Appropriations Committee proposes to very considerably, quite [illegible] in fact, cut down the salaries and expenses generally of our Consular and diplomatic establishment. The Committee on Foreign Relations is opposed to any such sweeping and indiscriminate [illegible] by Mr. Randall's committee. And there is an intimation that in consequence [illegible] probably result in [illegible] and recriminations [illegible] of the conduct of our affairs abroad, and a lively time all around.

The truth is, there is a wide diversity of opinion among men of all parties, in and out of Congress, in respect to our diplomatic establishment. There are those who assert that it is a supernumerary concern anyhow, and ought to be totally abolished; that diplomacy originated in the cowardice and falsehood of the Italians in the time of Machaevelli, and from that time to this has done constant credit to its ignominious origin. On the other hand, [illegible] say it is a necessity of modern civilization, an aid in the cause of universal peace among nations, and that its representatives ought to be maintained in dignity and honor. Between these extreme views on the subject there are others claiming that a diplomatic establishment is indeed a necessity, but that American representatives abroad ought to maintain their respective offices not only with dignity but in a style of republican simplicity and economy. The advocates of these and other views will probably take advantage of the pending imbroglio between the committees to air their opinions on the floor. Let us hope the anticipated debate will be as instructive as it is expected to be animated.

THE WEST POINT APPROPRIATION BILL.

The appropriation bill for the support of the Military Academy, as reported by the Appropriation Committee, cuts down the salaries of professors, the pay of cadets, and economizes in other respects, so that the estimates of the War Department are reduced about one half. There is much opposition to these proposed sweeping changes, and some of them will probably be modified before the final passage of the bill. There used to be a strong feeling against West Point in Congress, but it has not manifested itself for a long time till now. Men are curious to see whether the old state of feeling will be revived by this discussion.

AN ACT OF NATIONAL GOOD FAITH.

I must regard the passage of the bill providing ways and means for the payment of the February interest on the 3.65 bonds of the District of Columbia as an act of national good faith. The Senate, at this writing, has amended the bill, but not in any way so as to endanger concurrence by the House. Indeed it will have passed, most likely, before this epistle shall be deposited in the mails. The success of the measure is a gratifying guaranty of the maintenance of our public credit by either political party of the country.

SLOW COMMITTEES.

The most of the committees of the House may be said to be extravagantly slow in preparing their work for action on the floor. It is no ground of just criticism that but few bills have yet been acted on by the House. On account of the long debates which have occurred this has been impossible, even if there were no other satisfactory reasons for such a situation. But it is astonishing that the committees have done so little. We have had about two months of session, and not more than eight or ten reports, on matters of general interest, from all the committees put together. This is due to the inexperience of so many new members and of so many new clerks to committees. But I submit that the delay has now been long enough to allow both committeemen and clerks to be reasonably well posted in their duties, and that palpable results ought to be speedily forthcoming. And from various indications I am inclined to think they will be.

Nevertheless, the session will probably be unusually long. This not only because of the delays which have already occurred, but because, it being a Presidential year, men of all parties will be anxious to make up as full a record as possible for political purposes. Moreover, the House being Democratic and the Senate Republican, there is no telling how often there may be a "dead-lock" between the two branches, nor how long a dead-lock may last. So it is not unlikely the session may be protracted to the middle of July or first of August, possibly to the latter part of August. Nothing can prevent this if the committees do not very soon get into a much livelier gait than they have as [illegible] to strike.

THE long-sought-for Planchas de la Plata Mine, worked a century or two ago by the early Spanish explorers, has been found about ninety miles southeast of [illegible], Cal., near the Sonora line. This is the mine which Spanish history says yielded pure silver in such large pieces that the Government confiscated it for the use of the crown. The mine has been promptly secured by Gov. Sanford.

EX-GOV. [illegible], of New York, has nothing to say to interviewers when political topics are broached, but he waxes eloquent on the subject of fish. He is [illegible] State Fish Commissioner, and [illegible] to render every [illegible] in the State alive with brook trout.

A CLERGYMAN of Passaic, N. J., has made a public statement to the effect that he is without the necessaries of life.

PASSING EVENTS.

HEREAFTER the United States Senate is to be allowed only three bouquets per day from the Government garden, and the House of Representatives [illegible].

THE Military Committee of the House are said to be strongly opposed to any reduction of the army, but will probably recommend some curtailing of the retired list.

THE Iowa House of Representatives have passed a bill requiring that all conditions of insurance policies shall be printed in type not smaller than "long primer," and that the use of smaller type shall vitiate the policies.

CANADIAN poultry, as well as Canadian meat, has been successfully shipped to England and meets with a ready sale. A lot of turkeys of nearly four tons has been disposed of readily at Bristol, and the business next year will attain large proportions.

THE Bessemer saloon steamer, which proved an utter failure, has been sold at a heavy loss by the company that owned it, and is undergoing the change necessary to its conversion to the use of a great floating bath, some distance down the Thames, in England.

JONATHAN P. CILLEY, son of the Cilley killed in the famous duel with Graves, has been elected Adjutant-General of Maine. He served with the First Maine Cavalry through the war, was repeatedly and severely wounded, and was breveted Brigadier-General for gallantry on the field.

MARK TAYLOR, a young negro at Sedalia, Mo., has gone mad and believes himself to be the Savior. In his paroxysms he recites whole chapters and even books of the Bible without missing a word, a feat all the more remarkable because he cannot read and was always a vicious boy.

MR. SARGENT, of California, has presented to the Senate a petition signed by a large number of ladies asking that a Government be established in the District of Columbia which shall confer upon women the right of suffrage. Mr. Sargent is in favor of making such an experiment in the District.

THE House Committee on Appropriations, at a recent meeting, decided to reduce the pay of members from $5,000 to $4,500 per annum, struck out the appropriation for seven clerks of the House, and proposed to make a general reduction of ten per cent. in the salaries of all civil Government employes.

THE great newspaper man, George P. Rowell, has been authorized to construct a building upon the Centennial grounds for the exhibition of files of American newspapers. If carried out on the plan proposed, it will be an extensive building, sufficient not only to exhibit files of 8,000 publications, but arranged to serve as a journalists' headquarters, with desks and the requisites for a gigantic reading-room.

The Viceroy of Egypt himself sends, practically, the whole of the contribution of that ancient country to our Centennial fair, and it has already arrived. It comprises 6,000 articles, and will be one of the finest and most interesting national displays in the exhibition. No pyramids are sent, but all the products of the Nile-land and much antique and oriental "bigotry," together with some very bright men.

THE Canadian, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia papers are discussing the project of building a canal to connect the Gulf of St. Lawrence with the Bay of Fundy, and thereby shorten the ocean route from Montreal to New York by 500 miles, by means of which Western grain can be delivered in Boston or New York considerably quicker than by the present route. The route is through the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Bay of Fundy.

THE Grand Jury now in session at Washington seems to be cutting a pretty wide swath through ex-Secretary Richardson's employes. It is reported to have indicted ex-Senator an ex-Assistant Treasurer Sawyer, ex-Commissioner of Customs Haines, and W. H. Barstow, who was a clerk under Haines. This action has been taken after consideration of the circumstances of the payment of what is known as the swindling Parkman-Brooks cotton claim.

THE curious and interesting project has just been started in Philadelphia of reproducing a complete file of the Pennsylvania Journal of a hundred years ago. The first number, that of Jan. 3, 1776, was accordingly issued on Jan. 3, 1876, under the process of photography, which a century ago our fathers knew nothing of. The first, second, seventh and eighth pages form the fac-simile of this ancient paper, while the others, in modern style of typography, constitute the Pennsylvania Journal for 1876.

GEN. O. O. HOWARD, who recently returned from a visit to Alaska, has made an official report to the Government, in which he recommends that the Territory be made a county of Oregon. He refers to the charges against the Alaska Commercial Company, and says a citizen of standing on the Pacific coast writes him that the company are making millions of dollars; that their operations are concealed as much as possible; that vastly greater numbers of seals are killed annually than their agreement allows, and that large amounts of "hush money" are paid to keep the matter quiet.

P. T. BARNUM has collected materials for a show which will surpass all his previous efforts. He bought in at the recent Bridgeport sale the best parts of his old hippodrome, including the hippopotamus; and he has become owner of several circuses and menageries, which he proposes to unite with his own. He has also a new and beautiful name,—"Academy of Object Teaching"—which will not be the least of his attractions. For the transportation of all the material Mr. Barnum says 120 cars will be required. There will be used in the show 1,100 men and women, 560 horses and ponies, and 62 cages of wild animals.

THE Sultan of Turkey, who although on general principles is not, strictly speaking, well up in the mysteries of finance, has yet an inborn respect for the science of numbers which reflects not a little to his credit as a preferred creditor. It will be remembered that the Ottoman Government recently, in consideration of the low state of its revenues and the bulky condition of its monetary obligations, decided to issue coupons for the payment of one-half the interest on its debt, the payment of the remainder to be deferred indefinitely. English holders of Turkish promises to pay granted [illegible], and it appears that the Sultan was not willing that the Government should apply to himself. It is now stated that his Imperial Majesty, who is interested to the extent of $8,000,000 in the national indebtedness, must needs retain the full amount of the interest thereon in order that the dignity of his peculiar surroundings may not suffer for lack of funds.

The Homestead Act.

Senator Ingalls' bill to confirm pre-emption and homestead entries of public lands within the limits of railway grants has passed the United States Senate by an overwhelming vote, there being to oppose it only a few gentlemen from the Atlantic States, who know nothing about homestead matters and who represent railway corporations, to whom the measure is obnoxious. The bill will in all probability become a law. It is a very important one to frontier settlers, and reads as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all pre-emption and homestead entries in compliance with any law of the United States, made in good faith by actual settlers on tracts of land of not more than 160 acres each, within the limits of any land grant, prior to the time when notice of withdrawl of lands embraced in such grant was received at the local land office of the district in which such lands are situated, or after their restoration to market by order of the General Land Office, and where pre-emption and homestead laws have been complied with and proper proofs thereof have been made by parties holding such tracts or parcels, they shall be confirmed, and patents for the same shall issue to the parties entitled thereto.

SEC. 2. That when at the time of such withdrawal as aforesaid, valid pre-emption or homestead claims existed upon any lands within the limits of any such grants, which afterward were abandoned, and under decisions and rulings of the Land Department were re-entered by pre-emption or homestead claimants who have complied with the laws governing pre-emption or homestead entries, or shall make the proper proofs required under such laws, such entries shall be deemed valid, and patents shall issue therefor to the person entitled thereto.

SEC. 3. That all such pre-emption entries, and which may have been made by permission of the Land Department, or in pursuance of rules and instructions thereof, within the limit of any land grant, at a time subsequent to the expiration of such grant, or when the grantee was in default in the performance of any of the conditions imposed by such grant, shall be deemed valid, and a compliance with the laws and making of the proof required shall entitle the holder of such claim to a patent therefore.

A Novel Device—Locomotive Sidewalk.

One of the most singular objects to be displayed at the Centennial Exhibition, says the New York Tribune, will be a section of traveling sidewalk, an American invention for solving the problem of rapid transit in cities. This traveling sidewalk, as it is generally called, but more properly an endless railway train, will be half a mile in length, operated by stationary engines, and run at a speed of from fifteen to twenty miles an hour. The transfer seats and all other appliances will be of the same size as those intended for general use, by which means passengers may get on or off the train with ease and safety without slacking the speed of the train. A company is organizing in this city with a capital of $100,000 for the purpose of displaying this unique machine. Among its corporators are Peter Cooper, George Hoffman, Samuel G. Courtney, Capt. Spencer, and R. A. Terhune. The whole work is expected to cost about $75,000, and will be operated for exhibition, with a charge to those who ride upon it. This novel mode of traveling has attracted much attention of late, and charters for putting it into practice in New York city were twice passed by both branches of the Legislature, but vetoed by Gov. Dix as being an experiment. It is the purpose of the company, after the close of the exhibition, to transport the road and exhibit it in London and Paris and other cities.

THE only two persons living who never heard of Puck's boast that he would put a girdle round the earth in forty minutes are a compositor and proof reader on the Rochester Democrat, who charge the saying to the account of one Peck.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

Beeves	10	@	13
Hogs—Dressed	8	@	9
Cotton	13½	@	14½
Flour—Superfine Western	5 10	@	5 40
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 16	@	1 18
Corn	62	@	63
Oats	49	@	51
Rye	85	@	90
Pork—New Mess	21 00	@	21 25
Lard—Steam	12	@	13

CHICAGO.

Beeves—Choice Graded Steers	5 75	@	6 00
Choice Natives	5 25	@	5 70
Cows and Heifers	2 50	@	4 00
Good Second-class Steers	4 50	@	5 00
Medium to Fair	3 75	@	4 25
Inferior to Common	2 75	@	4 50
Hogs—Live	7 00	@	7 25
Flour—Fancy White Winter	7 00	@	7 50
Good to choice spring ex.	5 00	@	5 50
Wheat—No. 1 Spring	1 08	@	1 09
No. 2 Spring	99	@	1 00
No. 3 Spring	77	@	72
Corn—No. 2	40	@	41
Oats—No. 2	31	@	32
Rye—No. 2	67	@	69
Barley—No. 2	77	@	78
Butter—Fancy	28	@	32
Eggs—Fresh	16	@	17
Pork—Mess	19 50	@	19 75
Lard	12½	@	13½

DETROIT.

Flour—Choice White	6 25	@	6 50
Ambers	5 75	@	6 00
Wheat—Extra	1 30	@	1 40
No. 1 White	1 26	@	1 27
No. 2 White	1 16	@	1 17
Amber	1 27	@	1 29
Corn	45	@	50
Oats—No. 2	35	@	37
Rye—No. 2	65	@	70
Barley—No. 2	1 80	@	1 85
Butter	18	@	19
Eggs	18	@	19
Pork—Mess	19 50	@	[illegible] 00
Lard	13½	[illegible]	13½
Cattle	3 75	@	4 75
Hogs	7 25	@	7 50

ST. LOUIS.

Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 49	@	1 50
Corn—No. 2	38	@	40
Oats—No. 2	35	@	38
Rye—No. 2	60	@	69
Pork—Mess	19 50	@	20 00
Lard	11	@	12
Hogs	6 50	@	7 25
Cattle	3 50	@	4 75

MILWAUKEE.

Wheat—No. 1	1 07	@	1 10
No. 2	1 03	@	1 05
Corn—No. 2	43	@	45
Oats—No. 2	32	@	34
Rye—No. 1	[illegible]	@	62
Barley—No. 2	[illegible]	@	93

CINCINNATI.

Wheat—New	1 [illegible]	@	1 36
Corn	40	@	42
Oats	35	@	42
Rye	78	@	80
Pork—Mess	19 75	@	20 00
Lard	[illegible]	@	13½

TOLEDO.

Wheat—Extra	1 39	@	1 40
Amber	1 35	@	1 36
Corn	45	@	47
Oats	35	@	37

EAST LIBERTY, PA.

Hogs—Yorkers	7 60	@	7 90
[illegible]	[illegible]	@	[illegible]
Cattle—Best	6 00	@	6 75
Medium	4 50	@	5 25
Sheep—Medium	4 00	@	5 00
Best	5 25	@	6 00

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAIN, Publisher.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

"My Home, I Love Thee!"

There is a spot of earth supremely blest,
A dearer, sweeter spot than all the rest,
Where man, creation's tyrant, casts aside
His sword and sceptre, pageantry and pride,
While in his softened looks benignly blend
The sire, the son, the husband, brother, friend;
Here woman reigns; the mother, daughter, wife,
Strews with fresh flowers the narrow way of life!
In the clear heaven of her delightful eye
An angel-guard of loves and graces lie;
Around her knees domestic duties meet,
And fireside pleasures gambol at her feet.
Where shall that land, that spot of earth be found?
Art thou a man? a patriot? look around;
And thou shalt find, howe'er thy footsteps roam,
That land thy country, and that spot thy home!
—James Montgomery.

Around the Farm.

Corn should not follow buckwheat.

It is estimated that the people of Nebraska planted 13,000,000 trees last year.

Samuel Wilson, of Knox County, Mo., raised 2,380 bushels of corn from thirty-three acres.

A writer in the Country Gentleman states that the presence of black walnut trees in an orchard is sure to kill apple trees. The effect of a small walnut tree on a large apple tree is small at first, but it will show itself after a little and death will be the result.

After filing a saw, place it on a level board and pass a whetstone over the side of the teeth until all the wire edge is off them. This will make the saw cut true and smooth, and will remain sharp longer. The saw must be set true with a saw set.—Scientific American.

Thomas Meehan lays down the following rule: The proper distance to sow or plant anything is so that the roots of the plants, whatever they are, should about touch each other when mature. Thus a wheat plant requires for its best development to be about four to six inches from another plant, to have for its own self to occupy about sixteen to thirty-six square inches of surface.

It is a well-known fact that clover has the singular property of being able to extract from the atmosphere, without the aid of manure or stimulants, nitrogen sufficient for its own proper growth and nourishment. The straw and roots of the clover contain a large amount of nitrogen, and these, when plowed down, are therefore as valuable to the next crop sown as a copious supply of guano.

A crumply horn is a good indication in a cow, a full eye another. Her head should be small and short. Avoid a Roman nose, which indicates thin milk and little of it. See that she is dished in the face—sunk between the eyes. Notice that she is what stock men call "a good handler," skin soft and loose like the skin on a dog, deep from the loin to the udder, and a very slim tail. A cow with these marks never fails to be a good milker.

Chicken Cholera.—A rythmic lady correspondent of the Indiana Farmer disposes of the chicken cholera after this fashion:

To farmers all who read this sheet
I send them now a new recipe.
It tells them if they chicken cholera find,
They will do well to bear in mind
That charcoal mixed with onions well
Will clear the flock of cholera's spell.
For forty hens, chop well four quarts
Of onions fine and turn them out
Just where the flock will surely go,
And pure, clean water give them, too.
Take coals on fire and drown them out,
Then on the ground spread them about
Put oats on top, feed once a week,
And free from cholera you will keep.
The onions heal the sick and sore,
And oats and coal forbid it evermore.

We are not without hope that the remedy is better than the poetry.

True Grit.—There is a lady in Fulton County, living near the city of Atlanta, who is running a farm herself; her husband is a Granger, having been an invalid for a long time, and, consequently, unable to assist her. She has made this year, with one horse, 450 bushels of corn, two bales of cotton, 300 bushels of turnips, 90 gallons of syrup and a large crop of sweet and Irish potatoes. She has a fine garden, from which she sells vegetables to the citizens of Atlanta; she sells butter and milk, makes her own fertilizers at home and buys everything for cash. She says that any man who lives on a farm, and buys bacon and corn to feed his family, ought to be chopped up and fed to pigs.—Georgia Grange.

The following directions are given for taking the rust off a plowshare: Take a quart of water and pour slowly into half a pint of sulphuric acid. The mixture will become warm from chemical action; put it on the iron and let it remain there until it evaporates. Then wash it again. The object of this is to give the acid time to dissolve the rust. Now wash with water, and you will see where the worst spots are. Apply some more acid; and rub on those spots with a brick. The acid and the scouring will remove most of the rust. Then wash the mold-board thoroughly with water to remove the acid, and rub it dry. Brush it over with petroleum or other oil and let it be till spring.

As many accidents happen from carelessness in handling teams, I have resolved upon the following as the safest way to handle horses while hitching them to a wagon: Always get the lines undone, and in shape to pick them up any time before hooking the tugs. Some people put up the neck-yoke the first thing, and then hook the tugs before taking down the lines. Then if the team starts they have no control over them whatever. In unhitching, the tugs should be unhooked the first thing. Never throw the lines off, one each side of the team, as you would have no control of them. Let them lay in the wagon till you do them up, when everything will be safe. A little thought in regard to such things might save a sad accident sometimes.—Western Rural.

Here we start again on the round of the new year. Well begun is half done, they say. Let us try it. There is no one thing that makes the right spirit in a town like the prompt payment of all those little bills. Pay as you go, and if you can't do that square up the figures anyhow. That is something toward it. There is a heap of waste when you have a sloven to take care of stock. Feed right and liberally, but don't let any of the fodder go to waste. Sheep like to be free to go in when it storms or stay out. Give them a chance to stay in if they want to and they do all the better for it. If clear and cold they will choose to stay out in the open air. Don't crowd them. Give them a variety of food. They like it. Give pure water and time to drink it. Colts must have a warm place, good hay and some grain. Hens pay better for their cost than any other farm stock if they are treated right. Give them an airy, dry and warm place where they can have the sun and be free from cold, damp drafts of air. They need variety about as much as sheep.—Old Farmers' Almanac.

Smoking in the Barn.—"No smoking" is posted in most decent factories—it ought to be posted in every barn. There is not much difference between having a horse-thief around the stables, and a man cleaning off horses with a pipe in his mouth; and there is no hired man much meaner than the one who, when his employer comes round, slips his pipe into his pocket or holds his hand over it as if it were a little bird. All such fellows should be paid off, or started off, and kept off. As for the farmer himself going into the barn with a pipe in his mouth, no complaint can be made; but if his establishment burns up nobody should cry unless it be the wife and children. Lightning and incendiaries, and spontaneous combustion combined, do not cause as many barns to be burned as the pipe; and generally at least one good horse goes also. It would be much better if the smoker could go up with the smoke, and have smoke enough for once.—Micawber, in New York Tribune.

About the House.

A Pleasing Picture.—Take a pretty, showy picture from any paper, magazine, or book; cut the form all out, and then cut a piece of thick black cloth in a circular or oblong shape; lay your picture in the center (the cloth must be larger than the picture of course), and the whole on a piece of white paper the size of your glass, and you, have a very showy picture.

It is said that water lilies may be raised about one's house by the following method: Sink in the ground the half of an oak cask, and cover the bottom with peat and swamp mud, and then fill with water. Dig the lily roots early in the spring, and place them in the earth at the bottom of the tub. A gentleman who has tried the experiment has a number of lilies in bloom.

Brooms and Sweeping.—If brooms are wet in boiling suds once a week, they will become very tough, will not cut the carpet, last much longer, and always sweep like a new broom. A very dusty carpet may be cleaned by setting a pail of cold water out by the door; wet the broom in it, knock it to get out all the drops, sweep a yard or so, then wash the broom again as before, and sweep again, being careful to shake all the drops off the broom, and not sweep far at a time. The water may need to be changed once or twice if the carpet is very dusty. Snow sprinkled over a carpet and swept off before it has time to melt and dissolve, is also nice for renovating a soiled carpet. Moistened Indian meal is used with good effect by some housekeepers.—Health Reformer.

A Cat's Encounter with a Turtle.

An Indianapolis Maltese cat got to playing with a turtle, and tumbled and tortured the poor thing in the most cruel manner; but at length pussy met with a decided reverse. The News says: "The turtle, by a lucky snap of its jaws, closed upon the tail of the cat, and clung there with the tenacity of a bull pup, while the Maltese, with a horrid yowl and arched spine, danced the liveliest kind of a minuet. The tail swelled to abnormal size, the turtle couldn't let go if he wanted to, and for a few seconds there was a revolution of cat and turtle, and turtle and cat, with 'm-e-o-w-s' and 'spitz-spitz-fitz-fitz,' until the spectators were fain to believe that instead of one turtle and one cat there were six or eight thousand cats. Finally the Maltese was released, and some hours later was seen gravely examining her caudal extremity and evidently wondering 'How was this anyhow' and it was noticeable that when the turtle retraced its steps to the aquarium he had exclusive right of way so far as the cat was concerned.

At one of the stations on the Harlem Railroad, a day or two ago, a very large man failed to secure a ticket before entering the cars. Refusing to pay the additional charge levied by the company or to leave the train, the conductor, aided by two brakemen, undertook to assist him to the door. The passenger offered no resistance, but the three, with their combined efforts, were unable to move him. He finally told the conductor that he had earned his money, and handed over five cents, which was the amount asked.

It really looks as if the shipment of American beef from this country to England is an established business. The Nevada, Wyoming and Dakota, of the Williams & Guion line, have been supplied with refrigerators, and two others are being furnished in Liverpool. The refrigerators are 40 feet long, 28 feet wide, and 9 feet in height. At one side is an ice house, holding forty tons. A blower, run by a steam engine, keeps a current of cold air from the ice-box on the meat.

"What are these convicts lounging around here for?" inquired a visitor to a New York State Prison the other day, noticing several men not at work. "Oh," was the keeper's reply, "they've struck!" This thought leads the New York Tribune, which tells the story, to review at large the mismanagement of the New York prisons, and conclude that if its convicts do not "strike," it is not because they don't have their own way in running the institutions.

The original grave of Gen. Anthony Wayne is believed to have been discovered on Garrison Hill, in Erie, Pa. The remains were removed by his grandson, Col. Isaac Wayne, in 1809, to Waynesborough, Franklin County. The old grave is to be fenced in and suitably marked.

California has upward of 46,000,000 acres of unsurveyed land, 15,000,000 of which could scarcely be sold for $1.20 per acre.

THE PRESIDENCY.

Democratic Probabilities Canvassed.

The "Six Spectators" who sent to the Boston Journal from Washington an estimate of the Republican Presidential prospects, have supplemented that article with a summary of the Democratic field. They find that Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont incline toward Gov. Tilden. Massachusetts is undecided, but may present Gov. Gaston or John Quincy Adams for the second place. Connecticut would like to present Senator English or Senator Eaton. New York will present Gov. Tilden, and will sustain him to the bitter end. "We discover no organized opposition to him, and we assume that he will have the unanimous vote of the State." New Jersey thinks some of naming Senator Randolph, but is strongly in favor of Tilden. Pennsylvania and Maryland are undecided, although the latter leans toward Senator Bayard. Delaware will present Senator Bayard, and if he has a strong support in the South, the New England States will be likely to take him up. Senator Thurman is likely to divide the Ohio delegation, and Hendricks will have a united Indiana delegation, backed by the support of a majority of the Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and Missouri delegates. In summing up the "Spectators" say: "Gov. Hendricks seems to have the best chance for the nomination because he can best compromise the radical differences which divide the Democratic party. If Ohio could unite upon Senator Thurman he would stand about an equal chance. Either of them could obtain more votes in the Convention, from the North and South together, than any other candidate above named. Senator Bayard appears to stand third on the list of probabilities. If well supported at first, he will receive a large support in the South, many scattering votes in the West, and divide the Pacific Coast States with Gov. Tilden. We conclude that Gov. Tilden cannot be nominated, since if he should receive a majority of the votes he would be defeated by the two-thirds rule. The bitter opposition to him in the West and South on the finance question, and because of the dictatorial manners of his supporters, render it almost certain that he cannot receive two-thirds of the Convention. Giving him the whole of New England, New York, New Jersey, and all of the Pacific Coast States, he would have still less than one-third of the Convention. By combining with the Southern States, it might be possible to obtain a majority, but the chances are against even this, and we cannot find the least justification for hope that he could obtain two-thirds, owing to the uncompromising hostility, which would not cease even with his nomination.

Gov. Hayes' Candidacy for the Republican Nomination—The Sherman Letter.

[Washington Cor. Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

It is becoming very apparent that the Sherman letter was the bugle-call for a very active and well-managed movement in favor of Hayes as a Presidential candidate, and it appears that all mention of Hayes was kept out of the recent Republican Committee by a general understanding that he should not be presented as a candidate unless the convention was located in Ohio. The convention was carried there through the influence of Messrs. Morton's and Bristow's supporters, but has been the means of bringing out a formidable rival. There are now in Washington a large number of prominent Ohioans who are carrying on simultaneously and systematically a very active canvass among those who are not supposed as yet to have made any advances with any of the proposed candidates, and from the fact that they spring up everywhere like mushrooms, it is the opinion that the Sherman letter was only waited for as a signal for the Hayes campaign to begin. A rumor is afloat that Blaine is to be cajoled into submitting to a nomination as Vice-President on the Hayes ticket, on the ground that such a combination would be invincible; but Mr. Blaine's friends say he will play second fiddle to no one. The Morton party are very much disturbed, and scarcely see where the new movement is going to leave them.

Charles O'Conor's Remarkable Recovery.

Inquiry in regard to the illness of Charles O'Conor was made on Saturday at Fort Washington, by a reporter of the Evening Post. A great change for the better was announced, Mr. O'Conor himself sending word that he considered all danger past, and that he was improving rapidly. * * *

The history of Mr. O'Conor's sickness makes this great improvement appear as remarkable as it is gratifying. He has suffered from general debility since about the first of last August, but did not become seriously ill until Thanksgiving Day, the 25th of November. He was out riding the day before. On the 25th he did not leave his bed, and for a week after he lay at the point of death. His condition was so critical during this time that Mr. McCracken did not dare to leave the house for even a few minutes, lest Mr. O'Conor should die in his absence. For several weeks after this the physicians had no hope of his recovery. He had been visited daily by Dr. Keyes till within the last fortnight. Dr. Van Buren and Dr. Alonzo Clark have also been consulted.

Mr. O'Conor's trouble was an almost total lack of ability to digest food, and consequent great prostration. His mind was clear at all times, and he did not suffer from pain. For about four weeks he was unable to retain any food that he swallowed, though he ate only such things as the pulp of pears and a little toast spread with sugar. At one time the pulp of two pears was his sole food for two or three days. He constantly refused to take stimulants, and appeared to be sustained by natural vitality alone.—New York Evening Post.

An eccentric Englishman, fearing that the attacks of certain scientific men upon the Mosaic account of the creation will result in the total disappearance from literature of the Book of Genesis, has freighted a vessel with 10,000 tightly-corked bottles, each containing the story of the Garden of Eden, and sent them to the arctic regions. There the bottles are to be embedded in the snow, where it is supposed they will remain until the gradual shifting of the earth's axis shall bring about a climatic change, and the bottles will be set free to gladden the eyes of future generations. He should have bottled himself up and gone with them. Future generations might perhaps take him for Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, or even Noah, himself.

Encourage Your Country Newspapers.

Assist by kind words, prompt settlement of bills and encouragement to enterprise, the editors of all papers which are helping to herald improvements, great or small. There never was a newspaper, no matter how small or what its price, that was not worth more than the price asked for it. As light is to time, to growth and ripening of fruit, so is the press to thought and to progress. Some men are too poor to take a paper. No man is rich enough to do without one, and more if he can obtain them. Food for the stomach, food for the brain, are alike necessary to perfect growth. The editor who is encouraged will be a better editor next year than this, unless he be a snarling, selfish, growling, egotistical old bundle of cross-grained antagonisms, begotten in spite and at natural enmity with all the honest world. But such abnormal monstrosities are few. The ordinary editor is a man of brain, thought, power, intelligence. A student of life. A thinker. A sympathizer with his fellow-men if they will permit him to grow to them.

In all the Western and Southern country, especially, industry is plowing for enterprise to plant. Hereabouts are hundreds of newspapers—lamps in the hands of genius to light the people on to the way to better and more beautiful homes. Why not give them all a New Year's gift? Why not settle up with them—pay all you owe—pass receipts and begin the New Year aright? That is the way to help men who help others. That is the way to make your home paper better. That is the way to crowd your village ahead. That is the way to sustain the always needed, but never properly appreciated, country editor. We have been there and know all about it. We know how good a man feels to be spoken kindly to—encouraged and made strong in his good intentions. Kind words did the business.

It would be a good idea for every editor to prepare a rousing New Year's paper—an address, so to speak, to tell therein how much his place had grown—who were ahead and who ought to be dead. To give a resume of yearly business, successes, enterprises, etc., of the village; to tell in a general and special way how everybody from the cradle-maker to the grave-digger had got along during the past year; to tell who had succeeded, who had kept honest and who had turned up as tramps or thieves. Then it would be just the thing for every resident of the place to buy from ten to a hundred copies of such a New Year's address and send them far and wide, to every friend, relative or acquaintance, that the ones who received such papers would know of the place where the senders lived. How such addresses would call the boys from the sleepy East to the live, rattling, growing West. How such a disposition to foster enterprise would encourage the country editor, no matter what his politics.

One reason why so many editors consume their energies in the scramble for county printing and patronage is because that they are not half so well supported by business men, farmers and the general public as they should be. They like to live. They must live by some means. Too many of them have no moral help, no sentiment of assistance about them. They are expected to live, but God only knows now. They open offices, but patronage is slow to come in. So they go out to hunt for it. Then their papers suffer and the scissors are left in charge. They visit stores, mills and offices for items of news and business, but do not find profit. Then they call into the saloon, join hands with lawyers, set up a little ring and dabble in local plunders, when they started out to be journalists. Talk of what the papers owe the public! The public owe the papers quite as much.—Pomeroy's Democrat.

Experiences in Battle.

I believe no two good soldiers will widely disagree as to their sensations during a battle. I take it to be a piece of bravado in a man to assert that he had no fear during the progress of a long and severe engagement. A battle is a veritable hell upon earth; not to be in serious apprehension while it lasts is to be either drunk, crazy or insensible. The highest type of bravery is that of the man who realizes the full extent of the peril, but sticks resolutely to his duty. It was my experience, and that of all those about me, repeated a dozen times, that shell-firing is not ordinarily nearly so demoralizing as that of musketry. It is not often that shells are thrown up that their fragments scatter death and wounds, and their loud humming overhead does not cause that nervous tingling which always follows the sharp zip of the rifle-bullet. The peculiar cutting of the air made by half a dozen of these at once is apt to give the soldier the idea that the whole air is filled with them, and that he is certain to be struck with one of them. All, I believe, will agree as to the sensation first caused by the impact of a bullet. It is a stunning, numbing feeling, which for a time overpowers the local pain of the wound. In my own experience a single buckshot near the hip knocked me flat, and for two days after gave me such acute pains and such muscular disturbance from knee to shoulder that I could not stand erect. Soldiers have frequently been prostrated by spent balls. A curious effect of shell wounds is that they do not bleed; the hot fragment sears the torn blood-vessels and stops the effusion. A Minnie ball extracted from the human body presents a remarkable sight. I have seen them where the resistance of the flesh had turned back the pointed end on all sides with such regularity that the ball resembled a saucer or a flower.—New York Times.

Board in Fayal.—A letter from Fayal, one of the Azore islands, holds out this incentive to immigration: Here you get a bottle of wine for six cents, a meal for eight cents, board by the day twenty-five cents, while fifty cents will buy as much as five dollars in the States.

The average courtship uses up about 25 barrels of kerosene.

INDIANA ITEMS.

Kokomo will celebrate Mardi Gras on the 29th.

The old folks of Peru have organized a dancing school.

Ninety-six families are being supplied at the New Albany soup-house.

A gas company has been organized at Vincennes with a capital stock of $75,000.

The Woolen Mills at Goshen have made 71,000 yards of woolen goods this season.

The territory known as West Richmond has been annexed to Richmond proper.

A boxing-school is about to be established in Indianapolis by a retired pugilist.

A painter named Bernard Martin, of Fort Wayne, was found dead in his bed a morning or two ago. Heart disease.

Henry Wol[illegible], a young man of Terre Haute, while attempting to board a freight train, lately, fell under the train and was killed.

The remains of the late Dr. Bailey, who died in Havre, France, in July, 1874, arrived in Lafayette, Friday and were interred in Springdale Cemetery, without any ceremony.

Two or three bridges over Otter Creek have been washed out, and some track and one or two culverts on the Evansville and Crawfordsville Road, between Sullivan and Vincennes.

Wesley Ellis, an old gentleman who has reached three score and ten, is the champion fox hunter of Paoli. Since the first day of last May he has caught and killed twenty-four full grown foxes, twenty red and four gray ones.

Kitchen & Co.'s dry goods store, at Lafayette, was badly injured by fire one night last week. The loss by fire and water is $8,000; insured. There were two other fires the same night, but they were discovered in time to prevent damages.

Judge James Orr, for a long time Probate Judge of Fountain County, and afterward County Commissioner, died at his residence near Rob Roy on Sunday last, of typhoid fever. He was buried by the Masonic fraternity, of which he was an honored member.

William Hoffman, a brewer of Parker's Settlement, in the vicinity of New Harmony, was pulled out of a cart and dragged fifty feet or more by a runaway team last week. He was badly cut about the head and breast, and died a few hours after the accident.

It is said that a large number of "good" men in Sullivan, Knox and Gibson Counties, are banded together for the sole purpose of getting counterfeit money in circulation. So far fortune has favored them and they have all preserved a discreet silence.

The ladies of South Bend gave a very elegant leap-year party a few evenings ago. The ladies had entire charge of the supper, and it was so successful and pleasant that the gentlemen willingly acknowledged the superiority of feminine taste and executive skill on all occasions.

Nine boys, from 9 to 14 years old, were suspended from the schools in Crawfordsville, recently. They are charged with purchasing powdered cantharides and carrying the preparation to school with them for the purpose of administering it to the young girls in the schools.

An Indianapolis female, to work upon the feelings of a cold-hearted lover, swallowed a vial of creosote, which came near putting an end to her earthly existence. By the careful attendance of a neighboring physician she was restored to her former self, to find at her bedside the most cherished object of her affection.

The Lafayette Courier says: "The project of making navigable the Wabash River is looming up just now, and Congress at this session will undoubtedly do something handsome toward the enterprise. The estimate for making the river navigable from its mouth to Lafayette is $130,000, with $15,000 for engineering and contingencies."

About six miles below Madison, the other day, the body of a colored woman, Mrs. Maria Miller, aged 35, was found in her barn yard. Her head was entirely eaten off by hogs and the body otherwise horribly mutilated. She had lain there since morning, where she had gone to milk a young cow, and it is thought was injured by the cow and killed by hogs.

A large number of leading agriculturists of Vanderburgh and surrounding counties had a meeting at the St. George Hotel in Evansville, one day last week, to discuss the proper and best method of having their products fairly represented at the county fairs. They decided to hold a mammoth fair at Evansville in the fall, at which all the counties in the district are to be represented.

The Coroner's jury at North Vernon have found that Thomas Raddy was murdered by John McKee, who is now at large, and was afterward placed on the railroad and run over by the cars. The Town Council offers $200 for McKee's arrest and delivery at that place. McKee is 25 years of age, spare and elegant build, broad shoulders, about five feet five inches high, small, piercing black eyes, and black hair; generally dressed well, and makes a good appearance. He is of dark, ruddy, and copper complexion. Two of his accessories are now in jail.

Nattie Hale, a young unmarried man residing just east of Richmond, while walking on the double track near the fair grounds one night last week, was observed by the engineer of an eastward bound passenger train on the Pan Handle Road. The engineer sounded the whistle, but the engine struck Hale hurling him into a pond of water, from which he was taken as soon as the train could be stopped. He had been instantly killed, his skull being terribly crushed. He had supposed the train approaching was on the other track, that of the Little Miami Road. The evidence before the Coroner's Jury showed that the deceased had been drinking during the evening. No blame is attached to the railroad company.

The Keokuk Constitution says: "Not long ago there lived in Indianapolis a man and wife who seemed to be happy, until the wife discovered that the husband was false to her. Then she took her babe and what few effects she possessed and left—was out on the world, and compelled to earn a living. She was a well-educated woman, and could converse in three different languages, was refined, and had all the airs of a woman who had the entrance to good society. From place to place she traveled, seeking employment whereby bread might be earned for her baby and herself. Chance brought her to Keokuk, and we suppose, being disheartened and unable to obtain other employment, she accepted a situation as a servant in a boarding house, and is now working there in this capacity."

The twenty-third annual report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction has been submitted to the Governor. It shows the total number of children of school age in the State is 667,763, of whom 349,514 are white males, 317,434 white females, 4,940 colored males, and 4,848 colored females; the increase over the enumeration of 1874 being 13,372. The United States census report of 1870 states that there are in this State 26,783 children between the ages of 10 and 21 who can neither read nor write. By accurate examination this has been found incorrect. In 71 counties there are but 4,243 such illiterates, or in the same ratio, 4,992 in the State. The enrollment of children last year shows that there were in the schools: White males, 264,041; females, 231,670; colored males, 34,221; females, 32,229. Grand total, 502,362. The total of the school fund is $8,799,191.54, an increase for the year of $87,943.36. During the year 382 school houses were erected, making the total number in the State 9,307, in which 13,133 teachers found employment. There were 396 township and district graded schools. The average compensation per day of teachers is: In townships—Males, $2.03; females, $1.08. In towns—Males, 3.24; females, $1.93. In cities—Males, $4.49; females, $2.27. The school property is valued at $10,870,338.18.

Value of Trees in Towns.

Mr. Griffiths, the Medical Officer of Health for Sheffield, England, in his report upon the sanitary condition of that town during 1874, makes the following remarks in reference to street trees:

In the formation of new streets, and on the eve of the contemplated widening and alteration of old ones, it is to be hoped that an effort may be made to provide for the planting and establishment of trees wherever practicable. The pleasing appearance of verdure in summer, and the agreeableness of the shade afforded by the foliage to pedestrians, are benefits to the inhabitants well worth the effort and the cost. Whoever has visited the boulevards of continental towns, or even the squares of London, can testify to the advantages of verdure as offering pleasure to the eye and gratification to the mind.

Moreover, from a sanitary point of view, the benefits are of incalculable value. It has been asserted that the aggregate surfaces of the leaves of well-grown elm, lime and sycamore trees, with their 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 leaves, is equal to about 200,000 square feet, or about five acres; and these are almost constantly absorbing and digesting the carbonic acid and various exhalations given off by the putrefaction of animal and vegetable matter, and, as if grateful for such support, return into the air pure oxygen, which reinvigorates and renews animal life. Trees thus remove poison from our midst, and to be without them is an oversight. Trees can be had which will exist, with suitable attention, in any part of the city. Why not, with all the above facts before us, have them and try them!

A Domestic Hint.

The following directions for washing merinos, lamb's wool, and silk underclothing, may be useful: Use one pound of dissolved soap in four gallons of warm water, in which well rinse the articles to be washed, drawing them repeatedly through the hand; wring them as dry as possible to remove the soap; rinse them again briskly in clean lukewarm water; wring and stretch them to their proper shape, and dry in the open air, if possible. The only effects of rubbing are to shrink and destroy the material; it should therefore never be resorted to. The material used in manufacturing silk underwear being an animal product, it is absolutely necessary that nothing but the best quality of soap and warm water should be used. All kinds of washing compounds destroy the nature of the material, giving the fabric the appearance of poor cotton.

Emerson on Darwinism.

The aboriginal man in geology, and in the dim light of Darwin's microscope, is not an engaging figure. We are very glad that he ate his fishes and snails and marrow bones out of our sight and hearing, and that his doleful experiences were got through with so very long ago. They combed his mane, they pared his nails, cut off his tail, set him on end, sent him to school, and made him pay taxes, before he could write his sad story for the compassion or the repudiation of his descendants, who were all but unanimous to disown him. We must take him as we find him, pretty well on in his education, and in all our knowledge of him, an interesting creature, with a will, an invention, an imagination, a conscience, and an inextinguishable hope.

Value of the Metals.

The following is the approximate estimate of the present cash value of the metals now known, rare and common. The rare metals have no market value, but they can be purchased at about the prices below. The price is given per pound, or 16 oz. avoirdupois:

Indium	$2,520.00	Silver	$18.83
Vanadium	2,500.00	Cobalt	7.75
Ruthenium	1,400.00	Cadmium	6.00
Rhodium	700.00	Bismuth	2.63
Palladium	651.00	Sodium	2.20
Uranium	576.58	Nickel	2.50
Osmium	398.28	Mercury	1.35
Iridium	317.44	Antimony	.56
Gold	301.45	Tin	.33
Platinum	115.20	Copper	.28
Thallium	108.77	Arsenic	.15
Chromium	68.00	Zinc	.11
Magnesium	62.50	Lead	.07
Potassium	28.00	Iron	.03

A singular death took place the other day at Lincoln, in England. A grocer named Picker, who keeps fowls, was feeding them when a bantam cock spurred him in the left thumb. Mortification set in, and all efforts to save the unfortunate man's life proved unavailing.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, FEB., 10, 1876.

W. H. DILLS.
ATTORNEY AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC.
Office in the Sanctum of this paper.

K of P.

On last Thursday, Auburn Lodge No. 68, of the order of Knights of Pythias was instituted at this place by D. D. G. C. W. W. Vannes, and a delegation from Kekionga lodge No. 65 of Decatur Ind.

The following officers were chosen to serve for the ensuing term.

L. H. Smith, P. C; W. H. Roof, C. C; D. Kahn, V. C; G. W. Barston, P; G. C. Shiller, K of R & S; J. V. Hazzard, M. of E; Alex. Hall, M. F; J. A. Wherret, M. A; T. H. Lessure, T. G; D. Caruth, O. G. After the Instillation ceremonies were concluded, the following vote of thanks were adopted by the visiting members. Officers and members of Auburn Lodge No. 68, permit us through our esteemed brother L. H. Smith, to return to you our sincere thanks for the cordial and hospitable treatment we have this day received at the hands of the membership, and we desire to say in this connection, that we think that Auburn Lodge is composed of the very best of material, and will by careful and judicual management, soon be a bright and shining Rythian light, in the state of Ind. W. W. Vannes, D. D. G. C. S. S. West, U. C; David Eley, P; L. D. Phelps, M. E; C. T. Dorwin, L. P. Quinn. Kekionga Lodge No. 55, Decatur, Indiana.

BUTLER ITEMS.

BUTLER, Feb, 8, 1876.

—Writing school—no more.

—Centennial book agents are roaming around.

—Miss Sake Maxwell has gone to Ligonier.

—The snow was but a fleeting show, for man's illusion given.

—A Union Concert is to be held at the Christian Church, next Saturday evening.

—A number of the young folks took advantage of the snow and had a sleigh-ride.

—The boys are hunting Valentines to send to their "little sisters" and the girls will send some to their "cousins." Of course.

—Several clerical gentlemen were in town to attend quartly meeting.

—Quite an exciting case of kidnaping occured here this forenoon. Mrs. Freeborn, who was divorced form Chas. W. Freeborn sometime ago had made several threats to steal her little boy, whom the law had placed in the charge of the husband. The child was living with its grandfather, J. E. Freeborn here and attending school. This forenoon Mrs. Freeborn and her brother went to the school house with a horse and buggy and stole the boy. Those who can imagine the feelings of the mother can hardly blame her, for of all unjust laws that one placing the children in the custody of the father when his actions were the cause of the divorce seems the most unjust.

"LENA."

Advertised Letters.

AUBURN, Feb. 7th, 1876.

The following is a list of letters, remaining in the Auburn P. O. not called for.

A. W. Aash
Peter Beanen
John Brannern
P. O. Byron
Hester Baker 2
Warren Burgett
Alma E. Bishop
Colby & Co.
Andres Dines
Mary L. Daniels
L. W. Brown
Joseph N. Gastard
Andrew J. Grover
Martha Gates
H. Hitchcock
M. Hench 2
Maria Harrhow
S. O. Kinkle
Andrew Love
Louisa Lewes
John Leston
Samuel Miller
Dodly Mixer
Johney McMellen
Disse Overs 2
Charlotta Paterson
B. Perkins
Lodema Sanders
W. H. Swift
Mart Snyder
S. Smith
Dell Sheets 2
Mary Smith
Tpink & Co 2
Sherman Stevens
Elias Spitler
Robert Shiffey
Maggie Smith
Thomas Smith
H. D. Schmidt
M. J. Sethens
E. H. O. Smith
John Weaver
Alvo Walker

Persons calling for the above named letter will please say advertised.

S. L. YANDES, P. M.

The Supreme Court in a recent decision says:

Under the statute (Acts 1873. p. 17. sec. 8.) authorizing boards of county commissioners to construct court houses jails, etc. and prescribing the manner of advertising and letting contracts for the same, the letting of contracts for such work must be made at the time and place named in the advertisement. The administrative discretion of a board of county commissioners in the business affairs of a county cannot be reviewed by a court; but when such board undertakes to do an act unauthorized by law, the court will enjoin them, and this is the proper remedy. Boards have an administrative discretion within the law, but none without it or against it.

We cannot be too careful how we play with the English language. One day a married lady of Toronto, while admiring the Falls from Warburton Avenue Bridge, remarked, "Isn't that dam nice?"

Meetings were suspended at the M. E. Church for Wednesday evening for a little rest, but will begin again Thursday evening premtly at half past six, with a prayer meeting. All are invited to attend Preaching at seven o'clock

Application for License.

NOTICE to the citizens of Richland tp DeKalb County, Indiana is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their regular session in March, 1876, for a license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, on the following described premises, to-wit: The North half of lot No 1 McMillen's first addition to the town of Corunna, with the privilege of having the same drank where sold.

Feb 1[illegible], '76. LEVI L. BROWN, Jr.

Application for License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, that I will make application to the Board of Commissioners, in said county, at their March session 1876, for license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises, to-wit: commencing at the south-west corner of lot No 67, old plat Auburn, in said county, thence East 20 feet, thence North 66 feet, thence West 20 feet, thence South 66 feet to the place of beginning.

JOSEPH E. [illegible]

Application for License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Garrett, DeKalb County, Indiana, that I will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their March session 1876, for license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privelege of having the same drank on the following premises, to-wit: Building on lots No 25 and 24 in block No 16 in said town of Garrett.

Feb 8, '76. WM. E. SARGENT.

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware. Cutlery Tin-Ware

I would call special attention to my depapt ment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING & BUIDERS STOCK,

a which will be found everything at the

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS

BALTIMORE & OHIO.
RAILROAD.

THE GREAT NATIONAL ROUTE
TO

Washington, Balt'r Philadelphia, N. Y.,

THE EAST AND NORTH-EAST

All Trains run via Wash. City.

Among the Characteristics of this Favorite route are

Double Tracks, Steel Rails,
Magnificent Iron Bridges,
Gorgeous Mountain Scenery,
Unrivaled Eqipment,
Loughridge Air Brakes,
Unsurpassed Eating Houses,
(Owned and opperated by the Company)

And in fact all the Modern Appliances that conduce to.

SPEED, SAFETY AND COMFORR

Pullman Palace Cars!

RUN THROUGH

WITHOUR CHANGE

BETWEEN THE PRINCIPAL

WESTERN and EASTERN Cities!

For through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of trains, Sleeping Car accommodations, &c. apply at ticket offices at all principal points, North, South, East or West.

E. K. DORSEY, L. M. COLE,
Asst. Gen. Tic. Agt. Gen. Tic. Agt
THOS. P. BARRY, T. R. SHARP,
West'n Pass'r. Agt. Master of Trans.

An exchange says: "There are one or two men in this city that have the appearance of not being over forty rods from heaven, that ought to be awarded diplomas for meanness, and money enough to frame them, and a string to hang them in their closet walls."

The same disease prevails in this city, to an alarming extent, but the cloaks are being removed from some of these sanctified villians and they will all come to light in due time.

BUSTED HIGHER THAN A KITE!

The Bottom has fallen out.

IMPOSSIBLE TO GIVE MARKET PRICES,

So look out, and think what you will, somebody's hurt.

Only for 30 Days

200 Men's Overcoats from	$3.50 to $5.00
150 Boys " "	1.50 " 3.50
500 Men's Winter Suits,	7.00 " 9.50
250 Boys " "	5.00 " 7.00
Best Shetland Shirts and Drawers per set	75c
Plush Mask Caps,	50c

OUR PULSE BEATS REGULAR.

SAM, PETE & MAX,

Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

GILES' LINIMENT
IODIDE OF AMMONIA

TRADE MARK

Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Dr. William Osgood Page, of No 265 4th avenue New York, suffered for many years with stiffness and intense pain in his knee, and at times was unable to walk, caused by an injury received on the Hudson River Railroad. Tried every remedy that skill or science could devise, without benefit. Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia gave instant relief and effected a complete cure.

Sold by Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle

Sold by J. H. EHLERS.

No. 3

GREAT
New York Store
—IN—
GARRETT,
LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

Will be found a complete assortment of

FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

he goods have all been well selected, and make nice a stock as there is in the county. The ock consists of a complete assortment of

DRY GOODS,
LADIES' FANCY GOODS,
MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,

a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complete line of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Made to our order, and the finest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 8 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices All invited to call and see us, whether they purchas or not. Come one, come all, and see ou goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargain will be given as we will carry the largest stock Garret and we will make it an object for all buy. Call at the Brown building opposite lar hotel. The farmers will do well to come to tra in Ga et. You can sell your produce for t highr market price and get the cash, and y can ge goods as cheap as any place and you w be buy fied.

N satisfom LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfiest and fines stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Yonths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrehant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see his largest stock

THE FAVORITE

HOME REMEDY.

Is warrented not to contain a single particle o Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which the all-wise providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure any diseases caused by derangement of the liver or Bowels.

Stimulate the liver and prevent

CHILLS AND FEVER.

Simon's Liver Regulator, or Med'e

Is eminently a Family Medicine, and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour if suffering and many a dollar in time and doctors' bills.

After over forty years trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtue from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the shoulders Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth, Billious attacks, Palpitation of the heart pain in the region of the kidneys, despondency, gloom and forbidings of evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased liver.

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, poor appetite and tongue coated you are suffering from torpid liver, or billiousness and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently.

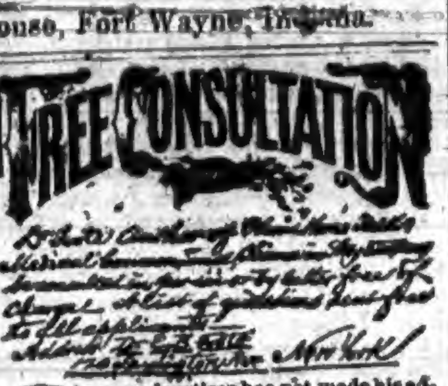
Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the liver the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease and if not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will come.

Armed with this antidote, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a remedy in Malarious fevers, Bowel complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice, Nausea, it is the cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world.

CAUTION.—Buy no powders or prepared Simons' Liver Regulator unless in our engraved wrapper, with Trade Mark Stamp, and Signature unbroken. None other is genuine.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.
Macon, Ga., and Philadelphia.

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.



FREE CONSULTATION

Dr. Foote's [illegible] Medical Common Sense [illegible] New York

As our advertiser has not made his advertisement altogether distinct, we will interpret and elaborate it as follows:

E. B. FOOTE, M. D.,

Author of Plain Home Talk, Medical Common Sense, Science in Story, etc., 120 Lexington Avenue (cor. East 28th Street), New York, as INDEPENDENT PHYSICIAN, treats all forms of Lingering or Chronic Diseases, and receives letters from all parts of the CIVILIZED WORLD. By his original way of conducting a Medical Practice, he is successfully treating numerous patients in Europe, the West Indies, Dominion of Canada, and in every part of the United States.

NO MERCURIAL

Or deleterious drugs used. He has, during the past twenty-three years, treated successfully nearly or quite 40,000 cases. All facts connected with each case are carefully recorded, whether they be communicated by letter or in person, or observed by the Doctor or his associate physicians. The latter are all scientific medical men.

HOW INVALIDS AT A DISTANCE

Are treated. All invalids at a distance are required to answer a list of plain questions, which elicits every symptom under which the invalid suffers. All communications treated strictly confidential. A complete system of registering prevents mistakes or confusion. List of questions sent free, on application, to any part of the world. Sixty-page pamphlet of EVIDENCES OF SUCCESS, also sent free. All these testimonials are from those who have been treated by mail and express.

ADVICE IN OFFICE, OR BY MAIL, FREE OF CHARGE.

Call on or address

DR. E. B. FOOTE,
No. 120 Lexington Ave., N. Y.

BOOK AGENTS

Wanted to sell Dr Foote's Plain Home Talk and Medical Common Sense; Also Dr. Foote's Science in Story. For Particulars address Murray Hill Publishing Company 129 East 28th St.

IF YOU WANT TO KNOW

1,000

IMPORTANT THINGS you never knew or thought of before, regarding the human body and all its curious organs, read PLAIN HOME TALK AND MEDICAL COMMON SENSE, a sensible book for sensible people, and a good book for every one. You can learn from it a great variety of information you would feel a delicacy to go to your family physician about. Contents table sent free, by mail, to all applicants. Address MURRAY HILL PUBLISHING COMPANY, 129 EAST 28TH STREET, N. Y.

AN AMUSING STORY

Teaches children and adults, educated and uneducated, anatomy, physiology, and hygiene. A novelty in literature—full of pictures—full of fun—and loaded down with facts regarding the human system, which enable everybody to understand the curious structure of his and her own body. Such a work is DR. FOOTE'S SCIENCE IN STORY; or, SAMMY TUBBS, THE BOY DOCTOR, and SPONSIE, THE TROUBLESOME MONKEY. Contents table of this remarkable series sent free to all applicants. Address MURRAY HILL PUBLISHING COMPANY, 129 EAST 28TH Street, N. Y.

OLD EYES MADE NEW

The Only Perfect Instrument for Restoring the Sight and giving up the use of Spectacles.

You have entire control of the suction power, and can produce equal effect upon each eye. Has elicited thousands of testimonials from cured patients in all parts of the United States. Its use entirely safe, and its effect marvelous. The Cheapest and the Best. Price by mail, postage prepaid. $3. Pamphlet upon the eyes, plain to all, the learned and the unlearned, showing how the vision becomes impaired, as is said, "by age," and containing a history of the various instruments invented for the restoration of the sight, sent free on receipt of 10 cents. Agents wanted every where. Address

DR. E. B. FOOTE,
Author of Plain Home Talk, Medical Common Sense, Science in Story, etc., 120 Lexington Avenue, N. Y.

AUBURN LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLE!

Ford & Parent, Prs.

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, &c

are prepared to send out rigs at anytime and a reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House

"The Republican thought it was saying something smart by stating that some of our men got fleeced awhile ago out of some money by some Hicksvillians. It ain't so. It was only a little game for fun, and our boys came out money a-herd—three dollars and then set up. That same money is now in that gold headed cane. Wonder if it won't be thrown away now.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR ALL KIDS OF

FAMILY GROCERIES!

The undersigned offers at the very lowest figures the following line of goods,

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Tobaccos, Flour, Canned Fruit, and all Kinds of Groceries found in a first-class establishment. Teas, from 40c to $1.00 per pound. Sugars from 6 to 12c best Rio Coffee 25c Fine Cut Tobacco 55c to $1.00 per pound

Also in connection with the above we have the largest and best assortment of

QUEENS WARE,

GLASS WARE.

STONE WARE

ever offered for sale in this county.

Highest CASH price paid for all kinds of country produce. Competent clerks to wait upon German customers. At Cool's old stand.

ROBERT ZACHER.

Still in the Field with a Larger Stock of

Lumber,

Lath, Shingles, Doors, Sash, Lime, &c.

than ever before brought to Auburn. We are selling at the Lowest Bottom Prices!

and Defy Competition.

Lumber by the WAGON or CAR load

ALWAYS ON HAND!

YARD ON SOUTH JACKSON STREET.

F. N. WRIGHT & CO.

NEW FURNITUR STORE.

Having purchased the Furniture Store formerly occupied by Mr WM. LONG, I will keep a full assortment of everything in the line of

FurniturE

I buy for cash and can therefore sell at LOWER RATES than those who buy on time.

FINE BED ROOM SETS

AND PARLOR SETS.

furnished customers at prices that cannot fail to suit. First-class workman employed to manufacture to order. I especially desire everybody to call and price my goods before buying elsewhere.

Rooms on Main-st., opposite Shull's new brick.

A. C. Dawson

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$ 95	Hogs—live	$6.50
Amber—red	1.12	Hogs—dressed
Rye		Turkeys—live	.08
Oats	30	Chickens—live	.06
Corn	@ 25	Butter	.18
Potatoes	@.5	Lard	.12
Flax Seed		Eggs	14
Clover Seed		Tallow	.08
Wool	45	Timothy Hay	12.00

Local and Miscellaneous.

Next week tax sales.

Valentine's day, the day after next Sunday.

See Head Quarter advertisement by Zacher.

Woman proposes and man gits up and gits, this year.

Don't marry till you can support a husband.

The dance will be largely attended to morrow night.

Girls, if a fellow refuses you this year "shoot him on the spot."

Read the interesting correspondence from our chief in Washington.

Neither was the Wyandotte Co. O., boy Charley Ross, as was supposed.

Last Saturday and Monday were the busiest days of the winter.

Just say "where's Fritz" to D. Walborn, and then see him open his mouth.

Feb. 22nd. Indiana State Republican Convention meets at Indianapolis.

C. K. Baxter of the Waterloo Press was in town Monday. He says Weamer is a rooster.

FOR EXCHANGE.—Good Real Estate for a stock of goodes. Address, box 130 Fort Wayne, Ind. 3t.

Gabriel Fair was acquitted of the murder of Dolan, by the jury, after deliberating twenty hours.

Woman of forty applied to the Chicago County Clerk for a license to marry a boy of six-teen and didn't get it.

An English woman advertises herself as corncutter to the royal family. She practices on "the light' fantastic toe.

It is a thin excuse for a young lady to lie abed until nine o'clock in the morning because this is sleep year.—Norristown Herald.

Arrangements have been made with Mr. Markle, at the Central Hotel, for all those who wish supper on to morrow night.

We now have the "Boss" Hook and Ladder Wagon, attachments &c., with plenty of Babcock's fire extinguishers Cost 800 dollars.

The scarcity of gubernatorial material in the Republican party is lamentable when the proposition is seriously made to buy a man to run for the office.

Two Brainerd young ladies have taken out marriage licenses, and the boys are all dodging around corners now when one of them appears.

Before his marriage. Broughne praised the artistic manner in which his wife "banged" her hair. Now he complains of the cruel manner in which she bangs his head.

Your dress," said a husband to his fashionable wife," will never please the men." "I don't dress to please men," was the reply, "but to worry other women.

The last dastardly stroke of Morton's friends at General Harrison is to propose to offer him ten thousand dollars to run for governor. That indecent proposition comes too from Greensburg.

You ain't afraid to die?" said the clergyman, tenderly. "No replied the sufferer, I'm only afraid if I do that the old woman will go snooting around among my private papers the first thing.

Budd Doble, the trainer, lives in the palace which was once the city residence of Ralston, the San Francisco millionaire. The palace and lands appurtenant cost Ralston $2,000,000.

Who ever was known to refuse a nice girl five dollars to go to a leap year dance? If you knew such an one," shoot him," "bounce him" "send him off on his ear."

Weamer, in his "paper for the town" gives an item saying, that our city supports gamblers from neighboring towns. Another nice item to go before the public, indeed.

Judge Best is bound to have a decent place to hold court in. Upon his order the Court room is now undergoing improvements long needed. We hope he will order the tearing down of the rotten tower before it kills some one.

Our sleighing left us last Saturday.—A large amount of saw-logs and wood were passing about the streets on Friday last. Two weeks of good sleighing would wake up trade to where it should be and merchants throughout the county would again be happy.

A Card.

All persons indebted to me either by account or note must call and settle immediately or expect to have costs to pay. This is the last call for I must pay my own debts.

I can be found at Snyder's Excelsior Hardware.

Feb. 10,76. V. A. BEARD.

The M. E. Social will be held at the residence of Dr. Casebeer on next Wed. afternoon. A cordial invitation is extended to all, the members of the society are especially requested to attend.

Now is your time to call on Miller & Casebeer to get a good overcoat without money.

Landis, who shot the editor Carruth in N. J., last summer was acquitted on the plea of insanity. It will be remembered that Carruth carried the ball in his brains several months, and has been treated by home epathic physicians.

"Exploring waist places, said John Henry as he put his arm around the pretty chambermaid. "Navigating of the air, said Mrs. Henry overhearing him and sailing into his raven curls. —Cincinnati Times.

A middle-aged gentleman, deeply interested in the Centennial asked a miss of sweet sixteen if she knew what important event 1876 would be noted for, and she responded, "Leap year."

Some dastardly miscreant in trying to wreak personal damage on Billy Edgington, a barber in Auburn, by firing his bed while he was at supper, came near burning up $25,000 worth of property. The citizens ought to have hung the wretch.—Columbia city Post.

"Zachariah" said Mrs. Chandler, What smell is that?" "Cloves. "But that other smell?" "Allspice. "But isn't there another?" "Yes—apples. "And just one more?" "Cider, my dear." "Well, Zachariah," said she, if you'd only drink a little brandy now you'd make a good mince pie.

Representative Hamilton has introduced a bill into Congress for the establishment of the United States Court at Fort Wayne. A movement is also on foot for securing a Superior Court at the same place. Well, Allen county should have a few more courts or a few less criminals.

Charley O. Myers, of the Kendallville "Standard," has a son named John Wilkes Booth Myers. Myers is the Grant Postmaster at Kendallville, and swears by Saints Morton, Blaine & Co. Charley should be ashamed of himself. —[Valparaiso Messenger.

Let us have the traitor impeached or tried by Court Martial.

Washington Correspondence of the Lagrange "Standard," Janury 31th says:

T. C. Mays finally got a "posish" under the Democratic House. He is clerk of three committees. At present he is in Indiana. TOM.

Charley Eaton, with the assistance of Al. can give the best meal in town This popular restaurant is known far and wide as one of the best in our city and we say to all who would perfer an oyster Supper, at any time give this place a call. Rooms over Davenports drug store.

The roads being so bad that it will impossible for us to visit each place in the county, to get items for our Centennial paper, and we ask all who would have their towns or townships represented to write up its present and past. Give anything that would be of benefit to the reader.

As sistant Attorney General Donahey don't amount to much after all when brought into contact with the great light which sits augustly in the Court House, and the lesser lights which flit to and fro.

We recollect of seeing that same "hair pin," here who is more lame in the head than in the leg.

Custar City, in the Black Hills, already contains forty houses. A saw mill will be in operation by the first of April, Gold has been discovered on the north side of the Big Horn, in larger quantities then at the old diggings. The Government will find the Hills full of adventurers at the opening of spring.

Pull-Backs The bureau of sttatistics of the Detroit "Free Press" estimates that there have been but 128 360 newspaper slurs at pull-back dresses, up to date. These figures are very large, and it is no wonder they inspired the poet to the utterance of these burning words:

O! let poor woman's clothes alone:
They're none of your concern;
She never makes no fun of your'n,
Then why poke fun at her'n!

To The public.

It having come to my ears that a certain designing individual named Blaine is endeavoring to palm off a spurious article of blooby-shirt upon the public I hereby give notice that I am the sole manufacturer of the genuine article. I feel confident in asserting that the public will not be deceived by the unscrupulous proprietor of the mushroom concern which has just started so long as the goods of the old reliable Outrage Mills are upon the market.

OLIVER P. MORTON,

Sole Porprietor of the only Recognizd Bloody-shirt.

FROM WASHINGTON.

DEAR COURIER:—I have just had a long chat with that admirable old lady Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines, the widow of Gen. Gaines.

Although in her eighty-ninth year of her age, she scarcely looks half that old, and you can hear her clear, ringing laugh above the din of a crowded parlor. I met her at Willard's, and in a long conversation learned many facts in relation to her eventful career. It will be remembered that years ago she instituted legal proceedings for the recovery of lands now covered by the city of New Orleans. This was one of the most memorable litigations ever entered into in this country. She spent all her individual wealth in its early stages, and also that of her first husband, who was wealthy. She afterwards married Gen. Gaines of the regular army who was also well off, and he gallently assisted her to the extent of his last dollar. Her legitimacy was involved in the suit, and this no doubt impelled her to fight through the years of hopelessness as never man or woman fought before. To particularize, her father, Daniel Clark, an Irishman, at the close of the last century, was a wealthy speculator in lands in Louisiana, and acquired title to a large portion of the land where New Orleans now stands, dying without leaving a known heir. Myra Clark grew up in ignorance of her parentage, and the fact that she was a great heiress Her mother died while she was young. A young gentleman attracted by her sprightliness and wonderful beauty, waived the doubt as to her birth, made her his wife. With that ever longing derive to clear her mother's name from all stain, she learned enough to satisfy her she was the daughter of Daniel Clark and that her mother was legally married to him, although never publicly acknowledged. Then commenced the long, ceaseless struggle, prompted more on her part to establish the good name of her mother, than for pecuniary gain. Her opponents were the wealthy property holders, where palatial residences covered the ground once owned by Dan'l Clark. Her first husband's wealth was soon exhausted. He died leaving her in poverty but still undismayed, and fully determind to persevere even against hope. Beaten in all the State Courts, she appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, her case resting upon being able to prove the marriage of her mother with Daniel Clark. She afterwards met and won the heart of Gen. Gaines. He also had wealth and became as enthusiastic in the case as his determined little wife. His wealth gradually melted away, and he soon after died, and our courageous plaintiff was left a widow a second time. She kept bravely on, never wavering for a moment, and after years of incessant labor, commencing when a young girl, and ending an old woman, she finally triumphed over every obstacle, and won, to her a glorious prize. For forty-five years she was before the Courts, with the best legal ability, Caleb Cushing being her principal Counsel for many years. Having won she now rests content in the possession of vast wealth, and of a still greater boon, a name unsullied and made great by her own inherent power. To see her sprightly little figure encased in a $1400 cloak, cross the Rotunda of the Capitol, which she frequently visits, with an elasticity that would do credit to one of forty, and then reflect that for forty-four years struggling against hope, with the laws delay, the proud mans contumely, is all that is needed to call forth the admiration of all those conversant with her history.

RECEPTIONS.

The fashionable round of dissipation rages here in all its fury, every conceivable manner of killing time is invited, and every means seized upon to show off the beauty and wealth of the city. The female form is decorated with every available art that money can bestow. We a member who attended a reception the other night remark that some of the ladies present entailed an expense in finery for themselves for that occasion, that would have sustained a dozen poor families as many years. And yet I meet every day on the avenue and in the streets, poor crippled soldiers and many other mendicants begging for that which is needed to sustain life. On the one hand patalial residences, the sheen of their splendor dazzling the pas ser by, and on the other the poor unfortunate begging his bread. I often wonder what the wealthy will do for a distinction when that great day shall come, and all shall be equal before Him who spoke as never man spake. Of course, there are good wealthy people, but they are not snubs, and have other merits besides that of being rich. But I started out to tell you something more about receptions. The President gave a State dinner this week to the diplomatic corps. It is described as having been magnificent. Owing to other engagements I did not attend.

Mrs. Thompson gave a Kettle drum Wednesday evening. Now, what does the poor way-faring denizen of DeKalb county understand by that. The invented genius of fashion is wonderful. Well, I will describe this one, and if they have any knowledge of the kettle drum business, they will understand the appropriateness of the thing much better than I. Over the door of the parlor was suspended a large teakettle of flowers, and a beautiful T of the same material hung in front of the looking-glass in the same room. The table down in the refreshment room was covered with delicacies, and prominent among its adornments were an immense bottle of nougat at one end and a drum and sticks of the same at the other. Lemonade, claret punch and cold tea were served up stairs, and chocolate, tea and coffee in the dining-room. There was much chat and a good deal of danciug. Fernando Wood gave a fine reception Tuesday evening at his palatial residence. Ferd is rich, and is the most popular and elegant entertainer in the city. I will want more time to describe one of these receptions, and may give it in another letter. Congressman Ward also gave a similar reception this week.

The florists had instructions to make the floral decorations as extensive as taste and money can suggest. The conservatories of New York and Boston were called upon to furnish the choicest exotics, while the rich japonicas of this section were profusely distributed throughout the mansion. And thus while the farmer and laborer have the utmost difficulty to make both ends meet, and often then a hopeless future stares them in the face, thousands of dollars are spent inbrivitous enjoyment, leaving no impress of goodness upon the heart and yielding none of those fruits that are to christianize and elevate the world.

POLITICAL.

Mr. Baker of the 13th District has introduced a bill to reduce the salaries of members to $3,600 per year. Well; we believe economy should commence at home. but I doubt the expediency of such a measure. From my observations I do not think a member can live here in these piping times of peace, on that amount, and I believe I have his excellent lady on my side. There are members here now who would be glad if no salary was paid to members at all. They are rich and beyond the want of a stipend for their services, and they would hail the day that would give them this advantage without salary, none but the wealthy would desire to represent the people, and what a glorious condition of things we would have, if the wealthy were sent here to represent the poor. Not that all the rich are rascals, for it is generally the poor that enter into collusion for gain, but their sympathies, their surroundings, their inclinations are not in harmony with that class which forms the bone and sinew of our country. It would be the establishment of an aristocracy that would be as seperate, in connection with the other classes, as decided as the nobility and peasantry of the mother county. No sir. Let a man be worthy of his hire, and pay him a fair, just compensation. A man cannot leave his business, to suffer in his absence, and engender the absolutely necessary expenses here on thirty six hundred dollars a year and save a cent. Take our own Representative, who, be it said to his credit, while he is liberal and free-hearted indulges in no extravagance not consistent with his position, possesses none of these vices, which requires fortunes sometimes to gratify, yet Mr. Baker will not admit that he will not save a proportionate amount of that sum which should be laid aside every year for future emergencies. Can you ask a man to come here a term or for a series of terms, and come out even at the end just where he started financially. Judge Holman has been here for fifteen years, and no man can say that he is extravagant and yet in all that time he had not saved $5,000, not as much as many mechanics and farmers accumulate in that time.

But my letter grows long and doubtless tedious. I want to tell you about the "german" a kind of dance popular here next week, and several other things, so adieu, for the present.

TOM.

Some diabolical wretch perpetrated a terrible outrage in Cherubusco, on Sunday night last by entering the stable of Mr. J. D. Breese, and cutting to pieces a new set of harness. They were so badly cut that their repair was impossible. Any person mean enough to do such a trick for the purpose of gratifying personal spleen is unfit to run at large and every means possible to ferret out and punish the guilty one should be brought to bear.—Columbia City Commercial.

The above is a warning to sewing machine men, for such was Mr. B when he resided here.

Prickett and Starr, the new proprietors of The Albion New Era have made a marked improvement in that paper and the people of Albion will do themselves great injustice if they withhold from it their patronage. The paper is one of the most readable and ably edited in the District and is deserving of success.—Auburn Republican.

We appreciate the above flattering notice coming as it does from Mr. Weamer, an old newspaper man, who is making the Republican the leading paper of Dekalb county.—New Era.

"Tommy tickle me and then I'll tickle, you Tommy."

In a recent case the Supreme Court decided that "Citizens and tax-payers of a city are not competent jurors to try a cause to which the said city is a party A verdict against the city would impose additional burdens upon all the tax-paying residents thereof. Hence such residents are at common law incompetent to serve as jurors in a case to which the city is a party. Our code does not declare the juror in such a case incompetent, yet it nowhere declares that he shall be competent. The decision must, therefore, be left to the common law."

Go to Miller & Casebeer's and get an Overcoat without money.

CLOTHING!

AT COST

Our entire stock must be SOLD before

MARCH 1ST, '76,

as we will make a change in our business at that time. If you wish to secure goods at

Actual Cost

now is the time. WE MEAN JUST WHAT WE SAY. Commencing to-day we will sell our goods at

FIRST COST!

until March 1st, 1876. We mean BUSINESS. Call and see our prices and you will find that this is no Humbug.

DAVID KAHN & CO.

CATARRH.—If you would avoid being rendered deaf or unfit to mingle in society, on account of foul and nauseating discharges from gangrenous ulcers in the head, use Dr. Detchon's celebrated Catarrh Remedy. It is the greatest cure and control for this hideous destroyer, the world ever saw. It will save every life threatened by it. It immediately arrests its progress, and if perseveringly used, will never disappoint in a cure. Go to Davenport's Drug Store, and get a sample bottle free. Sept. 30 y

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere and everybody complains of some disease during their life.—When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomach, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Billiousness, &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

Stop that Cough.

No pulmonary complaint however obstinate, can resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound.—Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectually in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Hooping Cough and Croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take.—Cough-worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxyims that threatened to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10 cents. Ask for Dr. Morris' Syrup take no other. F. E. Davenport Druggist.

COMSUMPTION CURED.

AN old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by and East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarah, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering he will send free of charge to all who desire it this receipt with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Munroe Block. Syracuse, N. Y

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed administrator of the Estate of Adam Lizey, late of DeKalb county deceased Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

ISAAC B. BRANDON, Adm'r

Jan 17, 1876,

Administrators Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Administrator of the Estate of Adam Leisey deceased, will offer on Saturday the 12th day of February 1876 at public outcry, at the late residence of the deceased, in Richland township, DeKalb county, two and one-half miles west and one mile north of Auburn. All the personal of said estate, consisting of one horse, one cow, one yearling heiffer, one breeding sow, one two horse wagon, one plow, one sleigh, shovel plow, one drag, one cornsheller, one square sugar pan, two iron kettles, two stoves, one table, and other household and kitchen furniture and various other articles. Also corn by the bushel and by the shock, oats and potatoes by the bushel, hay by the ton, and various other articles to numerous to mention. Sale to begin at 10 o'clock.

TERMS. All sums of three dollars and under cash, over three dollars a credit of nine moths will be given, the purchaser giving his note with approved security, waving valuation and appraisement laws, with interest at six per cent. if paid when due, if not paid when due ten per cent interest will be charged from date.

Jan, 27th, '76. ISAAC BRANDON, Adm'r

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, }
DeKalb County. }

Jacob W. Swaidner, vs. James Mahady, before Justice Walborn of Union Township.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishee in said case has been served on Samuel W. Ralston. Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 4th day of March A. D. 1876 at 9 o'clock A. M., and answer or demur to th complaint herein or the same will be determine it his absence.

JACOB WALBORN, J. P. [seal.

Attachment Notice.

STATE OF INDIANA, }
DeKalb County. }

Before Henry H. Fales J. P. for Concord Township, Jonathan Hunt vs. Sarah Jane Fetters.

Comes now the plaintiff, and files his complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendant is not a resident of the State of Indiana. Notice is therefore hereby given to said defendant that unless she be and appear at my office at 12 o'clock noon on the 11 days of February, 1876, in Concord township, said county and State, to answer or demur to said complaint the same will be heard and determined in her absence. Witness my hand and seal this 11 day January 1876.

HENRY H. FALES.

Miller & Casebeer are giving Overcoats away.

Execution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed Executor of the last will of Mares Jones deceased, late of DeKalb county, Ind. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

MILES WATERMAN, Executor.

Jan 20th '76.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersignd has been appointed administrator of the estate of David Swander, late of DeKalb County deceased. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WILLIAM H. SWANDER, Ad'm.

AUBURN, IND., Jan 8, 1876.

NOTICE.

AUBURN, Feb. 1st, 1876.

Until further notice the tax duplicate of the town of Auburn, will be at the store of S. W. Ralston, at which place I will receive the taxes due thereon. The last day for payment is March 18th next.

D. K. HOUGHTON,
Marshal & Collector,

MUSIC.

MISS M McCUTCHAN, teacher of instrumental music, harmony and thorough bass, is prepared to give instruction in music in a thorough and practical manner. For further information call at the residence of E. D. Hartman, near the Eel River depot.

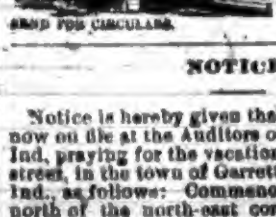
Nov. 25, 1875,—tf.

To live on the fat of the land without work is the aim of Traveling Agents.

We dont employ them but sell to the user at factory prices. Send for our free price list which will give you the price. Freight paid by us to your nearest R. R. to be paid for after you have tested and found satisfactory to that the purchaser absolutely runs no risk whatever. This is the way the best Scales in the world are sold by Jones of Binghamton, N. Y.

Jan. 13-1m

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.



IT is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of one horse. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and easily means of taking up the wear on the plunger head and sides of the chamber, thus preventing all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from [illegible] to 700 rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much care. Doors and Trucks at moderate prices.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that there is a petition now on file at the Auditors office of DeKalb Co., Ind, praying for the vacation of a part of Quincy street, in the town of Garrett, in DeKalb county, Ind., as follows: Commencing at a point [illegible] feet north of the north-east corner of lot No. [illegible], in Block No. 20, in said town Garrett, and running thence south to the north-east corner of said lot thence west to Randall street thence north [illegible] feet thence east to the place of begining, and that said petition will be presented to the Board for final action, at their March session 1876, said part of street proposed to be vacated passes over the land owned be Washington Cowen and the Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago R. R. Company Indiana Division, and they are the only persons to be affected by said vacation.

JOHN K. COWEN,
per D. D, M

Application for License.

Notice to the citizens of DeKalb County Ind., is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their regular session in March, 1876, for a license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time, on the following discribed premises, to-wit: Commencing at a point 17½ feet east of the south-west corner of lot [illegible], in the original plat of said town, running thence north 70 feet thence east 17½ feet, thence south 70 feet, thence west 17½ feet to the place of beginning. with the privilege of having the same drank where sold.

THOMAS SUMMERS.

Feb. 3rd, '76.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Ind. that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their March term, 1876, for a license to retail spirituous vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises in said county and State to-wit: Commencing at the south-west corner of lot twenty-eight in the original plot of the town of Auburn, in said county, running thence east seventeen and a half feet, thence north seventy feet, thence west seventeen and one half feet, thence south seventy feet, with the privilege of having the same drank on said premises.

CHAS. G. SMITH,

Feb. 5, '76.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given that a petition has been filed in the Auditors office of De Kalb county, Indiana, praying the vacation of certain streets, alleys and town lots, in Brandon's addition to the town of Auburn, said county, as follows. All that part of Brandon street lying and extending North of Center street all that part of an alley twenty feet wide lying and extending north of Center street through said addition, and also the following alleys running east and west through said addition, to wit. An alley [illegible] feet wide between lots number 8, 9 10 and 11, an alley 12 feet wide between lots No. 14, 15, 16 and 17, also an alley 12 feet wide between lots No. 20, 21, 22 and 23, also that part of the street known as Michigan avenue, lying and extending west of west Railroad street, and also a vacation of the following numbered lots [illegible] 10 11, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25, all in said addition and that said petition will be heard at the next session of the Board of Commissioners of said county.

JOHN BRANDON,
Applicant.

[illegible] 28, '76.

THE FAMILY RECORD.

"Ay! write it down in black and white—
The date, the age, the name;
For [illegible] has never [illegible]
As [illegible] our baby came!
No child before has been so sweet,
And never babe so wise;
And, John! the neighbors say, indeed!—
It has its father's eyes!"

"Nay, wife! I'm sure they're like your own—
The rogue's his mother's boy!
How strange that such a tiny form
Can give such boundless joy!
And you will have him named [illegible]?
Come, think it o'er again;
For John is but a homely name—"
"Nay! do not drop your pen.

"For John shall be his name, my dear—
It is father's own;
And though a hundred more were given,
I'll call him that alone.
[illegible] his father's [illegible]
His father's form, I'm sure!
God grant he have his father's heart,
Life's hardships to endure!"

"Well, there! 'tis written down at last;
The record is complete;
Henceforth we'll lay our loving hearts
Beneath our baby's feet.
Ah, wife! our house's a humble place—
We're humble folks—that's true;
But I'm a king with boundless wealth
In that young rogue and you!

"So, baby, wink and blink, my boy!
Your mother's eyes—" "Nay! John!
They are his father's eyes, indeed—
That I insist upon!"
"Well, be that as it may, his mouth
Is waiting for a kiss.
He's like you there, at least, my dear!
Say, do I judge amiss?"

THE OUTSIDE CARRIAGE.

Often, going home from town by the night train, it is my lot to travel alone for a great part of the way. It is a slow, often-stopping train that I go by, and people get in and out; but generally, before the journey is finished, I find myself alone, and sitting with my face to the window in the corner. I look out into the dark night, and watch the carriage outside—a spectre carriage, that is empty like this, except for some one sitting in the corner too, close by my elbow, the brim of whose hat I can just see as I lean forward. Perhaps, if I cared to look round the corner, I might see his face; but that I don't wish to do. Let him be a mystery.

The carriage travels patiently but swiftly alongside. Its lamp flickers like a beacon among the trees. Its window and its seats are like ours; but it is a part of the landscape too, and whatever we pass mixes itself up with it. Sometimes in a dark, overhanging cutting, the carriage outside shines forth quite real and distinct; sometimes in the open country it becomes dim and uncertain, and only its lamp, like a star, tells us it is still there. Then it will come into sudden being again, marked with the brickwork and dripping walls of some dark tunnel, and then will vanish altogether, broken up and destroyed among the flaring lights of a station; but it is waiting for us still outside, as we know full well, and when we pass once more into darkness it will appear as before.

One night as I was going home from London tired and depressed—my heart was heavy with forebodings of evil, there was no comfort for me anywhere—darkness and gloom encompassed me. I was all alone in the carriage, and I sat wearily thinking, with my eyes vacantly fixed on the carriage outside.

How much better your lot, I thought, than mine, my friend, who's hat brim I can just see the point of; how much I would give to be you, looking in at this carriage of wood and leather, with it's flickering greasy lamp and its sad sordid passenger—you, who travel outside among the trees and the twinkling stars! What do you know of the ills of life, of its loneliness and oppressions? You don't care for its doled-out joys, for its troubles that come in double handfuls. There may be truth for you, looking out from non-being to being; there can be none for me, looking out from that which is to that which is not.

I grew quite in love with the thought of sitting in the carriage outside; but there was no way to it that I could see. I could only gaze into it longingly, and watch its lamp that was now shining among the dark of the trees; for we were passing through a wood.

Suddenly I saw, in the further window of the carriage outside, a human face, white and ghastly, pressed against the shadow of the glass.

It was there but for a moment, and when I turned to look in the real window of the real carriage, I could see nothing. I let down the glass of the opposite door, and looked out, thinking that some one might have been standing there on the footboard. But there was no one.

Presently the train came shrieking into a junction station, where there were lights and passengers waiting, and barmaids in towering hair chattering at refreshment bars with young men; and I lost sight of the carriage outside, and almost forgot the face that I had seen.

But when we went out into the darkness the face came again, peering in at the window of the carriage outside, and this time it stayed a moment longer, but once more, when I turned to the real window, there was nothing there.

Then I saw no more of it, and I reached home and didn't think any further of the phantom face, having so many other troubles that were not phantom at all, but real and urgent.

On the very next night, I was traveling home from London by the same train. I remembered when I took my seat that I had this delusion, as I thought, about the face, and I looked out for a carriage which was well filled. As we went along, however, we dropped passenger after passenger, and finally I was left alone. When we came to the pine wood, I turned my eyes resolutely away from the glass; but as we flashed through it, I thought that it would be better that I should no longer turn away my eyes, but look boldly into the glass, and thus dissipate the idea that there had been anything but a mere nervous fancy in the apparition that I had before seen. I saw the face again, peering through the window of the carriage outside. Then I began to think that my friend, who sat on the other side of the panel, was perhaps not so enviably situated after all. There are shades attendant on shadows, it appears, and ghosts have other spirits to haunt them. This face that was glaring in upon the man outside, had it any representative in the world of sense? I could not tell; but as soon as we had passed the lighted junction, I seated myself on the opposite side of the carriage, and put the window down. At that moment there was a violent concussion: I was thrown forward against the opposite side of the carriage, and for a few moments, although not unconscious, I did not know much of what was going on about me.

When I came thoroughly to myself, I found that there had been an accident on the line. The cutting through which we were passing had given way, blocking up the rails, and the engine had been thrown off. No one was seriously hurt, fortunately; but it would be some hours before the line was cleared sufficiently for the train to proceed. The passengers could walk back to the junction, and wait till the line was clear, or they could sit still in the carriages which had not left the line. For myself, I preferred to remain by the side of the railway, and watch the operations for clearing it.

By and by the moon rose upon the scene. We were in a cutting of loose sandy soil; on the top of the banks was a fringe of trees which, I found, formed a portion of a wood of considerable size. Several small trees had fallen down with the sand that had slipped from above. The land-slip had made a gap in the bank, and there was a sloping mass of debris between the top of it and the level of the line. Three or four platelayers were already busily at work shoveling away at the sand, and the officials had telegraphed for a lot of ballastmen, who would be down in half an hour. The night was fine, and the moon, as I have said, had already risen. The dark fir-wood above looked mysteriously inviting. I made my way up the slope of the bank, and found myself in the gloom of the wood. There was a footpath, I saw, that led away into the darkness. The pleasant calm below, the fresh fragrance of the firs, the whisper of the wind among their tops like the murmur of an agitated sea, the dim vistas on either side like the aisles of some darkened minster—these things led me along, and I followed the path into the recesses of the wood. It did not lead me far. In about half a mile I suddenly came to an opening in the wood, and found that I had reached the railway at another point. In fact, this was the main line, and the path was a diagonal to the right angle, formed by it and the branch along which we had traveled from the junction.

As I stood peering out from between the stems of two young fir trees looking up and down the line, I became conscious that somebody was watching me from below. There was a small signal box by the side of the line, which was not, as far as I could see, connected with any signals; and from this box I was pretty certain that I had seen a human head protruded and rapidly withdrawn. Curiously enough, too, the glass window at the side of the box, which ought, I thought, to look up or down the line, looked sideways, so that anybody in the box could watch the wood without being himself perceived. Now I felt convinced that some one was watching me from this window. I determined to make certain. There was a kind of track sideways down the cutting, which was not a deep one, and I lightly descended this to the level of the rail. It was darker down here than in the wood even, for the moon had not yet cleared the tree tops. I made my way cautiously along, crossing the line so as to get, as it were, on the blind side of the signal box, and I had almost reached it, when suddenly a figure sprang from the box, and I saw a steel barrel glisten in some stray ray of light.

"Who goes there?" shouted a soldier's voice right in my ear.

"A friend,' I said, calmly, although I was a little startled.

My challenger had a policeman's lamp hung to his belt, the light of which he turned full upon me.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said, "I didn't startle you, I hope."

"You did a little," I said. "I didn't know that our railways were so well guarded. What's your regiment, sentry?"

"Oh, I'm not exactly a sentry," said the man with a sort of laugh. And yet he looked like a soldier, he had a carbine in his hand, and wore a military cap.

"What are you, then?" I asked.

"I'm a warder of the convict prison."

"Ah," said I, "then you are looking out for somebody?"

"Perhaps I am, sir," said the man reservedly.

"All right; good night," I said; and thought to myself, "If you are, I hope you won't catch him."

For my own part, I know of no more wretched fate than to be entombed in one of our English convict prisons. Their order, their silence, scrupulous cleanliness, their inexorable system, appal the soul far more than clanking chains and noisome dungeons. I don't know whether, after all, I hadn't as soon be a prisoner as a warder. The prisoner must stay there; and it is wonderful how a mind that is at all healthy reconciles itself to the inevitable; but to be a warder and know that you can get out, at the sacrifice of your bread and butter— Indeed, gracious powers, I should think that the temptation to dance a jig down the corridors and snap your fingers at the governor's beard would after a time become irresistible.

Well, all this time I'm standing on the line and a train is coming along. I don't care to stand too close to one of those lumbering avalanches with a whiff of the sulphurous breath of the engine in my face, and I reach once more my perch on the top of the bank. Here she comes, laboring and screaming and vomiting forth flames and red smoke, as working engines do. A goods train, evidently. Are there distinctions of classes among engines, I wonder? The rough-working one, who uses bad language and smells unpleasantly; your middle engine who deals in the best white steam, and is shiny with brass and quite respectable; and your high-caste engine, who drags royal personages and special trains, and goes to race-meetings and meets distinguished foreigners at Dover, and is fed with the finest coke and supplied with perfumed waters! This, at all events, is one of the lower orders; and yet it is not a goods train that it is drawing, it is a train of empty trucks crowded with men. Ah, yes, it is the ballast-train, and a gang of men to clear the line, and that is a signal for me to make my way through the wood once more, or else I may be left behind.

And yet somehow I didn't like plunging into the wood; it seemed so dark and lonely. It was far safer, however, than walking along the line, where I might be knocked down unawares by a stray engine. At that moment I remembered the face I had seen in the window of the carriage outside. For the first time it struck me that the two points where the footpath impinged on the line were the two points at which the phantom face had appeared. It almost seemed as if it were some ghostly creature that haunted the wood. I felt a momentary tremor at the thought. My nerves were a little shaken, and this harmless pine wood was to me as some baneful inclosure from which I could not escape. That was folly, of course; a few minutes' run would bring me safely to the spot where the train was waiting. I did not run, as my blood was chilled. But half way through the wood I was stopped.

Right in my path, staring at me with distended eyes, was the specter face. The moonlight broke through an opening in the wood, and there it waited for me.

The face was all I saw at the moment, but it belonged to a figure—a pale gray figure. I was not exactly frightened, but a little awe-struck. At moments such as these it isn't the reasoning faculties that are at work but the inherited fantasies, the influence of traditional superstition. I remembered that a spirit must be spoken to before he would speak.

"Who are you, and what do you want?" I cried.

"Keep your distance," muttered a voice, or I'll drive my knife into you."

All in a moment the explanation of the whole affair flashed into my mind. This was no phantom but an escaped convict.

"My friend," I said, "I am not a policeman; I am a harmless traveler. Let me pass; I'll not betray you."

"How will I know that?" said the figure, in a deep husky voice.

The situation, I felt, was one of real peril. I was not far now from the land-slip. I could hear the men's spades at work—could hear their voices. Should I shout for help? No, I wouldn't do that. I thought of the men standing on watch with their loaded carbines, and the figure looked so wan and miserable that I felt sorry for him, and would have liked to help him. And yet he would probably cut my throat.

"I'll give you my word I won't betray you," I said. "Put your knife away; I don't like the look of it."

"Well, I'll trust you," said the man, looking at me keenly for a moment. "After all it doesn't much matter. I'm tired of this work, God knows, and you can get the reward if ye plase."

"Thank you, I'm not a thief-taker," I said, for I didn't like the man's tone.

"Who was it said the word thief to me?" he cried fiercely.

"I beg your pardon," I replied quietly, "I ought to have said murderer, I suppose?"

"Be jabers, there's some one will say that of me before long if ye rouse me to desperation," said the man. "Come, pass on, whoever ye are."

"Now, look here," I said; "if you're not a thief or a murderer I'll help you." I suppose I oughtn't to have offered this. I dare say my duty, strictly defined, was to assist the officers of the law to recapture the convict; but my sympathies are with the mice against the cats, possibly because I'm something in the way of a mouse myself and know the fierce touch of Grimalkin's claws.

"You'll help me!" cried the man, seizing me by the hand—it wasn't a felonious kind of a grasp, either. "You're a good fellow; but how? Look you here," he said, taking me by the arm; "I've been out of yonder pandemonium for three days, and all that time I've not tasted food or drink, except the acorns I've picked up under the oak yonder, and the rain-drops that I've sucked from the leaves. I had a burrow, mark you—one that had been made for me beforehand—and that I crept into when the hue and cry was first raised; but its all in ruins now; the earth has slipped and buried it up entirely. And they know I'm in the wood, and at every fifty yards round it there's a man with a firelock; but I'd not mind for them if I'd the strength to run when I got out; but I haven't, I can hardly crawl. I thought to get away last night, and risked my life by jumping on the train as it passed; but there was no empty carriage I could creep into, and the train was running into the station and I jumped off. And then I tried again at the other end of the footpath by my hole in the ground, but then I missed my footing and fell backward just as I had reached a carriage, and but that the train was going slow I'd have been killed. The night was dark, by good luck, and nobody saw me, and I crawled back to my hole and lay there all this day, and when night came on again I thought I'd try once more. You see the men's eyes are off the wood for a minute when the train comes past. Well, I did it to-night; I jumped safe and clean on to the footboard, and I found an empty carriage and I crept in and hid myself under the sate. I could hear the palers jabbering to one another, and they took stock of every man that got into the train, and then the doors were slammed and the train went off, and says I, 'Mike, you're free!' And then there was this miserable stoppage. I bore it all till then, and then I bruk down. It seemed as if the powers of heaven were against me. You'd best leave me to it, sir."

"Listen," I said; "the watchers know I have entered the wood; they will watch for my coming out. You shall put on my overcoat; it will cover you down to your knees; and my hat—you must take my hat; and here, you'd better take my ticket too," I said, rather ruefully, handing out my return ticket. "My carriage was the middle compartment, second from the engine. There's a railway rug of mine on the seat; wrap it round your legs, and if anybody looks at you the convict trowsers won't show. Go and take your seat, and read the paper till the train starts, and I'll stay in the wood."

It was wonderful with what alacrity my friend carried out all my suggestions. In another five minutes I was standing all alone in the wood, shivering in the chill October breeze.

What a lonely vigil that was! And yet there was a warmth at my heart that prevented my feeling desolate, although I knew that I had broken the law and had likely enough done a very pernicious action. I heard the train puff away, and with it passed my chance of getting home that night. Probably if I put my head outside the wood I should be popped at like a rabbit at a battue; but I meant to stay in the woods for a while. A fir wood is a nice, dry, fragrant place to pass an hour or two in. There are ants, unfortunately, that build great conical nests out of the twigs that are scattered so thickly on the soft, hollow-sounding flooring—fierce, combative brutes, who bite like demons; and in the night one is apt to stumble over these colonies. But here was a nice, clear spot, where I could lie with my back to a broad timber fir and try to snatch a little sleep.

I awoke with a start. A man was standing over me—a man with a lamp in his hand, the light of which, flashed into my eyes, had awakened me. It was the warder I had seen before. His face was distorted with passion.

"Confound you!" he cried, "you have ruined me with your cheating wiles; but I will be even with you, scoundrel. I will kill you, and pretend that I shot you trying to escape."

He clapped his carbine to my ear; there was a loud report—a series of reports.

"Now, sir, if you please, your ticket," cried the guard, his lantern flaring full upon me, and I came to myself with a gulp and a start.

After all, had I been taking a journey in the outside carriage?—Belgravia.

In the Halls of Justice.

"My name is Ambrose," said the prisoner as he came out.

There was something solemn and earnest in his tones—something which touched one's heart. You have heard the wild winter gales sob and sigh and moan around the gables, haven't you? Well, his voice didn't sound a bit like the moan of a gale. It was a voice reminding one of something very far off—the Rocky Mountains, for instance.

Some voices are full of sadness,
And some are loaded with joy.

And some are so tinged with sorrow and grief that their tones strike a sympathetic chord in every heart.

His Honor sighed heavily as he huskily replied:

"So your name is Bamboo, eh?"

"I said Ambrose," remarked the prisoner, "but you call it Bamboo. I've been Bamboo-zled so much and so often that I don't care whether I have any name at all."

"Oh, I wouldn't be down-hearted over it," said the Court, forcing a smile. "You are not the only drunkard in Detroit."

"I know it, but I'm tired of trying to do anything or be anybody. Every time I get a dollar ahead, or a clean shirt laid by for Sunday, or the heels of my boots fixed up, and begin to feel as if I was somebody, old Ambrose gets me drunk, and down the hill I go."

"Who is old Ambrose?"

"Here—me, and he's a mean man. What ails him is whisky, and I might argue and threaten and blow around till my ears got cold and he'd keep right on. I have fallen by the wayside, your Honor, and by the roadside, and by the backside and the frontside, and blow your eyes, Judge, if I ain't sick of it!"

The prisoner wept.

"And you want Ambrose sent up, do you?"

"I do, Judge. Lift him for all he's worth! I'll go along with him, and if I can get him where he can't guzzle whisky I'll make a man of him. Say ninety days, Judge, and I will sing:

"So good-bye Mary Ann,
You must do the best you can."

He was ninety dated.—Detroit Free Press.

Dull Great Men.

Descartes, the famous mathematician and philosopher; La Fontaine, celebrated for his witty fables, and Buffon, the naturalist, were all singularly deficient in the powers of conversation. Marmontel, the novelist, was so dull in society that a friend said of him after an interview, "I must go and read his tales in recompense to myself for the weariness of hearing him." As to Corneille, the greatest dramatist of France, he was completely lost in society—so absent and embarrassed that he wrote of himself a witty couplet importing that he was never intelligible but through the mouth of another. Wit on paper seems to be something widely different from that play of words in conversation which, while it sparkles, dies; for Charles II., the wittiest of monarchs, was so charmed with the humor of "Hudibras" that he caused himself to be introduced in the character of a private gentleman to Butler, the author. The witty King found the author a very dull companion, and was of opinion with many others that so stupid a fellow could never have written so clever a book. Addison, whose classic elegance has long been considered the model of style, was shy and absent in society, preserving even before a single stranger formal and dignified silence. In conversation Dante was taciturn and satirical. Gray and Alfieri seldom talked or smiled. Rousseau was remarkably tame in conversation, without a word of fancy or eloquence in his speech. Milton was unsocial and sarcastic when much pressed by strangers.

An Allegorical Work.

At a late meeting of the Manchester (England) Literary Club, there was exhibited a little book of ten pages, which, excepting the title, does not contain a single word. It is a religious allegory, in colors—the black, which spreads over the second and third pages, denoting the unregenerate heart of man; the fourth and fifth, which are as red as a rose, indicating redemption; the sixth and seventh, which are white portraying the condition of the heart after it has been washed in the blood of the Lamb; while the concluding pages, of shining gold, symbolize the golden felicity of the saints.

The Wreck of an Air Ship.

The Schroeder air ship, which, according to the inventor's claims, was going to carry fast mails between the principal cities of the country, and which subsequently would fly across the Atlantic in some incredibly short space of time, came to an unfortunate end recently. The machine, nearly finished was carelessly left in an exposed situation over night, on a common in Baltimore. A strong gale arising tore it from its fastening, and converted it into a useless and shapeless mass of broken boards and wicker work.

STUPENDOUS BANK ROBBERY.

Particulars of the Raid on the Northampton (Mass.) National Bank—Upward of $700,000 in Securities Abstracted.

Boston papers give full details of the recent raid by masked robbers on the National Bank of Northampton, Mass. The result is something appalling. The table of securities taken shows a total of $670,000. The account states:

The robbers entered the house of Cashier Whittlesey, and bound, gagged and guarded for hours seven people. They compelled him to give them the combination of the safe vault, waited until they knew the night watchman had gone home, and then, getting into the vault and safe with only one of the four keys needed, they took a large amount of securities. An expert had to be summoned from New York, and the lock was not opened until at an early hour this morning. Cashier Whittlesey, when asked to give the three combinations to the vault for the outer and inner and chest doors gave them wrong twice and thrice, but the burglars wrote them down and made him repeat them. Of course they caught him in the attempt to mislead them, and the exhibition of a pistol compelled him to tell the truth, though he told them that four keys were necessary to open the patent lock, three of which were at the other bank offices. At 4 o'clock a. m. Whittlesey was taken to a down-stairs bedroom. The whole family were gagged, and four of the burglars withdrew to operate on the bank. Three hours after, Mrs. Whittlesey succeeded in freeing herself and giving the alarm from a window. The whole party were speedily liberated, and the cashier, still wearing the handcuff, went to the bank. A clever workman soon after fitted a key, and all the persons handcuffed were released. An examination of the bank showed that the cracksmen had unlocked the outer door, but were apparently balked by the safe lock, locking three of the requisite four keys. They tried the metal of the door with bars, and wrenched off two dials which served as an index for working the combination.

There is every indication that six, and perhaps all of them, left on the 6 o'clock train. At latest advices no information had been received of the robbers.

The table of funds taken is as follows: Missouri State bonds, $15,000; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad shares, $5,000; Lake Shore and Michigan Southern shares, $3,000; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy eights, $1,000; Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati, $2,000; Union Pacific, $44,000; Ohio and Mississippi, second mortgages, $165,600; United States bonds, $55,000; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, $15,000; Ft. Wayne, Jackson and Saginaw, $12,000; Ogdensburg and Lake Champlain, $6,000; Missouri Pacific, $30,000; registered stock and bonds of the United States, and various corporations, $350,000 to $400,000; greenbacks and national bank bills, $10,000; Detroit, Lansing and Lake Michigan, $7,000; New York and Erie bonds, $7,000; Maine State bonds, $10,000; Hudson River Railroad bonds, $5,000.

Of the total amount stolen the loss of only $12,000 falls on the bank. The heaviest individual sufferers are as follows: Ex-Judge C. E. Forbess, $100,000 United States six per cent. bonds, registered; $28,000 five per cents, registered, and $7,000 national stocks. Henry Hinchley, $60,000 United States bonds; Henry Bright, a large amount of negotiable bonds; J. S. Lathrop, $30,000 in Georgia bonds; John Warner, $14,000 negotiable bonds; William Gaylord, $50,000 United States bonds. Mrs. L. M. Turner, Dr. S. A. Fiske, Richard Kingman, and Horace O. Collins are also among the principal sufferers.

A small safe in the vault, which the burglars considered too insignificant to touch, contained $30,000 deposited by Harvey Kirkland, and $25,000 in bonds belonging to the Hopkins Academy, and other valuable property. By locking the doors of the vault, the burglars got twenty-four hours start of the detectives.

During their stay in Whittlesey's house the robbers showed wonderful jollity and coolness. The family numbered seven, and all were bound and gagged, the burglars running short of rope and dispatching the servant for the clothes-line. The men were rather a jolly set, inclined to pay some attention to the comfort of their victims. They advised the women to put on three pairs of stockings, so that the binding ropes would not cut them. One of them casually remarked that he had noticed Mr. Whittlesey's fine watch at Watch Hill, R. I., some two years ago, and tried to claim acquaintance with him from that time. This watch they took, but Mrs. Whittlesey slyly pitched hers under the bureau, and so saved it. They picked her fine cloak out of the bureau, and she said, "Give me that old thing; I'm cold," and gained that.

The burglars, who wore kid-gloves, were disguised by masks made from the legs of merino drawers, with places cut for the eyes; long linen dusters and blue overalls.

Who Invented the Telegraph.

According to the Allgemeine Zeitung, Samuel Thomas Soemmering was the inventor of the electric telegraph. He made known his invention in 1809, and it was adopted by Baron Schilling von Constatt, who made experiments in Munich in 1811, made improvements in 1820, and exhibited the apparatus at a scientific congress in Bonnum, 1835. Prof. Muncke, of Heidelberg, was present, and afterward constructed an apparatus which he showed to William Fothergill Cooke, who went to London in 1837, and with Prof. Wheatstone took out a patent for the purpose of introducing telegraphs on the English railways. The first telegraph station in England was built at Euston Station in July, 1837, but a fortnight before that telegraph communication had been established between the Academy of Sciences in Munich and the Observatory in Bogenhausen.

A Southbridge, Mass., man, "tightly slight," came in contact with a tree. As quick as thought he raised his hat, begged pardon, and passed on. Three other trees having met him in this unceremonious manner, he doffed his chapeau, and placing it under his arm, backed up against the fence in apparent meditation. A friend passing at the time inquired what he was doing. He replied, "I am waiting for the procession to pass."

BLANCHE AND NELL.

BY PAUL H. HAYNE.

O Blanche is a city lady
Bedecked in her silks and lace;
She walks with the mien of a stately Queen,
And a Queen's imperious grace.

But Nell is a country maiden,
Her dress from the farmstead loom;
Her step is as free as a breeze at sea,
And her face is a rose in bloom.

The house of Blanche is a marvel
Of marble from base to dome;
It hath all things fair, and costly and rare,
But alas! it is not—home!

Nell lives in a lonely cottage
On the shores of a wave-washed isle;
And the life she leads, with its living deeds,
The angels behold and smile.

Blanche finds her palace a prison,
And oft, through the dreary years,
In her burdened breast there is sad unrest,
And her eyes are dimmed with tears.

But to Nell her toils are pastime,
(Though never till night they cease);
And her soul's afloat like a buoyant boat
On the crystal tides of peace.

Ah! Blanche hath many a lover,
But she broodeth o'er old regret;
And the shy, sweet red on her cheek is dead,
For the day-star of hope has set.

Fair Nell! but a single lover
Hath she in the wide, wide world;
Yet warmly apart in her glowing heart
Love bides, with his pinions furled.

To Blanche all life seems shadowed,
And she but a ghost therein;
Thro' the misty gray of her Autumn day
Steals voices of grief and sin.

To Nell all life is sunshine,
All earth like a fairy sod,
Where the roses grow, and the violets blow,
In the softest breath of God.

What meaneth this mighty contrast
Of lives that we meet and mark?
One bright as the flowers from May-tide showers,
One rayless, sombre, and dark.

O, folly of mortal wisdom
That neither will break nor bow;
That riddle hath vexed the thought perplexed
Of millions of souls ere now!

O, folly of mortal wisdom!
From your guesses what good can come?
We can learn no more than the wise of yore;
'Tis better to trust, and—be dumb!

Pith and Point.

Reticence is the comeliest child of common sense.

Pools are now sold on where Charley Ross will turn up next.

During the cold snap, hitch on to some warm-hearted girl.

Judas Iscariot's thirty pieces of silver were worth about $18.25.

Don't throw dirt in your teacher's eyes. It would injure the pupil.

Don't worry about the ice crop. Keep cool, and you will have enough.

Ought to be allowed to sit down—A merchant of 40 years' standing.

Punch defines "fashionable extremes" as high heels and low foreheads."

When does rain seem inclined to be studious? When it is pouring over a book-stall.

The paternal equanimity receives a terrible shock from being called a "Centennial crank."

Young Clarence Fitz Lavender writes us to say:

"I sot me down in thought profound—
This maxim wise I drew:
It's easier far to luv a gal
Than maik a gal luv you!"

As the last stroke of 8 o'clock died away, Quiz sat down his coffee cup and remarked reflectively: "It's curious now, that a clock never uses its hands to strike with.—Cincinnati Times.

Mrs. Amy Riggs advertises in a Texas paper that she is able to whip either one of the two women she saw walking on her husband's arm a few nights before. What an Amy-able woman she must be, eh!"

"John Henry," said his wife, with stony severity, "I saw you coming out of a saloon this afternoon." "Well, madam," replied the obdurate John, "you wouldn't have me stay in there, would you?"

"Please accept a lock of hair," said an old bachelor to a widow, handing her a large curl. "Sir, you had better give the whole wig." "Madam, you are very biting, indeed, considering that your teeth are porcelain."

There are two words in the English language that contain all the vowels in regular succession, and if a person is willing to live abstemiously, and not regard this statement facetiously, he will see what the words are.

A fool and knave with different views,
For Julia's hand applied;
The knave to mend his fortune sues,
The fool, to please his pride.
Ask you how Julia will behave?
Depend on't for a rule,
If she's a fool she'll wed the knave
If she's a knave, the fool.
—Buffalo Express.

A young man in Indiana went out and drowned himself because a sensible woman told him he was "too young to marry." "I am not too young to die, at any rate," was the last bleat this mooncalf uttered. And he was right; it was high time.

Here is a noble example of doing good work for one's mother-in-law. Four burglars stole $1,200 of a Pottsville, Pa., widow, Wednesday night, and her son-in-law shot two of them, captured a third and recovered all the money. Young men will please observe this heroic example.

There is a greate menny rules to make married life comfortable, but the golden one is this: Go slow, and give each other half of the road. This rule is as simple and easy as milking a cow on the right side, and will be found useful as it is to avoid hot journals and dri axles.—Josh Billings.

A Danbury couple have a nice little daughter of some five summers. A lady visitor observed to the mother, "What a pretty child you have. She must be a great comfort to you." "She is, indeed," said the fond mother. "When I'm mad at John I don't have to speak to him. She calls him to his meals, and tells him to get the coal and other things that I want. She's real handy."

Costly Elephants.

Turkey has fifteen immense ships of war, which cost nearly $2,000,000 apiece. They lie idle in the Bosphorus all summer, their only use being to fire salutes every Sunday when the Sultan goes to mosque. They never go to sea, and if they did would founder in the first gale, for they are very unwieldy, and the Turks are miserable sailors. The only voyages they make are when in the spring they are taken out of the Golden Horn and anchored in the Bosphorus, a distance of about two miles; and when in the fall they are taken back to their winter quarters in the Golden Horn.

BILLS BEFORE CONGRESS.

A Resume of Some of the Important Measures Pending in the Senate and House.

Mr. [illegible], of Wisconsin, has introduced a bill in the Senate to aid the Winnebago Indians to obtain subsistence by agricultural pursuits, and to promote their civilization.

Mr. Steele, Delegate from Wyoming, has introduced in the House a bill to declare the country north of the North Platte River and east of the summits of the Big Horn Mountains, in the Territory of Wyoming, open to exploration and settlement.

Mr. Willard, of Michigan, has introduced in the House a measure by means of which, if he can secure its passage, he hopes to effect a pronounced reform in the civil service. It provides that no member of either house of Congress, either personally or by his agent, shall make application to the President, or head of any department or bureau, for the appointment to or removal from the civil service, under penalty of a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000. It is provided, however, that any member may, at the request of the proper authority, give in writing any information he may possess respecting the qualifications of any applicant for appointment.

Mr. Dunnell, of Minnesota, has presented a very important measure, which is now before the Committee on Public Lands, for the appointment of a commissioner to inquire into the destruction of forests, and into the measures necessary for the preservation of timber. Introducing his bill, Mr. Dunnell states that the supply of timber in the United States is rapidly diminishing, and that great public injury must result from its continued waste unless adequate measures are taken for its preservation and production.

A bill was introduced in both houses during the last Congress for making the Agricultural Department one of the Executive Departments of the Government, and was referred to the Committee on Agriculture. These committees recently held a joint conference on the subject, at which the opinion was expressed that the bill could be passed without difficulty, but it was finally determined to defer action on it until after the meeting of the present Congress. This bill has been reintroduced in the House since the recess, and is now before the Committee on Agriculture. Its advocates say that the 52 per cent. of the population engaged in agriculture should be represented in the Cabinet, and declare that to be the sentiment throughout the country.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, has offered in the House a proposed amendment to the Constitution, the object of which is to prohibit special legislation in the matter of granting pensions or bounties; authorizing the payment of claims; remitting fines or penalties; granting privileges to corporations or associations; and, in short, providing that in all cases where a general law can be made applicable no special law shall be enacted.

A bill reported by Representative Jenks, of Pennsylvania, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, provides that in the administration of the Pension law general recognition of husband and wife, or other evidence which would constitute proof of a marriage under the common law, may be accepted as sufficient to establish the fact of marriage; and that from and after the 1st of January, 1868, parol evidence alone shall not be sufficient to prove service for which any bounty land warrant or certificate shall be allowed for any service not shown by record evidence.

The bill of Senator Logan, now before the Committee on Military Affairs, provides that the number of Assistant Surgeons now allowed by law shall be reduced to 125; that the office of Medical Storekeeper be abolished; that from and after the passage of this act, in addition to the grades now allowed by law, there shall be four Surgeons, with the rank, pay and emoluments of Colonels; eight Surgeons, with the rank, pay and emoluments of Lieutenant-Colonels, to be promoted by seniority from the medical officers of the army.

The following is an abstract of the bill reported by Senator Sherman, from the Committee on Finance, and which has been passed by the Senate, providing for the appointment of a commission on the subject of the alcoholic and fermented liquor traffic and manufacture. A commission of five persons (who, at the time of their appointment, shall not be holding offices of trust under the General or State Government, and all of whom shall not be advocates of prohibitory legislation or total abstinence) shall be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, whose duty it shall be to investigate the alcoholic and fermented liquor traffic and manufacture, having special reference to revenue and taxation, distinguishing as far as possible in the conclusions they arrive at between the effects produced by the use of distilled or spirituous liquors and the use of fermented or malt liquors in their economic, criminal, moral and scientific aspects, in connection with pauperism, crime, social vice, the public health and general welfare of the people; and also inquire and take testimony as to the practical results of license and restrictive legislation for the prevention of intemperance in the several States, and the effect produced by such legislation upon the consumption of distilled or spirituous liquors and fermented or malt liquors; also to ascertain whether the evils of drunkenness have been increased or decreased, and whether public morals have been improved thereby. The Commissioners shall hold office not to exceed one year, or until their duties are accomplished; shall serve without salary, but are empowered to employ a secretary at a reasonable compensation, and report the result of their investigation to the President, to be by him transmitted to Congress. Before its passage the bill was amended so as to practically limit the operations of the Commission to the Territories and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Morrison, of the House Ways and Means Committee, has introduced a bill which requires the Treasury to hoard gold until it holds an amount equal to 30 per cent. of the outstanding legal-tenders, and also directs the national banks to retain the coin interest on their bonds until the sum of 30 per cent. of their circulation is accumulated—the coin being held in lieu of legal-tender reserves. The Legal-Tender act is repealed, from the date when the banks shall have acquired 30 per cent. of the amount of [illegible].

The bill introduced by Senator Morrill, of Vermont, to establish an educational fund is a copy of the bill which he introduced [illegible]. Its main feature is a requirement [illegible] of the cash proceeds from the sale, entry, location, or other disposition of the public lands shall be annually invested in United States five per cent. bonds. The amount so invested is to be held in trust by the United States Treasury as an educational fund. The interest will be distributed annually by the Secretary of the Interior among the several States and Territories upon the basis of the population between the ages of 4 and 21 years.

The Rothschilds of the West.

He hadn't any baggage, and after one look at him the brush boy walked away and sat down. The average brush-boy of the average hotel knows when he can brush a quarter out of a guest just as well as if he were a lawyer. The stranger wrote his name on the register with great deliberation. It was a long name. It read: "Herbert Henry Washington, Chicago, Illinois." The clerk regarded him for a moment with a keen glance, and then asked:

"How long will you remain here?"

"About a week," was the reply.

"Shall I credit you with ten dollars in advance?"

"Who are you talking to?" demanded the stranger as he stepped back a little.

"Strangers generally pay in advance," replied the clerk.

"Well, sir, I'll be hanged, sir, if I was ever insulted before! Ask me for money in advance! Why, sir, do you know that I could buy this hotel and still have millions left?"

"I have my orders."

"Am I to be treated like a dead beat?" continued the stranger. "When a man comes to Detroit to lend two hundred thousand dollars on a mortgage do your people look upon him as a skunk and a thief?"

"My orders are positive," quietly replied the clerk.

"I want to see the owner of this hotel, and I want to take him to the Board of Trade, the Mayor's office and the Water Works, and I want him to find out what kind of a man I am."

"The proprietor isn't in."

"You don't know me—you don't realize who I am!" exclaimed the stranger, tapping the office counter at every pause. "I didn't care to be known, but since you have insulted me I want to inform you that I am the Rothschilds of the West!"

The clerk started off with a letter to his girl, but had only got as far as "beloved Sarah" when the stranger yelled out:

"Who advanced money to Chicago to complete her Water Works? Who owns six elevators and one hundred miles of railroad?"

"I don't know," was the reply.

"And yet when I come into this house I am insulted as if I were a loafer!" continued the stranger. "Why sir, come to the bank with me, sir, and see if my check for $50,000 will be dishonored!"

"I'll go!" said the clerk, putting on his hat.

"You will, eh?"

"Yes, sir!"

"You needn't go. I wouldn't stop here if you'd give me a thousand dollars a day. I'll go to some other house, and when spring opens I'll buy a site next to you and build a hotel of my own and run your house out of sight!"

"Call an officer!" said the clerk to one of the boys.

"That's the crowning insult!" shouted the man. "But I'll bide my time. I'll go over to the other tavern and send over a $50,000 check for you to look at, and no matter how sorry you feel, sir, I'll not accept an apology, sir—blast me if I do!"

He went out, and at noon was seen eating crackers and cheese in the post-office.—Detroit Free Press.

A Good Complexion.

There is nothing so annoying to a young girl as an imperfect skin. If we address any one we imagine that person's attention to be immediately drawn to our one source of discomfort, a broken-out face; if they speak to us we are positively diffident on account of our misfortune.

Dear girls, the writer has had experience in this, and can sympathize with you. For three years my face would keep breaking out with a sort of rash, not large unsightly blotches, for such I never had; but I feel sure if what I used did help me, it would benefit those who were worse than I was.

I tried everything of which I had ever heard; and also plenty of which I never had, without avail. I became disgusted with everybody, and especially myself. Every day I met girls coarse and illiterate, who knew and cared nothing about education and refinement, whose faces were smooth and rosy, while I was destined to wear an irritable and pimply skin, and I became morose and low-spirited.

But one day while reading a magazine, the word "oatmeal" caught my attention. I determined to try it. I bought four pounds and have used it six months. I have used it twice a day all the time.

I take the dry meal, a little on a preserve plate, pour on just enough cold water to make it thin, strain through a small seive, and dipping a cloth into the water, wash over my face once or twice, and let it dry. This does not require more than five minutes, and the result is, what? All my friends exclaim about my beautiful complexion.

Please follow my example, and you will not regret the trouble when you see the result.—The Household.

JAMES SMITH, an old man of 74, lived in one of the poorest houses in the poorest part of Manchester, England. He was found dead the other day alone, and surrounded by every indication of extreme poverty. But when the police searched the house they found a safe containing deeds and mortgage bonds worth £12,000, and £2,000 in gold.

THE City of Richmond (Inman Line) has made another extraordinary passage across the Atlantic, accomplishing the voyage in eight days, nine hours, and fourteen minutes.

The War in Cuba.

The New York World prints the following extract from a private letter dated Havana, Jan. 26. It furnishes an interesting account of the situation of affairs in the unfortunate island: "The arrival of Captain-General Jovellar has not produced [illegible] expected [illegible] majority [illegible] confidence [illegible] any Captain-General who has come and gone since the outbreak of the revolution. But [illegible]. The insurgents are burning sugar-cane fields and plantation buildings. Every day we hear of one or more plantations as having been burned, and even the most rabid Spaniard, if possessed of common sense, acknowledges sorrowfully that the army and Spanish-thinking population are not strong enough to drive the insurgents out of the central department. While the sympathizing element is not so strong as it was a year ago, everybody, with the exception of the extreme intransigentes on the [illegible] who are making money by the war, are anxious that some settlement should be effected. It is extremely doubtful whether the Cuban leaders in the field would to-day accept a proposition for the autonomy of the island if offered by Spain. The leading Cubans who are abroad will hardly be listened to. If the fighting-men are not satisfied with any propositions that are made, the war will continue until one or the other succumbs. It is positively asserted that Jovellar is authorized to make great concessions to the island in general, including a general amnesty and autonomy. The planters are ruined; although nominally the possessors of great wealth, they are not even making a small interest on their capital employed in lands, negroes and machinery. The merchants say that they will be ruined unless the officials again allow smuggling on a large scale, the business done in that line being comparatively small at present."

Prospective Revival of Business.

The New York Graphic closes an article on the "Trade of the Centennial Year" with this encouraging prognostication: "We must repeat the conclusion, therefore, that the prospects for trade in 1876 point almost uniformly to a great improvement over 1875. The long session of Congress, with its tinkering at taxation and finance, will be found to be a drawback; so will the Presidential canvass; but the Centennial celebration will compensate in part for these, and, taken all together, nothing but such a failure of the crops as is not likely to take place can prevent 1876 being reasonably remunerative to manufacturers and people engaged in trade."

A BOX OF GROCERIES FREE to every subscriber is what the publishers of The Housekeeper offer in our advertising columns. Messrs. Wingate & Co. will do just what they promise. It is the best chance for agents ever offered, as no good housekeeper who sees the box would fail to subscribe. Read the advertisement.

MILLIONS of intelligent women say that Dobbins' Electric Soap (made by Cragin & Co., Philadelphia,) is in every respect the best soap ever made, and will do three times the work of any other. Try it.

A WOMAN weighing 384 pounds died of suffocation from excessive fat at Stafford, Mass., last week.

[From the Missouri Republican (St. Louis).]

A Remarkable Professional Success.

Among the notable professional men of this country who have achieved extraordinary success is Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The prominence which he has attained has been reached through strictly legitimate means, and, so far, therefore, he deserves the enviable reputation which he enjoys. This large measure of success is the result of a thorough and careful preparation for his calling, and extensive reading during a long and unusually large practice, which have enabled him to gain high commendation, even from his professional brethren. Devoting his attention to certain specialties of the science he has so carefully investigated, he has been rewarded in a remarkable degree. In these specialties, he has become a recognized leader. Not a few of the remedies prescribed by him have, it is said, been adopted and prescribed by physicians in their private practice. His pamphlets and larger works have been received as useful contributions to medical knowledge. He has recently added another, and perhaps more important work, because of more general application, to the list of his published writings. This book, entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," is designed to enter into general circulation. Dr. Pierce has received acknowledgments and honors from many sources, and especially scientific degrees from two of the first medical institutions in the land.

FEMALE WEAKNESS.—Vegetine acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretory organs, allays inflammation, cleanses and cures ulceration, cures constipation, regulates the bowels; headache and pains in the back cease; in fact there is no disease or complaint where the Vegetine gives so quick relief, and is so effective in its cure, as in what is termed female weakness. It has never failed in one instance.

CHEAPEST, best family paper in the world—CHICAGO LEDGER. See advertisement.

PIMPLES on the face, rough skin, chapped hands, saltrheum and all cutaneous affections cured, the skin made soft and smooth, by the use of Juniper Tar Soap. That made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, is the only kind that can be relied on, as there are many imitations, made from common tar, which are worthless.

THE ADVERTISEMENT headed "A Remarkable Invention," in another column, and do not fail to send for an illustrated catalogue.

CHICAGO LEDGER—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

Consumptives, Take Notice.—Every moment of delay makes your cure more hopeless, and much depends on the judicious choice of a remedy. The amount of testimony in favor of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for consumption, far exceeds all that can be brought to support the pretensions of any other medicine. See Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing the certificates of many persons of the highest respectability, who have been restored to health after being pronounced incurable by physicians of acknowledged ability. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many, as these evidences will show; but the cure is often promoted by the employment of two other remedies which Dr. Schenck provides for the purpose. These additional remedies are Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. By the timely use of these medicines, according to directions, Dr. Schenck certifies that most any case of Consumption may be cured.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

From Maine to California millions of children are wearing SILVER TIPPED Shoes. Why not? They are the cheapest and never wear through at the toe. Try them. For sale by all Shoe Dealers.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific [illegible] Boots and Shoes is spreading, [illegible] rip, leak, or fail to [illegible]. Look out for the Patent stamp; all others are imitation.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

WANTED AGENTS [illegible]

$10 to $25 per day [illegible] J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston.

ASTHMA and CATARRH. Send for Trial free. Address [illegible] K. KELLEY, Indianapolis, Ind.

20 FANCY CARDS, 7 styles, with name, 10c. Address J. B. HUSTED, Nassau, Rens. Co., N. Y.

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

[illegible] Teacher of Guitar, Flute, Cornet [illegible] Violin [illegible] the best in use [illegible] Music [illegible] free. [illegible] Boston.

YOU [illegible] Augusta, Me.

[illegible] Outfits FREE. FOOTPRINTS of the AGES. Our [illegible] and History. [illegible] Book, Bible and Map House, CHICAGO.

$350 A Month—Agents wanted. 24 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Washington St., Boston.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents. Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$60 PER MONTH and traveling expenses paid to salesmen who can sell our goods, and better wages to experienced salesmen. Address ARGAND KINDLER CO., 36 LaSalle St., CHICAGO, Ill.

IVINS PATENT HAIR CRIMPERS. Adopted by all the Queens of Fashion. Send for circular. E. IVINS, No. [illegible] North Fifth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 40cts., by mail. Stowell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT Revolver [illegible] $3.00 [illegible] WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill.

Decalcomanie, Chromos, Steel Engravings, Photographs, Scrap-book Pictures, Mottoes, etc. Elegant samples and catalogue sent postpaid for 10 cts. Agents Wanted. J. L. Patten & Co., 162 William St., New York.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

BOOK AGENTS. MOODY & SANKEY.—The only original, authentic and complete record of [illegible] works. Beware of imitations. SEND FOR CIRCULARS. American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

PHOTO COPYING AGENTS, send for our New Catalogue of [illegible] and Fine [illegible] Oil Portraits. The prices will astonish you. Oldest and largest Copying House in America. Address TEN EYCK & CO., Auburn, N. Y.

OPIUM Habit Cured At Home. No publicity. Time short. Terms moderate. 1,000 testimonials. 5th year of unparalleled success. Describe case. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S New Book outsells everything. Don't worry about hard times. Sell this book and see how easy they are. Send for circulars to American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

WANTED—A few intelligent Ladies and Gentlemen to solicit orders for CAPT. GLAZIER'S new work, "Battles for the Union." Just the book for Centennial times. All expenses advanced. References required. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO., Hartford, Conn., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, Ohio.

SECRETS WONDERS And Mysteries. A 64 page Book full of peculiar Discoveries Illustrated. Sent free to all for 2 postage stamps. Address FLETCHER & CO., Williamsburgh, New York.

LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 TRANSPARENT VISITING CARDS, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. NOVELTY PRINTING CO., Ashland, Mass.

CARDS.—50 white or tinted Bristol, 20 cts.; 50 Snowflake, Marble, Rep, or Damask, 35 cts.; 50 Glass, 40 cts.; with your name beautifully printed on them, and 66 samples of type, agents' price-list, etc., sent by return mail on receipt of price. Discount to [illegible] work. W. C. CANNON, 46 Kneeland Street, Boston. Refers to S. M. PETTENGILL & Co.

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS. My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. WILLIAM E. BOWDITCH, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

PILES. WHAT ARE PILES? READ! "PLAIN BLUNT Facts," a Treatise on the Causes, History, Cure and Prevention of PILES. Published by P. NEUSTAEDTER & CO., 46 Walker Street, New York. Sent FREE to all parts of the United States on receipt of a letter stamp.

How to buy him. How to sell him. How to train him. How to doctor him. A NEW BOOK of great interest to Horsemen. Sent by mail for 50 cents. Address J. P. VINCENT, Box 58, CHICAGO, ILL.

THE GREAT BLOOD REMEDY

—IS—

VEGETINE.

MAKE IT PUBLIC.

SOUTH BOSTON, Feb. 9, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I have heard from very many sources of the great success of VEGETINE in cases of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, Catarrh, and all other diseases of kindred nature. I make no hesitation in saying that I know VEGETINE to be the most reliable remedy for Catarrh and General Debility.

My wife has been troubled with Catarrh for many years, and at times very badly. She has thoroughly tried every supposed remedy that we could hear of, and with all this she has for several years been gradually growing worse, and the discharge from the head was excessive and very offensive.

She was in this condition when she commenced to take VEGETINE. I could see that she was improving on the second bottle. She continued taking the VEGETINE until she had used from twelve to fifteen bottles. I am now happy in informing you and the public (if you choose to make it public) that she is entirely cured, and VEGETINE accomplished the cure after nothing else would. Hence I feel justified in saying that VEGETINE is the most reliable remedy, and would advise all suffering humanity to try it, for I believe it is for good, honest, vegetable medicine, and I shall not hesitate to recommend it. I am, yours respectfully,

L. C. CARDELL,
Store 451 Broadway.

VEGETINE acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs, allays inflammation, cleanses and cures ulceration, cures constipation, and regulates the bowels.

HAS ENTIRELY CURED ME.

BOSTON, October, 1870.

MR. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—My daughter, after having a severe attack of Whooping Cough, was left in a feeble state of health. Being advised by a friend she tried the VEGETINE, and after using a few bottles was fully restored to health. I have [illegible] several bottles of the VEGETINE [illegible] it has entirely cured me. I have recommended the VEGETINE to others, with the same good results. It is a great cleanser and purifier of the blood; it is pleasant to take, and I can cheerfully recommend it.

JAMES MORSE,
364 Athens Street.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

THE CHICAGO LEDGER

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST PAPER IN THE COUNTRY.

$1.50 PER ANNUM

Unexcelled by any Weekly Literary Publication, East or West.

A THREE DOLLAR PAPER FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A HALF.

Send your name and address and get a specimen copy. Address THE LEDGER, Chicago, Ill.

A REMARKABLE INVENTION!

WOOTON'S PATENT.

CABINET OFFICE SECRETARY.

Wooton Desk Co., Designers and Manufacturers, INDIANAPOLIS, IND. Illustrated Descriptive Circulars furnished on application.

FOUTZ'S HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS,

Will cure or prevent Disease.

CENTENNIAL HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES.

by Benson J. Lossing, LL. D., now ready! The only complete History of our whole Country in one large and richly bound, yet low-priced volume—over 800 pages, 460 fine engravings—and the only one worthy in to be published in both English and German. Full and valuable instructed account of the approaching Grand Centennial Celebration. AGENTS WANTED! Rapidly selling [illegible] everywhere in the leading history of our country [illegible]. Agents seeking a first class [illegible] to send at once for full description and liberal terms, to F. A. HUTCHINSON AND COMPANY, Chicago, Ill.

S. H. HARRIS' IMPROVED CHICAGO SAFES

And VAULT DOORS are the Best.

Address S. H. HARRIS, Manufacturer, 23 and 25 Randolph St.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19. Young

Selling at the rate of 5,000 a week. Full expose of the horrible system of Polygamy. Illustrated Circulars, with complete information free to all. Address nearest office of Dustin, Gilman & Co., Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O.

Selected French Burr Mill Stones of all sizes, and superior workmanship. Portable Grinding Mills, upper or under runners, for Farm or Merchant work. Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pullies, Hangers, etc., and all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, Ohio.

MARCY'S SCIOPTICON,

With new, Improved and cheapened MAGIC LANTERN SLIDES.

For Homes, Sunday-schools and Lecture-rooms it stands UNRIVALLED.

Brilliant and easy to show. Circulars of SPECIAL Offer free. Sciopticon Manual (5th Ed.) 50 cts.

L. J. MARCY, 1340 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

MERIDEN Cutlery Co.

Make all kinds of Table Knives and Forks. Exclusive makers of "PATENT IVORY," most durable WHITE HANDLE known. Always call for "Trade Mark" on the blade. Sold by all dealers and by MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., 49 Chambers St., N. Y.

SEEDS

1876.

GEO. S. HASKELL & CO.,

ROCKFORD, ILLINOIS.

NEW CATALOGUE, FREE.

PEAS BEANS CUCUMBER MELON SQUASH

A NOVEL IDEA—$4 FOR $2

The publishers of the HOUSEKEEPER—A first-class Monthly Magazine, contributed to by Jennie June, Mary L. Booth, Dr. W. W. Hall, James Parton and others—will, on receipt of the subscription price of TWO DOLLARS, deliver to each subscriber's nearest station, east of the Mississippi River, FREE, one of their "PREMIUM BOXES," containing the following articles, viz.:

Cake of E. Morgan's Sons' Sapolio	Price 10c.
Cake of E. Morgan's Sons' Hand Sapolio	" 10
Package (½ lb.) Duryea's Satin Gloss Starch	" 8
Package (½ lb.) Duryea's Corn Starch	" [illegible]
Box Bixby's Best Blacking	" 10
Box Bixby's French Blacking	" 10
Package Dixon's Stove Polish	" 10
Dixon's American Graphite Pencil	" [illegible]
Package (½ lb.) Schepp's Desiccated Cocoanut	" [illegible]
Box (½ lb.) Royal Baking Powder	" [illegible]
Bottle Royal Celery Salt	" [illegible]
Cake Jesse Oakley & Co.'s King Soap	" 10
Package F. E. Smith & Co.'s Crushed White Wheat	" [illegible]
Bottle Spalding's Prepared Glue, with Brush	" [illegible]
Box J. Taylor's Gold Medal Washing Crystal	" [illegible]
Package (1 lb.) S. Wilde's Prepared Rice Flour	" [illegible]
Total	$[illegible]
And HOUSEKEEPER, 1 year, postpaid	2.00
Making a total of	$4.08

For $2—as above announced.

The prices above quoted are THE USUAL NEW YORK CITY RETAIL Prices, and the goods are the best in their line. Agents allowed A LARGE CASH Commission. It is a rare chance to make money rapidly and secure a permanent business.

The N. Y. Weekly Sun of Jan. 12th, 1876, says: "The readers of this paper who would like to get more than the worth of their money are referred to the advertisement a "Novel Idea." This is "a new departure," [illegible].

It is one of the best chances for agents ever offered.

CHAS. F. WINGATE & CO. (Limited), Publishers, 60 DUANE ST., New York. P. O. Box [illegible]. Sample copies mailed on receipt of 15 cents.

THE BEST School Music Books.

HIGH SCHOOL CHOIR [illegible]

CHOICE TRIOS. For 3 Female voices. Full of the best of fine music for the [illegible] $1.00.

American School Music Readers, in 3 books, 35 cts., 50 cts., and 50 cts. Fine graded course for Primary and Grammar Schools. All the proceeds works are compilations of those thorough teachers and composers, L. O. EMERSON and W. S. TILDEN.

CHEERFUL VOICES. [illegible] School Songs. 50 cts.

NATIONAL HYMN AND TUNE BOOK. (40 cts.) Contains the best collection of Sacred Music extant for opening and closing schools.

We also call attention to those excellent collections of School Songs: "Merry Chimes," "Golden Wreath," "Nightingale," and "Golden Robin," each 50 cts.; to "Dodge's [illegible]," "Panseron's A B C," Perkins' "[illegible]," "Hour of Singing," [illegible], Mason's graded Music Charts, [illegible], Dr. Streeter's treatise on "Primary Elements," 60 cts.

All books sent by mail, post-free, for retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., BOSTON.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 711 Broadway, New York.

J. E. DITSON & CO., Successors to Lee & Walker, Philadelphia.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Lover's Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAM & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

Stock Growers Colony, New Mexico. Will start about May 1st, 1876. Great inducements offered to parties wishing to join us. Pamphlets containing full information free. Address New Mexico Stock & Agricultural Ass'n, 150 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

INQUIRE FOR W. A. DROWN & CO'S UMBRELLAS.

PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

The Sugar Makers Friend.

PRICE, $4.50 per hundred.

Agents Wanted in every Sugar district to canvass for the sale of Post's Patent Eclipse Sap Spout and Bucket Hanger. Samples, Circulars and Terms sent post-paid on receipt of 20 cents. Address C. C. POST, Manuf. & Patentee, Burlington, Vt.

I AM THE LIGHT RUNNING DOMESTIC

"DOMESTIC" SEWING MACHINES.

Liberal Terms of Exchange for Second-hand Machines of every description.

"DOMESTIC" PAPER FASHIONS.

The Best Patterns made. Send 5cts. for Catalogue. Address DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE CO. AGENTS WANTED. NEW YORK.

GOOD BOOKS. Everybody NEEDS one or more of the following [illegible] and really valuable volumes, sent prepaid [illegible] named. HUNTER'S GUIDE AND TRAPPER'S COMPANION, all about Hunting, Trapping, Fishing, Raising [illegible] &c.; 100 pages, ONLY reliable work, only 25 cts. [illegible] AND TRAPS OF AMERICA, a complete expose of the doings of every Swindler, Quack and Humbug in America. Near 100 pp., contains list of hundreds of swindlers. It will "post you" and save you much money. [illegible] THOMPSON'S GUIDE, or How to Teach Ventriloquism. Full instructions, examples, anecdotes, also how to make the whistle to imitate all Birds and Beasts, only 25 cents. ART OF TRAINING AND BREAKING HORSES, also the Complete Horse Doctor. A large octavo book, and the best ever issued, tells all you, every farmer should it, only 25 cents. ART AND MYSTERY OF MAKING [illegible]. All about it, How to "pop," and everything about it, only 25 cents. MAGIC MADE EASY. How to do all tricks in legerdemain, best book on subject, only 20 cents. SECRETS OF LOVE, 15 cts., elegant chromo cover, only 30 cents. Any book sent free on receipt of price. Catalogue free. Address all orders to the old established house of HUNTER & CO., Hinsdale, N. H.

A Farm of Your Own

—IS—

The Best Remedy for Hard Times!

FREE HOMESTEADS

AND THE

Best and Cheapest Railroad Land

Are on the Line of the Union Pacific Railroad,

IN

NEBRASKA.

Secure a Home Now.

Full information sent FREE to all parts of the World. Address O. F. DAVIS, Land Com'r, U. P. R. R., Omaha, Neb.

WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND LIME.

Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil and Lime.—Persons who have been taking Cod Liver Oil will be pleased to learn that Dr. Wilbor has succeeded, from directions of several professional gentlemen, in combining the pure oil and lime in such a manner that it is pleasant to the taste, and its effects in Lung Complaints are truly wonderful. Very many persons whose cases were pronounced hopeless, and who had taken the clear oil for a long time without marked effect, have been entirely cured by using this preparation. Be sure and get the genuine. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, BOSTON. Sold by all druggists.

REGISTERED. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL. TRADE MARK.

SAFE AND RELIABLE.

Have You Weak Lungs?

Have You a Cough or Cold?

Have You Pain in Your Breast?

Have You any Throat Disease?

Have You Consumption?

USE DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

Are You Weak and Debilitated?

Do You Suffer from Indigestion?

Do You require a Tonic?

Have You No Appetite?

Do You need Building Up?

Do You wish to be Strong and Healthy?

USE DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

Sold by all Druggists.

Principal Depot,

No. 232 North Second St., Phila.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Fruit House Bulletin

All Goods Retailed at Wholesale Prices

This is the Only Secret of Our Immense Trade.

We purchase at first hands and sell direct to the consumer, so there is no middleman to eat up profit. Some goods—take teas for instance—pass through four different hands before they reach consumers, and each one has to have his profit, so that 60 to 80 per cent. is added to price. The importer has his profit of 10 per cent., the jobbing merchant his profit of 10 per cent., the speculator and wholesale merchants, 15 to 20 per cent. and the retailer all he can get. So Sugars, Coffees, Spices, Prunes, Fruits, Tobaccos, Liquors, or anything we deal in. Our customers get the benefit of all these intermediate profits. No middlemen with us. We are having a great run on Prunes. The Finest

PRUNES ONLY 8c A POUND.

They hardly ever sell lower than 12½c. and when you consider that Dried Apples are 12c, we all know a pound of Prunes will go farther and are considered much richer eating.

TEAS REDUCED

"A penny saved is two pence got." Ten cents reduction on teas. The continued dullness in trade [illegible] coupled with the large number of failures in the tea trade, has completely demoralized the market. Teas we used to sell at $1,40, and lately $1,10 per pound, we now sell at $1 per pound. Either Young Hyson, Imperial or Gunpowder, the very best qualities, now $1 per pound. The best uncolored Japan now 80c, was 90c, the best Oolong now 80c, was 95c. Other grades as low 25c per pound, up to 30, 50, and 70c per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	30 and 50c
Second Best Rio,	23c

Sugars.

New Orleans and Refined Granulated Crushed and Powdered	11c	New Orleans clarified	9c
Coffee A.	10½c	" "	8c
" C.	10c	Good brown	8c

CANNED FRUITS.

Peaches per can	15c	Pumpkin per can	10c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Hominey per can	10c
Canned Corn, per can	10 and 20c

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia Raisins, per pound	12½c	Peaches per pound	12c
Pitted Cherries per pound	35c	Apples per pound	12c
Raspberries per pound	45c

Wines and Liquors.

Good Whiskey, one year old, per gallon	$1 00	Port and Sherry Wines, per gallon,	1 50, in bottle 50c
Rye Whiskey, two years old	1 25	Sweet Angelica and California Muscatel, per gallon, 3 00; in bottles	70c
Three year old The $3 is for medical use and no better is sold anywhere.	1 75 3 00	Whiskey in bottles	30c and 50c
CANDIES—Best Stick per pound	16c	French Mixed, choice, per pound	20c

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

Good Navy and Twist, per pound..	45 and 50c	Smoking Tobacco	25c, best 40c
Fine Kentucky Bright	60 and 70c	Shorts, best	37

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Coal Oil and Rose Oil, per gallon	20c	Machine Oil, Dark Virginia, per gallon
Fish Oil and Lard Oil, per gallon	1 00	Best Refined	70c
Neatsfoot Oil, per gallon	$1 00

We are Bound to Keep up Our Reputation of Underselling all others And Save You at least

25 Cents on the Dollar

Fruit House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Auburn Fruit House

JUST OPENED

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

Read the Following Prices

TEAS:

Young Hyson from	85 cents to $1.00
Japan "	90 cents to $1.00
Oolong "	70 cents to $1.00
Gunpowder "	60 cents to $1.00

OFFEES:

Roasted Coffee from	25 cents to [illegible]
Best Rio	25 cents
Best Java & Mocha	38 cents
African Male Java	45 cents

SUGARS:

Double Refined A	11 cents
Brown from	8 cents to 10cts
Hard & Pulverized	12½ "

Canned Fruit from......10 to 32 cents	Lemons, per dozen.......... 50c
White Fish per kit.........$1.40	White Fish per half barrell......$5.50
Syrups from.........75c to 1.00	Soap, endless variety, per bar 5 & 10c
Dried Beef, Hams and Peckeled pork	Western Reserve Cheese........15 cts

Dried Fruits.

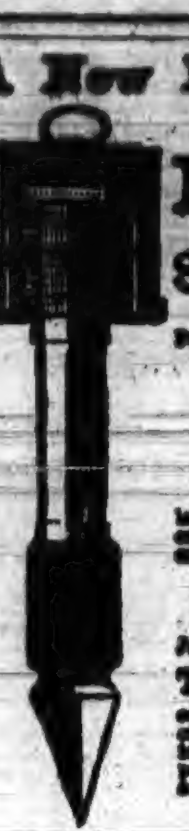
Apples from	11 to 12½
Prunes from	11 to 15
Choice Raisins from	15 to 20

Coal and Head Light Oil. Best Crackers of all kinds at the lowest prices.—Too many goods to enumerate. Call in and price them. Remember the place is the

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

E. E. WILLIAMS.

A New Method of Draining Farms!



YUNDT'S PATENT DRAIN!

FOR DRAINING

Swamps, Ponds & Low Lands.

It sinks the water just where it stands, saving miles of tile drains; keeps the water from coming up your highways, or flooding your neighbor's, and is as far superior to tile drains as the railroad is to the common wagon.

TESTIMONIAL.

We, the undersigned, having seen one of Yundt's Patent Drains [illegible]

[illegible] HENRY GOLDTHWAIT, J. W. GRIFFITH, [illegible] D. V. ROSS, LYMAN CASE, [illegible] F. NORTON.

One of the [illegible]

Three Hours Had Drained the Cellar

of over 2,000 gallons of water. No better investment can be made [illegible] Address

J. E. YUNDT, Indianapolis, Ind.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has an exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his potrons the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

n American & S wiss atches,

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,

Jewelry,

Clocks, Silver Ware!

GOLD PENS,

Ladies GOLD Chains,

Gents Chains,

Gold and Silver Rings,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Grand Display

The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of

Wall and Window Paper!

SHADES AND FIXTURERS.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Miscellaneous and Blank Books,

Pocket Books,
Bill Books,
Wallets,
Memorandas,
Bibles,
Albums,
Testaments,
Pass Books

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONARY,

Pictures, Picture-cord and Tassel.
Box Papers in great variety,
School Supplies of all kinds,
—AT—

C. P. HOUSER'S,

Main Street, opposite Ford's Block, AUBURN, IND.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 18—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30am	12 25p	3 00p	[illegible]
Noblesville	7 00	12 55	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 00	1 15	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 27	1 50	6 32	3 08
Kokomo	9 11	2 35	7 06
Peru	10 05	3 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 0[illegible]	4 14a	9 3[illegible]
Noblesville	4 47	3 13	8 34
Tipton	3 56	2 30	7 44
Kokomo	3 15	1 50	7 02
Miami	2 46	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

E. C. MURPHY, Supt. Mich. Div.
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. B. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R.
Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 21, 1875 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST.

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	3:45 p.m.	2:35 a.m.	7:55 p.m.
Waterloo	3:00 "	2:52 "	8:14 "
Sedan	3.07	3.01	8:22 "
Corunna	3.13	3.06	8:30 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.10 pm	11.25 pm	5:35 a.m
Sedan	3.20	11.40	6:40 "
Waterloo	2:37 "	11:50 "	6:52 "
Butler	2:47 "	x12:11 a.m	7:15 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Nov 21, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	1 00 pm	3 45am	pm
Ossian	2 55
Bluffton	3 25	5 00	7 00
Keystone	3 54
Montpelier	4 02	5 45	7 23
Hartford	4 25pm	6 00	7 50
Eaton	4 50	6 25	8 12
Muncie	5 20	6 55	8 46
McCowan's	5 37
New Castle	6 15
Cam. City	6 42
Bessons	7 11
Connersville	7 25
Indianapolis	7 40	9 30	11 15
Louisville		pm
Cincinnati	10 30	am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 00am
Louisville			pm
Indianapolis		7 35pm	4 45am
Connersville	10 45
Bessons	11 00
Cam City	11 18
New Castle	11 55
McCowans	12 30pm
Muncie	12 52	10 00	7 15am
Eaton	1 00	11 20	7 51
Hartford	1 27	10 45	8 15
Montpelier	1 51	11 10	8 45
Keystone	2 00		8 55
Bluffton	2 30	11 45am	9 23
Ossian	2 55		10 05
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. RILLIS, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Ind. Exp.
Cincinnati
Louisville	7 00pm			40
Indianapolis	4 45am			25
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 5[illegible]		45
Auburn	11 22	6 [illegible]		4 41
Waterloo	11 33	6 4[illegible]		01
Summit				50
Pleasant Lake				55
Ar Angola	12 45pm	5 00	5 30	10
Reading	1 45		7 00	55
Bankers	2 00		7 20	6 45
Jonesville	2 20		7 35	10 15
Jackson	2 5[illegible]		9 35	6 00
Detroit	6 15p m		12 30	8 27
Grand Rapids	10 15			11 37
Lansing	5 45
Saginaw	9 00
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 40 a m		4 10p
Lansing	11 07		7 28
Grand Rapids	6 00		11 30a
Detroit	10 50		5 40p
Jackson Dep	1 30 p m		9 40
Jonesville	2 [illegible]		11 00
Bankers	2 [illegible]		11 20
Reading	2 47		11 35
Ar Angola	3 40	6 15	12 44
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 [illegible]	7 35	1 33
Auburn Junction	4 38	8 00	1 52
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 20	9 20	2 45
Indianapolis	11 15	7 40 p	9 30
Louisville	8 45 am	11 10
Cincinnati		10 30

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS
Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Nov. 21st, 1875.

Going East				Going West
No. 6 Fre't	No. 4 Expre	No 2	STATIONS	No 1	No. 3	No. 7 L. F.
6.00p	4.00p	10.20	lv Logans'p't ar	11.00	6.3[illegible]	[illegible].00a
6.35	4.15	10.45	Adamsboro.	10.45	6.38	12.25
7.05	4.35	10.57	Hoover's	10.32	6.27	12.00
7.20	4.45	11.08	Mexico	10.25	6.19	11.48
7.40	4.58	11.35	Denver.	10.15	6.10	11.25
7.54	5.00	11.35	Chili	10.07	5.58	1.12
8.22	5.12	11.48	Roann	9.55	5.40	10.43
8.55	5.28	12.04	Laketon	9.40	5.26	10.10
9.15	5.43	12.13	N. Manchest'r	9.30	5.15	10.40
9.3[illegible]	5.43p	12.30	Lib. Mills	9.21	5.04	9.33
9.56	5.52	12.30	Collamer	9.10	4.57	9.14
10.06	5.56	12.50	S. Whitley	9.05	4.56	9.05
10.2[illegible]	6.00	12.57	Taylor's	8.56	4.41	8.42
10.50	6.20	1.09	Columbia city	8.38	4.30	8.20
11.20	6.34	1.15	Collin's	8.27	4.16	7.50
11.40	6.46	1.25	Churubusco	8.15	4.05	7.25
12.00	6.55	1.36	Potter's	8.06	3.56	7.26
12.16			G. R. Crossing
12.30	7.11	1.51	Cedar Creek	7.50	3.39	6.46
12.53	7.23	2.00	Aub. Junct'n	7.36	3.28	6.22
1.00	7.26	2.04	Auburn	7.32	3.23	6.15
1.30	7.36	2.17	Moorsville	7.15	3.10	5.45
2.00	7.50	[illegible]	ar. Butler lv.	7.00a	3.00p	5.15

CONNECTIONS.—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y, for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. D. M. UTRARD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney
AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Make a first door north of Miller & Chamber's store.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAN
AND
Pacific Railroad.

The Direct Route for

JOLIET, MORRIS, LA SALLE, PERU, [illegible]
LACON, PEORIA, GENESEO, MOLINE,
ROCK ISLAND, DAVENPORT
MUSCATINE, WASHINGTON
IOWA CITY, GRINNELL,
NEWTON, DES MOINES,

Council Bluffs and Omaha

WITHOUT CHANGE OF CARS,

Where it joins with the Union Pacific Railroad for Denver, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, San Francisco and

All Points West of the Pacific Coast.

Trains leave daily as follows:

Omaha, Leavenworth & Atchison Express, [Sundays excepted]	10 00 a m
Peru Accommodation [Sat ex]	5 00 p m
Omaha Express [Sun ex]	10 00 p m

KANSAS LINE.

The Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co. have now opened their Southwestern Division between Leavenworth and Chicago, connecting at Leavenworth with Kansas Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads and at Atchison with Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Central Branch, Union Pacific and Atchison and Nebraska railroads, for all points in Kansas, Indian Territories, Colorado and New Mexico.

This company have built a full complement of Palace Drawing room and sleeping cars, which for external beauty and interrior arrangements for the comfort, convenience and luxury of passengers are unexcelled if equalled, by any other cars of the kind in the world.

Through Tickets for sale at all General Railway offices in the States and Canada.

HUGH RIDDLE, Gen Supt.
A. M. SMITH Gen Pass Agent,

CALIFORNIA.

THE CHICAGO & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY

Embraces under the management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the West and North-west, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, California and the Western Territories. Its

Omaha & California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line.

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and for Madison, St. Paul Minneapolis, Duluth and all points in the great Northwest. Its

Winona and St Peter Line

Is the only rout for Winona, Rochester, Owatonna Mankato, St Peter New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Janesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghton, Hancock and the Lake Superior Country. Its.

Freeport and Debuque Line

Is the only rout for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its.

Chicago & Milwauke Line

Is the old Lake Shore route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

Pullmun Palace Cars

are run on all through trains on the road.

This is the only line running these cars between Chicago and St Paul Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our sleepers connect with the Overland sleepers on the Union Pacific railroad for all points west of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago & North-Western Railway leave Chicago as follows

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St Paul and Minneapolis, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, two trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four through trains daily, Pullman Cars on night trains Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta and Winona and points in Minnesota, One through train daily, with Pullman sleepers to Winona.

For Debuque, via Freeport, two through trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains

For Debuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, two through trains daily with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, two trains daily Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Genevy, four trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points, you can have from two to ten trains daily.

New York Office, No. 415 Broadway, Boston office No. 5 State Street, Omaha office, 253, Farnham Street San Francisco office, 2[illegible], Montgomery Street, Kinzie Street Depot, corner of W Kinzie and Canal Streets Wells Street Depot, corner of Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agent, apply to.

W. H. STENNETT, Gen Pas' Ag't, Chicago.
MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen Sup't, Chicago

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, Dec 12, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No 3 Night ex.
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	5 50 pm	8 30 a.m	3 00 p.
Rochester	3 11 "	....	9 45 "	4 10 "
Alliance	5 25 "	8 35 pm	12 50 p.m	7 00 "
Orrville	7 12"	....	2 50 "	8 50 "
Mansfield	9 25"	....	5 14 "	10 58 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 00 "	11 45pm	5 50 "	11 20 "
" lv.	10 20 "	4 50am	6 25 p.m	11 50 "
Forest	11 40 "	6 25 "	8 13 "	1 07 am
Lima	12 40 p.m	7 55 "	9 35 "	2 10 "
Ft. Wayne	3 00 "	10 45 "	12 01 a.m	5 10 "
Plymouth	5 06 "	1 43 pm	3 55 a.m	8 08 "
Chicago	8 20 "	5 35 "	6 30 "	9 20 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail
Chicago	10 20p.m	9 20a.m	5 35 p.m	5 25am
Plymouth	1 56a.m	12 09 p.m	9 05 "	9 25 "
Ft. Wayne	4 55 "	2 40 "	11 45 "	12 20pm
Lima	7 08 "	4 35 "	2 10 a.m	2 48 "
Forest	8 30 "	5 37 "	3 10 "	4 00 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 20 "	7 00 "	4 40 "	5 45 "
" lv.	10 40a.m	7 20 "	4 50 "	6 05am
Mansfield	11 11	7 50 "	5 20 "	6 40 "
Orrville	1 15 p.m	9 50 "	7 12 "	9 10 "
Alliance	3 15 "	11 25 "	9 00 "	11 20 "
Rochester	5 45 "	1 25a.m	11 12 "	2 07pm
Chicago	6 55 "	2 30 "	12 15p.m	3 "

Through Mail, (Limited,) leaves Pittsburg daily at 5.50 p.m., stopping only at Alliance, 8.35 p.m Crestline, 11.45 p. m. Fort Wayne 3.50 a. m., arrives at Chicago at 8.55 a. m.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	8 15pm
Tiffin	8 00	8 22	8 38
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 18
Deshler	[illegible]	10 32	8 35
Defiance	11 32	11 38	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 00am	11 10
Auburn Junction	1 05	1 07	11 15
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 30	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 00	4 05	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25 pm	....	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	....	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	....	2 30
Avilla	3 01	....	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 16	11 15	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 25	1 00pm	9 12

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tick. Agt.

Readers Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 6. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, FEBRUARY 17th, 1876. Number 7.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3 m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office opposite N. W. Cor. Public Square.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store. Cool's Block, North of Court House.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTEL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago. O SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER Clerk.

Junction Hotel,

JAMES SMITH, PRO'R.

Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.
L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Thomas Baldock
Building Contractor
AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society,

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer, in

FINE FURNITURE,
CHAIRS
Husk & Hair Matrasses
50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND

NEW
Meat Market

The undersigned has opened a meat market at Markle's old stand, where he will keep constantly on hand a good supply of fresh meats of all kinds, at reasonable prices, and asks a share of the public patronage.
Nov, 1-3m. JOHN TRESH.

JAS. CLIFFORD.
WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,
Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

THE AUBURN
Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the [illegible].

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

BAKER BROS.
PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!
AND
EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.
BAKER BROS.

OPIUM

Habit cured. Chinese mode of cure, painless. No publicity. Does not interfere with business or pleasure. Cure guaranteed. Address or consult, DR. WILFORD, Toledo, O.

WOMEN

Diseases peculiar to women treated as a specialty. Cures guaranteed in all curable cases. Address or consult DR. WILFORD, Toledo, Ohio,

Chronic Diseases

of all kinds successfully treated by DR. WILFORD, Toledo, O. Thirty years of experience should insure confidence.

IT IS HERE.

WHAT

The Largest Fine Stock of Fine

Hats, Caps,
GLOVES, ETC., ETC.

Ever brought to Auburn. Those wanting this line of good can get them from [illegible] to 150 per cent cheaper than they were ever sold before in the county by calling on

WILLIAM LESSIG

LORDIER,

THE FORT WAYNE,

Boot & Shoe!
Store

Is the popular place for all kinks of

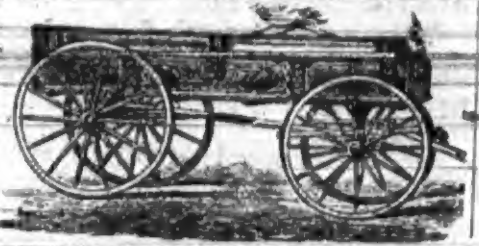
BOOT & SHOES

All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely

LOW PRICES

Custom work done th[illegible] best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.
Remember place
At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store, next to the Bank.

The Auburn



WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,
And constructed with all the late improvements—
The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS
—OF—
J. W. SHAFFER
South Main Street

is now in full running order and all orders fo

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

New Books!
JUST ISSUED BY
The Authors' Publishing Co.,
27 BOND STREET, NEW YORK.

(Incorporated, 1873. Paid up Capitol, $100,000)

I. HIGHER THOUGHT.

Evolution and Progress; by Wm. I Gill, A. M Price $1 50.
Analytical Processes. by Rev Wm. I. Gill, A. M. price. 2 00
Ecclesiology; by E. J. Fish, D. D. 2 00
Lineage of Language, by J. N. Fradenburg. Ph. D. 3 00

II. ÆSTHETIC THOUGHT.

Wild Flowers Poem by C. W. Hubner, Price $1.25; Gilt $1 75,
Irene: A Prize Story, by Mrs B. F. Baer 1 25
Her Waiting Heart; Novel, by Lou Capsadell 1 25
Egypt Lands: Novel by Kelsie Etheridge 50
Travelers' Grab Bag; by an Old Traveler. 50
Slippers and Gown; by Kelsie Etheridge. In press.
Guarded by a Fearylie Mrs. M. B. Sheridan. In press.

III. PRACTICAL THOUGHT.

Gold and Free Banks, by M. R. Pilon $ 75
The Grangers; by M. R. Pilon 50
Manuscript Manual: How to prepare MSS 10
Free Trade; by M. R. Pilon. In press.

For sale in all book stores, or mail postpaid on receipt of price by the publishers. Descriptive Catalogue free.

☞ If you have a book to publish send stamp for pamphlet for the new plan of publishing, inaugurated by the A. P. Co.

CARPETS,
FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,
26 East Berry street

On The War Path

Terrible Slaughter in Dry Goods

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,
Notions, etc., of
CHARLES KLOTZ
AT HIS
Old Stand
ON MAN STREET,
Opposite Court Square
AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING
Of all descriptions, and
HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!

THE FIRST
National Bank
OF AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight
Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.
Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.
Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.
Loans negotiated and business papers discounted
Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:
J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:
JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.
April 29, 1875.

PENCIL AND SCISSORS.

Don't forget Sammy Pommert, when you want a first-class haircut.

The boys had better keep away from the creek, before some of them gets drowned.

We notice Melvin Bowers on the streets again, after a long stay in the Buckeye state.

Samuel Maxfield has returned to the city with his target gun, and can be found at the Seventh street billiard hall.

The Angola "Herald" at its third issue made its appearance at our office last week, with thirteen requests on its wrapper to exchange, we were overcome and responded. The Herald in appearence and matter takes a front seat as a live sound and sensible paper, and wish it and its proprieters many years of prosperity and usefulness.

If DeKalb County can suffer the infliction of five papers, we see no good reason that two cannot be readily supported in Steuben

The confirmed gossip is always either malicious or ignorant. The one variety needs a change of heart, and the other a change of pasture. Gossip is always a personal confession either of malice or imbecility, and the young should not only shun it, but by the most thorough culture relieve themselves from all temptation to indulge in it. It is low frivolous and too often a dirty business. There are country neighborhoods in which it rages like a pest. Churches are split in pieces, by it for life. In persons it degenerates into a chronic disease, which is practically incurable. Let the young cure it while they may.—Dr. Holland in Scribner.

Colored Ku-Klux.

Noblesville Ledger.

Several colored girls a few nights ago dressed in the male garb and made it lively for a young man and woman of their color who were promenading the streets in illicit love. After they got through with the young man he departed almost as nude as a statue. The female they punished by giving her a severe padding upon the portion of the anatomy where it would do the most good. This is what may be called practical crusading.

Township Assessors.—As there appears to be a question in the minds of many as to whether the law providing for the appointment of a county assessor was repealed by the last General Assenbly or not the Columbus "Democrat, states for the information of all interested that it was. The law as it now stands provides for the election, in each township, at the general election in October of 1876, and every two years thereafter, of an assessor who shall hold his office for two years and until his successor is elected and qualified. The duties of the assessor are the same as heretofore, except in the matter of assessing real-estate, which now is done every five years instead of every two. As this assessment was made last year, no listing of real-estate will take place again until 1880.

[illegible] Miller & Casebeer's and get an Overcoat without money

SHALL WE REFUND.

A Question Now Agitating The Public Minds Around The State House.

A Question of Great Importance to The Financial Branch of The State—Millions In It.

A question of very great importance to the financial branch of the state government was yesterday so placed before the auditor of state that a hand conflict must follow before an answer can be reached. It will be remembered, that a number of years ago certain lands through-out the state were declared to be sacred to the school fund by special act of legislature, and that the educational revenues were from time to time increased by proceeds of the sales of this property. There are but few counties in the state not represented more or less in these donation acres now occupied by thousands who have purchased of the state. The lands were sold on ten years time, the purchasers receiving a certificate of purchase at the time, but no title until the last notes had been paid. The transaction was exactly like giving a bond for a deed. The parties buying on these terms were taxed on the state and county duplicates presisely as if the land was owned by them in fee simple, and for the full period of ten years these taxes were paid without protest. No complaints were made and probably not imagined till some few months ago when certain omnious growls were heard from the regions of Howard and Grant counties, and the question began to be agitated, and was even, in some shape, not very binding, brought to the attention of the officers of the state. But now the matter has taken a more serious turn and the question must be met. Judge Brownlee, of Grant count who is interested in securing the claims of property holders in Tipton and other counties, brought the demand to a crisis yesterday by opening war on the auditor of state with a mandamus. The complaint was made out in the name of Nathan R. Overman, and the auditor was asked to issue a warrant to the relator for the amount of his claim in these taxes paid. The auditor upon advice of Attorney General Buskirk, waived all process of service and the matter will be brought before Judge Howland of the Civil Circuit Court, and in the event the mandamus is sustained an appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court. When it is remembered that over $100,000 is involved in these claims on account of state taxations alone, and more than twice as much on county taxations, the matter assumes gigantic importance. Let the Tiptonians succeed in their suit and all other counties will at once rush in through the open door, and a special levy will be required to satisfy their claims. The complainants rely on certain technicalities in a recent decision of the supreme bench, but the attorney general is prepared to give them a warm reception.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

How to Jugge a Town.

The Jefferson City (Mo) Journal tells this:

About a week ago a gentleman from Tennessee, representing a capital of $20,000, in search of a good locality in which to engage in business gave us a call, and after stating his mission West asked to look at our paper. We handed him the Morning Journal and to our surprise he did not stop to read our newsy local "pick-up," or our attractive editorial page, but turned at once to our advertising colums, and commenced counting our advertisers and measuring their space.

"Well," said he, glancing up from the paper, "is that all; is that the business of this town?"

"Oh, no," said we, here is the Tribune with a few advertisements that don't appear in the Journal."

He then counted two addition local business advetisements in the Tribune, and again looked up with the remark:

"And that's all, is it? Why you haven't got near so much of a town as I thought you had.

And then we explained to him that we have a great many business men who do not advertise.

"They are not business men to hurt if they do not advertise," was his answer.

We could not contradict him, and we were powerless to vindicate the claims of our city.

He left us saying if he had time he would look around, but this was no place for him.

This is only one instance and a fact.

Now is your time to call on Miller & Casebeer to get a good overcoat without money.

Things I'v Seen.

From Kokomo Tribune.

I'v seen boys fifteen years old, who thought they knew more than men of fifty.

I'v seen rich men who were more miserable than beggars.

I'v seen men who presented a rough exterior, who possessed warm and greatful hearts.

I'v seen men who drank whisky all their lives who always wondered why their neighbors were richer in this world's goods than they.

I'v seen husbands who attend "lodge" every night in the week, if their wives believed this statement.

I'v seen candidates for office who forgot their friends as soon as the election was over.

I'v seen people who knew more of theory than they did of practice.

I'v seen ministers who never practiced what they preached.

I'v seen young ladies who were more vain than pretty.

I'v seen men who were all bedecked with jewels, who did not make a dewel of a husband.

I'v seen men who harbored a dozen dogs about their premises, who complained about "hard times.

I'v seen men who were a perfect nuisance—they were book agents.

I'v seen very smart people who were nothing more than a walking dictionary bound in calf.

I'v seen people who were as unreliable as a gas-meter.

I'v seen ladies who got mad when their husband bought them the most fashionble kind of a bonnet—such ladies are scarce in "these parts.

I'v seen women who chewed tobacco and smoke cigars. Why shoudn't they be granted the same rights as the men?

Obituary.

Died, on the morning of Friday, January 28th, in Concord Township, Thomas Samuel, second son, of Robert M. and Elizabeth Widney, aged 25 years. The day previous, the 27th, being his birthday. Thomas was a dutiful and affectionate son, a kind and loving brother, a genial, faithful, and confiding companion, who made friends where-ever he went. His disease was painful, and lingering, but he bore it all with fortitude, and resignation. When the time of his departure drew near, he called his parents, and three sisters, who stood weeping around his bedside, and taking them by the hand, bade them an affectionate good bye, embracing, and kissing them, again, and again, telling them he was happy, and willing, and even anxious to die, and that he expected to meet them all again, He sent affectionate good bye messages, to his absent brothers and sisters, and all his friends. He died firm in the faith of a worlds salvation from sin, and suffering, through Christ, the great mediator, and Reconciler, and with calmness, and composure, making the arrangements for his funeral Truly it was a most affecting scene, to witness.

Farewell dear Thomas, till we meet again,
In that blest region, free from sin, and pain;
We miss the here on earth. but know full well,
Thy happy spirit lives, where angels dwell.

R. M. WIDNEY.

—The Committee on Expenditures of the war Department have been gradually collecting facts and information from various sources, with a view of making a thorough investigation of all its bureaus and branches, the manner of expending the approhriations, the necessary cost and the actual outlay, the excrescences that have grown up and whatever abuses may exist. This process of inquiry is necessarily tedious, because the department is not disposed to exhibit its own weakness, or to lay bare the secrets of expenditures, which the Secretary and his suroundings have an interest in continuing as they now stand. Therefore the committee have to grope their way, to rely mainly in their researches upon outside aid, and then to sift the statements thus obtained with caution, from the danger of being misled. The belief that there had been undue delay in prosecuting this investigation is erroneous. We are gratified in being able to state upon the best authority that Mr. Heister Clymer, the Chairman of this committee has not only been in earnest from the beginning but that he is determined to spare no phins or effort in overhauling the war Department to the full extent of all the powers with which he is clothed. If there has been extravagance, or fraud, or jobbery or improper administration, he means to find it out and to apply the proper remedy.—Sun.

FOR EXCHANGE.—Good Real Estate for a stock of goods. Adress, box 180 Fort Wayne, Ind. 3t.

Fruit House Bulletin

All Goods Retailed at Wholesale Prices

This is the Only Secret of Our Immense Trade.

We purchase at first hands and sell direct to the consumer, as there is no middlemen to eat up profits. Some goods—take teas for instance—pass through four different hands before they reach consumers, and each one has to have his profit, so that 40 to 50 per cent. is added to price. The importer has his profit of 10 per cent., the jobbing merchant his profit of 10 per cent., the speculator and wholesale merchants, 10 to 20 per cent. and the retailer all he can get. So Sugars, Coffee, Spices, Prunes, Fruits, Tobaccos, Liquors, or anything we deal in. Our customers get the benefit of all these intermediate profits. No middlemen with us. We are having a great run on Prunes. The Finest

PRUNES ONLY 8c A POUND.

They hardly ever sell lower than 12½c. and when you consider that Dried Apples are 12c. we all know a pound of Prunes will go farther and are considered much richer eating.

TEAS REDUCED

"A penny saved is two pence got." Ten cents reduction on teas. The continued dullness in trade, coupled with the large number of failures in the tea trade, has completely demoralized the market. Teas we used to sell at $1,60, and lately $1,10 per pound, we now sell at $1 per pound. Either Young Hyson, Imperial or Gunpowder, the very best qualities, now $1 per pound. The best uncolored Japan now 80c, was 90c, the best Oolong now 80c, was 95c. Other grades as low 25c per pound, up to 30, 60, and 70c per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	20 and 30c
Second Best Rio,	23c

Sugars.

New Orleans and Refined Granulated Crushed and Powdered	11c	New Orleans clarified	9c
Coffee A.	10½c	" "	8c
" C.	10c	Good brown	8c

CANNED FRUITS.

Peaches per can	18c	Pumpkin per can	10c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Hominey per can	10c
Canned Corn, per can	10 and 20c

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia Raisins, per pound	12½c	Peaches per pound	12c
Pitted Cherries per pound	35c	Apples per pound	12c
Raspberries per pound	65c

Wines and Liquors.

Good Whiskey, one year old, per gallon	$1 00	Port and Sherry Wines, per gallon, bottle	1 50, in 50c
Rye Whiskey, two years old	1 25	Sweet Angelica and California Muscatel, per gallon, 3 00; in bottles	70c
Three year old	1 75 2 00	Whiskey in bottles	30c and 50c
The $2 is for medical use and no better is sold anywhere.
CANDIES—Best Stick per pound	20c	French Mixed, choice, per pound	30c

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

Good Navy and Twist, per pound..	45 and 60c	Smoking Tobacco	25c, best 40c
Fine Kentucky Bright	60 and 70c	Shorts, best	37

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Coal Oil and Rose Oil, per gallon	20c	Machine Oil, Dark Virginia, per gallon
Fish Oil and Lard Oil, per gallon	1 00	Best Refined	75c
Neatsfoot Oil, per gallon	$1.00

We are Bound to Keep up Our Reputation of Underselling all others And Save You at least

25 Cents on the Dollar

Fruit House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Auburn Fruit House

JUST OPENED

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

Read the Following Prices

TEAS:

Young Hyson from	85 cents to $1.00
Japan "	90 cents to $1.00
Oolong "	70 cents to $1.00
Gunpowder "	60 cents to $1.00

OFFEES:

Roasted Coffee from	25 cents to 1)
Best Rio	25 cents
Best Java & Mocha	38 cents
African Male Java	46 cents

SUGARS:

Double Refined A	11 cents
Brown from	8 cents to 10cts
Hard & Pulverized	12½ "

Canned Fruit from......10 to 32 cents	Lemons, per dozen...... 50c
White Fish per kit..........$1.40	White Fish per half barrell......$5.50
Syrups from.........75c to 1.00	Soap, endless variety, per bar 5 & 10c
Dried Beef, Hams and Peckeled pork	Western Reserve Cheese........15 cents

Dried Fruits.

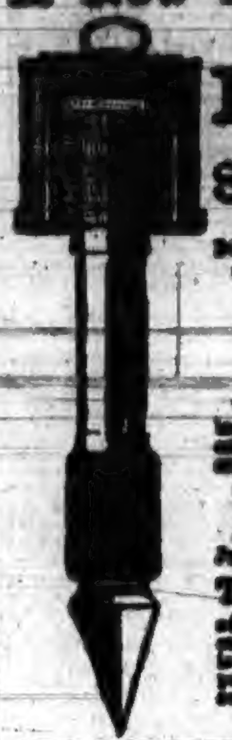
Apples from	11 to 12½
Prunes from	11 to 15
Choice Raisins from	15 to 20

Coal and Head Light Oil. Best Crackers of all kinds at the lowest prices.— Too many goods to enumerate. Call in and price them. Remember the place in the

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

E. E. WILLIAMS.

A New Method of Draining Farms!



YUNDT'S PATENT DRAIN!

FOR DRAINING

Swamps, Ponds & Low Lands.

It drains the water just where it stands, saving miles of tile draining; keeps the water from cutting up your highways, or flooding your neighbor's, and is as far superior to tile draining as the railroad is to the common wagon.

TESTIMONIAL.

We, the undersigned, having seen one of Yundt's Patent Drains [illegible] large pond of stagnant water, on [illegible] street, in this city, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] who have wet cellars, or are troubled with ponds of water [illegible] all that is claimed for it.

[illegible] HENRY GOLDSTEWART, J. W. [illegible]
[illegible] D. V. ROSS, LYMAN CASE,
[illegible] F. NORTON,

One of the [illegible] was put down [illegible] of J. P. [illegible] Jr., [illegible] National Bank, in this city, and in [illegible]

Three Hours Had Drained the Cellar

of over 2,000 gallons of water. No better investment can be made of idle capital than in working territory with this Drain. A good, energetic Agent is wanted in every city and county, to whom a liberal commission will be paid. State, County, Township or Farm Rights for sale. Personal property or real estate taken in exchange for territory. Address

J. H. YUNDT, Indianapolis, Ind.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $200.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has an exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his potrons the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

ll American & Swiss atches,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that, I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,

Jewelry,

Clocks, Silver Ware!

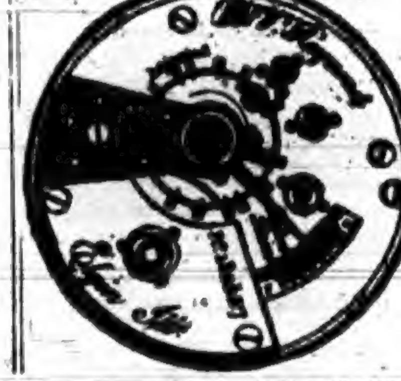
GOLD PENS,

Ladies GOLD Chains,

Gents Chains,

Gold and Silver Rings,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,



Grand Display

The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of

Wall and Window Paper!

SHADES AND FIXTURERS.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Miscellaneous and Blank Books,

Pocket Books,
Bill Books,
Wallets,
Memorandas,
Bibles,
Albums,
Testaments,
Pass Books

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONARY,

Pictures, Picture-cord and Tassel.
Box Papers in great variety,
School Supplies of all kinds,
—AT—

C. P. HOUSER'S,

Main Street, opposite Ford's Block, AUBURN, IND.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R.R.

TIMETABLE No. 18—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30am	12 25p	3 00pm	3 25
Noblesville	7 44	12 [illegible]	5 10	1 20
Tipton	8 30	1 18	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 27	1 50	6 38	3 55
Kokomo	9 [illegible]	2 [illegible]	7 00
Peru	10 00	2 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 [illegible]	6 15a	9 [illegible]
Noblesville	4 47	3 12	8 34
Tipton	3 44	2 20	7 44
Kokomo	3 12	1 50	7 05
Miami	2 46	1 15	6 45
Peru	2 10	12 25	6 00

R. C. MURPHY, Supt Mich. Div,
R. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. D. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R

Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 21, 1875 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST.

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	3:48 p m.	2 2:35 a m.	7:55 p m
Waterloo	3:00 "	2:32 "	8:14 "
Sedan	3,07	3,01	8:28 "
Corunna	3,12	3,06	8:30 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2,10 pm	11,20 am	9:35 a m
Sedan	2,20	11,40	6:40 "
Waterloo	2:37 "	11:50 "	6:52 "
Butler	2:47 "	z12:11a m	7:15 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. B. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Nov 21, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	3 00 pm	8 45am	pm
Ossian	2 55
Bluffton	3 25	8 06	7 00
Keystone	3 54
Montpelier	4 02	8 42	7 32
Hartford	4 25pm	8 66	7 50
Eaton	4 50	6 25	8 12
Muncie	5 20	6 35	8 46
McCowan's	5 37
New Castle	6 15
Cam. City	6 52
Beesons	7 11
Connersville	7 25
Indianapolis	7 40	9 30	11 15
Louisville		pm
Cincinnati	10 30	am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 00am
Louisville			pm
Indianapolis		7 30pm	4 45am
Connersville	10 45
Beesons	11 00
Cam City	11 16
New Castle	11 55
McCowans	12 20pm
Muncie	12 52	10 00	7 15am
Eaton	1 00	11 20	7 51
Hartford	1 27	10 48	8 15
Montpelier	1 51	11 10	8 45
Keystone	2 00		8 55
Bluffton	2 30	11 40am	9 32
Ossian	2 55		10 05
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 25	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. KILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 16,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Ind. Exp.
Cincinnati
Louisville	7 00pm			40
Indianapolis	4 40am			35
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 [illegible]		45
Auburn	11 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	4 41
Waterloo	11 50	6 4		01
Summit				50
Pleasant Lake				58
Ar Angola	12 40pm	5 00	5 30	10
Reading	1 46		7 00	28
Bankers	2 [illegible]		7 28	6 44
Jonesville	2 [illegible]		7 52	10 15
Jackson	3 [illegible]		9 35	6 00
Detroit	6 10p m		12 30	8 37
Grand Rapids	10 15			11 37
Lansing	5 48
Saginaw	9 00
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City	7 40 a m			4 10p
Saginaw	11 37			7 28
Lansing	6 00			11 30a
Grand Rapids	10 30			5 40p
Detroit
Jackson .... Dep	1 30 p m			9 40
Jonesville	2 [illegible]			11 00
Bankers	2 [illegible]			11 20
Reading	2 47			11 35
Ar Angola	3 40	6 15		12 44
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 [illegible]	7 32		1 32
Auburn Junction	4 30	8 00		1 52
Fort Wayne, Arrive	5 20	9 20		2 45
Indianapolis	11 15	7 40 p		9 20
Louisville	5 45 am	11 10
Cincinnati		10 30

P. B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS

Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Nov. 21st, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 8 Fre't	No. 4 Expr's	No 2	STATIONS	No 1	No. 3	No. 7 L. F.
6.00p	4.00p	10.30	lv Logansp't ar	11.50	6.55p	7.00a
6.30	4.18	10.48	Adamsboro.	10.46	6.38	12.25
7.06	4.35	10.57	Hoover's	10.32	6.27	12.00
7.20	4.42	11.06	Mexico	10.25	6.19	11.45
7.40	4.55	11.35	Denver.	10.10	6.10	11.25
7.58	5.06	11.36	Chili	10.07	5.56	1.32
8.22	5.12	11.48	Roann	9.54	5.49	10.43
8.55	5.28	12.06	Laketon	9.40	5.38	10.10
9.15	5.53	12.12	N. Manchest'r	9.30	5.15	10.50
9.35	5.42p	12.30	Lib. Mills	9.21	5.06	9.35
9.56	5.52	12.30	Collamer	9.10	4.57	9.14
10.06	5.56	12.36	S. Whitley	9.06	4.56	9.05
10.28	6.06	12.57	Taylor's	8.54	4.41	8.42
10.50	6.20	1.00	Columbia city	8.42	4.30	8.20
11.20	6.34	1.12	Collin's	8.17	4.16	7.50
11.40	6.46	1.26	Churubusco	8.15	4.01	7.21
12.00	6.55	1.36	Potter's	8.05	3.54	7.10
12.16			G.R. Crossing
12.30	7.11	1.51	Cedar Creek	7.50	3.39	6.45
12.53	7.23	2.00	Aub. Juncti'n	7.36	3.28	6.22
1.00	7.26	2.04	Auburn	7.32	3.23	6.15
1.30	7.36	2.17	Mooresville	7.15	3.10	5.45
2.00	7.50	2.30	ar. Butler lv.	7.00a	3.00p	5.15

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y, for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Co. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. D. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st one door north of Miller & Chamber's store.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAN

AND

Pacific Railroad.

The Direct Route for

JOLIET, MORRIS, LA SALLE, PERU, [illegible] LACON, PEORIA, GENESEO, MOLINE, ROCK ISLAND, DAVENPORT MUSCATINE, WASHINGTON IOWA CITY, GRINNELL, NEWTON, DES MOINES.

Council Bluffs and Omaha

WITHOUT CHANGE OF CARS,

Where it joins with the Union Pacific Railroad for Denver, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, San Francisco and

All Points West of the Pacific Coast.

Trains leave daily as follows:

Omaha, Leavenworth & Atchison Express, [Sundays excepted]	10 00 a m.
Peru Accommodation [Sat ex]	5 00 p m.
Omaha Express [Sun ex]	10 00 p m.

KANSAS LINE.

The Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co., have now opened their Southwestern Division between Leavenworth and Chicago, connecting at Leavenworth with Kansas Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads and at Atchison with Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Central Branch, Union Pacific and Atchison and Nebraska railroads, for all points in Kansas, Indian Territories, Colorado and New Mexico.

This company have built a full complement of Palace Drawing-room and Sleeping cars, which for external beauty and interrior arrangements for the comfort, convenience and luxury of passengers are unexcelled if equalled, by any other cars of the kind in the world.

Through Tickets for sale at all General Railway offices in the States and Canada.

HUGH RIDDLE, Gen Supt.
A. M. SMITH Gen Pass Agent,

CALIFORNIA.

THE CHICAGO & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY

Embraces under the management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the West and North-west, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, California and the Western Territories. Its

Omaha & California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line.

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and for Madison, St. Paul Minneapolis, Duluth and all points in the great Northwest. Its

Winona and St Peter Line

Is the only rout for Winona, Rochester, Owatonna Mankato, St Peter New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Janesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghton, Hancock and the Lake Superior Country. Its.

Freeport and Debuque Line

Is the only rout for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its.

Chicago & Milwauke Line

Is the old Lake Shore route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

Pullman Palace Cars

are run on all through trains on the road.

This is the only line running these cars between Chicago and St Paul Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our sleepers connect with the Overland sleepers on the Union Pacific railroad for all points west of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago & North-Western Railway leave Chicago as follows

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St Paul and Minneapolis, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, two trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four through trains daily, Pullman Cars on night trains Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta and Winona and points in Minnesota, One through train daily, with Pullman sleepers to Winona.

For Debuque, via Freeport, two through trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains

For Debuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, two through trains daily with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, two trains daily Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Genevy, four trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points, you can have from two to ten trains daily.

New York Office, No. 415 Broadway, Boston office No. 5 State Street, Omaha office, 253, Farnham Street San Francisco office, 121, Montgomery Street, Kinzie Street Depot, corner of W. Kinzie and Canal Streets Wells Street Depot, corner of Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agent, apply to.

W. H. STENNETT, Gen Pass Ag't, Chicago.
MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen Sup't, Chicago

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, Dec 12, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No 7 Pac. ex.	No 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00a.m	5 50 pm	8 30a.m	3 00p.
Rochester	3 11 "	....	9 45 "	4 10 "
Alliance	5 25 "	8 35 pm	12 50 p.m	7 00 "
Orrville	7 12"	....	2 50 "	8 50 "
Mansfield	9 25"	....	5 14 "	10 58 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 00 "	11 45pm	5 50 "	11 20 "
" lv.	10 20 "	4 50am	6 25 p.m	11 30 "
Forest	11 40 "	6 25 "	8 13 "	1 07 am
Lima	12 40p.m	7 55 "	9 38 "	2 10 "
Ft. Wayne	3 00 "	10 45 "	12 01 a.m	4 10 "
Plymouth	5 06 "	1 43 pm	2 55 a.m	6 08 "
Chicago	8 20 "	5 35 "	6 30 "	9 20 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail
Chicago	10 20p.m	9 20a.m	5 35 p.m	5 25am
Plymouth	1 56a.m	12 09 p.m	9 05 "	9 25 "
Ft. Wayne	4 55 "	2 40 "	11 45 "	12 20pm
Lima	7 06 "	4 55 "	2 10 a.m	2 48 "
Forest	8 20 "	5 37 "	3 10 "	4 06 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 25 "	7 00 "	4 40 "	5 45 "
" lv.	10 40a.m	7 20 "	4 50 "	6 00am
Mansfield	11 11	7 50 "	5 20 "	6 40 "
Orrville	1 15 p.m	9 50 "	7 12 "	8 10 "
Alliance	3 15 "	11 25 "	9 00 "	11 20 "
Rochester	5 46 "	1 25a.m	11 12 "	2 07pm
Chicago	6 55 "	2 30 "	12 15 p.m	3 [illegible]

Through Mail, (Limited,) leaves Pittsburg daily at 5.50 p. m., stopping only at Alliance, 8.15 p. m. Crestline, 11.45 p. m. Fort Wayne 2.50 a. m., arrives at Chicago at 6.55 a. m.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 00	8 33	6 30
Fostoria	8 30	9 25	7 18
Deshler	10 02	10 32	8 30
Defiance	11 32	11 38	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 03am	11 30
Auburn Junction	1 00	1 07	11 44
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 00am
Avilla	1 30	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkerton Junction	4 06	4 06	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25 pm	....	8 40am
Walkerton Junction	12 13am	....	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41		2 30
Avilla	3 01		3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 36	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	[illegible]	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 16	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 48	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 25	1 00pm	9 15

L. M. COLE, Gen. Tick. Agt.

Recorders Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 6. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, FEBRUARY 17th, 1876. Number 7.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1 m.	3 m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column.........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column.........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office opposite N. W. Cor. Public Square.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana, Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advance Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store, Cool's Block, North of Court House.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop'rs., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTEL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue, Chicago.
O SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER Clerk.

Junction Hotel,

JAMES SMITH, Pro'r.

Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.
L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society,

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND

NEW

Meat Market

The undersigned has opened a meat market at Markle's old stand, where he will keep constantly on hand a good supply of fresh meats of all kinds, at reasonable prices, and asks a share of the public patronage.
Nov, 1-3m. JOHN TREESH.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

BAKER BROS.

Proprietors of Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

OPIUM

Habit cured. Chinese mode of cure, painless.—No publicity. Does not interfere with business or pleasure. Cure guaranteed. Address or consult, DR. WILFORD, Toledo, O.

WOMEN

Diseases peculiar to women treated as a specialty. Cures guaranteed in all curable cases. Address or consult DR. WILFORD, Toledo, Ohio.

Chronic Diseases

of all kinds successfully treated by DR. WILFORD, Toledo, O. Thirty years of experience should insure confidence.

IT IS HERE.

WHAT

The Largest Stock of Fine

Hats, Caps,

GLOVES, ETC., ETC.

Ever brought to Auburn. Those wanting this line of good can get them from 100 to 150 per cent cheaper than they were ever sold before in the county by calling on

WILLIAM LESSIG

LORDIER,

THE FORT WAYNE,

Boot & Shoe!

Store

Is the popular place for all kinks of

BOOT & SHOES

All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely

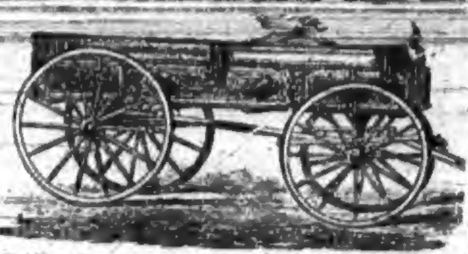
LOW PRICES

Custom work done th best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.

Remember place

At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store, next to the Bank.

The Auburn



WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

New Books!

JUST ISSUED BY

The Authors' Publishing Co.,

27 BOND STREET, NEW YORK.

(Incorporated, 1873. Paid up Capitol, $100,000)

I. HIGHER THOUGHT.

Evolution and Progress; by Wm. I Gill, A. M price	$1 50.
Analytical Processes. by Rev Wm. I. Gill, A. M. price.	2 00
Ecclesiology; by E. J. Fish, D. D.	2 00
Lineage of Language, by J. N. Fradenburg, Ph. D.	3 00

II. ÆSTHETIC THOUGHT.

Wild Flowers Poem by C. W. Hubner, Price $1.25; Gilt	$1 75.
Irene: A Prize Story, by Mrs B. F. Baer	1 25
Her Waiting Heart; Novel, by Lou Capendell	1 25
Egypt Ruele Novel, by Kelsie Etheridge	50
Travelers' Grab Bag by an Old Traveler.	50
Slippers and Gown; by Kelsie Etheridge.	In press.
Guarded by a Fear; by Mrs. M. B. Sheridan.	In press.

III. PRACTICAL THOUGHT.

Gold and Free Banks by M. R. Pilon	$ 75
The Grangers by R. Pilon	50
Manuscript Manual; How to prepare MSS	10
Free Trade; by M. R. Pilon.	In press.

For sale in all book-stores, or mail postpaid on receipt of price by the publishers. Descriptive Catalogue free.

☞ If you have a book to publish send stamp for pamphlet for the new plan of publishing, inaugurated by the A. P. Co.

CARPETS.

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock to all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusually fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

26 East Berry street

On The War Path

Terrible Slaughter in Dry Goods

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:
J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:
JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1875.

PENCIL AND SCISSORS.

Don't forget Sammy Pommert, when you want a first-class haircut.

The boys had better keep away from the creek, before some of them gets drowned.

We notice Melvin Bowers on the streets again, after a long stay in the Buckeye state

Samuel Maxfield has returned to the city with his target gun, and can be found at the Seventh street billiard hall.

The Angola "Herald" at its third issue made its appearance at our office last week, with thirteen requests on its wrapper to exchange, we were overcome and responded. The Herald in appearence and matter takes a front seat as a live sound and sensible paper, and wish it and its proprieters many years of prosperity and usefulness.

If DeKalb County can suffer the infliction of five papers, we see no good reason that two cannot be readily supported in Steuben

The confirmed gossip is always either malicious or ignorant. The one variety needs a change of heart, and the other a change of pasture. Gossip is always a personal confession either of malice or imbecility, and the young should not only shun it, but by the most thorough culture relieve themselves from all temptation to indulge in it. It is low frivolous and too often a dirty business. There are country neighborhoods in which it rages like a pest. Churches are split in pieces by it for life. In persons it degenerates into a chronic disease, which is practically incurable. Let the young cure it while they may.—Dr. Holland in Scribner.

Colored Ku-Klux.

Noblesville Ledger.

Several colored girls a few nights ago dressed in the male garb and made it lively for a young man and woman of their color who were promenading the streets in illicit love. After they got through with the young man he departed almost as nude as a statue. The female they punished by giving her a severe padding upon the portion of the anatomy where it would do the most good. This is what may be called practical crusading.

Township Assessors.—As there appears to be a question in the minds of many as to whether the law providing for the appointment of a county assessor was repealed by the last General Assembly or not the Columbus "Democrat, states for the information of all interested that it was. The law as it now stands, provides for the election, in each township, at the general election in October of 1876, and every two years thereafter, of an assessor who shall hold his office for two years and until his successor is elected and qualified. The duties of the assessor are the same as heretofore, except in the matter of assessing real-estate, which now is done every five years instead of every two. As this assessment was made last year, no listing of real-estate will take place again until 1880.

[illegible] Miller & Casebeer's and get an Overcoat without money

SHALL WE REFUND.

A Question Now Agitating The Public Minds Around The State House.

A Question of Great Importance to The Financial Branch of The State—Millions In It.

A question of very great importance to the financial branch of the state government was yesterday so placed before the auditor of state, that a hand conflict must follow before an answer can be reached. It will be remembered that a number of years ago certain lands through-out the state were declared to be sacred to the school fund by special act of legislature, and that the educational revenues were from time to time increased by proceeds of the sales of this property. There are but few counties in the state not represented more or less in these donation acres now occupied by thousands who have purchased of the state. The lands were sold on ten years time, the purchasers receiving a certificate of purchase at the time, but no title until the last notes had been paid. The transaction was exactly like giving a bond for a deed. The parties buying on these terms were taxed on the state and county duplicates precisely as if the land was owned by them in fee simple, and for the full period of ten years these taxes were paid without protest. No complaints were made and probably not imagined till some few months ago when certain omnious growls were heard from the regions of Howard and Grant counties, and the question began to be agitated, and was even, in some shape, not very binding, brought to the attention of the officers of the state. But now the matter has taken a more serious turn and the question must be met. Judge Brownlee, of Grant count who is interested in securing the claims of property holders in Tipton and other counties, brought the demand to a crisis yesterday by opening war on the auditor of state with a mandamus. The complaint was made out in the name of Nathan R. Overman, and the auditor was asked to issue a warrant to the relator for the amount of his claim in these taxes paid. The auditor upon advice of Attorney General. Buskirk, waived all process of service and the matter will be brought before Judge Howland of the Civil Circuit Court, and in the event the mandamus is sustained an appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court. When it is remembered that over $100,000 is involved in these claims on account of state taxations alone, and more than twice as much on county taxations, the matter assumes gigantic importance. Let the Tiptonians succeed in their suit and all other counties will at once rush in through the open door, and a special levy will be required to satisfy their claims. The complainants rely on certain technicalities in a recent decision of the supreme bench, but the attorney general is prepared to give them a warm reception.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

How to Judge a Town.

The Jefferson City (Mo) Journal tells this:

About a week ago a gentleman from Tennessee, representing a capital of $20,000, in search of a good locality in which to engage in business gave us a call, and after stating his mission West asked to look at our paper. We handed him the Morning Journal and to our surprise he did not stop to read our newsy local "pick-up," or our attractive editorial page, but turned at once to our advertising colums, and commenced counting our advertisers and measuring their space.

"Well," said he, glancing up from the paper, "is that all; is that the business of this town?"

"Oh, no," said we, here is the Tribune with a few advertisements that don't appear in the Journal."

He then counted two addition local business advertisements in the Tribune, and again looked up with the remark:

"And that's all, is it? Why you haven't got near so much of a town as I thought you had.

And then we explained to him that we have a great many business men who do not advertise.

"They are not business men to hurt if they do not advertise," was his answer.

We could not contradict him, and we were powerless to vindicate the claims of our city.

He left us saying if he had time he would look around, but this was no place for him.

This is only one instance and a fact.

Now is your time to call on Miller & Casebeer to get a good overcoat without money.

Things I'v Seen.

From Kokomo Tribune.

I'v seen boys fifteen years old, who thought they knew more than men of fifty.

I'v seen rich men who were more miserable than beggars.

I'v seen men who presented a rough exterior, who possessed warm and greatful hearts.

I'v seen men who drank whisky all their lives who always wondered why their neighbors were richer in this world's goods than they,

I'v seen husbands who attend "lodge" every night in the week, if their wives believed this statement.

I'v seen candidates for office who forgot their friends as soon as the election was over.

I'v seen people who knew more of theory than they did of practice.

I'v seen ministers who never practiced what they preached.

I'v seen young ladies who were more vain than pretty.

I'v seen men who were all bedecked with jewels, who did not make a dewel of a husband.

I'v seen men who harbored a dozen dogs about their premises, who complained about "hard times.

I'v seen men who were a perfect nuisance—they were book agents.

I'v seen very smart people who were nothing more than a walking dictionary bound in calf.

I'v seen people who were as unreliable as a gas-meter.

I'v seen ladies who got mad when their husband bought them the most fashionble kind of a bonnet—such ladies are scarce in "these parts.

I'v seen women who chewed tobacco and smoke cigars. Why shoudn't they be granted the same rights as the men?

Obituary.

Died, on the morning of Friday, January 28th, in Concord Township, Thomas Samuel, second son, of Robert M. and Elizabeth Widney, aged 25 years. The day previous, the 27th, being his birthday. Thomas was a dutiful and affectionate son, a kind and loving brother, a genial, faithful, and confiding companion, who made friends where-ever he went. His disease was painful, and lingering, but he bore it all with fortitude, and resignation. When the time of his departure drew near, he called his parents, and three sisters, who stood weeping around his bedside, and taking them by the hand, bade them an affectionate good bye, embracing, and kissing them, again, and again, telling them he was happy, and willing, and even anxious to die, and that he expected to meet them all again, He sent affectionate good bye messages, to his absent Brothers and sisters, and all his friends. He died firm in the faith of a worlds salvation from sin, and suffering, through Christ, the great mediator, and Reconciler, and with calmness, and composure, making the arrangements for his funeral Truly it was a most affecting scene, to witness.

Farewell dear Thomas, till we meet again,
In that blest region, free from sin, and pain;
We miss the here on earth, but know full well,
Thy happy spirit lives, where angels dwell.

R. M. WIDNEY.

The Committee on Expenditures of the war Department have been gradually collecting facts and information from various sources, with a view of making a thorough investigation of all its bureaus and branches, the manner of expending the approhriations, the necessary cost and the actual outlay, the excrescences that have grown up and whatever abuses may exist. This process of inquiry is necessarily tedious, because the department is not disposed to exhibit its own weakness, or to lay bare the secrets of expenditures, which the Secretary and his suroundings have an interest in continuing as they now stand. Therefore the committee have to grope their way, to rely mainly in their researches upon outside aid, and then to sift the statements thus obtained with caution, from the danger of being misled. The belief that there had been undue delay in prosecuting this investigation is erroneous. We are gratified in being able to state upon the best authority that Mr. Heister Clymer, the Chairman of this committee has not only been in earnest from the beginning but that he is determined to spare no pains or effort in overhauling the war Department to the full extent of all the powers with which he is clothed. If there has been extravagance, or fraud, or jobbery or improper administration, he means to find it out and to apply the proper remedy.—Sun.

FOR EXCHANGE.—Good Real Estate for a stock of goods. Adress, box 180 Fort Wayne, Ind. 38.

MANY MEN, MANY MINDS.

And which is right? Who knows? Do you?
For me, I'm sore perplexed;
The last one proved his doctrine true,
But so too will the next.

THEOLOGIST.

Here one avers—nor doth he speak
As doubting, or afraid—
That in six days, in one short week,
This world was "perfect" made.

GEOLOGIST.

Another there with mild rebuke
States this can scarce have been;
That by "six days" the Pentateuch
Must surely "ages" mean.

PHILOSOPHER

A third with neither will agree,
And smiling he replies,
"In boundless space there chance may be Worlds plentiful as 'flies.'"

IDEALIST.

[illegible] But think, and you
Will very quickly find
That neither "worlds" nor "flies" [illegible]
Exist, but only "Mind.'"

SKEPTIC.

"And what is Mind?" a last one cries:
"A perfume, spark, or wind!
A shadow's shadow! Nay, ye wise—
Nay, tell me, what is Mind?"

* * * * * *

Pshaw! Is it strange, friend, if we doubt
These "voices of the night?"
Come, let us cast Hope's anchor out,
And so wait for the light!

—Tinsley's Magazine.

A PERILOUS COMPACT.

"You say, Capt. Jackson, that you have received written instructions from your owners by the last mail?"

"Yes, sir, very particular and specific orders regarding the cargo wanted for the good ship Exporter."

"If I understand you aright, the best quality of silk and the finest grade of teas only are wanted?"

"Exactly, Mr. Failing. But why do you ask? Are you unable to load the ship with the required quality and grade of goods?"

"We'll see in good time, Jackson. But I say, have you any objection to my glancing over your written instructions?"

"Certainly not; and, if you are to furnish the cargo, I think it advisable for you to thoroughly understand what is wanted and what I am allowed to receive."

The keen, gray eyes of Mr. Failing were fastened intently upon the weather-beaten countenance of the seaman for a moment, and then, in a soft, insinuating tone, he added:

"If you will give me a boat, Jackson, I will send my China boy ashore for a case of dry Monopole. The weather is warm, and iced champagne will not be disagreeable, eh?"

"By no means; but it is a luxury we poor sailors seldom have the opportunity of tasting," replied the Captain, with a sigh, as he thought of his far-off wife and two little babes.

The champagne was soon sparkling in the slender glasses, and the merchant pledged the sailor and his noble ship a brimming bumper.

The Exporter was a fine clipper engaged in the China trade, owned by an opulent firm who counted their dollars by millions. The ship was commanded by Capt. Jackson, an experienced shipmaster, but who had been compelled to accept the grinding terms of the parsimonious owners of the Exporter.

Capt. Jackson had been unfortunate, and at the time he applied to the firm for employment he was in debt, with a wife and family looking to him for support. He was not in a condition to dictate terms, but ventured to remonstrate feebly at the inadequate salary offered for the amount of property and responsibility he was expected to control and look after.

"We can get plenty of shipmasters for $80 per month," was the cold, harsh reply. "We do not ask you to accept it. You come to us; if you demur, another shall take your place."

And, with a heavy heart, the poor fellow signed the articles, while the pale suffering face of his wife rose up before him.

The Exporter was lying off Shanghai waiting for the valuable and special cargo which had been ordered by mail.

The merchant, Mr. Failing, was on board, and as has already been narrated, was taking his comfort in the wide, spacious cabin of the vessel.

Glass after glass of champagne had been quaffed, the fragrant perfume of choice cigars filled the cabin, and poor Jackson, as the generous vintage mounted in his brain, for a time forgot his troubles.

The letter lay on the table before Failing, who, with his heels perched on a projecting cornice of the cabin, smoked in silence, while Jackson, with volubility entirely unnatural to him, poured into the ears of Failing the entire story of his wrongs.

"You are not half paid; that is certain, Jackson, and there is but little chance to make a dollar out of the main hatch. To be sure, you can do a little something with the stevedore, ship chandler, etc.; but, after all, what does it amount to? I came out here to make my fortune, Jackson; honestly, if I can, and thus far have no reason to complain. But you are situated differently. You have no opportunities; your life is passing away; the greater portion of it is spent in buffeting the elements at $80 per month—for what? that your owners may reap hundreds of thousands of dollars from your talents. Is that honest—is it right or just? No. And how will it end? You are past the meridian of life, and you say you are 'astern of the lighter.' Now I shall speak plain, Jackson, too plain perhaps; but fill your glass, man, it has been empty this half hour. As I said before, every day will bring you nearer your grave, and the best years of your life spent away from your family whom you love. Even supposing that no accident occurs to excite the wrath of the firm that might cost you your position, in due course of time you will be worn out, feeble, and incapacitated by old age from retaining command. What will the merchant with his bags of gold, which you made for him, care for you then? Will he take into consideration the fact that you have braved dangers and ransacked every clime for the articles of merchandise he required? No, he will never give it a thought, and the old shipmaster, the faithful but worn-out servant, will totter to the door of the sailor's snug harbor, and beg for charity and a roof over his gray head, unless indeed your wife and two girl babies can support you."

The merchant blew a long cloud of smoke from his lips as he ceased speaking, and eyed Jackson with a very peculiar look as that individual wiped the perspiration from his brow, which had been evolved by the artful picture portrayed by the eloquence of the sharp, shrewd merchant.

"Good God! Mr. Failing, I never looked upon it in that light; but I dare say you are right. But what can I do? The $80 I get keeps my wife from starving."

"Exactly, and no more. Take another glass—that's right. Your good health. The Exporter is insured, isn't she?"

"Yes, to her full value."

"And you are to insure the cargo, also?"

"Certainly; my owners are always very particular about that."

"Humph! How would you like to pocket $50,000, Jackson, and weather on your owners and the poor house, eh?"

"What a question to ask a man in my position!" and Jackson's head began to spin about as he listened to the artfully-worded sophistry of the tempter.

"We can make a good thing of it, and now is your opportunity. Your owners grind you down, now let them take the consequences, although they will not lose much but the anticipated profit. I will furnish you the silk and tea, but instead of the best I'll give the poorest. Don't jump, man; there's no harm done yet. The highest market price will be charged, and you shall have $25,000 to-night, or when you sign the regular articles of agreement as having received the stipulated quality and quantity. The other $25,000 shall be paid when the Exporter goes to the bottom and you return to Shanghai from the wreck. Not a word, man, but come ashore. We'll talk it over at my office."

And, linking his arm through Jacksons', he assisted the shipmaster to leave the cabin and descend the side.

The next day the first lighter-load of cargo for the Exporter arrived, and both bale and box was rattled rapidly into her capacious hold. In less than two weeks' time the ship was ready for sea, and Jackson, who had spent the greater portion of his time on shore, repaired on board.

Not until too late did the entangled seaman awake from the delusive dream into which he had been beguiled by the skillful Failing. The ship was loaded, the first half of the $50,000 had been paid, and Jackson, by the advice of the merchant, did not bank the amount, but negotiated for the value in diamonds, which he wore around his body.

It was too late to retreat; he had gone too far; and although his conscience troubled him sadly, still he made up his mind to carry out the fraud that had been commenced.

The Exporter sailed down the mighty Yangtee with a fair wind, which freshened as the good ship passed Woo Sung. Everybody on board was in high spirits at the idea of being homeward bound, with the exception of poor Jackson; who paced the deck in moody silence. He had solemnly sworn never to taste champagne again, and had firmly made up his mind not to revisit Shanghai, for he had learned to fear the influence which Failing exercised over him.

He kept to himself, avoided the society of his first mate, and spent most of the time in the seclusion of his cabin, brooding over the terrible secret which he carried in his bosom.

The character of the cargo preyed considerably on his mind, and, waking or sleeping, he was continually haunted by a nightmare. He grew nervous and impatient, so much so that both officers and crew wondered at the sudden change that had come over the "old man."

When alone, in the dead hour of the night, he would pore over his charts, and strive in vain to fix definitely upon some shoal or reef where he could safely carry out his intentions, and an involuntary curse would escape his lips as he felt the pressure of the belt he wore about his body, or saw the features of Failing which would occasionally rise up before him.

Favored by fair weather, the fleet ship rapidly plowed her way down the China Sea, and all hands congratulated themselves on a speedy termination of the voyage.

No opportunity had occurred to sacrifice the ship, for Jackson was determined not to hazard the life of any one on board, and keeping well to the eastward, the high mountainous island of Borneo loomed up blue and picturesque above the horizon.

For two days the Exporter skirted along in sight of the island, and then a furious squall of mist and rain swept over the ship.

The black, lowering clouds appeared to envelope the mastheads, and the zigzag sheets of vivid lightning darted through the heavens, only excelled in fury by the apalling peals of thunder which crashed unceasingly above them. The sea, lashed to fury, was enveloped in a feathery foam, flying over the ship in blinding showers.

Groaning and creaking in every timber, the ship bowed before the gale, and, as all hands had been called to shorten sail, or cut away the tattered remnants of what had been blown away, Capt. Jackson took the wheel, that the helmsman might lend a hand in aiding his struggling shipmates.

No human being can conceive the feelings which raged in the unfortunate shipmaster's breast that memorable night.

The roaring of the waves, and rush of the pelting rain, the howl of the gale as it swept through the cordage of the ship, and the beating of the surf on the beach and reefs in the distance, mingled with the clear word of command of the mates, and the cheery cry of the nimble sailors aloft, as they roared out, "haul out to leeward!" or "light over to windward!"

The last man had laid down from aloft, the men were clustering aft to "splice the main brace," when a sudden grumble and grating ran through the ship. A shock, a bump—followed by a second shock, which threw the men off their feet violently, and then the good ship Exporter struck heavily on a coral reef, and was forced high up on the dangerous shoal.

With a succession of crashes the tall, wavering masts went over the side, the affrighted cries of the men, the shouts of the officers, and the terrible ominous grinding on the ship's keel, rang on the midnight air.

But the calm, steady voice of the Captain was heard above all, calling on them to obey his orders, and Jackson's coolness had the desired effect.

Watching for the next vivid flash, Jackson scanned the scene and saw that it was comparatively easy to reach the main land by the coral reef.

Carefully and cautiously the men were directed to scramble for the land, and Jackson was the last man to leave the doomed ship. A sharp cry of anguish escaped from him as he leaped over the rail, but it was swallowed up in the force of the gale, which now set in with redoubled fury.

All night long it raged, and as daylight dawned the furious waves were running high, while the breakers roared like so many angry and hungry wolves.

Not a vestige of ship or cargo remained save a few remnants of shattered spars, and singularly enough, the medicine chest was found comparatively uninjured. By some means it had escaped the undertow; was one-half buried in the sand, a sad relic of the once-noble ship.

Jackson had performed his difficult task well; not a breath of suspicion could attach itself to him, and all hands endeavored to speak a word of comfort to their pale, dejected superior.

But other matters soon engrossed the attention of both officers and men. With the first rays of the morning sun which pierced the dispersing storm clouds, a numerous and well-armed body of natives suddenly made their appearance, and with loud and menacing cries, rushed upon the defenseless, shipwrecked seamen.

By the advice of the Captain, no attempt was made to resist the half-naked, swarthy natives, who bore the entire ship's company in their midst to the reigning Prince, who was attired in more than barbaric splendor.

A Malay stepped forward to act as interpreter, having served on board a country wallat as seaman, where he had learned a smattering of the English language. He informed Capt. Jackson that the ship had struck a reef making out from Sarawak, on the Island of Borneo, and that they were now the prisoners and slaves of the Prince bearing the name of the town.

In a low, confidential tone he added that he wished them no harm, but advised them to strain every effort to escape, as the Rajah was a blood-thirsty fellow, who delighted in putting his prisoners to death by the most cruel tortures that could be devised. The Malay added that the potentate was considerably depressed at present on account of the severe illness of the young Princess, his favorite daughter; and as all the ja-ju men on the island had failed to relieve her, their heads had paid the forfeit. She was hourly growing worse, and the father was almost frantic at the thought of losing his idol.

Capt Jackson listened in deep silence, and a ray of hope darted across his really fine features as he reflected for a moment. In his many leisure hours at sea he had made the science of medicine a study—so much so that he felt perfectly confident to grapple with any ordinary disease.

The men were standing between the well-armed natives, who were only awaiting the well known signal of their ruler to dash their brains out or reserve them for a worse fate. But the dusky potentate had relapsed into a reverie, and had apparently forgotten the presence of the white men.

The guard stirred impatiently, while their dark eyes shot forth glances which boded no good to the trembling men whom they had in their power.

Nerved on by desperation, and a prey to the most terrible apprehension at the awful predicament and danger the ship's company were in through his instrumentality, Jackson whispered a few words in the ear of the Malay, who ventured to approach his royal master.

Jackson had bethought him of the fortunate discovery of the medicine chest, and determined so assume the risk of asserting his power to save the Princess' life, which he accordingly did, and the Malay quickly conveyed the intelligence to the despondent father.

In an instant the high-born native was on his feet. His eyes glistened with an unnatural luster; his deep, sonorous voice echoed through the room, while the jewels flashed and scintillated his clothing as he gesticulated wildly.

The Malay translated the will of his chieftain, and Jackson was informed that he should have an opportunity to try his skill—that, if successful, he would be loaded with wealth such as he never dreamed of—that his comrades should share in his good fortune, and liberty as well as jewels should be the share of the white strangers. But, on the other hand, after exciting false hopes and making an assertion he could not make good, if the Princess should die, then death with the most exquisite torments would be the portion of all.

It was not without a nervous chill that the shipmaster listened to the alternative, and although his face was pale, still he never faltered in his step as he followed a guide to the presence of the Princess.

He could scarcely repress his embarrassment as he bent over the slight form of the Princess, who was little more than a child in years and stature. She was reclining in a silken hammock, partially covered by a slight gauze covering. She moved her head from side to side, moaning with pain, and quietly submitted to Jackson as he examined her pulse, tongue, etc.

He soon discovered that her trouble was nothing more serious than a slow fever, which the contents of the medicine chest would easily alleviate, and he breathed a silent but fervent prayer of gratitude for the means of escape offered to his comrades and himself.

The precious collection of drugs were soon under his watchful care, the proper remedies given, and for the first time for many days the Princess sank into an easy and refreshing slumber that night.

Jackson watched by her hammock, while the stern old chief occupied a pile of cushions close beside him.

The recovery of the patient was rapid, thanks to a good constitution; and Capt. Jackson, in the course of ten days, had the satisfaction of seeing her sitting up, laughing and talking with her overjoyed father.

The safety of the shipwrecked crew was assured, the Rajah more than kept his word, heaping gems and gold dust upon them all.

To Jackson he made the most magnificent offers, pressing upon him the office of chief ja-ju of the island. But the shipmaster wisely declined the office in cautious language; and, parting his belt, received an addition that more than exceeded his wildest ideas of wealth.

The entire party were conveyed to Singapore, where Jackson bade adieu to his old comrades, taking the first mail steamer that left.

Reaching Liverpool, he soon arrived at his destination, being warmly welcomed by his wife and little ones, to whom he told his strange adventures.

Without loss of time he called on the owners of the Exporter, who had meanwhile secured their full insurance on vessel and cargo, coolly informing Jackson that he need never expect to command one of their ships again, for which rebuff he cared but little.

Removing to a small but growing western town, he became indentified with its prosperity, and to-day is one of its wealthiest and most influential citizens.

He has conscientiously striven to repair the error into which he was drawn, but never thinks of Shanghai and the tea trade without a visible shudder.

Heroic Fight of Three White Men with One Hundred Indians.

On the 17th instant, about noon, William Castro, Jeff. Thompson and O. F. Mason were attacked by Indians, about eight miles below the Little Horn River, while en route for Fort Pease. There were between seventy-five and one hundred Indians. They came up in the rear of the party and fired some shots at them before they got off their horses. As quick as possible they ran into a small ravine close by, got in a narrow "wash-out" and stood them off the best they could. The Indians had them surrounded, occupying the ridges. They kept up a steady fire, but without effect, when they descended to the ravine and got in better range from the upper part of the valley. They killed Mr. Mason, and wounded Mr. Thompson in the hand, slightly. Castro and Thompson are positive that three Indians were killed—one was shot off his horse while driving off their saddle and pack animals, two others were killed in the ravine. One of them laid within forty yards of the men. After the killing of those they backed out, taking with them all their animals and winter's supplies belonging to them. The two men buried their comrade in a pit made with their butcher knives, and remained by him until dark, when they left in the direction of Fort Pease, traveling all night. The next day they found themselves cut off by the Indians, when they abandoned the idea of going to the fort, and took the back track for this point, which they reached yesterday.

Mr. Mason, it will be remembered, was at one time Clerk of the District Court at Bozeman, was a surveyor, and during the past summer assisted H. J. Hoppy in the hayfield at this place. He was a gentleman, and highly esteemed by his acquaintances.—Helena (Mon.) Independent.

The Centennial Buildings.

The following figures show the amount of ground covered by the different National Exposition buildings, and the cost of the same:

	Space covered.		Cost.
London, 1851	20	acres	$1,464,000
New York, 1853	5¼	acres	500,000
Paris, 1855	30	acres	4,000,000
London, 1862	24	acres	2,300,000
Paris, 1867	40½	acres	4,596,763
Vienna, 1873	50	acres	9,850,000
Philadelphia, 1876	60	acres	6,724,320

The foregoing statistics show that at Philadelphia the space covered is just three times that of the London Exposition in 1851, double that of Paris in 1855, and nearly thrice the size of that of London in 1862, and the one in Paris in 1867 was but two-thirds as large. With the proper feeling among other countries (as there seems to be no other), and the support and encouragement at home, it cannot fail to surpass in excellence all previous exhibitions of like character, even more than in the gigantic proportions of the buildings.

How It is Done.

It is not very uncommon to hear the remark, "How can such and such a family continue their style of living after the head of the household has failed, and his creditors lost 80 or 90 per cent. of their honest dues?" Why, bless the simple souls of questioners of that stamp, the thing is comparatively easy under the Bankrupt law, which operates in favor of the debtor class of the community, creditors being at the mercy of those owing them, rather than vice versa. Besides, a person whose affairs go into liquidation, and who then fails to save something handsome, isn't considered much of a fellow, anyhow, in these times.—Boston Transcript.

Chinese New Year's.

The Chinamen in Sampson's shoe factory in North Adams, Mass., celebrated their New Year's Day on Tuesday last with fire crackers, games and feastings. Tables were spread with fruits, flowers, and sweetmeats from China, of some of which they invited their visitors to partake. At one of their games, a kind of "odd or even," a large amount of money was displayed; but Charley Sing, the interpreter, explained that it was entirely harmless, the money being common property, and divided equally at the close of the game. In their playing, as in everything else, their behavior is like that of large children.—New York Sun.

MR. JOHN M. FRANCIS, of the Troy Times, thinks that the people of India will never be really civilized into English ways, and is further disposed to believe that missionary efforts in their behalf are in vain. He says that half the expenditure of treasure and Christian work which are wasted in India, if applied at home, would accomplish ten times more of blessed results than will ever be accomplished in India.

GOV. HOUSTON and Commissioners Lawler and Bethea report the total State debt of Alabama at $30,000,000; assessed value of real estate, $160,000,000; and the propositions to different bondholders, if accepted and carried out, will reduce the debt to $10,000,000 or $12,000,000.

TO CURE a cold eat absolutely nothing after breakfast, during the day, and at night, just before retiring, heat the feet thoroughly hot at the fire, and drinking copiously of hot herb tea the last thing. Catnip is best, though any domestic herb is good.

A GHASTLY CRIME.

Shocking Details of the Recent Brooklyn Horror—The Stories Told by the Murderer and his Wife.

One of the most horrible butcheries ever perpetrated in this country was recently brought to light in the city of Brooklyn, some of the particulars of which have been mentioned in our news columns, as received by telegraph. Late New York papers at hand enable us to lay before our readers some additional particulars of this most terrible tragedy. The murderer, it seems, traveled in this country under an assumed name—Victor Kretz. The wife of the murderer tells this story: "W. W. Simmons came to our house about 9 o'clock Thursday evening, bringing a doll for my little girl. There was some brandy and beer in the house, and, after drinking the beer, Fuchs went out to get three pints more. All of us drank beer, and Simmons said he was ashamed to go home drunk, so I said he might stay and sleep with Fuchs, and I would sleep with Ellen. We had only two rooms. Simmons agreed to this. My husband says I slept on the floor and that I was unfaithful, but I was so drunk I knew nothing of it. My husband and child put me to bed, and while they were doing so, I fell on the floor and cut my face. When I got up in the morning I saw a body on the floor of the kitchen, and Fuchs, taking it by the heels, dragged it into a bedroom to cut it up. When I saw it I called out: 'We will be hung!' But Fuchs said he would make it all right. I drunk too much Friday, and did not see the body cut up."

As the woman told this story she wept bitterly, saying again and again that if she had only been sober the murder would not have been committed.

Andreas Fuchs, or Victor Kretze, as the murderer calls himself, says he had known Simmons and worked with him for three years, but had once had a difficulty with him, on account of which he left the manufactory for six months. He said Simmons was in the habit of visiting his wife while he was at work, and that about six months ago he had detected them in crime. He said that Simmons came to his house Thursday evening about 9 o'clock, and, as he had some beer, both drank of it. Simmons then gave him money to buy more beer, and when he returned he detected what he considered satisfactory evidence that his wife had been unfaithful to him. Calling his step-child, Ellen, who was sleeping on the bed, as a witness of her mother's crime, he seized a hatchet which lay behind the stove, and struck Simmons dead with one blow on the neck. He asserted that he struck Simmons' head off with one blow, but afterward accounted for the cuts about the neck by saying he had to hack it off next morning, as it was not entirely severed. He declared that he intended to give himself up, but his wife persuaded him not to do so, and Friday he dragged the body into a bedroom and cut it up, packing the pieces away in different places until he could get rid of them.

The officers who first inspected Fuchs' apartments reported that there were pails in the kitchen and bedroom containing meat. They thought they might be pieces of pickled pork. A close examination of the premises was then made, and in a tool-chest, under the bed, was found a heavy, solid hammer, that bore bloody stains, and a common handsaw steeped with blood and fringed with bits of hair. There were also heavy hatchets, or axes, and these were covered with half-obliterated blood marks. In another corner, under a couch, was a small tin pail, filled to the brim with fragments of a human body, cut into pieces not more than two or three inches in length. At the side of the bed was a large pine chest, dyed in every part with blood, as though a bleeding body had been hastily jammed into it as a temporary receptacle. In a common black leather traveling trunk was found another portion of the mutilated body, strips of flesh and pieces of skin. In another part of the chamber was a large tin wash boiler nearly filled with a portion of the man's limbs—pieces of arms, of hands, and of legs and feet. In the midst of these remains was the trunk of a body, the ribs stripped clean of skin and flesh. The officers next searched the bed, and, turning up the ticking, uncovered other fragments of a human body. Then they went through the kitchen, and, digging deep under the bricks of the fire place, brought out many other remains similar to those discovered in the bedroom. They gathered the bloody fragments together, and sent them to the Morgue. The axes, saw, and hammer were taken to the police station.

Better Business Prospects.

Latterly the symptoms of reviving hope have been many and marked. Business men and the newspapers unite in expecting a better state of business this year than there has been since 1873, and their expectations are not likely to be altogether disappointed. We have retrenched in every possible way. We have learned economy and practiced it sharply. We have worn out our old clothes, used up superfluous stocks of goods, and saved in the process more millions of dollars than many people imagine. We have worked down to a good foundation, and the walls may rise securely now. Purchases have been postponed until they can be postponed no longer, and the necessary purchases of a people who have abstained from buying for the space of more than two years, must of themselves create a considerable volume of business. There is wanting only courage, and this seems coming.—New York Evening Post.

The Man who Never Told a Lie.

Gen. Washington now and then took notice of singular facts in natural history. Two years before his death, old Col. Perkins, of Boston, then a young gentleman, visited him at Mount Vernon. As he was sitting with young Perkins on the veranda, which overlooked the Potomac, a toad hopped along on the ground near them, "which led him to ask me," says Col. Perkins, "if I had ever observed the reptile swallow a firefly. Upon my answering in the negative, he told me that he had, and that from the thinness of the skin of the toad he had seen the light of the firefly after it had been swallowed. This was a new and to me a surprising fact in natural history.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

THE SOWER.

BY R. W. GILDER.

I.

A sower went forth to sow,
His eyes were wild with woe;
He crushed the flowers beneath his feet,
Nor smelt the perfume, warm and sweet,
That prayed for pity everywhere.
He came to a field that was harried
By iron, and to heaven laid bare!
He shook the seed that he carried
O'er that brown and bladeless place.
He shook it, as God shakes hail,
Over a doomed land,
When lightnings interlace
The sky and the earth, and his wand
Of love is a thunder-flail.
Thus did the Sower sow;
His seed was human blood,
And tears of women and men,
And I, who near him stood,
Said: When the crop comes, then
There will be sobbing and sighing,
Weeping and wailing and crying,
And woe that is worse than woe.

II.

It was an Autumn day
When next I went that way,
And what, think you, did I see?
What was it that I heard?
The song of a sweet-voiced bird?
Nay—but the songs of many
Thrilled through the praising prayer.
Of all those voices not any
Were sad of memory;
And a sea of sunlight flowed
And a golden harvest glowed!
On my face I fell down there!
I hid my weeping eyes,
I said: O God, Thou art wise!
And I thank Thee, again and again,
For the Sower whose name is Pain.

Pith and Point.

FLOUR by any other name would smell as wheat.

ALL'S well that dividends well, is a new version of an old saying.

IT is a strange fact that men lose their true friends when they grow rich.

THERE has been a good many fires lately. Do, girls, be careful about your sparks.

HERE is the newest floral sentiment: "If you wish for hearts ease, don't look to marigold."

AN Indiana girl has sued Mr. Andonis Bellows for breach of trust. She wants to raise the wind.

A GOOD action is never thrown away, and that is why so few of them are seen lying around loose.

HOW STRIKING! Messrs. Hits & Kichs keep a lager beer saloon up-town.—Commercial Advertiser.

MAMMA—"On earth as it is in heaven." Georgie—"Est 'tis in heaven." Mamma—"Give us this day our daily bread." Georgie—"Mamma, is he a baker?"

SCENE, Friday dinner: First boarder (on discovering a piece of ham in his fish)—"Well, I'll be dashed if they don't fry their fish in ham!" Second boarder (scorning such extravagant conclusions)—Fry, man? Why, that was the bait."

WASHING THE CLOTHES.

This is the way we wash the clothes!
See the dirt, and smoke, and clay!
Through and through the water flows,
Takes and drops them far away.

This is the way we bleach the clothes;
Lay them out upon the green;
Through and through the sunshine goes,
Makes them white as well as clean.

This is the way we dry the clothes;
Hang them on the bushes about;
Through and through the soft wind blows,
Draws and drives the wetness out.

Water, sun, and windy air,
Make the clothes all clean and sweet;
Lay them now in lavender,
For the Sunday, folded neat.

ALONG about bed-time the Detroit wife says she'll go to bed, and her husband yawns and goes down the hall. After half an hour he joins her up stairs and she sleepily inquires: "Did you bolt that side door?" "Yes." "And the back door?" "Yes." "And you fastened that cellar door." "Yes." "And did you put a brace under the knob of the hall door?" "Yes." "Sure that all the windows are nailed down?" "Yes." "I'll bet the window in the spare bedroom is up." "No, it isn't." "Did you see if the blinds to the pantry window were fastened?" "Yes." "Well, put your revolver on the chair, leave a bright light, and if you hear a burglar in the room for heaven's sake don't wake me up, for I know I should scream right out.—Detroit Free Press.

VARIETIES.

John Owens owns $400,000.—Boston Post.

The men who always tell good stories generally tell old ones.—New Orleans Republican.

Moses smote the water. That was before anybody had struck oil.—New Orleans Republican.

The trouble with Winslow seems to have been discontent with his name. He wanted to win fast.—Free Press.

Dan Rice says that Barnum is an old fraud. Barnum hasn't failed half as often as Mr. Rice, and of course there is jealousy between them.—Free Press.

The weather is so warm in Wisconsin that the Milwaukee man has to sit up and fan his wife with his ears. Sometimes he gets careless, and then she yells at him: "Reef 'em John, or you'll blow me away."—Brooklyn Argus.

Mr. Tice, we ask it more in sorrow than in anger. How is the American eagle to make cobblers and slings, juleps and things for the thirsty nations at the Centennial without ice, Mr. Tice?—St. Louis Republican.

There's a girl in Iowa who has seven fingers. Young men are rather shy. Seven fingers can take in a shocking handful of hair on occasion, no doubt.—St. Louis Republican.

Singular Cause of Death.

About three weeks ago Mrs. Hobart Bogardus, of Saugerties, awoke in the night with severe headache, and, taking a bottle of smelling salts from a stand, applied it to her nose occasionally. She soon fell asleep and on awaking in the morning found that she had retained the bottle in her hand, and that the salts had drawn a blister on her thumb, which had covered the mouth of the bottle. In a short time inflammation arose, gangrene set in, and in spite of every effort to stop its progress, her entire system became poisoned, resulting in her death on Sunday evening last. She was between 40 and 50 years of age.—Albany Argus.

J. D. CARTER, of Morgan County, Ind., a noted local temperance worker, proposes to gather at his next birthday party every resident of the county who neither drinks, smokes, chews, snuffs, nor swears, and the betting is that if he barbecues an ox to feed the guests he will have enough beef left for hash next day.

FIGHTING A BURGLAR.

A Man Outwits and Outfights a Midnight Robber—A Terrible Struggle for Life—How a Baby Was Utilized.

The number of midnight robbers who are afloat in the country just now will give additional interest to the following details of a fight with a burglar in Binghamton, N. Y.: Shortly after midnight, Mr. George A. Kent, whose residence was the scene of the struggle, thought he heard a noise in the house. Mr. Kent slowly raised up in bed and stepped out on the floor. He walked into the sitting room and deliberately turned up the light which was burning in the chandelier in the middle of the room. He looked around but there was no sign of any intruder. Mr. Kent thought he had been alarmed without cause. As he did so the form of a masked burglar appeared in the doorway between the two rooms. In a moment the thought flashed through Mr. Kent's mind that if he surrendered he might get a chance to reach his revolver, which was on a shelf in a closet at the foot of the bed. He threw up his hands and exclaimed: "All right. Take what you want. I won't disturb you." The burglar lowered his arm, and Mr. Kent said "Just let me get back into bed and then go to work." The burglar evidently supposed Mr. Kent had given up, and at once turned his attention to business. He took up Mr. Kent's clothes, which were lying on a chair near the bureau, and ransacked the pockets. A few small articles he threw on the floor, but transferred a gold watch and chain and a pocket book to his own pocket. The bureau drawers were next opened and a few articles taken. As may well be imagined, Mr. Kent found it very hard work to lie still and see his property appropriated. It required all his self-possession to keep quiet, but he could do nothing without his revolver, and that was out of his reach. Mrs. Kent, who had borne up bravely, began to show symptoms of alarm and fright, and Mr. Kent requested the robber to be quick and get through. "We will be quiet," said Mr. Kent, "if you will only clear out. Go quietly and shut the door behind you." At last the burglar finished his work and went into the sitting room. In an instant Mr. Kent put his foot on the floor, intending to get his revolver, but the burglar opened the door in an instant. Mr. Kept laid down and the door was closed again. How to get that revolver without giving notice of his movements Mr. Kent could not think. But a bright thought struck him. He reached out his arm and pinched the baby, who was lying in a crib at the side of the bed. The baby began to cry, and Mr. Kent sprang from his bed and seized the revolver before the burglar was aware of it. He threw open the door in the sitting room. The burglar stood in the middle of the room. Mr. Kent fired instantly, and the burglar at the same time raised his arm, exclaiming, with an oath: "Now I've got you!" The burglar then rushed behind the stove, and succeeded in dodging the bullets of his would-be captor. After Mr. Kent had fired three shots, the villain then rushed from behind the stove and grappled with Mr. Kent, trying to get his revolver away from him. Then began a hand-to-hand fight. The two men rolled around on the floor in a desperate battle for life. Mr. Kent tried to use his pistol, and fired two more shots, one of which struck the stove, and the other struck the robber in the right arm, just below the elbow, and lodged in the fleshy part of the limb. Mr. Kent exerted all his strength to throw the man and dispatch him, his own life depending on his killing his assailant. He called to Mrs. Kent to get the poker or stove-lifter and break the rascal's head. Mrs. Kent rushed to her husband's rescue, and caught the man by the hair, in an effort to distract his attention and save her husband. She tried to find the iron handle used for shaking down the stove, but the burglar had placed it on the table when he first entered the room, evidently intending to use it as a weapon. At last, after a struggle which seemed endless to Mr. Kent, he got his antagonist at an advantage, and throwing him upon the sofa standing near the kitchen door, pressed the revolver against his side and fired the sixth shot. The bullet entered the body of the desperate and defeated villain just below the right breast, passing upward. The wounded man fell over on the sofa, and Mr. Kent, exhausted with the struggle, let go of him. Mrs. Kent approached him with the poker and he sprang through the dining-room door. Mr. Kent followed him, but did not fire again, although he had one shot left. The burglar escaped through a side kitchen door, which he had unfastened when he came in. But he applied for assistance for his wound at a house near by, where he was arrested. He had an accomplice, but he was such a coward he fled at the first indications of a fight, otherwise Mr. Kent might not have been so successful.

Society of Criminals.

Gen. Chamberlain, Warden of the Massachusetts State Prison, in his evidence before the Prison Committee of the Legislature, at Boston, last week, said: "I know from my own knowledge that there exists in the city of Boston a regularly organized society of criminals, with a President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer. This society has a regular form of admitting members. The prison he has graduated from, his offense, with information in regard to the prison, are all duly recorded. The society discusses the most approved plans for burglary, tools, equipments, etc.: they also keep a regular register of the best criminal lawyers in the country, and of the Judges of the courts, and they know at once what the prospects are for a brother criminal. If his case comes before what they call 'a hard Judge,' they raise the money to secure a postponement of the case. They also have a fund for mutual support and protection, and through this source they are often able to send delicacies to their brethren when sick in the prison hospital."

Ring the Platter—A Game for Children.

The company, sitting in a circle, are numbered in order as they sit—one, two, three, four, etc. A common round dinner plate is placed on the floor in the middle of the room. A heavy plate is better than a light china one. Number one then goes to the plate, stands it up on its edge, and give it a twirl, calling to number seven as he leaves it. Number seven must jump at once, and give a turn before the plate stops spinning, calling number ten, or any other number. This game is very lively and amusing for grown up people, as well as boys and girls, for if the plate is a little heavy it won't spin long, and the number called must catch it before it stops. Accordingly seven must be careful not to call number ten till his own fingers are fairly off the plate, so that number ten may be obliged to jump in a hurry.

Food for Old People.

Is your fat, good-natured grandfather living on fat beef and pork, white bread and butter, buckwheat cakes and molasses, rice and sugar, till he has lost all mental and physical energy, and desires to sit from morning till night, saying nothing, and caring for nothing? Change his diet. Give him fish, beefsteak, potatoes and unbolted wheat bread, or rye and Indian, and one-half or three-fourths of the carboniferous articles of his former diet, and in one week he will cheer you again with his old jokes, and call for his hat and cane. Is he lean, and cold, and restless, and irritable? Give him the fattest meats, the best butter and as much sugar and molasses as he desires, and taking away entirely food for the brain and muscle, but adapting them to his circumstances. Perhaps his brain has been overworked, and exhaustion and fitful action follow. If so, he needs some form of phosphatic food to which he has not been accustomed—such as oatmeal, porridge, or oatmeal cake, with milk, or a diet of fish, and pearl barley or pea soup. Or perhaps his restlessness comes from inactivity of the bowels. If so he needs fruit, vegetables, unbolthiswheat bread, etc., with care to keep ed mind at ease, and to have only such company as is soothing and agreeable. Or perhaps irritability arises from the use of too much meat and other phosphatic food. If so, keep on a diet in which the phosphates are deficient, as rice, flour, bread, butter, etc., with other food adapted to their conditions and an adaptation of food to conform to them. That this will very much contribute to comfort and happiness in the declining years of life, there is not a shadow of doubt.

A Dog Coasting.

Last winter as I was hurrying home from school, hoping there would be time for a slide before dark, I saw, just as I reached the long hill by Mr. K.'s, a dog drawing a sled up the hill. He was a large yellow dog, with long slit-like legs, immense flapping ears, and a very mournful expression of countenance. He was harnessed to the sled by the rope, which was tied to his collar, and as he had much difficulty in drawing the sled up the hill, it being slippery, two gentlemen and I stopped and watched him. He at last reached the top of the hill, and turned around facing the bottom, waiting for his little master to come and unharness him. But in an unlucky moment, doggy slipped and the sled started, taking him off his feet, and away he went, careering down hill. It was a very funny picture to look at, for he sat upright, his long, hind legs sticking straight out in front, his fore paws pawing the air, and his long ears flapping behind him like flags. He cast his eyes piously upward, and, s-l-o-w-l-y opening his mouth, there floated up to us on the frosty air one of the most heart-breaking dog howls I ever heard. At the foot of the hill, there was a corner to be turned, lined on one side by a post and fence, and on the other by a lamp-post and trees. As he approached this dangerous place we held our breath with suspense. Doggy saw his danger, too, and his helpless cries brought tears to my eyes, and then, as he swept grandly round the curve and rode gallantly into the gutter, the spectators raised a cheer, and he was loaded with pats and caresses. But he was not elated, oh, no! and when one of the gentlemen offered his little master ten cents if he would have the farce repeated, doggy quietly but firmly declined, and, putting his tail between his legs, sneaked modestly to his kennel.

The Original Judge Lynch.

In 1493 James Fitzstephens Lynch was Mayor and Warden of Galway (Ireland). He traded largely in Spain, and sent his son thither to purchase a cargo of wine. The young man squandered the money intrusted to him for this purpose, but succeeded in running in debt for a cargo to a Spaniard, by whose nephew he was accompanied on the return voyage to Ireland, where the money was to be paid. Young Lynch, to conceal his defalcation, caused the Spaniard to be thrown overboard, and was received at home with great honor, as having conducted a most successful business operation.

But a sailor on his deathbed revealed to the Mayor of Galway the crime that his son had committed. The young man was tried before his own father, convicted and sentenced to be hanged. His family and others undertook to prevent the execution; and the father, finding that the sentence could not be carried into effect in the usual way, conducted his son up a winding stairway to a window overlooking the public street, with his own hands fastened the halter attached to his neck to a staple in the wall, and acted as executioner.

And in the council books of Galway there is said to be a minute that "James Lynch, Mayor of Galway, hanged his own son out of the window for defrauding and killing strangers, without martial or common law, to show a good example to posterity." Hence the term "Lynch Law."

A Curious Story.

Some new and interesting evidence is at hand bearing upon the question of Spain's ability to successfully contend against and bring to an end the Cuban revolution. A dispatch from Minister Cushing to Secretary Fish mentions, among the great evils which impede the pacification of Cuba, the fact that there is maintained between the insurgents and their sympathizers throughout the island, in the cities and towns and on the plantations, a system of secret communication, whereby is imported information as to the movement of Spanish troops, and supplies, provisions, and war munitions are forwarded to the insurgent lines. Thus much is known in Spain, but in Washington it has been ascertained that the Havana merchants have been in collusion with the Spanish authorities in supplying the insurgent army, the plan being to send a large quantity of supplies (purchased and paid for by the Government) under a feeble escort, upon a route running near the "enemy's" picket-line, when, by agreement, the train would be attacked and the supplies captured, the escort barely escaping with their lives! In this way, it is said, the patriots have continued to carry on the war without contributions from abroad, and the merchants and corrupt officials have realized handsomely upon the clever operation. The amount of loyalty and fidelity to the mother country in Cuba is something stunning, according to all accounts.

A Valuable Work.

THE CENTENNIAL HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES, from the discovery of the American Continent to the close of the First Century of American Independence. By James D. McCabe, Author of "A Manual of General History," "Pathways of the Holy Land," etc., etc.

There has long been a great and universally-felt want of a History of the United States suitable for general use. This want is now being supplied by The National Publishing Co., of Chicago, Ill., who have issued a handsome volume, styled "The Centennial History of the United States," by James D. McCabe, a well-known historical writer. This work will, undoubtedly, take rank as the Standard History of the United States. It is no dry mass of details—no bombastic effort to inflame the national pride, but is a clear, vivid and brilliant narrative of the events of our history, from the discovery of the American Continent down to the present time.

We most heartily commend this book to our readers. It gives a very interesting account of the Indians of North America, from the time of the coming of the white men. The voyages of Columbus, the explorations of the different nations of Europe, and the wanderings of the Spaniards in search of gold and immortal youth, are told with graphic power.

Every step of our colonial history is traced with patient fidelity, and the sources of those noble, and we trust, enduring institutions which have made our country free and great, are shown with remarkable clearness. The causes of our great struggle for Independence are told with a logical force and ability unsurpassed in any work of the day. Then follows a clear and succinct account of the formation of the Federal Constitution; the establishment of the Union; the course of affairs until the breaking out of the Second War with England; and a full and comprehensive account of that War and its results. The events of our career from the close of that contest to the commencement of the Civil War, follow in their order. The history of the Civil War is related with intense vigor, and with a strict fidelity to truth; and the work closes with an account of the course of affairs since the end of that great conflict. The author writes throughout with the calmness and impartiality of a historian and pleads the cause of no party or section. He states facts, points out the lessons which they teach, and appealing neither to passion nor political feeling, trusts to the good sense of his country to sustain his views. In order to render the work complete in every respect the author has added to it an appendix, giving an account of the approaching International Centennial Exhibition.

It is comprised in one large, handsome octavo volume of 925 pages, and contains 442 fine engravings on steel and wood of historical personages and scenes. The price is so low that all can afford to purchase a copy, and each subscriber is presented with a superb lithographic engraving of the Centennial Exhibition Buildings and Grounds. The book is sold by subscription only, and the publishers want agents in every county. See advertisement in another column.

Extraordinary Enterprise.

Frank Leslie, the publisher of eighteen illustrated newspapers and magazines, has just added to the list his New Popular Monthly, a marvel of elegance and cheapness. It is nearly double the size of any magazine published, each number containing one hundred and twenty-eight quarto pages, eighty-one illustrations, a beautiful chromo lithograph frontispiece, and is brim full of choice literature. We name as a few of the admirable articles in the first number—one completely illustrating and describing the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia—also "Degrading Punishment of Women," illustrated—an interesting sketch of the life and assassination of Marat, the French revolutionist, with portrait—the different modes of fire producing among the aborigines, illustrated—biographical sketch and portrait of the great millionaire, Wm. B. Astor, and view of Astor Library. Among the excellent stories which give so much life to this magazine we notice "How we Shot the Falls," an Adirondack Adventure, "Pearl Morgan's Revenge," "Huldah's Defeat," "Diamond Cut Diamond," "One Night," by Etta W. Pierce, "Paul's Choice," "Flint and Steel," "The Story of Raephel Velda," "The Fix Mr. Ferrers Was In." There are over sixty articles illustrated by eighty-two engravings, and is furnished one year, postage paid, for $2.50. The Popular Monthly has already reached a circulation of 75,000 copies—a success never before recorded of any publication of its class. Send twenty cents to Frank Leslie, New York, for sample copy, by mail free. Canvassing agents should secure territory for this successful magazine. An elegant chromo is given as premium. Write at once for terms.

A BOX OF GROCERIES FREE to every subscriber is what the publishers of The Housekeeper offer in our advertising columns. Messrs. Wingate & Co. will do just what they promise. It is the best chance for agents ever offered, as no good housekeeper who sees the box would fail to subscribe. Read the advertisement.

IF every one of our readers would try Dobbins' Electric Soap (Cragin & Co., Philadelphia), they would, like us, become firm believers in its wonderful merit. Have your grocer order it.

CHAPPED hands, face, pimples, ringworm, saltrheum, and other cutaneous affections cured, and rough skin made soft and smooth, by using Juniper Tar Soap. Be careful to get only that made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, as there are many imitations made with common tar, all of which are worthless.

CHICAGO LEDGER—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

American Genius—Moody and Sankey.

The great revivalists, Messrs. Moody and Sankey, who electrified staid old England with their eloquence and enthusiasm, are fair samples of American genius. Springing from among the common people, their sympathies are alive to the wants of the whole people, and herein lies the secret of their great success. Those who seek to be popular must study and be familiar with the wants of the masses, and prove loyal thereto. To this fact we may trace the grand success in business, as well as in religious undertakings, which many Americans have achieved. Strikingly illustrative of these suggestions is that great establishment, located at Buffalo, N. N., and known as the "World's Dispensary"—a most appropriate name, indeed, for that vast institution, within whose walls are manufactured remedies which are in demand in every quarter of the globe, and at which a corps of distinguished physicians and surgeons, under the personal direction of Dr. Pierce, are constantly administering to the needs of thousands of sufferers everywhere, and whose success in the treatment of all forms of chronic ailments has become so well known that there is scarcely a hamlet in the land in which his name is not familiar. Its proprietor, says the Herald and Torchlight, of Detroit, "is a man of the people, writes for them, and to them tenders his eminent professional services." His advertisements are earnest exhortations. Like the great revivalists, his enthusiasm is multiplied by the unparalleled success of his enterprise, as well as by the efficacy of his remedies in curing disease. The people believe in him and his remedies, because, as the New York Tribune says, "he sympathizes with them in all their afflictions, efforts, and attainments." Hence, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is to-day more largely employed as a blood and liver medicine, and also as a cough remedy, than any other remedial agent in the world. His Favorite Prescription, he does not recommend as a "cure-all," as is so often done by compounders of worthless, humbug nostrums, but for all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women it has proved itself so much of a specific that it now enjoys great popularity and universal confidence. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, "scarcely larger than mustard seed," have proved so agreeable and reliable as a cathartic that they are rapidly taking the place of the large nauseous pills heretofore so much in use; while his Compound Extract of Smart Weed is a favorite remedy for Colic, Cramps, Summer Complaint, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, and Cholera Morbus, and also as a liniment. Of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, little need be said, as they are known everywhere as the greatest specifics for Catarrh and "cold in the head," ever given to the public. And besides this large measure of success, Dr. Pierce seems likely to achieve as great renown as an author as he has as a physician. His COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of about 900 pages, which he sells at the unparalleled low price of $1.50, has already been sold to the extent of exhausting two editions amounting to forty thousand copies. The secret of Dr. Pierce's success, as well as that of the great revivalists, and scores of other Americans, who, by their genius, have advanced step by step from obscurity to affluence and distinction, consists in treating the people with consideration, sympathy, candor, and honesty. No man, who hopes to attain either wealth or distinction, can afford to deal unfairly with the world or be indifferent to the wants and best interests of humanity.

PAIN AND DISEASE.—Can we expect to enjoy good health when bad or corrupt humors circulate with the blood, causing pain and disease, and these humors, being deposited through the entire body, produce pimples, eruptions, ulcers, indigestion, costiveness, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, and numerous other complaints? Remove the cause by taking Vegetine, the most reliable remedy for cleansing and purifying the blood.

CHEAPEST, best family paper in the world—CHICAGO LEDGER. See advertisement.

Consumptives, Take Notice.—Every moment of delay makes your cure more hopeless, and much depends on the judicious choice of a remedy. The amount of testimony in favor of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for consumption, far exceeds all that can be brought to support the pretensions of any other medicine. See Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing the certificates of many persons of the highest respectability, who have been restored to health after being pronounced incurable by physicians of acknowledged ability. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many, as these evidences will show; but the cure is often promoted by the employment of two other remedies which Dr. Schenck provides for the purpose. These additional remedies are Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. By the timely use of these medicines, according to directions, Dr. Schenck certifies that most any case of Consumption may be cured.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

Columbus discovered America, but it has been found that the only economical Shoes for children are the celebrated Silver Tipped. Never wear out at the toe, and are worth two pairs without tips. All Dealers sell them.

"Keep your head cool and your feet dry." It has always been necessary, in order to carry this out, to set in the house and stick your head out of the window. Now put on a pair of Cable Screw Wire Boots or Shoes and walk out.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. STINSON & CO., Portland, Me.

30 FANCY CARDS, 11 styles, with name, 10c. Address J. B. HUSTED, Nassau, Rens. Co., N.Y.

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Washington St., Boston.

Outfits FREE. FOOTPRINTS of the AGES. Our Government and History. Goodspeed's Book, Bible and Map House, CHICAGO.

$350 A Month.—Agents wanted. 24 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

A HOME!!! For a Good Home, or a Profitable Investment, write for information of the Great Arkansas Valley to BOHAN & COMPANY, Hutchinson, Kansas.

DIVORCES legally and quietly obtained for incompatibility, &c.; residence unnecessary; fee after decree. A. GOODRICH, P. O. Box 1037, Chicago.

A Miniature Oil Painting on Canvas which will be your own Likeness, free, with The Home Weekly, sent 3 months on trial for 25 cts. Money to Agents. L. T. LUTHER, Mill Village, Erie Co., Pa.

KEEP A DAILY EXPENSE BOOK. IT PAYS. Best published. Agents wanted. Mailed, cloth, 50 cts. T. J. MORROW, 41 Warren St., New York.

RICH Books, Kurious Goods, Sporting Articles, etc. 64-page Book for two 3c. stamps. BALDWIN & CO., 111 Nassau St., N. Y.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT Nev Buffalo Bill Revolver sent with 100 Cartridges for $3. Full Nickel Plate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Illustrated Catalogue Free. Address WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill. $3.00

$60 PER MONTH and traveling expenses paid to salesmen who can sell our goods, and better wages to experienced salesmen. Address ARGAND KINDLER CO., 36 LaSalle St., CHICAGO, Ill.

MIND READING, PSYCHOMANCY, FASCINATION, Soul Charming, Mesmerism and Lovers' Guide, showing how either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose instantly. 400 pages. By mail, 50 cts. Hunt & Co., 139 S. 7th St., Phila.

BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S New Book outsells everything. Don't worry about hard times. Sell this book and see how easy they are. Send for circulars to American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

ROSES 700 SUPERB VARIETIES ROSES. Half a Million Greenhouse Plants. Bedding Plants a Specialty. Illustrated Catalogue Free. F. Y. TEAS & CO., Richmond Ind.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents, Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

BOOK AGENTS. MOODY & SANKEY.—The only original, authentic and complete record of these men and their works. Beware of imitations. SEND FOR CIRCULARS. American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

300 Per cent. profit to Agents. Portraits, &c., drawn by Machinery. For full particulars address Smithograph M'f'g Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Decalcomanie, Chromos, Steel Engravings, Photographs, Scrap-book Pictures, Mottoes, etc. Elegant samples and catalogue sent postpaid for 10 cts. Agents Wanted. J. L. Patten & Co., 162 William St., New York.

PHOTO COPYING AGENTS, send for our new Catalogue of Plate Copies, and Fine India Ink, Water Colored and Oil Portraits. The prices will astonish you. Oldest and largest Copying House in America. Address TEN EYCK & CO., Auburn, N. Y.

LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 TRANSPARENT VISITING CARDS, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. NOVELTY PRINTING CO., Ashland, Mass.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY. AGENTS make $100 weekly by canvassing for it; 128 pages, 80 illustrations, $4.50 yearly, with elegant chromo. Send 20 cents for copy and terms to FRANK LESLIE, New York.

WANTED—A few intelligent Ladies and Gentlemen to solicit orders for Capt. Glazier's new work, "Battles for the Union." Just the book for Centennial times. All expenses advanced. References required. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO., Hartford, Conn.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio.

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS

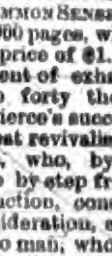
My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. WILLIAM E. BOWDITCH, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

BUY SPOONS AND FORKS OF THE MANUFACTURERS at Wholesale Prices. Made of Steel. Patented. Plated with White Albata Metal. Will last 10 years. Sent by mail on receipt of price.
6 Table Spoons........60 cts.
6 Tea Spoons........30 cts.
6 Table Forks........60 cts.
Olive, Oval, and Tipped Patterns. Samples and Circular to Agents, 25 cents. Electro Plate Co., Northford, Ct.

NOVEL IDEA—$4 for $2. THE HOUSEKEEPER—a first-class Magazine intended by Jennie June, James Parton and others—will, on receipt of subscription price, $2, be sent one year, post-paid, and deliver FREE A PREMIUM BOX of $2.00 worth best Groceries. N. Y. Weekly Sun, Jan. 19, 1876, says "It is one of the best chances for agents ever offered." As we allow A LARGE CASH COMMISSION it is a rare chance to make money rapidly and secure a permanent business. C. F. Wingate & Co. (Limited), 69 Duane St., N.Y. Sample copy 10c.

HO! For IOWA!! TO FARMERS. Better Lands at Cheaper Prices cannot be had in the world, than from the Iowa R. R. Land Co. Soil and Climate strictly first class. Pure Water abundant. Half Fare Tickets from Chicago out and back with Free Fare to Purchasers. A Descriptive Pamphlet with Maps of Over One Million Acres for sale at $5 and $6 on R. R. Terms sent free. Address Iowa R. R. Land Company, 92 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., or Cedar Rapids Iowa. JOHN B. CALHOUN, Land Commissioner.

DO YOUR OWN PRINTING!



NOVELTY PRINTING PRESS. For Professional and Amateur Printers, Schools, Societies, Manufacturers, Merchants, and others it is the BEST ever invented. 13,000 in use. Ten styles. Prices from $5.00 to $150.00. BENJ. O. WOODS & CO. Manuf'rs and dealers in all kinds of Printing Material. (Send stamp for Catalogue.) 49 Federal St. Boston.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza Young BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19. Selling at the rate of 1,000 a week. Full expose of the whole system of Polygamy. Illustrated Circulars, with complete information free to all. Address nearest office of Dustin, Gilman & Co., Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O.

MERIDEN Cutlery Co. Make all kinds of Table Knives and Forks. Exclusive makers of "PATENT IVORY," most durable WHITE HANDLE known. Always call for "Trade Mark" on the blade. Sold by all dealers in [illegible] MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., 49 Chambers St., N.Y.

S. H. HARRIS' IMPROVED CHICAGO SAFES And VAULT DOORS are the Best. Address S. H. HARRIS, Manufacturer, 23 and 25 Randolph St.

DEATH is delayed and life prolonged by using S. & T. Tonic Elixir and Liquid Extract of Beef. Physicians report many cures in Indigestion, Biliousness, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Piles, Lungs, Liver, Bladder, Kidney and Blood diseases. Female Physicians say it never fails in FEMALE DISEASES and weaknesses. It is a "Godsend to females." Homeopathic and Old School Physicians report "It never fails, the very medicine for children and females." "The only Liquid Extract of Beef with Tonics and Cathartics we will prescribe." Price $1 [illegible] RICHARDSON & TOLLIDGE, CINCINNATI, O.

How to buy him. How to sell him. How to train him. How to tell a trotter. A NEW BOOK of great interest to Horsemen. Sent by mail for 50 cents. Address J. P. VINCENT, Box 88, Chicago, Ill.

Smith Organ Co., BOSTON, MASS. These Standard Instruments Sold by Music Dealers Everywhere. AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN. Sold throughout the United States on the INSTALLMENT PLAN: That is, on a System of Monthly Payments. Purchasers should ask for the SMITH AMERICAN ORGAN Catalogue and full particulars on application.

EGGLESTON'S
SENSIBLE TRUSS

THIS NEW ELASTIC TRUSS Has a Pad differing from all others. Its action is wonderful. Being cup-shape, with Self-Adjusting Ball in center, it adapts itself to all positions of the body, while the ball within the cup presses back the intestines just as a person would with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is perfectly easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Send for Circular and Truss to EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Marshall, Mich.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL HISTORY OF THE U. S. The great interest in the thrilling history of our country makes this the fastest-selling book ever published. It contains 443 fine historical engravings and 925 pages, with a full account of the approaching grand Centennial Exhibition. CAUTION.—Old, Incomplete and Unreliable works are being circulated; see that the book you buy contains 443 Fine Engravings and 925 Pages. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago.

HAW! HAW! HAW! Shout all who once see these Kewrious, Kweer, Kwaint, Komic, Elastic Rubber Faces. Each one will make 100 different faces, and oh, so funny! Greatest thing ever made. Just the thing for holidays. One will convulse a whole town. [illegible] mailed free for only 25 cents each, 5 for $1. [illegible] WONDERFUL MAGIC FINGER! A mystery indeed! You can stick it through your hat and yet make no hole! [illegible] Send for it and have fun FOREVER! Only 25 cents, 5 for $1. CARDS OF COURTSHIP, LOVE-MAKING CARDS, FORTUNE-TELLING CARDS! 5 kinds, each in neat case. These are the best cards ever made, and every young person needs them to enjoy these long evenings. [illegible] THE LITTLE FLIRT, OR LANGUAGE OF LOVE, will take with the girls. Only 15 cents. LITTLE FASCINATOR! For every sweetheart or lover. All about courting, cure for love, &c. Only 15 cents. LOVER'S TELEGRAPH. Needed by every lover. Only 25 cents. All above are elegantly illuminated. Sent free for price. 10,000 books for sale. Catalogue FREE. Address HUNTER & CO., Hinsdale, N. H.

The Wonders of Modern Chemistry. Sarsaparillian and Its Associates. Changes as Seen and Felt as They Daily Occur after Using a Few Doses of DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent, THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and hardness of flesh and muscle, etc.

2. Strength increases, appetite improves, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awake fresh and vigorous.

3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples; the skin looks clear and healthy, the urine changed from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding, little or no sediment; no pain or weakness.

4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands, and functional harmony restored to the several organs.

5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to a clear, lively and healthy color.

6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs, air cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminution of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system; stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles, legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation; hard breathing and paroxysms of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.

7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken, new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity, disease will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin diseases gradually disappear.

8. In cases where the system has been salivated and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, (the principal constituent in the advertised Sarsaparillas, associated in some cases with Hyd. of Potassa) have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing caries of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.

9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous or Syphilitic diseases, however slow may be the cure "feel better," and find their general health improving, their flesh and weight increasing or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better," every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength and flesh.

The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in Consumption of the Lungs and Tuberculous Phthisis, Scrofula, Syphiloid Diseases, Wasting, Degeneration, and Ulceration of the Kidneys, Diabetes, Stoppage of Water (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using these instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder, and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in Chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.

In tumors, nodes, hard lumps and syphiloid ulcers; in dropsy and venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercle of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture, where this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.

In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.

Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $10 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS, CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS, SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA, CATARRH, INFLUENZA, HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, MUMPS, NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM, COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the READY RELIEF to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will, in a few moments, cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water.

IT IS BETTER THAN FRENCH BRANDY OR BITTERS AS A STIMULANT.

Price 50 Cents. Sold by Druggists.

DR. RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

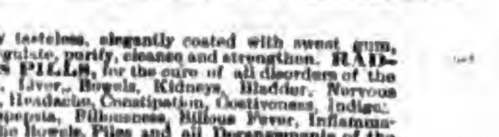
☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs: Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above named disorders. Price 25 Cents per Box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.



WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED DICTIONARY
ILLUSTRATED EDITION 3000 ENGRAVINGS

FOUR PAGES COLORED PLATES MORE THAN THIRTY THOUSAND Copies of WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED have been placed in as many Public Schools in the United States, by State enactments or School Officers. PUBLISHED BY G. & C. MERRIAM, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

A Farm of Your Own IS The Best Remedy for Hard Times! FREE HOMESTEADS AND THE Best and Cheapest Railroad Land Are on the Line of the Union Pacific Railroad, IN NEBRASKA. Secure a Home Now. Full information sent FREE to all parts of the World. Address O. F. DAVIS, Land Com'r U. P. R. R., Omaha, Neb.

O. N. D. No. 6

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, FEB., 17, 1876.

Rev. Fred Bell, "the reformed pugilist minister," as he is called, was last week dismissed from his charge of the Primitive Church, Brooklyn, on charges somewhat similar to those against Beecher. The affidavit of one of the lady parishioners, upon which this action was taken, was presented as that of a dying woman's last statement.

From the amount of repeated repairs necessary to keep bridges passable, we think it about time for our public officials to think of some other way to build them, than placing them on the muck or quick-sand in the bottom of our small creeks. Cheap thrown together things cost more in the long run than good substantial foundations. The way many such structures were put up heretofore, has proven a simple waste of money. Some people always act on the "penny wise and pound foolish idea."

IN the death of Reverdy Johnson the country has lost one of her most distinguished public men. In a long and brilliant career Mr. Johnson acquired great distinction as a clear headed statesman, a profound jurist, an able diplomatist, and a man of unsullied rectitude and inpregnable honor. At the ripe age of eighty he was suddenly called hence, full of years and honors. He literally "died with the harness on," and leaves behind him a record not one page of which he would desire to blot out.

The editor of the South Bend Herald, while in that city one day last week, visited the jail to see Justice Palmer, his would-be-murderer, shook hands with him and had an interesting interview. Mr. Palmer expresses his deep regret at the crime he has committed and the injury he has done him and was rejoiced at his escape from death, not on account of the criminal consequences to himself, but for Mr. Murray's sake alone. Palmer expressed sincere hopes for his entire recovery. Charlie bears him no malice in his heart.—Goshen Democrat.

—We had several invitations to leap year dances, prior engagements prevented our acceptance.

—One girl invited three fellows to the dance, or one fellow three times. we don't know which. Ask John Leasure about it.

—Another girl was so bashful she walked her fellow a full hour Sunday night, and when no one was in sight told him to step in the shade of a church that she "had something to ask him."

—Another asked a red-headed fellow, who replied: "I am very sorry to decline your polite invitation as my father says "I must not be out of nights." She asked another and he referred her to the old man, and still she is not happy.

The Geghan Law.

Last week we spoke of the intolerant spirit of the republican party of Ohio in repealing the Geghan law. Perhaps many of our readers would like to know what this law is which called forth such a furious warfare on the part of the Ohio republicans, and which they have just repealed in the legislature by a party vote. Here it is:

"Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, that as liberty of conscience is not forfeited by reason of detention in any penal, reformatory or elymosynary institution, or any house of refuge, workhouse, jail or public asylum in this state, no person in any such institution shall be compeled to attend religious worship or instruction of a form which is against the dictates of his or her conscience; and it shall be the duty of every director, trustee, superintendent or other person having in charge any such institution, to furnish ample and equal facilities to all such persons for receiving the ministration of the authorized clergyman of their own religious denomination or persuasion, under such reasonable rule and regulations as the trustees, directors, managers or superintendents shall make; but no such rules shall be so constructed as to prevent the clergyman of any denomination from fully administering the rites of his denomination to such inmates; provided, such ministration entails no expense on the pubic treasury."

Now one of the cardinal doctrines underlying our free institutions is the right to worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience—none daring to molest or make us afraid.—That is the sum and substance of the above law—allowing to Cathodics in work houses, jails and public asylums the same religious rights accorded to protestants. But the republican party in Ohio say that these sacred rights of conscience shall not de accorded to Catholics.

For Governor.

Judge A. C. Downey of the Supreme Court is mentioned as a candidate for the Governorship of this State No better or more popular man lives in Indiana. Twenty years ago we recited our lessons in Blackstone to him, and we know whereof we speak.

The trial of Babcock the private Secretary of President Grant, for complicity in the whiskey frauds was commenced at St. Louis last Tuesday, week.

A Card.

All persons indebted to me either by account or note must call on me immediately or expect to have costs to pay. This is the last call for I must pay my own debts.

I can be found at Snyder's Excelsior Hardware.

Feb. 10,76. V. A. BEARD.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Before Jacob Wal-
De Kalb County. } born, J P Union-tp.

Thomas J. Shreve, vs James E. Shreve.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishment in said case has been served on the Baltimore, Pittsburg and Chicago Railway Company, Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 10, of April A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M, to answer or demur to the complaint or the same will be determined in his absence.

Feb. 17, 1876. JACOB WALBORN, J. P.

Application for License.

NOTICE to the citizens of Richland tp DeKalb County, Indiana is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their regular session in March, 1876, for a license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, on the following discribed premises, to-wit: The North half of lot No 1 McMillens first addition to the town of Corunna, with the privilege of having the same drank where sold.

Feb 10, '76. LEVI L. BROWN, Jr.

Application for License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, that I will make application to the Board of Commissioners, in said county, at their March session 1876, for license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises, to-wit: Commencing at the south-west corner of lot No 67, old plat Auburn, in said county, thence East 20 feet, thence North 66 feet, thence West 20 feet, thence South 66 feet to the place of beginning.

JOSEPH E. BEUGNOT.

Application for License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Garrett, DeKalb County, Indiana, that I will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their March session 1876, for license to retail spirituous. vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privelege of having the same drank on the following premises, to-wit: Building on lots No 23 and 24 in block No 16 in said town of Garrett.

Feb 8, '76. WM. E. SARGENT.

Application for License.

Notice to the citizens of DeKalb County Ind., is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their regular session in March, 1876, for a license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time, on the following discribed premises, to-wit: Commencing at a point 17½ feet east of the south-west corner of lot 28, in the original plat of said town, running thence north 70 feet thence east 17½ feet, thence south 70 feet, thence west 17½ feet to the place of beginning, with the privilege of having the same drank where sold. THOMAS SUMMERS.

Feb. 3rd, '76.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Ind. that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their March term, 1876, for a license to retail spirituous vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises in said county and State to-wit: Commencing at the south-west corner of lot twenty-eight in the original plot of the town of Auburn, in said county, running thence east seventeen and a half feet, thence north seventy feet, thence west seventeen and one half feet, thence south seventy feet, with the privilege of having the same drank on said premises. CHAS. G. SMITH.

Feb. 3, '76.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, }
DeKalb County. }

Jacob W. Swaldner, vs. James Mahady, before Justice Walborn of Union Township.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishee in said case has been served on Samuel W. Ralston. Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 4th day of March A. D. 1876 at 9 o'clock A. M. and answer or demur to the complaint herein or the same will be determine it his absence.

JACOB WALBORN, J. P. [seal]

Attachment Notice.

STATE OF INDIANA, }
DeKalb County. }

Before Henry H. Fales J. P. for Concord Township, Jonathan Hunt vs, Sarah Jane Fetters.

Comes now the plaintiff, and files his complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendant is not a resident of the State of Indiana. Notice is therefore hereby given to said defendant that unless she be and appear at my office at 12 o'clock noon on the 11 days of February, 1876, in Concord township, said county and State, to answer or demur to said complaint the same will be heard and determined in her absence, Witness my hand and seal this 111 da January, 1876.

HENRY H. FALES

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given that a petition has been filed in the Auditors office of DeKalb county, Indiana, praying the vacation of certain streets, alleys and town lots, in Brandon's addition to the town of Auburn, said county, as follows. All that part of Brandon street lying and extending North of Center street all that part of an alley twenty feet wide lying and extending north or Center street through said addition, and also the following alleys running east and west through said addition, to wit, An alley 12 feet wide, between lots number 8, 9 10 and 11, an alley 12 feet wide between lots No. 14, 15, 16 and 17, also an alley 12 feet wide between lots No 20, 21, 22 and 23, also that part of the street known as Michigan avenue, lying and extending west of west Railroad street, and also a vacation of the following numbered lots, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10 11, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, and 25. all in said addition, and that said petition will be heard at the next session of the Board of Commissioners of said county. JOHN BRANDON.

Jan. 28, '76. Appliant

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that there is a petition now on file at the Auditors office of DeKalb Co., Ind, praying for the vacation of a part of Quincy street, in the town of Garrett, in DeKalb county, Ind., as follows: Commencing at a point 23 feet north of the north-east corner of lot No. 23, in Block No. 20, in said town Garrett, and running thence south to the north-east corner of said lot thence west to Randall street thence north 23 feet thence east to the place of begining, and that said petition will be presented to the Board for final action, at their March session 1876, said part of street proposed to be vacated passes over the land owned by Washington Cowen and the Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago R. R. Company Indiana Division, and they are the only persons to be affected by said vacation.

JOHN K. COWEN,
per D. D. M

1876. Our Centennial Gift! 1876.

A FREE GIFT.

A Round trip ticket to Philadelphia and return, good six months, gratis. A chance for any one to visit the greatest exhibition in the world's history.

SAM, PETE & MAX, offer a most magnanimous present to their multitude of friends. Every purchaser of Five Dollars worth of Clothing at our store will secure a chance to draw one of the ten (10) round trip tickets, to the Centennial, which will be distributed July 1st, place and manner of drawing will be made known in time through the press, and Famous Star Clothing House.

SAM, PETE & MAX,

Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

GILES' LINIMENT

TRADE MARK

IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Dr. William Osgood Page, of No 265 4th avenue New York, suffered for many years with stiffness and intense pain in his knee, and at times was unable to walk, caused by an injury received on the Hudson River Railroad. Tried every remedy that skill or science could devise, without benefit. Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia gave instant relief and effected a complete cure.

Sold by Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle

Sold by J. H. EHLERS.

No. 3

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the largest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see his large stock

GREAT

New York Store

—IN—

GARRETT,

LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

Will be found a complete assortment of

FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

he goods have all been well selected, and make nice a stock as there is in the county. The stock consists of a complete assortment of

DRY GOODS,
LADIES' FANCY GOODS.
MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,

a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complete line of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Made to our order, and the nicest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 5 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices All invited to call and see us, whether they purchas or not. Come one, come all, and see our goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargain will be given as we will carry the largest stock Garret and we will make it an object for all buy. Call at the Brown building opposite lar hotel. The farmers will do well to come to tra in Garret. You can sell your produce for t highr market price and get the cash, and y can get goods as cheap as any place and you w be satisfied.

N satl-6m LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

THE FAVORITE

HOME REMEDY.

Is warrented not to conta in a single particle o Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which the all-wise providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure any diseases caused by derangement of the liver or Bowels.

Stimulate the liver and prevent

CHILLS AND FEVER.

Simon's Liver Regulator, or Med'e

Is eminently a Family Medicine, and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour if suffering and many a dollar in time and doctors' bills.

After over forty years trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtue from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the shoulders Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth billious attacks, Palpitation of the heart pain in the region of the kidneys, despondency, gloom and forbidings of evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased liver.

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, poor appetite and tongue coated you are suffering from torpid liver, or billiousness and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the liver the largest organ in the body is generally the seat o the disease and is not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will come.

Armed with this antidote, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a remedy in Malarious fevers, Bowel complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice, Nausea, it is the cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world.

CAUTION.—Buy no powders or prepared Simons' Liver Regulator unless in our engraved wrapper, with Trade Mark Stamp, and Signature unbroken. None other is genuine.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.
Macon, Ga., and Philadelphia.

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ford & Parent, Prs.

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

are prepared to send out rigs at anytime and at reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware. Cutlery Tin-Ware

I would call special attention to my department of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING & BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH.
DOORS, ETC

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS

BALTIMORE & OHIO.

RAILROAD.

THE GREAT NATIONAL ROUTE

—TO—

Washington, Balt'r
Philadelphia, N. Y.,

THE EAST AND NORTH-EAST

All Trains run via Wash. City.

Among the characteristics of this Favorite route are

Double Tracks, Steel Rails,
Magnificent Iron Bridges,
Gorgeous Mountain Scenery,
Unrivaled Equipment,
Loughridge Air Brakes,
Unsurpassed Eating Houses,
(Owned and opperated by the Company)
And in fact all the Modern Appliances
that conduce to.

SPEED, SAFETY AND COMFORR

Pullman Palace Cars!

RUN THROUGH

WITHOUR CHANGE

BETWEEN THE PRINCIPAL

WESTERN and EASTERN Cities!

For through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of trains, Sleeping Car accommodations, &c. apply at ticket offices at all principal points, North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, L. M. COLE,
Asst. Gen. Tic. Agt. Gen. Tic. Agt
THOS. P. BARRY, T. R. SHARP
Wes'n Pass'gr. Agt. Master of Tras

HEADQUARTERS

FOR ALL KIDS OF

FAMILY GROCERIES!

The undersigned offers at the very lowest figures the following line of goods.

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Tobaccos, Flour, Canned Fruit, and all Kinds of Groceries found in a first-class establishment. Teas, from 40c to $1.00 per pound. Sugars from 6 to 12c best Rio Coffee 25c Fine Cut Tobacco 55c to $1.00 per pound

Also in connection with the above we have the largest and best assortment of

QUEENS WARE,

GLASS WARE.

STONE WARE

ever offered for sale in this county.

Highest CASH price paid for all kinds of country produce. Competent clerks to wait upon German customers. At Cool's old stand.

ROBERT ZACHER.

Still in the Field with a Larger Stock of

Lumber,

Lath, Shingles, Doors, Sash, Lime, &c.

than ever before brought to Auburn. We are selling at the Lowest Bottom Prices!

and Defy Competition.

Lumber by the WAGON or CAR load

ALWAYS ON HAND!

☞ YARD ON SOUTH JACKSON STREET.

F. N. WRIGHT & CO.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

Having purchased the Furniture Store formerly occupied by Mr WM. LONG, I will keep a full assortment of everything in the line of

FurniturE

I buy for cash and can therefore sell at LOWER RATES than those who buy on time.

FINE BED ROOM SETS

AND PARLOR SETS.

furnished customers at prices that cannot fail to suit. First-class workman employed to manufacture to order. I especially desire everybody to call and price my goods before buying elsewhere. Rooms on Main-st., opposite Shull's new brick.

A. C. Dawson

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$ 95	Hogs—live	$6.50
Amber—red	1.12	Hogs—dressed
Rye		Turkeys—live	.08
Oats	.30	Chickens—live	.05
Corn	@ 25	Butter	.18
Potatoes	[illegible]	Lard	.14
Flax Seed		Eggs	14
Clover Ceed		Tallow	.06
Wool	.45	Timothy Hay	12.00

Local and Miscellaneous.

A contributor over 86 years old.

Ask Fuller what county Michigan was in yesterday.

For the best bargains in town, go to G. H. Munn's.

Munn is selling his entire stock at cost Call and see him.

Go to Beckhoffer's for a good cigar Next door to post-office.

Mrs. T. Hall, of Corunna, has been visiting friends in the ity this week.

F. D. Ryan has bought the stock of Boots and Shoes of S. W. Sprott & Son.

Our townsman Jos. Link, has been quite low with lung fever, but is improving now.

The Garrett News this week approves the formation of a new township, as we suggested. Better late than never.

Two hundred and forty-eight cases are on the docket for trial in next Circuit Court, on file yesterday afternoon.

The golden wedding passed off very pleasantly, so we understand. The COURIER office received the cake.

FOR EXCHANGE.—Good Real Estate for a stock of goodes. Address, box 130 Fort Wayne, Ind. 3t.

Several heavy rains accompanied with thunder and lightning visited us the last week.

Weamer to Baxter "you lie," was read again. Don't fight, gentlemen, wait till we can give one or the other a good "send off" with an obituary notice.

A petition is in circulation asking an appropriation for a bridge at the East of 7th street of Auburn. An improvement greatly needed.

If you want anything in the Dry Goods or Notion line give G. H. Munn a call. He will sell you goods at first cost.

August Mead sells a large lot of personal property, March 2, at his residence, 2½ miles northwest of this place. Rare bargains will be given.

The Garrett News says that the Waterloo Press is going to greet us with a new skirt this week. No, no, it ain't; it will be that same old "bloody shirt."

The alarm of fire, last Monday evening, was caused by the explosion of a lamp, at the residence of S. Pommert. T Sommers threw a quilt over the flames and thus saved a large fire.

Al. Dawson, will go to Chicago this week for a new stock of furniture, and our readers can expect to see something more tasty and stylish than was ever before on sale in this city.

The Auburn Dramatic Club met with good success at Waterloo last Thursday evening, and speak highly of the reception given them. They are entitled to that treatment where ever they may go.

Mrs. Dancer after a short illness, died last Tuesday, at her residence on the corner of Jackson and Seventh streets. We have not been able to learn the nature of the disease

Robert Bell of Garrett, died last week of consumption, aged 42 years and five months. He was one of the old settlers of Butler township, having had that for his residence over forty years.

The recent high waters has proved very damaging to bridges and culverts of the highways and railroads in this vicinity. However, no serious accidents have occured within our knowledge.

Baxter says, that cane should have been inscribed "Mrs." instead of "Mr." so as to keep it from collectors and constables. Oh, you naughty fellow. Better not get in striking distance of that cane.

The old Jail House has undergone repairs, and is now used as a prison for city prisoners, the meeting of town officers, Fireman's hall and in which is kept the hook and ladder wagon and accoutrements.

We learn through the Cleveland "Ledger" that Cyrus F. White, son of Jno. S. White, formerly a resident of this city, died at Cleveland, O, on Monday last. Cyrus will be remembered by many of his old associates here.

The Rev. J. Emory Fisher, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place, but now of Woodstock, Ill., was with his accomplished wife in the city last week visiting friends, enroute to his fathers residence. He gave the COURIER office a call.

A. L. Totten the druggist formerly a partner of F. E. Davenport, of this place but now of Albion, was in the city last week, and perfected a partnership with our young dentist J. E. Bodine, and will shortly open up a first-class stock of drugs &c in McIntyre's block.

The Fire Department is now organized with Jas. L. Potter foreman and Thos. H. Sprott assistant, with a roll of twenty six members. While the mud is thick and deep, its a good time to practice running "wid de machine."

Our article two weeks ago on the subject of New Townships, received the approval of the Waterloo "Press" the old est, and most substantial Republican paper in the county, and as we understand the hearty approval of the citizens interested.

Last Sunday was a most pleasant and handsome day—a real April day. Our streets from morning till night were thronged with promenaders, old and young. Probably two thousand people visited the bridge at East end of Seventh street, that is partially washed out.

Uncle Michael Reever a thirty year resident of Butler township, has just returned from a two months visit at his native hearth, Maryland. Having a most enjoyable time with the old associates who are left. He invariably visits us and pays for the COURIER a year in advance.

The series of meetings held at the Methodist church, ceased last Sunday evening—those at the Presbyterian continue. Last Sunday twenty one members were received into the Presbyterian fold. Certainly the youthful minister is exerting a power for good in that church never before experienced by it.

To the officers and members of the Auburn Lodge No 116 I. O. O. F. are hereby notified that at the regular meeting Feb. 23rd, there will be an election of three Trustees, for the ensuing year. By order of Lodge.

J. E. BODINE, Sec'ry.

Meetings will be resumed at the Baptist church next Monday evening, with preaching every evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all Christian people to participate in the work. The topic for Monday evening will be Woman's Mission in the great work of the world's redemption.

C. B. SHEAR, Pastor.

F. E. Davenport, Esq., has some very useful and instructing Diaries for 1876, which every working and professional man should look at.. There is no one but what needs something of this kind, and now Mr. D. has reduced the prices so low that every one can supply themselves.

All those wanting extra notices in the COURIER, at a distance, will please inform us this week. State the number of lines you desire, at 10c each. The paper will be 56 columns, 3000 extra copies issued, and a map locating our Railroads, Towns and Post-Offices. The roads have been so bad that it has been impossible for us to visit each place in the county.

One of those brilliant strokes of sensible and judicious advertisements is again brought prominently before the public, and which has stamped the author as one of the original and effective advertisers. We speak of the free gift of a round trip ticket and return to the great Centennial exhibition, which begins at Philadelphia early in April, and continues till next November, which beyond doubt will be the grandest World's Fair ever known in history. Every purchaser of Clothing, or Furnishing goods, Hats, Caps, &c., to the amount of Five Dollars, will secure a chance to get one of the ten (10) round trip tickets, which drawing takes place July 1st. '76. Sam, Pete & Max, managers of the famous Star Clothing House, offer these gifts as a thank offering for a most liberal support.

Weamer of the "Republican" and Malony of the Garrett "News", failed to respond although called on, even when it was done in the interest of their readers. Come gentlemen give your opinion, and if it gives the views of your readers, you need not give us the credit, but take it to yourselves, if it will do you or the people any good. We understand a meeting is called of the citizens of Garrett next Saturday to give expression to the same and appoint a committee to wait on the County Board to obtain what was suggested in these columns. We hope the town officials of Garrett and all business men will send in their petition, and if their organ dont approve it, get one that will.

The Street Lamp question last week, produced that very common result of ill feeling and opposition to improvements that have for years retarded enterprise, marred the happiness and damned our place, in the estimation of good, enterprising people. No sooner was it proposed to have the Main streets supplied with lamps to the several depots, than some men on other streets wanted lamps on his street, or opposed the getting of lamps on others. This spirit is radically wrong. They should consider that these thoroughfares used and needed most by citizens and strangers coming to and going from our place by Railroad, should be supplied first; and if they should prove beneficial, then add to other streets. As they have acted, we do not blame Mr. Lanning in resigning and would not blame the balance should they refuse to get a single lamp. We hope the town officers will act with discretion and firmness, utterly disregarding the growls of grumblers, and do their duty as to them "seemeth right," and let the consequences take care of themselves.

Miller & Casebeer are giving Overcoats away.

Tuesday we visited the bustling town of Garrett and found everything in good running order. For courtesies we must mention L. H. Smith at the Junction, Capt. Quigley, Johnnie Robbins, Eli Kuhlman, Mr. Thomas, mine host N. Tarney, Esq., Bacon, Capt. Jinks, et. al

The Detroit Eel River & Ill R. R. Co. will sell round trip tickets to parties attending Republican State Convention at Indianapolis Feb. 22, from Auburn $5.70, good from Feb. 19th to Feb. 24th inclusive.

S. HOWELL, G. T. Agt.

RAPE.—A hoary headed old sinner, aged sixty-four, committed a rape a few days ago, on his step-daughter, at Garrett. His name we heard was F. A. Stiles, and has left for parts unknown. If the citizens cannot send him to meet Col. Joice, utilize one of your suburban oak trees.

FRUIT AND ORNAMENTAL TREES.—Seeing my old friend Noah Granger, of Ft. Wayne, in town in company with Robert Milliken, he informs us that he has just commenced a thorough canvass of Fruit, Flowers and Ornamental Trees, to be delivered this fall, and that the stock is unsurpassed in quality. They sell everything to be expected from a first class Nursery. Also Evergreens, Monthly Roses, etc. This affords our citizens and farmers in this vicinity a fine opportunity to supply themselves with everything calculated to make their homes beautiful and pleasant, as well as profitable. They guarantee fifty per cent. of their stock, and replace half of everything that does not grow. They are from the celebrated Nursery of N. H. Albaugh, Jodnor, Ohio. We bespeak for them good success among our citizens.

MR. EDITOR—Married recently in Noble county, Mr. Dunfee, to Mrs. Sophronia Heist.

This young man has received a 'heist' that we trust will be a happy elevation to all his hopes and aspirations in future life. Some thoughtless ones may look upon this union as the fruits of Leap Year.

But this boy undoubtedly felt within his youthful breast,
A love that could not be repressed.
A love! it is a heavenly, gentle thing.
Inspired by the music of the genial spring;
Tollim, may all the praise be given,
Who sent that priceless boon from heaven.
It is more gentle than a wind in summer,
It is more soothing than a pretty hammer,
That stays one moment in an open flower;
And buzzes cheerily from bower to bower;
It hovers around our happy pillows,
Like wreaths of happy buds and willows,
Another youth has been caught in thy meshes.
Thou silent entangler of beauties tresses;
O, lightly, lightly tread:
A holy thing is love.

"RALPH."

Below we publish a letter from a venerable friend with whom we have been acquainted nearly thirty years, Grandfather Boyle of, Concord township. We give it entire because of its novelty in the fact of its being the first attempt of a man nearly 87 years old in writing for publication. The letter is a very nice specimen of writing, delicate as a ladies plain almost as print, bearing the evidence of the old time hand writing of a hundred years ago, facsimiles of which we sometimes come across, in old literature having invariably the old style of using the character "&" instead of the word "and". Nor can we see in his writing that evidence of old age which is so frequently visible, the nervous tremulous shaking, nor more scarcely than in that of the writer of these words who is less than half his age. Seldom indeed is it allotted men to see his posterity in the fifth degree descending. We hope for the old gentleman many years of life and happiness, and would at all times be happy to hear from him whenever he feels like writing for the papers.

Respected Sir: Publisher of the Auburn COURIER. As I am friendly to your paper which I occasionally read, I will give you an outline of my pioneer life. If the record is true I was born on the western line of Pennsylvania, in 1790, and when it was safe for people to get homes by thousands, my parents moved into Virginia and settled on Ohio river three miles above Steubenville and there I lived until 16 years of age, then moved to Knox County Ohio one of the frontier counties of the state, there I lived among the Indians for several years. In May 1812 I married and in August after Hull's surrender we were called on to guard the frontier inhabitants. I served a short time and was discharged. I lived in that county until 1821, I then entered land in Marion county in the frontier again among the Indians, there I lived until the year 1847. In November of that year I landed at my sons, in this state. My first acquaintance in Auburn was Major Sprott and old friend Ralston whom I always esteemed as friends and good citizens. These are only the outlines of my past life. Now I will give you the number of my family. I have now 9 out of 10 of my children living, and have at this time 54 grand children living, and 92 great grand children and 2 of the fifth generation that I know of, and I am in my 87th year and able to get around among my children Now if you should see fit to publish this you are at liberty to do so, and I would be glad to have you send me one of the papers as I would like to read the news. I live with my daughter and Newville is my post office. I have never written anything for publication before and do this by request.

Yours Respectfully.

JOHN BOYLE, Sen.

CLOTHING!

AT COST

Our entire stock must be SOLD before MARCH 1ST, '76, as we will make a change in our business at that time. If you wish to secure goods at

ActualCost

now is the time. WE MEAN JUST WHAT WE SAY. Commencing to-day we will sell our goods at

FIRST COST!

until March 1st, 1876. We mean BUSINESS. Call and see our prices and you will find that this is no Humbug.

DAVID KAHN & CO.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Feb. 13, 1876.

DEAR COURIER—As I look out of my window at the Capitol this balmy spring like morning, the first object that meets the eye is Ben Butler's fine new stone residence, perhaps the most elegant in the city. It is four stories high, has a central tower, and double bay windows in each story. There are three distinct compartments, and is intended for three families. Senator Jones of Nevada, rents the North front, at a cost of $13,000 per year. The South division is occupied by Ben when in the city. It adjoins the grounds of the Capitol and occupies a most desirable site. Ben was at his fougelshness when he built it, as I learned the other day. Ben is the owner of a fine stone quarry in Massachusetts, and took a contract to furnish stone for the government buildings in this city a few years ago. The stone used by the government from his quarry were large and could not be put into the hold of a ship but were placed on deck. The government used its own vessels to transport these stone to the city, and Ben would fill the hold of the vessels with smaller stone, as ballast, which were transported free of charge. By some means these were found just about the right size with which to build a house, and by the time the larger stone were all in, Ben had a fine assortment of the smaller, which afterwards went into this elegant edifice. Some member hearing of it suggested the idea of investigating it, but after a little reflection it was thought better not to attempt it, as in that case Butler might come in with a bill against the government for furnishing ballast, and the thing was dropped. Thus does Ben turn an honest penny.

Senator Christiancy of Michigan, married a young girl in the Treasury Department, this week. The Senator is sixty-five, and has six children, his former wife dying about ten months ago. The bride is twenty, quite small in stature and from the first was bound to win the affections of the old man, which she did in just six weeks. She gets position, name, and the comforts of life, but what does he receive in return? Senora Mantilla, the Spanish ministers wife, is regarded here as the voluptuous beauty at the capitol. She dresses exquisitely, and don't pretend to entirely conceal those charms of the bust, that never fail to catch the appreciative eye of man. In bowing modesty suggests the use of a kerchief. If a young woman should dress that way at Auburn the rest would cry and say, Oh, my! The little German band, and laws, wouldn't it tickle the boys. But the Senora Mantilla is a handsome lady, a most gracious lady, in fact every inch of a woman, in gesture, movement and tone regal, and in manner most captivating.

On Wednesday evening of last week, we had a good fall of snow here, and the next day the avenue was crowded with sleighs of all descriptions, from a single horse to a four-in-hand, and the merry music of the bells, added to the gaiety of the scene. But it only lasted for a day. Now windows and doors are thrown open, and it is as warm and pleasant as a May day. The streets are clean and dry, the grass green and luxuriant in the parks, and nothing but the foliage of trees are needed, for birds are numerous, to complete a summer scene.

POLITICAL.

The Democratic committee are steadily putting the pruning-knife of retrenchment where it will do most good. A considerable reduction has been made in the pay of officers of the army and a stop put to the swindling system whereby Second Lieutenant Colonel Frederick Grant, though but second lieutenant (and a 2d lieutenant who had not performed the active service exacted of less fortunate 2d lieutenants) assumed the rank and secured the emoluments of a lieutenant colonel. The House Committee on Appropriations has at the same time reduced the item for fortifications from $3,000,000 to $315,000, a reduction to be commended.

The selection of the notorious corruptionist, Simon Cameron, as the chairman of the National Executive Committee, indicates the prosecution of the approaching Presidential campaign by the most unscrupulous means known to political warfare. The choice of Postmaster J. M. Edmunds as secretary of said committee, a politician of easy virtue and elastic conscience, confirms the worst suspicions that the most illegitimate agencies and influences will be employed to keep the present army of office holders in power. By the selection of Cameron and Edmunds the Democrats are notified of the kind of warfare and influences they will be compelled to meet. They must fight, not a party, but a government, in all the ramifications of its power. They must contend with the high tariff monopoly, the railway monopoly, the land-grabbing monopoly, in short all the strong intrenched monopolies of the land. They must fight the power which money gives unscrupulous men, money drawn from corporations and monopolies, from assessments on salaries, and from the public revenues, so far as such politicians can safely divert them to political uses. A campaign carried on by a Cameron will be a campaign of misrepresentation—a fight with falsehood as the chief weapon, and money as the favorite instrument.

The House Committee on Military affairs is working hard and making headway in the matter of the reduction of expenses. They expect to save $600,000 a year by the bill regulating the pay and six millions or more by other reductions in the expense of the army.

Hardly anybody says a word in favor of Mr. Blaine's school amendment. There does not seem to be any disposition to take up the matter, and there is on the contrary a strong opposition to making any further changes in the Federal Constitution.

Blaine made a set speech the other day on the currency question, and now some of his friends think he has hurt himself for the nomination for President.

There is still some hope of repealing the Resumption act, though it will be done by a close vote TOM

PERSONALS.

Within the last week we have visited several parts of the county visiting friends and patrons and looking up local matters, and must say that where ever the COURIER is read its representative is welcome. We do not take these manifestations as personal, but because our patrons appreciate our labor in endeavoring to sustain a good sound and reliable paper.

At Butler we met so many we can not possibly mention but few. There we met our old school mate Samuel Seagright, a nice young batchelor of the best stripe, with a large stock of Hardware and Stoves doing a fine business. We are glad of it, for he is deserving, industrious and honest. He resides with his mother, and Mrs. Spencer Dills, both widows at whose pleasant home we enjoyed their hospitalities.

W. L. Blair, G. W. Maxwell, H. L. Case of the Waverly House, W. Carpenter, P. M. and others have our kindest regards for favors and attentions.

At Garrett we found too many to name specially, but among the princes none excel Johnny Robbins, Esq. Bacon E. J. Sargent, Tommy Maloney, Eli Kuhlman, &c &c.

At the Junction that king of landlords Smith of the Junction House, who knows it all in keeping a hotel and restaurant with his gentlemanly son as clerk, and all the Railroad boys we find just what and where they should be—civil, courteous and attentive to business.

GOLDEN WEDDING.—The following is a list of the presents received by Mr. and Mrs. W. Griswold, at the celebration of their golden wedding last week:

Mr. and Mrs. Allen	$2.00	Gold
" " Klstz	2.00	"
" " J. H. Ford	2.00	"
" " Henry Ford	2.00	"
" " A. Robbins	2.00	"
" " Wm. McIntyre	2.00	"
" " J. B. Casebeer	2.00	"
" " Guy Plum	2.00	"
" " J. E. Rose	2.00	"
" " J. L. Davis	2.00	"
" " J. W. Rickel	2.00	"
" " R. H. Weamer	2.00	"
" " J. J. Littlefield	2.00	"
" " A. J. Little	2.00	"
" " G. C. Ralston	2.00	"
" " Jas. Barclay	2.00	"
" " A. J. Ralston	2.00	"
Mr. T. Elson	1.00	"
Mrs. C. Fair	1.00	"
" Fannie Smith	1.00	"
" R. S. Davenport	1.00	"
Miss N. McCutcken	1.00	"
Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hartman	2.00	"
" Joseph Abright	2.00	"
Mrs. C. S. Hare	1.00	"
" E. A. Dills	1.00	"
H. and H. Griswold	5.00	"
Mrs. J. E. Fisher	1.00	"
Rev. H. Johnson	2.00	"
Mrs. J. E. Fisher		Gold Charm
Mr. & Mrs. S. W. Ralston	$5	Greenback
Mr. F. E. Davenport	2	"
Mrs. Abbie Latson	1	"
Miss Mattie Nichols	1	"
E. and M. Griswold	25c

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Ward, Gold Card Receiver.

Mrs. J. B. White, Fort Wayne, one fine Shawl.

Mrs. S. W. Ralston, Auburn, one fine Shawl.

Mrs. Jas. Griswold, China Cup and Saucer.

BUTLER ITEMS.

BUTLER, Feb. 15, 1876.

Protracted meetings are being conducted at the M. E. church.

—Mr. Geo Egnew, who has been sick for several days, is around once more.

—H. N. Flowers is quite sick with Lung Fever.

—The stolen child has been recovered but suit is pending.

—Two weddings last week. Mr. Tintsman to Miss Sake Gunsenhouser and Mr. Arial Rude to Mrs. Eliza Oberlin.

—The Union Concert at the Christian Church was well attended despite the rain storm. The little ones did creditably, and the assistance of Prof. Plowe rendered the affair very interesting.

—The storm of Sunday night raised the water in the creeks and ditches much higher than it has been for years. We learn that one young lady came near being drowned by falling into a ditch, on her way home from the Concert.

"LENA."

NOTICE.

AUBURN, Feb. 1st, 1876.

Until further notice the tax duplicate of the town of Auburn, will be at the store of S. W. Ralston, at which place I will receive the taxes due thereon. The last day for payment is March 18th next.

D. K. HOUGHTON,
Marshal & Collector.

To live on the fat of the land without work is the aim of Traveling Agents.

We dont employ them but sell to the user at factory prices. Send for our free price list which will give you the price. Freight paid by us to your nearest R. R. to be paid for after you have tested and found satisfactory to that the purchaser absolutely runs no risk whatever. This is the way the best Scales in the world are sold by Jones of Binghamton, N. Y.
Jan. 13-1m

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

IT is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and ready means of taking up the wear on the plunge head and sides of the chamber, thus preventing all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from 300 to 700 rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much care. Doors and Trucks at moderate prices.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

CATARRH.—If you would avoid being rendered deaf or unfit to mingle in society, on account of foul and nauseating discharges from gangrenous ulcers in the head, use Dr. Detchon's celebrated Catarrh Remedy. It is the greatest cure and control for the hideous destroyer, the world ever saw. It will save every life threatened by [illegible] It immediately arrests its progress, and [illegible] perseveringly used, will never disappoint in a cure. Go to Davenport's Drug Store, and get a sample bottle free. Sept. 30 y

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life.—When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness, &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

Stop that Cough.

No pulmonary complaint however obstinate, can resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound.—Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectually in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Hooping Cough and Croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take.—Cough-worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxyims that threatened to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10 cents. Ask for Dr. Morris' Syrup take no other. F. E. Davenport Druggist.

COMSUMPTION CURED.

AN old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send free of charge to all who desire it, this receipt with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Munroe Block, Syracuse, N. Y.

AUBURN COURIER.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1876.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

Piece by piece the whole of the dissevered body of poor Simmons, of Brooklyn, have been recovered. The heart and liver of the murdered man were the last particles unearthed. They were discovered the other day under the flooring of the cellar in which the murderer Pinder kept his coal.... The Beecher-Tilton scandal is again brought prominently to the front by a letter of Henry C. Bowen, addressed to the Plymouth Church Examining Committee, in which he expresses his firm belief that Mr. Beecher is guilty of all the charges preferred against him. Bowen carefully avoids going into details, but concludes from the evidence he has heard, and which has been read all over the country, that Mr. Beecher is a perjurer, an adulterer, and a hypocrite. Bowen also insinuates that he (Bowen) has been made a receptacle for confidential statements, which he will not at the present writing divulge.

The protracted trial of Charles K. Landis for the murder of Uri Carruth, the Vineland (N. J.) editor, who carried a bullet in his brain for nine months, has just been concluded at Brighton, N. J. The jury rendered a verdict on the ground of insanity.... Admiral Stringham died in Brooklyn, last week, aged 78 years.

Something of a sensation has been caused in Newburyport, Mass., over the marriage of James Parton, the historian, to his step-daughter, the same being forbidden by the statutes of the State. The bridegroom learned of his status the morning after the wedding, and to prevent further scandal left his home in charge of his wife and took rooms for himself at a boarding-house. He will apply to the Legislature for a special act sanctioning his marriage.... A fire broke out in Grand street, New York, on the evening of the 8th inst., and the flames were not subdued until $4,500,000 worth of property was consumed. The fire burnt through the entire block bounded by Grand, Howard, Broadway and Crosby streets. One firm—Cashin, Brunderett & Co., lace dealers—lose about $1,500,000. It was the most destructive fire that has visited the metropolis for fifteen years.

At Apponang, R. I., the other day, two children and a young man went through the ice while skating, and were drowned.

Another sad drowning accident is reported from New England. Three children of Andrew Bates broke through the ice on Lake Whitney, New Haven, Ct., on Thursday week, and were all drowned. The mother and four other persons who went to their rescue broke through and were with great difficulty saved.

Another New England bank robbery by burglars. This time it is the Bank of Commerce, New London, Conn. Loss $21,500.... Henry C. Bowen is out with another card, in which he offers to tell Plymouth Church all he knows about the pastor.... The second trial of Thomas W. Piper for the murder of the little girl Mabel Young, in the belfry of the Warren Avenue Church, Boston, in May last, has resulted in a verdict of murder in the first degree.

THE WEST.

The Kansas Legislature has passed a bill giving a bounty of $5 per bushel for grasshopper eggs and fifty cents per bushel for juvenile grasshoppers.... It is said the Government will shortly commence suits against all members of the St. Louis whisky ring and their bondsmen for the $2,000,000 out of which they are charged with defrauding Uncle Sam. McKee alone will be asked to refund $700,000.

Robinson's Opera House, in Cincinnati, was the scene of a heartrending tragedy on the afternoon of the 5th inst. The building was packed and jammed with women and children to witness an allegorical performance for the benefit of the Cincinnati Relief Association. The performers, numbering nearly 600 children, were taken from the public schools of the city. About half-past 2 o'clock, while the great house was densely packed and the thousands of children among the audience were at the heighth of their enjoyment, some boy in the gallery, through mischief or ignorance, raised the cry of fire as the red light from the colored fires used in the piece flashed out from the wings. Every inch of the theater was occupied, and the dense crowd was pressing and surging about the staircases and in front of the doors. Some one in the audience took up the cry of fire, and it was re-echoed from near the door by some one who caught a glimpse of red glare from the stage. There was an immediate rush for the front doors. A child was pushed down the steps and screamed. Immediately after, a man thrust his arm through a window, and the scream and the crash was enough to set the panic in full force. The scene was a terrible one in the narrow vestibule leading to the street. The people in the rear, mad with fear, pressed upon those in front, shouting and cursing. Men, terror-stricken, struck down helpless women and children in front, or climbed over their heads to the top of the staircase, and precipitated themselves upon the screaming and bleeding mass of children and women in the hallway. Some are said to have leaped from the balcony upon the crowd below. Women and children were overthrown and trampled to death by the terrified, panic-stricken crowd. Order was not restored until about a dozen persons were trampled to death. Several others received injuries from which they cannot possibly recover.... George Hindle, his wife and two children, of Bureau County, Ill., were burned to death. recently, by the burning of the family residence.

Gen. O. E. Babcock appeared in the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis, on the 7th inst., to answer to the indictment charging him with complicity in the whisky frauds. He was attended by Judge John K. Porter, of New York; Emory A. Storrs, of Chicago; ex-United States Attorney-General Williams, Judge John M. and Chester H. Krum, of St. Louis, as counsel. His father-in-law, United States Marshal Campbell, of the Northern District of Illinois, and his brother, C. W. Babcock, of Kansas, sat in the court room near him. District Attorney D. P. Dyer and the special counsel, James O. Broadhead and Maj. Lucien Eaton, appeared for the Government.... Advices from the West report that quite a little city now adorns Custer Park, in the Black Hills. Already fifty or sixty houses have been built, and others are in process of construction. Large reinforcements of adventurous miners are daily arriving.

There have been within the last few weeks over 500 cases of scarlet fever at Dubuque, Iowa. The schools are thinly attended on account of it. Many families mourn the loss of their little ones.

WASHINGTON.

A majority of the Sub-Committee of the House Committee on Pacific Railroads, which consists of Lamar, Atkins, Luttrell, O'Neil, and Garfield, have determined on a report in favor of the Atkins Texas Pacific Railroad bill. This bill provides for a guarantee of bonds, and embodies all the features of the plan recommended by the St. Louis Convention.

It has been discovered that Bosler, the beef contractor for the Sioux Indians, has defrauded the Government out of $68,000.

Instead of establishing new mints, the Committee on Appropriations have arrived at the conclusion that some of those in existence can be abolished. The one at New Orleans will be abolished, as well as those at Carlotte, N. C., and Boise City. At Carson, Helena and Denver nothing but assay offices are to be maintained, keeping no other employes than an assayer, melter and clerk. This arrangement will leave but two mints, the ones at Philadelphia and San Francisco. At present these mints have a capacity of $125,000,000, and as the capacity of the country is but $60,000,000, the need of new mints is not established.... The Naval Committee have relented, and will not recommend the abolition of the Marine Corps.

United States Senator Christiancy, of Michigan, was married last week, at Washington, to Miss Lillie Lugerbeel, who has until recently been a clerk in the Treasury Department. Senator Ferry, his colleague, officiated as groomsman.... The House Appropriation Committee will recommend the abolition of the office of Supervisor of Internal Revenue.... In the House, the other day, a touching episode occurred in connection with the eulogies upon the late Senator Ferry, of Connecticut. Gen. Garfield read the eulogy prepared by the late Representative Starkweather, of Connecticut, who had requested him to read it in case the condition of his own health should prevent his attendance. Mr. Starkweather subsequently died, and the reading of the eulogy of the dead upon the dead formed an impressive scene.

The indications are that the House sub-Judiciary Committee appointed to investigate the crookedness of Bill King and Schumaker, will report that the House has no jurisdiction in these cases, as the alleged offenses were committed before the persons named were elected to this Congress.

E. C. Billings has been confirmed by the Senate as the successor of Judge Durell in Louisiana.... According to evidence obtained by the investigating committee of the House, a long list of Consuls and diplomatists, now or formerly in the service, are in arrears to the Government. The list embraces the names of Bancroft, Sickles, Badeau, John Jay, Evarts (on the Alabama Claims Commission), and a host of others, the total of unsettled balances reaching nearly half a million dollars.

SOUTH.

A State Convention of colored citizens of Tennessee has been called to meet at Nashville on the 7th of March.

Alexander H. Stephens is still confined to his room and bed at his Georgia home, and it is the opinion of his friends that pulmonary disease is slowly carrying him off. Mr. Stephens himself has no expectation of regaining his health, and has written to a member of the Georgia delegation to attend to his unfinished business in Washington.

In the United States District Court, at Fort Smith, Ark., six murderers from the Indian Nation were sentenced to be hung April 21.

The committee appointed to investigate the charges against Lieut.-Gov. Davis, of Mississippi, reported him guilty, and for specification charge that Davis accepted a bribe of $600 for the pardon of Thomas H. Barrentine, charged with the murder of Ann Thomas. He will be immediately impeached.

POLITICAL.

The reporters of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press have canvassed the Republican branch of the Minnesota Legislature on the Presidential question. Forty-eight were found to favor Blaine and thirty-four were divided between Washburne, Grant, Bristow, Morton, Hayes, and several others.... New Orleans advices report a serious battle between the two houses of the Legislature, and indicate a possibility of the reopening of the old political sores.

The American Union Club, of New Orleans, has declared for O. P. Morton for President.

Parson Brownlow declares for Hamilton Fish for President, and William R. Morrison indicates a preference for Senator Bayard.

The resignation of Senator Ferry from the Finance Committee of the United States Senate and the appointment of Senator Cooper in his place has given the Democrats the representation on that committee which they desired.

The entire Republican delegation from New York in Congress has unanimously decided to present Senator Conkling's name to the Cincinnati Convention as a candidate for President.

At a caucus of the Democrats of the House of Representatives, held in the Capitol one evening last week, to consider the finance question, it was decided to appoint a committee of nine members to frame a financial bill that shall represent the whole party.

GENERAL.

It is asserted at Washington that Minister Schenck will certainly return to this country in a few weeks.

Jeff. Davis has written a letter in reply to Mr. Blaine's recent speech in Congress. He charges, as did Ben Hill, that Southern soldiers in Northern prisons were treated more badly than were the prisoners at Andersonville, and also charges the responsibility for the failure to effect an exchange of prisoners upon the Washington Government. Jeff. says he don't ask for amnesty, and wouldn't accept it if tendered him.

Mrs. Thomson, the wife of the author of the Bremerhaven dynamite disaster, accompanied by her four children, arrived at New York from Europe a few days ago, and will hereafter reside in this country.

Another series of heavy forgeries, committed under the cloak of religion, have been brought to light at San Francisco. Perrin H. Sumner is the scoundrel's name, and his forgeries will reach probably $200,000. He has been arrested in Brooklyn, N. Y., and returned to the scene of his rascalities.... E. A. Bennett, Auditor of West Virginia, has been acquitted upon articles of impeachment preferred against him by the Legislature.

A general convention of railroad ticket agents, in session in Louisville, have resolved that the Centennial fares will not be reduced more than 25 per cent.... The old and long-established iron firm of Ferrier & Co., of Montreal, Canada, has suspended. Liabilities, $150,000.

Reverdy Johnson, the eminent jurist and statesman, died suddenly at Annapolis, Md., a few evenings since, being found dead in the yard of the Executive Mansion, where he was a guest. Mr. Johnson went out alone in the grounds, and not returning, search was made for him. He was found lying on the cobblestone roadway, and bleeding profusely from several ugly wounds in the head. Life was extinct when he was discovered. There were large wounds on the right side of the forehead, two fractures of the skull from the upper portion of the forehead to the eyebrow, a dislocation of a finger of the left hand, and cuts on the hands and the legs. He had evidently stumbled and fallen where he was found. Mr. Johnson had reached the ripe age of 80 years, and his death ends a career of useful service and distinguished connection with the public affairs of the nation.

FOREIGN.

The obsequies of the late M. Deak, the great Hungarian statesman, were made the occasion of a great public demonstration at Pesth.... John O'Neill, of St. John, N. B., last week killed his father-in-law and mother-in-law because they persuaded his wife to leave him.... The Sublime Porte has finally concluded to accept the Andrassy proposition for the settlement of the Herzegovinian troubles.... Another terrible colliery explosion is reported from Belgium, resulting in the death of 200 miners.... A British army is said to be moving on Beloochistan, a country adjoining India, and about the size of Texas, which now lies between the Anglo-Asian frontier and that of Persia. It is admirably adapted for purposes of defense and for nothing else, so that its occupation can be dictated only by a desire to prepare for resistance to Russia.... A favorable revolution is in progress in Northern and Central Mexico. The States of Tamaulipas, Nueva Leon, San Luis, Durango, and, in fact, all the northern part of Mexico, are up in arms.

Several packages of gunpowder were recently found among the coals on board a steamer at Antwerp.... The International committee on the construction of the tunnel to connect France and England have affirmed the feasibility of the enterprise.... The Sublime Porte has sent to its Ambassadors at the courts of the six guaranteeing powers a reply to Count Andrassy's note. The reply announces that, in consequence of negotiations with the Ambassadors of the three Northern Powers, the Porte has resolved to apply to the insurgent districts the five leading points of Andrassy's scheme, namely, the establishment of religious liberty, the modification of the system of collecting tithes, the granting of facilities to agriculturists, the application of a portion of the revenues of the insurgent provinces to local improvements, and the appointment of a mixed commission of Mussulmen and Christians to watch the execution of these reforms.

The Sick Man has another awkward customer on his hands. Roumania objects to the payment of her customary tribute in advance, in accordance with the request of the Porte, and intimates that she may not conclude to pay at all, as the Turkish part of the obligation—that of undertaking the defense of the province from foreign invasion—is sadly in arrears.

James Stephens, the well-known Fenian leader, is not dead, as reported, but is in good health and residing in Paris.... Queen Victoria opened the British Parliament in person on the 8th inst. Her speech, which was read by Lord Chancellor Cairns, represents the relations of England with all foreign powers to be of a cordial character.

A late letter from Havana gives a doleful account of the situation of affairs in the island. The destruction of property by fire still continues, and in some sections the country is illumined nightly by the glare of fires in different directions. The insurgents are unusually active, and some severe fighting is reported.... Egypt has succeeded in securing a loan of $80,000,000.... Hungary will at once commence the erection of a monument to the lamented Deak. When it will be completed, remains for the future to tell.

Spain has sent to her diplomatic representatives abroad an exhaustive confidential memorandum upon the condition of Cuba. The circular describes the causes of the insurrection, the character of the leaders, and reforms that will be introduced when it is terminated. The purpose of these reforms will be to assimilate the Government of the colonies to that of Spain by establishing communal liberties, and representation of the colonies in the Cortes.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Friday, Feb. 4.—Senate.—The Senate took up the case of Pinchback, and Morton spoke in favor of his admission as Senator from Louisiana.... Sherman introduced a bill to limit the value of household effects entitled to free entry.... Adjourned to Monday, 7th.

House.—The House was engaged nearly the whole day in considering bills of a private and local character, and transacted no business of general interest.... There was a spicy little debate between Morrison on the one side, and Kasson and Townsend on the other, growing out of a bill granting a pension to one Duncan, who had deserted from the Confederate and joined the Federal army.

Monday, Feb. 7.—Senate.—The Pinchback case was again before the Senate. Thurman got the floor and entered into a long and exhaustive argument in opposition to the admission of Pinchback as Senator. Christiancy also spoke against his admission, and Howe in his favor.... There was a discussion of an hour and a half (in executive session) respecting the nomination of E. C. Billings to succeed Judge Durell in Louisiana.

House.—Bills were introduced and referred as follows: By Sayler, to secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public lands; by Fort, declaring the birthday of Abraham Lincoln a national holiday, and that on the 14th of April the national flag shall float at half-mast; by Beard, to substitute legal-tender notes for national bank notes, and to make the duties on imports receivable one-half in legal tender notes, and to repeal the Resumption act of the 14th of January, 1875.... A resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Foreign Affairs to investigate the reports connecting Minister Schenck with the Emma Mine and Machado claim affairs.... The House had a long debate on the Consular and Diplomatic appropriation bill, participated in principally by Holman, who favored, and Garfield, who opposed the cutting down of the salaries of Ministers and Consuls.

Tuesday, Feb. 8.—Senate.—Several bills of a private character were passed.... Ferry, President pro tempore, was relieved from service on the Finance Committee.... The death of Senator Ferry, of Connecticut, was announced by Eaton, the usual resolutions of respect passed, and a number of eulogies pronounced.

House.—The bill repealing the Bankrupt law was passed.... The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill, after which the death of the late Senator Ferry was announced, and eulogies in his honor were pronounced by Phelps, Seelye and Garfield. An interesting feature in the proceedings was the fact that Garfield, in lieu of any remarks of his own, read a speech prepared on the subject by Starkweather himself, since dead.

Wednesday, Feb. 9.—Senate.—Bills were passed donating condemned cannon to the Ladies' Monument Association of Allegheny County, Pa., and appropriating $25,000 for improving the Capitol grounds.... A resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds to inquire into the expediency of making an adequate provision for the speedy completion of the Washington monument.... The Senate had under consideration the House Centennial bill, appropriating $1,500,000, but failed to reach a vote.... Boutwell introduced a bill to repeal the Pre-emption laws, and provide for the sale of timber upon the public lands of the United States. It provides that after the 30th of June next none of the public lands shall be subject to pre-emption entry.

House.—The bill authorizing the sale of a portion of the public property at Vincennes, Ind., gave rise to considerable discussion, and was finally defeated.... The Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill was under consideration, and consumed nearly the entire day.

Thursday, Feb. 10.—Senate.—The bill extending for ten years the time for the completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad was passed.... The Centennial bill was again the bone of contention in the Senate.

House.—The House was engaged the whole day in discussing the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill, and in listening to the promised speech of ex-Speaker Blaine on the finances.

A Nice Little Home Amusement.

Many very pretty little chemical experiments may be made by the young people, which will amuse and astonish those around them. As, for instance, with so simple an article as red cabbage, a very beautiful effect may be rendered in the following manner: Cut three leaves of cabbage into small pieces, and after placing them into a basin, pour a pint of boiling water over them, letting them stand an hour; then pour off the liquor into a decanter. Then take four wine glasses; into one put six drops of strong vinegar; into another six drops of solution of soda; into the third, the same quantity of a strong solution of alum; and let the fourth glass remain empty. Fill up the glasses from the decanter, and the liquor poured into the glass containing the acid will quickly become a beautiful red; that in the glass containing the soda will be a fine green; that poured into the empty one will remain unchanged. By adding a little vinegar to the green, it will immediately change to red; and on adding a little of solution of soda to the red it will assume a fine green, thus showing the action of acids and alkalis on vegetable blues.

Flannel.

A physician says: Your underclothing ought to be as good as you can procure—it will be cheaper in the end in more ways than one; and as for material, why, FLANNEL—put it in capitals, printer; nothing less will suit—flannel! flannel! there's nothing like it. I only wonder no poet has ever written an ode to flannel, or why no one has ever written a book to prove that you can live for a hundred years by wearing flannel only.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

A Dull Week in Congress—The West Point Bill—Morrison's Tariff Bill—Springer's Constitutional Amendment Against Special Legislation—The Washington Lobby.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

Washington, Feb. 5, 1876.

This has been a dull week in Congress. There has been no Harry with his beaver on to rise from the ground, like feathered Mercury, to turn and wind a fiery Pegasus and witch the world with noble horsemanship. Nothing of the kind, Shakespeare or no Shakespeare. No fiery Hotspur of the North, no inflammatory anybody of the South has pitched into things generally, and "the t'other side" particularly, for a week. Things have gone on as smoothly as a river in the dog-days, and men begin to wonder what got them into such a state of excitement only a week or two ago. In another week or so, when another flame of debate shall burst forth and set the House on fire, so to say, these same people will wonder how it all came about that this week they were so dull and uninterested. It is always so at this metropolis. It is either down in the depths of dreary dullness or up to the very top of excitement. In this fact may be found the reason that so many purely sensational rumors and stories originate here. Half the time there is plenty to telegraph about and to write about, while as to the other half there is little but routine matters in Congress or in the departments. So unconscionable "newspaper men" (and there are several here) call upon their imaginations for their facts, and their imaginations being vivid, their "news" is uncommonly lively. The only manufacture which is at all noted at Washington is the manufacture of news, as aforesaid. And "there's millions in it, there's millions in it."

The only bill of general nature passed by the House was the Military Academy Appropriation bill. As it passed that body, it is a considerable reduction on the estimates made by the War Department and on the expenses of the last fiscal year. There being a wide difference of opinion as to the propriety of some of the reductions, it is believed the Senate will amend the bill in several particulars.

MR. MORRISON'S TARIFF BILL.

Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, early in the week introduced a bill greatly changing the tariff, which is destined to call forth long and earnest discussion both in Congress and in the country. Mr. Morrison, as Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, is the leader of the House in a measure of this kind, and the policy which he proposes to adopt is, therefore, a matter of interest to the whole public. The bill was referred to the committee, and will, no doubt, be adopted, substantially as prepared by him, by the committee.

The bill is not "a sweeping measure." It does not propose to wipe out the tariff. The more important reductions proposed are: Pig iron, from $7 to $5 per ton; railroad iron, from $14 to $10 per ton; steel, from 2½ to 1½ cents per pound; the duties on coarse manufactured cotton goods are reduced one-half; on finer cotton goods one-fifth; on cotton yarns and thread, 30 per cent.; the reduction on wools and woolen goods is large, averaging more than 50 per cent. The free list is considerably extended, among the more important items being coal and all articles used in wool manufacture. Tea and coffee, now on the free list, are required to pay a duty of 10 and 4 cents per pound respectively.

I may say that the free list embraces a great many articles which produce but little revenue, and in the manufacture or production of which but few persons are engaged. Throughout the bill Mr. Morrison has tried to substitute specific for ad valorem duties. The bill, if passed, would be a notable simplification of the present tariff, which is the result of a large number of acts of Congress, passed at different times and under various exigencies, and under which perplexing questions are constantly arising to the botheration of merchants and of Treasury officials. Its essential idea is to modify the protective policy and to make a beginning in reducing the tariff to a revenue basis. Mr. Morrison and friends of the bill claim that while its effect would be to reduce the burdens of the people it would increase the revenues of Government. It may safely be predicted that the bill will call forth a long discussion between the protective and free trade school of thinkers. Opinion here is much divided upon its probable fate in Congress. It is generally believed that the House will pass it, but its fate in the Senate is considered decidedly problematical.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.

The House occupied one day of the week in a debate on a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution limiting the Presidential office to a single term of four years. This was a resolution proposed by the Judiciary Committee, a minority of which, however, advocated an amendment for a term of six years. The proposition of the committee received the approval of a majority of the House (144 to 106), but failed for want of a two-thirds vote. The subject will come up again on a motion to reconsider.

There are a good many proposed constitutional amendments pending, some of which would be of value, while others, though well enough in theory, would not amount to much practically. Mr. Springer, of the Springfield (Ill.) District, some ten days ago proposed an amendment which is much talked of here. It is designed to abolish special legislation by Congress in a thousand and one instances where such laws are now enacted at every session. Special legislation was abolished by constitutional provision in Indiana some twenty-five years ago, and since then a similar provision has been incorporated in the fundamental law of many of the States, in every instance with beneficent results. The want of such a provision as is contemplated by Mr. Springer's amendment is the cause of gross abuses and many expensive evils. To this may largely be attributed the existence of "The Lobby" here, a sort of close and loose corporation (unlimited) which thrives on corruption, blackmail, confidence games, the reduction of deadbeatism to a science, or rather its elevation to a fine are patronized by the ton, and such like respectable peccadilloes. The support of this lobby has cost the people of these United States from fifteen to fifty millions annually during the last fifteen years. Its minor and its major raids on the Treasury are in eternal concoction or operation. It has men of great talents for commanders, and others of cunning, strategy, and pluck for drill-masters. Fine orators, persons of the highest conversational powers, distinguished officials, State and national, of the past; first-rate gamblers with large diamond breastpins; brilliant women, as beautiful and as virtuous as Venus the blest, and some "newspaper men" make up the Washington lobby. Just how many downright robberies and corrupt jobs they have helped to engineer through Congress it would be difficult to tell. But that they have been the prime means of the wrongful expenditure of at least two hundred millions since the beginning of the war, and of the infliction of great evils upon the people by getting patents extended which ought not to have been, and in other like ways that are dark, no honest man who knows about the inside of things here will deny. If Mr. Springer's amendment shall prevail, the occupation of the lobby will be gone. The measure is one of very great practical importance to the people, but as there is no "oriflamme" in it, and no maudlin gush of any kind, I do not propose to bet my bottom dollar that it will be adopted. Nevertheless, if people knew how much it would benefit them and aid honest statesmanship, they would stir up Congress lively on the subject, and keep on stirring till the measure had become a success.

L. M. N.

PASSING EVENTS.

Speaker Kerr rigidly enforces the rule which excludes strangers from the floor of the House of Representatives.

A New York paper has figured up that there were 281 homicides committed in that city in the past two years, and that only seven of the perpetrators suffered death. The rest are running loose—"insane."

Charley Ross' father has received from some philanthropist a few mysterious words which he is to repeat at midnight while he walks around the four quarters of a freshly-killed and cut-up pullet, the reward being the immediate return of his son. But as Mr. Ross obstinately refuses to try this simple recommendation, of course he is still bereaved.

The ready liberation of Scannell, the New York murderer, from the insane asylum to which he was committed, on the certificate of Drs. Ordronaux and Grey, closes one of the most exasperating cases of the impunity of insane crime. The jury found that Scannell was insane when he committed the crime; the doctors now find that he is sane. Both inquests may have found verdicts in strict accordance with the facts, and yet there is a dangerous immunity to crime in such procedures.

Charles O'Conor has so far recovered that he eats two good square meals every day, and has no trouble digesting them, sits up about 14 hours each day, and is able to do some writing. His doctor calls but once a week, and considers his patient entirely out of danger. The temperance folks will be glad to know that Mr. O'Conor, even when given up by the doctors and his stomach would digest nothing but the pulp of pears, refused, as he has constantly, to take stimulants of any kind, and appears to have been sustained by natural vitality alone.

France is apparently daily working her way further into the deep sea of Republicanism, and away from the shoals of monarchy. Among the men elected as Senators we note the names of Marshal Canrobert, Victor Hugo, ex-President Thiers, Jules Favre, and Count Daru. With such deep thinkers as these for ballast, beside some thirty or more equally staunch Republicans on the life membership roll, there seems a promise of clearer sailing ahead for French Republicanism than has ever before appeared in the history of that commendable cause.

The Financial Chronicle gives a list of the railroads that have defaulted in the interest on their bonds since the panic of September, 1873, together with the amount of their bonds outstanding respectively. There are 196 defaulting roads, and the bonds on which they have defaulted amount in the aggregate to $783,967,665. The largest proportion, $232,366,701, was defaulted on in 1874; the next largest proportion, $150,233,000, in 1873; the amount defaulted on in 1875 was $140,448,000. Of the total amount of bonds defaulted on, $533,045,000 is in default still. According to "Poor's Manual," the entire bonded debt of the railroads in the United States is $2,000,000,000; so that about 39 per cent. of this is now in default.

Twelve States—Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Wisconsin—took a census in 1875, which shows the following increase over the Federal census of 1870: Iowa, 156,524; Kansas, 168,974; Louisiana, 130,124; Massachusetts, 194,551; Michigan, 159,792; Minnesota, 158,723; Nevada, 9,845; New Jersey, 120,406; New York, 332,449; Rhode Island, 40,896; South Carolina, 217,841; Wisconsin, 182,059; total increase, 1,857,174. In 1870 these States had nearly one-third the population of the whole country, and, if we may assume that the increase of population in the remaining States has been proportionate, the centennial population of the country ought to be about 44,000,000.

Hungary mourns the death of her greatest statesman, Francis Deak. Deak and Kossuth furnished conspicuous illustrations of the difference between the patriotic statesman and impracticable enthusiast. Kossuth urged his countrymen into a hopeless war for independence, and when he found that independence was unattainable, refused to accept any other remedy for the misgovernment of Hungary. Deak, by his steady efforts to secure the substance of free government, irrespective of its form, gradually gained one concession after another from the Austrian Emperor, and at last secured all that the most intelligent Hungarian patriots really desired. Had he followed Kossuth's example, and spent the last twenty-eight years of his life in exile, Hungary would probably be no better off to-day than she was when Kossuth fled to Turkey. The latter always regarded his successful rival with disfavor, as one who sacrificed principle by making terms with the Hapsburg. But Kossuth's obstinate devotion to the will-o'-the-wisp of a Hungarian Republic has not bettered the condition of a single Hungarian, while Deak's wise moderation has given Hungarians everything that the revolutionists of 1848 demanded, except the mere name of an independent Republic.

PRESIDENTIAL TALK.

Gossip About Hendricks, Thurman, Blaine, Cameron, Conkling, and Other White House Aspirants.

The New York Times' Washington correspondent telegraphs that paper as follows: "Before the publication of Mr. Kerr's letter nominating Gov. Hendricks for President, the prospects of the latter were thought here to be very good for the Democratic nomination. To-day the general opinion is that Hendricks must be numbered among the departed candidates. Mr. Kerr's letter, it is thought, must prove too much for him. Thurman stock is now rising, especially since the friendly expressions of Mr. Schell in his behalf when here last week, and the still more friendly act of making Thurman's particular friend, John G. Thompson, manager of the active work of the campaign in this city. Some think that Schell's advocacy of Thurman will damage him as much as Kerr's letter will hurt Hendricks, but Thompson, in such a position for work as he will now occupy, will be an efficient support for Thurman. Tilden is not just now at all considered as a candidate.

"A movement is being made by the Republicans of the Northwest to make a combination in favor of Blaine and Cameron of Wisconsin, for President and Vice-President. It is claimed Cameron can unite the Republicans of Wisconsin, he having been chosen to the Senate with the aid of the Liberal Republican and Granger elements. The friend of ex-Senator Carpenter are said to favor this combination, because the election of Cameron to the Vice-Presidency would take him out of the Senate and leave a vacancy to which the friends of Cameron would help to elect Carpenter. On the other hand Carpenter is said to personally favor the candidacy of Senator Conkling. In consideration of this support of the Northwest for Blaine in the Cincinnati Convention, the friends of that gentleman are asked to support Cameron for the second place on the Republican ticket. This arrangement has been some time talked about, but seems now to be really assuming some form."

The Spring Elections.

The State elections of the Presidential year begin with the three New England States, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island. New Hampshire holds her election in March, the other two in April. Occurring before the Presidential Conventions of the great parties have made their nominations, and while Congress, with all its possibilities of making and marring the fortunes of parties and candidates, is still in session, they cannot be held to signify much as to the probabilities of the Presidential canvass. New Hampshire and Connecticut have been for more than twenty years counted among the close or doubtful States, the former having been two or three times carried by the Democrats, but as a rule held by the Republicans, who seem to have the best prospects for success in the approaching election, while Connecticut more often wavered from the Republican line, and is at present so pronouncedly Democratic as to leave little hope for Republican success in April. Rhode Island is so assuredly Republican that the nomination of a Democratic ticket is a mere matter of form, and even that is sometimes dispensed with.—New York Tribune.

A hat made of human hair was recently sent to a Chilian exhibition by a Guatemala woman, the material of which came from the heads of her two daughters. Hereafter young ladies are expected to present their lovers, not with a ock of their hair, but with a hat of hair.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

Beeves	8	@	11
Hogs—Dressed	7	@	8
Cotton	13½	@	14½
Flour—Superfine Western	5 10	@	5 40
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 18	@	1 20
Corn	60	@	64
Oats	44	@	48
Rye	88	@	90
Pork—New Mess	20 50	@	21 75
Lard—Steam	12½	@	13½

CHICAGO.

Beeves—Choice Graded Steers	5 75	@	6 00
Choice Natives	5 00	@	5 50
Cows and Heifers	2 50	@	4 50
Good Second-class Steers	4 50	@	5 00
Medium to Fair	3 75	@	4 50
Inferior to Common	2 75	@	4 25
Hogs—Live	7 00	@	8 00
Flour—Fancy White Winter	7 00	@	7 50
Good to choice spring ex	5 00	@	5 50
Wheat—No. 1 Spring	1 09	@	1 10
No. 2 Spring	1 01	@	1 03
No. 3 Spring	83	@	84
Corn—No. 2	39	@	41
Oats—No. 2	32	@	34
Rye—No. 2	67	@	68
Barley—No. 2	75	@	76
Butter—Fancy	25	@	32
Eggs—Fresh	17	@	18
Pork—Mess	20 25	@	20 50
Lard	12½	@	13½

DETROIT.

Flour—Choice White	6 25	@	6 50
Ambers	5 75	@	6 00
Wheat—Extra	1 40	@	1 41
No. 1 White	1 28	@	1 30
No. 2 White	1 18	@	1 20
Amber	1 27	@	1 29
Corn	45	@	46
Oats	37	@	39
Rye	70	@	72
Barley—No. 2	1 80	@	1 85
Butter	18	@	20
Eggs	16	@	17
Pork—Mess	20 75	@	22 50
Lard	12½	@	13½
Cattle	3 75	@	4 75
Hogs—Dressed	7 50	@	7 75

ST. LOUIS.

Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 52	@	1 54
Corn—No. 2	39	@	41
Oats—No. 2	34	@	35
Rye—No. 2	68	@	69
Pork—Mess	21 00	@	21 25
Lard	11	@	12
Hogs	6 60	@	7 25
Cattle	3 60	@	4 75

MILWAUKEE.

Wheat—No. 1	1 09	@	1 10
No. 2	1 01	@	1 03
Corn—No. 2	42	@	44
Oats—No. 2	31	@	33
Rye	81	@	82
Barley No. 2	90	@	92

CINCINNATI.

Wheat—New	1 25	@	1 35
Corn	39	@	42
Oats	33	@	41
Rye	78	@	80
Pork—Mess	21 75	@	22 00
Lard	12½	@	12¾

TOLEDO.

Wheat—Extra	1 39	@	1 40
Amber	1 25	@	1 26
Corn	45	@	46
Oats	37	@	39

EAST LIBERTY, PA.

Hogs—Yorkers	7 70	@	7 75
Philadelphias	8 40	@	8 60
Cattle—Best	5 90	@	6 30
Medium	5 00	@	5 50
Sheep—Medium	4 00	@	5 00
Best	5 00	@	6 00

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, PUBLISHER.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Song of American Farmers—The Centennial.

Thank God again,
The winter chain
No longer is around us,
But every band
O'er all the land
Leaps from the links that bound us.
The cloudy March
Beneath Heaven's Arch
His trump to us was blowing;
We join the sound
One waiting ground
With [illegible].

In Winter's rests
Our Human breasts
Had time for sweet communing.
But not forgot
In many a lot
The Summer's joyous nooning;
Thus on Earth's sod
Has Father God
Given life its varied stories,
And now we go
With Plow and Hoe
For Labor's growing glories.

Hurrah! Hurrah!
We love the Law
That gives alone true station;
Since he began,
'Tis work makes man
Companion in creation;
And, O can he
More noble be
Than out 'mid Nature's forces
While God's Eyes see
His harmony,
With Seedtime's, Harvest's, courses?

Brothers, hurrah
For love of Law,
And if it could have more growing,
O, sure it shall—
Centennial
Is almost on us glowing!
A Hundred Years
Of Mind's, Arm's, spheres
For millions have been rolling;
Joy! Freedom's Bell,
Exulting swell!
All Earth hears thy grand tolling.
Then let us make
With Plow, Hoe, Rake,
This year yield Crown Ovation
Upon our sod
Unto the God
Of Freedom's and Work's Nation.
—William Ross Wallace, in Pen and Plow.

Around the Farm.

EVERY agriculturist should own a scrap-book, in which to paste agricultural items, suggestions or points, which he will desire to test, and be governed by in future.

I FIND that all tar compositions do more harm than good. They form a waterproof covering, it is true; but if the surface is broken, and the water once gets into the wood, the tar covering prevents its exit.—English Mechanic.

HE raised 800 bushels of turnips, which are all fed to his sixteen to twenty cows—one peck to each twice a day. He says that by trimming off the rootlets, and feeding only the solid turnip after milking, no bad flavor is imparted to the milk.—Maine Farmer.

POTATOES FOR STOCK.—A gentleman who has been experimenting on the subject says in an exchange he thinks potatoes are worth thirty cents per bushel to feed to stock. They are not only nutritious, but are excellent appetizers and promoters of digestion. Experiments go to show that a peck of potatoes will produce as much milk as a bushel of beets, turnips or carrots.

CORN is the best feed for pigs, and may be fed in the ear while soft, but when hard should be ground fine, and wet with hot water, or otherwise cooked. It has been proved, by repeated experiments, that corn thus fed will make from one-third to one-half more pork than when fed unground, and a bushel should make from ten to twelve pounds of meat when fed to good feeding stock.—American Rural Home.

A FARMER at Orrington, says the Portland (Me.) Express, has been for some time feeding a squash, in the hope of being able to bring it up to 200 pounds. The feeding is done by cutting off the vine about six feet from the squash and placing the end in a pan into which fresh milk is daily poured. By this means the vine absorbs about two quarts of milk per day, and the squash gains about a pound a day in weight.

CANKER WORM.—In answer to an inquiry for the simplest remedy for a few trees, we name the printer's ink belt. Encircle the tree with a belt of thick, coarse paper, and smear the outside with printer's ink, which prevents the passage of the insects in attempts to ascend. Tar is often used, but it hardens sooner to a crust, and thus forms a bridge for the canker worms to go over. The printer's ink will cost about twelve cents per tree of average size.—Country Gentleman.

THAT farmer who keeps everything about the premises tidy, all the animals in a comfortable condition, who has plenty for his family's support, is out of debt (or whose affairs are in a prosperous condition), is at peace with his neighbors, takes the papers, and buys good books, is truly nature's nobleman, and can truthfully say, "I am monarch of all I survey, my rights none dare to dispute." Such an one the king upon his throne may well envy, and the life of a merchant, professional man, or gentleman, is naught when compared with this.

SOME years ago there was a case before a Philadelphia court, which interested our cultivators very much, in which a leading seedsman was sued for selling a variety of cabbage seed which, it was charged, was not the kind for which it was sold. The only evidence appeared to be that the cabbage did not head, but went at once to seed. Here the seedsman gained the point. It was decided that any variety might go to seed in this way under certain circumstances. But a similar case has recently been tried in one of the New York courts, and there the decision went against the seedsman, and in favor of the party sueing.

SOILING FATTENING CATTLE.—At a meeting of the South Deerfield (Mass.) Farmers' Club, President C. Smith related several experiments which he had tried to ascertain the comparative profit between fattening young stock in the barn in summer and fattening in a hill pasture, the result of which was a large preponderance of evidence in favor of soiling, from the amount of manure saved and the healthy, thrifty growth of the animals; heifer calves, kept at home till two years old, instead of running in a large pasture, will be worth at least $10 more for a cow.

SAWDUST FOR WALKS.—In the extensive wild garden adjoining the well-kept pleasure grounds at Cadland, near Southampton, the gardner, Mr. Harnett, has used sawdust as a dressing for the pathways cut out among the heath and trees in the woodland. The transition from smooth mown lawns, bright, clean gravel walks, and brilliant flower-beds, on the one side, to the adjuncts of this wild garden, is both pleasing and refreshing, and seems specially enticing when the sun sheds a tropical heat, and quietness and solitude are most appreciated. The walks are firm and yet soft to the tread; the sawdust soon becomes of a natural tint, closely allied to the crushed dried leafage of the beech, which here so much abounds. Weeds seldom grow, and these are easily kept in check with the hoe, and a light sweeping with a broom keeps all clean and neat.

SAYS the American Farm Journal: "Only sufficient vegetables of any kind, for immediate use, should be kept in cellars which are under dwelling-houses, and these require careful looking after to prevent decay, which as soon as it takes place, should be removed. All vegetables that impart strong odors, like onions, cabbage and turnips, should be kept in cellars under dwellings only in small quantities, otherwise they will poison the air and superinduce malarial fevers, as the warmth soon causes them to sweat, and produces decaying and unhealthy odors. Where good cellars under barns are attainable, they are far preferable for keeping all the odorous winter vegetables required by the family. And where these cannot be had, it is better to bury all, except small quantities for immediate use."

About the House.

WASHING TO STIFFEN FINE LACE.—Dissolve a lump of white sugar in a cup of cold water.

A SIMPLE way to test the freshness of eggs is to put them in water. A good one will lie flat and sink, while those musty with age will turn endward and float.

MARYLAND BISCUIT.—Take ten cups of flour, one cup of lard and one tablespoonful of salt. Make a stiff dough, work light and then bake in a quick oven. Do not let the biscuit touch each other. This recipe is remarkably fine, and we recommend it specially to our readers.

LAMPS become incrusted inside with settlings from the oil, and ordinary washing will not remove them. Take soap suds, and fill the lamp about one-third full; then put in a little sharp sand, and shake vigorously. A few minutes will remove every particle.

COCOANUT CHEESE CAKES.—Stew till tender six ounces of grated cocoanut and six ounces of white sugar with two tablespoonfuls of cocoanut milk. When cool, add five eggs beaten to a froth, and the grated rind of half a lemon. Line pattypans with paste, put in the mixture, and bake from twelve to fifteen minutes.

SAUCE FOR BEEFSTEAK.—One ounce of whole black pepper, one-half ounce of allspice, one ounce of salt, one-half ounce grated horse-radish, one-half ounce of pickled onions, one pint of catsup. Pound all the ingredients fine and put them in the catsup. Let them stand two weeks, then pour off, strain and bottle for use. The catsup should be thinned with vinegar if too thick.

CHESTNUT PUDDING.—Peel off the shells with a sharp knife, cover the kernels with water, and boil till their skin readily peels off. Then pound them in a mortar, and to every cup of chestnuts add three cups of chopped apple, one of chopped raisins, one-half cup of sugar, and one cup of water. Mix thoroughly, and bake until the apple is tender—about half an hour. Serve cold.

COCOANUT PUDDING.—Break the cocoanut, and save the milk; peel off the brown skin, and grate the cocoanut very fine. Take the same weight of cocoanut, white sugar and butter; rub the butter and sugar to a cream, add five eggs well beaten, one cup of cream, the milk of the cocoanut, and a little grated lemon. Line a dish with a rich paste; turn the pudding in, and bake one hour.

DIPHTHERIA.—Dr. Revillont, in a paper presented to the French Academy of Medicine, asserts that lemon juice is one of the most efficacious medicines that can be applied in diphtheria, and relates that when he was a dresser in the hospital his own life was saved by this timely application. He got a quantity of lemons and gargled his throat with the juice, swallowing a little at a time in order to act on the more deep-seated parts. Dr. R. has noted eleven cases of complete success obtained by this treatment.

OUT OF WORK.—There are so many people in all the large cities who are out of work that it is worse than folly for country people who have nothing to do to seek employment in cities. There is one department of industry in both city and country that is not much overcrowded. Household help of first quality is always in demand, and efficient, capable nurses, cooks and maids of all work do not long want occupation. A good many American girls have sought and found homes in American families, where they have the privileges accorded to members of the family, and receive besides liberal wages.

A SIMPLE BUT EXCELLENT PASTRY.—Put one pound of flour in a dish, make a hole in the center, drop in the yelk of one egg. Then make a paste by pouring cold water into the hole, and stirring until all the flour is made into a paste; then roll out. Have ready one pound of butter, lay it on the paste; fold the dough over the butter and roll out. Repeat this—folding the dough over and rolling out—eight or ten times, with a quick, light stroke. Then put the paste on the ice for an hour or so; then roll it out again several times, before covering your pie plates or cutting the pastry into puffs. Pastry made in this way is light and flaky, yet crisp and tender.

CREMATION.—The cremation of the corpse of the late Chevalier Rossi was conducted publicly in the monumental cemetery at Milan, Italy, last week. The arrangements for this purpose there are very complete. The corpse is placed in a chamber in which 100 gas jets combine to raise a temperature of 1,000 degrees, and incineration is neatly and thoroughly done in an hour, a mere pinch of delicate dust remaining. There is nothing spectacular about it.

INDIANA ITEMS.

EIGHTY converts was the result of the Methodist revival at Goshen.

FORT WAYNE has had a banquet, and resolved to build a Chamber of Commerce.

TO KNOCK a man down with a spade and break his jaw in Terre Haute, costs $10.50.

LAFAYETTE is making preparations to celebrate its semi-centennial on the 25th of next May.

THOMAS M. ARCHER, of Evansville, ex-Local Boiler Inspector, and an old river pilot, is dead.

A NUMBER of young men of Lafayette have secured positions as clerks at the Philadelphia Centennial.

SOUTH BEND has a new suburb on the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, named Lapaz. It is very prosperous.

A SEPTUAGENARIAN of Elkhart County recently purchased a wife by paying her father $500 and 80 acres of land.

JOHN P. EARLY, of Laporte, has in his possession the razor and shaving case of Col. Jeremiah Early, who died in 1777.

"UNCLE HENRY WISE," of Vincennes, was a schoolmate of ex-Speaker Blaine's father and mother, in Pennsylvania, 50 years ago.

THE people of Indianapolis got into a lively war with the gas company, and the result is that fully one-half of the town burns coal-oil.

MARY T. CLARK, of Dublin, has been ordained a preacher of universal salvation. She is the first woman who ever solemnized a marriage in the West.

C. C. SMITH has resigned the position of General Superintendent of the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western Railroad, and Gen. P. Pease succeeds him.

THE annual report of District-Attorney Buskirk shows that, during the year, he has written thirty opinions and answered 521 letters from officials asking legal advice.

THE hotly contested Postoffice case at Mitchell, Lawrence County, has at length been settled, by the appointment of Sam Cook as Postmaster, in the place of Silas Moore, deceased.

FORMAL notice has been given to the partners of the South Bend Herald Company that suit for libel was instituted against them by A. S. Kearn. Damages are asked in the sum of $10,000.

THE Wabash Canal broke through its banks at Roanoke last week, and the water has all left the canal. Fort Wayne will build a dam south of the city to keep a supply on hand in case of fire.

NEW ALBANY Ledger: We return thanks to the serenade party last night. We beg pardon for not getting up. It was very cold. When you get to be 40, and married, you will get over all such foolishness.

ONE night last week a body of masked men went to the jail at Bloomington, and shot and killed a prisoner named C. A. Mershon. Mershon had been sentenced to the Penitentiary for life, three years ago, for murder, but had recently been granted a new trial.

THE jewelry establishment of W. H. Newby, in Columbus, was broken into one night last week, and an attempt made to blow open the safe containing money and jewelry, but without success. The robbers were evidently frightened away, as all their tools were left behind.

THE entire business portion of the town of Montezuma, Parke County, was destroyed by fire on Saturday of last week. The flames had a fair start, and the town was without fire apparatus. The loss on buildings and stock will not fall short of $20,000. There was some insurance.

MUCH excitement was caused by finding in an old well in Bald Hill, Laporte County, last Sunday, some bones supposed to be the remains of a man named Jackson, who disappeared mysteriously eight years ago. The mystery was dispelled by ascertaining that they were bovine bones.

DURING a slight revolt among the convicts in the Northern Penitentiary at Michigan City, on Wednesday last, a guard named Wolf, from Fort Wayne, was stabbed by a colored convict named Davis, and killed. Davis was fatally wounded by other guards, who quelled the riot with no further casualties.

HERMAN JOHANN, an idle, dissolute man of Evansville, lately attempted to murder his wife because she caressed their child in his presence. They were living apart, and the girl was living with him in their separation. Johann's attempt was frustrated by those near by, and he then fled.

RICHMOND has now seventy-five streets and avenues; twenty-five lodges of secret and benevolent societies; eighteen incorporated institutions, with an aggregate stated capital of over $2,000,000; eleven building associations, of $1,100,000; four cemeteries; six denominational schools, and six public schools.

MR. WILCOX, a stock farmer residing a few miles south of Crawfordsville, has lost five head of fat cattle recently, with a new disease. The cattle become very much swollen about the neck and breast, and survive the attack but a few hours. No remedy has been discovered, nor can the disease be attributed to any particular cause.

THE Ohio Falls Car Company, of Jeffersonville, has formally petitioned the management of the Southern Penitentiary to terminate the building of cars in the prison by convicts in the future. In the event of a refusal to accede to the views expressed in the petition, the company will bid for the labor in "self-defense."

THERE is no work for the prisoners in the Indiana State Prison. They are marched out of their cells to the shops in the morning and remain there under guard, doing nothing until dinner time, and in the afternoon, to vary the monotony, they are allowed to do nothing also. Those of them who are so disposed play checkers or dominoes, and the others wear out the time and the seats of many chairs by sitting about the stove.

LAST Sunday night all the business houses of Oaktown, Knox County, on the line of the Evansville and Terre Haute Railway were raided by burglars; also the railway office, where the thieves tried to open the safe door by boring holes in it, doubtless intending to blast. The only things secured were silver spoons and $50 in money, and a few unimportant articles. From the windows of each house entered a couple of panes of glass were cut to allow ingress.

A STRANGER, giving the name of L. Sweitzer, called on E. Ullman, a Lafayette hide dealer, on Tuesday of last week, and wanted to sell a lot of hides and tallow. He had a lot on the way valued at $1,500, and showed a shipping bill for the goods dated Danville, Ill. Sweitzer wanted $500 advanced on the goods, the balance to be paid when the goods were sold. Ullman gave the man $50, and, telegraphing the agent at Danville, found that the man had not shipped any such goods. Sweitzer is now under arrest.

WHILE returning home from their work last Wednesday evening, a body of woodchoppers discovered the remains of a man lying in a pile of driftwood, near where Pogue's Run empties into White River, at Indianapolis. From the description of the clothing and the advanced state of decomposition in which the body was found, it is thought it was that of the German employe at Kinigan's pork house, who mysteriously disappeared about three weeks ago. On further examination it is found not to be his, and, as the side of the head is crushed in, a case of foul play is suspected.

SOME weeks ago a laborer named Louis Thomas was driving his employer's team across the railroad track at Cumberland, and a train ran into it, killing the horses and wrecking the wagon. All that could be found of the driver was his coat and vest. What had become of him was a mystery. For several days after the Sentinel announced his disappearance, the papers were loaded with communications suggesting a hundred different theories explaining his whereabouts. Recently a letter was received from him, and now he has returned. From the time he saw that train coming until he found himself in Illinois, life is a blank to him. How he got into the locality he has not the least idea.

J. S. FERMER, alias Moore, the confidence man who confessed to being one of the party who robbed the Quincy (Ill.) bank in July, 1874, of $380,000, died at the City Poor Asylum in Evansville on Wednesday of last week. Chief of Police Ayres believed the story, and made a trip to Iowa, where Fermer confessed to taking his share of the robbery, but found nothing. Fermer maintained the truth of his story, and gave the names of accomplices—Helsey, a thief of Syracuse, N. Y.; English Tom, a Cockney burglar, and a man name unknown, at present in a St. Louis hospital, with a bullet-wound in his thigh. He tried to tell of a diamond robbery in St Joseph, Mo. in March, 1875, but died before the particulars were given. He said $20,000 worth of the diamonds and jewelry were buried on the Iron Mountain Railroad, near Booneville, Mo. The proper efforts will be made to ferret the matter out.

ON arriving at the Jeffersonville Penitentiary, the members of the Indiana whisky ring were subjected to a final interview by an invincible reporter, who learned that McGriff still protested his innocence, and bewailed his fate more on account of his wife and son than for himself; that Hill, the Deputy Collector, was grieved and appalled at the thought that the prison barber would cut off his glossy whiskers; that Eberwine, Simonson and Munford served in the army, and thought they should have been more mercifully treated; and that Miller and Phillips only went into the ring because all the other fellows were in, Phillips adding that his chief anxiety was to protect the interests of the revenue, the distillers assuring him that they would have to run crooked or not run at all, in which latter case there would have been no revenue collected, and Phillips innocently thought a little would be better than none. The party at the Penitentiary was the most remarkable ever seen in like circumstances in America, from the number of Government officers embraced in it, and was as forlorn and pitiable as it was curious.

A Lion Tamer's Peril.

The Journal du Havre recounts a terrible encounter between the lion tamer Bidel and a number of wild beasts. Bidel's custom was to go into the cage of these ferocious animals, accompanied by a sheep, which was by his presence kept safe from attack. On a recent occasion he proceeded to the lion's cage, and his first act was to place the sheep on the back of a lioness, as he had frequently done before. No sooner had he accomplished this than a powerful lion sprang upon the poor sheep, and buried its teeth into a vital part of its body. There was a large number of spectators present, and, as may be imagined, the sudden act of the lion created an instant and general panic. Bidel stepped forward, and with the utmost composure struck the lion a blow on the mouth with a heavy stick, which made him crouch and yell with pain, and throw his bleeding victim trembling at the feet of the courageous performer. In another moment, however, all the wild beasts were lashed into fury by the sight of the blood, and no one in the assembly believed that Bidel could possibly escape. Preserving his presence of mind, however, he kept the other animals at bay until he had subdued the lion and chased him back to his cage. He then fought his way back through the other animals, and midst the bravos of the assembly came out triumphantly, carrying his wounded sheep with him. The poor animal, which was a great favorite of the lion tamer, has since died of its wounds.

A LADY in Paris is introducing a new fashion in regard to furniture, she is having all her chairs, sofas, and even her carriages stuffed with aromatic herbs, which fill the air with an agreeable but not too powerful perfume. The fashion is derived from the Eastern nations, and prevails extensively over a considerable part of Asia.

CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER thinks the Germans a frugal people, and illustrates his meaning by the following statement of what he saw at the opera in Berlin: "As soon as the opera was over the man in front of me took wads of cotton from his pocket and stopped up his ears to save the music he had paid for."

MR. WINSLOW, late of Boston, is not a relative of the soothing-syrup lady, though he syrup-titiously disappeared.

Household Convenience One Hundred Years Ago.

In speaking of the comparative comforts and conveniences enjoyed by our ancestors in their homes of a hundred years ago, with their descendants of this generation, Dr. Nichols, in the Boston Journal of Commerce, says: Our fathers were groping in almost utter darkness, so far as a knowledge of the sciences was concerned, and but little progress had been made in invention and the arts; scarcely one of the modern contrivances for cooking, and for warming and lighting dwellings was known. Not a pound of coal or a cubic foot of illuminating gas had been burned in the country. No iron stoves were used, and no contrivances for economizing heat were employed until Dr. Franklin invented the iron frame fire-place, which still bears his name. All the cooking and warming in town and country were done by the aid of fire kindled upon the brick hearth or in the brick oven. Pine knots or tallow candles furnished the light for the long winter evenings, and sanded floors supplied the place of rugs and carpets. The water used for household purposes was drawn from deep wells by the creaking "sweep," and it is a curious circumstance that both the well, and the building meeting the necessity of a water-closet, were often at long distances from the house. In a cold night in winter, to be called toward either of them was something dreadful to think of. No form of pump was used in this country, so far as we learn, until after the commencement of the present century. There were no friction matches in those early days, by the aid of which a fire could be speedily kindled; and if the fire "went out" on the hearth over night, and the tinder was damp so that the spark would not "catch," the alternative remained of wading through the snow a mile or so to borrow a brand of a neighbor. Only one room in any house was warmed (unless some one of the family were ill); in all the rest the temperature was at zero during many nights in winter. The men and women of a hundred years ago undressed and retired to their beds at night in an atmosphere colder than that of our modern barns and woodsheds, and they never complained.

A Methodical Rascal.

It has already been stated that the forger Winslow inquired of a lawyer of this city in regard to the countries where extradition does not prevail. The details of this interview are grimly humorous in the light of recent events. The Transcript says that the enterprising speculator began the interview by saying that as so many forgers had escaped justice by going to Brazil and other countries where no extradition law is in effect, he wished to get up an article for the Post, giving the facts in the matter, the full text of the laws, the names of the localities where justice is not protected, the routes thither, etc. Mr. Winslow's legal friends accordingly overhauled books, consulted all the authorities, looked into the history of the famous Bailey case in New York, and others well known here, and furnished full details. Mr. Winslow took copious notes, informed himself of the routes and running time of all lines of steamers running to non-extradition ports, and, by the lawyer's help, obtained a full statement of the laws regulating arrest on the high seas, and the immunities of "those who go down to the sea in ships," etc. The disciple of Blackstone had himself become greatly interested in the case, and when Mr. Winslow offered to pay him for his trouble, the lawyer said that the matter was of public interest, and he couldn't think of taking money for it. Mr. Winslow insisted on sending him a copy of the Post free, and went away, assuring his friend that the first of the extradition articles would appear very soon.—Boston Globe.

Medical Diplomas for Women.

The British Medical Journal states that the Council of the Royal College of Surgeons of England has arrived at the important decision to admit women to examination for its license in midwifery. This diploma will entitle them to a place on the Medical Register, and will give them a legally recognized position as practitioners in the obstetric department of medicine and surgery. The clause in the college charter under which the right to admission has been claimed, was, it appears, expressly framed by the use of the word "persons," to meet the case of female as well as of male practitioners, and the college has been advised that it could not legally refuse to admit duly educated women to examination for this diploma.

One Case in a Thousand.

A man in Albany was discovered one day last week trying to hide a piece of meat, stolen from a market, under his coat. The owner of the market suspecting him to be in extreme want, called a policeman, who followed the man to his house; there he was seen with his wife and three small children, picking at the meat like so many crows, there being no fire in the house to cook it. On being questioned why he did not ask for the meat, he said he had begged from three or four butchers and been refused, and determined to steal rather than to starve. The man was sent home with a well-filled basket, and the pressing wants of his family otherwise relieved.—Syracuse (N. Y.) Journal.

THE pumpkin is not generally supposed to be a dangerous vegetable, but the recent experience of a woman in Massachusetts proved that it may be. This woman, proposing to make some pumpkin-pies, found that the pumpkin was frozen, and put it in the oven to "thaw out." When she went to remove it, it exploded with the report of a bomb-shell, a part striking her in the face with great force and burning her severely.

AT Saratoga, the other day, a bridegroom stepped off the cars for a moment and the train went off with his bride. He followed on the next train down, and she, on the other hand, returned by the next train up, and they passed on the road. This operation was repeated, each trip leaving them at different ends of the route, until a peremptory telegram kept the bride stationary until her husband reached her.

DETROIT policemen don't seem to be very good marksmen. "I wan't you either to hit me or stop making such a blamed racket," said a thief in that city, at whom a policeman was shooting.

All Sorts.

THE dogs in Georgia killed 28,025 sheep last year.

A CENTURY "Plant"—Burying a hundred-year-old man.

ABOUT ten Eastern consumptives die in Colorado every week.

THE annual importation of eggs into England now reaches the value of £2,500,000.

FLORIDA will no longer imprison debtors. That is, until she gets more prisons.

THERE are 700 persons in Newport, R. I., who are out of employment at the present time.

THE palace expenditure of the Sultan of Turkey has been $2,000,000 a year ever since his succession.

THE United States Army is being rapidly but quietly increased by recruiting. The average is 400 a month.

MOST of the dogs in Indiana are mad. The farmers have taken to locking up their sheep in the barn over night.

MCDERMOTT, the man who claims Bessie Turner as his long-lost sister, is lecturing on that subject in New England.

MR. CHARLES LYNDE, of New York, has offered a donation of $5,000 to Princeton College to stimulate college-debating.

FROM Brookline, the four morning trains are classed, viz: 6:30, workies; 7:15, clerkies; 8:35, shirkies; 9:15, flirties.—Boston Journal.

IN the line of "How to Bring up Parents" is the speech of a little boy, who said, "Father, I think you should give up swearing or family prayers."

PROF. HENRICHS, of Des Moines, says that seventy-five hence years Iowa summers will be like those of Louisiana, and the winters like those at Duluth, Minn.

THE tonnage employed in the whale fishery of the United States is 38,883, and the number of vessels 169, against 668 vessels with a tonnage of 208,339 in 1854.

BELLE ANGEVINE pears, from Antwerp, are selling in Covent Garden Market, London, for $150 per dozen. Some of these fine specimens weigh four and a half pounds each.

A SAN FRANCISCO paper says Mrs. Cunningham-Burdell is living a fashionable life in that city. It will be remembered that Burdell died a fashionable death in New York.

THE Dubuque Times says: "At the Board of Education, yesterday, it was voted that all matters coming before the board labeled 'Centennial,' should at once be laid upon the table."

BURMAH is to have a journal, with the King for editor. It starts off with the largest circulation of any paper in the world. The King's salutatory was brief: "If you don't like it, you take it!"

A CHINAMAN in California, whose life was insured for a large amount, was seriously hurt by falling from a wagon. There was some doubt of his ever getting better, and at length one of his friends wrote to the insurance company, "Charley half dead; like half money."

A SACRAMENTO detective dressed himself in rags, and fell in a disreputable street, as though helplessly drunk, as a device to catch a gang of thieves who, he thought, would attempt to rob him. What he did catch was a sound whipping from a real bummer who tripped upon his body.

THE late Postmaster of Boston bears testimony as follows to the excellence of the service rendered by the much maligned feminine clerks in his department. "The women have proved far superior to men in looking up mis-sent and misdirected letters, and in making returns to the dead-letter office. They have also proved entirely reliable. There has not been a single instance in nine years where the accounts of any woman have shown a deficiency of $1 in the Boston Postoffice."

CALCRAFT, who recently retired from the trying position of hangman in England, had an agreeable custom of always shaking hands with those upon whom he was about to carry out the sentence of the law. But it has been observed that Marwood, his successor, never does this, and speculation has been rife in certain quarters as to the cause of his departure from this precedent. Freemasons will be interested to learn that the reason is "because he is a free and accepted Mason and dreads the condemned man giving him a Masonic grip in return."

THE marriage of the Princess Louise to the Marquis of Lorne has, by reason of the very snubs which have made it so unpleasant to both parties, been of some value in the lesson it has afforded to the youngest sister of Louise, the Princess Beatrice. The latter young lady has declined to consider herself in the light of a possible wife for a nobleman compelled to pinch and save for the purpose of keeping up appearances. She is even said to repudiate the idea of taxing the country for her support and to have expressed her intention of marrying a tradesman.

Such a Hen Story.

A case rivaling that of the headless rooster has been reported at the police office. The man who reported it stated that a friend of his had some six weeks ago, chopped off the head of a large Brahma hen half-way down the neck. Instead of lying down and giving up the ghost, as any reasonable hen should, the creature got up, with miraculous cheek, and walked off as if nothing had happened. Liniment was applied to the wound and it healed rapidly. The food of the hen was rammed down every morning through the œsophagus. The men asked leave to exhibit the phenomenon publicly, and, being informed that it is against the law to exhibit monstrosities, offered to bring the fowl to the office to prove the truth of what he said. There is no telling now what may happen in the poultry line; turkeys on the Sunday dinner-tables may have to be chained down to the platters to keep them from vanishing through the doorways or tipping over the gravy dishes in their dying struggles after being plucked and roasted.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A BALD man was sadly astonished to find his French barber's charges so high: "Ten francs," said he, "for cutting my hair!" "Oh, no monsieur, not for cutting your hair, but for finding de hair to cut."

Fruit House Bulletin

All Goods Retailed at Wholesale Prices

This is the Only Secret of Our Immense Trade.

we purchase at first hands and sell direct to the consumer, so there is no middlemen to eat up profits. Some goods—take teas for instance—pass through four different hands before they reach consumers, and each one has to have his profit, so that 40 to 50 per cent. is added to price. The importer has his profit of 10 per cent., the jobbing merchant his profit of 10 per cent., the speculator and wholesale merchants, 10 to 20 per cent. and the retailer all he can get. So Sugars, Coffees, Spices, Prunes, Fruits Tobaccos, Liquors, or anything we deal in. Our customers get the benefit of all these intermediate profits. No middlemen with us. We are having a great run on Prunes. The Finest

PRUNES ONLY 8c A POUND.

They hardly ever sell lower than 12½c. and when you consider that Dried Apples are 12c, we all know a pound of Prunes will go farther and are considered much richer eating.

TEAS REDUCED

"A penny saved is two pence got." Ten cents reduction on teas. The continued dullness in trade in the east, coupled with the large number of failures in the tea trade, has completely demoralized the market. Teas we used to sell at $1,40, and lately $1,10 per pound, we now sell at $1 per pound. Either Young Hyson, Imperial or Gunpowder, the very best qualities, now $1 per pound. The best uncolored Japan now 80c. was 90c, the best Oolong now 35c, was 95c. Other grades as low 25c per pound, up to 50, 60, and 70c per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	20 and 30c
Second Best Rio,	20c

Sugars.

New Orleans and Refined Granulated Crushed and Powdered	11c	New Orleans clarified	9c
Coffee A.	10½c	" "	8c
" C.	10c	Good brown	8c

CANNED FRUITS.

Peaches per can	15c	Pumpkin per can	10c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Hominey per can	10c
Canned Corn, per can	10 and 20c

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia Raisins, per pound	12½c	Peaches per pound	12c
Pitted Cherries per pound	35c	Apples per pound	12c
Raspberries per pound	45c

Wines and Liquors.

Good Whiskey, one year old, per gallon	$1 00	Port and Sherry Wines, per gallon, bottle	1 50, in 50c
Rye Whiskey, two years old	1 25	Sweet Angelica and California Muscatel, per gallon, 3 dozen bottles	70c
Three year old	1 75 3 00	Whiskey in bottles	30c and 50c
The $3 is for medical use and no better is sold anywhere.
CANDIES—Best Stick per pound	16c	French Mixed, choice, per pound	20c

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

Good Navy and Twist, per pound.	45 and 50c	Smoking Tobacco	25c, best 40c
Fine Kentucky Bright	60 and 70c	Shorts, best	37

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Coal Oil and Rose Oil, per gallon	20c	Machine Oil, Dark Virginia, per gallon
Fish Oil and Lard Oil, per gallon	1 00	Best Refined	70c
Neatsfoot Oil, per gallon	$1 00

We are Bound to Keep up Our Reputation of Underselling all others And Save You at least

25 Cents on the Dollar

Fruit House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Auburn Fruit House

JUST OPENED

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

Read the Following Prices

TEAS:

Young Hyson from	85 cents to $1.00
Japan "	90 cents to $1.00
Oolong "	70 cents to $1.00
Gunpowder "	60 cents to $1.00

OFFEES:

Roasted Coffee from	25 cents to 30
Best Rio	25 cents
Best Java & Mocha	38 cents
African Male Java	45 cents

SUGARS:

Double Refined A	11 cents
Brown from	8 cents to 10cts
Hard & Pulverized	12½ "

Canned Fruit from	10 to 32 cents	Lemons, per dozen	50c
White Fish per kit	$1.40	White Fish per half barrell	$5.50
Syrups from	75c to 1.00	Soap, endless variety, per bar	5 & 10c
Dried Beef, Hams and Peckeled pork		Western Reserve Cheese	15 cents

Dried Fruits.

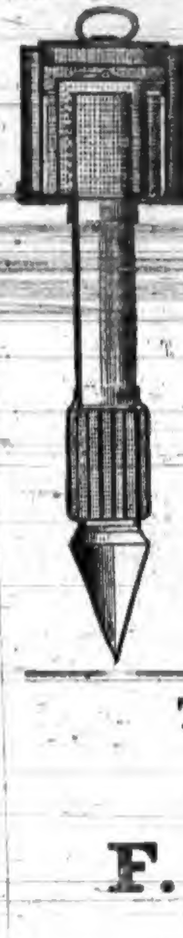
Apples from	11 to 12½
Prunes from	11 to 15
Choice Raisins from	15 to 20

Coal and Head Light Oil. Best Crackers of all kinds at the lowest prices. Too many goods to enumerate. Call in and price them. Remember the place in the

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

E. E. WILLIAMS.

A New Method of Draining Farms!



YUNDT'S PATENT DRAIN!

FOR DRAINING

Swamps, Ponds & Low Lands.

It sinks the water just where it stands, saving miles of tile drains; keeps the water from cutting up your highways, or flooding your neighbor's, and is as far superior to tile drains as the railroad is to the common wagon.

TESTIMONIAL.

We, the undersigned, having seen one of Yundt's Patent Drains remove a large pond of stagnant water, on Hoyt street, in this city, do cheerfully recommend it to all persons who have wet cellars, or are troubled with ponds or wet lands. It will do all that is claimed for it.

DR. B. ATKINSON, HENRY GOLDTHWAIT, J. W. GRIFFITH,
H. B. CROSS, D. V. ROSS, LYMAN CASE,
N. E. RAPER, P. MORTON,

One of the above drains was put down on the premises of J. P. Frenzel, Jr., Cashier of the Merchants' National Bank, of this city, and in less than

Three Hours Had Drained the Cellar

of over 3,000 gallons of water. No better investment can be made of idle capital than in working territory with this Drain. A good, energetic Agent is wanted in every city and county, to whom a liberal commission will be paid. State, County, Township or Farm Rights for sale. Personal property or real estate taken in exchange for territory. Address

J. H. YUNDT, Indianapolis, Ind.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the latest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holiday trade

Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has an exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his potrons the benefit of the same

---

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,

Jewelry,

Clocks, Silver Ware!

GOLD PENS,

Ladies GOLD Chains,

Gents Chains,

Gold and Silver Rings,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Grand Display

The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of

Wall and Window Paper!

SHADES AND FIXTURERS.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Miscellaneous and Blank Books,
Pocket Books, Bibles,
Bill Books Albums,
Wallets, Testaments,
Memorandas, Pass Books

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONARY,

Pictures, Picture-cord and Tassel,
Box Papers in great variety,
School Supplies of all kinds,

—AT—

C. P. HOUSER'S,

Main Street, opposite Ford's Block, AUBURN, IND.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Noblesville	[illegible]	[illegible]	5 10	1 30
Tipton	[illegible]	1 13	5 57	2 15
Miami	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	2 33
Kokomo	[illegible]	[illegible]	7 00
Peru	10 05	3 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6,00pm	4 15a	9 55a
Noblesville	4 42	3 13	8 34
Tipton	3 [illegible]	2 29	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	1 50	7 02
Miami	2 46	1 15	6 45
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

E. C. MURPHY, Supt Mich. Div,
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran
C. H. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R

Air Line Division

On and after Sunday Nov. 21, 1875 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST.

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:42 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	7:55 p. m
Waterloo	3:00 "	2:51 "	8:14 "
Sedan	3,07	3,01	8:28 "
Corunna	3,13	3,06	8:30 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.10 pm	11.35 pm	9:35 a m
Sedan	2.20	11.40	6:40 "
Waterloo	2:37 "	11.50 "	6:52 "
Butler	2:47 "	x12:10 a m	7:15 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
G. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Nov 21, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	2 00 pm	3 45a.m	pm
Ossian	2 35
Bluffton	3 25	5 06	7 00
Keystone	3 54
Montpelier	4 02	5 43	7 33
Hartford	4 28pm	6 08	7 50
Eaton	4 50	6 25	8 12
Muncie	5 20	6 55	8 45
McCowan's	5 37
New Castle	6 15
Cam. City	6 42
Beesons	7 11
Connersville	7 25
Indianapolis	7 40	9 30	11 15
Louisville		pm
Cincinnati	10 30	am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am
Louisville			pm
Indianapolis		7 25pm	4 45am
Connersville	10 45
Beesons	11 00
Cam City	11 18
New Castle	11 55
McCowans	12 30pm
Muncie	12 42	10 00	7 15am
Eaton	1 08	11 30	7 51
Hartford	1 27	10 45	8 15
Montpelier	1 51	11 40	8 45
Keystone	2 00	----	8 55
Bluffton	2 30	11 4am	9 32
Ossian	2 55		10 05
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. RILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Ind. Exp.
Cincinnati
Louisville	7 20pm			40
Indianapolis	4 45am			[illegible]
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 3		45
Auburn	11 25	6 1		41
Waterloo	11 50	6 4		01
Summit				50
Pleasant Lake				56
Ar Angola	12 45pm	8 00	5 30	10
Reading	1 45		7 00	32
Bankers	2 10		7 23	6 45
Jonesville	2 20		7 52	10 15
Jackson	3 3		8:35	9 00
Detroit	6 15p m		12 30	8 57
Grand Rapids	10 15			11 57
Lansing	5 45
Saginaw	9 08
Bay City

Going South.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Ind. Exp.
Bay City
Saginaw	7 40 a m			4 10p
Lansing	11 07			7 28
Grand Rapids	6 00			11 30a
Detroit	10 30			5 40p
Jackson Dep	1 20 p m			9 40
Jonesville	2 20			11 00
Bankers	2 36			11 20
Reading	2 47			11 35
At Angola	3 40	6 15		12 44
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 20	7 32		1 32
Auburn	4 36	8 00		1 52
Auburn Junction		9 30		2 45
Ft. Wayne Arrive
Indianapolis	11 10	3 30p		9 30
Louisville	4 am	11 10
Cincinnati		10 30

B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Nov. 21st, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 6 Accom	No. 4 Expre	No 2	STATIONS	No 1	No. 3	No. 7
6.00p	1.00p	10.30	lv Logansp't ar	11.00	7.50	[illegible]
6.35	1.13	10.48	Adamsboro,	10.45	6.38	[illegible]
7.00	4.23	10.57	Hoover's	10.35	6.27	12.01
7.20	4.43	11.05	Mexico	10.25	6.19	11.45
7.40	4.52	11.15	Denver	10.15	6.10	11.25
7.51	4.59	11.26	Chili	10.07	5.58	1.12
8.22	5.12	11.43	Roann	9.54	5.40	10.13
8.55	5.20	12.04	Laketon	9.40	5.26	10.10
9.15	5.33	12.12	N. Manchest'r	9.30	5.10	10.00
9.33	5.42p	12.20	Lib. Mills	9.21	5.05	9.33
9.56	5.52	12.30	Collamer	9.10	4.57	9.14
10.04	5.56	12.35	S. Whitley	9.06	4.53	9.05
10.27	6.08	12.47	Taylor's	8.54	4.41	8.42
10.50	6.20	1.00	Columbia city	8.42	4.30	8.20
11.20	6.34	1.13	Collin's	8.27	4.16	7.50
11.40	6.46	1.26	Churubusco	8.15	4.01	7.31
12.00	6.55	1.36	Potter's	8.05	3.54	7.10
12.16			G. R. Crossing
12.30	7.11	1.51	Cedar Creek	7.50	3.39	6.45
12.53	7.22	2.00	Aub. Juncti'n	7.34	3.28	6.22
1.00	7.26	2.04	Auburn	7.28	3.23	6.15
1.30	7.36	2.17	Mooresville	7.15	3.10	5.45
2.00	7.50	2.30	ar. Butler lv.	7.00a	3.00p	5.15

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway; for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis. At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne, Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R'y. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

S. U. Tarney

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAN AND Pacific Railroad.

The Direct Route for

JOLIET, MORRIS, LA SALLE, PERU, HENLACON, PEORIA, GENESEO, MOLINE, ROCK ISLAND, DAVENPORT MUSCATINE, WASHINGTON IOWA CITY, GRINNELL, NEWTON, DES MOINES,

Council Bluffs and Omaha

WITHOUT CHANGE OF CARS,

Where it joins with the Union Pacific Railroad for Denver, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, San Francisco and

All Points West of the Pacific Coast.

Trains leave daily as follows:

Omaha, Leavenworth & Atchison Express, (sundays excepted)	10 00 a m
Peru Accommodation (Sat ex)	5 15 p m
Omaha Express (Sun ex)	10 00 p m

KANSAS LINE.

The Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co., have now opened their Southwestern Division between Leavenworth and Chicago, connecting at Leavenworth with Kansas Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads and at Atchison with Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Central Branch, Union Pacific and Atchison and Nebraska railroads, for all points in Kansas, Indian Territories, Colorado and New Mexico.

This company have built a full complement of Palace Drawing room and Sleeping cars, which for external beauty and interrior arrangements for the comfort, convenience and luxury of passengers are unexcelled if equalled, by any other cars of the kind in the world.

Through Tickets for sale at all General Railway offices in the States and Canada.

HUGH RIDDLE, Gen Supt.
A. M. SMITH Gen Pass Agent,

CALIFORNIA.

THE CHICAGO & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY

Embraces under the management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the West and North-west, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, California and the Western Territories. Its

Omaha & California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line.

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and for Madison, St. Paul Minneapolis, Duluth and all points in the great Northwest. Its

Winona and St Peter Line

Is the only route for Winona, Rochester, Owatonna Mankato, St Peter, New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Janesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghton, Hancock and the Lake Superior Country. Its

Freeport and Debuque Line

Is the only route for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago & Milwauke Line

Is the old Lake Shore route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

Pullman Palace Cars

are run on all through trains on the road.

This is the only line running these cars between Chicago and St Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our sleepers connect with the Overland sleepers on the Union Pacific railroad for all points west of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or south, the trains of the Chicago & North-Western Railway leaves Chicago as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St Paul and Minneapolis, two through trains daily with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, two trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four through trains daily, Pullman Cars on night trains Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta and Winona and points in Minnesota, One through train daily, with Pullman sleepers to Winona.

For Debuque, via Freeport, two through trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains

For Debuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, two through trains daily with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, two trains daily Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, four trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points, you can have from two to ten trains daily.

New York Office, No. 415 Broadway, Boston office No. 5 State street, Omaha office, 253, Farnham Street, San Francisco office, 121, Montgomery Street, Kinzie Street Depot, corner of W. Kinzie and Canal Streets, Wells Street Depot, corner of Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agent, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen Pas. Ag't, Chicago.
MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen Sup't, Chicago

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

Condensed time card, Dec 12, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex.
Pittsburgh	2 00a.m	5 50 pm	8 30 a.m	3 00 p.
Rochester	3 11 "	....	9 45 "	4 10 "
Alliance	5 55 "	8 35 pm	12 50 p.m	7 00 "
Orrville	7 12"	....	2 50 "	8 50 "
Mansfield	9 25"	....	5 14 "	10 58 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 00 "	11 45pm	5 50 "	11 30 "
" lv.	10 20 "	4 50am	6 25 p.m	11 50 "
Forest	11 40 "	6 25 "	8 13 "	1 07 am
Lima	12 40 p.m	7 35 "	9 35 "	2 10 "
Ft. Wayne	3 00 "	10 45 "	12 01 a.m	4 10 "
Plymouth	5 06 "	1 43 pm	2 55 a.m	6 08 "
Chicago	8 20 "	5 35 "	6 30 "	9 20 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex.	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail
Chicago	10 20p.m	9 20a.m	5 35 p.m	5 25am
Plymouth	1 56a.m	12 08 p.m	9 08 "	8 25 "
Ft. Wayne	4 55 "	2 40 "	11 35 "	12 20pm
Lima	7 08 "	4 35 "	2 10 a.m	2 48 "
Forest	8 30 "	5 37 "	3 10 "	4 00 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 20 "	7 00 "	4 40 "	5 45 "
" lv.	10 40a.m	7 20 "	4 50 "	6 00am
Mansfield	11 11	7 50 "	5 20 "	6 40 "
Orrville	1 15 p.m	9 50 "	7 12 "	9 10 "
Alliance	3 15 "	11 25 "	9 00 "	11 20 "
Rochester	5 45 "	1 25 a.m	11 12 "	2 07pm
Chicago	6 55 "	2 30 "	12 15 p.m	3 "

Through Mail, (Limited,) leaves Pittsburg daily at 5.50 p. m., stopping only at Alliance, 8.15 p. m Crestline, 11.55 p. m. Fort Wayne 2.50 a. m., arrives at Chicago at 6.55 a. m.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 59	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 33
Defiance	11 32	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 03am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 30	1 34	 x
Milford Junction	2 47	2 14	......
Walkertown Junction	4 08	4 08	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25 pm	....	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	....	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41	....	6 30
Avilla	3 01	....	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 23	6 34	3 44
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 45	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 31
Fostoria	7 15	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 25	1 00pm	9 12

L. COLE, Gen. Tick. Agt.

Records Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Vol. 6. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY IND., FEBR'Y 24th, 1876. NO. 8.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. G. MAYS.

One Year..........$2. | Six Months..........$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square	2.50	5.00	7.00	12.00
¼ Column	8.00	12.00	18.00	30.00
½ Column	10.00	18.00	30.00	50.00
One Column	15.00	30.00	60.00	100.00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

W. H. DILLS,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and Notary Public. Auburn, Indiana. Office in the COURIER Office.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall south of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office opposite N. W. Cor. Public Square.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

A. F. FINCHER

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over [illegible] of Court House.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
M. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTEL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue Chicago. O. SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stephiet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

NEW

Meat Market

The undersigned has opened a meat market at Markle's old stand, where he will keep constantly on hand a good supply of fresh meats of all kinds, at reasonable prices, and asks a share of the public patronage.
Nov. 1-3m. JOHN TRESCH.

Junction Hotel,

JAMES SMITH, Pro'r.

Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.
L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

JAS. CLIFFORD,

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest [illegible]

Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

Original Poetry.

CENTENNIAL OFFERING.

BY S. S. WIDNEY.

[Respectfully inscribed and dedicated to the citizens of DeKalb County, of all parties, sects and nationalities.]

Unfurl your starry banner high,
Columbia! favored land,
Let gleaming rockets fill the sky,
With visions, bright and grand.

Let sweetest music fill the gale,
And float from sea to sea,
While booming cannon greet and hail,
Our Nation's Jubilee.

Let every voice break forth in song,
And warble notes of praise,
While mountain tops, the sounds prolong,
And echo wide the lays.

Ring out in joyous peals, ye bells,
From every steeple high,
While verdant slopes and shady dells,
Send back the glad reply.

Sail swiftly o'er the ocean's tide,
Ye ships of foreign lands,
And bring your wares, your country's pride,
The work of skillful hands.

We welcome every land and clime,
And island of the sea,
Come, join us in our joyous time,
Our glorious Jubilee.

One hundred circling years have rolled,
Into the misty past,
Since our forefathers, firm and bold,
Dared war's impending blast.

Not all Brittania's threatening host,
Could daunt the fearless braves;
Though honor, fame and life, were lost,
Sunk deep in traitors graves.

Hail! to each grand, immortal name,
That signed that matchless scroll,—
Let freemen loud resound their fame,
While time shall onward roll.

Oppression's cruel, galling yoke,
They longer spurned to bear,
But dared the peril of the stroke,
The tyrants bonds to tear.

We pledge our fortunes, honors, lives,
Our all, for Liberty,
Our homes, our little ones, our wives,
They must and shall be free.

The resolution, firm and grand,
High Heaven was pleased to hear,
And smiled on the heroic band,
Who dared to banish fear.

The brave, immortal Washington,
The wise, the just, the good,
Was sent to lead our armies on,
Through war's surging flood.

Through winter's cold and summer's heat,
For eight long, weary years,
Unchanged by victory or defeat,
They toiled, 'mid hopes and fears.

Not hardships on the battlefield
Nor blood, nor [illegible],
Could make the hardy veterans yield,
To Britain's base intent.

O'er dusty fields and frozen plains,
Unflinching still they trod;
While from their feet the crimson stains
Marked freedom's sacred sod.

They scorned the haughty tyrant's tread,
And kingly power defied,
For Liberty they fought and bled,
For Liberty they died.

All honor to the firm resolve,
And patriotic toil,
Which did the mighty problem solve,
Of who should claim our soil.

Oh, may the memory of their names,
And deeds of valor grand,
Keep burning Liberty's bright flames
O'er all our happy land.

May strife and variance nevermore
Distract our country's peace,
But harmony, from shore to shore,
Flow on and never cease.

And may the discords of the past,
With all their train of woes,
Into oblivion's deep, be cast,
And friends be made of foes.

May virtue's calm and heavenly voice
Our ruler's footsteps guide,
May wholesome laws our hearts rejoice,
And be our boast and pride.

May foul corruption's horrid stench,
From Congress halls be purged,
And men of honor fill the bench
Where legal claims are urged.

May Purity and Honor be
The watchword of our land,
And Vigilance and Liberty
Press onward, hand in hand.

Great God of nations, hear our prayer,
Still bless the land we love;
Watch o'er it with a father's care
From thy vast throne above.

And may our starry banner bright,
Unfurled upon the breeze,
Serve as a blessed beacon light,
To lands beyond the seas.

And may the future coming years,
Shine bright and brighter still,
Dispelling errors, doubts and fears,
Till heaven the earth shall fill.

And Hallelujah's, loud and long,
Resound on land and sea,
And glad redemption's happy song,
Proclaim EARTH'S JUBILEE.

STATISTICAL RECORD OF DEKALB COUNTY, IND.

The present issue of our paper is designed as a centennial issue in accordance with the request of a large number of journalists. The design seems to be to collect all the facts that can be readily gleaned, in regard to the early settlement, history and present condition or resources of the counties in which the papers are issued, intending a certain number of each to be so bound, filed and placed in some secure place of deposit for future reference—[illegible] of our National Independence.

Our space is limited and consequently will be only able to give statistics and statements, and such gleanings from previously written sketches as are at hand. We must however beg the indulgence of our readers in the fact that errors may creep in, but shall do the best we can to prevent them.

Official Directory of De Kalb Co.

CLERKS.

John F. Coburn	1837 to 1841
S. W. Sprott	1841 " 1851
J. P. Widney	1851 " 1855
S. W. Sprott	1855 " 1859
John Ralston	1859 " 1867
J. R. Lanning	1867 " 1875
G. H. K. Moss	1875 " ....

RECORDERS.

J. F. Coburn	1837 to 1841
S. W. Sprott	1841 " 1851
John McCune	1851 " 1855
W. Griswold	1855 " 1859
S. W. Widney	1859 " 1864
G. R. Hoffman	1864 " 1868
D. Z. Hoffman	1868 " 1876

AUDITORS.

S. W. Sprott	1841 to 1842
Aaron Hague	1842 " 1849
Miles Waterman	1849 " 1855
M. F. Pierce	1855 " 1860
A. J. Hunt	1860 " 1862
Geo. Kuhlman	1862 " 1866
W. W. Griswold	1866 " 1870
W. McIntyre	1870 " 1874
Isaac Hague	1874 " ....

TREASURERS.

Wesley Park	1837 to 1851
S. W. Ralston	1851 " 1853
J. E. Hendricks	1853 " 1855
E. W. Fosdick	1855 " 1857
Jacob Helwig	1857 " 1859
R. B. Catlin	1859 " 1861
Geo. Barney	1861 " 1865
L. J. Blair	1865 " 1867
F. D. Ryan	1867 " 1872
Nicholas Ensley	1872 " 1876

SHERIFFS.

Wesley Park	1837 to
T. J. Freeman	"
Jonathan Puffenbarger	"
S. W. Ralston	" 1850
W. K. Straight	1850 " 1854
Isaac Brandt	1854 " 1856
S. W. Ralston	1856 " 1860
J. N. Chamberlain	1860 " 1862
J. N. Miller	1862 " 1864
H. Willis	1864 " 1868
J. Plum	1868 " 1872
W. L. Meese	1872 " 1876

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Peter Fair, Samuel Widney, Isaac F. Aldrich, A. F. Beecher, Daniel Strong, Isaac B. Smith, Daniel Moody, Warren Spooner, John Helwig, Oliver D. Keep, Amzi Seeley (first Session, Sept. 1845). James M. Goetschius, (Sept. 1846). A. S. Casebeer, John V. Keeran, William Showers, Jacob Helwig, John C. Hursh, Solomon Delong, (1852). Jos. Walters, Jeremiah Hemstreet, Joel E. Thompson, A. Provines, (1859). David Buchanan, Henry Fusselman, John Brandon, J. M. Brumback, R. G. Daniels, Wm. Henderson, Wm. McIntyre, Daniel Gonser, Geo. Ensley, Wm. Richmond, Chas. R. Wannemaker, Nelson Griffith, George H. Duncan.

CIRCUIT JUDGES.

Hon. Chas. W. Ewing,
" John W. Wright,
" Jas. W. Borden,
" E. A. McMahon,
" J. L. Worden,
" R. J. Dawson,
" Robt. Lowry,
" H. S. Tousley,
" Jas. I. Best.

PROBATE JUDGES.

Hon. Lott Herrick,
" John C. Wade.

ASSOCIATE JUDGES.

Nelson Paine, Arial Walden, Robert Work, Samuel Widney, Thomas Yates, David Martin, Abraham Cope.

COMMON PLEAS JUDGES.

Hon. J. Morris	1852 to 1856
" E. B. Mott	1856 " 1860
" Wm. Clapp	1860 " 1879

The first term of the DeKalb Circuit met May 9th, 1838, at the house of Wesley Park. Hon. Charles W. Ewing, President Judge. Arial Walden and Thomas L. Yates, Associate Judges. John F. Coburn, Clerk; Wesley Park, Sheriff; Thomas Johnson, Prosecuting Attorney, and the following

GRAND JURORS.

John Rose	Daniel Rhodes,
William Miller	John Watson,
Ira Allen	Jacob Platter,
John Smith	Solomon Showers,
Collin Robertson	John Blair,
Nathan Wyatt,	James Stanley,

Samuel Eckright.

Cornelius Woodcox, Benjamin Alton, John Holton, Henry Miller and John Rhodes, not appearing the following bystanders were selected:

J. P. Widney, Levi Lockwood, Lot P. Coe, Jacob Miller and Jeremiah Rhodes, to fill the panel of eighteen members.

THE FIRST PANEL OF PETIT JURORS.

Wm. Monroe	Jesse Jackson,
J. P. Widney	F. A. Wilber,
Jeremiah Rhodes	Samuel Johnson,
Wm. Mathews,	Dudley Thorp,
Jas. Hadsell,	Ezra Dickinson,
J. J. Gunsenhouser,	Geo. H. Abel,
Henry Robertson,	Leonard Boice,
Elmer French,	Peter Draggoo,
Joseph Miller,	Jos. VanDolen,
Levi Lockwood,	Ste. W. Hackley
Jacob Miller,	Samuel Headley
Christopher Hall,	Henry Bricker.

The only business transacted after organizing the Court and empannelling the Grand jury, were, the ordering of persons indicted for grand larceny to give bail in the sum of $300, and for retailing liquor without license, $25.

Luther Keep was appointed County Commissioner in place of A. F. Beecher.

Anthony Max allowed one dollar for services as grand jury bailiff.

T. J. Freeman, Jos. Miller and Lanslot Ingman, were appointed School Examiners.

August 2d, 1838, seems to be the date of the commencement of the first suit. It was—Jacob Cormicke vs. Simon Aldrich, Isaac F. Aldrich, A. F. Beecher. Thos. Johnson, Reuben J. Dawson, attorneys for plaintiff.

The first session of the Board of Commissioners of this County, met July 28th, 1837, Peter Fair and Samuel Widney on the Board. Their first official act of record is appointing Wesley Park Clerk of their Board, and also as Treasurer. Byron Bunnell County Agent; Lanslot Ingman, Collector of taxes.

The first township was then formed, embracing the present townships of Franklin and Troy, called Franklin and No. One. Peter Boyer was appointed Inspector of Elections in that Township. Isaac F. Aldrich as Constable, and John Holten Supervisor for that township. They ordered an election in that township for the first Monday of August, 1837, to elect one Justice of the Peace.

The second session met Sept. 4th, 1837, A. F. Beecher acting also as a Commissioner, John F. Coburn as Clerk of the Board.

Union Township was then formed as it now is, but immediately thereafter Richland, Fairfield, Smithfield and Jackson were attached thereto, and Wesley Park was appointed Supervisor of the whole township, and the record says, "and all the hands residing within said township are allotted to said District" (No. One).

Wilmington township was then named with Byron Bunnell Supervisor. Also Butler township, with Andrew Surfus as Supervisor.

Joseph Miller was appointed County Surveyor.

The first tax for County purposes was then levied, to-wit: 35 cents on the 100 dollars and 75 cents on each poll.

The following are some of the allowances made at this session, and appear as here stated.

No. 1. Wesley Park, $50,84 for services as Sheriff; also $16,69 laying Fort Wayne & Coldwater Road, and $26,15 laying the Goshen & Defiance Road.

No. 2. Wesley McCan $2 96 as Axman.

No. 3. M. Van Fleet, $2.96 as Chainman.

No. 4. L. Ingman, 31½c as Chainman.

No. 5. Wm. Park, $5.03½ as Chainman.

No. 6. S. W. Murray, $7.28 as Road Viewers.

John Blair was allowed $36 for services as Assessor for that year.

The Commissioners received two dollars per day for their services.

The first declaration by a foreigner to become a citizen of the U. S. was filed by Roswill Curtis, native of Upper Canada, March 30th, 1839.

The first indictment found was against William W. Burley, for retailing liquor without license. It was dismissed.

James McCann was also indicted for grand larceny, which was non-prossed, May Term, 1841, after running on the docket for three years.

The first judgment in an action after trial was:

Robert L. Patterson and Jefferson Patterson, vs. James Ensley and Peter Fair, Nov. 6th, 1839, for $118.26.

The first complaint for divorce was filed Feb. 9th, 1842, by Sarah Williams vs. George W. Williams. Granted May 3d, 1842.

THE FIRST MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Francis Smith and Maria Gunsenhouser; issued Sept. 5th, 1837; married by W. Robinson, J. P., Sept. 7th, 1837. John Platter and Annie E. Walden; issued same date; same J. P, Sept. 10th, 1837. Dan Coats and Mary Allen; issued January 18th, 1837; same J. P., Feb. 1st, 1838. Walter Slaughter and Mary Ackley; issued Feb. 28th, 1838; same J. P., March 1st, 1838. William McClure and Eve Moody; issued March 5th, 1838; married by Judge Yates, March 15th, 1838. Aaron Veely and Eleanor Nelson; issued May 7th, 1838; married by W. Robinson, J. P., May 11th, 1838. The first license by the "Old Major" (Sprott) was issued November 17th, 1841. Benjamin Alton Jr. and Sally Coburn; married by Benjamin Alton minister, Nov. 21st, 1841. Up to this date about 4.200 marriage licenses have been issued in this county.

The first deed placed on record was Sept. 5th, 1837. By Bezabel Alvord to David Ogden, which was a deed for the "privelege of digging a canal and cutting a race for the passage of water for mill purposes" over certain lots in N. E. part of Auburn, acknowledged before Luther Newton, associate Judge in La Grange County.

The second was for Lot No. 78, O. P., Auburn, where Michael Long, Sen. now lives, by Wesley Park to John Drury, for $50. W. Robinson, J. P.

The third deed was by Orson Knight to Stinson Hoglan, of the N. E. quarter of 7, Butler township, for $420. It is now owned by William Embry.

The fourth deed was by Park to David Ogden, of Lots 95 and 96, where the McIntyre block and Thos. D. Gross' residence now is, for $200.

The sixth deed was made April 30th, 1837, by Park to "Samuel W. Ralston, of Richland County, Ohio," of the W. half S. W. quarter Sec. 31, Union township, now near Auburn Junction, and owned by Christian Bennet, 80.51 acres for $06.38, "lawful money of the United States," acknowledged May 27th, recorded Sept. 5th, 1837. Eleven deeds were recorded that day.

The first year there were recorded 94 instruments. Last year, 1875, just 1609.

The first mortgage recorded was by Daniel Comstock to James Crane, to secure $200 within one year, on Lots No. 87 and 88, which are now owned by the Littles, Ford and Patterson. It also mortgaged Comstock's interest in the following "bond": "July 31st, 1838, I "Kneeland Abbott doth agree to make "Daniel Comstock a good and Warrity "Deed for ten acres of land beginning "at the North East corner and thence "West to the center of the State road "running from Fort Wayne to Auburn.
"KNEELAND ABBOTT."

Mortgage dated and recorded Oct. 17th, 1875.

Can any one this side of Tophet tell where these ten acres are?

FIRST DELINQUENT TAX SALES.

The first tax sales were had January, 1844; one hundred and thirty-two pieces were sold for delinquent taxes. Among the purchasers we find the names of Park, A. O. Parsons, Nelson Payne, John Fee and three pieces by Sam'l W. Sprott. Our old friend and townsman Alonzo Lockwood, the largest land holder in the county, seems to have kept away from these sales until January, 1848, when he commenced "bucking the tiger" with such men as R. J. Dawson, Robert Work and J. C. Bowser.

The first execution was issued Nov. 11th, 1839, for $30,78 by Johnson and Dawson, vs. Jackson Prichard.

The first land sold by the Sheriff was on a foreclosure of a mortgage of Doremus, Suydam and Nixon vs. Jacob Clark, total judgment $1.914.26½, sold the N. E. quarter of Sec. 4, Wilmington. The North half S. W. quarter same Sec., and the South half N. W. quarter, Sec. 33, in Franklin township—all sold for $270,50.

RAIL ROADS.

	Miles of Track.	Value per Mile.
Baltimore, P. & C.	23.62	$ 8.000
D. Eel R. & Ill.	19,99	4.000
Ft. W. & Sag.	21,61	6.000
Gr. Rapids & Ind.	1,07	7.500
L. S. & M. S.	25,62	16.500

Total valuation for taxable purposes of all R. R. in Co. $957.335

Wilmington Township.

A playmate of our school days, who has resided in this county since 1835, has kindly furnished us with the following interesting matter:

BUTLER, Ind., Feb. 15th, 1876.

EDITOR COURIER:—In presenting to the reader a brief history or pioneer sketch of the early settlement of Wilmington township, it will be necessary to go back to 1835. At this time DeKalb county could only boast of ten families within her borders; of these ten families nine of them settled in Concord township and one in Franklin township. I will give their names and the year they came in.

Jno. Mathews, Wm. Mathews, George Mathews, John Helton, Lovell Yates and David Butler came in 1835. John and Wm. Mathews settled on the farm now owned by John W. Dills. Geo. Mathews settled close by; John Holton settled on Fish Creek in Franklin township; Lovell Yates lived on the River Flat close by the Spencerville Saw Mill below Spencerville on the Fort Wayne road, and is still living on the same farm. Mr. Butler and his wife are the only couple of old settlers of DeKalb county that are both living. Daniel Rhodes settled on the farm that his son Milas and widow now lives, one and one half miles up the river from Spencerville. Daniel Brant owned the farm across the river from Spencerville, what used to be called the Horse Shoe Bend. Mr. Brant was the man who rescued a Mr. Osburn who had got lost and froze his legs, which were afterward amputated. Mr. Osburn lived near Hicksville, Ohio. Asa Lytle lived on the farm now owned by James Hamilton below Orangeville. John Blair owned and lived on the farm now owned by the B. & O. R. R. Co. at St. Joe Station.

David Butler is the oldest male resident now living in DeKalb county, and Aunt Priscilla Mathews is the oldest female resident in the county. She is the widow of John Mathews and is the mother of the first white child born in the county. Henrietta Mathews was the first child born. Old Mr. Sanders was the first death and John Platter and Emaline Walden was the first couple married in DeKalb county.

In 1835 no white man had yet invaded the soil of Wilmington township. The following year the first log cabin was erected by Byron Bunnell; Mr. Lonsberry's house was next, and I think Geo. Egnew's was next. The following year the county was organized and township lines were established; these three log cabins fell inside of the borders of this township. Two of these cabins were located on what is now called the Newville and Auburn road, and was called at an early day the Bunnell place, now owned by Rudolph Zigler. The Lonsberry place joined it on the north. In the early part of 1837 several families moved into the township, among them was Ira Allen, father of A. W. Allen and Mrs. Wm. Richmond, Lot H. Coe, Wm. P. Means, Chas. Handy, Dr. Sawyer and several others that I might mention. By this time the newcomers began to feel pretty good; they were getting neighbors within two or three miles of each other and could hear their dogs bark, as well as hear the wolves howl every night. The sturdy yeomen battled their way through thick and thin to get a living for their families, and had to endure all the privations of a frontier life. Chas. Handy was the first blacksmith in the township, and settled at what is now called Handy's Corners and rendered the settlers much service in making shoes and shoeing a horse all round for fifty cents. Think of this blacksmiths of the present day, and weep.

Amos Lonsberry was the first white child born in the township, and Andrew Boyd now is the oldest man in the township, about 88 years; George Egnew is the oldest resident. The closing up of this year found twenty-two families within her borders.

After the county was organized and the township lines were established, the next thing on the carpet was an election for the first time in the county; and as carpets were scarce in those days we substituted white ash puncheons. The first election was held at Ira Allen's, on the farm now owned by Wm. Crooks. As our township was in limited circumstances as to population, and most of them had the ague and it took two of them to make a shadow and could not go to the polls, we had to apply to Stafford township to help us fill up the board, and both townships held their elections together at the above place and elected the several officers; among them were Wm. P. Means for County Assessor, and Mr. Lonsberry for School Commissioner. I don't recollect the balance of the officers that were elected in those days; we had not much use for Squires or Constables, but I think Arial Walden was elected Associate Judge of the Court of this county. The first Justice of the Peace elected in this township was a Mr. Pearsons; Constables were not needed. There was nothing to quarrel about and nobody to quarrel with; everything moved off nicely and all were as happy as clams. Year by year emigration came pouring in until we soon became a populous township, second in population to any township in the county, Concord being the first settled and largest population of any township in the county up to 1842. Every year the resources of our township kept expanding, School Districts were formed and neighborhoods would congregate at some neighbor's log cabin for the worship of God. Log School houses were reared, and the first school house built in the township was on Geo. Egnew's land, near where John A. Moore's blacksmith shop now stands in the town of Butler. The first sermon was preached in this township by Elder Cherry. The Elder is still living.

This carried us on up, and in 1856 Wilmington township struck oil. The Air Line R. R. had become a fixed fact. The little trading point of Butler, then called Norristown, for short, began to prick up its ears. Several stores and shops of different kinds [illegible] and filled with goods and material, and building went on rapidly. The R. R. being completed, this opened up an outlet for our surplus. This brought in grain and produce buyers, and our farmers then had a market for their produce, that Ft. Wayne, never from that day to this has been able to compete with us on prices. This oil well continued to flow and the farmers began trimming up their farms, building frame houses and barns, ditching their farms and a general system of improvements were going on throughout the township. Year after year our R. R. facilities furnished a market for staves and lumber, and in fact everything that the township could produce, would find ready sale at hand. This prosperous state of affairs infused new energy into the people, and in 1860 found our township with over 14,000 acres of tillable land, with saw and grist mills and machineries of all kinds for tilling the soil. While these improvements and developements were going on throughout the township, Butler its trading point, was not idle. But was rapidly filling up with stores, shops and dwelling houses and goods of all kinds were being shipped in to supply her territory, paying high prices for produce and selling goods reasonable. We soon got a reputation abroad for being the best trading point in the county, and everything necessary to a prosperous future was visible. During the great American Rebellion Wilmington township was one among the first to respond to the call for three months men, and every call that was made by the government, till the war closed, her quota was promptly filled and never suffered herself to stand a draft, in defense of their country's wrongs. Many of them left their peaceful hearths, never to return again. Sanitary stores were sent to the army. Fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers were engaged in relieving the sufferings of their soldiers.

Time rolled on. The difficulty between the two sections of the country, had been adjusted, our soldiers returned home and returned to their different occupations. During this time the farming interests had been employed to its utmost capacity the overplus of grain and produce of all kinds had accumulated in the township. Plenty to eat and wear, money plenty, good health and stock of all kinds to spare, and horses trotting at the rate of 2:20.

When 1870 dawned, it found our farmers healthy, happy and proud, with scarcely a log cabin to be seen, but in their stead, nice farm houses and barns, school houses at every cross roads, of frame and brick, fine horses and carriages and in fact everything necessary for their comfort, and luxuries was at their hand. Soon after this the Eel R. R. R. came through our township, making its eastern terminus within its borders. This necessarily opened up new avenues for trade of all kinds, this made the facilities of our township second to none in the county. Carrying the township along from the first settlement when no white man had invaded her soil up to the present time, and its grandure of the present day a period of 40 years. Such progress and developments in so short a space of time, has never been equaled in any civilized world. I will now leave the township and turn my attention to the town of Butler.

Within her borders is being the only trading point in the township, except Mooresville, and give the reader a faint idea of its struggles for liberty, and national greatness, by going back a period of 25 years. In 1851 a small trading point was established on the south-west corner on Charles Norris' land, owned by Ladd Thomas and Osburn Coburn. The town assumed the name of Norristown, at this juncture Simon Steifel was plodding his way through the country with a little poke of goods on his back seeing who he might devour. Still kept flinging out as you know Jews will, and is now one of the wealthiest merchants in De Kalb county. On the completion of the Air Line R. R. several places of business were started. Henry Nodine, Geo. Noble, Steifel & Wolf, A. A. Kennedy, Chas. Norris, J. R. Lanning, Smith & Seeley, and several others that I might mention were all engaged in trade by this time. A. A. Kinnedy had erected a large Hotel, now designated as the Waverly House, and dedicated it on the 4th of July, 1857, the R. R. Co. gave an excursion ride to Toledo and return the same day.

This being the Junction of the Eel R. & Air Line R. R. we got the names of Junction, Jarvis, Junction Mud, Norristown, Packer Town, Hen Peck and in fact everything that they could think of was not too bad to call us. But nothing could be brought to bear to check our progress. Business kept looming up of different kinds, John A. Moore, was the first blacksmith. The first Post-Office established in this township was called Oak Hill, 2 miles South of Butler and Fosdick, the father of E. W. Fosdick Post Master.

Years rolled on and our town kept filling up and as fast as the developments of our township required it, new additions were made to the town to supply their wants. Business kept increasing from year to year, and 1876 finds us with two lines of Railway, four Hotels, one Printing Office, Steam Elevators, Passenger and Round Houses, with a capacity of employing sixty-four men, three Churches, one large three story brick School House, Shops of all kinds with ample capacity to meet the wants of the public, thirty-two stores and business houses, and a population of 1,500 inhabitants, and every element necessary to a prosperous future.

Waterloo, Indiana.

is situated at the crossing of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and Fort Wayne, Jackson Saginaw Railways. It has a population of fully 1,650; contains six church buildings, and eight religious denominations holding regular services; two school houses, one of them the finest buildings of the kind in the county, maintains five Sabbath Schools; two benevolent orders, Odd Fellows and Masons, besides encouraging many other public enterprises.

MANUFACTURERS.—J. A. Matson, wagons and carriages; Haines Bros & Co., candies and confectionery, and wholesale dealers in tobacco and cigars; Lockhart & Knott and Crane, Duncan & Co., plaining mills and sash and blinds; Lockhart Bros & Co. Land Rollers; E. Y. Williamson, fanning mills; Herman Froehlich, marble works; Sarah Williams, furniture; J. P. McCague, successor to James Bowman, saw mill and staves, Jonathan Spencer, flouring mills; Wm. Spreigel, brewery; George Shoner, tannery; C. K. Baxter, newspaper and job printing; J. Beck & Son, bakery; Orris Danks, S. P. Stroh, P. Monsovan, D. Till & Son, boots and shoes; Wm. Wallace, R. Reiners, harness; L. Henky, M. Zerwes, blacksmiths.

TRADERS, etc.—Jacob Kahn, O. T. Clark, Patterson Bros & Co., Peter Fisner, J. & J. A. Shull, Hiram Leib, James Johnson, A. C. Jackman, dry goods, clothing, etc.; Willis & Co., wholesale and retail books, stationery, notions; W. H. Husselman, B. B. Long & Son, Royal Fisk, O. L. Hall; Frank Chandler, G. W. Miller, Till & Hoffman, M. Greuter, grocers; O. T. Clark, Sinclair & Co., Till & Son, hardware; Dr. Winslow, Boyer, & Cambell, Bevier & Stough, druggists; Denison & Sayler, tobacco, cigars and confectionery; Basset & Matson, clocks, watches and jewelry; O. J. Locke, J. H. Clifford, restaurants; Paul Clifford, billiards; Maggie Bateson, Mrs. Yant, Mrs. A. C. Jackman, milliners.

James I. Best, C. A. O. McClellan, O. T. Clark, DeKalb Bank, Jacob Kahn, W. C. Langan, Joseph Boyer, John Leas, Artemon Corbet, Citizens Bank.

Attorneys at Law and Insurance, and Collecting Agents—T. R. Dickinson, McBride & Morlan, C. A. O. McClellan, D. Y. Husselman, C. M. Phillips, W. H. Leas, John Bull.

Practicing Physicians.—Solomon Stough, J. N. Chamberlain, A. R. Darby, A. S. Farrington. Dentist—S. B. Johnson.

B. B. Long & Co., A. S. Leas, Livery Stables.

Hotels.—Lent's Hotel, R. J. Lent; Bigler House, John Bigler.

The shipment of produce has always been a leading item of the business of the town. Leas Brothers & Boyer are very extensive live stock dealers. The town has a large number of capable and industrious mechanics, most of whom have homes of their own in the place.

The town is located on the banks of Cedar creek, which affords excellent drainage, and it is rarely troubled with muddy streets.

A POET'S CONSTANCY.

A MADRIGAL: BY JOHN G. SAXE

O praise is ever sweet to hear,
 In simple candor I confess it;
And thus I own, [illegible] dear
 When loving lips [illegible] express it.

And yet, when calmly I reflect
 How much is due to Cupid's blindness,
Forgive me, dear, if I suspect
 Your praises only prove your kindness.

Whatever virtues I may boast
 (And slight indeed is my profession),
The one you praise and prize the most [illegible] my possession.

You tell me, sweet! you love—revere
 A mind so steady and unswerving;
But never Poet yet, I fear,
 Of such applause was quite deserving.

The Poet's constancy, at best,
 Is like the Bee's—[illegible] rover!
Still constant to her honey-quest,
 Though found in lily, rose, or clover.

And do I thus my faith impeach?
 At one stroke to Love's question?
A moment's pause—I beseech—
 And you shall hear the explanation:

Suppose the [illegible] prone to stray,
 As Fancy bids, from bower to bower—
Should chance to find, some lucky day,
 A wondrous honey-bearing flower;

Which—though she sipped and came again
 As often as the day was sunny—
Quite unexhausted should remain,
 An ever-flowing fount of honey.

Such praise as she might fitly claim,
 If ne'er again she proved a rover,
So much (the cases are the same)
 Is due your fond and faithful lover!

JESSIE'S TEST.

Miss Jerusha Jenkinson folded her napkin with slow, precise carefulness, and then followed her pretty little hostess from the dining-room back to the parlor, where the soft astral lamp glowed like a silver moon, and the illuminated stove made red shadows on the brown rep easy chair in which Miss Jenkinson ensconced herself.

"I really don't know what to do about it, Miss Jerusha. If I once thought Rich was guilty of such indiscretions as you declare he is, I do believe I should—die!"

Jessie Wintringham winked away a suspicious brightness from her pretty curling brown lashes, and looked eagerly at her guest's sarcastic countenance.

"I dare say there are a great many people who would say I was very officious, my dear, because I tell you what I think of that good-looking husband of yours. But I feel I have your interest at heart; and if no one else has the courage and charity to point out to a young wife of half a year the goings-on of her husband—why, my dear Mrs. Wintringham, I'll stand by you and take your part."

Her solemn words made little shivers of vague terror thrill all over Jessie.

"I dare say you are very kind indeed, Miss Jerusha, only I can't believe that Rich is such a flirt as you say—always paying such exclusive attention to ladies when he is away from home."

"You must think just what you please, my dear. Only I suppose if you were to see for yourself, you would believe the evidence of your own eyes!"

Jessie's slightly-flushed cheeks betrayed the painful interest she felt.

"Of course, if I were to see—"

Miss Jerusha arose triumphantly.

"Than all you have to do is to take my advice, and the next time Mr. Wintringham has such very important business to New York, do you go by the same train, with your waterproof and a thick veil to disguise you. I must go now, I think, my dear. I'll have to stop at poor Mrs. Delacorn's, and hear if she has heard from that runaway daughter of hers. Thanks for the early cup of tea you made so nicely—and don't forget what I told you, Mrs. Wintringham."

And the abominable old gossip went her way, leaving the arrows of the distrust she had sown rankling painfully in poor, loving, jealous Jessie's heart.

She perfectly adored her handsome young husband; and as always such passionate affection is accompanied by jealousy, this otherwise sensible little woman found it no difficult matter to entertain the doubt her guest expressed.

Rich was so handsome, so stylish, so gallant—why should not ladies enjoy his attentions! And, sitting by the cosy fire, waiting until her husband should come in for his dinner, Jessie almost decided to play the spy upon him at the earliest moment.

Then, when she heard his latch-key in the door, and his quick, firm tread in the hall, and saw his handsome, cheerful face, as he took her cheeks in his hands to kiss her, she felt ashamed and confused.

"I am afraid I shall have to hurry you, dear," he said, linking her arm through his, and leading the way to the dining-room, where the bright light made a genial glow on silver, crystal, and snow-white china.

"Hurry me, Rich—how?"

"I have to take the 7:30 train, very unexpectedly, for the city, on important business that cannot be delayed. I shall be at home to-morrow night, I expect. Jessie, will you have another piece of the black meat?"

Mrs. Wintringham toyed with her chicken, her appetite entirely destroyed by the news Rich announced.

"On important business." Yes, that was what Miss Jenkinson had said. And the night train, too! It flashed hotly across Jessie's mind that her husband was going down to the theater, and, if what Miss Jerusha had said was true, not alone.

That second decided her; and, as Mr. Wintringham arose from the dining-table, he little knew the thoughts that were thronging in his pretty little wife's head.

"Don't be lonesome, darling, will you? or shall I stop and tell Florrie to come up to-night?"

Jessie laughed—a little forcedly.

"You over-anxious fellow! What do I want of sister Florrie? I shall not be lonely at all."

"Brave little woman! kiss me good-night, then, dear."

He was so kind and thoughtful; and Jessie's fond, foolish heart almost misgave her as she watched him off.

"It is downright wicked to distrust him; but, then, it is just these elegant, fascinating men who are so agreeable to other women besides their wives—at least Miss Jerusha says so, and she's old enough to know."

She watched the ivory hands of the cuckoo clock hastening toward 7:30.

"Well, I shall do it—this once, anyhow."

And she went up to her room, with sparkling eyes and glowing cheeks.

"Is this seat engaged, sir?"

It was a low, sweet voice that addressed Mr. Richmond Wintringham, as the seven-thirty train steamed on, after calling at the last station before reaching the Jersey City terminus.

Mr. Wintringham arose courteously, glanced at the small graceful figure in navy-blue waterproof and double veil.

"Take the seat by the window, madam."

She glided in, and Mr. Wintringham sat down beside her, all unconscious of the sidelong glance from a pair of eager eyes under the veil.

"How handsome he is! and he hasn't the least idea who I am."

For of course it was Jessie who had taken the train at the same station with Rich, but had waited until the last station had been reached before she changed her seat in the car for the one she now occupied.

"I wonder if he does know me? Of course he doesn't, only he don't seem very eager to say anything to me." Then a little fragrantly perfumed handkerchief fluttered accidentally (?) to the floor.

Jessie made a deceitful little dive after it, displaying her daintily-kidded hand and round, neatly-cuffed wrist.

Rich quickly anticipated her, and handed the handkerchief quietly to her.

"Allow me, madam."

"O, thank you! I am sorry to trouble you so much. I was very awkward."

Jessie's cheeks were blushing furiously under her double dark brown veil.

"I will give him a chance, anyhow," she thought.

But Mr. Wintringham only bowed gravely, and maintained a courteous silence.

The train slowed up, and Jessie, with persistent determination to draw him into conversation, made a faint alarm that amused herself as she peered out of the window, then at her seat-mate.

"What are we stopping for? This isn't a station—O-o! is anything the matter?"

Rich smiled—this little woman was such an odd one.

"There is no need of apprehension, madame. We are entering the tunnel."

"The tunnel! O, dear, the tunnel!"

But Rich didn't "take" at all. He only settled cosily back and slouched his seal-skin hat on his forehead, leaving his companion to fight the imaginary terrors of the tunnel as best she might.

The train had come to its final stand-still at the depot, and just as Wintringham arose to leave the car, he felt a timid touch of fingers on his coat-sleeve.

"Please pardon me—bu—but—there is ferry-boat to cross in—isn't there? and if you would be so kind as to tell me which way it is to the St. Julian Hotel?"

Rich buttoned up his overcoat deliberately while she spoke.

"The 'St. Julian?' I am going there myself, madam. If you are unaccompanied, I will see you there. This way, please."

At last! Jessie's cheeks were as hot as fire now, and her eyes bright as stars as she walked through the long depot and ferry-house beside her husband. In the ladies' cabin Rich gave her a seat, then left her to join a group of gentlemen who were conversing near the door, and at the New York dock he escorted her to a St. Julian transfer coach, much as if she had been a child in his charge, whom he was bound to do his duty by, and yet considered somewhat of a nuisance. As it happened, the coach had other passengers, so that the hot color had time to die from out Jessie's face, although she mentally regarded him "a darling, provoking fellow!"

"If you please, sir, an answer is wanted."

One of the waiters at the St. Julian handed a tiny notelet to Mr. Wintringham just after that gentleman had inspected the arrangements of his room, and was settled down for a half-hour's examination of sundry papers in his memorandum book.

"An answer!—a letter for me! O, yes, from Ned Hathaway, about the shares—"

His eyes opened widely as he carelessly tore it open, to find, not a business communication from Ned Hathaway, but a dainty little note, in a graceful, flowing back hand:

"To the Gentleman in the Seal-skin Cap:—You have made me desire very much to see you again. Is there not time to attend the theater?
"YOUR LADY ADMIRER."

Rich drew a long breath of surprise.

"So that's the little game, is it?"

Then he rapidly wrote an an answer and dispatched it by the man, who grinned knowingly as he received a twenty-five cent stamp from Jessie's trembling fingers.

"Now, then, I've caught him this time. Suppose he consents—"

The ebbing color on her cheeks, the quivering of her pretty mouth, was ample evidence of the state of her feelings; and she opened the sealed envelope as one does a telegram—trying to assure one's self nothing is amiss, and yet feeling it necessary to be prepared for the worst:

"Permit the gentleman in the seal-skin cap' to offer a word of counsel to the 'lady admirer', that, in future, she learns to distinguish between a gentleman and a scamp; and, when she returns home, which had better be at once, she confess her imprudence to her mother."

Jessie gave a little cry of delight.

"Rich, my own true Rich!"

The dinner-table was in readiness, deliciously suggestive odors of turtle-soup and egg-plant came from the regions where Jessie Wintringham's incomparable cook reigned supreme; and in the lace and damask draped bay-window Mrs. Wintringham waited for her husband's coming home, with her sweet face all sunny welcome, that made him feel what a bonny darling she was as he kissed her before even he removed his seal skin cap.

"And how have you got along, Jessie? Were you lonely last night?"

She blushed a little as she helped him off with his overcoat.

"No, not at all. Indeed, I've had an unusually fine time."

"That's good. Had any company?"

"Yes. Flo and her lover were here to lunch this noon. Rich, I think Mr. Addison is just perfectly splendid."

He frowned in pretended horror.

"You think Flo's beau perfectly splendid! Very well, Mrs. Wintringham; if you wish me to be jealous."

"If that makes you jealous, what will you say when I tell you I have had a letter from a gentleman since you've been gone—a handsomer man than even Mr. Addison?"

Jessie watched him closely, her eyes beginning to hint of not far-distant tears.

"You did! I dare say I can see it?"

He was smiling, very little as a distrustful husband would do.

Jessie slipped a half-sheet of paper from her pocket and gave it to him, her lip half trembling, yet half smiling. He opened it carelessly, then looked at her [illegible].

"Why, what on earth, Jessie? Why, I wrote this letter."

"Yes, I know you did—O, Rich!"

She was almost crying now, and her husband was looking so gravely at her. She pointed to a navy-blue waterproof and brown veil lying across a chair.

"It was I, Rich. I knew it was awfully wicked, but—but I wanted to know if it was true, you know, and——"

Mr. Wintringham knit his brows, frowningly. "I am not sure I understand yet. Jessie, did you send me that letter last night? Were you 'my lady admirer' on the train and at the St. Julian?"

She laid her hands on his shoulder, and looked in his eyes penitently.

"Don't scold, Rich. It was I, and my little escapade has made me very happy, for all I know I was very cruel to do such a thing. You may punish me in any way you please, Rich."

She said it meekly, but with such love and pride in her eyes that he would have been less than Rich Wintringham to have censured her. So he drew her head down to his breast and kissed her, while she promised never be so foolish again.

Justly Punished.

The other night, at a late hour, a horse-car started from the new postoffice to run up-town through one of the east side avenues. The man who starts the cars—that is the fellow located downtown, who with a little whistle signals [illegible] particular car to go home. In the car were a young friend of mine, an aged gentleman, and a little ragged newsboy with a few papers in his hand. The burly starter no sooner saw the gamin than he seized him by the collar and threw him out of the door with such force that the little chap fell heavily against the railing, and began to cry bitterly. At this the aged gentleman rose and said:

"That was a very mean thing for you to do."

The starter brutally said: "I guess I can attend to my own business without your troubling yourself."

The old man replied rather severely:

"But it was the act of a coward, sir."

"I'll coward you," said the bully whereupon the old gentleman said, "Go in." Here my young friend rose, and began to put in a word; but the old man bowed and said, "I'm very much obliged to you, sir; but I am arguing this case, if you please."

At this he slapped the starter over the cheek so that the blow sounded like a torpedo exploding. The starter was about to square off when the old laddie let him have a stinger on the other cheek. The brute now began to back toward the door, the old man following him up and dealing slap after slap over eyes and ears. When the starter got outside he cried out to the old man, who had quietly sat down:

"Come out here and I'll give you a chance."

The old man calmly said, "You big bully, if I should come out there you wouldn't have teeth enough to eat your supper with. I'd knock 'em down your infernal throat. So don't say any more."

The starter got off and took another car. Then the old man turned to my friend and said:

"I'm very much obliged to you, sir, for your offer of assistance; but I didn't need it, sir; really didn't need it. You see, (here he cast his eyes down, as if his clean, patriarchical appearance might belie him), I was once just a leetle rough myself—just a mite rough, you know. I could put up the dukes in my day, I confess. I was rough, rough—but sir, I never hit a child in my life. No, sir, nor allowed anybody else to hit a child in my presence.—New York Letter.

Two Notable Weddings.

"I desire to state that my colleague is paired," said Mr. Ferry, President pro tem. of the Senate, the other day, when the name of Mr. Christiancy, of Michigan, was called. There was a twinkle in his eye when he said it, and the remark provoked a general laughter. Senator Christiancy was married the same morning to Miss Lillie Lugerbeel, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Treasury Department. The ceremony was quietly performed by Rev. Dr. Sunderland in the presence of a few friends at No. 310 Indiana avenue, Washington. Senator Ferry officiated as groomsman. The bridegroom is 64 years old, and is the father of six children. He lost his wife nine months ago. The bride is a pretty blonde only 20 years old. The happy couple went to New York to pass a portion of the honeymoon.

James Parton, the author, has innocently broken the law of Massachusetts by marrying his step-daughter in Newburyport, Mass. The morning after the wedding he learned that what he had done was contrary to the statute, and, leaving his home in charge of his bride, took separate lodgings himself until such time as he can induce the Legislature to pass a special act sanctioning the marriage. The affair has created quite a sensation in Newburyport. Miss Eldridge, the young lady who has thus become Mrs. Parton is the daughter of "Fanny Fern." Her sister married the late Mortimer Thompson, who became famous under the nom de plume of "Doesticks" many years ago. Mr. Thompson was twice married, and his wives both died in child-birth. Both children, a boy and a girl, survive. The former is with the mother of Mr. Thompson, and the girl, ever since its mother's death, has been cared for in the household of Mr. Parton. Since the death of her mother, Miss Eldridge has superintended affairs in the home of her step-father, whom she has just married.

Clapping Washington on the Back.

After the Revolutionary war, Washington and many of the army officers, then living in New York, met frequently at dinner at each other's houses. My grandfather, Dr. John Cochrane, (Surgeon and Director General of the military hospital of the army), attending at one of these had directed his son, my uncle, then a lad, to come in the evening and escort him home.

As the son of the doctor he was admitted to the dining-room, where, in the midst of their hilarity, he saw Gouverneur Morris, who was talking, turn suddenly toward Washington, next to whom he was seated, and clapping him on the back, heard him cry out, "Wasn't it so, my old boy?"

Washington, my uncle said, sat unmoved, and a death-like silence fell upon the whole company, which soon after quietly broke up.

It was understood that the scene was occasioned by a wager that a liberty could be taken with Washington.—John Cochrane, in New York Sun.

Religious Insanity.

A farm laborer at Wilbraham, Mass., crazed by religious excitement, closed a letter to his friends, on Saturday week, by saying that it was the last time he would ever write to them, as his right hand and right foot had offended, and he was going to cut them off and cast them from him, as the Scriptures direct. He then sharpened his jack-knife, took a saw, walked about a mile and a half from the house to the top of the mountain, and commenced operation on his right leg. He cut through the flesh just above the ankle joint, severing the cord, barely missing the main artery, and then began to ply the saw, but desisted after getting into the bone a little way, because, as he says, the saw was dull. He then walked back to the house, leaving a bloody trail behind him. He told the doctor who dressed the wound that he couldn't have been in his right mind, and the loss of superfluous blood had fully restored his reason.

THE ROAD TO RUIN.

What shall We Do With Our Boys.

The New York World has been collating the statistics of crimes committed by boys within the last three or four months, and the story is frightful. There are Jessie Pomeroy and the Blanchard boy to begin with. Two Kentucky cousins aged 11 and 12 espoused their fathers' quarrels, and last December one of them stabbed the other with his jack-knife in the ribs, killing him. A boy named Sheridan, in San Francisco, having graduated from the Industrial School, where he was sent at the age of 11 for larceny and burglary, stabbed and killed a playmate in less than four months after he came out. "Goody" Smith, aged 17, in Missouri, a week or two since, first threatened that he'd knock the d—d head off of his [illegible] stabbed her twice with a gimlet, probably causing her death. Jesse Glass, in Texas, aged 16, a few weeks since shot a man dead from behind a fence, who had killed his father three years before. Frank Ruttan, aged 17, in New York State, last month, after trying to smash the skull of a little girl with a tack-hammer, choked her to death. For some days she was supposed to have died from accident. Johnny Brady, a San Francisco boy of 11, went around the Chinese quarter burning the necks of Chinese women with his cigar. He was finally arrested and a pistol, pack of cards and a plug of tobacco found on him. Peter Jones, a colored boy of 13, in Brooklyn, offered his companions three cents for his share of a duck they had jointly stolen. When his companions refused to give him back the change out of a nickel Peter cut his friend's arm with a razor. Sammy Cole, Illinois, aged 15, is now in prison for stealing a horse. A Brooklyn boy, aged 17, named Marshall, has been convicted of a series of burglaries netting him $2,500 in cash. A boy aged 6 years was found drunk in London last month. He had driven his father and mother from home and his grandmother could do nothing with him. An Ohio boy being weaned went into a decline and suffered from an excess of saliva, which was relieved by puffing at his father's cigars, on which he grew fat. But he reached ten or twelve a day and lost his health again. Being now 6 years old he consumes three or four per day, and is healthy and growing. Another Ohio boy, aged 16, shot his brother's head off as he lay in bed, while showing him "how to shoot on the wing." A Missouri boy, aged 13, took his pistol to school and amused himself by snapping it at the scholars. In the afternoon he succeeded in lodging a ball in the head of a little girl which ended her life. The "boy was severely trounced for his folly, by his parents, who deeply regret the occurrence," says the local paper. A boy aged 6, in Pennsylvania, took his brother's pistol and "playfully snapped" it at a boy aged 9 years, who was visiting him. The bullet entered the boy's brain.

These cases are all represented to be authentic, names, dates, and places being given. And we have no doubt they are. Indeed it is difficult to take up a paper without seeing some story of juvenile wickedness, recklessness of life or malicious killing, precocious bad habits or wanton sport, ending in a deplorable casualty on the part of boys ranging from 6 to 16 years of age. The doctrine of personal liberty has been carried to such illogical extremes that the retraint of children's tempers, caprices, and passions is looked upon as a violation of the Declaration of Independence.

The Bankrupt Act.

The most important business transacted by the House during the week, says a Washington dispatch, was the passage of the bill introduced by Mr. Willis, of New York, immediately after the holiday recess, to repeal the Bankruptcy act. Numerous petitions from all parts of the country have been received by Congress this session asking for this legislation, and the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom the bill was referred, agreed to report it. When the Committee was called in the House it was reported and passed with very little debate on the merits of the bill.

The act simply provides for the immediate repeal of the Bankruptcy law of 1867 and all amendatory or supplementary acts, and directs that all suits and proceedings now pending in the courts of the United States, where an adjudication in bankruptcy has been made, shall be proceeded with and governed by the provisions of existing laws, which are continued in force only for the purpose of closing up the suits and proceedings now pending. In all other cases, it is proposed that the act shall go into effect on the 1st of January, 1877.

The petitions for the repeal of this act referred to come principally from creditors, and the effect of the law of 1867 seems to be different from that of 1841, which two years later was repealed. This was found in its operation to be worse for debtors than for creditors. Forty years ago the man who availed himself of the privileges of the Bankruptcy act was unable to obtain further credit, and this had such a depressing effect upon business as to call forth a general demand for its repeal.

The Confederate Flag.

The Shreveport (La.) Times says: "During our civil war the several seceded States used their several State flags. In March, 1861, the Confederate Congress adopted the so-called 'stars and bars,' composed of three horizontal bars of equal width, the middle one white, with a blue union containing nine white stars arranged in a circle. The resemblance of this to the 'Stars and Stripes,' led to confusion and mistakes in the field; and in September, 1861, a battle flag was adopted, a red field charged with a blue saltier, with a narrow border of white, on which were displayed thirteen white stars. In 1863 the 'Stars and Bars' were supplanted by a flag with a white field, having the battle flag for a union. The flag of 1863 was found deficient in service, it being liable to be taken for a flag of truce; and on February 4, 1865, the outer half of the field beyond the union was covered with a vertical red bar. This was the last flag of the Confederacy."

A Magician's Trick.

A fresh story about Robert Houdin, the sleight-of-hand performer, is told in a new London book. He once entertained with his tricks a company of Arabs, in Algeria. After a feat with a gun, an old Arab asked the privilege of a shot with his own pistol. Houdin consented, but deferred the trial until the next day. In the interim he made two balls of wax and lampblack. One of these he made hollow, and filled it with blood. At the performance he allowed the Arab to choose a lead bullet from a saucer full, but in loading the pistol contrived to use the solid wax counterfeit. Of course the trickster was not injured by the firing. "Bah!" he said, "you have been unable to draw blood from me with a bullet, but I will draw blood from yonder wall." He loaded the pistol again, using the other prepared ball, and the stain of blood that it left on the wall astonished the Arabs.

Some Things That Were Not 100 Years Ago.

One hundred years ago wedding tours were not fashionable.

One hundred years ago the gin best known was not the cotton gin.

One hundred years ago there were no Pacific Railroad subsidies.

One hundred years ago farmers did not cut their legs off with mowing machines.

One hundred years ago our mothers did not worry over disordered sewing machines.

One hundred years ago horses which could trot a mile in 2:14 were somewhat scarce.

One hundred years ago there was no fast mail train between New York and Chicago.

One hundred years ago there were no disputes about the impoliteness of street-car drivers.

One hundred years ago people did not enjoy the inestimable pleasure of growling about gas bills.

One hundred years ago "crooked" whisky was not known. Our forefathers took theirs straight.

One hundred years ago university boat clubs were not entered at pool sales like fighting cocks in a pit.

One hundred years ago every young man was not an applicant for a position as clerk or book-keeper.

One hundred years ago false teeth were not considered much preferable to the original grinders.

One hundred years ago time and tide waited for nobody, and now nobody waits for either time or tide.

One hundred years ago kerosene lamps did not explode and assist women to shuffle off their mortal coil.

One hundred years ago men did not commit suicide by going up in balloons and coming down without them.

One hundred years ago there was no steam on canals—even the driver on the tow path didn't steam up in those days.

One hundred years ago there were no Turkish harems at Salt Lake, and no Ann Elizas suing for the nineteenth part of a divorce.

One hundred years ago England was not very far behind the United States in all that goes to make a nation powerful and progressive.

One hundred years ago a young woman did not lose caste by wetting her hands in dish-water or rubbing the skin off her knuckles on a wash-board.

One hundred years ago the physician who could not draw every form of disease from the system by tapping a large vein in the arm, was not much of a doctor.

One hundred years ago the producer carried his surplus products to market on his horse, the products being placed in one end of the bag and the jug in the other end.

One hundred years ago our fathers did not light their pipes with matches, but carried fire in their pockets in the shape of a piece of punk, a piece of steel and a flint.

One hundred years ago a public officer or other citizen could not steal enough to make the act respectable and insure the actor a prominent position in the "first circles."

One hundred years ago the condition of the weather on the 1st day of January was not telegraphed all over the continent on the evening of Dec. 31. Things have changed.

One hundred years ago people did not worry about rapid transit and cheap transportation, but threw their grain across the backs of their horses and uncomplainingly "went to mill."

One hundred years ago every man cut his coat according to his cloth—every man was estimated at his real value—shoddy was not known—nobody had struck "ile"—and true merit and honest worth were the only grounds for promotion.

One hundred years ago, to tell the truth, people generally died from natural causes, while in our day they step out through steamboat explosions, railroad smash-ups, hurricanes, earthquakes, circular saws, and in a thousand other ways discovered since the birth of the oldest inhabitant.—Toledo Blade.

Our Foreign Trade for 1875.

Says the Springfield Republican: The balance of trade for the last calendar year, reckoning exports and imports in gold and including specie, is found to be in our favor to the amount of $65,200,000. That is to say, we have exported this much more than we have imported. This is a little more than the net exportation of specie, so that our specie has gone abroad not to settle a commercial balance, strictly speaking, but probably to pay interest on our foreign-held obligations. Our net exportations of specie for some years have not risen to our annual production. The balance of trade of 1874 was almost precisely the same and on the same side.

Imports and exports both continue to show great reductions in money value, but by no means an equal reduction in bulk of merchandise. So great, indeed, has been the decline of prices both at home and abroad that we are, to-day, buying and selling vastly more for the same amount of money than five years ago. Perhaps the bulk of our foreign trade is now as great as in 1872, when the money value of our imports was 20 per cent. more than now. It has fallen off in iron wares and some goods in which native competition is the most active, but in groceries and other lines it has increased. The following comparisons present for five years the imports of merchandise, the exports of merchandise and the net exports of specie, all expressed in specie values:

	Imports.	Exports.	Specie export.
1875......	$503,010,161	$510,618,054	$55,385,851
1874......	562,156,334	569,873,098	57,473,271
1873......	581,898,260	506,199,554	82,968,869
1872......	614,397,434	419,584,239	75,237,634
1871......	573,111,099	460,352,088	60,335,955

The Adverse Fortune of a Miner.

John Travis, a miner in this county, is an Austrian who settled here four years since, and had, by working for wages, accumulated $1,800. With this he started to return to the home of his youth, carrying most of his gold in a belt around his person. The journey across the continent and across the ocean was made in safety, Hamburg reached, and a plank laid for the passengers to pass from the steamer to the wharf. The plank was at once crowded. It broke, and twenty or thirty poor wretches were precipitated into the water. Travis was one of these, and although a good swimmer, he felt that the weight of gold in his belt was dragging him [illegible]. He loosened and dropped it, and was one of the rescued, five being drowned. The lost treasure could not be found. Travis then counted the means he had left—it was enough to take him home or bring him back to California. And back he came, and is again a miner in Amador.—Amador (Cal.) Ledger.

WASHING TO STIFFEN FINE LACE.—Dissolve a lump of white sugar in a cup of cold water.

BIG POTATOES.

An Extraordinary Yield of Tubers—Who can Beat It.

The New York World says: Two years ago a Minnesota farmer succeeded in raising 607 pounds of potatoes from one pound of seed potatoes, and, although the yield was verified by a committee in every way trustworthy, it was considered by very many to be too great a strain upon credulity. In Europe, particularly, general doubt was expressed that a result so marvelous could be obtained, even under the most careful cultivation. But the discussion attracted attention to the subject, and last year a number of well-known agriculturists and gardeners made a series of careful experiments to determine the best results that could be obtained, H. C. Pearson, of Pitcairn, N.Y., heading the list with 1,018 pounds. This [illegible] foreign agriculturists who had finally become convinced that there was no fraud, were induced to experiment with the new American varieties, and the result was that they obtained better results than had ever before been recorded in this country, M. Leon Dafaure, of Lille, raising 1,034 pounds of an American and French cross, and Mr. W. Bromley Davenport, M. P., producing 1,082½ pounds of Eureka and 638 pounds of Snowflake, each from one pound of (tubers) seed.

But the awards for the American competion of last year, just awarded, throw the results obtained both by the Frenchman and by the Englishman into the shade. The premiums, amounting to $500 were divided as follows:

Grower.	Pounds.	Price.
EUREKA.
J. L. Perkins, Little Sioux, Ia.	1,665¾	$100
P. C. Wood, Bethel, Ill.	1,403	50
Alfred Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,145	40
Milton M. Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,145	30
J. I. Salter, St. Cloud, Minn.	1,087	20
Henry V. Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,069¼	10
SNOWFLAKE.
P. C. Wood, Bethel, Ill.	1,417	100
J. L. Perkins, Little Sioux, Ia.	1,394	60
F. H. Seller, Verona, N. J.	1,126	40
J. I. Salter, St. Cloud, Minn.	1,090¾	30
Alfred Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,082½	20
Henry V. Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,069¾	10

Twenty-seven bushels of potatoes from a pint of seed is a measure of fruitfulness that should satisfy the most exacting. But there is no reason to believe that the possibilities of reproduction have been even approximated. Every competitor is dissatisfied with the result, and intends to do better next year. Had the crops of one yielded uniform results from the seed equal to the best, he would have had over 6,680 pounds to show for the one pound he had buried. Commenting on the result, the Committee of Award say:

The fertilizers used comprise nearly every known manure, and the quantities applied are not less enormous than the crops raised with them. Most growers have made compounds of various materials, and some seem to have faith in complicated formulas, which they prepare with the accuracy of a physician's prescription. About the value of wood ashes, hen manure and plaster, however, there seems to be no doubt, and we find them used by a large majority. Sulphur has been used by many.

The planting, in nearly all cases, was done between the 10th and 26th of May, and one-fourth of all competitors dropped the seed on the 10th of May, nearly a week earlier than in former years. A comparison of the distances between the hills, with the average yield per acre, gives a most interesting and valuable table, as follows: The sets planted at a distance of 2x3 feet gave a yield of 378 bushels per acre.

2x4 feet gave a yield of 462 bushels per acre.
3x3 feet gave a yield of 551 bushels per acre.
3x3½ feet gave a yield of 441 bushels per acre.
3x4 feet gave a yield of 372 bushels per acre.
3½x4 feet gave a yield of 341 bushels per acre.
4x4 feet gave a yield of 332 bushels per acre.
4x8 feet gave a yield of 88 bushels per acre.

A Remarkable Case of Embezzlement.

Now a young banker absconds with all his customers' money. This case is a little peculiar. The young man squandered it all upon a woman, but who do you suppose that woman was? Why, his own mother! She is a very handsome widow, 40, who has a passion for fashionable life. The young man, her son, is a weak, good fellow, who loves his mother, as very few sons do, and can refuse her nothing. When he went into business for himself, she emerged from the humble boarding house where they had lived, and took an elegant house up town, and commenced living in the style of wealthy people.

She set up a carriage—she had the house full of servants—she gave elegant entertainments—she bought diamonds and camel's hair shawls, and, in short, she lived at a rate that made all her old friends turn green with envy. The son, all this time, was furnishing her with the means for all this extravagance, knowing that the end was ruin, but his mother liked it, and he was too weak to say no. She probably knew that she was living beyond his means, but the madness was on her, and she could not stop.

The end came last week. The young man and his mother sailed for Rotterdam, taking with them every dollar that was in the concern, and all that could be borrowed, begged or stolen. It is supposed that the absconding, like all the rest of it, was the inspiration of the mother, for all who know the young man believe him to be honest, if left to himself. The loss to the depositors will foot up $600,000, and there is as much more owing on notes on the street. This vast sum of money has been spent within five years; and that it was spent there can be no doubt, for as near as can be ascertained they had mighty little to take away with them.

The fine house was dismantled, though they had sold quietly all that they could without exciting suspicion. Curious case! Men have been ruined by women times enough, but who ever heard before that woman's being one's own mother!—New York Letter.

What a Woman Did.

She was an average woman. She was in a meat market on Woodward avenue at half-past 11 o'clock, and there were five men in there, also. She wanted a bit of beef, a pinch of mutton, some dried beef sliced very thin—in fact, she wanted about twenty-nine cents' worth of meat. Each man was patient for ten minutes. Each one was impatient for ten minutes more. Each one waited exactly twenty-two minutes for that woman to pick and select and find fault and then each one stalked out, to find some other shop. Five business men lost one hundred and five minutes, or an hour and three-quarters, while one woman, whose time wasn't worth a cent an hour, bought twenty-nine cents' worth of meat.

As the men went out—

The first said the country was going to ruin.

The second said he'd rather eat snow than to lose any more time.

The third said that he'd [illegible] and a lunch.

The fifth fell down as he went out, and he said—but never mind.—Detroit Free Press.

IN France the postal cards appear in great variety, because it is legal for any man to make his own, the payment being by an adhesive stamp. The result is that some are ornamented with elaborate designs on cardboard of various colors and materials.

SELF-REVEALED.

"Dip deep thy pen into my heart,
 Oh, angel scribe, and write that I
 May know myself: I will not cry
Nor weep. Dip deep; I will not start."

The angel dipped deep in her heart,
 And drew his dripping pen and wrote;
 And, though her knees together smote,
She did not cry, nor weep, nor start.

He wrote one word in many ways,
 All quaint, but beautiful, until
 His fair white roll was full, and still
Her modest eyes she did not raise.

"Is it all written?" "Even so.
 Behold!" She essayed, for her sight [illegible]
 Was dim with pain; and in despite
Her woman's tears began to flow.

Then through her tears she looked again,
 And saw the word all written fair;
 And smiled and sighed, and with her hair
Toyed, crying: "'Love!' I had love in vain.

"Yet Thou, dear Christ, has shown me how
 To die for love; let all my woes
 Life's roses in their waving hair,
[illegible] about my brow."

The angel [illegible]
 And bade her bless him as he bowed;
"For though my name and state be proud,
I am no peer to thee," he said.

Wit and Humor.

THE "Spirit of '76"—Crooked whisky.

CARVERS of their own fortunes—Butchers.

WHEN a man revolves much in his mind does it make him dizzy?

"WHICH is the entrance out?" asked a man at a railway station the other day.

THE hens of France earn $80,000 a year for their owners. Hence the proverb, "Hensome is as hensome does."

"THE social element in business affairs," is the pleasant way in which the editor alludes to the female drummer question.

IF you were to ask old Father Time how he felt, he would undoubtedly answer, "Sew-sew." So many persons "take a stitch in Time," you know.

THERE is nothing like going to bed. In sleep all the cares and vexations of fashionable life are forgotten, and individuals lie calmly down, regardless of what they have on.

THE Doylestown (Pa.) Intelligencer has just lost a subscriber for rather a novel reason. The individual had just bought a Bible, and he guessed he'd have about as much new reading matter as he could attend to.

A RAPTURED writer inquires: "What is there under heaven more humanizing, or, if we may use the term, more angelizing, than a fine black eye in a lovely woman?" Two black eyes is the only answer thought of at present.

THE owner of a pair of bright eyes assures us that the prettiest compliment she ever received came from a child of 4 years. The little fellow, after looking intently at her for a moment, inquired naively, "Are your eyes new ones?"

"PA, will you get me a pair of skates if I prove to you that a dog has ten tails?" "Yes, my son." "Well, to begin, one dog has one more tail than no dog hasn't he?" "Yes." "Well, no dog has nine tails; and if one dog has one more tail than no dog, then one dog must have ten tails?" He got the skates.

MANEUVERING mamma (anxious that her daughter's chief attraction should not escape the notice of the very eligible young man who is taking her—the daughter—down to supper).—"Maria! Maria!" Maria—"Yes, mamma!" Maneuvering mamma (in loud whisper)—"Take your eyelashes out of tangle, darling!"—Punch.

SERVANT—"Somebody wants to see you, sir." Master (a "shoddy," giving his first swell dinner)—"Oo is hit?" Servant—"Don't know, sir." Master—"Well, well; but what's 'e like—hiss a gentleman?" Servant (who has evidently been "tasting"—"No-o-o-o, sir, not exactly a gentleman, sir—just something like yourself——."—London Fun.

A MORMON youth who had removed from Iowa to Utah, whom a traveler found tending sheep, said: "I come from Ioway two years ago. Pap told us all along the road that we were comin' to Zion. Well this is the cussedest old Zion I want to see. I'd ruther have one foot of land in Ioway than all these mountaings of the Lord, an' I guess the Lord would too, if he'd ever seen Ioway."

A GENTLEMAN on a visit to Washington very coolly opened the Senate Chamber door, and was about to pass in, when the doorkeeper asked, "Are you a privileged member?" "What do you mean by that?" asked the stranger. The reply was, "A Governor, an ex-member of Congress, or a foreign minister." The stranger replied that he was a minister. "From what court or country?" asked the official. Very gravely pointing up, "From Heaven, sir." To this the doorkeeper bluntly remarked, "Nothing to do with this place. Go away."

ONE of the colored residents of Detroit was yesterday asked why he did not attend the poultry show. A glad smile crossed his face as the word "poultry" was spoken, but died away in a moment as the stern reality confronted him. "Dere's heaps o' chickens dere, hain't dey?" he asked. "Yes." "But dey are all in cages, hain't dey?" "Yes." "And you want me to go dere and stand around and gaze on dose chickens which can't come out of dose cages, do yow? No, sah; I knows jess how I'd feel, sah!"—Detroit Free Press.

How to Cure Stammering.

A gentleman who was once an inveterate stammerer writes as follows about the way to cure the habit: "No stammering person ever found any difficulty in singing. The reason of this is, that by observing the measure of the music—by keeping time—the organs of speech are kept in such position that enunciation is easy. Apply the same rule to reading or speech, and the same result will follow. Let the stammerer take a sentence, say this one, 'Leander swam the Hellespont,' and pronounce it by syllables, keeping time with his finger, letting each syllable occupy the same time, thus: Le—an—der—swam—the—Hel—les—pont, and he will not stammer. Let him pronounce slowly at first, then faster, but still keeping time, keeping time with words instead of syllables, and he will be surprised to find that, by very little practice, he will read without stammering, and nearly as rapidly as persons ordinarily talk or read. Then practice this in reading and conversation until the habit is broken up. Perseverance and attention is all that is necessary to perform a perfect cure."

Born Five Years Before the Republic.

John Allen, who has reached the remarkable age of 104 years and 5 months, [illegible] his parents were coming from England to America. He left his home near Greenville, N. C., on Tar River, and walked to Huntington, W. Va., being very nearly a year on the road. He was never married. He chews tobacco, and [illegible] his cup of coffee every morning.—Maysville (Ky.) Bulletin.

ONLY one person is killed where 700,-[illegible] are safely carried on a railroad.

DISCONTENT.

BY SARAH O. JEWETT.

Down in a field, one day in June,
The flowers all bloomed together,
Save one, who tried to hide herself,
And drooped, that pleasant weather.

A Robin who had soared too high,
And felt a little lazy,
Was resting near a Buttercup
Who wished she were a Daisy.

For Daisies grow so trig and tall,
She always had a passion
For wearing frills about her neck
In just the Daisies' fashion.

And Buttercups must always be
The same old tiresome color,
While Daisies dress in gold and white,
Although their gold is duller.

"Dear Robin," said this sad young flower,
"Perhaps you'd not mind trying
To find a nice white frill for me,
Some day, when you are flying?"

"You silly thing!" the Robin said
"I think you must be crazy!
I'd rather be my honest self
Than any made-up Daisy.

"Your nicer in your own bright gown,
The little children love you;
Be the best Buttercup you can,
And think no flower above you.

"Though Swallows keep me out of sight,
We'd better keep our places;
Perhaps the world would all go wrong
With one too many Daisies.

"Look bravely up into the sky,
And be content with knowing
That God wished for a Buttercup
Just here where you are growing."

—St. Nicholas for February.

THE WIDOW BARLOW.

Peter Buskirk was very fond of money; not so fond that he quite starved himself to keep it, or hide it up chimney, or refused himself fire, or lights or a pillow; but yet so very fond of it as to be on the verge of miserhood without having quite fallen over. Beggars reaped no harvest from his purse or kitchen, and matchmakers could make no impression on his bachelor heart. Peter Buskirk saw through the latter as well as the former, and buttoned up his pockets as hastily in the presence of bewitching crinoline as in that of a seedy gentleman with a folded document in his breast pocket. The men wanted to rob him, the women to marry him. The last was the worst. Not that Peter hated women; on the contrary, even at fifty he was remarkably susceptible; a bright eye put him in a flutter. But the fact was, women, as wives or daughters, were expensive. They needed clothes, and were fond of dainties. They were proverbially extravagant. Should he marry one, she would spend his money while he lived and squander it after he was dead. And, with this awful terror before him, Peter steered clear of the shoals of matrimony.

There was one inconvience in this bachelorhood, however. That was the housekeeping; for it involved a servant—some one to make beds, wash dishes, cook and iron. In short, the servant-of-all-work was always the bane of Peter's life—eating and drinking in a manner which kept the master of the house in a continual ferment; wasting butter and fuel, and each change in the kitchen's encumbrance being followed by the mysterious disappearance of towels and napkins and such small ware. There was no rest for good Mr. Buskirk. He tried Betty and Dinah and Mary and Ann, and then, in despair, flew to a certain Mrs. Brown, the giver of tea-parties innumerable, for advice.

"Servants are sad plagues," she said.

"Eat you out of house and home," said Peter.

"Not to be relied on for honesty," said Mrs. Brown.

"Thieves, ma'am, thieves!" said Peter.

"Ah," said Mrs. Brown, "a gentleman has no time to watch them. Now I should advise marrying, Mr. Buskirk."

"Marrying!"

"Yes, sir; a wife can manage such things so much better. Besides, if you choose a smart, capable woman, she will keep an eye on the servant. It would be much more economical to marry."

"Economical!" yelled Peter; "my good lady! Eco—I—O, goodness! Feathers and flowers, laces and silks, and ring and—and ice cream and things—economical! How many yards do you take for a dress, ma'am?"

"Well, sir, twelve or fifteen—sometimes, when it's silk, you know, eighteen."

"Eighteen yards, at five shillings or so a yard, and not one dress, but twenty. My good lady, it would be enough to ruin a man."

Mrs. Brown reflected.

"But if you could find an economical woman, Mr. Buskirk."

Ah! if I could find a mermaid."

"One who never wasted a penny."

"She does not exist, ma'am."

"Who lives on next to nothing. The fact is, Mr. Buskirk, I have such a lady in my eye. She's a widow—quite a young one—Mrs. Barlow, and I'll have her at Peach House next week."

Peter Buskirk grinned sarcastically.

"Economy in hoops and bonnets," he said to himself. "They want to marry me and spend my money."

And he went home wroth.

However, economy forbade him to refuse an invitation to dinner; and when, a week after, Mrs. Brown sent "her compliments," etc., Mr. Buskirk donned his Sunday suit and went over to Peach House at five precisely. The parlor was full of ladies; ladies in silks and muslins, with crinolines and flounces. Most of them Mr. Buskirk knew well, and he looked about in vain for a stranger. Mrs. Brown's note had said:

"Mrs. Barlow will be with us."

But which was that economical widow? Probably the lady in green silk near the piano. He could not remember her face.

Suddenly Mr. Buskirk's doubts were set at rest. Mrs. Brown ejaculated, "Dear me! where is Cousin Betsy? Mr. Buskirk, you must be introduced to Mrs. Barlow," and at these words something small and flat emerged from between two portly dames, and stood before him. It was a very short and slender little woman, with a remarkably pretty face. She wore no hoops, and her dress cleared her ankles. The sleeves were close, and the skirt had perhaps three breadths in it. The dress itself was of very plain brown merino, and she wore neither brooch nor bow, only a white linen collar. Peter looked approval. Several of the ladies exchanged glances, and a faint giggle was heard; and, as though by common consent, the two were left tete-a-tete in a corner.

"Pleasant day," said Peter, to commence the conversation. "Pleasant day, but cold."

"Ah, yes, but I dislike cold weather," said the lady.

"Don't agree with you, ma'am?"

"O, that's not it. I am never ill, but [illegible] early and coals dear," proceeded the lady. "Money slips through one's fingers, and I never waste things."

"My case exactly," said Buskirk. "It's astonishing how things cost. Now there is butter—say a pound a fortnight."

"O, I never eat butter; it costs too much," said the lady.

"Ah! and sugar and tea and coffee."

"If you indulge in such luxuries, what can you expect?" said Mrs. Barlow.

"They are artificial wants altogether, so they are," said Mr. Buskirk. "But then, habit is second nature."

"Extravagant habits ruin many," said Mrs. Barlow. "O, I shudder when I look at those flounces. Such a waste of material."

"I've often thought so," said Peter. "And you don't wear them?"

"I?" said Mrs. Barlow. "I have my senses, sir. I've no wish to die in a work house. I've had this dress ten years."

"Indeed!" said Peter. And I suppose some ladies buy one every month."

"Every ten days," said Mrs. Barlow. "O, I blush for my sex, Mr. Buskirk, I do, indeed."

Peter was charmed. He began to think Mrs. Brown right. The cost of such a wife would be a mere trifle, and what an eye she would keep to the expenses of a household.

Ere the evening was over he had decided that it would be cheaper to marry than to remain single, were Mrs. Barlow his helpmate.

"She'd not only be saving herself, but she would check me in my little extravagances," said he. "She would be invaluable to me. She wears one dress ten years. The fates must have sent her to earth for my special benefit."

So, after due consideration, Peter resolved to court the economical widow, and, that lady being conveniently domiciled at Mrs. Brown's, he found every opportunity.

It was a very inexpensive courtship. He gave her not a present. She expected none. He took her nowhere save to church, where neither of them ever saw the plate, and both were happy.

At last he proposed. She blushed and hesitated, and begged time to consider. At last she said, "I am afraid to say yes, Mr. Buskirk. I like you; but you are so terribly extravagant. You drink tea and coffee, and eat butter, and really I should fear coming to want, I should, indeed."

"I! Why, I'm the most economical soul living," said Peter.

"Extravagant people always think that," said the lady. "No, I'm afraid to say yes, unless, indeed, you were to make your property over to me, so that I could be sure you would not ruin yourself. Of course that is impossible, and it would be such a care that really I could scarcely desire it, even for a gentleman I so much respect."

And the economical relict blushed and hesitated.

It was Peter's turn to pause and consider. He went away to do so, and, returning suddenly to his house, found his serving-maid selling dripping to a man. He dismissed her at once, and rushed back to the Widow Barlow's.

"My money would be safer in your hands than mine," he said, with a moan. "Marry me, and keep me from being ruined."

"What the widow's answer was may be judged from the fact that three weeks from that day they were united, the clergyman receiving five shillings from Peter, and the bride wearing her brown merino, in the pocket of which she carefully deposited the deeds which made the property exclusively her own.

"Now for happiness," said Peter. "No more thieving servants—no more waste—and a lovely wife into the bargain. He, he, he! Peter Buskirk is the man for luck."

And he took his wife home to dine on cold meat and radishes, being absolutely ashamed even to speak of his accustomed mutton chop before so economical a lady.

The next morning he hurried off to business.

"Never waste time, love," said the newly married dame. "Besides, I've a great deal to attend to; so good-by."

"Good-by," responded Peter. "What a treasure you are, my dear. The washing, I suppose? My mother always washed on Monday."

And away he went, content with himself and all the world.

At six he returned. Horror of horrors! there were ladders against his house, and men upon them. Had there been a fire? He rushed up, breathless.

"What is the matter? Who are these men?" he inquired. "Fire! thieves! O! I must be dreaming."

"Don't make a noise, love," said a voice from the parlor window. "They're only the house painters."

"House—painters!"

"Yes, dear. Don't you know the Dutch proverb, 'A coat of paint pays itself?'"

Peter breathed again.

"But the awful expense!" he said. "Dear, dear, you should have consulted me."

He stumbled into the house, and over the form of a man kneeling in the hall.

"Who are you?" he asked.

In reply the person produced a card on which was printed, "Gilt & Binder, Upholsters."

"And what are you doing?" gasped Peter.

"Measuring the hall for a new oilcloth, sir," said the man.

Peter staggered on.

A woman was making up a carpet in the front parlor; another was arranging curtains.

He rushed up stairs.

There sat another woman also at work.

Again he gasped the question, "Who are you?"

"Mrs. Buskirk's regular seamstress, please, sir," said the woman.

"And where is Mrs. Buskirk?"

"Here, love," said a voice.

And there entered, from the adjoining room, a lady dressed in silk, and in expansive crinoline, with bracelets, brooch, earrings and a little lace cap worth a small fortune.

"The furniture is ordered, and the painters are here, and I've engaged all the servants, Mr. Buskirk," said the lady; "and cook wants to know whether you like beef under or well done. In such things you shall have your choice always. There was no time to make a pudding to-day, so we must have ices. Strawberries, too, are only two shillings a basket."

"Mrs. Buskirk, have you gone crazy?" cried Peter, "or am I dreaming?"

"I'm wide awake, at all events," cried the lady. "I've starved long enough, and worn that brown merino until I hate it. I always was fond of dress—"

"Fond of dress!" repeated Peter; "and loved good things!"

"Loved good things," repeated the spouse; "and now I'm married I mean to have them."

"But if—I had—known—I—" began Peter.

"Wouldn't have married me, I suppose," said the bride. "Well, my [illegible] told me that, you know."

Peter looked at her. The truth was plain at last. He stared at his lady for five minutes by the clock, and then rushed out of the house, muttering, "Taken in! taken in!"

It is said Peter Buskirk never recovered the shock. Against his will he lived luxuriously ever after; and his wife astonished the neighborhood by her magnificent attire and grand parties. But nevertheless Peter himself expired in less than a year; and the last words on his lips were said to be "Taken in! taken in!"

444—A Famous Landmark Destroyed.

The well known building No. 444 Broadway, which was consumed in the conflagration last night, was in many respects a landmark of old New York. During the period between 1850 and 1860 it was occupied by the City Assembly rooms, then one of the largest and best known ball rooms in the city. About 1855 the space under the ball room was leased and fitted up as a variety theater—Jerome B. Fellowes, of Fellowes' Minstrels, opening with a troupe which was at first an offshoot of the old Christy Minstrels organization, and comprised among its members George Christy and other well known performers. Fellowes had the theater about a year. At the close of this management it was taken by Mr. John Brougham, and its name changed to Brougham's Lyceum. Several other troupes afterward occupied the boards in succession, and in 1858–9, R. W. Butler leased the house, and started the variety theater which later on became famous as "'444." Among the actors who acquired celebrity on its stage were Tony Pastor and Billy O'Neill. Charley White, Billy Holmes, Thompson and Carr, and James Wambold, were connected with the theater at various times during Butler's management. It was then the leading variety theater of the metropolis, and, from various causes, acquired a wide celebrity. During the war the house did an enormous business, as many as 4,000 tickets being sold in one evening. On Feb. 15, 1866, the building was burned in a fire which consumed over $150,000 worth of property. The fire caught behind the scenes of the theater, and it was thought to have been occasioned by the detachment of a stove pipe in the green room. The owners, in rebuilding, fitted up the entire block as stores, and the theatrical tenants were forced to take up new quarters. The basement under No. 444 Broadway was for several years occupied as a concert saloon, and during the waiter-girl furore, which began in 1860, was one of the most notorious of this class of resorts in New York. The building No. 444 has been burned down four times within the last thirty years, the last two fires occurring in 1854 and 1866.

The Continental Hotel was formerly Mitchell's Olympic Theater, and here many of the actors whose names rank among the first in the annals of the New York stage, either made their first appearance, or established a reputation that has ever been known to old New York play-goers. Burton, Holland, Davenport, Forrest, Junius Brutus Booth, and many others, have trod its boards, and the old place was surrounded by historic reminiscences of the stage. —New York Times.

Affecting Scene in a Deaf Mute School.

A beautiful incident is related to us which occurred only a few days ago in the Home School to teach mutes articulation and lip-reading at Mystic River. Miss P., an interesting graduate of one of the oldest institutions for the education of deaf mutes, having a desire to learn to speak and to read the lips of her speaking friends, was recommended by her old principal to try Mr. Whipple's school, and she entered it last term. She made rapid progress, and was much aided by the natural alphabet, the invention of her teacher. This alphabet curiously suggests sound, or the right position of the organs to utter sound, as well as form; and whenever a mute pupil can read and write it, he or she can generally give any of the forty sounds of her difficult language with great precision and discrimination, and often with remarkable correctness. This young lady, filled with enthusiasm at every step, mastered the alphabet with little difficulty, and one day came to her teacher with something written on her slate, which she asked him to correct, her mind being agitated with emotion. It proved to be the Lord's Prayer, put into the language of articulation. Perceiving her agitation the teacher could scarce retain his own tears as he corrected a few unimportant errors of pronunciation, and delicately returned it. The next morning the young lady came exultingly to her teacher, exclaiming: "I prayed last night for the first time in my life with my voice;" and neither of them could restrain their emotions. He ventured to ask her if she had prayed before. "Oh, yes; I have thought my prayers, but I never spoke them before." "My lips shall praise Thee, O God;" "Attend to the voice of my supplications, O Lord." The earnestness and satisfaction of the devout mute who had now realized one of the bright dreams of her life admitted of no question, and called for no reproof, if she was something of a literalist in her interpretation. —Norwich (Ct.) Bulletin.

The Value of Education.

Jake was heard calling across the fence to his neighbor's son, a colored youth who goes to school at the Atlanta colored university:

"Look hyar, boy, you goes ter school don't yer?"

"Yes, sir," replied the boy.

"Gittin' eddykashun, ain't yer?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, it don't take two whole days to make a hour, do it?"

"W'y no!" exclaimed the boy.

"You was gwine ter bring dat hatchit back in a hour, warn't yer?"

"Yes, sir."

"An' it's bin two days sence yer borrowed it. Now, what good's eddykashun gwine ter do you thick skulled niggers when yer go to school a whole year an' den can't tell how long it takes to fotch back a hatchit?"

The boy got mad and slung the hatchet over the fence and half way through an ash barrel.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Bill of Particulars.

A Worcester gentleman, says the Boston Post, recently sent a very fine French clock to a well-known jeweler to be repaired, saying that he wished each item of repairing specified. The following is a copy of the bill as rendered:

To removing alluvial deposit and oleaginous conglomerate from clock a la French	$0.50
To replacing in appropriate juxtaposition the constituent components of said clock	0.50
To lubricating with oleaginous solution the apex of pinions of said clock	0.50
To adjusting horologically the isochronal mechanism of said clock	0.50
To equalizing the acoustic resultant of escape wheel percussion upon the verge pallets of said clock	0.50
To adjusting the distance between the center of gravity of the pendulum and its point of suspension, so that the vibration of the pendulum shall cause the index hand to indicate approximately the daily arrival of the sun at its meridian height	0.50
Total	$3.00

MICHAEL MCFADDEN and Michael Burns, of Fall River, quarreled in the presence of McFadden's dog; the dog may not have understood the affair, yet the next time he met Burns he attacked him savagely, inflicting dangerous wounds.

Dissipation vs. Legislation.

[Washington Cor. Chicago Tribune.]

The proceedings at the Capitol last week were "flat, stale, and unprofitable," but social life here was remarkably "gay and festive." This is not to be wondered at. Take for example the Honorable Representative from the Eighteenth District (he calls it deestrict) of Florida, a worthy back country lawyer, whose healthy home-diet has been hog, hominy, and fried chicken, with an occasional dram of crooked whisky. He is on the Special Committee charged with the investigation of the amount of red-tape used in the Tying-up Bureau of the Circumlocution Department, and old Capt. Barnacle, the head of that bureau, invites him to dine at the Widow Welcher's, hoping to prevent a report that, as each official could tie his own packages with string, the Tying-up Bureau might be abolished, and its supply of red tape saved. The dinner is especially restaurantish, consisting of half a dozen successive courses, rejoicing in Parisian names, questionable in appearance, and so flavored as to defy detection. Some manufactured wine adds to the indigestibility of the repast, and the Hon. M. C. from the Eighteenth District goes thence to a "reception," where he again feeds upon terrapin and oysters, washed down by copious draughts of the juice of the rhubarb-plant, labeled "Moet & Chandon." As he leaves the house he is joined by a veteran lobbyist, who kindly suggests that at this season a few glasses of hot Scotch whisky punch is the sure preventive of colds. And when, after all this eating and guzzling, the Hon. M. C. from the Eighteenth District gets to bed, about 2 o'clock in the morning, his slumbers are not quiet. Rising about 10 o'clock, he has no appetite for breakfast, and, going to the Capitol, takes a Congressional bath, after which he has the Congressional barber shampoo his aching head. Can you expect this victim to metropolitan gayety to apply himself to legislation? A verbal sparring-match between two of the oratorical shoulder-hitters may rouse him from his apathy, but he does not get his food of the night previous digested, and his head freed from the potations then imbibed, until the hour of adjournment. Then another dinner—another reception—another alcoholic night-cap—and another uncomfortable, useless day. It is thus invariably the case that, when the fashionable season is at its height, but little legislation is perfected.

King and Schumaker.

Bill King and Schumaker, says a Washington correspondent, are at present the closest united members in the House. Although they are members of opposite political parties, their common afflictions have made them as brothers. For some time the Judiciary Committee has been considering the case of these two men in the light of the Pacific Mail testimony referred to it by the Ways and Means Committee. By this testimony it is shown that Schumaker received upward of $200,000 to act as a paid lobbyist of the corrupt Pacific Mail agency. King has not only been shown to have been a bribe taker, but by record a perjurer as well. The Judiciary Committee are clearly of the opinion that these men should be expelled from Congress, but are doubtful whether they have the right to go back of the election of these men and punish their acts committed prior to that time. Upon this quibble Schumaker and King rest much hope. These two worthies got together this afternoon upon the east side of the Hall of Representatives, and had a long conference. Schumaker lazily stood up against the wall near the door, while King stood behind a screen near by, as if he did not wish prying eyes to watch him as he talked. Said Schumaker: "What do you think, King; do you have an idea that this Congress will do anything with us?" "Shoo," said King, as he pulled his hair over his forehead, down between his ratty-bright eyes, "I ain't afraid of anything this Congress can do. If they want to make a fight on us, let 'em. I guess I can make it warm for some of 'em. There are too many burned children in this House to ever dare to push us."

Willing to be Hanged.

George Morris, whom Judge Steele of New Orleans recently sentenced to be hanged, came to the bar whistling and laughing. The Judge said, "George, you have been convicted of the murder of Sarah Jones. You pleaded guilty twice, but I insisted that your case should go before twelve citizens of your country. Have you anything to say why the sentence of the law should not be passed upon you?" Morris smiled and said, in a clear voice, "I agree with you, and am now prepared to receive the full extent of the law, which I know is death." After Judge Steele had sentenced him to be hanged, Morris thanked him for his kindness in so doing.

DAVID DUDLEY FIELD is not a teacher of penmanship. Recently he signed a legal document, and sent it to a printer in Albany. The proof was sent to him to be read, and "David Dudley Field" in manuscript appeared in type as "Tried and duly filed."

WE would no more be without Dobbins' Electric Soap (made by Cragin & Co., Philadelphia), in our family, than without a stove. It is pure, and does its own work without the main strength of the washerwoman. Try it.

MISS BETSY CARR, of New Hampshire, is 105 years old. She says she never expects to marry, but will probably live and die an old maid. It looks a little that way.

"Facts are Stubborn Things."

Thousands of human beings are yearly borne on the swift current of disease down to the grave, just because they do not possess a sufficient knowledge of themselves. A man meets his neighbor, and the first salutation is, "How are you?" or "How is your health?" The reply frequently is, "Oh, I am well, with the exception of a cold." Most persons lightly regard a cold. Reader, do you know that a cold is one of the most dangerous of maladies? A cold not only clogs up the pores of the entire system, and retards circulation, but it is productive of Catarrh, which is quite apt to lead to Consumption. "Oh," you say, "it is nothing but a cold in my head." True; but that cold is really a mild form of Catarrh, and if not arrested in its course will become chronic. Catarrh is one of the most disagreeable, offensive affections in the catalogue of diseases. The passage to the nose is obstructed, the sense of smell impaired, and there is a disagreeable sensation of pressure in the head. In the more advanced stages, there is a discharge having an offensive odor. If the disease be allowed to continue in its course, thick, hard incrustations will form in the head, the bones of which sometimes become softened and break away in pieces. Why will persons continue to suffer from such an annoying, disgusting disease, when they can just as well be cured of it? Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will cure the worst forms of Catarrh; in fact, it is the only sure and safe remedy which has yet been offered to the public. Many harsh, irritating preparations may, for a time, relieve the urgency of the symptoms, but they do not cure the disease. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is soothing and healing in its effects, and when used with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, according to directions, does not fail to effect a cure. Sold by all Druggists.

CHEAPEST, best family paper in the world—CHICAGO LEDGER. See advertisement.

METZLER & CO., the most extensive dealers in reed instruments in London, pronounce the Mason & Hamlin "the finest reed instrument in the world." Augustus L. Tamplin and Chevalier Lemmens, the famous harmonium players, are using these organs at their London concerts.

These are fine compliments for our famous American makers, upon which we congratulate them, adding that they are thoroughly deserved.—New York Philharmonic Journal.

VEGETINE.—The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the vegetable kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. Vegetine is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and is perfectly safe to give to an infant. Do you need it? Do not hesitate to try it. You will never regret it.

PIMPLES on the face, rough skin, chapped hands, saltrheum and all cutaneous affections cured, the skin made soft and smooth, by the use of Juniper Tar Soap. That made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, is the only kind that can be relied upon, as there are many imitations, made from common tar, which are worthless.

JIMMY BLANCHARD has been engaged to make a tour through the United States, giving exhibitions in the principal cities.

SEE ADVERTISEMENT headed "A Remarkable Invention," in another column, and do not fail to send for an illustrated catalogue.

CHICAGO LEDGER—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

Consumptives, Take Notice.—Every moment of delay makes your cure more hopeless, and much depends on the judicious choice of a remedy. The amount of testimony in favor of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for consumption, far exceeds all that can be brought to support the pretensions of any other medicine. See Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing the certificates of many persons of the highest respectability, who have been restored to health after being pronounced incurable by physicians of acknowledged ability. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many, as these evidences will show; but the cure is often promoted by the employment of two other remedies which Dr. Schenck provides for the purpose. These additional remedies are Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. By the timely use of these medicines, according to directions, Dr. Schenck certifies that most any case of Consumption may be cured.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES. A pair of shoes will cost you only five cents more with a SILVER TIP on than without, and it will add twice the cost of the shoe to their wearing value. Also try Wire Quilted Soles.

For service and comfort wear Cable Screw Wire Boots and Shoes, the best and easiest. Also try Wire Quilted Soles. CABLE SCREW WIRE

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

20 FANCY CARDS, 7 styles, with name, 10c. Address J. B. HUSTED, Nassau, Rens. Co., N.Y.

HOUSEKEEPERS rejoice. AGENTS make money with our 5 NEW articles. CAPEWELL & CO., Cheshire, Ct.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. STINSON & CO., Portland, Me.

500,000 Evergreens, 1 to 4 feet; 300,000 Osage Plants at prices that defy competition. Circulars free. Address Barnes, Creswell & Co., Kirkwood, Ill.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 40cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

W. L. HAYDEN, Teacher of Guitar, Flute, Cornet. Agt. for Tilton Pat. Guitar, the best in use. Dealer in Musical Instruments, Music, Strings. Catalogues free. 120 Tremont St. Boston.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Washington St., Boston.

$350 A Month.—Agents wanted. 36 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

A Miniature Oil Painting on Canvas which will be your own Likeness, free, with The Home Weekly, sent 3 months on trial for 25 cts. Money to Agents. L. T. LUTHER, Mill Village, Erie Co., Pa.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents. Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$60 PER MONTH and traveling expenses paid to salesmen who can sell our goods, and better wages to experienced salesmen. Address ARGAND KINDLER CO., 26 LaSalle St., CHICAGO, Ill.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

BOOK AGENTS. MOODY & SANKEY.—The only original, authentic and complete record of these men and their works. Beware of imitations. SEND FOR CIRCULARS. American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S New Book outsells everything. Don't worry about hard times. Sell this book and see how easy they are. Send for circulars to American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

WANTED—A few intelligent Ladies and Gentlemen to solicit orders for Capt. Glazier's new work, "Battles for the Union." Just the book for Centennial times. All expenses advanced. References required. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO., Hartford, Conn.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY. AGENTS make $100 weekly by canvassing for it; 128 pages, 80 illustrations, $3.50 yearly, with elegant chromo. Send 20 cents for copy and terms to FRANK LESLIE, New York.

Kidney Complaint.

Probably there is no complaint that afflicts the human system which is so little understood at the present time as some of the varied forms of Kidney Complaints.

There is no disease which causes such acute pain or more alarming in its results than when the kidneys fail to secrete from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous substances which the blood accumulates in its circulation through the system.

If from any cause the kidneys fail to perform the functions devolving upon them, the cumulations are taken up by the absorbents and the whole system thrown into a state of disease, causing great pain and suffering, and very often immediate death. Hence the importance of keeping the kidneys and blood in a healthy condition, through which all the impurities of the blood must pass.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

There is no remedy known to medical science which has proved itself more valuable in cases of Kidney Complaint than the VEGETINE. It acts directly upon the secretions, cleanses and purifies the blood, and restores the whole system to healthy action.

The following extraordinary cures of great sufferers, who had been given up by the best physicians as hopeless cases, will speak for themselves, and should challenge the most profound attention of the medical faculty, as well as those who are suffering from Kidney Complaint.

THE BEST MEDICINE.

EAST MARSHFIELD, Aug. 22, 1870.

MR. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—I am seventy-one years of age; have suffered many years with Kidney Complaint, Weakness in my Back and Stomach. I was induced by friends to try your VEGETINE, and I think it the best medicine for weakness of the Kidneys I ever used. I have tried many remedies for this complaint, and never found so much relief as from the VEGETINE. It strengthens and invigorates the whole system. Many of my acquaintances have taken it, and I believe it to be good for all the complaints for which it is recommended.

Yours truly, JOSIAH H. SHERMAN.

PRONOUNCED INCURABLE.

BOSTON, May 30, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.:

Dear Sir—I have been badly afflicted with Kidney Complaint for ten years; have suffered great pain in my back, hips and side, with great difficulty in passing urine, which was often and in very small quantities, frequently accompanied with blood and excruciating pain. I have faithfully tried most of the popular remedies recommended for my complaint; I have been under the treatment of some of the most skillful physicians in Boston, all of whom pronounced my case incurable. This was my condition when I was advised by a friend to try the VEGETINE, and I could see the good effects from the first dose I took, [illegible]

J. M. GILE, 10 Third Street, South Boston.

Chicago Business Directory.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.
CHICAGO SCRAPER & DITCHER CO., 32 LaSalle.

AUCTION AND SALE ROOMS OF HORSES, CARRIAGES AND HARNESS.
WESTON & CO.'S, 193 and 195 E. Washington, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at 10 a. m.

AUCTION MART FOR THE SALE OF HORSES, HARNESS AND VEHICLES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT AUCTION AND PRIVATE SALE.
NORTHWESTERN TATTERSALLS, 1 to 9 Monroe.

AWNINGS, TENTS, TWINES AND CORDAGE.
GILBERT, HUBBARD & CO., 205 to 209 South Water.

BAKING POWDER AND EXTRACTS.
DR. PRICE'S, Steele & Price M'f'rs, 201 & 203 S. Water, Chicago; 304 N. 2d, St. Louis; 210 Main, Cincinnati.

BANNERS AND GLASS SHOW-CARD WRITERS.
MUNN & DRUM, 215 W. Madison.

BOOTS AND SHOES—AUCTION AND COMMISSION.
JAS. P. MCNAMARA & CO., 97 E. Washington.

COWING'S DRIVE AND WELL PUMPS, &c.
DOWNER & WOOLNER, 98 and 100 Franklin.

CROCKERY, CHINA AND GLASSWARE.
ABRAM FRENCH & CO., 101 and 103 Wabash-av.

ENGRAVER, SEALS, PRESSES, STEEL AND BRASS STAMPS, STENCIL TOOLS AND STOCK.
C. H. HANSON, 38 South Clark.

ENGRAVERS.
S. D. CHILDS, JR., & CO., 118 Franklin.

ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER & MANFR. OF STENCILS.
L. BOCHE, 171 E. Randolph.

ENGRAVERS ON WOOD, Etc.
BEARS BROS. & CO., S.W. cor. Clark and Washington.

FLOWERS AND STRAW GOODS—SPECIALTY.
DALY, HENROTIN & CO., 144 and 146 Wabash-av.

FURNITURE.
A. L. HALE & BRO., 200, 202, 204 and 206 Randolph.

GRASS AND FIELD SEEDS.
ALBERT DICKINSON, 117 and 119 Kinzie.

GUNS—CUTLERY MANUFACTURERS.
W. R. SPENCER & CO., 54 State. Send for price-list.

HARDWARE AND CUTLERY—WHOLESALE.
EDWIN HUNT & SONS, 58 and 60 Lake.

HEAVY HARDWARE—WHOLESALE.
KIMBARK BROS. & CO., 80 to 84 Michigan-av.

HOTELS.
WOOD'S HOTEL, 116 & 118 Fifth-av. Enoch Wood, prop., late proprietor of Wood's Hotel, State-st.
BREVOORT HOUSE, 143 and 145 E. Madison. On the European plan. H. M. Thompson, proprietor.
METROPOLITAN HOTEL—$2.50 per day. Cor. State & Wash'n, site of old St. James, opp. Field, Leiter & Co.
OGDEN HOUSE—First-class in every particular. Barber & Forvey, prop'rs. Cor. Washington and Franklin.

LUMBER.
THE PESHTIGO CO.—Green Bay Lumber. North Pier. W. E. Strong, Pres't; G. C. Hempstead, Sec'y.

MNFRS. OF WARWICKSHIRE AND COLUMBIA SAUCES, IMPORTED CATSUPS, FLAVORING EXTRACTS.
LEWIS & CO., 165 E. Kinzie. Send for price list.

REAL ESTATE.
JAS. B. GOODMAN & CO., 73 Dearborn.

SAW MANUFACTURERS.
HENRY DISSTON & SON, N.W. cor. Randolph & Market

SEWING MACHINE COMPANIES.
HOME S. M. CO., Johnson, Clark & Co., 141 State.

WATCHES, JEWELRY AND JEWELERS' SUPPLIES.
COGSWELL, WEBER & CO., 105 and 107 State.

WILSON'S PATENT ADJUSTABLE CHAIR FOR INVALIDS, IRON FOLDING BEDSTEADS, ETC.
M. KLEIN, 177 South Dearborn. Send for circular.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT Nickel Plated, full Rifled, with 100 Cartridges for $3.00. Full Nickel Plate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Illustrated Catalogue Free. Address WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill.

LOOK. Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 TRANSPARENT VISITING CARDS, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. NOVELTY PRINTING CO., Ashland, Mass.

OPIUM Habit Cured At Home. No publicity. Time short. Terms moderate. 1,000 testimonials. 8th year of unparalleled success. Describe case. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." [illegible] Address T. WILLIAM & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

CARDS.—50 white or tinted Bristol, 20 cts.; 50 Snowflake, Marble, Rep, or Damask, 35 cts.; 50 Glass, 40 cts.; with your name beautifully printed on them, and 66 samples of type, agents' price-list, etc., sent by return mail on receipt of price. Discount to Clubs. Best of work. W. C. CANNON, 46 Kneeland Street, Boston. Refers to S. M. PETTENGILL & Co.

Allen's Planet Jr. Silver Medal Hand Drills and Wheel Hoes. Three new styles. They "sow like a charm," and hoe better, easier, and six times faster than the hand hoe. S. L. ALLEN & CO., Mfrs., 119 S. 4th St., Phila., Pa. Circulars free. A Live Agent Wanted in every town.

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS & SEEDS. My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. WILLIAM E. BOWDITCH, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

INQUIRE FOR W. A. DROWN & CO'S UMBRELLAS. PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

MARCY'S SCIOPTICON, With new, improved and cheapened MAGIC LANTERN SLIDES. For Homes, Sunday-schools and Lecture-rooms it stands UNRIVALLED. Brilliant and easy to show. Circulars of SPECIAL Offer free. Sciopticon Manual (5th Ed.) 50 cts. L. J. MARCY, 1340 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FOUTZ'S HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS,

Will cure or prevent Disease.

OPIUM Morphine Habit AND Intemperance Speedily cured by DR. BECK'S only known and sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call on or address Dr. J. C. BECK, 112 John St., Cincinnati, O.

A NOVEL IDEA—$1 for $2. The Manhattan [illegible] commended by Jennie June, James Parton and others—will, on receipt of subscription price, $2, be sent one year, postpaid, and deliver free, A PREMIUM BOX of $2.00 worth best Groceries. "N.Y. Weekly Sun, Jan. 19, 1876, says: It is one of the best chances for agents ever offered." As we allow A LARGE CASH COMMISSION it is a rare chance to make money rapidly and secure a permanent business. C. F. Wingate & Co. (limited), 60 Duane St., N.Y. Sample copy 10c.

DO YOUR OWN PRINTING! NOVELTY PRINTING PRESS. For Professional and Amateur Printers, Schools, Societies, Manufacturers, Merchants, and others it is the BEST ever invented. 13,000 in use. Ten styles. Prices from $5.00 to $150.00. BENJ. O. WOODS & CO. Manuf'rs and dealers in all kinds of Printing Material, 49 Federal St. Boston. Send stamp for Catalogue.

S. H. HARRIS' IMPROVED CHICAGO SAFES And VAULT DOORS are the Best. Address S. H. HARRIS, Manufacturer, 33 and 35 Randolph St.

How to buy him. How to sell him. How to train him. How to tell a trotter. A NEW BOOK of great interest to Horsemen. Sent by mail for 50 cents. Address J. F. VINCENT, Box 88, Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza Young, BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19. [illegible]

VEGETINE is SOLD by ALL DRUGGISTS.

THE CHICAGO LEDGER

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST PAPER IN THE COUNTRY.

$1.50 PER ANNUM

Unexcelled by any Weekly Literary Publication, East or West.

A THREE DOLLAR PAPER FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A HALF.

Send your name and address and get a specimen copy. Address THE LEDGER, Chicago, Ill.

WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL. TRADE MARK.

"NATURE'S GREAT REMEDY,"

This Cordial is a CERTAIN CURE for Coughs, Colds, Inflammation of the Lungs, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, and if taken in time, will arrest that fatal disease Consumption. The basis of this medicine is a preparation of Tar obtained by a peculiar process from the sap of the Pine Tree, the medicinal properties of which are well known. With this powerful element are thoroughly incorporated several other vegetable ingredients, each of which possesses soothing and healing attributes, thus making it the most POTENT ANTAGONIST to all diseases of the pulmonary organs that has yet been introduced.

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL

Is not a new remedy that has never been heard of before, but an OLD, RELIABLE, AND WELL-TRIED medicine that has been in daily use by families and intelligent physicians for the last sixteen years, and is spoken of in the highest terms by all who have used it, as thousands of UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS prove.

If you suffer from any disease for which this Cordial is recommended, we unhesitatingly say: "TRY IT, WE KNOW IT WILL DO YOU GOOD." A single bottle will demonstrate its valuable qualities.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AND STOREKEEPERS. PRINCIPAL DEPOT, 232 North Second St., Philad'a.

PILES—WHAT ARE PILES? READ! "PLAIN BLUNT Facts," a Treatise on the Causes, History, Cure and Prevention of PILES. Published by P. NEUSTAEDTER & CO., 46 Walker Street, New York. Sent FREE to all parts of the United States on receipt of a letter stamp.

FREE to all who wish their Seed directly from the grower, my elegantly illustrated Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue. Address, JAMES J. H. GREGORY, Marblehead, Mass.

PORTABLE GRINDING MILLS.

Best French Burr stiff spindle under-runners, cork head upper-runners, for Farm or Merchant Work. Superior Mill Stones of all sizes, Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pulleys, Hangers, etc., all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, O.

"DOMESTIC" SEWING MACHINES. Liberal Terms of Exchange for Second-hand Machines of every description. "DOMESTIC" PAPER FASHIONS. The Best Patterns made. Send 5cts. for Catalogue. Address DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE CO. AGENTS WANTED. NEW YORK.

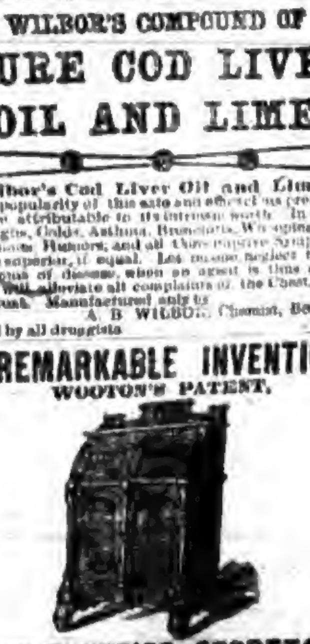
AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL HISTORY OF THE U. S. The great interest in the thrilling history of our country makes this the fastest-selling book ever published. It contains 442 fine historical engravings and 925 pages, with a full account of the approaching grand Centennial Exhibition. CAUTION.—Old, incomplete and Unreliable works are being circulated; see that the book you buy contains 442 Fine Engravings and 925 Pages. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

A Farm of Your Own — IS — The Best Remedy for Hard Times! FREE HOMESTEADS AND THE Best and Cheapest Railroad Land Are on the Line of the Union Pacific Railroad, — IN — NEBRASKA. Secure a Home Now. Full information sent FREE to all parts of the World. Address O. F. DAVIS, Land Com'r U. P. R. R., Omaha, Neb.

WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND LIME.

Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil and Lime.—The great popularity of this safe and efficacious preparation is alone attributable to its intrinsic worth. In the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Scrofulous Humors, and all Consumptive Symptoms, it has no superior, if equal. Let no one neglect the early symptoms of disease, when an agent is thus at hand which will alleviate all complaints of the Chest, Lungs, or Throat. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists.

A REMARKABLE INVENTION! WOOTON'S PATENT.



CABINET OFFICE SECRETARY.

Wooton Desk Co., Designers and Manufacturers, Indianapolis, Ind. Illustrated Descriptive Circulars [illegible]

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

A POET'S CONSTANCY.

A MADRIGAL: BY JOHN G. SAXE.

O praise is ever sweet to hear,
 In simple candor I confess it;
And then, I own, 'tis doubly dear
 When loving lips—yours—express it.

And yet, when calmly I reflect
 How much is due to Cupid's blindness,
Forgive me, dear, if I suspect
 These praises only prove your kindness.

Whatever virtues I may boast
 (And slight indeed is my profession),
The one you praise and prize the most
 May be the least in my possession.

You tell me, sweet! you love—revere
 A mind so steady and unswerving;
But never Poet yet, I fear,
 Of such applause was quite deserving.

The Poet's constancy, at best,
 Is like the Bee's—a vagrant rover;
Still constant to her honey-quest,
 Though found in lily, rose, or clover.

And do I then my faith impeach
 As one untrue to Love's vocation?
A moment's patience—I beseech—
 And you shall hear the explanation:

Suppose the Bee—say prone to stray,
 As Fancy bids, from bower to bower—
Should chance to find, some lucky day,
 A wondrous honey-bearing flower;

Which—though she sipped and came again
 As often as the day was sunny—
Quite unexhausted should remain,
 An ever-flowing fount of honey.

Such praise as she might fitly claim,
 If ne'er again she proved a rover,
So much (the cases are the same)
 Is due your fond and faithful lover!

JESSIE'S TEST.

Miss Jerusha Jenkinson folded her napkin with slow, precise carefulness, and then followed her pretty little hostess from the dining-room back to the parlor, where the soft astral lamp glowed like a silver moon, and the illuminated stove made red shadows on the brown rep easy chair in which Miss Jenkinson ensconced herself.

"I really don't know what to do about it, Miss Jerusha. If I once thought Rich was guilty of such indiscretions as you declare he is, I do believe I should—die!"

Jessie Wintringham winked away a suspicious brightness from her pretty curling brown lashes, and looked eagerly at her guest's sarcastic countenance.

"I dare say there are a great many people who would say I was very officious, my dear, because I tell you what I think of that good-looking husband of yours. But I feel I have your interest at heart; and if no one else has the courage and charity to point out to a young wife of half a year the goings-on of her husband—why, my dear Mrs. Wintringham, I'll stand by you and take your part."

Her solemn words made little shivers of vague terror thrill all over Jessie.

"I dare say you are very kind indeed, Miss Jerusha, only I can't believe that Rich is such a flirt as you say—always paying such exclusive attention to ladies when he is away from home."

"You must think just what you please, my dear. Only I suppose if you were to see for yourself, you would believe the evidence of your own eyes!"

Jessie's slightly-flushed cheeks betrayed the painful interest she felt.

"Of course, if I were to see—"

Miss Jerusha arose triumphantly.

"Than all you have to do is to take my advice, and the next time Mr. Wintringham has such very important business to New York, do you go by the same train, with your waterproof and a thick veil to disguise you. I must go now, I think, my dear. I'll have to stop at poor Mrs. Delacorn's, and hear if she has heard from that runaway daughter of hers. Thanks for the early cup of tea you made so nicely—and don't forget what I told you, Mrs. Wintringham."

And the abominable old gossip went her way, leaving the arrows of the distrust she had sown rankling painfully in poor, loving, jealous Jessie's heart.

She perfectly adored her handsome young husband; and as always such passionate affection is accompanied by jealousy, this otherwise sensible little woman found it no difficult matter to entertain the doubt her guest expressed.

Rich was so handsome, so stylish, so gallant—why should not ladies enjoy his attentions? And, sitting by the cosy fire, waiting until her husband should come in for his dinner, Jessie almost decided to play the spy upon him at the earliest moment.

Then, when she heard his latch-key in the door, and his quick, firm tread in the hall, and saw his handsome, cheerful face, as he took her cheeks in his hands to kiss her, she felt ashamed and confused.

"I am afraid I shall have to hurry you, dear," he said, linking her arm through his, and leading the way to the dining-room, where the bright light made a genial glow on silver, crystal, and snow-white china.

"Hurry me, Rich—how?"

"I have to take the 7:30 train, very unexpectedly, for the city, on important business that cannot be delayed. I shall be at home to-morrow night, I expect. Jessie, will you have another piece of the black meat?"

Mrs. Wintringham toyed with her chicken, her appetite entirely destroyed by the news Rich announced.

"On important business." Yes, that was what Miss Jenkinson had said. And the night train, too! It flashed hotly across Jessie's mind that her husband was going down to the theater, and, if what Miss Jerusha had said was true, not alone.

That second decided her; and, as Mr. Wintringham arose from the dining-table, he little knew the thoughts that were thronging in his pretty little wife's head.

"Don't be lonesome, darling, will you? Or shall I stop and tell Florrie to come up to-night?"

Jessie laughed—a little forcedly.

"You over-anxious fellow! What do I want of sister Florrie? I shall not be lonely at all."

"Brave little woman! kiss me good-night, then, dear."

He was so kind and thoughtful; and Jessie's fond, foolish heart almost misgave her as she watched him off.

"It is downright wicked to distrust him; but, then, it is just these elegant, fascinating men who are so agreeable to other women besides their wives—at least Miss Jerusha says so, and she's old enough to know."

She watched the ivory hands of the cuckoo clock hastening toward 7:30.

"Well, I shall do it—this once, anyhow."

And she went up to her room, with sparkling eyes and glowing cheeks.

"Is this seat engaged, sir?"

It was a low, sweet voice that addressed Mr. Richmond Wintringham, as the seven-thirty train steamed on, after calling at the last station before reaching the Jersey City terminus.

Mr. Wintringham arose courteously, glanced at the small graceful figure in navy-blue waterproof and double veil.

"Take the seat by the window, madam."

She glided in, and Mr. Wintringham sat down beside her, all unconscious of the sidelong glance from a pair of eager eyes under the veil.

"How handsome he is! and he hasn't the least idea who I am."

For of course it was Jessie who had taken the train at the same station with Rich, but had waited until the last station had been reached before she changed her seat in the car for the one she now occupied.

"I wonder if he does know me? Of course he doesn't, only he don't seem very eager to say anything to me." Then a little fragrantly perfumed handkerchief fluttered accidentally (?) to the car.

Jessie made a deceitful little dive after it, displaying her daintily-kidded hand and round, neatly-cuffed wrist.

Rich quickly anticipated her, and handed the handkerchief quietly to her.

"Allow me, madam."

"O, thank you! I am sorry to trouble you so much. I was very awkward."

Jessie's cheeks were blushing furiously under her double dark brown veil.

"I will give him a chance, anyhow," she thought.

But Mr. Wintringham only bowed gravely, and maintained a courteous silence.

The train slowed up, and Jessie, with persistent determination to draw him into conversation, made a faint alarm that amused herself as she peered out of the window, then at her seat-mate.

"What are we stopping for? This isn't a station—O! is anything the matter?"

Rich smiled—this little woman was such an odd one.

"There is no need of apprehension, madame. We are entering the tunnel."

"The tunnel! O, dear, the tunnel!"

But Rich didn't "take" at all. He only settled cosily back and slouched his seal-skin hat on his forehead, leaving his companion to fight the imaginary terrors of the tunnel as best she might.

The train had come to its final standstill at the depot, and just as Wintringham arose to leave the car, he felt a timid touch of fingers on his coat-sleeve.

"Please pardon me—bu—but—there is ferry-boat to cross in—isn't there? and if you would be so kind as to tell me which way it is to the St. Julian Hotel?"

Rich buttoned up his overcoat deliberately while she spoke.

"The 'St. Julian?' I am going there myself, madam. If you are unaccompanied, I will see you there. This way, please."

At last! Jessie's cheeks were as hot as fire now, and her eyes bright as stars as she walked through the long depot and ferry-house beside her husband. In the ladies' cabin Rich gave her a seat, then left her to join a group of gentlemen who were conversing near the door, and at the New York dock he escorted her to a St. Julian transfer coach, much as if she had been a child in his charge, whom he was bound to do his duty by, and yet considered somewhat of a nuisance. As it happened, the coach had other passengers, so that the hot color had time to die from out Jessie's face, although she mentally regarded him "a darling, provoking fellow!"

"If you please, sir, an answer is wanted."

One of the waiters at the St. Julian handed a tiny notelet to Mr. Wintringham just after that gentleman had inspected the arrangements of his room, and was settled down for a half-hour's examination of sundry papers in his memorandum book.

"An answer!—a letter for me! O, yes, from Ned Hathaway, about the shares—"

His eyes opened widely as he carelessly tore it open, to find, not a business communication from Ned Hathaway, but a dainty little note, in a graceful, flowing back hand:

> "To the Gentleman in the Seal-skin Cap:—You have made me desire very much to see you again. Is there not time to attend the theater?
>
> "YOUR LADY ADMIRER."

Rich drew a long breath of surprise.

"So that's the little game, is it?"

Then he rapidly wrote an an answer and dispatched it by the man, who grinned knowingly as he received a twenty-five cent stamp from Jessie's trembling fingers.

"Now, then, I've caught him this time. Suppose he consents—"

The ebbing color on her cheeks, the quivering of her pretty mouth, was ample evidence of the state of her feelings; and she opened the sealed envelope as one does a telegram—trying to assure one's self nothing is amiss, and yet feeling it necessary to be prepared for the worst:

> "Permit 'the gentleman in the seal-skin cap' to offer a word of counsel to the 'lady admirer,' that, in future, she learns to distinguish between a gentleman and a scamp; and, when she returns home, which had better be at once, she confess her imprudence to her mother."

Jessie gave a little cry of delight.

"Rich, my own true Rich!"

The dinner-table was in readiness, deliciously suggestive odors of turtle-soup and egg-plant came from the regions where Jessie Wintringham's incomparable cook reigned supreme; and in the lace and damask draped bay-window Mrs. Wintringham waited for her husband's coming home, with her sweet face all sunny welcome, that made him feel what a bonny darling she was as he kissed her before even he removed his seal-skin cap.

"And how have you got along, Jessie? Were you lonely last night?"

She blushed a little as she helped him off with his overcoat.

"No, not at all. Indeed, I've had an unusually fine time."

"That's good. Had any company?"

"Yes. Flo and her lover were here to lunch this noon. Rich, I think Mr. Addison is just perfectly splendid."

He frowned in pretended horror.

"You think Flo's beau perfectly splendid! Very well, Mrs. Wintringham, if you wish me to be jealous."

"If that makes you jealous, what will you say when I tell you I have had a letter from a gentleman since you've been gone—a handsomer man than even Mr. Addison."

Jessie watched him closely, her eyes beginning to hint of not far-distant tears.

"You did! I dare say I can see it?"

He was smiling, very little as a distrustful husband would do.

Jessie slipped a half-sheet of paper from her pocket and gave it to him, her lip half trembling, yet half smiling. He opened it carelessly, then looked at her.

"Why, what on earth, Jessie? Why, I wrote this letter."

"Yes, I know you did—O, Rich!"

She was almost crying now, and her husband was looking so gravely at her. She pointed to a navy-blue waterproof and brown veil lying across a chair.

"It was I, Rich. I know it was awfully wicked, but—but I wanted to know if it was true, you know, and——"

Mr. Wintringham knit his brows frowningly. "I am not sure I understand yet. Jessie, did you send me that letter last night? Were you 'my lady admirer' on the train and at the St. Julian?"

She laid her hands on his shoulder, and looked in his eyes penitently.

"Don't scold, Rich. It was I, and my foolish jealousy has made me very happy, for all I know I was very cruel to do such a thing. You may punish me in any way you please, Rich."

She said it meekly, but with such love and pride in her eyes that he would have been less than Rich Wintringham to have censured her. So he drew her head down to his breast and kissed her, while she promised never be so foolish again.

Justly Punished.

The other night, at a late hour, a horse-car started from the new postoffice to run up-town through one of the east side avenues. The man who starts the cars—that is the fellow located down-town, who with a little whistle signals the drivers when to go—got aboard this particular car to go home. In the car were a young friend of mine, an aged gentleman, and a little ragged newsboy with a few papers in his hand. The burly starter no sooner saw the gamin than he seized him by the collar and threw him out of the door with such force that the little chap fell heavily against the railing, and began to cry bitterly. At this the aged gentleman rose and said:

"That was a very mean thing for you to do."

The starter brutally said: "I guess I can attend to my own business without your troubling yourself."

The old man replied rather severely:

"But it was the act of a coward, sir."

"I'll coward you," said the bully whereupon the old gentleman said, "Go in." Here my young friend rose, and began to put in a word; but the old man bowed and said, "I'm very much obliged to you, sir; but I am arguing this case, if you please."

At this he slapped the starter over the cheek so that the blow sounded like a torpedo exploding. The starter was about to square off when the old laddie let him have a stinger on the other cheek. The brute now began to back toward the door, the old man following him up and dealing slap after slap over eyes and ears. When the starter got outside he cried out to the old man, who had quietly sat down:

"Come out here and I'll give you a chance."

The old man calmly said, "You big bully, if I should come out there you wouldn't have teeth enough to eat your supper with. I'd knock 'em down your infernal throat. So don't say any more."

The starter got off and took another car. Then the old man turned to my friend and said:

"I'm very much obliged to you, sir, for your offer of assistance; but I didn't need it, sir; really didn't need it. You see, (here he cast his eyes down, as if his clean, patriarchical appearance might belie him), I was once just a leetle rough myself—just a mite rough, you know. I could put up the dukes in my day, I confess. I was rough, rough—but sir, I never hit a child in my life. No, sir, nor allowed anybody else to hit a child in my presence.—New York Letter.

Two Notable Weddings.

"I desire to state that my colleague is paired," said Mr. Ferry, President pro tem. of the Senate, the other day, when the name of Mr. Christiancy, of Michigan, was called. There was a twinkle in his eye when he said it, and the remark provoked a general laughter. Senator Christiancy was married the same morning to Miss Lillie Lugerbeel, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Treasury Department. The ceremony was quietly performed by Rev. Dr. Sunderland in the presence of a few friends at No. 310 Indiana avenue, Washington. Senator Ferry officiated as groomsman. The bridegroom is 64 years old, and is the father of six children. He lost his wife nine months ago. The bride is a pretty blonde only 20 years old. The happy couple went to New York to pass a portion of the honeymoon.

James Parton, the author, has innocently broken the law of Massachusetts by marrying his step-daughter in Newburyport, Mass. The morning after the wedding he learned that what he had done was contrary to the statute, and, leaving his home in charge of his bride, took separate lodgings himself until such time as he can induce the Legislature to pass a special act sanctioning the marriage. The affair has created quite a sensation in Newburyport. Miss Eldridge, the young lady who has thus become Mrs. Parton is the daughter of "Fanny Fern." Her sister married the late Mortimer Thompson, who became famous under the nom de plume of "Doesticks" many years ago. Mr. Thompson was twice married, and his wives both died in child-birth. Both children, a boy and a girl, survive. The former is with the mother of Mr. Thompson, and the girl, ever since its mother's death, has been cared for in the household of Mr. Parton. Since the death of her mother, Miss Eldridge has superintended affairs in the home of her step-father, whom she has just married.

Clapping Washington on the Back.

After the Revolutionary war, Washington and many of the army officers, then living in New York, met frequently at dinner at each other's houses. My grandfather, Dr. John Cochrane, (Surgeon and Director General of the military hospital of the army), attending at one of these had directed his son, my uncle, then a lad, to come in the evening and escort him home.

As the son of the doctor he was admitted to the dining-room, where, in the midst of their hilarity, he saw Gouverneur Morris, who was talking, turn suddenly toward Washington, next to whom he was seated, and clapping him on the back, heard him cry out, "Wasn't it so, my old boy?"

Washington, my uncle said, sat unmoved, and a death-like silence fell upon the whole company, which soon after quietly broke up.

It was understood that the scene was occasioned by a wager that a liberty could be taken with Washington.—John Cochrane, in New York Sun.

Religious Insanity.

A farm laborer at Wilbraham, Mass., crazed by religious excitement, closed a letter to his friends, on Saturday week, by saying that it was the last time he would ever write to them, as his right hand and right foot had offended, and he was going to cut them off and cast them from him, as the Scriptures direct. He then sharpened his jack-knife, took a saw, walked about a mile and a half from the house to the top of the mountain, and commenced operation on his right leg. He cut through the flesh just above the ankle joint, severing the cord, barely missing the main artery, and then began to ply the saw, but desisted after getting into the bone a little way, because, as he says, the saw was dull. He then walked back to the house, leaving a bloody trail behind him. He told the doctor who dressed the wound that he couldn't have been in his right mind, and the loss of superfluous blood had fully restored his reason.

THE ROAD TO RUIN.

What shall we Do With Our Boys.

The New York World has been collating the statistics of crimes committed by boys within the last three or four months, and the story is frightful. There are Jessie Pomeroy and the Blanchard boy to begin with. Two Kentucky cousins aged 11 and 12 espoused their fathers' quarrel, and last December one of them stabbed the other with his jack-knife in the ribs, killing him. A boy named Sheridan, in San Francisco, having graduated from the Industrial School, where he was sent at the age of 11 for larceny and burglary, stabbed and killed a playmate in less than four months after he came out. "Goody" Smith, aged 17, in Missouri, a week or two since, first threatened that he'd knock the d—d head off of his school-teacher, and then stabbed her twice with a gimlet, probably causing her death. Jesse Gibbs, in Texas, aged 16, a few weeks since shot a man dead from behind a fence, who had killed his father three years before. Frank Ruttan, aged 17, in New York State, last month, after trying to smash the skull of a little girl with a tack-hammer, choked her to death. For some days she was supposed to have died from accident. Johnny Brady, a San Francisco boy of 11, went around the Chinese quarter burning the necks of Chinese women with his cigar. He was finally arrested and a pistol, pack of cards and a plug of tobacco found on him. Peter Jones, a colored boy of 13, in Brooklyn, offered his companions three cents for his share of a duck they had jointly stolen. When his companions refused to give him back the change out of a nickel Peter cut his friend's arm with a razor. Sammy Cole, Illinois, aged 15, is now in prison for stealing a horse. A Brooklyn boy, aged 17, named Marshall, has been convicted of a series of burglaries netting him $2,500 in cash. A boy aged 6 years was found drunk in London last month. He had driven his father and mother from home and his grandmother could do nothing with him. An Ohio boy being weaned went into a decline and suffered from an excess of saliva, which was relieved by puffing at his father's cigars, on which he grew fat. But he reached ten or twelve a day and lost his health again. Being now 6 years old he consumes three or four per day, and is healthy and growing. Another Ohio boy, aged 16, shot his brother's head off as he lay in bed, while showing him "how to shoot on the wing." A Missouri boy, aged 13, took his pistol to school and amused himself by snapping it at the scholars. In the afternoon he succeeded in lodging a ball in the head of a little girl which ended her life. The "boy was severely trounced for his folly, by his parents, who deeply regret the occurrence," says the local paper. A boy aged 6, in Pennsylvania, took his brother's pistol and "playfully snapped" it at a boy aged 9 years, who was visiting him. The bullet entered the boy's brain.

These cases are all represented to be authentic, names, dates, and places being given. And we have no doubt they are. Indeed it is difficult to take up a paper without seeing some story of juvenile wickedness, recklessness of life or malicious killing, precocious bad habits or wanton sport, ending in a deplorable casualty on the part of boys ranging from 6 to 16 years of age. The doctrine of personal liberty has been carried to such illogical extremes that the retraint of children's tempers, caprices, and passions is looked upon as a violation of the Declaration of Independence.

The Bankrupt Act.

The most important business transacted by the House during the week, says a Washington dispatch, was the passage of the bill introduced by Mr. Willis, of New York, immediately after the holiday recess, to repeal the Bankruptcy act. Numerous petitions from all parts of the country have been received by Congress this session asking for this legislation, and the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom the bill was referred, agreed to report it. When the Committee was called in the House it was reported and passed with very little debate on the merits of the bill.

The act simply provides for the immediate repeal of the Bankruptcy law of 1867 and all amendatory or supplementary acts, and directs that all suits and proceedings now pending in the courts of the United States, where an adjudication in bankruptcy has been made, shall be proceeded with and governed by the provisions of existing laws, which are continued in force only for the purpose of closing up the suits and proceedings now pending. In all other cases, it is proposed that the act shall go into effect on the 1st of January, 1877.

The petitions for the repeal of this act referred to come principally from creditors, and the effect of the law of 1867 seems to be different from that of 1841, which two years later was repealed. This was found in its operation to be worse for debtors than for creditors. Forty years ago the man who availed himself of the privileges of the Bankruptcy act was unable to obtain further credit, and this had such a depressing effect upon business as to call forth a general demand for its repeal.

The Confederate Flag.

The Shreveport (La.) Times says: "During our civil war the several seceded States used their several State flags. In March, 1861, the Confederate Congress adopted the so-called 'stars and bars,' composed of three horizontal bars of equal width, the middle one white, with a blue union containing nine white stars arranged in a circle. The resemblance of this to the 'Stars and Stripes,' led to confusion and mistakes in the field; and in September, 1861, a battle flag was adopted, a red field charged with a blue saltier, with a narrow border of white, on which were displayed thirteen white stars. In 1863 the 'Stars and Bars' were supplanted by a flag with a white field, having the battle flag for a union. The flag of 1863 was found deficient in service, it being liable to be taken for a flag of truce; and on February 4, 1865, the outer half of the field beyond the union was covered with a vertical red bar. This was the last flag of the Confederacy."

A Magician's Trick.

A fresh story about Robert Houdin, the sleight-of-hand performer, is told in a new London book. He once entertained with his tricks a company of Arabs, in Algeria. After a feat with a gun, an old Arab asked the privilege of a shot with his own pistol. Houdin consented, but deferred the trial until the next day. In the interim he made two balls of wax and lampblack. One of these he made hollow, and filled it with blood. At the performance he allowed the Arab to choose a lead bullet from a saucer full, but in loading the pistol contrived to use the solid wax counterfeit. Of course the trickster was not injured by the firing. "Bah!" he said, "you have been unable to draw blood from me with a bullet, but I will draw blood from yonder wall." He loaded the pistol again, using the other prepared ball, and the stain of blood that it left on the wall astonished the Arabs.

Some Things That Were Not 100 Years Ago.

One hundred years ago wedding tours were not fashionable.

One hundred years ago the gin best known was not the cotton gin.

One hundred years ago there were no Pacific Railroad subsidies.

One hundred years ago farmers did not cut their legs off with mowing machines.

One hundred years ago our mothers did not worry over disordered sewing machines.

One hundred years ago horses which could trot a mile in 2:14 were somewhat scarce.

One hundred years ago there was no fast mail train between New York and Chicago.

One hundred years ago there were no disputes about the impoliteness of street-car drivers.

One hundred years ago people did not enjoy the inestimable pleasure of growling about gas bills.

One hundred years ago "crooked" whisky was not known. Our forefathers took theirs straight.

One hundred years ago university boat clubs were not entered at pool sales like fighting cocks in a pit.

One hundred years ago every young man was not an applicant for a position as clerk or book-keeper.

One hundred years ago false teeth were not considered much preferable to the original grinders.

One hundred years ago time and tide waited for nobody, and now nobody waits for either time or tide.

One hundred years ago kerosene lamps did not explode and assist women to shuffle off their mortal coil.

One hundred years ago men did not commit suicide by going up in balloons and coming down without them.

One hundred years ago there was no steam on canals—even the driver on the tow path didn't steam up in those days.

One hundred years ago there were no Turkish harems at Salt Lake, and no Ann Elizas suing for the nineteenth part of a divorce.

One hundred years ago England was not very far behind the United States in all that goes to make a nation powerful and progressive.

One hundred years ago a young woman did not lose caste by wetting her hands in dish-water or rubbing the skin off her knuckles on a wash-board.

One hundred years ago the physician who could not draw every form of disease from the system by tapping a large vein in the arm, was not much of a doctor.

One hundred years ago the producer carried his surplus products to market on his horse, the products being placed in one end of the bag and the jug in the other end.

One hundred years ago our fathers did not light their pipes with matches, but carried fire in their pockets in the shape of a piece of punk, a piece of steel and a flint.

One hundred years ago a public officer or other citizen could not steal enough to make the act respectable and insure the actor a prominent position in the "first circles."

One hundred years ago the condition of the weather on the 1st day of January was not telegraphed all over the continent on the evening of Dec. 31. Things have changed.

One hundred years ago people did not worry about rapid transit and cheap transportation, but threw their grain across the backs of their horses and uncomplaingly "went to mill."

One hundred years ago every man cut his coat according to his cloth—every man was estimated at his real value—shoddy was not known—nobody had struck "ile"—and true merit and honest worth were the only grounds for promotion.

One hundred years ago, to tell the truth, people generally died from natural causes, while in our day they step out through steamboat explosions, railroad smash-ups, hurricanes, earthquakes, circular saws, and in a thousand other ways discovered since the birth of the oldest inhabitant.—Toledo Blade.

Our Foreign Trade for 1875.

Says the Springfield Republican: The balance of trade for the last calendar year, reckoning exports and imports in gold and including specie, is found to be in our favor to the amount of $65,200,000. That is to say, we have exported this much more than we have imported. This is a little more than the net exportation of specie, so that our specie has gone abroad not to settle a commercial balance, strictly speaking, but probably to pay interest on our foreign-held obligations. Our net exportations of specie for some years have not risen to our annual production. The balance of trade of 1874 was almost precisely the same and on the same side.

Imports and exports both continue to show great reductions in money value, but by no means an equal reduction in bulk of merchandise. So great, indeed, has been the decline of prices both at home and abroad that we are, to-day, buying and selling vastly more for the same amount of money than five years ago. Perhaps the bulk of our foreign trade is now as great as in 1872, when the money value of our imports was 20 per cent. more than now. It has fallen off in iron wares and some goods in which native competition is the most active, but in groceries and other lines it has increased. The following comparisons present for five years the imports of merchandise, the exports of merchandise and the net exports of specie, all expressed in specie values:

	Imports.	Exports.	Specie export.
1875	$503,010,181	$510,618,054	$56,384,351
1874	562,156,334	569,073,098	87,473,271
1873	661,808,240	504,199,384	82,968,859
1872	614,397,484	419,884,239	73,937,634
1871	573,111,099	460,352,088	60,535,955

The Adverse Fortune of a Miner.

John Travis, a miner in this county, is an Austrian who settled here four years since, and had, by working for wages, accumulated $1,800. With this he started to return to the home of his youth, carrying most of his gold in a belt around his person. The journey across the continent and across the ocean was made in safety, Hamburg reached, and a plank laid for the passengers to pass from the steamer to the wharf. The plank was at once crowded. It broke, and twenty or thirty poor wretches were precipitated into the water. Travis was one of these, and although a good swimmer, he felt that the weight of gold in his belt was dragging him [illegible]. He loosened and dropped it, and was one of the rescued, five being drowned. The lost treasure could not be found. Travis then counted the means he had left—it was enough to take him home or bring him back to California. And back he came, and is again a miner in Amador.—Amador (Cal.) Ledger.

WASHING TO STIFFEN FINE LACE.—Dissolve a lump of white sugar in a cup of cold water.

BIG POTATOES.

An Extraordinary Yield of Tubers—Who [illegible] It.

The New York World says: Two years ago a Minnesota farmer succeeded in raising 807 pounds of potatoes from one pound of seed potatoes, and, although the yield was certified by a committee in every way trustworthy, it was considered by very many to be too great a strain upon credulity. In Europe, particularly, general doubt was expressed that a result so marvelous could be obtained, even under the most careful cultivation. But the discussion attracted attention to the subject, and last year a number of well-known agriculturists and gardeners made a series of careful experiments to determine the best results that could be obtained, H. C. Pearson, of Pitcairn, N.Y., heading the list with 1,016 pounds. This year foreign agriculturists who had finally become convinced that there was no fraud, were induced to experiment with the new American varieties, and the result was that they obtained better results than had ever before been recorded in this country, M. Leon Dafaure, of Lille, raising 1,634 pounds of an American and French cross, and Mr. W. Bromley Davenport, M. P., producing 1,082½ pounds of Eureka and 638 pounds of Snowflake, each from one pound of (tubers) seed.

But the awards for the American competition of last year, just awarded, throw the results obtained both by the Frenchman and by the Englishman into the shade. The premiums, amounting to $500 were divided as follows:

Grower.	Pounds.	Prize.
EUREKA.
J. L. Perkins, Little Sioux, Ia.	1,666½	$100
P. C. Wood, Esther, Ill.	1,403	50
Alfred Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,140	40
Milton M. Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,145	30
J. I. Salter, St. Cloud, Minn.	1,087	20
Henry V. Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,065½	10
SNOWFLAKE.
P. C. Wood, Esther, Ill.	1,417	100
J. L. Perkins, Little Sioux, Ia.	1,304	50
F. H. Seller, Verona, N. J.	1,126	40
J. I. Salter, St. Cloud, Minn.	1,090¾	30
Alfred Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,082¾	20
Henry V. Rose, Penn Yan, N. Y.	1,080¾	10

Twenty-seven bushels of potatoes from a pint of seed is a measure of fruitfulness that should satisfy the most exacting. But there is no reason to believe that the possibilities of reproduction have been even approximated. Every competitor is dissatisfied with the result, and intends to do better next year. Had the crops of one yielded uniform results from the seed equal to the best, he would have had over 6,680 pounds to show for the one pound he had buried. Commenting on the result, the Committee of Award say:

> The fertilizers used comprise nearly every known manure, and the quantities applied are not less enormous than the crops raised with them. Most growers have made compounds of various materials, and some seem to have faith in complicated formulas, which they prepare with the accuracy of a physician's prescription. About the value of wood ashes, hen manure and plaster, however, there seems to be no doubt, and we find them used by a large majority. Sulphur has been used by many.
>
> The planting, in nearly all cases, was done between the 10th and 26th of May, and one-fourth of all competitors dropped the seed on the 10th of May, nearly a week earlier than in former years. A comparison of the distances between the hills, with the average yield per acre, gives a most interesting and valuable table, as follows: The sets planted at a distance of—
>
> 2x3 feet gave a yield of 378 bushels per acre.
> 2x4 feet gave a yield of 462 bushels per acre.
> 3x3 feet gave a yield of 651 bushels per acre.
> 3x3½ feet gave a yield of 441 bushels per acre.
> 3x4 feet gave a yield of 372 bushels per acre.
> 3½x4 feet gave a yield of 341 bushels per acre.
> 4x4 feet gave a yield of 332 bushels per acre.
> 4x8 feet gave a yield of 86 bushels per acre.

A Remarkable Case of Embezzlement.

Now a young banker absconds with all his customers' money. This case is a little peculiar. The young man squandered it all upon a woman, but who do you suppose that woman was? Why, his own mother! She is a very handsome widow, 40, who has a passion for fashionable life. The young man, her son, is a weak, good fellow, who loves his mother, as very few sons do, and can refuse her nothing. When he went into business for himself, she emerged from the humble boarding house where they had lived, and took an elegant house up town, and commenced living in the style of wealthy people.

She set up a carriage—she had the house full of servants—she gave elegant entertainments—she bought diamonds and camel's hair shawls, and, in short, she lived at a rate that made all her old friends turn green with envy. The son, all this time, was furnishing her with the means for all this extravagance, knowing that the end was ruin, but his mother liked it, and he was too weak to say no. She probably knew that she was living beyond his means, but the madness was on her, and she could not stop.

The end came last week. The young man and his mother sailed for Rotterdam, taking with them every dollar that was in the concern, and all that could be borrowed, begged or stolen. It is supposed that the absconding, like all the rest of it, was the inspiration of the mother, for all who know the young man believe him to be honest, if left to himself. The loss to the depositors will foot up $600,000, and there is as much more owing on notes on the street. This vast sum of money has been spent within five years; and that it was spent there can be no doubt, for as near as can be ascertained they had mighty little to take away with them.

The fine house was dismantled, though they had sold quietly all that they could without exciting suspicion. Curious case! Men have been ruined by women times enough, but who ever heard before that woman's being one's own mother?—New York Letter.

What a Woman Did.

She was an average woman. She was in a meat market on Woodward avenue at half-past 11 o'clock, and there were five men in there, also. She wanted a bit of beef, a pinch of mutton, some dried beef sliced very thin—in fact, she wanted about twenty-nine cents' worth of meat. Each man was patient for ten minutes. Each one was impatient for ten minutes more. Each one waited exactly twenty-two minutes for that woman to pick and select and find fault and then each one stalked out, to find some other shop. Five business men lost one hundred and five minutes, or an hour and three-quarters, while one woman, whose time wasn't worth a cent an hour, bought twenty-nine cents' worth of meat.

As the men went out—

The first said the country was going to ruin.

The second said he'd rather eat snow than to [illegible].

The [illegible]

[illegible] and a lunatic.

The fifth fell down as he [illegible] he said—[illegible] mind.—[illegible] Free Press.

IN France the postal cards appear in great variety, because it is legal for any man to make his own, the payment being by an adhesive stamp. The result is that some are ornamented with elaborate designs on cardboard of various colors and materials.

SELF-REVEALED.

"Dip deep thy pen into my heart,
 Oh, angel scribe, and write that I
 May know myself: I will not cry
Nor weep. Dip deep; I will not start."

The angel dipped deep in her heart,
 And drew his dripping pen and wrote;
 And, though her knees together smote,
She did not cry, nor weep, nor start.

He wrote one word in many ways,
 All quaint, but beautiful, until
 His fair white roll was full, and still
Her modest eyes she did not raise.

"Is it all written?" "Even so.
 Behold!" She saw—and, for her sight
 Was dim with [illegible]
Her woman's tears began to flow.

Then through her tears she looked again,
 And saw the world all written fair;
 And smiled and sighed, and with her hair
Toyed, crying: "[illegible]

"Yet Thou, dear Christ, has shown me how
 To die for love; let others wear
 Life's roses in their waving hair.
I twine Thy [illegible]

The angel bent his [illegible] head
 And bade her bless him as he bowed;
 "For though my [illegible]
I am no poet to thee," he said.

Wit and Humor.

THE "Spirit of '76"—Crooked whisky.

CARVERS of their own fortunes—Butchers.

WHEN a man revolves much in his mind does it make him dizzy?

"WHICH is the entrance out?" asked a man at a railway station the other day.

THE hens of France earn $80,000 a year for their owners. Hens the proverb, "Hensome is as hensome does."

"THE social element in business affairs," is the pleasant way in which the editor alludes to the female drummer question.

IF you were to ask old Father Time how he felt, he would undoubtedly answer, "Sew-sew." So many persons "take a stitch in Time," you know.

THERE is nothing like going to bed. In sleep all the cares and vexations of fashionable life are forgotten, and individuals lie calmly down, regardless of what they have on.

THE Doylestown (Pa.) Intelligencer has just lost a subscriber for rather a novel reason. The individual had just bought a Bible, and he guessed he'd have about as much new reading matter as he could attend to.

A RAPTURED writer inquires: "What is there under heaven more humanizing, or, if we may use the term, more angelizing, than a fine black eye in a lovely woman?" Two black eyes is the only answer thought of at present.

THE owner of a pair of bright eyes assures us that the prettiest compliment she ever received came from a child of 4 years. The little fellow, after looking intently at her for a moment, inquired naively, "Are your eyes new ones?"

"PA, will you get me a pair of skates if I prove to you that a dog has ten tails?" "Yes, my son." "Well, to begin, one dog has one more tail than no dog hasn't he?" "Yes." "Well, no dog has nine tails; and if one dog has one more tail than no dog, then one dog must have ten tails!" He got the skates.

MANEUVERING mamma (anxious that her daughter's chief attraction should not escape the notice of the very eligible young man who is taking her—the daughter—down to supper).—"Maria! Maria!" Maria—"Yes, mamma!" Maneuvering mamma (in loud whisper)—"Take your eyelashes out of tangle, darling!"—Punch.

SERVANT—"Somebody wants to see you, sir." Master (a "shoddy," giving his first swell dinner)—"Oo is hit?" Servant—"Don't know, sir." Master—"Well, well; but what's 'e like—is 'e a gentleman?" Servant (who has evidently been "tasting"—"No-o-o-o, sir, not exactly a gentleman, sir—just something like yourself——."—London Fun.

A MORMON youth who had removed from Iowa to Utah, whom a traveler found tending sheep, said: "I come from Ioway two years ago. Pap told us all along the road that we were comin' to Zion. Well this is the cussedest old Zion I want to see. I'd ruther have one foot of land in Ioway than all these mountaings of the Lord, an' I guess the Lord would too, if he'd ever seen Ioway."

A GENTLEMAN on a visit to Washington very coolly opened the Senate Chamber door, and was about to pass in, when the doorkeeper asked, "Are you a privileged member?" "What do you mean by that?" asked the stranger. The reply was, "A Governor, an ex-member of Congress, or a foreign minister." The stranger replied that he was a minister. "From what court or country?" asked the official. Very gravely pointing up, "From Heaven, sir." To this the doorkeeper bluntly remarked, "Nothing to do with this place. Go away."

ONE of the colored residents of Detroit was yesterday asked why he did not attend the poultry show. A glad smile crossed his face as the word "poultry" was spoken, but died away in a moment as the stern reality confronted him. "Dere's heaps o' chickens dere, hain't dey?" he asked. "Yes." "But dey are all in cages, hain't dey?" "Yes." "And you want me to go dere and stand around and gaze on dose chickens which can't come out of dose cages, do yow? No, sah; I knows just how I'd feel, sah!"—Detroit Free Press.

How to Cure Stammering.

A gentleman who was once an inveterate stammerer writes as follows about the way to cure the habit: "No stammering person ever found any difficulty in singing. The reason of this is, that by observing the measure of the music—by keeping time—the organs of speech are kept in such position that enunciation is easy. Apply the same rule to reading or speech, and the same result will follow. Let the stammerer take a sentence, say this one, 'Leander swam the Hellespont,' and pronounce it by syllables, keeping time with his finger, letting each syllable occupy the same time, thus: Le—an—der—swam—the—Hel—les—pont, and he will not stammer. Let him pronounce slowly at first, then faster, but still keeping time, keeping time with words instead of syllables, and he will be surprised to find that, by very little practice, he will read without stammering, and nearly as rapidly as persons ordinarily talk or read. Then practice this in reading and conversation until the habit is broken up. Perseverance and attention is all that is necessary to perform a perfect cure."

[illegible] the Republic.

John [illegible] who has reached the age of 104 years and 5 months [illegible] to America. He left his home near Greenville, N. C., on Tar River, and walked to Huntington, W. Va., being very nearly a year on the road. He was never married. He chews tobacco, and enjoys his cup of coffee every morning.—Maysville (Ky.) Bulletin.

[illegible] one person is killed where 700,[illegible] are safely carried on a railroad.

DISCONTENT.

BY SARAH O. JEWETT.

Down in a field, one day in June,
The flowers all bloomed together,
Save one, who tried to hide herself,
And drooped, that pleasant weather.

A Robin who had soared too high,
And felt a little lazy,
Was resting near a Buttercup
Who wished she were a Daisy.

For Daisies grow so trig and tall,
She always had a passion
For wearing frills about her neck
In just the Daisies' fashion.

And Buttercups must always be
The same old tiresome color,
While Daisies dress in gold and white,
Although their gold is duller.

"Dear Robin," said this sad young flower,
"Perhaps you'd not mind trying
To find a nice white frill for me,
Some day, when you are flying?"

"You silly thing!" the Robin said
"I think you must be crazy!
I'd rather be my honest self
Than any made-up Daisy.

"You're nicer in your own bright gown,
The little children love you;
Be the best Buttercup you can,
And think no flower above you.

"Though Swallows keep me out of sight,
We'd better keep our places;
Perhaps the world would all go wrong
With one too many Daisies.

"Look bravely up into the sky,
And be content with knowing
That God wished for a Buttercup
Just here where you are growing."

—St. Nicholas for February.

THE WIDOW BARLOW.

Peter Buskirk was very fond of money; not so fond that he quite starved himself to keep it, or hide it up chimney, or refused himself fire, or lights or a pillow; but yet so very fond of it as to be on the verge of miserhood without having quite fallen over. Beggars reaped no harvest from his purse or kitchen, and match-makers could make no impression on his bachelor heart. Peter Buskirk saw through the latter as well as the former, and buttoned up his pockets as hastily in the presence of bewitching crinoline as in that of a seedy gentleman with a folded document in his breast pocket. The men wanted to rob him, the women to marry him. The last was the worst. Not that Peter hated women; on the contrary, even at fifty he was remarkably susceptible; a bright eye put him in a flutter. But the fact was, women, as wives or daughters, were expensive. They needed clothes, and were fond of dainties. They were proverbially extravagant. Should he marry one, she would spend his money while he lived and squander it after he was dead. And, with this awful terror before him, Peter steered clear of the shoals of matrimony.

There was one inconvience in this bachelorhood, however. That was the housekeeping; for it involved a servant —some one to make beds, wash dishes, cook and iron. In short, the servant-of-all-work was always the bane of Peter's life—eating and drinking in a manner which kept the master of the house in a continual ferment; wasting butter and fuel, and each change in the kitchen's encumbrance being followed by the mysterious disappearance of towels and napkins and such small ware. There was no rest for good Mr. Buskirk. He tried Betty and Dinah and Mary and Ann, and then, in despair, flew to a certain Mrs. Brown, the giver of tea-parties innumerable, for advice.

"Servants are sad plagues," she said.

"Eat you out of house and home," said Peter.

"Not to be relied on for honesty," said Mrs. Brown.

"Thieves, ma'am, thieves!" said Peter.

"Ah," said Mrs. Brown, "a gentleman has no time to watch them. Now I should advise marrying, Mr. Buskirk."

"Marrying!"

"Yes, sir; a wife can manage such things so much better. Besides, if you choose a smart, capable woman, she will keep an eye on the servant. It would be much more economical to marry."

"Economical!" yelled Peter; "my good lady! Eco—I—O, goodness! Feathers and flowers, laces and silks, and ring and—and ice cream and things —economical! How many yards do you take for a dress, ma'am?"

"Well, sir, twelve or fifteen—sometimes, when it's silk, you know, eighteen."

"Eighteen yards, at five shillings or so a yard, and not one dress, but twenty. My good lady, it would be enough to ruin a man."

Mrs. Brown reflected.

"But if you could find an economical woman, Mr. Buskirk."

Ah! if I could find a mermaid."

"One who never wasted a penny."

"She does not exist, ma'am."

"Who lives on next to nothing. The fact is, Mr. Buskirk, I have such a lady in my eye. She's a widow—quite a young one—Mrs. Barlow, and I'll have her at Peach House next week."

Peter Buskirk grinned sarcastically.

"Economy in hoops and bonnets," he said to himself. "They want to marry me and spend my money."

And he went home wroth.

However, economy forbade him to refuse an invitation to dinner; and when, a week after, Mrs. Brown sent "her compliments," etc., Mr. Buskirk donned his Sunday suit and went over to Peach House at five precisely. The parlor was full of ladies; ladies in silks and muslins, with crinolines and flounces. Most of them Mr. Buskirk knew well, and he looked about in vain for a stranger. Mrs. Brown's note had said:

"Mrs. Barlow will be with us."

But which was that economical widow? Probably the lady in green silk near the piano. He could not remember her face.

Suddenly Mr. Buskirk's doubts were set at rest. Mrs. Brown ejaculated, "Dear me! where is Cousin Betsey? Mr. Buskirk, you must be introduced to Mrs. Barlow," and at these words something small and flat emerged from between two portly dames, and stood before him. It was a very short and slender little woman, with a remarkably pretty face. She wore no hoops, and her dress cleared her ankles. The sleeves were close, and the skirt had perhaps three breadths in it. The dress itself was of very plain brown merino, and she wore neither brooch nor bow, only a white linen collar. Peter looked approval. Several of the ladies exchanged glances, and a faint giggle was heard; and, as though by common consent, the two were left tete-a-tete in a corner.

"Pleasant day," said Peter, to commence the conversation. "Pleasant day, but cold."

"Ah, yes, but I dislike cold weather," said the lady.

"Don't agree with you, ma'am?"

"O, that's not it. I am never ill, but [illegible] early and coals dear," proceeded the lady. "Money slips through one's fingers, and I never waste things."

"My case exactly," said Buskirk. "It's astonishing how things cost. Now there is butter—say a pound a fortnight."

"O, I never eat butter; it costs too much," said the lady.

"Ah, and sugar and tea and coffee."

"If you indulge in such luxuries, what can you expect?" said Mrs. Barlow.

"They are artificial wants altogether, so they are," said Mr. Buskirk. "But then, habit is second nature."

"Extravagant habits ruin many," said Mrs. Barlow. "O, I shudder when I look at those flounces. Such a waste of material."

"I've often thought so," said Peter. "And you don't wear them?"

"I?" said Mrs. Barlow. "I have my senses, sir. I've no wish to die in a work house. I've had this dress ten years."

"Indeed!" said Peter. And I suppose some ladies buy one every month."

"Every ten days," said Mrs. Barlow. "O, I blush for my sex, Mr. Buskirk, I do, indeed."

Peter was charmed. He began to think Mrs. Brown right. The cost of such a wife would be a mere trifle, and what an eye she would keep to the expenses of a household.

Ere the evening was over he had decided that it would be cheaper to marry than to remain single, were Mrs. Barlow his helpmate.

"She'd not only be saving herself, but she would check me in my little extravagances," said he. "She would be invaluable to me. She wears one dress ten years. The fates must have sent her to earth for my special benefit."

So, after due consideration, Peter resolved to court the economical widow, and, that lady being conveniently domiciled at Mrs. Brown's, he found every opportunity.

It was a very inexpensive courtship. He gave her not a present. She expected none. He took her nowhere save to church, where neither of them ever saw the plate, and both were happy.

At last he proposed. She blushed and hesitated, and begged time to consider. At last she said, "I am afraid to say yes, Mr. Buskirk. I like you; but you are so terribly extravagant. You drink tea and coffee, and eat butter, and really I should fear coming to want, I should, indeed."

"I! Why, I'm the most economical soul living," said Peter.

"Extravagant people always think that," said the lady. "No, I'm afraid to say yes, unless, indeed, you were to make your property over to me, so that I could be sure you would not ruin yourself. Of course that is impossible, and it would be such a care that really I could scarcely desire it, even for a gentleman I so much respect."

And the economical relict blushed and hesitated.

It was Peter's turn to pause and consider. He went away to do so, and, returning suddenly to his house, found his serving-maid selling dripping to a man. He dismissed her at once, and rushed back to the Widow Barlow's.

"My money would be safer in your hands than mine," he said, with a moan. "Marry me, and keep me from being ruined."

"What the widow's answer was may be judged from the fact that three weeks from that day they were united, the clergyman receiving five shillings from Peter, and the bride wearing her brown merino, in the pocket of which she carefully deposited the deeds which made the property exclusively her own.

"Now for happiness," said Peter. "No more thieving servants—no more waste—and a lovely wife into the bargain. He, he, he! Peter Buskirk is the man for luck."

And he took his wife home to dine on cold meat and radishes, being absolutely ashamed even to speak of his accustomed mutton chop before so economical a lady.

The next morning he hurried off to business.

"Never waste time, love," said the newly married dame. "Besides, I've a great deal to attend to; so good-by."

"Good-by," responded Peter. "What a treasure you are, my dear. The washing, I suppose? My mother always washed on Monday."

And away he went, content with himself and all the world.

At six he returned. Horror of horrors! there were ladders against his house, and men upon them. Had there been a fire? He rushed up, breathless.

"What is the matter? Who are these men?" he inquired. "Fire! thieves! O! I must be dreaming."

"Don't make a noise, love," said a voice from the parlor window. "They're only the house painters."

"House—painters!"

"Yes, dear. Don't you know the Dutch proverb, 'A coat of paint pays itself?'"

Peter breathed again.

"But the awful expense!" he said. "Dear, dear, you should have consulted me."

He stumbled into the house, and over the form of a man kneeling in the hall.

"Who are you?" he asked.

In reply the person produced a card on which was printed, "Gilt & Binder, Upholsters."

"And what are you doing?" gasped Peter.

"Measuring the hall for a new oil-cloth, sir," said the man.

Peter staggered on.

A woman was making up a carpet in the front parlor; another was arranging curtains.

He rushed up stairs.

There sat another woman also at work. Again he gasped the question, "Who are you?"

"Mrs. Buskirk's regular seamstress, please, sir," said the woman.

"And where is Mrs. Buskirk?"

"Here, love," said a voice.

And there entered, from the adjoining room, a lady dressed in silk, and in expansive crinoline, with bracelets, brooch, earrings and a little lace cap worth a small fortune.

"The furniture is ordered, and the painters are here, and I've engaged all the servants, Mr. Buskirk," said the lady; "and cook wants to know whether you like beef under or well done. In such things you shall have your choice always. There was no time to make a pudding to-day, so we must have ices. Strawberries, too, are only two shillings a basket."

"Mrs. Buskirk, have you gone crazy?" cried Peter, "or am I dreaming?"

"I'm wide awake, at all events," cried the lady. "I've starved long enough, and worn that brown merino until I hate it. I always was fond of dress—"

"Fond of dress!" repeated Peter; "and loved good things!"

"Loved good things," repeated the spouse; "and now I'm married I mean to have them."

"But if—I had—known—I—" began Peter.

"Wouldn't have married me, I suppose," said the bride. "Well, my [illegible] told me that, you know."

Peter looked at her. The truth was plain at last. He stared at his lady for five minutes by the clock, and then rushed out of the house, muttering, "Taken in! taken in!"

It is said Peter Buskirk never recovered the shock. Against his will he lived luxuriously ever after; and his wife astonished the neighborhood by her magnificent attire and grand parties. But nevertheless Peter himself expired in less than a year; and the last words on his lips were said to be "Taken in! taken in!"

444—A Famous Landmark Destroyed.

The well known building No. 444 Broadway, which was consumed in the conflagration last night, was in many respects a landmark of old New York. During the period between 1850 and 1860 it was occupied by the City Assembly rooms, then one of the largest and best known ball rooms in the city. About 1855 the space under the ball room was leased and fitted up as a variety theater —Jerome B. Fellowes, of Fellowes' Minstrels, opening with a troupe which was at first an offshoot of the old Christy Minstrels organization, and comprised among its members George Christy and other well known performers. Fellowes had the theater about a year. At the close of his management it was taken by Mr. John Brougham, and its name changed to Brougham's Lyceum. Several other troupes afterward occupied the boards in succession, and in 1858–9, R. W. Butler leased the house, and started the variety theater which later on became famous as "444." Among the actors who acquired celebrity on its stage were Tony Pastor and Billy O'Neill. Charley White, Billy Holmes, Thompson and Carr, and James Wambold, were connected with the theater at various times during Butler's management. It was then the leading variety theater of the metropolis, and, from various causes, acquired a wide celebrity. During the war the house did an enormous business, as many as 4,000 tickets being sold in one evening. On Feb. 15, 1866, the building was burned in a fire which consumed over $150,000 worth of property. The fire caught behind the scenes of the theater, and it was thought to have been occasioned by the detachment of a stove pipe in the green room. The owners, in rebuilding, fitted up the entire block as stores, and the theatrical tenants were forced to take up new quarters. The basement under No. 444 Broadway was for several years occupied as a concert saloon, and during the waiter-girl furore, which began in 1860, was one of the most notorious of this class of resorts in New York. The building No. 444 has been burned down four times within the last thirty years, the last two fires occurring in 1854 and 1866.

The Continental Hotel was formerly Mitchell's Olympic Theater, and here many of the actors whose names rank among the first in the annals of the New York stage, either made their first appearance, or established a reputation that has ever been known to old New York play-goers. Burton, Holland, Davenport, Forrest, Junius Brutus Booth, and many others, have trod its boards, and the old place was surrounded by historic reminiscences of the stage. —New York Times.

Affecting Scene in a Deaf Mute School.

A beautiful incident is related to us which occurred only a few days ago in the Home School to teach mutes articulation and lip-reading at Mystic River. Miss P., an interesting graduate of one of the oldest institutions for the education of deaf mutes, having a desire to learn to speak and to read the lips of her speaking friends, was recommended by her old principal to try Mr. Whipple's school, and she entered it last term. She made rapid progress, and was much aided by the natural alphabet, the invention of her teacher. This alphabet curiously suggests sound, or the right position of the organs to utter sound, as well as form; and whenever a mute pupil can read and write it, he or she can generally give any of the forty sounds of her difficult language with great precision and discrimination, and often with remarkable correctness. This young lady, filled with enthusiasm at every step, mastered the alphabet with little difficulty, and one day came to her teacher with something written on her slate, which she asked him to correct, her mind being agitated with emotion. It proved to be the Lord's Prayer, put into the language of articulation. Perceiving her agitation the teacher could scarce retain his own tears as he corrected a few unimportant errors of pronunciation, and delicately returned it. The next morning the young lady came exultingly to her teacher, exclaiming: "I prayed last night for the first time in my life with my voice;" and neither of them could restrain their emotions. He ventured to ask her if she had prayed before. "Oh, yes; I have thought my prayers, but I never spoke them before." "My lips shall praise Thee, O God;" "Attend to the voice of my supplications, O Lord." The earnestness and satisfaction of the devout mute who had now realized one of the bright dreams of her life admitted of no question, and called for no reproof, if she was something of a literalist in her interpretation. —Norwich (Ct.) Bulletin.

The Value of Education.

Jake was heard calling across the fence to his neighbor's son, a colored youth who goes to school at the Atlanta colored university:

"Look hyar, boy, you goes ter school don't yer?"

"Yes, sir," replied the boy.

"Gittin' eddykashun, ain't yer?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, it don't take two whole days to make a hour, do it?"

"W'y no!" exclaimed the boy.

"You was gwine ter bring dat hatchit back in a hour, warn't yer?"

"Yes, sir."

"An' it's bin two days sence yer borrowed it. Now, what good's eddykashun gwine ter do you thick skulled niggers when yer go to school a whole year an' den can't tell how long it takes to fotch back a hatchit?"

The boy got mad and slung the hatchet over the fence and half way through an ash barrel.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Bill of Particulars.

A Worcester gentleman, says the Boston Post, recently sent a very fine French clock to a well-known jeweler to be repaired, saying that he wished each item of repairing specified. The following is a copy of the bill as rendered:

To removing alluvial deposit and oleaginous conglomerate from clock a la French	$0.50
To replacing in appropriate juxtaposition the constituent components of said clock	0.50
To lubricating with oleaginous solution the apex of pinions of said clock	0.50
To adjusting horologically the isochronal mechanism of said clock	0.50
To equalizing the acoustic resultant of escape wheel percussion upon the verge pallets of said clock	0.50
To adjusting the distance between the center of gravity of the pendulum and its point of suspension, so that the vibration of the pendulum shall cause the index hand to indicate approximately the daily arrival of the sun at its meridian height	0.50
Total	$3.00

MICHAEL McFADDEN and Michael Burns, of Fall River, quarreled in the presence of McFadden's dog; the dog may not have understood the affair, yet the next time he met Burns he attacked him savagely, inflicting dangerous wounds.

Dissipation vs. Legislation.

[Washington Cor. Chicago Tribune.]

The proceedings at the Capitol last week were "flat, stale, and unprofitable," but social life here was remarkably "gay and festive." This is not to be wondered at. Take for example the Honorable Representative from the Eighteenth District (he calls it deestrict) of Florida, a worthy back country lawyer, whose healthy home-diet has been hog, hominy, and fried chicken, with an occasional dram of crooked whisky. He is on the Special Committee charged with the investigation of the amount of red-tape used in the Tying-up Bureau of the Circumlocution Department, and old Capt. Barnacle, the head of that bureau, invites him to dine at the Widow Welcher's, hoping to prevent a report that, as each official could tie his own packages with string, the Tying-up Bureau might be abolished, and its supply of red tape saved. The dinner is especially restaurantish, consisting of half a dozen successive courses, rejoicing in Parisian names, questionable in appearance, and so flavored as to defy detection. Some manufactured wine adds to the indigestibility of the repast, and the Hon. M. C. from the Eighteenth District goes thence to a "reception," where he again feeds upon terrapin and oysters, washed down by copious draughts of the juice of the rhubarb-plant, labeled "Moet & Chandon." As he leaves the house he is joined by a veteran lobbyist, who kindly suggests that at this season a few glasses of hot Scotch whisky punch is the sure preventive of colds. And when, after all this eating and guzzling, the Hon. M. C. from the Eighteenth District gets to bed, about 2 o'clock in the morning, his slumbers are not quiet. Rising about 10 o'clock, he has no appetite for breakfast, and, going to the Capitol, takes a Congressional bath, after which he has the Congressional barber shampoo his aching head. Can you expect this victim to metropolitan gayety to apply himself to legislation? A verbal sparring-match between two of the oratorical shoulder-hitters may rouse him from his apathy, but he does not get his food of the night previous digested, and his head freed from the potations then imbibed, until the hour of adjournment. Then another dinner—another reception—another alcoholic night-cap—and another uncomfortable, useless day. It is thus invariably the case that, when the fashionable season is at its height, but little legislation is perfected.

King and Schumaker.

Bill King and Schumaker, says a Washington correspondent, are at present the closest united members in the House. Although they are members of opposite political parties, their common afflictions have made them as brothers. For some time the Judiciary Committee has been considering the case of these two men in the light of the Pacific Mail testimony referred to it by the Ways and Means Committee. By this testimony it is shown that Schumaker received upward of $200,000 to act as a paid lobbyist of the corrupt Pacific Mail agency. King has not only been shown to have been a bribe taker, but by record a perjurer as well. The Judiciary Committee are clearly of the opinion that these men should be expelled from Congress, but are doubtful whether they have the right to go back of the election of these men and punish their acts committed prior to that time. Upon this quibble Schumaker and King rest much hope. These two worthies got together this afternoon upon the east side of the Hall of Representatives, and had a long conference. Schumaker lazily stood up against the wall near the door, while King stood behind a screen near by, as if he did not wish prying eyes to watch him as he talked. Said Schumaker: "What do you think, King; do you have an idea that this Congress will do anything with us?" "Shoo," said King, as he pulled his hair over his forehead, down between his ratty-bright eyes, "I ain't afraid of anything this Congress can do. If they want to make a fight on us, let 'em. I guess I can make it warm for some of 'em. There are too many burned children in this House to ever dare to push us."

Willing to be Hanged.

George Morris, whom Judge Steele of New Orleans recently sentenced to be hanged, came to the bar whistling and laughing. The Judge said, "George, you have been convicted of the murder of Sarah Jones. You pleaded guilty twice, but I insisted that your case should go before twelve citizens of your country. Have you anything to say why the sentence of the law should not be passed upon you?" Morris smiled and said, in a clear voice, "I agree with you, and am now prepared to receive the full extent of the law, which I know is death." After Judge Steele had sentenced him to be hanged, Morris thanked him for his kindness in so doing.

DAVID DUDLEY FIELD is not a teacher of penmanship. Recently he signed a legal document, and sent it to a printer in Albany. The proof was sent to him to be read, and "David Dudley Field" in manuscript appeared in type as "Tried and duly filed."

WE would no more be without Dobbins' Electric Soap (made by Cragin & Co., Philadelphia), in our family, than without a stove. It is pure, and does its own work without the main strength of the washerwoman. Try it.

MISS BETSY CARR, of New Hampshire, is 105 years old. She says she never expects to marry, but will probably live and die an old maid. It looks a little that way.

"Facts are Stubborn Things."

Thousands of human beings are yearly borne on the swift current of disease down to the grave, just because they do not possess a sufficient knowledge of themselves. A man meets his neighbor, and the first salutation is, "How are you?" or "How is your health?" The reply frequently is, "Oh, I am well, with the exception of a cold." Most persons lightly regard a cold. Reader, do you know that a cold is one of the most dangerous of maladies? A cold not only clogs up the pores of the entire system, and retards circulation, but it is productive of Catarrh, which is quite apt to lead to Consumption. "Oh," you say, "It is nothing but a cold in my head." True; but that cold is really a mild form of Catarrh, and if not arrested in its course will become chronic. Catarrh is one of the most disagreeable, offensive affections in the catalogue of diseases. The passage to the nose is obstructed, the sense of smell impaired, and there is a disagreeable sensation of pressure in the head. In the more advanced stages, there is a discharge having an offensive odor. If the disease be allowed to continue in its course, thick, hard incrustations will form in the head, the bones of which sometimes become softened and break away in pieces. Why will persons continue to suffer from such an annoying, disgusting disease, when they can just as well be cured of it? Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will cure the worst forms of Catarrh; in fact, it is the only sure and safe remedy which has yet been offered to the public. Many harsh, irritating preparations may, for a time, relieve the urgency of the symptoms, but they do not cure the disease. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is soothing and healing in its effects, and when used with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, according to directions, does not fail to affect a cure. Sold by all Druggists.

CHEAPEST, best family paper in the world—CHICAGO LEDGER. See advertisement.

METZLER & Co., the most extensive dealers in reed instruments in London, pronounce the Mason & Hamlin "the finest reed instrument in the world." Augustus L. Tamplin and Chevalier Lemmens, the famous harmonium players, are using these organs at their London concerts.

These are fine compliments for our famous American makers, upon which we congratulate them, adding that they are thoroughly deserved.—New York Philharmonic Journal.

VEGETINE.—The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the vegetable kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. Vegetine is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and is perfectly safe to give to an infant. Do you need it? Do not hesitate to try it. You will never regret it.

PIMPLES on the face, rough skin, chapped hands, saltrheum and all cutaneous affections cured, the skin made soft and smooth, by the use of Juniper Tar Soap. That made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, is the only kind that can be relied on, as there are many imitations, made from common tar, which are worthless.

JIMMY BLANCHARD has been engaged to make a tour through the United States, giving exhibitions in the principal cities.

SEE ADVERTISEMENT headed "A Remarkable Invention," in another column, and do not fail to send for an illustrated catalogue.

CHICAGO LEDGER—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

Consumptives, Take Notice.—Every moment of delay makes your cure more hopeless, and much depends on the judicious choice of a remedy. The amount of testimony in favor of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for consumption, far exceeds all that can be brought to support the pretensions of any other medicine. See Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing the certificates of many persons of the highest respectability, who have been restored to health after being pronounced incurable by physicians of acknowledged ability. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many, as these evidences will show; but the cure is often promoted by the employment of two other remedies which Dr. Schenck provides for the purpose. These additional remedies are Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. By the timely use of these medicines, according to directions, Dr. Schenck certifies that most any case of Consumption may be cured.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

A pair of shoes will last you only five cents more with a SILVER TIP on than without, and it will add twice the cost of the shoe to their wearing value. Also try Wire Quilted Soles.

For service and comfort wear Cable Screw Wire Boots and Shoes, the best and easiest. Also try Wire Quilted Soles. CABLE SCREW WIRE

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

20 FANCY CARDS, 7 styles, with name, 10c. Address J. B. HUSTED, Nassau, Rens. Co., N.Y.

HOUSEKEEPERS rejoice. AGENTS make money with our 5 NEW articles. CAPEWELL & CO., Cheshire, Ct.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

$10 to $25 per day Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. STINSON & CO., Portland, Me.

500,000 Evergreens, 1 to 4 feet; 300,000 Osage Plants at prices that defy competition. Circulars free. Address Barnes, Creswell & Co., Kirkwood, Ill.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 40cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

W. L. HAYDEN, Teacher of Guitar, Flute, Cornet. Agt. for Tilton Pat. Guitar, the best in use. Dealer in Musical Instruments, Music, Strings. Catalogues free. 120 Tremont St. Boston.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Washington St., Boston.

$350 A Month.—Agents wanted. 24 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich

A Miniature Oil Painting on Canvas which will be your own Likeness, free, with The Home Weekly, sent 3 months on trial for 25 cts. Money to Agents. L. T. LUTHER, Mill Village, Erie Co., Pa.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents, Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$60 PER MONTH and traveling expenses paid to salesmen who can sell our goods, and better wages to experienced salesmen. Address ARGAND KINDLER CO., 20 LaSalle St., CHICAGO, Ill.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

BOOK AGENTS. MOODY & SANKEY.—The only original, authentic and complete record of these men and their works. Beware of imitations. SEND FOR CIRCULARS. American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S New Book outsells everything. Don't worry about hard times. Sell this book and see how easy they are. Send for circulars to American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

WANTED—A few intelligent Ladies and Gentlemen to solicit orders for CAPT. GLAZIER'S new work, "Battles for the Union." Just the book for Centennial times. All expenses advanced. References required. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO., Hartford, Conn.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY. AGENTS make $100 weekly by canvassing for it; 128 pages, 80 illustrations, $3.00 yearly, with elegant chromo. Send 20 cents for copy and terms to FRANK LESLIE, New York.

Kidney Complaint.

Probably there is no complaint that afflicts the human system which is so little understood at the present time as some of the varied forms of Kidney Complaints.

There is no disease which causes such acute pain or more alarming in its results than when the kidneys fail to secrete from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous substances which the blood accumulates in its circulation through the system.

If from any cause the kidneys fail to perform the functions devolving upon them, the cumulations are taken up by the absorbents and the whole system thrown into a state of disease, causing great pain and suffering, and very often immediate death. Hence the importance of keeping the kidneys and blood in a healthy condition, through which all the impurities of the blood must pass.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

There is no remedy known to medical science which has proved itself more valuable in cases of Kidney Complaints than the VEGETINE. It acts directly upon the secretions, cleanses and purifies the blood, and restores the whole system to healthy action.

The following extraordinary cures of great sufferers, who had been given up by the best physicians as hopeless cases, will speak for themselves, and should challenge the most profound attention of the medical faculty, as well as those who are suffering from Kidney Complaint.

THE BEST MEDICINE.

EAST MARSHFIELD, Aug. 22, 1870.

MR. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—I am seventy-one years of age; have suffered many years with Kidney Complaint, Weakness in my Back and Stomach. I was induced by friends to try your VEGETINE, and I think it the best medicine for weakness of the Kidneys I ever used. I have tried many remedies for this complaint, and never found so much relief as from the VEGETINE. It strengthens and invigorates the whole system. Many of my acquaintances have taken it, and I believe it to be good for all the complaints for which it is recommended.

Yours truly, JOSIAH H. SHERMAN.

PRONOUNCED INCURABLE.

BOSTON, May 30, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I have been badly afflicted with Kidney Complaint for ten years; have suffered great pain in my back, hips and side, with great difficulty in passing urine, which was often and in very small quantities, frequently accompanied with blood and excruciating pain.

I have faithfully tried most of the popular remedies recommended for my complaint; I have been under the treatment of some of the most skillful physicians in Boston, all of whom pronounced my case incurable. This was my condition when I was advised by a friend to try the VEGETINE, and I could see the good effects from the first dose I took, and from that moment I kept on improving until I was entirely cured, taking in all, I should think, about six bottles.

It is indeed a valuable medicine, and if I should be afflicted again in the same way I would give a dollar for a dose, if I could not get it without.

Respectfully, J. M. GILE,
364 Third Street, South Boston.

VEGETINE is SOLD by ALL DRUGGISTS

Chicago Business Directory.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.
CHICAGO SCRAPER & DITCHER CO., 60 LaSalle.
AUCTION AND SALE ROOMS OF HORSES, CARRIAGES AND HARNESS.
WESTON & CO.'S, 196 and 198 E. Washington, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at 10 a. m.
AUCTION MART FOR THE SALE OF HORSES, HARNESS AND VEHICLES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT AUCTION AND PRIVATE SALE.
NORTHWESTERN TATTERSALLS, 1 to 9 Monroe.
AWNINGS, TENTS, TWINES AND CORDAGE.
GILBERT, HUBBARD & CO., 200 to 206 South Water.
BAKING POWDER AND EXTRACTS.
Dr. PRICE'S, Steele & Price M'f'rs., 201 & 203 S. Water, Chicago, 204 N. 2d, St. Louis, 144 Main, Cincinnati.
BANNERS AND GLASS SHOW-CARD WRITERS.
MUNN & DRUM, 218 W. Madison.
BOOTS AND SHOES—AUCTION AND COMMISSION.
JAS. P. McNAMARA & CO., 97 E. Washington.
COWING'S DRIVE AND WELL PUMPS, &c.
DOWNER & WOOLNER, 98 and 100 Franklin.
CROCKERY, CHINA AND GLASSWARE.
[illegible]
ENGRAVER, SEALS, PRESSES, STEEL AND BRASS STAMPS, STENCIL TOOLS AND STOCK.
G. H. HANSON, 38 South Clark.
ENGRAVERS.
S. D. CHILDS, JR., & CO., 118 Franklin.
ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER & MANFR. OF STENCILS.
L. BOCHE, 171 E. Randolph.
ENGRAVERS ON WOOD, Etc.
SEARS BROS. & CO., S.W. cor. Clark and Washington.
FLOWERS AND STRAW GOODS—SPECIALTY.
DALY, HENROTIN & CO., 144 and 146 Wabash-av.
FURNITURE.
A. L. HALE & BRO., 200, 202, 204 and 206 Randolph.
GRASS AND FIELD SEEDS.
ALBERT DICKINSON, 117 and 119 Kinzie.
GUNS—CUTLERY MANUFACTURERS.
W. E. SPENCER & CO., 54 State. Send for price-list.
HARDWARE AND CUTLERY—WHOLESALE.
EDWIN HUNT & SONS, 58 and 60 Lake.
HEAVY HARDWARE—WHOLESALE.
KIMBARK BROS. & CO., 80 to 86 Michigan-av.
HOTELS.
WOOD'S HOTEL, 116 & 118 Fifth-av. Enoch Wood, prop., late proprietor of Wood's Hotel, State-st.
BREVOORT HOUSE, 143 and 145 E. Madison. On the European plan. H. M. Thompson, proprietor.
METROPOLITAN HOTEL—$2.50 per day. Cor. State & Wash'n, site of old St. James, opp. Field, Leiter & Co.
OGDEN HOUSE—First-class in every particular. Barber & Forrey, prop'rs. Cor. Washington and Franklin.
LUMBER.
THE PESHTIGO CO.—Green Bay Lumber. North Pier. W. E. Strong, Pres't; G. C. Hempstead, Sec'y.
MNFRS. OF WARWICKSHIRE AND COLUMBIA SAUCES, IMPORTED CATSUPS, FLAVORING EXTRACTS.
LEWIS & CO., 163 E. Kinzie. Send for price-list.
REAL ESTATE.
JAS. B. GOODMAN & CO., 73 Dearborn.
SAW MANUFACTURERS.
HENRY DISSTON & SON, N.W. cor. Randolph & Market
SEWING MACHINE COMPANIES.
HOME S. M. CO., Johnson, Clark & Co., 141 State.
WATCHES, JEWELRY AND JEWELERS' SUPPLIES.
COGSWELL, WEBER & CO., 105 and 107 State.
WILSON'S PATENT ADJUSTABLE CHAIR FOR INVALIDS, IRON FOLDING BEDSTEADS, ETC.
M. KLEIN, 177 South Dearborn. Send for circular.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT Nickel Plated Revolver, with 100 Cartridges, $3.00 [illegible] Address WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill.

LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 TRANSPARENT VISITING CARDS, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. NOVELTY PRINTING CO., Ashland, Mass.

OPIUM Habit Cured At Home. No publicity. Time short. Terms moderate. 1,000 testimonials. 8th year of unparalleled success. Describe case. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." [illegible] affection of any person [illegible] instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, [illegible], together with a Lover's Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. [illegible] a queer book. Address T. WILLIAMS & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

CARDS.—50 white or tinted Bristol, 20 cts.; 50 Snowflake, Marble, Rep, or Damask, 35 cts.; 50 Glass, 40 cts.; with your name beautifully printed on them, and 66 samples of type, agents' price-list, etc., sent by return mail on receipt of price. Discount to Clubs. Best of work. W. C. CANNON, 46 Kneeland Street, Boston. Refers to S. M. PETTENGILL & Co.

Allen's Planet Jr. Silver Medal Hand Drills and Wheel Hoes. Three new styles. They "sow like a charm," and hoe better, easier, and six times faster than the hand hoe. S. L. ALLEN & CO., Mfrs. 119 S. 4th St., Phila., Pa. [illegible]

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS

My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. WILLIAM E. BOWDITCH, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

INQUIRE FOR W. A. DROWN & CO'S UMBRELLAS. PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

MARCY'S SCIOPTICON, With new, improved and cheapened MAGIC LANTERN SLIDES. For Homes, Sunday-schools and Lecture-rooms it stands UNRIVALLED. Brilliant and easy to show. Circulars of SPECIAL Offer free. Sciopticon Manual (4th Ed.) 50 cts. L. J. MARCY, 1340 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FOUTZ'S HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS, Will cure or prevent Disease.

OPIUM Morphine Habit AND Intemperance Speedily cured by DR. BECK'S only known and sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call on or address Dr. J. C. BECK, 112 John St., Cincinnati, O.

A NOVEL IDEA—$1 for $2 [illegible] N. Y. Weekly Sun, Jan. 12, 1876, says: It is one of the best chances for agents ever offered. As we allow A LARGE CASH COMMISSION it is a rare chance to make money rapidly and secure a permanent business. O. V. Wingate & Co. (Limited), 60 Duane St., N. Y. [illegible]

DO YOUR OWN PRINTING! NOVELTY PRINTING PRESS. For Professional and Amateur Printers, Schools, Societies, Manufacturers, Merchants, and others it is the BEST ever invented. 13,000 in use. Ten styles. Prices from $5.00 to $150.00 BENJ. O. WOODS & CO. Manufrs and dealers in all kinds of Printing Material. Send stamp for Catalogue. 49 Federal St. Boston.

S. H. HARRIS' IMPROVED CHICAGO SAFES And VAULT DOORS are the Best. Address S. H. HARRIS, Manufacturer, 23 and 25 Randolph St.

How to buy him. How to sell him. How to train him. How to tell a trotter. A NEW BOOK [illegible] 50 cents. Address [illegible] Box 50, CHICAGO, ILL.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19, Young [illegible] Dustin, Gilman & Co., Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O.

THE CHICAGO LEDGER

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST PAPER IN THE COUNTRY.

$1.50 PER ANNUM

Unexcelled by any Weekly Literary Publication, East or West.

A THREE DOLLAR PAPER FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A HALF.

Send your name and address and get a specimen copy. Address

THE LEDGER,
Chicago, Ill.

WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL

"NATURE'S GREAT REMEDY."

This Cordial is a CERTAIN CURE for Coughs, Colds, Inflammation of the Lungs, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, and if taken in time, will arrest that fatal disease Consumption. The basis of this medicine is a preparation of Tar obtained by a peculiar process from the sap of the Pine Tree, the medicinal properties of which are well known. With this powerful element are thoroughly incorporated several other vegetable ingredients, each of which possesses soothing and healing attributes, thus making it the most POTENT ANTAGONIST to all diseases of the pulmonary organs that has yet been introduced.

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL

Is not a new remedy that has never been heard of before, but an OLD, RELIABLE, AND WELL-TRIED medicine that has been in daily use by families and intelligent physicians for the last sixteen years, and is spoken of in the highest terms by all who have used it, as thousands of UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS prove.

If you suffer from any disease for which this Cordial is recommended, we unhesitatingly say: "TRY IT, WE KNOW IT WILL DO YOU GOOD." A single bottle will demonstrate its valuable qualities.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AND STOREKEEPERS. PRINCIPAL DEPOT, 232 North Second St., Philad'a.

PILES WHAT ARE PILES? READ! "PLAIN BLUNT Facts," a Treatise on the Causes, History, Cure and Prevention of PILES. Published by P. NEUSTAEDTER & CO., 40 Walker Street, New York. Sent FREE to all parts of the United States on receipt of a letter stamp.

FREE to all who wish their Seed directly from the grower, my elegantly illustrated Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue. Address, JAMES J. H. GREGORY, Marblehead, Mass.

PORTABLE GRINDING MILLS. Best French Burr stiff spindle under-runners, rock head upper-runners, for Farm or Merchant Work. Superior Mill Stones of all sizes, Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pulleys, Hangers, etc., all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, O.

"DOMESTIC" SEWING MACHINES. Liberal Terms of Exchange for Second-hand Machines of every description. "DOMESTIC" PAPER FASHIONS. The Best Patterns made. Send 5cts. for Catalogue. Address DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE CO. AGENTS WANTED. NEW YORK.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL HISTORY OF THE U. S.

The great interest in the thrilling history of our country makes this the fastest-selling book ever published. It contains 443 fine historical engravings and 925 pages, with a full account of the approaching grand Centennial Exhibition.

CAUTION.—Old, Incomplete and Unreliable works are being circulated; see that the book you buy contains 443 Fine Engravings and 925 Pages. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

A Farm of Your Own IS The Best Remedy for Hard Times! FREE HOMESTEADS AND THE Best and Cheapest Railroad Land Are on the line of the Union Pacific Railroad, IN NEBRASKA. Secure a Home Now. Full information sent FREE to all parts of the World. Address O. F. DAVIS, Land Com'r U. P. R. R., Omaha, Neb.

WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND LIME.

Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil and Lime.—The great popularity of this safe and efficacious preparation is alone attributable to its intrinsic worth. In the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Scrofulous Humors, and all Consumptive Symptoms, it has no superior, if equal. Let no one neglect the early symptoms of disease, when an agent is thus at hand which will alleviate all complaints of the Chest, Lungs, or Throat. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists

A REMARKABLE INVENTION! WOOTON'S PATENT.

CABINET OFFICE SECRETARY.

Wooton Desk Co., Designers and Manufacturers, INDIANAPOLIS, IND. Illustrated Descriptive Circulars furnished on application.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA, FEB. 24, 1876.

CENTENNIAL ISSUE.

THE Republican State Convention selected the following ticket: For Governor, G. S. Orth, of Lafayette; Lieut Gov. R. S. Robertson, of Fort Wayne; Supreme Judges W. P. Edson of Posey, A. C. Vorhis, Lawrence, H. C. Newcomb, Marion, J. F. Kibbey, Wayne. Secretary of State, I. P. Watts, Randolph; Auditor of State, Wm. Hess, Hendricks; Treasurer of State, S. L. Herriot, Johnson; Att'y General, J. W. Gordon, Marion; Reporter, Charles Hall, Clark; Sup't Pub. Ins., O. D. Smith, Spencer.

Early Sketches.

The space allotted us will not give us that full scope in regard to the details of pioneer life in this County we would gladly occupy. Therefore our readers must content themselves with only sketches. A life from early boyhood, a period now near thirty-two years of residence in the County, warrant us in saying that whatever may not be within our memory may be vouched for from hearsay of those who lived during those times, or as the written or unwritten history of those early times.

The first governmental survey of our County was in 1829, but a second survey was had in 1832. The first settlement we have of record was made by John Holton, lately deceased, in Franklin township, in September, 1833, although the Holten brothers and others settled near the State line at the point where Denmark is now situated in 1827. In 1834 John Fee now deceased, entered a tract of land embracing some five hundred or six hundred acres, lying in both this and Steuben Counties, on which his widow still resides, and on which he passed away about five years ago.

The St. Joseph of the Maumee, a river that meanders across the south-eastern portion of our County, was in those early days the main thoroughfare, the inlet and outlet of all commercial traffic, and consequently on its borders will be found the earliest settlements. Commencing at the southern line of the County, we find on that river the names of the following early settlers, ranging from 1835 to 1839. Homer Blake lived for many years and after his death his son Harrey, who married the daughter of Samuel Henderson of Jackson township, the farm now occupied by the widow of John Kearnes; David Butler with his excellent wife still reside on the old place next to Blake, John Mathews on a portion of the home farm of the late Hon. R. J. Dawson, father of our townsman A. C. Dawson, but now recently purchased by a Mr. Baltz. Next came Thomas L. Yates a former associate Judge, where the town of Spencerville now stands. John T. (grandfather) Rhodes, the father of Uncle Jere Rhodes, the pioneer hotel man of Spencerville, on the farm West of that town, now owned by Layton Zimmerman, and Uncle of the Zimmerman Bros. of our place. Uncle "Jere" spoken of, then resided on the farm he afterwards sold to Andrew Melton on which his widow still resides on the Northern banks of the plastic waters of Bear Creek. Daniel Rhodes, a son of John F. resided on the river a mile N. E. of Spencerville, where he died in 1852, and where still his widow, Aunt Polly and son Milas still resides.

Opposite Spencerville at the big bend a Mr. Brandt and Cramwell Rood resided. William Mathews owned the farm next above Daniel Rhodes, which was subsequently owned by John Majors, the old State Bank Jacob Dills, and now by John W. Dills. A Mr. Lytle and Jared Ball were on the farm a mile below Orangeville, afterwards owned by R. J. Dawson, Gavin W. Hamilton, but now by his son James.

Washington Robinson resided at the point when Newville (formerly called Vienna) now stands, and William Roger and Jacob Platter on the farm once owned by Samuel Wyatt, but now Thomas Nelson, nearly a mile West of the town. Early in 1836 John Blair, the father of Geo. L. J. of Waterloo, Wm. L. of Butler Benj. L. of Newville and Mrs. Geo. W. Draggoo, settled on the farm near the mouth of Bear Creek, now owned and used as a gravel bank by the Baltimore Pitt'g & Chicago R. R. Co. on which is the station called St. Joe, with a post-office now named Blair, in honor of the "Old Squire." Chas. Wilbur, on the farm near Orangeville, afterwards owned by Grandfather Hull, the father of Dr Hull of Newville, Hiram Hull formerly of Concord-tp. and Mrs. John Jenkens and Mrs. Hugh Maxwell, who still lives on the place.—William Early was on the farm at the present site of Orangeville, afterwards owned by Lewis Hawk, but now by John Cottrill, Joseph Ludwick just above Newville where Lon Gibson lives, and Judge Walden a little further up. In the fall of that year Judge Widney located where he still resides, John P. Widney, Esq., of our city, on the farm afterwards owned by Gardner G. Melindy but now by Mrs. A. C. Comparet. Rev. Benj. Alton a Disciple Minister on the farm on which Sam'l Headly now of Butler, long resided, afterwards by Dr. Harrington, now Mr. Huntington, the father-in-law of our townsman, C. P. Houser. Dr. Babcock who had among other children three boys whose first given name was William, a little below Alton's, now owned by Nelson Scholes.

In the spring of 1836 the first settlement of the site of Auburn was made by Wesley Park, its founder. Mr. Park in a narrative published some years ago gives some very interesting details, some of which we glean. He left Licking Co. Ohio, in the fall of 1835, with Hiram Johnson and George Stone, via Columbus, Sandusky Maumee, Fish Creek in this County and Lima to South Bend. He returned to this County and entered land on Fish Creek near John Holten's. He went back to Ohio, and in February 1836 returned to Lima, and in company with Hon. J. B. Howe started to find a good location for a County-seat of the new (this) county. After laying out on four inches of snow, in Section 13, and viewing the different localities, selected the present site, entered the land and laid out the town. He shortly afterwards put up a log house 18 by 20, one and one-half stories high, on the lot where Michael Kline now resides, and kept hotel, near where the old water mill stood. Again returned to Ohio and brought his wife the first white female inhabitant of Auburn, and his son Amos B., now a resident of Kendallville, then a child. Lancelot Ingman (whose widow now resides one mile east of Auburn) and family came with him. In the winter of 1836 the Legislature passed a law to organize the County, and Littlefield of Lagrange, Gilmore of Steuben, and Robert Work, then and now of Allen County, but for nearly thirty years since intervening a resident of Butler township in this County, were appointed Commissioners to locate the County-seat.

After the organization of the County Park's house was used as the Court House, Jail, Hotel, Church, cook-room, sleeping apartment, etc., using the upper room of his 1½ story log cabin as the cell in which to confine the prisoners, he being the Sheriff. While holding Court a recess would be taken in order to get dinner, which would give all hands a chance to liquor up. The Judge, the Hon. Chas. W. Ewing, a brother of the celebrated Indian traders and speculators W. G. and G. W. Ewing of Fort Wayne, among the rest loving his "toddy" too well would take a nap. Poor fellow, like so many of our gifted and generous souls now a days, fell a victim to the accursed bowl, and a few years after met death, as is too frequently the case, at his own hands, respected, admired and loved by all, only this one stain. Poor soul, if cognisant in the unknown hereafter, of the feeling of those who knew him then and those who were taught to revere his name, he sees and knows the tear of regret we shed in listening to the story told of his promising career and youthful death.

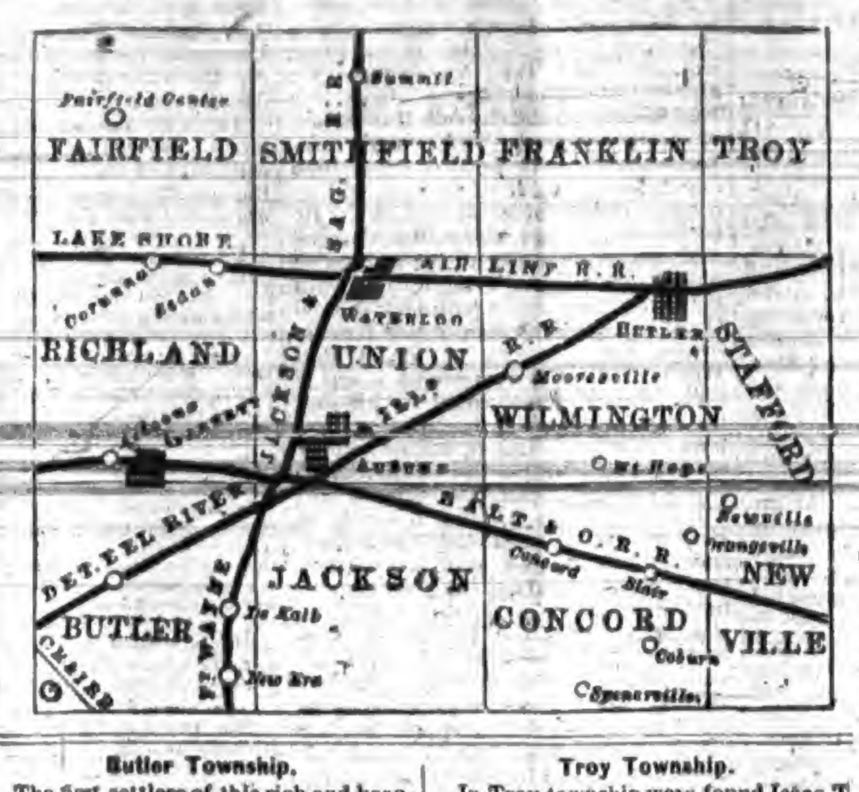
Mr. Park says the winter of '36—'37 was a hard one; corn cost $3 per bushel, and had to go up the St. Mary's river from Fort Wayne, a distance of 50 to 75 miles from here. He paid a noble tribute to his excellent wife—he says in all this trouble and privation, "she was always cheerful."

He says the Pottawattomies and Miamies were the principal tribes of Indians in this section of the country. They buried their dead by digging a grave eighteen inches deep, cover the body with leaves, then build a tight pen of poles over the grave. Sometimes they made a trough from a large log, put in the body and then cover it up closely with poles, and would burn the leaves around the burying ground every fall to keep the fires which would frequently rage in the woods from destroying the resting places of their dead ones.

Jackson Township.

The first settler of this township was William Miller, the father of Joseph Miller, long a County Surveyor, and Thomas Miller who was killed a few years ago by the overturning of a wagon load of crossties for the Eel River R. R., and whose widow and sons reside about two miles south of Auburn. He, Wm. Miller, settled in it in 1836, and with his son Joseph cut out the first wagon track, from the river settlements on the St. Joe, to Cedar Creek below Auburn. Early settlers were Thos. L. Yates, known as Lovell or Judge Yates, who had sold his land on the river and emigrated westward, settled on the old "home farm" of Alonzo Lockwood, three miles down the creek from Auburn. Leonard Boice was on the old farm of the Hon. Henry Feagler, but now owned by John George. Adam P. Hartle on the place where he now and has since resided. The Phelps family, Benjamin Miller, Joseph Miller and Alonzo Lockwood, settled also in the same part of the township. In the south-east part were early to be found James Steward, Samuel Henderson, John and David Moody, John Watson, Sen., Nathan Wyatt, Sen., whose progeny are almost as numerous as the leaves of the forest. Jacob Maurer, now deceased, and long the senior J. P. of the County, and Willis Bishop who is still in the flesh. To the north of these were found Wm. Means, the first J. P. of the township, Samuel Tarney who still lives, and the father of our townsman U. S. Tarney, and the landlord of the Tarney House at Garrett. Henry Dove, deceased, whose family now lives opposite Spencerville, Abraham Johnson, who lives in that town, his broth. Amariah, now deceased, Wm. R. Moore, formerly of this place but now of Michigan, Wm. McClure, the father of Mrs. Jos. Miller and Mrs. Wm. Carr, William Squires who is still living, Wm. and Mathew George, Henry Brown Esq., and Samuel Geisinger on their old places, and Nelson Griffith now of Corunna, and at present one of our County Commissioners. About the center the first settlers were old Mr. Essig, Joseph Walters, who still lives there, and Wm. McNabb, who now lives a few miles south in Allen County. This township has rapidly improved and contains many excellent farms and farmers and boasts of having three railroads, the B. & O. running across the same, and the Ft. W. J. & S. and D. E. R. & I. R. R. each having about eighty rods of track in the north-west corner, forming the crossing of the several R. R. which is called Auburn Junction, a town which in time will make its powers felt by those places which are now assuming superiority.

Map of DeKalb County, Indiana.



Butler Township.

The first settlers of this rich and beautiful township consisted of Peter Fair and his sons Abraham and Charles, all of whom are now dead, (the widows of the last two are still residing in the County,) Charles Crouse, George DeLong, Andrew, Jacob and John Surfus. They came in 1834, with a four-horse team and wagon, built their cabins, returned to Montgomery County, Ohio and the following spring brought out their families. In 1835 came Lewis and Lyman Holbrook, Joseph Stroup, Henry and Michael Miller. In 1836 Wm. Surfus, James Bell and John Grogg, who still lives in the township. The first marriage was that of Robert Work. Sanford Bassett, now of Waterloo, came in 1838, and shortly afterwards John Noel, John Embry, Henry Fair, George Ensley, etc. The history of the early settlement of the township, incidents, trials and hardships of the Moodys, Works, Ensleys, Hoffmans, Clarks and many others, who came into the township thirty or forty years ago, battling with hunger and sickness to carve out of the wilderness a home for themselves and children, would certainly be interesting and valuable. At that time Butler township was to the pioneer in appearance not the most desirable place to choose a home, little dreaming of the advantages possessed geographically by the then most gloomy looking part of DeKalb County. The little old church on the hill on the Robert Work farm, built thirty-five years ago, was the first church built in the County. The first sabbath-school was organized by O. C. Clark, then a young man. To-day age is making its mark. Robert Work, one of the early settlers, was one of the first Commissioners of the County appointed by the Legislature.

The first American Centennial finds Butler township advancing rapidly to the front as an agricultural and stock raising section of the County. The following railway lines pass through the township: Ft. W. J. & S., passes nearly through the center from the north; the Detroit, Eel River & Ills. enters the township at the south-west corner and passes through to the Junction of the B. & O., and Ft. W. J. & S. roads. The G. R. & I. passes within a hundred feet of the south-west corner, and the B. & O. road passes along the north line, which gives the farmers of Butler township the advantages and benefits of four railroads of which no other township of the County posseses.

There are at present four grain markets. Cedar Creek, on the Eel River road, St. Johns and New Era, on the Saginaw road; but the glory of Butler township is her Garrett, that causes speculators, and financiers to pass nights of wakefulness figuring out the answer to the oft repeated question, "What is the future of Garrett?"

The present population of the township is 1,118. Children attending school 395. The township is divided in nine school districts There are nine school houses, three of brick and six of frame. Average attendance of pupils, 35.

Richland Township.

The first settler was Joseph Miller on the farm he afterwards sold to and now occupied by George Olinger, two miles west and one-half mile south of Auburn in 1836. In October of that year came Joshua Feagler and Jacob Weirick. Of other early settlers we may mention, Wm. Shower, first J. P., Solomon and Daniel Shower, Lyman Green, of Iba, Wm. Beck, Daniel Webber, Henry Willis, of Waterloo, the Calkins', Heman Bangs, Peter Treesh, the Connellys', Thos. D. Daily, Timothy, John R. and Harvey Moody, James Blake, Samuel Haines and Peter Moody, many of whom are still living to tell the tale of the lodges they erected in the "vast wilderness." This township is the best situated of any in the County, no farmer living in it being to exceed two miles from a line of railroad, and within three miles of a station. The B. & O. crossing the southern tier, and the M. S. & L. S. crossing the northern tier of sections, Corunna and Lawrence on the last named road, and Altoona and part of the coming city, Garrett, on the first named road. The Grand Rapids & Ind. road skirts on the west in Noble County with the towns of Swan, Avilla, Lisbon, and Kendallville, within hailing distance. Then it has the Eel River road in sight, and the Ft. W. J. & S. road on the east, ranging from a distance of three miles within a stone's throw. Its future as an agricultural, manufacturing and commercial district is bright.

Smithfield Township.

Smithfield township was first settled by Isaac B. Smith, who until a few years remained a resident of it, and soon after him came Reuben G. Daniels, still a resident of the township. Old Uncle Joseph Dajong who takes his meals in Waterloo, was there with the early ones, Henry Shoemaker, Norton Blake, Thos. Lock, David Martin, Isaac Grate, Jeremiah Hemstreet, the McClish's, McOskers, McEnterffers, Clarks and Joel B. Thompson.

Troy Township.

In Troy township were found Isaac T. Simeon and Roger Aldrich, George Skinner, the Caseboer, Asa Haynes, S. Williams, Amos Stearnes, Willard Eddy, Beverly Updegraff, Clawson and the Helwigs, as the pioneers.

Franklin Township.

Franklin township has the credit of having the first settler in the County, —John Holton—from whose first cabin, some eighteen years ago, a number of sticks of timber were taken, from which a quantity of "old settlers canes" were made, many of which are still in existence marked only "1833." Here also early settled the Boyers, Jackmans, Bowmans, old Mr. Waterman, McQueen, A. F. Beecher and others.

Fairfield Township.

This is one of the finest townships of land in the County. The surface is more undulating, the soil seems warmer, there are lakes and springs and brooklets that never go dry—in fact for agricultural purposes it is deemed the best in the County. In fact here the lover of the picturesque can gaze on its placid lakes, long ranging slopes, rugged bluffs, deep ravines and limpid rills.

The first settlers were named Story, a large family, with a great deal of the milk of human kindness in them, but a bigger set of devils never run. In the pioneer sketches published in 1859 it is said "they were very prolific." Others soon came and took up their abode in this fairy land. Wilber Powell, an eccentric Yankee, William and Isaac Wilsey, David Rager, Hiram Thomas, Philip Gushwa, John Shook, Miles Allen and Henry and Leonard Hartman.

Stafford Township.

Stafford is the eastern township of the central tier of DeKalb county, Indiana. It is bounded by Troy, Newville and Wilmington townships on the north south and west respectively, while the Indiana and Ohio State line forms the eastern boundary. It is a fractional township with an area of nearly fifteen square miles. The soil is generally very good, producing all the grains common to this latitude.

This township was first settled about the year 1834, and in the fall of 1836 the first election was held in the present limits of the township, there being ten families in the township at that time, but one of the men voting at this election is now alive. That one is Mr. Jacob Gunsenhouser. Of all who settled here before 1837 only four remain. Jacob Gunsenhouser and wife, Stephen Hackley and Mrs. Elizabeth Webster. Among the others who arrived soon after this and now living here are Thomas Strole and wife and Samuel Wammker, all of whom are prominent and respected citizens.

There are two church organizations in the township, one of which is the United Brethren with Rev. Rhodes as minister. The other Christian denomination, with Rev. Samuel Wanamker as minister.

Application for License.

NOTICE to the citizens of Richland-tp DeKalb County, Indiana is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their regular session in March, 1876, for a license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, on the following described premises, to-wit: The North half of lot No 1 McMillens first addition to the town of Corunna, with the privilege of having the same drank where sold.

Feb 10, '76. LEVI L. BROWN, Jr.

Application for License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, that I will make application to the Board of Commissioners, in said county, at their March session 1876, for license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises, to-wit: Commencing at the south-west corner of lot No 67, old plat Auburn, in said county, thence East 20 feet, thence North 66 feet, thence West 20 feet, thence South 66 feet to the place of beginning.

JOSEPH E. BEUGNOT.

Application for License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Garrett, DeKalb County, Indiana, that I will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their March session 1876, for license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privelege of having the same drank on the following premises, to-wit: Building on lots No 23 and 24 in block No 16 in said town of Garrett.

Feb 8, '76. WM. E. SARGENT.

Application for License.

Notice to the citizens of DeKalb County Ind., is hereby given that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their regular session in March, 1876, for a license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time, on the following discribed premises, to-wit: Commencing at a point 17½ feet east of the south-west corner of lot 26, in the original plat of said town, running thence north 70 feet thence east 17½ feet, thence south 70 feet, thence west 17½ feet to the place of beginning, with the privilege of having the same drank where sold. THOMAS SUMMERS.

Feb. 3rd, '76.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Ind, that the undersigned will make an application to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their March term, 1876, for a license to retail spirituous vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises in said county and State to-wit: Commencing at the south-west corner of lot twenty-eight in the original plat of the town of Auburn, in said county, running thence east seventeen and a half feet, thence north seventy feet, thence west seventeen and one half feet, thence south seventy feet, with the privilege of having the same drank on said premises. CHAS. G. SMITH.

Feb. 3, '76.

Call at this office for extra coppies of the large Centennial paper, 36 columns. The boss paper of the season, only 5 cents a coppy.

Corunna.

This village was laid out and platted by Frothingham, Orr and McMillens, in May, 1858, and enjoyed for a season the best trade of any local point in the County, and became in a few years one of the best commercial marts in north-eastern Indiana, and although it met with many reverses in its business men, it is now occupying its former grand position. The following is a list of its business houses, etc.:

Drugs—D. B. Ciesel, Wm. Mercer Dry Goods—V. Fried, S. J. M. Loomis & Co., E. Gonser Groceries—B. Chaffee, W. Parks. Hardware, &c W. B. Adams. Geo. McMillen, Butcher. Wagon Makers—S. Master, J. Finch. Blacksmiths—J. Shaffer, E. Hall. Physicians—J. Snyder, Wm. Mercer. Churches—United Brethren and Methodist Episcopal. I. O. Bachtel, Proprietor of the Corunna Mills. Kline & Osborn, Proprietor of the Steam Saw Mill. Dearborn & Finch, proprietors of Union Hotel and Livery Stable. Coopers—E. H. Clark, Mr. Geisler. Lippert Brothers, Produce Dealers. Graded School. H. Devore, Boot and Shoe Maker. P. N. Calkin, proprietor. Brick and Tile Works. B. Chaffee, Post Master. L. J. Miller, Agent L. S. & M. S. railroad. M. Moland, Telegraph Operator.

S. J. M. Loomis and Co.

Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries Boots and Shoes. This firm is opening out a full line of new and seasonable goods, and those wanting bargains should call immediately.

B. F. Chaffee.

Has just opened out a fresh stock of Groceries and Notions, and invites his customers to call and see him.

E. Gonser.

Having removed his stock of Dry Goods, etc., from Sedan to Corunna, will be pleased to see his old friends and customers, at his new store.

W. B. Adams.

Is the proprietor of the only Hardware store in the village. Every body knows "Bill" the boss tinner.

P. N. Calkin.

This gentleman has a large Brick and Tile establishment a short distance south of Corunna, and does an immense business. His material has always given the best of satisfaction, and Mr. C. in his energetic and business like manner has made the institution the best in the State. Brick or Tile of any quality can be had on short notice.

GARRETT IND.

This place is located four miles west of Auburn, on the Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Chicago R. R. A flourishing village of eight hundred inhabitants.

The following are the professional and commercial interests of Garrett:

S. M. SHERMAN, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon. The Doctor is a graduate of the Cincinnati Eclectic Medical Institute. He located here at the organization of the town, and being a gentleman of talent and successful in his practice has gained a wide reputation in his profession.

A. S. PARKER, M. D.
Homeopathic Physician.

C. E. PRATT, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon.

J. F. SIMPSON, M. D.
German and English Physician.

J. F. THOMLON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon.

A. L. SIMOEHL,

Attorney and Notary Public. Land and collection Agent. Office on west side of Randolph st. Attends prompty to all business Intrusted in his care. Give him a call

W. H. HOFFMAN,
Attorney-at-Law and Nortary Public.

L. COVELL,
Attorney-at-Law.

J. L. DAVIS,

Proprietor of the Pioneer Hardware Store. This is not only the pioneer of Garrett, but of DeKalb County also. Mr. Davis started this store when there was but five houses in the place, and by keeping a complete stock of shelf and heavy hardware, has been able to accommodate those wishing his line of goods, and by the gentlemanly manners of his employee's has established a large trade.

DeKALB HOUSE.

N. D. Okmer, Prop. This is a first-class hotel, and by the reputation of the proprietor as a hotel man, is a sure guarantee of first-class accommodations. Mr. Keenght who is managing this Hotel, has made many warm friends, through his corteous manner.

ELI KUHLMAN & CO.,

Druggists and Chemists, opposite the DeKalb House. These gentlemen started the pioneer Drug store of Garrett, June 28th, 1875, in the building with J. L. Davis. Mr. Kuhlman is a graduate of Pharmaceutical Chemistry of the University of Michigan.

LITMAN BROS. & CO.
Dealers in Drugs and Clothing.

T. E. & N. W. LANCASTER.
Dealers in Dry Goods and general merchandise.

THOMAS & TOLANDS

Additions to Garrett. Those additions are beautifully situated, and are laid out in large handsome lots. D. Thoms who has charge of those additions will sell on easey terms. Call and see him. Office in J. L. Davis' Hardware Store.

Sedan.

This village is located on the line of the L. S. & M. S. railway, and contains a population of not less than 200. The following list embraces its business firms, etc.:

Groceries—H. A. Porter, L. Green, P. O. J. M. Urie, Agent L. S. & M. S. R. R. Graded School. W. Kruse, Wagon Maker. Lutheran Church. G. W. Alcott, Hotel. H. W. Bowman, Physician. Blacksmiths—A. Woofman, P. Shoutz.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Before Jacob Walborn, J P Union-tp.
De Kalb County. }

Thomas J. Shreve, vs James E. Shreve.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishment in said case has been served on the Baltimore, Pittsburg and Chicago Railway Company, Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 10, of April A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M., to answer or demur to the complaint or the same will be determined in his absence.

Feb. 17, 1876. JACOB WALBORN, J. P.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

AN old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by and East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering he will send free of charge to all who desire it this receipt with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Munroe Block, Syracuse, N. Y.

CATARRH.—If you would avoid being rendered deaf or unfit to mingle in society, on account of foul and nauseating discharges from gangrenous ulcers in the head, use Dr. Deitchon's celebrated Catarrh Remedy. It is the greatest cure and control for the hideous destroyer, the world ever saw. It will save every life threatened by it. It immediately arrests its progress, and if perseveringly used, will never disappoint in a cure. Go to Davenport's Drug Store and get a sample bottle free. Sept. 30 y

Town of Butler.

J. A. Campbell, Justice of the Peace, David Fay, Justice of the Peace, Jas. J. Rank, Civil Trustee, Isaac Ochs, Treasurer, Hambright Reese Clerk, Wm. Tomlinson, Marshall, Milas Ocker, Assessor, Jas. Oberlin, Constable, Wm L. Blair, School Trustee, Rev. J. N. Morris, Lutheran Denomination, Rev. N. F. Peddycord, Methodist Episcopal, Rev. L. P. Sutton, Christian denomination, Rev. J. W. Rhodes, United Brethern denomination. Rev. J. N. Morris, Supt. Lutheran Sunday School, Hon. E. W. Fosdick, Attorney at Law, A. F. Pinchin, do., Franks & Ensley, do. J. B. Bennett, Physician, F. W. Farmer, do., J. J. Hoopingarner, do., Jos. F. Barnett, do., Wm H. Madden, do., J. K. Miller, do., J. M. Johnson Photographer, Mrs. Kate Blair, do., F. S. Madden, Marble Works, C. W. Beecher, Dentist, D. B. Sheawood, publisher Review, J. P. Rouse, Principal Butler Graded School, Wm. Plankman, Post Master, J. R. Smiley, U. S. Ex. Agent, L. J. Diehl, Am. Ex. Agent, Gen Insurance Agent, Mrs. A. M. Rank, Life Ins. Agent, Wm. Green, Prop. of Commercial House, Will P. Carpenter Stationer and News Dealer. Dry Goods—J. D. Price, Knisely Brothers, Strauss & Kahn, Miss M. E. Fetterhoff, Mantau Maker, Miss Sadie North, do., Miss Sake Durkee, do., Miss Minnie Holmes, do., Dillie Tomlinson, do., Nicholas Keech, Tailor, Henry Miller, do., Samuel Fate. Auctioneer. Groceries—E. S. Jones, Steffe & Strauss, A. G. Jones. Diehl Snively & Co. Booksellers. G. G. Searight, Hardware, Geo. Hensler, do., W. S. Jones. City Bakery, Haskins & Son City Livery, J. L. Dyle & Son, Furniture Dealers and Manufacturers, Isaac do., A. E. Inman, Restaut, Chas. S. Maine, do., Billiard Room, Geo. E. Boot, R. R. Restaurant, J. J. Rank, Proprietor City Meat Market, J. W. Shutt, Butler Meat Market, Simon Ochs, Produce Merchant, Leo Solomon, do., C. Potter, Wagon Shop, Isaac Daily, Blacksmith, J. A. Moore, do., Daniel Reber, do., J. W. Moore, Barber, Alex. Pain, do., Jas. Revette, Boots & Shoes, Lewis Planson, do., Mrs. R. Matheny do., J. H. Boon, House Painter, Adolph May, dealer in Poultry, D. W. Ocker, Plasterer, Jas. C. Chambers, do., A. J. Mason, Contractor, Champion Bros., Noel & Son, do., C. B. Mason, buildings, Sol. Rogers, Bees, W. H. Savill, Ag. Implements, Miss Ida Carrel, Agt Western Union Tel. Co., S. W. Gilbert, Ticket and Freight Agent D. E. R. and M. S. R. R.

Hoopingarner and Sons.

Dealers in Drugs, Medicines, Paints and Oils, Books, Stationery, Toilet and Fancy Goods, and Pure Wines for Medicinal use. West side of Broadway.

Geo. Kehrer.

Geo. Kehrer, proprietor of the new Drug Store on the east side of Broadway. Pure Drugs and Medicines always on hand. Also the best brands of Tobacco and Cigars.

J. N. Fisher.

Practical Sign and House Painter, West side of Broadway. Graining and Kalsomining a specialty. Also Glazing.

Adolph May.

Brick and Stone Mason. Before contracting elsewhere give him a call. All work warranted to give satisfaction.

Geo. E. Vesey.

Practical Dentist. Having permanently located in Butler, wishes to inform the citizens thereof that he is ready to perform Dentistry in all its branches.

F. W. Oberlin.

Dealer in Groceries, Provisions, Cutlery, Notions and Fancy Groceries. Also in connection one of the finest bakeries in the country. West side of Broadway

Burget and Freeburn.

Proprietors of the Carriage and Wagon works, north side of north st. If you desire fashionable carriages or cutters. Call upon the above.

N. F. Gingnagle.

Sample Room. West side of Broadway. Retailer of Pure Wines and Liquors, Toledo and Bryan Beer, Cigars, &c.

Isaac Hershler.

Sample Room and Restaurant, one door north of the Central House. The very best of Wines and Liquors in stock, especially for medical and family use. Call in and try your hand at bagatelle.

Young and Ralston.

Attorneys at Law and Notary Public and Real Estate Agents. Special attention given to collections. Office one door east of P. O.

Chas. Haines.

Resident dealer in Cattle, Hoge and Sheep. Highest market-price paid at all times. Patronage solicited. Office with Steifle & Ochs.

Chas' Haines.

Resident dealer in Cattle, Hogs and Sheep. Highest market price paid at all times. Patronage solicited—Office with Stiefil & Ochs.

C. S. Stoy.

Manufacturer and dealer in hard and soft wood, lumber, Mouldings, Brackets Newel Posts, Banisters, Pickets, Door and Window Frames. Siding resawed, Plaining and Matching, Bee Hives Cut to Order: also manufacturer of the Diehl Improved Door Strip the most durable device for keeping out rain, wind and snow, extant.

Wake Up.

For the Presidential election is close at hand, and at the same time please bear in mind that a good hotel is hard to find, but the Waverly House, on Main Street, where all the people sleep and eat, and where the present proprietor intends to stay until he wins the race. Street Cars, Hacks and Omnibuses to and from all trains (including freight trains).

J. C. Shutt.

Proprietor of the Central House, (formerly the Butler House) east side of Broadway, north of the Rail Road, desires to announce to the traveling community, that he has lately refurnished the house with all the modern improvements of the day, requisite to a first-class Hotel, and solicits their patronage.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, }
DeKalb County. }

Jacob W. Swaldner, vs. James Mahady, before Justice Walborn of Union Township.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishee in said case has been served on Samuel W. Ralston. Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 4th day of March A. D. 1876 at 9 o'clock A. M., and answer or demur to th complaint herein or the same will be determine it his absence.

JACOB WALBORN, J. P. [seal]

Stop that Cough.

No pulmonary complaint however obstinate, can resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound.—Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectually in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Hooping Cough and Croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take. Cough-worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxysms that threatened to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10 cents. Ask for Dr. Morris' Syrup take no other. F. M. Davenport Druggist.

Troy township is the place to live—it has not a Justice of the Peace or a Constable.

J. J. Latson.

Mr. L. carries on a Custom Shoe Shop on Ninth street, and does the best work in the city. He has been at the bench for a number of years, and although failing in eye sight he can scoup any of the boys in good, substantial work.

C. M. Nelson & Co.

Harness, Saddles, Whips, &c., are always on hand, by the above gentlemen, at greatly reduced rates. This is the only harness shop in the city, but the firm does not take the advantage of this as some would, and charge double prices. Everything is sold reasonably. Repairing of all kinds promptly attended to. In Ensleys block.

C. P. Houser.

The subject of this sketch has been a resident of this county since 1857. He has been prominent as a teacher in quite a number of schools having taught several terms in the Auburn school, at which place in 1872 he located permantly, and engaged with A. H. Andrews & Co of Chi'o, in the sale of School Supplies, and is at present connected with the firm, having a branch at Indianapolis. During his association with this house, he has labored earnestly and faithfully in supplying the wants of the schools in this section of the country, commencing when the idea of putting desks with curved backs and seats into our country schools was scorned at, but by his persistent energy and earnest endeavors has succeeded in placing thousands into the schools of Northern Indiana and Ohio. A little over a year ago he established a Book and Stationery Store in our town, thus supplying a want long felt, he is at present located on Main street, opposite Ford's block where he is ever ready to supply anyting in the line of Wall & Window Paper or School Supplies, from a school desk down to a slate pencil.

WATERLOO, INDIANA.

C. A. O. McClellan.

Mr. McClellan is one of the leading attorneys of the county and has been very successful in every particular. He is a gentleman liked by all who is acquinted with him, and is one of those wholesouled, clever fellows who is never out of their place. Mr. M. always stands at the head of very enterprise that comes up. Several weeks ago he lost his large brick flouring mills by fire, but for all that is not in the least discouraged, and all pusing forward in his usual enterprising way as heretofore.

Gust. S. Lens.

The above gentleman is proprietor of one the best livery and feed stables in the county and controls a large and extended patronage His horses and carriages are first-class, and gentle enough for any lady to handle. The barn is located on Main street, south of the railroad, and everything is kept so clean and neat that one passing by would readily know that the proprietor is well versed in his business. Give Gust. a call when you want to travel in good style and have a rig that you can be proud of.

Paul Clifford.

Mr. C. is a young man and has just opened up a fine billiard hall, next door to Jas. Clifford's, where he has the finest and most costly billiard tables in the State. He has an elegantly furnished room with all the necessary arrangements to suit the business. The pool table is first-class, and here like in other places the game is very popular, and consequently Paul is doing a fine business. He is Knight of the cue, of this county, and has very flattering prospects of making a champion player, and that, too, at no distant day. Anyone who enjoys a good friendly game of billiards or pool will find this the boss place to go. Each and every one are used alike and, of course, nothing but a pleasant time can be had.

James Clifford.

Mr. Clifford is conducting a Saloon and Dining room and has it fitted in city style. He is one of those whole-souled, genial fellows, always ready to do his part in any enterprise that may present itself. As a citizen he is one that is respected by all who know him, and is highly spoken of for his many good qualities. His uprightness, his ability and other favorable traits of his character speak largely in his favor and we hope to see him enjoy his whole future life in no other manner than he is at present. Parties who visit Waterloo should call at his establishment and partake of the best wine and liquors now being sold in the country. His place of business is located south of the Air Line Railroad, on Main street. His clerks are accommodating and courteous and always ready to wait upon customers. Always go to Jim's when you want a square meal.

S. J. Locke.

This gentleman is proprietor of one of the largest Saloons and Dining Halls in DeKalb County. His store and rooms are managed with the ability and exactness that is so characteristic of Mr. Locke, always neat and tidy, quiet and peaceable and every way arranged to please the taste of the most fastidious. He possesses every qualification for the business he is engaged in and during his long stay in our county has always had the reputation of being fair in his dealings with men, and also regarded as being strictly honest and upright. His Dining rooms are in the rear of the store room and here many of the "railroad boys" partake daily from his bounteous tables. We hope our citizens will call at this popular place of resort when visiting Waterloo, and that what we say is no more nor less than the plain facts. Rooms north of railroad.

Mr. Secretary Fish would donate the starving white laborers and the workers who get now eighty cents a day for a day's work, if he will explain what Poker Schenck paid $9,000 in gold for under the item of despatches in three months. Were these despatches the same as those signed "Syph." Publish them, do to let the people know their real value.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN MARKETS.

CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Wheat—White	$ [illegible]	Hogs—live	$6.50
Amber—red	1.22	Hogs—dressed	[illegible]
Rye	[illegible]	Turkeys—live	.06
Oats	[illegible]	Chickens—live	.05
Corn	[illegible]	Butter	.18
Potatoes	[illegible]	Lard	.12
Flax Seed	[illegible]	Eggs	.14
Clover Seed	[illegible]	Tallow	.06
Wool	[illegible]	Timothy Hay	12.00

Local and Miscellaneous.

H. R. LITTLE, EDITOR.

Who is going to get out the best paper in the county, eh.

◆

All extra notices in this issue will be cash, and will send our accounts to parties next week.

◆

Those who have not got business notices in this issue will be sory before they get one year older. Many a time this paper will be referred to by old citizens, who now are said to be young.

◆

EXTRA COPIES of this issue, will be for sale by Johunnie Robbins, Garritt; Sol. Barney, Spencerville; Prof. Barnes, Waterloo; W. B. Adams, Corunna, and the Post Office at Butler.

◆

By a rule of the DeKalb Circuit court all papers taken from the files of the Clerk's office are to be return there on or before Friday preceeding each term of court. Will the attorneys of the county please bear it in mind, and do me the kindness to comply with it.

G. H. K. MOSS, CLERK.

◆

The dance last Tuesday evening, at Ensley's Hall, was a decided failure, there only being one set—that set was behind the music stand waiting for the second one to "arove." If you want to get a crowd in Auburn don't get your printing done at Fort Wayne. People are used to good work up this way.

Auburn,

the County-seat, is situated in Sections 29, 30, 31 and 32 of Union Townnship, and is now stretching itself southward into Section six in Jackson. Forty years ago its first inhabitant came, but is not here now to tell the tale. Amos B. Park, Esq., of Kendallville, was among the young folks, he being a "child in arms" at that date.

The first store opened was by one Comstock, who had a capital in trade of $170—his license being for 85 cents. Freeman soon after came and occupied a building on the south-west corner of Fourth and Cedar Streets. O. A. Parsons soon came and commenced in what was formerly called the Parsons rookery, where John Eichenberg now lives

An old man named Hart kept the first doggery on the site of J. L. Davis' Hardware store. Freeman and Payne were for a time partners; then came Payne and Jefferson Wallace, who kept in the front room of the building now owned and occupied by Mrs. Bodine, and afterwards the firm name became Payne and Ralston, who is undoubtedly the pioneer trader of north-eastern Indiana.

Thos. J. Freeman erected and kept the first hotel in the place, which is still standing and called the Auburn House, shortly after J. O. P. Sherlock, Sen., who still lives near Auburn, opened a hotel in the house long occupied by ex-Sheriff J. N. Miller, where Thos. Baldock now resides.

The first lawyer or as the germans say, "liar" called himself W. Smith, and no one ever knew better, nor do we, but Judge E. B. Mott, whose remains now lie on the lot where Dr. Allen resides, was firt permanent practioner in the profession. He came in 1842. The next year brought us the Hon. John Morris, now of Fort Wayne, whom we all love and respect, not simply for his legal lore, but his simplicity of manners and kindness of heart. In 1845 the Hon. T. R. Dickinson now of Waterloo, who stands at the head of the roll of the members of the bar of the County, with his excellent family, pitched his tent in our midst. Judge Mott lived for several years in a log cabin on the lot where A. J. Ralston now lives, and where seventeen years ago to-day, (Feb 20th,) a very interesting ceremony was had, witnessed by the elite of the city.

The first physician was a Dr. Ross, but where from or to whence, the writer hereof knows not. Old Mr. Haynes, now we think, of Richland township, also practiced on the "Yarb" system. Then came Cooper Pritchard, Hendricks—afterwards County Treasurer, Dr. Ford, who is still among the living, and Dr. W. B. Danser, who died in 1828, and whose widow's death we mentioned in these columns last week.

Rev. Samuel Reed, of the M. E. Church, was the first minister. About 1845 came Jas. T. Bliss, the first Presbyterian minister, who now resides in Illinois and noted for his amiability and piety.

The first carpenter was James Hite, who, assisted by Lyman Chidsey, put up the frame of the old Court House; then James R. Cooper and Samuel W. Ragton, who are still with us, and Amos Hutchinson and O. C. Haughton, who are no more; John Johnson, J. O. P Sherlock and Lanslot Ingman, were the cabinet-makers.

Nelson Payne afterward merchant and Judge and Henry Moneysmith were the first "Sons of Vulcan;" Isaac Savage and Charles Stimley, as gunsmiths; Cyrus Smith, Forsbo and Stephen Laison, invested their "awl" and stuck to it to the "last." Bollinger and Carpenter raised the wind with wind-mills, on the lots now used by "Doctor Fox." Wm. Albright was the first saddler and harness-maker. Isaac Jones the tin-ware man, afterwards carried on by Abram Boss Harson Jones, and Tridell on the lot now occupied by J. L. Davis, as a hardware dealer and banker. Joseph Gawer who is still carrying his own, started the trade of hatter, where Ed. Eldridge now lives.

Outside of town we find in the townships, Kaceland Abbott, mentioned on our first page, at the south end of town, Daniel Altenburg, Esq., Levi J. Wolworth, John Somers, Lyman Chidsey, the Husselmans, Rockwells, Strebe, Fulk, Baughmans, &c., &c.

Auburn Business Firms.

Woolen Mills.
Dr. J. A. Cowen.
Otis Cool, Livery.
J. Smith, Saloon.
W. Smith, Hotel.
J. Stamets, Hotel.
Dr. J. B. Casebeer.
S. L. Yandes, P. M.
R. Rison, Dentist.
Chas. Fox, Saloon.
D. Bender, Cooper.
Jno. Hebel, Saloon.
J. Abright, Jewelry.
Hickman, Boarding.
J. H. Ehlers, Drugs.
S. Pommert, Barber.
R. Zecher, Groceries.
G. W. Stahl, Tailor.
J. Beuret, Hardware.
Baker Bros., Bakery.
Chas. Smith, Saloon.
W. Edgerton, Barber.
E. Eldridge, Grocery.
C. Shafer, Furniture.
J. E. Bodine, Dentist.
J. Mitchel, Saw Mill.
T. A. Clark, Saw Mill.
W. Long, Meat Market.
Jno. [illegible], Restaurant.
A. Weyer, Blacksmith.
W. Lesig, Hats & Caps.
C. Klotz, Drygoods &c.
A. Lauferty, Clothing.
Ford & Parent, Livery.
Hub & Spoke Factory.
W. R. Rush, Groceries.
S. Siler, Photographer.
Chas. Mourham, Barber.
Thos. Ashley, Blacksmith.
D. D. Snyder, Hardware.
J. Treesh, Meat Market.
J. Silfer, Meat Market.
D. Kahn & Co., Clothing.
Mr. Snider, Blacksmith.
C. Eaton, Dining Rooms.
Jno. L. Davis, Hardware.
A. C. Dawson, Furniture.
Joe M. Robbins, Livery.
Little & Fair, Millinery.
S. Groak, Flouring Mills.
S. W. Ralston, Dry Goods.
Mr. Houck, Cooper Shop.
J. Anderson, Blacksmith.
G. H. Munn, Dry Goods &c.
P. Lordier, Boots & Shoes.
B. Williams, Meat Market.
E. E. Williams, Groceries.
T. Baldock, Carpenter Shop.
Scroll Factory, J. W. Case.
S. U. Tarney, Meat Market.
F. D. Ryan, Boots & Shoes.
Cool & Ralston, Groceries.
L. Bowers, Flouring Mills.
C. P. Houser, Book Store.
Dr. Eckright, Wagon Shop.
T. B. Totten, Hats & Caps.
P. V. Hoffman, Atty at Law.
Jno. Beugnot, Billiard Hall.
Auburn House, J. Swaidner.
A. J. Little, Attorney at Law.
B. Williams, Dining Rooms.
Jno. Creager, Soap Factory.
Sheffer Bros., Lumber Yard.
J. A. Sawyer, Marble Works.
F. Lowe, Boot & Shoe Maker.
H. H. Stamets, Fancy Goods.
F. Strebe, Boot & Shoe maker.
Rickel & Tefft, Att'ys at Law.
Beugnot & Co., Stave Factory.
George Wagoner, Blacksmith.
G. A. Porter, Dining Rooms.
H. Woolf, Boot & Shoe Maker.
Rose & Hartman, Att'ys at Law.
J. W. Shaffer, Blacksmith Shop.
J. E. Woodford, Boots & Shoes.
Shearer & Wilson, Plaining Mill.
Central House, M. C. Markel, Pro.
Zimmerman Bros. Plaining Mill.
W. H. McQuiston, Dry Goods &c.
Williams & McDougal, Restaurant.
Dr. Sebring, Physician & Surgeon.
Dr. Spooner, Physician & Surgeon.
H. C. Peterson, Attorney at Law.
Miller & Casebeer, Dry Goods &c.
Jno. Otto, Grocery, Boots & Shoes.
C. H. Nelson & Co., Harness Shop.
W. Rakestraw, Merchant Tailoring.
J. Bockhoffer, Tobacco and Cigars.
F. N. Wright & Co., Lumber Yard.
F. E. Davenport, Drugs & Medicines.
Martin Bros., Groceries & Hardware.
R. H. Weamer, "Republican Office."
J. R. Lanning, Dry Goods & Notions.
Swineford House, A. Swineford, Pro.
Altenberg & Lockwood, Att'ys at Law.
S. J. Lock, Saloon. A. Carter, Manager.
Dr. W. S. Allen, Physician and Surgeon.
E. Ashley, Wagon & Blacksmith Shops.
J. W. Shaffer, Wagon & Carriage Factory.
Goodison Bros., Hard Ware and Painting.
First National Bank, J. R. Lanning, President
J. V. Hazzard Cashier Thos. Newberry, Asst.

BUILDING CONTRACTORS.

Thos. Baldock.
A. L. Hollopeter.
Geo. Picker.
D. Culver.
J. Spach.

PLASTERS.

S. Brubecker
Stafford & Funk.
W. Meeks.
W. Clark.
Mr. Floyd.

PAINTERS.

Geo. Steel
H. Wortenslaben.
J. Cannon.

We have done our best to give a full detail of the business men of our thriving city, but, however, we may have looked over several. If we have we beg their pardon, as our aim was to mention each and every one. It was a work that cannot be appreciated until one has undertaken it. We hope our apology will excuse all our mistakes.

David Siler.

This young man has recently located in our midst and has won for himself a large patronage in the photograph trade Call and see him in McIntyes block.

S. L. Yandes.

Mr. S. has been out Post Master for several years and has given perfect satisfaction to the public. If our citizens can have their way, Lee will end his days under Uncle Sam.

T. B. Totten.

The oldest and most reliable Hat and Cap Store in the county is owned by the above named gentleman. He sells reasonable and keeps the latest styles. Room on Main Street.

M. C. Markle.

Some several months ago the above gentleman took possession of the Markel House and has built up a large hotel custom. Special inducements offered to traveling men.

Jno. Treesh.

This meat shop is located near the Markle House and keeps constantly on hand all kinds of fresh meat, poultry, &c. If you want a nice roast or stake. Call at this place.

Joseph Link.

Mr. Link has proved himself a man of good business qualifications and is conducting one of the best restaurents on seventh street. When you want a square meal, call.

A. J. Little.

This gentleman has practised law for a number of years and has proved himself master of his profession. Those wanting legal business attended can save something by instructing it to his care. Office on main street. over central grocery.

J. B. Bockhoffer.

This gentleman has lately established a Tobacco and Cigar establishment, and in a short time will manufacture Cigars for wholesale trade. Being an old hand in the business we may expect a success of this business house. His Store is located on Seventh street, next door to the Post Office.

A. Lauferty.

This Clothing House is the pioneer House of the county of this kind, and Mr. Lauferty is a man of thorough business qualifications, hence its success. He is particular as to the styles, and always gets the latest, and sells the most reasonable of any in the county. His clerks are polite and accommodating, and all in all it is one of the best places in the city to do trading. His stock consists of Clothing, Hats and Caps, Gents Furnishing goods, and every article appertaining to a first-class Clothing store. Rooms in Hebel's building, North of Court House.

Michael Houston.

Everybody in the city is acquainted with the above gentleman, and know him to be a fair and honest butcher. Call and see him on seventh street.

W. H. Dills.

The above gentleman has been in our county for a number of years and has been successful in profession. He has the legal business worked down to a fine point and receives his share of the business. Parties wanting their work done up to the letter of the law should consult Mr. Dills.

J Robbins.

This gentleman has a first-class livery and feed stable, located on South Main street, near the Eel River Railroad. The the horses and carriages kept are of the best that can be obtained, and rigs are let at reasonable prices. When you want to enjoy a good ride call on Joe. His motto is, drive slow, and whip light.

Chas. Klotz.

Dealer in Clothing, Dry Goods, Gents Furnishing Goods, Groceries, &c. Mr. Klotz is one of our oldest business men, and has been very successful while in our midst. He makes a specialty of home made work, and employs the best journeyman that can be had. When a good suit is wanted go to this popular store. Opposite Court House.

Robert Zecher.

Successor to O. Cool, is at the old stand with the usual well selected stock of Groceries, Notions, &c., and is selling goods at such low prices that he astonishes everyone. He has the largest stock of Queensware in the county, and has bought it at such low prices that no one can compete with him. Corner of Main and Seventh street.a

Baker Bros

These gentlemen are conducting the poineer bakery, and are located on 8th st. They turn out first class bread, pies, cakes, etc. They have the majority of the custom in the city. Any kind of a lunch can be had at all hours of the day and severed to suit the taste of the most fastideous.

Daniel Culver.

Mr. Culver is one of our leading contractors and builders, of houses, barns and bridges. There is no use of any extended notice as his work in most every part of the county will speak for itself. He will be better prepared in the spring than ever, for taking contracts and we advise all who contemplate building, to interview him before going ahead.

J. E. Woodford.

For a fair dealing place this beats them all. Mr. W. is a man that does by others as he would have them do by him and with this as his motto has built up a large and substantial business. The best of workmen are employed, and custom work made a specialty. Don't fail to give him a call. Store on Main street opposite Ford's block.

G. W. Gordon.

The above name has been before the public for some time, as the "boss" photograph man of the county. His rooms are splendidly arranged and his work can not be excelled in the State, while his prices are lower than any other gallery in the county. For a good picture call on Mr. G , over Cool & Ralston's grocery. Ensley's block.

Beugnot & Co.,

The above gentlemen are conducting one of the largest and most substantial Stave Factories in the State. The establishment furnishes employment for a large number of men, and to our farmers is one of the best institutions in the country. They buy lots of stave bolts and pay the cash. They always want them and the sooner you haul them in the better.

H. C. Peterson.

Is one of our leading attorneys and is prompt and exact in all his business transactions. Mr. P is our leading real estate agent and always has property to suit the wants of the customer, at very reasonable prices. His office is located over Davis' Hardware store; on the corner of main and eighth streets. Parties having legal business will do well to consult Mr. Peterson.

Edward Eldridge.

Has abandoned the Grocery and Provision trade, and will open a first-class saloon, at his old stand. Mr. E. has always had the best reputation of any man in the county as a saloon keeper, and it is a common thing to hear it on the streets. Ed. has a large number of warm friends in this community who will lend their influence in his behalf. The best of Liquors will keep on hand and all are invited to call.

G. A. Porter.

The gentleman spoken of above, has purchased the building known as the City Bakery, and in a short time will fit up the rooms in grand style, to be used as a Dining Hall. Here will be kept all kinds of eatables, and day boarders will receive the best attention. Mr. P. being an old hand at the business will far exceed any other establishment of the kind in DeKalb county. Rooms South of Swineford house.

G. H. Munn.

The above gentleman came to our city about one year ago and succeeded Wm. Richmond in the Dry Goods & Notion trade, and we are glad to say he has met with unbounded success in every particular. As a citizen Mr. Munn has been one who has always give liberal to all public improvements and does all in his power to improve and extend the prominent interests of our city. His establishment is located on Main street, opposite the Court House, and to those who have never dealt with him we urge them to give him a trial. He keeps on hand all the lastest style articles in his line, and sells at prices not to be refused by any reasonable buyer. Give him a call, and see for yourselves what bargains he offers.

Williams and McDougal.

The gentlemen named above have filled up rooms, opposite the Court House, and are conducting one of the best Restaurants in the city. Any kind of a lunch can be had in a few minutes, and oysters served in all the different styles.

D. Kahn & Co.

Mr. Kahn has been in our midst but a short time and has, through his energy and enterprise, worked up a splendid trade in the Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods line. He will not be undersold, and it has become a well known fact all over the county. Call at his large store and satisfy yourself of the fact, North of Court House.

John Hebel.

This gentleman carries on the old pionier saloon, and although the location not being of the best, does a very fair business. He keeps on hand the choicest lines of liquors and cigars, is always accommodating and keeps clerks that are equally so. He is enterprising and has lately erected a two story brick business house. Saloon on seventh street.

William Lessig.

The above gentleman has erected a neat frame building opposite Rainier House, and has placed therein one of the best and latest styles of Hats, Caps, ladies and gents furnishing goods in the county. Everything has been purchased on the cash system and consequently are sold lower than at any other place in our city. Mr. L. is one of our best and most reliable citizens and we are certain of his success.

Cool & Ralston.

These gentlemen have just opened out a fresh supply of Groceries and provisions, in the room formerly occupied by V. A. Beard, in Ensley block, both being accurate business men, and will command a large trade in a very short time. All kinds of Groceries, Notions, Queensware, Willow-ware, canned Fruits, &c., are kept constantly on hand, and sold as cheap as the cheapest. We advise all our readers to call and examine goods and prices before purchasing, and convince themselves that this is the cheapest place in town.

F. D. Ryan.

This gentleman is now proprietor of one of the oldest Boot & Shoe firms in in this county. Although a new business for Frank, we are certain of his doing well, as he is surrounded with many warm friends where ever he is known. Those desiring to purchase good work at bottom figures will do well to call and examine his stock and prices, for Mr. R. is putting goods upon the market at a very reasonable price. His stock will not fail to present to your eye just the kind of Boots & Shoes for you, your wife, and your children. Sprott's old stand, Main Street.

Charles Smith.

Charley in the years gone by has been one of our prominent Saloon men and after a long rest will again take hold of the business. He is about to open up in the old stand, and will overhaul the building so as to make it more convenient than heretofore. His liquors will be of the best quality to be had, and the lager beer will be kept ina suitable place to make it always taste fresh and good. The billiard tables that are now in the building, will be remoddled and made as good as new ones. New cloth, new cushions and new cues have been ordered and all lovers of the game should bear this in mind, and call on Charley when they wish to indulge.

J. J. Van Auken.

The above gentleman has been our county Surveyor for two years, and has met with unbounded success. Through his own enterprise he has purchased several new instruments and lately has procured the necessary one commonly called the Queen Y Level. Although young in years he has that natural ability which makes him old in experience, and has gone through the necessary books that qualifies him for any position If he should ever come before the people of DeKalb county for an office, he should be upheld by all, as he is capable, industrious and sober in his habits, and whatever he undertakes must, and shall be accomplished.

F. E. Davenport.

This gentleman is conducting the pioneer Drug Store of our thriving city and during his long stay among us, has never made a slip on the well beaten path His store is crowded with all kinds of goods usually kept in a substantial business house of this kind, and all perscriptions are carefully and accuralby compounded. His clerks are those of experience, and we have a perfect right to say, that is THE reliable Drug Store of our place. The opposite side of the store is a full and complete stock of all kinds of Books and Stationery, Wall and Window Paper, Curtains and Fixtures. If our people want good goods at living prices this is the place to get them. Rooms on corner of Main and Seventh streets.

C. C. Shafer.

This gentleman is so well-known that he needs no extended notice, being in our city and conducting the Furniture trade for twelve years. Being a practicle workman himself, he is not swindled in his foreign purchases. No less than six other firms have tried to compete against him, and we are sorry to say, have failed. Should not this be sufficent proof to the people of Auburn and vicinity, that he has during the long period above mentioned, been a man of good business qualifications, and done what is right by his numerous customers. Mr. Shaffer has lately erected a fine two-story brick structure, on Main street, where he now carries on the largest and best selected stock of Furniture in De Kalb county, and sells at a living price. He has also purchased a very fine hearse and makes a specialty of the undertaking business.

William McIntyre.

Mr. McIntyre is one of those enterprising and go-a-head gentlemen that is always welcomed in every community—always the first to help in every enterprise and his mite is equal to any in the city. Last summer he erected a handsome two story brick block, on the cor. of Main and Ninth streets, and one has only to look at the style and finish of the building, to know in a moment that no pains was spared to make it complete in every particular. The floors are laid in walnut and ash timber, alternate, and the counter and shelving are, to say the least, simply grand. The front windows are genuine French glass, full size and attracts the attention of every passer by.

Rose & Hartman.

The above law firm is deserving an immense business in this and adjoining counties, and have always carried the reputation of doing business in a first class style, They are both gentlemen of fine ability, temperate habits, and are among our first citizens in the way of enterprise. Everything calculated to improve or enhance the popularity and growth of our city, finds them at the "head of the army," and willing to give equal with other citizens, All business placed in their care will be promply and strictly attended to. Their office is located on the corner of Main and Ninth streets, over Miller & Casebery's Dry Goods Store.

D. D. Snyder.

Mr. S. Although a young man, has been very successful in the Hard Ware business, and has done a great deal in improving our city. Some time ago he had a three story brick building fall to the ground, on account of a poor foundation, but not getting discouraged at this, has re-built and put in the first story a large stock of Hard-Ware, Stoves &c. He was also the first to take hold of the Agricultural Machinery, and has from that time to this, kept a large stock on hand. When we say he sells more Machinery than any two firms in the county, we do not think that we exagerate one particle. All kinds of Machine repairs can be had at his establishment and every kind of Machinery used by our farming community. He has a first class Tin-Shop connected with his store where all kinds of Roofing, Spouting and tin work is neatly and tastefully done, by H. Brandon. Walk to the Excelsior Hard-Ware if you want bargains

James Smith.

Mr. Smith is in the Saloon and Restaurant business at the Junction, and has a neat and tasty little room, located on the main road. Many of our citizens stroll to this popular place in the Summer days to partake of the food that is so characteristic for him to cateer, to the public taste. His bar is complete in every particular, and the "bully Lager Beer" is dished out in good style to those who parteke thereof. He keeps the best brands of liquors and cigars, and is a man that tries his best to please all who enter his establishment. This is the only saloon in the city where a lunch can be had, and for this reason we say Mr. Smith is ahead of his competitors in Auburn. Boys remember this.

THE HOTEL

is also conducted by the above gentleman and known as the "Junction Hotel." His son, L. H. Smith, is the gentlemanly clerk, and through their accommodating and pleasing ways have built up a magnificent business. It is run in city style, and for this reason alone, many of the drummers spend their Sundays at the Junction.

John L. Davis.

This old established house is so well known that it is unneccessary to give a full detail of its contents and business. Every appointment of the house is of the best class and carries a complete line of goods incident to the hardware trade, which to enumerate would occupy too much time and space for this paper. The farmer, the banker, the housekeeper or the mechanic and the manufacturer, can obtain at this establishment any kind or style of goods in the hardware line. The business is very systematically arranged, and this is one great secret of their handling so many goods each day. In the line of stoves, Mr. D. sells double the amount of any other firm in the county, the most of which are home-made, and consequently, are warranted to be as represented. Mr. Davis employs none but the best of workmen, and makes a specialty of tin roofing, spouting, &c. He is one of our most liberal and enterprising citizens, and stands high in the estimation of all who know him. Lately he has put a branch establishment at Garrett, and we are glad to know is meeting with success at that place. We would advise all who want anything in his line, to look at his stock.

Miller & Casebeer.

The retail trade in Dry Goods has attained no small degree of prominence in Auburn, and while we speak of the above firm, we want it understood that they sell more goods than any other Dry Goods store in the city. Wagon after wagon can be seen daily driven to their door, and unloading all kinds of country produce, for which they pay the highest market price. It is one of the most reliable and most solid business firms in the county, and also the oldest. All the appointments and arrangements of the sale rooms gives the store an elegant appearance, and it contains a line of goods not excelled in the city. All that capital, energy and trade can suggest has been used to make it a prominent trading point. Our citizens are proud of this immens establishment, and show their friendship toward the firm, by giving them the largest patronage of any house in the county. Their principal stock of merchandise consists in a great variety of foreign and domestic dry goods, clothing notions &c. We heartily recommend this place to all, and hope that many who have never traded there will give them a call after reading this notice. Their store is opposite the Court House. Corner Main and Ninth street.

C. C. Eaton.

Restaurant and Dining Rooms, over Davenport's Drug Store. At this establishment, you can get all kinds of eatables, served up in the best of style, and have a nice, clean and well arranged room to eat in. Oysters can be had by the can or dish. Mr. E. always keeps a first-class cook and all that you get is cooked, and arranged in the latest style. Next Wednesday Mr. Eaton will remove into his new building on the corner of Sixth and Main Streets, where he has fitted up a room in first-class style, and where he will be pleased to see his old friends.

E. E. Williams.

The amount of capitol invested in the grocery trade in Auburn, is much greater than would be supposed, and we must say for our friend above that he has one of the finest and best stocks in our city. The headquarters of this firm are North of Court House, in Odd Fellows Building, and the stock and quality of their goods deserve an extended notice, but our time is too much limited to do them justice. Everything in the grocery line can be found here, and as good in quality as can be obtained in the county and at the lowest bottom prices. The store has on hand a large and careful selected stock of canned fruits, dried fruits and groceries. Don't fail to give him a call.

J. R. Lanning.

The above named gentleman having severed his connection with what was formerly known as Lanning & Martin, is now carrying on a large and extensive business, under his own supervision, assisted by Niss Lydia Hogue, who is head Milliner in the establishment. Mr. Lanning is always up, and even ahead of the times, and keeps constantly on hand a heavy stock, which are only to be found in the larger towns and cities, said stock consisting of Dry and Fancy goods, a full line of Millinery goods, Jewelry, Notions, Ladies Furnishing goods, Hosiery, and all kinds of Dress garniture, &c. &c. In fact anything and everything you want. Bonnets and Hats gotten up to order, on short notice, at the lowest figures.—Goods are all marked in plain figures, so that a child can buy as well as a man, with no fears of being cheated. Mr. L. himself is a genial, courteous gentleman, and has been a public servant for a number of years. He has always endeavored to do his work well which is as high an encomium as can be placed upon man. He occupies a pleasant situation in Ford's block and his rooms always present a clean and tasty appearance.

A. Carter.

Mr. Carter is conducting a Saloon and Billiard Hall for S. J. Lock, Ninth street opposite the new Jail building. This eclipses anything in the above business in our city. The bar is neatly and tastefully arranged and speaks well for the manager, in fact it is far superior to many in large cities, and the liquors kept on hand are all of the very best that can be had. The room contains four nice and tasty billiard tables and is so kept and everything is in such perfect order that it makes a 'feller feel that he could play with the but end of the cue and go home and say "it was good for him to be there." Pin pool is also a very popular game at this establishment and many of our best citizens indulge in this popular game. This is the only place in the city where is kept Finley's Lager Beer and Cincinnati Ale. The latter seems to be the choice among our sports and there's no getting around it, after a fellow takes one or two glasses there is something ails him till he gets some more. But for all of that Mr. C. keeps a very quiet and peaceable place and a man that drinks to excess can get nothing there.

F. N. Wright & Co.

This firm established a lumber yard in our city, on Jackson street, about two years ago, and have done the largest business of any yard in Northern Indiana The lumber traffic of the yard at the present time reaches, not to exagorate, two million feet, which will be disposed of before the 1st of July next, on account of the low prices it is selling at. Their sales of shingles will aggregate from nine to ten hundred thousand per annum, lath from five to ten hundred thousand and they sell about fifteen hundred bushels of lime annually, which, when taken together, speaks well for the trade of this establishment, and shows conclusively the benefit of a prosperous and renumerative custom.—These gentlemen are taking measures to enlarge the business and make such additions to it as will enable them to meet the increased demand of their custom trade. They are certainly enterprising in their commercial intercourse and take particular pains to be very accommodating to their customers, and with their energy, industry, enterprise and upright dealing cannot help but succeed. Our best and most earnest wishes are in behalf of the above gentlemen, and we ask our friends and readers all over the county to give them a call, and learn their prices, before buying lumber. We are confident that this is the cheapest and most reliable lumber yard in De Kalb county and even if you do have to come twenty or thirty miles, you can save money by buying at F. N. Wright & Co. Here you can deal with that good souled and clever gentleman, A. Lewis Esq., who has conducted the above yard from its first appearance in our midst. It is only once in long while that a firm is so successful, to get a man as Mr. L. is—always ready for business, clever and accommodating, and by this means there are no end to his friends. We want our friends to bear in mind that lumber can be had at this popular establishment by the wagon or car load, and when taken in large quantities at this kind greatly reduced rates are given. There has been some talk of this yard staying in our city but a short time, but to off-set all such gossip Mr. Lewis has erected one of the finest frame structures in our city, on Van Buren street and has permently located among us. Don't fail to give him a call.

W. R. Rush.

Mr. R. is located on the corner of Fifth and Main streets, and has a fine assortment of Groceries and Notions, which he disposes of at very reasonable prices. Give him a trial.

F. Y. Goodman.

Sign and ornamental painter. Room up stairs on Seventh street. There is no use of an extended notice for this gentleman as his work will speak for itself. Call and see.

Dr. J. A. Cowan.

Physician & Surgeon. Mr. C. has controlled as large a practice as any physician in the county, for several years past and has given entire satisfaction in all his customers.

E. Goodison.

Hardware and Tin Shop combined. Mr. G. is recognized as being one of the best mechanics in the city. He has on hand a fine stock of Stoves, Tin-Ware, &c. Roofing and Spouting promptly attended to.

Baker Bros.

These gentlemen superintend the most popular and best arranged Bakery in the county, and are doing an immense trade They are both clever and liberal men, always willing to help for any enterprise that is for the good of the town of county. Good lunch can be had at all hours. Store on Eight street. Give them a call.

Isaac Roth.

Mr. Roth was the first to engage in Dray business in our city, and through his fair and honorable way of conducting it, has won the good-will of our merchants, and to-day enjoys the largest patronage of any other drayman in the county. He is careful and attentive, and so good-natured no one can "go back on him." Give him a call.

P. Lordier.

This gentleman controls the popular establishment known as the Fort Wayne Boot & Shoe Store, located on Seventh street. Mr. P. has undoubtedly the largest trade of any Boot & Shoe House in DeKalb county, and it was all built up in less than six months. He has goods marked down to the lowest figures, hence his success.

S. Pommert

This Shaving Saloon is located on the corner of Main and Seventh streets, and is very popular. Mr. P. is a practical workman himself and consequently will not keep any one around him but what is ditto. Here you can always get a tip-top shave or hair cut, and if you have a sorrel mostache, he can make it as "black as jet" and have it look as natural as life.

Thos. Sommers.

Mr. S. has lately moved to our city, and will re-model and renovate the room now used by Chas. Fox, and carry on the Saloon business in first-class style. With his sociable and accommodating ways he will ere long build up a fine trade in this line. He will aim to keep the choicest line of tobacco and cigars always on hand. On Eight street.

Jno. Beugnot.

This man has been in our midst for several years, and has did considerable in improving our city. Lately he has built a large frame building, on Seventh street, which he will occupy in a short, time called St. Nicholas Billiard Parlor. Joe. will make a good man for this position, and do what's square with the boys.

Shearer & Wilson.

The above gentlemen are contractors and builders, and have the reputation of doing their word well and at reasonable prices. They have completed a large planing mill, on Jackson street, and have the necessary machines for doing all kinds of work in that line of business Our readers should bear this in mind when they are preparing to build.

W. Rakestraw.

If any of our readers want a wedding out-fit, they should call at this establishment. Here has employed one of the best tailors in Indiana, and the nicest and latest style stock of goods to select from in the city. Mr. W's health not being of the best, he is closing out his entire stock at cost. Don't fail to call when wanting clothing.

H. H. Stamets.

Mr. S. is our leading merchant in Millinery and Fancy goods is located in Ensley's block, opposite Court House. This place of business is very popular among the ladies, as the line of goods kept, are the finest and most stylish in the city. The Millinery department is always full and complete, and the best of workmen employed. Dress making by Miss Orpha Bodine is connected.

A. C. Dawson.

At this furniture store can always be found the latest novelties of all kinds of Parlor Sets, Bed Room Sets, Bureaus, Bedsteads, Lounges, &c. Mr. D. is one of those kind of gentleman who is alwas keeping pace with the times, and although undertaking a new business, we are satisfied of his final success His workmen are all well versed in their profession and consequently all work is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Undertaking in all its branches promptly attended to and a good Hearse connected with the establishment.

Joseph Abright.

The Jewelry trade is one that requires a great deal of practice and a good workman in this line is a blessing to any community. The gentleman spoken of above is a first-class workman and does the most of his work with his own hands and consequently has met with the liberal patronage he so much deserves. He keeps on hand a large and tasty stock of everything kept in Jewelry store, although no opposition in the city, carries the reputation of being the cheapest in the county. Store on Main street, opposite Ford's block.

◆

EXTRA Copies of this week's COURIER can be had at this office, everybody should send one to their friends.

AUBURN COURIER.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1876.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

The Prussian Parliament has passed the bill amending the penal code, including the so-called pulpit clause, which forbids the reading of objectionable communications within a church or posting the same on the doors.

The European powers are trying to effect an armistice in Herzegovina.

The war in Spain is being actively prosecuted. Alfonso has taken the field in person, and promises to bring the contest to an early termination.

An English agent is to take permanent charge of Egyptian finances.

Twenty thousand pounds has been raised in Bremen for the victims of the dynamite plot.

Three newspapers have have been suppressed at Rome for publishing a speech by Garibaldi, in which the Republic is extolled as the only honest form of government.

The Sultan of Turkey offers amnesty to all insurgents who submit immediately.

The news from Turkey is exceedingly belligerent in character. The insurgents refuse to accept the compromise proposed by Count Andrassy, and are determined not to submit to Turkish rule. The war party have also triumphed in Servia.

Winslow, the Boston forger, has turned up in Rotterdam. He has not been arrested because no extradition treaty exists with the United States. It appears, however, that an order has been given for the delivery to the American Consul at Rotterdam of all valuables found in Winslow's possession.

The Spanish Government has issued an explanatory note on Cuban affairs. It claims that the insurrection is run by foreign adventurers, and that the patriot army is composed mainly of negroes and Chinese.

A dispatch from Rome says: "The Pope having granted a dispensation for the marriage of the daughter of the American sculptor Story, a Protestant, with the Commendatore Peruzzi a Catholic, and a brother of the Syndic of Florence, the grant is mentioned as a remarkable exception to the rule never before broken during the Pontificate of Pius IX. Some of the extreme Ultramontanists are highly displeased."

Mr. Disraeli has offered in the British Parliament a bill adding another title to Queen Victoria's name—that of Empress of India.

England has ordered her fleet in Chinese waters to back the Germans in bullying China into paying an indemnity for the depredations of pirates near Foo Chow on a German schooner.

The war in Spain is being prosecuted, on the part of the Government, with unusual vigor. Several substantial victories over the Carlists have been reported. The latter are represented to be concentrating their forces for a final struggle.

A special telegram from Vienna says: "The Bosnian insurgents have issued a manifesto against Count Andrassy's note. The manifesto points out the Porte's former breaches of promised reforms, and declares that the resistance of the Mahometan Beys will baffle every reform. The Mahometans even are expected to revolt if the attempt is made to execute the reforms. The insurgents, therefore, refuse to lay down their arms, and they appeal to the justice of Europe."

DOMESTIC NEWS.

East.

The Bank of Commerce of New London, Ct., was recently robbed of $21,000. No clue to the robbers.

Piper, the fiend who murdered a little girl in a church belfry at Boston, last spring, has been tried a second time, the jury rendering a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree.

Another sad drowning accident is reported from New England. Three children of Andrew Bates broke through the ice on Lake Whitney, New Haven, Ct., on Thursday week, and were all drowned. The mother and four other persons who went to their rescue broke through and were with great difficulty saved.

Owen Lindsay was hung at Syracuse, N. Y., on the 11th inst., for the murder of Francis A. Colvin.

The burglar who entered the National Bank of Commerce, of New London, Ct., and relieved it of $21,000, turns out to be George C. Packer, one of the tellers of the institution. He has confessed his crime and made full restitution.

An exciting scene took place in the lecture room of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, at the adjourned annual meeting on Friday night week, at which the clerk read the report of the examining committee, detailing the several meetings between it and Mr. Bowen. After the report was read, and a resolution passed referring back the insinuations of Bowen against Beecher to the Examining Committee and summoning Bowen to appear before them, Mr. Beecher made some exciting remarks, closing as follows: "As for myself, I pronounce the allegations as false; and, with Almighty God before me, and the judgment day, I arraign him as a slanderer and a liar."

George W. Fletcher has been sentenced to death at Philadelphia for the murder of William Henley.

Four miners were instantly killed, and six or eight badly injured, by the explosion of fire-damp in a coal mine at Pittston, Pa., one day last week.

Gilford White, a Boston lawyer, has been arrested and placed under $10,000 bonds, detectives having traced to his possession $30,000 of the Government bonds stolen from a gentleman in New York about a year since.

The Plymouth Church Advisory Council assembled at Brooklyn on Feb. 15, with delegates from about 140 churches in attendance.

West.

Heavy rains and destructive floods are reported from the Pacific coast.

D. H. Mitchell, a prominent citizen of Leavenworth, Kan., is under arrest for attempting to steal $9,690 from the Government in grain contracts.

The recent heavy rains have caused much damage in various parts of the West by the rising of the rivers.

Three Chicago Aldermen—Hildreth, Cullerton and Jonas—have been indicted for complicity in the whisky frauds.

As far as ascertained, the forgeries of Mrs. Tupper, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, amount to $11,000.

The Kansas House of Representatives has passed a resolution, by a vote of 42 to 40, requesting Congress to repeal the Specie Resumption act.

A bill subsidizing the Northern Pacific Railroad to the amount of $3,000,000 and a bill subsidizing the Utah Northern Narrow-Gauge to the amount of $1,150,000 have passed the Montana Legislature and received the Governor's approval. Both bills come before the people of the Territory on the 3d of April.

Heavy snow-storms are reported in the Far West and trains on the Union Pacific have been snow-bound.

In order to afford people who desire it an opportunity of attending the annual Mardi Gras festivities in New Orleans, the Illinois Central Railroad is selling excursion tickets from Chicago to the Crescent City and return at $35, good till the 7th of March.

The Ohio State Grange of Patrons of Husbandry was in session at Cleveland last week. A large number of delegates were present. There are 1,247 subordinate granges in the State of Ohio, with a membership of over 80,000.

Five persons were drowned at Golconda, Ill., a few days ago, by the capsizing of a sail-boat in the river, during the prevalence of a storm.

The Wisconsin Supreme Court has refused young women the privilege of practicing in the courts.

The Western Union Telegraph Company have resolved to reduce their rates from 20 to 30 per cent.

South.

Articles of impeachment against Lieut.-Gov. Davis have been reported to the Mississippi Legislature.

Matters begin to look serious again in Louisiana. The House Committee appointed to investigate the books of the State Treasurer have submitted a report recommending that articles of impeachment be presented against Gov. Kellogg and Treasurer Dubuclet, the offense charged being that these two officials improperly diverted from the interest fund the sum of $196,000.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Gen. Hurlbut has amended his Freight Railway bill by striking out the provision extending a Government guarantee of interest or loan of credit to aid in the construction of the road. This reduces the proposition to a grant of a charter to a corporation to build the line, the Government appointing Commissioners to have entire charge of the construction and management, without, as is claimed, any legal or equitable liability.

Hon. T. W. Ferry has been elected President of the Congressional Temperance Society.

The Secretary of the Treasury has furloughed all the employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in the Treasury Department, on account of having no money to conduct the operations of the bureau.

The House Committee on Elections has decided to report unanimously that Harralson (colored), is entitled to hold his seat against Bromberg, contestant.

It is understood that the House Judiciary Committee will maintain the right of the House to expel Bill King and Schumaker, not in punishment of crime committed before they became members, but upon the constitutional power of the House to protect itself from violent, disorderly, or unseemly persons.

Representatives of the syndicate which so successfully negotiated the 5 per cent. bonds express confidence in their ability to negotiate a 4½ per cent. bond at par in case the time were extended to thirty years.

The proposition for the transfer of the Indian Bureau to the control of the War Department has developed remarkable strength in the House Committee on Indian Affairs. A report favorable to the passage of the bill providing for the transfer, and placing the Bureau in charge of an army officer of rank not below a Colonel, has been agreed upon by the Committee without a dissenting vote.

The President signed the Centennial bill with a quill pen made from the wing of an American eagle.

Considerable excitement has been raised among naval officers by an order issued by the Secretary of the Navy, directing the United steamer Dispatch to proceed to sea with sealed orders. The opinion is expressed that her destination has some connection with Cuban matters.

Secretary Bristow has been interviewed regarding the reiterated stories of a coolness between himself and the President. He pronounces them all and singular as having not the shadow of foundation, and says his relations are as amicable to-day as on the day he entered the Cabinet.

Assistant Secretary Cowan, of the Interior Department, has resigned.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The Democrats of the lower house of Congress have agreed, as a compromise upon the finance question, to refer the whole subject to a committee to draft a financial measure to represent the whole party.

The United States Senate has confirmed the nomination of E. C. Billings as the successor of Judge Durell in Louisiana.

The German Republicans of Wisconsin are said to be strongly in favor of E. B. Washburne for President.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune nominates Ambrose E. Burnside for President.

Judge David Davis, of Illinois, says a Washington dispatch, is beginning to be talked about as a Democratic Presidential candidate.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Evening Journal telegraphs that paper as follows:

> Two gentlemen, who visited the White House on Thursday, tell of an interesting and significant conversation with Col. Fred Grant, on the third-term question. They were speaking of the candidates for the next Republican nomination for President, when Fred burst out with an emphasis and earnestness that his hearers say convinced them of his sincerity: "If anybody thinks there is any third-term to him, he is mistaken. Father don't want to be President any more, and won't accept the nomination if the Cincinnati Convention offers it to him." This was repeated in substance several times. The conversation turning to the chances of the different candidates Fred expressed unbounded admiration for Conkling, remarking: "He's a statesman and a good Republican, and that is the man for President." He added a hope that Conkling would get the nomination, and said he thought he would slip in as Lincoln did, in 1860. A gentleman that heard him believes that he but echoed the sentiments of his father.

Texas voted for Governor and other State officers on Tuesday, Feb. 15. The entire Democratic ticket is elected by a large majority.

Louis J. Jennings, until the present time editor of the New York Times, has been virtually dismissed from the position by George W. Jones, who owns now over half the stock of the concern. Jones claims that Jennings was endeavoring to sell the stock held in his name to Mr. Morgan, who is an advocate of Conkling's election to the Presidency, and to whom Jones is opposed. A Mr. Ford is now the responsible editor of the paper.

The Greenback Convention of Indiana met at Indianapolis on Wednesday, Feb. 16, forty nine counties being represented by delegates. Anson Wolcott presided. The following ticket was nominated: Governor, Franklin Landers; Lieutenant-Governor, Anson Wolcott; Secretary of State, Leroy Templeton; Auditor, Morris M. Bundy; Treasurer, John Q. A. Newsom. The platform calls for the repeal of the Specie Resumption act, the withdrawal of the circulating notes of the National and State banks, and the substitution of greenback currency. Delegates were selected to the National Convention of the Independent party, and instructed to vote for Newton Booth for President.

Postmaster-General Jewell, it is said, contemplates withdrawing from the Cabinet with a view to improving his chances for election to the United States Senate.

A convention of the Independent party of Illinois was held at Decatur on Wednesday, Feb. 16, at which Lewis Steward was nominated for Governor, J. H. Pickerell for Lieutenant-Governor, M. M. Hooton for Secretary of State, John Hise for Auditor, Henry T. Aspern for Treasurer, and W. B. Coy for Attorney-General. A platform was adopted demanding the unconditional repeal of the Specie Resumption act and the substitution of greenbacks for the National Bank currency, and the abrogation of all laws that do not bear equally upon capital and labor.

MISCELLANEOUS GLEANINGS.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson met his death last week in a sudden and tragic manner. While walking in the grounds of the Governor's mansion, at Annapolis, Md., he stumbled and fell, and, striking his head against a stone, fractured the frontal bone. He was alone when the accident happened. Shortly after his absence from the house had been noticed, a servant went in search of him and found him lying in the yard bleeding profusely, and life extinct. Mr. Johnson was born in 1796, and was, consequently, 80 years old.

Since the passage of the act of Jan. 4, 1875, the contraction of National Bank currency has amounted to $20,709,752.

The ship Progress, bound from Galveston to Liverpool, was recently abandoned at sea. Her cargo was valued at $300,000.

George C. Smith, an old Chicago banker, formerly President of the National Loan and Trust Company and Treasurer of the State Insurance Company, both of Chicago, has been arrested on complaint of Homer Cook, assignee of the State Insurance Company, charged with having unlawfully converted some $150,000 of the assets of that company without the assent of the Directors.

An additional vault is to be constructed at New York for the fast accumulating silver coin. In all parts of the country there is now on hand about $14,000,000 in subsidiary coins, of which $4,000,000 is in Boston; $500,000 in New York, and $800,000 in the mints, the balance being at the different sub-treasuries.

Boss Tweed has been heard from at Point Sec, on the St. Lawrence coast, Canada.

Chicago and New York capitalists are said to have obtained control of most of the mortgage bonds of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, with the intention of forcing a foreclosure.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

THURSDAY, Feb. 10.—Senate.—The bill extending for ten years the time for the completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad was passed.... The Centennial bill was again the bone of contention in the Senate.

House.—The House was engaged the whole day in discussing the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill, and in listening to the promised speech of ex-Speaker Blaine on the finances.

FRIDAY, Feb. 11.—Senate.—The Senate passed (41 to 15) the Centennial bill appropriating $1,500,000 on the terms and conditions provided in the House amendments, which require the repayment of the money out of the profits of the exhibition.... Frelinghuysen introduced a bill to regulate the transportation of live stock.

House.—The Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill was passed. It makes a reduction of $470,000 from last year's appropriation.... A memorial was presented asking for the repeal of the duty on books printed in the dead languages. Among the petitioners are Longfellow, Emerson, Holmes, Lowell, and other distinguished men of letters.

MONDAY, Feb. 14.—Senate.—Ingalls introduced a bill for the protection of agriculture against injurious insects.... Frelinghuysen's bill regulating the transportation of live stock was passed.... The Pinchback case was again before the Senate, and Morton replied to the speech of Thurman, and argued in favor of the admission of Pinchback.

House.—Bills were introduced and referred as follows: By Banks, in relation to bounties to nine-months' volunteers; by Meade, to provide for the payment of United States notes, and to strengthen public credit; by Jenks, to repeal the third section of the act of 1874, establishing the National Bank Redemption Agency; by Riddle (Tenn.), directing the transmission of printed matter through the mails when the postage thereon is insufficient; by Evans, in relation to the currency; by Parker (Ind.) to make banking free, and to repeal the Resumption act; by Harrison, for a repeal of parts of the Resumption act and for the purpose of preparing a way for the resumption of specie payment; by Fort, for the preservation of forests in the public domain adjacent to the sources of navigable rivers and other streams.... Platt offered a resolution, which was adopted, directing the Printing Committee to inquire whether any members had changed their speeches after delivery.... Hale introduced, with a view of obtaining a test vote on the finance question, a resolution declaring that prompt measures ought to be taken looking to an early resumption of specie payment. The motion to suspend the rules and adopt the resolution was lost—yeas, 86; nays, 137.

TUESDAY, Feb. 15.—Senate.—Hitchcock, from the Committee on Territories, reported favorably on the Senate bill to enable the people of New Mexico to form a Constitution and State Government, and for the admission of that State into the Union.... The Senate was engaged most of the day in considering the Pension bill, which was passed with some slight amendments.... The bill to remove the restrictions in the disposition of public lands in the States of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Florida was passed, after a sharp debate.

House.—The Fortification bill was reported from the Appropriation Committee, and passed without debate. It appropriates $315,000, against $1,004,000 for the same purpose last year.... Jones (Ky.) offered a resolution, which was referred to the Banking and Currency Committee, proposing a repeal of the Public Credit act of March 18, 1869, and declaring that the United States bonds shall be paid in lawful money.... Sayler offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury to report within ten days the actual amount of gold owned by the Government and available for the resumption of specie payment. Adopted.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 16.—Senate.—Alcorn made a personal explanation regarding a special dispatch printed in the Chicago Times. He disclaimed responsibility for the present condition of affairs in his State.... Anthony submitted a concurrent resolution that the reports in the Congressional Record shall be an accurate transcript of the proceedings and debates of the two houses of Congress.

House.—The bill extending the time for filing claims for additional bounties to July, 1880, was passed.... Stone introduced a bill fixing the rates of compensation of railroad companies for the transportation of mails.... Hubbell offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Interior to invest in United States bonds bearing 5 per cent. interest the money appropriated to the different bands of Chippewa Indians.... The House engaged in a long debate on McCrary's bill to reorganize the Judiciary of the United States, in the course of which considerable opposition to the measure was developed.

Important News, if True.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—On Thursday last Queen Victoria entered the boudoir of her unmarried daughter, the Princess Beatrice, and said, "Beatrice, my dearest, you want to get married, don't you?" "Oh, don't I, just," replied the girl, enthusiastically, "and it's leap year, too. Hooray! But say, ma, who's the him?" "Prince Louis, of Battenburg," replied her Majesty. "That'll be awfully jolly," said the Princess; "Louis is such a sweet name," and she began scrawling on the blotting pad: "Beatrice Battenburg," and wondering how she would look in white. Yesterday morning, when her august mother entered Her Royal Highness' apartments, she found her daughter in tears—tears of indignation rather than grief. "Why, drat the child, what ails her?" said Her Majesty. "Oh, ma," cried the Princess, "look at this," and she pointed to the following item in the Times:

> CALCUTTA, Feb. 4.—Prince Louis, of Battenburg, while pig-sticking to-day, fell and broke his collar bone. The sad event has cast a gloom over the community.

"Well," said the Queen, "What of that?" "What of that?" echoed the daughter; "what of that? With all due deference to you, ma'am, I will have no Prince Louis in mine. I thought we had come down low enough when poor Louise married into a grocer's family; but a butcher, a man that makes his living by sticking horrid pigs—not much, Alexandrina Victoria," and kicking off her mother's crown, with the remark that that was the sort of a hair-pin she was, Her Royal Highness betook herself to her bedroom and gave way to tears.—New York World.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

The House Repeals the Bankrupt Act—Debate on the Diplomatic Appropriation Bill—The District in the Senate—Rumors of Cabinet Dissensions—Personalities.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 12, 1876.

By odds the most notable event of the week among the annals of Congress is the passage of a bill by the House for the repeal of the Bankrupt act. This bill was reported by Mr. Lynde, of Wisconsin, from the Judiciary Committee, on Tuesday, and passed without debate by a vote of 186 yeas to 57 nays—more than two-thirds. That a measure which has had so much to do with the practical business affairs of the country; a measure, the policy of which once divided the nation into parties, and which has been less or more fiercely debated during much of our national history, that such a measure should be summarily repealed by the popular branch of Congress without a word of debate is not a little surprising.

If I remember correctly, a former House repealed the Bankrupt act, but nothing came of it then. The Senate undertook to amend and improve the act, and there the matter rested. The subject is one of great importance in a commercial country. The framers of our Constitution so regarded it when they empowered the Congress to establish uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States. But the legislative history upon the subject has been little less than disgraceful—never excellent, sometimes bad, and most of the time nothing but blank. The present law may be described as wonderfully and fearfully bad. Under its operations a small share of the assets of the bankrupt goes to the creditors, but the bulk of the money, where there is any bulk, goes to the pockets of the Register in Bankruptcy, the referee, and other officials, who make up the heavy, complicated, lumbering and blundering machinery of bankruptcy proceedings. That this act ought to be wiped out few will deny, but that we ought to have a simple, cheap, and speedy system for honest bankrupts is clear to all men who have examined the subject. On account of the acknowledged badness of the existing law, the Senate may agree to this repealing bill. In that event, the only bankrupt laws in being will be those of the States, generally called acts for the benefit of insolvent creditors.

I need hardly add that party lines were not at all drawn in this vote. Prominent Republicans and Democrats voted on either side.

OUR DIPLOMATIC ESTABLISHMENT.

The debate on the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill in the House has occupied most of the week, and has been exceedingly animated, interesting, meandering and comprehensive. If there is anything in the heavens above, the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth that was not in some manner brought into this debate, I really do not know what it is. There was eloquence, there was pathos, there was wit, there was story, there was everything known to oratory brought forth in the course of the debate.

Among the new members, Mr. Springer, of Illinois, made the ablest speech by a great deal; nor was it surpassed in clear array of facts or strength of reasoning by the effort of any gentlemen on his side of the House, or on the other side either, for that matter, except, of course, by the speech of Mr. Blaine, who is universally conceded to be the best speaker in the House. His speech, however, was on general finance, rather than on the diplomatic establishment. It is claimed by Mr. Blaine's friends that it is the best address which has yet been delivered on finance by any of our public men. This might well be without saying much for the speech; for as a rule, our public men, whether of one party or another, have been much muddled on this great topic. If I thought my black-and-tan terrier, or my mocking bird did not know more of finance than quite a number of public men I have heard speak, I should commit hari-kari on those interesting pets forthwith.

But this is a digression. Springer did first-rate. Part of his speech was humorous and caused great fun. If he had omitted an anecdote that he told the speech would have been better. Do you not recollect the fine and stinging pun of Disraeli in "Lothair?" He has got into his anecdotage! Anecdotes will do on the stump or after dinner, but I never knew one in Congress that was not coarse. Cox was uncommonly jolly in this debate. Other leading men took part, some prominent Democrats declining to sustain the committee in several proposed reductions of salary. The attempt to draw party lines in matters of this kind must frequently fail. If both parties should exhibit a wise desire to curtail all needless expenditure and to reduce taxation more in the interest of the whole people than for the plain purpose of political capital, I should utter prayers in their behalf with far greater unction.

THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

If the District of Columbia be not a foot-ball for Congressional boots, I do not know what it is. It is kicked about, first one way and then another, till the people here can't rest. They do not know whether they are standing on their heads or their feet, or turning somersaults. It looks to me as though they were turning somersaults. The House, more than ten days ago, passed the bill for payment of interest on the District 3.65 bonds, and it was supposed it would go through the Senate at once. Not so. That august body debated the matter at great length, and at this writing the district is hanging by the gills and walloping around lively. A notable thing in the debate in the Senate was that Senator Sargent made quite an elaborate defense of "Boss" Shepherd, which caused the inquiry to be made in many quarters, "What is the matter of Sargent?" He is an "off ox," that is all. The result of the whole business thus far is that the District of Columbia has no local government for general municipal affairs, and Congress just leaves it in that exasperating situation. The contractors must be doing an uncommonly large amount of swearing, drinking, and desperate poker playing.

RUMORS OF CABINET DISSENSIONS.

The rumors of Cabinet dissensions which have been telegraphed over the country are so greatly exaggerated that they may be said to be lies made out of whole cloth. They are an illustration of what I said the other day that the only thing greatly manufactured here is "news." There has been no dissension in the Cabinet. But there have been many persons who have been trying to get up a difficulty between Secretary Bristow and the President. They are men of the virtuous whisky ring, or friends of men of that notorious combination. They would like to put an eternal quietus on "Bristow's lightning" so that it shall strike no more forever. They want dissensions in the Cabinet, and, there being none, they manufacture them. The wish is father to the thought. It is greatly to be hoped, in the interest of the whole people, that the machinations of the ring and the ring backers will not succeed. All the people are interested in the honest collection of the revenue.

PERSONALITIES.

As for the rumored high words between Mr. Bristow and Senator Conkling, there is not a word of truth in all that story so circumstantially related by the sensational reporters. When the account was shown to Bristow he dryly said, "Why I have not seen Senator Conkling for a month." Thus he blew it all away with a breath, and then he blew his nose and went about his business.

Senator Christiancy, of Michigan, was married, a day or two ago, to a young and handsome bride. He is a grave and reverend Senator, for many years a Judge of the Supreme Court of his State; she is scarcely twenty years of age. But the Judge is young in spirit, though advanced in years, and will no doubt make as jolly a husband as he is an able, dignified, and conscientious Senator. I wish him and his very many years of such joyous happiness as the great and good ought to enjoy.

L. M. N.

REVERDY JOHNSON.

Particulars of His Sudden Death at Annapolis.

A dispatch from Annapolis, Md., gives the following account of the death of the venerable jurist and statesman, Reverdy Johnson: The main facts connected with the sad death of Reverdy Johnson in the grounds attached to the Executive Mansion, as made known last night, are not changed by the developments this morning. His death was so sudden and unexpected, after his appearance in the Senate Library and about the State House yesterday while the Legislature was in session, in apparently full health, that the community has not yet recovered from the shock. Dr. Lewis H. Stein, State Senator from Frederick County, a distinguished physician, and Chief Inspector of the Sanitary Commission in the Army of the Potomac during the war, who examined the body shortly after it was found, gives the following as his theory of the cause of his death: Mr. Johnson either stumbled over a piece of coal, or, being seized with vertigo, or incipient symptoms of apoplexy, and trying to save himself, moved toward the west, staggering along by the northerly side of the Executive Mansion, at each step his body gaining additional momentum, so that having reached the door leading into the basement he swayed around to the south, and fell, his head striking against the sharp corner of the granite base of the house, which gave the first wound on the head. Reaching the pavement of rough cobble stones, a second wound was received in front of the first. At this instant, probably, the bones of the nose were fractured, and one joint of the second finger of his right hand was dislocated. Whether his subsequent struggles may account for the abrasions on his knees and the fingers of his left hand, cannot be positively asserted. The wounds in the scalp were accompanied with fractures of the external bones of the cranium and the base of his skull, also, with the probable rupture of some of the arteries at the base. Death must have resulted instantly.

Mr. Gwynne, the Attorney-General of the State, and son-in-law of Mr. Johnson, is of the opinion that he was seized with vertigo and fell, as he had a similar attack, lasting three hours, while attending a trial in South Carolina, several years ago.

President Grant's Deposition in the Babcock Case.

The deposition of the President in the case of Gen. O. E. Babcock was taken at the White House on the 12th inst., the oath being administered by Chief Justice Waite. He testified as follows:

> Gen. Babcock has always performed his duties as Private Secretary to my satisfaction. I regard him as a most efficient and faithful officer. I know his general reputation in Washington and in the army. It is good. Nothing was ever against him until the present developments. I remember Babcock showing me a dispatch from Joyce. It was simply shown as other telegrams would be. This was after the death of Collector Ford, when Joyce applied for the Collectorship. I told Babcock that, Ford having died suddenly and away from home, I should consult Ford's bondsmen in making the appointment. They and others recommended Maguire. I don't think Babcock ever, directly or indirectly, sought to influence the appointment of Maguire. I do not remember of Babcock ever speaking to me in reference to any charges made against either Joyce or McDonald. He certainly took no lively interest in the matter. Babcock never sought to influence my action in reference to any investigation of whisky fraud in St. Louis or elsewhere. Speaking generally, Babcock said, on one occasion, that frauds should be ferreted out, and it should be done by superior or good men. I remember McDonald being in Washington in December, 1874, and I rode with him once. I do not remember a word of conversation on any matter touching his official position or these cases. I saw him as I was driving out, and stopped and requested him to ride. Douglass made a suggestion to me about the proposed change of Supervisors, and afterward, complaint being made by Secretary Bristow about frauds, the order was made changing the Supervisors. Immediately afterward efforts were made by various prominent public men to have the order revoked. The revocation was made on my own order, I being convinced, chiefly for reasons presented by Supervisor Tutton, that it was unwise to continue it. The revocation was made solely in the interest of the Government, and against the whisky frauds. Babcock never spoke to me on the subject of that order, nor in any way interfered with it. Since Babcock's indictment, no effort has been made to interfere with his trial. At the time the Military Court of Inquiry was ordered, I supposed Babcock would not be indicted, because I understood then that the Grand Jury would adjourn in a day or two. Gen. Babcock, after Henderson's speech, desired to be heard, and telegraphed Dyer for that purpose. The Military Court of Inquiry was ordered very soon after Babcock was informed that he could not be heard in the Avery case. My confidence in Babcock is still unshaken. Explanations of the "Sylph" and some other dispatches were given me by Gen. Babcock, and were perfectly satisfactory, showing his entire innocence. Nothing has occurred to change the good opinion I entertained of him.

Tom Paine.

William Dugas Trammell, of Waverly Hill, Harris County, Ga., has addressed a letter to Gen. Hawley and the Chairmen of the Centennial Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, imploring them "to cause the Government of the United States to have the dust of Thomas Paine brought back to America during this Centennial year and redeposited in the bosom of the country which he did so much to create." He says as Tom Paine was the first man to utter the words, "The Free and Independent States of America," the Government should send a national vessel to bring home the ashes of this man. He declares that the people will receive them at Philadelphia and bear them to Independence Hall, which, he thinks, "will be the most venerable feature of the Centennial."

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Song of American Farmers—The Centennial.

Thank God again,
The winter chain
No longer is around us,
But every band
O'er all the land
Loops from the links that bound us.
The cloudy March
Beneath Heaven's Arch
His trump to us was blowing;
We join the sound
O'er waiting ground
With Plowing and with Hoeing.

In Winter's rests
Our Human breasts
Had time for sweet communing;
But not forgot
In many a lot
The Summer's joyous nooning;
Thus on Earth's sod
Has Father God
Given life its varied stories,
And now we go
With Plow and Hoe
For Labor's growing glories.

Hurrah! Hurrah!
We love the Law
That gives alone true station;
Since he began,
His [illegible] makes man
Companion in creation;
And, O can he
More noble be
Than out 'mid Nature's forces
While God's Eyes see
His harmony,
With Seedtime's, Harvest's, courses?

Brothers, hurrah
For love of Law,
And if't could have more growing,
O, sure it shall—
Centennial
Is almost on us glowing!
A Hundred Years
Of Mind's, Arm's, spheres
For millions have been rolling;
Joy! Freedom's Bell,
Exulting swell!
All Earth hears thy grand tolling.
Then let us make
With Plow, Hoe, Rake,
This year yield Crown Ovation
Upon our sod
Unto the God
Of Freedom's and Work's Nation.

—William Ross Wallace, in Pen and Plow.

Around the Farm.

I FIND that all tar compositions do more harm than good. They form a waterproof covering, it is true; but if the surface is broken, and the water once gets into the wood, the tar covering prevents its exit.—English Mechanic.

HE raised 800 bushels of turnips, which are all fed to his sixteen to twenty cows—one peck to each twice a day. He says that by trimming off the rootlets, and feeding only the solid turnip after milking, no bad flavor is imparted to the milk.—Maine Farmer.

POTATOES FOR STOCK.—A gentleman who has been experimenting on the subject says in an exchange he thinks potatoes are worth thirty cents per bushel to feed to stock. They are not only nutritious, but are excellent appetizers and promoters of digestion. Experiments go to show that a peck of potatoes will produce as much milk as a bushel of beets, turnips or carrots.

A FARMER at Orrington, says the Portland (Me.) Express, has been for some time feeding a squash, in the hope of being able to bring it up to 200 pounds. The feeding is done by cutting off the vine about six feet from the squash and placing the end in a pan into which fresh milk is daily poured. By this means the vine absorbs about two quarts of milk per day, and the squash gains about a pound a day in weight.

CORN is the best feed for pigs, and may be fed in the ear while soft, but when hard should be ground fine, and wet with hot water, or otherwise cooked. It has been proved, by repeated experiments, that corn thus fed will make from one-third to one-half more pork than when fed unground, and a bushel should make from ten to twelve pounds of meat when fed to good feeding stock.—American Rural Home.

CANKER WORM.—In answer to an inquiry for the simplest remedy for a few trees, we name the printer's ink belt. Encircle the tree with a belt of thick, coarse paper, and smear the outside with printer's ink, which prevents the passage of the insects in attempts to ascend. Tar is often used, but it hardens sooner to a crust, and thus forms a bridge for the canker worms to go over. The printer's ink will cost about twelve cents per tree of average size.—Country Gentleman.

THAT farmer who keeps everything about the premises tidy, all the animals in a comfortable condition, who has plenty for his family's support, is out of debt (or whose affairs are in a prosperous condition), is at peace with his neighbors, takes the papers, and buys good books, is truly nature's nobleman, and can truthfully say, "I am monarch of all I survey, my rights none dare to dispute." Such an one the king upon his throne may well envy, and the life of a merchant, professional man, or gentleman, is naught when compared with this.

SOME years ago there was a case before a Philadelphia court, which interested our cultivators very much, in which a leading seedsman was sued for selling a variety of cabbage seed which, it was charged, was not the kind for which it was sold. The only evidence appeared to be that the cabbage did not head, but went at once to seed. Here the seedsman gained the point. It was decided that any variety might go to seed in this way under certain circumstances. But a similar case has recently been tried in one of the New York courts, and there the decision went against the seedsman, and in favor of the party sueing.

SOILING FATTENING CATTLE.—At a meeting of the South Deerfield (Mass.) Farmers' Club, President C. Smith related several experiments which he had tried to ascertain the comparative profit between fattening young stock in the barn in summer and fattening in a hill pasture, the result of which was a large preponderance of evidence in favor of soiling, from the amount of manure saved and the healthy, thrifty growth of the animals; heifer calves, kept at home till two years old, instead of running in a large pasture, will be worth at least $10 more for a cow.

SAWDUST FOR WALKS.—In the extensive wild garden adjoining the well-kept pleasure grounds at Cadland, near Southampton, the gardener, Mr. Harnett, has used sawdust as a dressing for the pathways cut out among the heath and trees in the woodland. The transition from smooth mown lawns, bright, clean gravel walks, and brilliant flower-beds, on the one side, to the adjuncts of this wild garden, is both pleasing and refreshing, and seems specially enticing when the sun sheds a tropical heat, and quietness and solitude are most appreciated. The walks are firm and yet soft to the tread; the sawdust soon becomes of a natural tint, closely allied to the crushed dried leafage of the beech, which here so much abounds. Weeds seldom grow, and those are easily kept in check with the hoe, and a light sweeping with a broom keeps all clean and neat.

SAYS the American Farm Journal: "Only sufficient vegetables of any kind, for immediate use, should be kept in cellars which are under dwelling-houses, and these require careful looking after to prevent decay, which as soon as it takes place, should be removed. All vegetables that impart strong odors, like onions, cabbage and turnips, should be kept in cellars under dwellings only in small quantities, otherwise they will poison the air and superinduce malarial fevers, as the warmth soon causes them to sweat, and produces decaying and unhealthy odors. Where good cellars under barns are attainable, they are far preferable for keeping all the odorous winter vegetables required by the family. And where these cannot be had, it is better to bury all, except small quantities for immediate use."

About the House.

A SIMPLE way to test the freshness of eggs is to put them in water. A good one will lie flat and sink, while those musty with age will turn endward and float.

MARYLAND BISCUIT.—Take ten cups of flour, one cup of lard and one tablespoonful of salt. Make a stiff dough, work light and then bake in a quick oven. Do not let the biscuit touch each other. This recipe is remarkably fine, and we recommend it specially to our readers.

LAMPS become incrusted inside with settlings from the oil, and ordinary washing will not remove them. Take soap suds, and fill the lamp about one-third full; then put in a little sharp sand, and shake vigorously. A few minutes will remove every particle.

COCOANUT CHEESE CAKES.—Stew till tender six ounces of grated cocoanut and six ounces of white sugar with two tablespoonfuls of cocoanut milk. When cool, add five eggs beaten to a froth, and the grated rind of half a lemon. Line pattypans with paste, put in the mixture, and bake from twelve to fifteen minutes.

SAUCE FOR BEEFSTEAK.—One ounce of whole black pepper, one-half ounce of allspice, one ounce of salt, one-half ounce grated horse-radish, one-half ounce of pickled onions, one pint of catsup. Pound all the ingredients fine and put them in the catsup. Let them stand two weeks, then pour off, strain and bottle for use. The catsup should be thinned with vinegar if too thick.

CHESTNUT PUDDING.—Peel off the shells with a sharp knife, cover the kernels with water, and boil till their skin readily peels off. Then pound them in a mortar, and to every cup of chestnuts add three cups of chopped apple, one of chopped raisins, one-half cup of sugar, and one cup of water. Mix thoroughly, and bake until the apple is tender—about half an hour. Serve cold.

COCOANUT PUDDING.—Break the cocoanut, and save the milk; peel off the brown skin, and grate the cocoanut very fine. Take the same weight of cocoanut, white sugar and butter; rub the butter and sugar to a cream, add five eggs well beaten, one cup of cream, the milk of the cocoanut, and a little grated lemon. Line a dish with a rich paste; turn the pudding in, and bake one hour.

DIPHTHERIA.—Dr. Revillout, in a paper presented to the French Academy of Medicine, asserts that lemon juice is one of the most efficacious medicines that can be applied in diphtheria, and relates that when he was a dresser in the hospital his own life was saved by this timely application. He got a quantity of lemons and gargled his throat with the juice, swallowing a little at a time in order to act on the more deep-seated parts. Dr. R. has noted eleven cases of complete success obtained by this treatment.

OUT OF WORK.—There are so many people in all the large cities who are out of work that it is worse than folly for country people who have nothing to do to seek employment in cities. There is one department of industry in both city and country that is not much overcrowded. Household help of first quality is always in demand, and efficient, capable nurses, cooks and maids of all work do not long want occupation. A good many American girls have sought and found homes in American families, where they have the privileges accorded to members of the family, and receive besides liberal wages.

A SIMPLE BUT EXCELLENT PASTRY.—Put one pound of flour in a dish, make a hole in the center, drop in the yelk of one egg. Then make a paste by pouring cold water into the hole, and stirring until all the flour is made into a paste; then roll out. Have ready one pound of butter, lay it on the paste; fold the dough over the butter and roll out. Repeat this—folding the dough over and rolling out—eight or ten times, with a quick, light stroke. Then put the paste on the ice for an hour or so; then roll it out again several times, before covering your pie plates or cutting the pastry into puffs. Pastry made in this way is light and flaky, yet crisp and tender.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	9	@	12
HOGS—Dressed	8	@	9
COTTON	13½	@	14¼
FLOUR—Superfine Western	5 10	@	5 40
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1 17	@	1 19
CORN	59	@	62
OATS	47	@	51
RYE	86	@	90
PORK—New Mess	21 60	@	22 50
LARD—Steam	13½	@	13¾
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice Graded Steers	5 50	@	5 75
Choice Natives	4 75	@	5 00
Cows and Heifers	2 50	@	4 00
Good Second-class Steers	4 25	@	4 75
Medium to Fair	3 75	@	4 25
Inferior to Common	2 75	@	3 25
HOGS—Live	7 50	@	8 00
FLOUR—Fancy White Winter	7 00	@	7 50
Good to choice spring ex.	5 00	@	5 50
WHEAT—No. 1 Spring	1 09	@	1 10
No. 2 Spring	1 02	@	1 03
No. 3 Spring	81	@	82
CORN—No. 2	41	@	42
OATS—No. 2	31	@	32
RYE—No. 2	67	@	68
BARLEY—No. 2	67	@	69
BUTTER—Fancy	28	@	32
EGGS—Fresh	14	@	15
PORK—Mess	21 25	@	21 50
LARD	12½	@	12¾
DETROIT.
FLOUR—Choice White	6 25	@	6 50
Ambers	5 75	@	5 90
WHEAT—Extra	1 40	@	1 41
No. 1 White	1 28	@	1 29
No. 2 White	1 10	@	1 10
Amber	1 27	@	1 29
CORN	40	@	42
OATS No.	36	@	37
RYE No.	70	@	73
BARLEY—No. 2	1 80	@	1 85
BUTTER	17	@	19
EGGS	13	@	14
PORK—Mess	20 50	@	21 50
LARD	10	@	13½
CATTLE	3 75	@	4 50
HOGS	6 25	@	7 50
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 52	@	1 55
CORN—No. 2	38	@	39
OATS—No. 2	35	@	36
RYE—No. 2	65	@	66
PORK—Mess	21 75	@	22 00
LARD	12	@	13
HOGS	7 50	@	8 25
CATTLE	3 25	@	4 50
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 1	1 08	@	1 10
No. 2	1 00	@	1 02
CORN—No. 2	42	@	43
OATS—No. 2	31	@	32
RYE	73	@	74
BARLEY—No. 2	78	@	80
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—New	1 25	@	1 30
CORN	39	@	42
OATS	36	@	40
RYE	78	@	80
PORK—Mess	22 [illegible]	@	[illegible]
LARD	[illegible]	@	[illegible]
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—Extra	1 36	@	1 39
Amber	1 26	@	1 28
CORN	46	@	47
OATS	36	@	38
EAST LIBERTY, PA.
HOGS—Yorkers	8 10	@	8 25
Philadelphias	8 70	@	9 00
CATTLE—Best	6 00	@	6 50
Medium	5 00	@	5 50
SHEEP—Medium	4 50	@	5 00
Best	5 50	@	6 00

AUBURN COURIER

[illegible], Publisher.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Two Daisies.

Little [illegible] daisy Fay
Like a snow-white rosebud lay
In her mother's arms all day.

Alice [illegible]
Rosy, sweet, dimpling, brown—
Beside her playthings, tears her gown.

[illegible] little Fay!
Solemn, sweet, and demure like they,
Telling mysteries alway.

Alice's eyes are merry, bright,
Full of frank and fearless light,
Heavenly, till they close at night.

Fay so sweetly shares her love,
Cooing, nestling like a dove,
She your very heart would move.

Alice with a tightened strain
Hugs with tiny might and main—
Kisses, laughs—and hugs again.

Watching each in her own way,
Alice and the little Fay;
One so gentle—one so gay.

Heavenly Father, give these flowers,
Summer sunshine, rainbow showers,
[illegible]

Freddy's Ride.

"I did," said Freddy Wakefield, stamping his foot and looking at his sister with flashing eyes.

"You did not," replied Lulu.

"I did too.—Oh, oh, oh!" and Freddy was just beginning to lift up his voice and weep when he caught sight of his sister Alice in the hall.

He darted after her, and seizing her skirts, drew her toward the nursery. "Didn't I, Alice?" he began, after a glance of defiance at Lulu.

"He did not, Alice, for I saw him all the time," said Lulu.

"Oh, oh, oh," and Freddy's tears started afresh. "I did, I did, I did. Tell her I did, Alice."

"But, my dears," said Alice, "how can I say anything? I haven't the least idea what you are talking about."

"We are talking about," said Freddy, "the—"

"We are not," said Lulu, bringing her teeth together with a snap like a pair of scissors.

"You poor little things," said sister Alice, sitting down and drawing the children toward her; "what a miserable time you do have, and all because you won't agree. Why, the happiest days of my life were those I spent playing with brother Jack."

"Oh, but Jack is very different from Freddy," said Lulu.

"And you are not a speck like Lulu," cried Freddy. "Now you are real good and never contradict me, for you remember it is impolite."

"But Jack was a little boy once and I was a little girl," said Alice, "and he liked his way and I liked mine. Now how do you suppose we managed it?"

"Fought for it," said Freddy; "but I tell you what, I'd bet on Jack."

"No," said Alice, "we did something much better; we made a bargain."

"Oh," said Freddy, "just what father makes down town."

"And you make at market," chimed in Lulu.

"What we try to do, yes," said Alice, smiling. "But this is the way we used to manage; I would play what I liked for an hour, and then we would change, and he would play my favorite games. So you see we both had our turn, and what splendid times we did have, too."

Both the children looked interested.

"It is a very nice plan," said Lulu; "now, Freddy, let us go down stairs, and you play with me for an hour, and then—and then we'll see."

"No," said Freddy, "I don't think it is a nice plan at all; we should be all right as we are, and have splendid times if Lulu would only play what I tell her to."

"Let me tell you, sister Alice, all about it," began Lulu.

"Well, hurry my dear," said Alice, "for I have only five minutes, and then I must start for town. You may have two and a half to tell your side of the story, and Freddy the rest of the time for his." "Well," said Lulu, "he didn't—"

"But I did, sister Alice," chimed in Freddy.

And then both the children began talking at once, and jumping up and down, each one trying to talk faster than the other, until Alice clapped her hands over her ears, and ran away as fast as she could.

As the door closed Freddy and Lulu stopped talking, and looked at each other.

"She didn't hear a word you said," exclaimed Lulu.

"No," replied Freddy, "nor a word you said."

"If you had only kept quiet she would have," said Lulu, "but you screamed right in her ear."

"I did not," said Freddy.

"You are a very tiresome boy," said Lulu, beginning to cry. "I don't love you one bit, and I wish you would go away and never come back any more."

"I don't care," said Freddy, rather drearily, as he left the room and started down stairs for the kitchen, where Mary Ann was making cookies.

Freddy soon teased two large ones from her, and with one in each hand sat down upon the back door steps.

"Now, thought he, I shall enjoy myself. But either something was the matter with the cookies, or with the door step, or with Mary Ann, for Freddy didn't enjoy himself in the least. "The cookies are not at all good," he said to Mary Ann. "I am afraid you don't take pains."

"Well, if I ever heard the like of that," cried Mary Ann, turning round from the oven with a very hot face. "Don't take pains, indeed; them cookies are good, and they be brown as a berry, and as light as a cork. I shall be after advising you, Master Freddy, to try for your cookies somewhere else. Shoo!

This last sound was produced with such terrible emphasis, and in such a high key that Freddy thought it would be as well to vacate the step, which he did with more haste than dignity. Looking about for something to do, he saw Tom, the stable boy, putting the saddle on one of the horses, and a happy thought struck him. If he could only ride around the garden once, and pass in front of the nursery window, he rather thought Lulu Wakefield would never say, "You did not" again to him.

But Tom wouldn't hear of it, and the more Freddy teased the more Tom shook his head.

"Now, Master Freddy, it's no use," said he at last, "I'm in a hurry and going after my livery. Look out for his heels."

Away ran Tom and up climbed Freddy, first upon the meal-bin and then upon the horse's back.

Oh, it is beautiful, thought he, but who would have any idea it is so high up; now I know how it will feel to be a man. But his aspirations were not yet satisfied. Lulu had not seen him, and he could easily untie the [illegible] by the nursery window. [illegible] the knot very gently, and said "get up" still more gently, and out stepped Dandy very—but not very gently at all. Who would have imagined it would seem so queer, as if the whole stable were coming too.

"Whoa," said Freddy; but Dandy liked it too much to whoa, going into the garden with only a fly upon his back.

And away they went, Dandy and the poor little fly, who was holding on for dear life.

"Whoa," cried Freddy, "please whoa; oh, oh, oh;" but Dandy paid no attention, and trotted into the garden and by the nursery window, though Freddy did not look up—he was too busy—and had Lulu looked down I think she would have been more inclined than ever to say, "You did not."

When Tom came back there was no horse and no Freddy to be seen. Down the road, however, there was considerable dust and a little figure was bobbing up and down on a horse's back.

Tom threw his hat in one direction and his hat in another, and, crying out to Mary Ann that "Dandy was running away with Master Freddy and shaking the wind out of him," he started down the road.

When Mary Ann heard this she threw the milk pitcher into the flour barrel, and calling out that "Master Freddy was running away with Dandy and they were both lying dead in a ditch," she started too.

Now no one was left but Lulu, and when she heard these awful words the room went round and round, and she heard her own angry speech, "I wish you would go away and never come back any more."

And as she thought this over and over again her feet were flying helter skelter over the road after Tom and Mary Ann. No Freddy to play with, no Freddy to talk to after they were both in their little beds at night, no Freddy anywhere.

"Lulu," said a voice behind. "Lulu, do stop a minute and let me catch up. You do run awful fast for a girl." "Oh Freddy," cried Lulu as he came panting up, "I thought you had ran away." "So I did," said Freddy, as far as the garden fence, and there I—I got off."

"I should think you did," said Mary Ann, coming up. "Oh you naughty boy; was there ever such a sight. Look at the color of his face and hair and his beautiful new clothes;" and here she shook him, but raised such a cloud of dust that she stopped and only marched him home by the collar of his beautiful new jacket. About an hour later, when a bath had revived Freddy, he and Lulu sat together on the door step. "Are you hurt, dear?" asked Lulu anxiously. "No," he answered doubtfully, looking at himself; "my legs are there, aren't they Lulu?"

"Yes," said Lulu.

"Well, then, I suppose I'm all right," sighed Freddy.

"I wish I hadn't been so cross," said Lulu. "I do love you, Freddy."

"Yes," said Freddy; "and I was thinking while I was riding, that I kind of wished I was more like Jack."

"Why, children, what are you doing?" asked sister Alice, coming in and seeing them both bending over a big book with pens in their hands and ink beside them.

"Oh, Alice," cried Lulu; Freddy says he will never say 'I did' again, and I am certain I never will say 'he didn't;' but, to be quite sure, we are blotting those awful words out of the dictionary."—New York Tribune.

Vulgarity.

Nothing is so disgusting to the good and thoughtful as to hear the young, or even the old, use profane, low, or vulgar language. In our day it seems, however, the boy does not feel himself a man unless he can excel in this great vice. We used to be a boy, and a bad boy, at that, and some times we yet make use of language not strictly agreeable to the Christian ear, but it is generally spoken unthoughtedly, and we often have reasons for regret. Now, boys, take our advice—use no profane expressions—speak no sentence that would put to blush the most sensitive. You know not the tendency of habitually using indecent or profane language. It may never be obliterated from your heart, and when you grow up to be men you may find at your tongue's end some expression which you would not use for money. By guard'ng against such evils you will save yourself a great deal of mortification.

Humane Hanging.

Prof. Houghton, of the University of Dublin, has been investigating the subject of humane hanging. He states that Mr. Gibson, surgeon at Newgate, has frequently seen the victim struggle for more than twenty minutes before becoming inanimate, and proceeds to say: 1. That the old system of taking the convict's life by suffocation is inhumanly painful, unnecessarily prolonged, and revolting to the spectators whose duty it is to be present. That the subject of an effective execution by suspension should be the immediate rupture of the spinal column by the fall. 3. That the use of a "long drop" is not only much preferable from a humanitarian point of view, but is the only method by which the desired object can be effectually attained. 4. That the short fall and position of the knot employed for so many years by Calcraft are barbarisms which should cease to be permitted. 5. That the fracture of the spinal column can best be instantaneously effected by placing the knot under the chin and allowing a fall of at least ten feet. 6. That in the carrying out of a capital sentence care should be exercised in the selection of a suitable rope. In the execution of Henry Wainwright it would seem from the published accounts that these principles were adopted by Marwood, the executioner, and with perfect success, and the instantaneous rupture of the spine resulted from placing the knot under the culprit's chin.

Devastation in Cuba.

A recent letter from Havana says: "The destruction of property by fire still continues, and, night before last, at Jaguey-Grande, the streets were illuminated by the glare of several fires in different directions in that neighborhood."

The papers bring the details of the fight at Sago, near Remedios, where the Spaniards claim to have repulsed the insurgents twice, killing six men and four horses, and probably wounding many more. There were several cane fields burned, and three Spaniards were killed and five wounded.

At Holguin, the enemy attacked and burned the village and fort of Yoreniquen, which, the Governor says, was traitorously surrendered by the garrison.

Eight hundred insurgents attacked Mabazon, but were repulsed, and lost fifteen men, killed. The Spaniards lost ten killed and eighteen wounded.

EIGHT thousand Quakers in Iowa propose the restoration of the gallows.

SHOOTING NIAGARA.

The Old-Time Speculation—How a Lake Vessel was Sent Over Niagara Falls.

[illegible] veteran [illegible] whose period of service on the lakes dates back nearly half a century, recalls an incident which, though it has been almost forgotten, attracted considerable attention in its day. Vessel-owners were then more conscientious than now. They were not inclined to risk the lives of passengers and men in unseaworthy crafts. The owner of the old schooner Michigan, then the largest vessel on the lakes, hit upon a novel expedient for disposing of her. The vessel had become old and rotten, and was no longer serviceable. Instead of loading her and sending her out late in the season heavily insured to be wrecked, he chose a more harmless plan, but not one less profitable to himself. He induced the proprietors of the hotels at Niagara Falls to buy the vessel and send her over the Falls. This was about the year of 1830. The proposition was eagerly accepted by the hotel proprietors, who saw in it a capital advertising scheme, and one which would be certain to pay them well. The affair was widely published in the newspapers and was the talk of the surrounding country for weeks and weeks. They did not count amiss when they judged what an excited public curiosity would do. For several days previous to the great event the stages and canal boats were crowded. People flocked thither from all parts of the country to witness the novel spectacle of the largest vessel on the lakes going over the Falls. The hotel-keepers reaped a rich harvest. So great a crowd had never before been seen at that famous resort. On the appointed day the Michigan was towed out into the rapids in the presence of a vast number of people who lined the banks or visited the scene upon the numerous excursion boats which were called into requisition. The task of towing the vessel into the current was intrusted to Capt. Rough, with a crew of half a dozen oarsmen selected by himself. This was a rather hazardous enterprise, and Capt. Pratt, who was himself one of the crew, says his heart almost failed him when they set out, though he had gladly volunteered for the service. There had been placed on the schooner several animals, in accordance with the programme, which had been widely advertised. These consisted of a buffalo, three bears, two foxes a raccoon, a dog, a cat, and some geese. At her bowsprit was the American ensign and at her stern the English Jack, the Canadian hotel-keepers having joined in the enterprise. There were also some effigies displayed on board to give the appearance of a crew, and to make more real the scene of a vessel with all on board making the terrific plunge. Just before the towline was cut the animals on board were turned loose. Just as the vessel entered the rapids two of the bears plunged overboard and actually succeeded in swimming ashore. The third one climbed the mast as if to get a better view of the scene. All the animals seemed greatly frightened and ran from one end of the deck to the other, much the same as a human crew might have done under similar circumstances, in an agony of despair. The vessel swept grandly down the rapids, plunging over the first fall, shipping a little water, righting herself and moving on in fine style. In going over the second rapid the mast went by the board and the bear with it, and neither were again seen. She swung around and presented her broadside to the foaming waters. She had evidently struck a rock and was stationary. Here it was thought her career was ended and the affair was over. But she stopped only a moment. The force of the waters swung her around and she moved on stern foremost. On the third rapid she bilged, but carried her hull apparently whole straight to the horseshoe fall, over which she plunged stern foremost to the foaming abyss below. She was smashed into a thousand fragments. None of the beasts on board were ever heard of more, but the geese turned up all right and were soon seen on the bank below, quietly oiling their feathers, as if there had not been much of a shower after all. One of the effigies was also found uninjured, throwing his arms about and knocking his knees together in the eddies, but all the others had disappeared. The scene was a most thrilling one. The great crowd of spectators watched the progress of the vessel with breathless interest, and gave a great cheer as she made the final plunge.—Detroit Post.

Pursued by a Mad Horse.

A few days ago, as J. S. Needham, of Peabody, was riding in Danvers, near the new insane asylum he was attacked by an infuriated horse, which, for a mile, with mouth wide open, lips turned back, eyes like balls of fire, snapping his jaws, continually attempted to bite him from behind the open buggy, he all the time striking the horse in the face, which only seemed to augment his fury. The noise of the whip urged on Mr. Needham's horse to a fearful speed down the Newburyport turnpike. At the foot of one of the long hills Mr. Needham sheered off; twice he whirled completely round to avoid the beast, and twice it came alongside of his horse and commenced biting. After crossing the Andover turnpike, the horse made three attempts at Mr. Needham's horse's windpipe, seized the breast-plate and crowded the horse and buggy down an embankment, where the horse stopped, held by the infuriated animal, until the harness was bitten and torn off, leaving the carriage free. Mr. Needham remained in the buggy until his horse was clear, then let him go. The harness was nearly new, the weak spots being the rings on the breast-plate and other parts of the harness. His horse went home followed by the crazy animal, and, by the daring efforts of several neighbors, after a long tussel, he was rescued, somewhat bitten. The horse that behaved so like a maniac was raised by Joseph Fuller. It was always crazed when it saw a white horse, and was clubbed by a posse of men until several of its teeth were knocked out before it was conquered.

Blaine Photographed.

He looks surcharged with tremendous nervous energy, so irresistibly impelling him that the steam brakes couldn't slow him down to 300 revolutions per minute. When there is nothing to work it off it seems to effervesce in boyish exuberance of spirits; or he darts hither and thither across the hall, up and down the aisles, or through the lobby, with incessant activity. His habitual air is that of a man intent upon overtaking to-morrow, and driving ahead at such a tremendous speed that nobody would be surprised if he did it. Physically he is a splendid type of manhood; of commanding stature; straight as a Maine pine; broad-shouldered, and of stalwart, muscular frame; a trifle stout, but with a step as quick as a boy's, and every movement as free and supple as that of a trained athlete. He has a full, high forehead; large, keen, observant eyes; nose slightly [illegible], and of the sort that adds to the look of push-and-dativeness that is imprinted on his every feature. His short cropped beard, which half conceals his lower face, gives him an air of military [illegible] but [illegible] expression; makes no apparent attempt at rhetorical graces, but is forcible, pungent, and at times stirringly eloquent, while always terse, and pointed, and marvelously quick at repartee. * * * He is bending every energy to the race for the Presidency, and such are the great strides he is making, that it is tacitly admitted here, generally, that if he holds out as he began he must succeed. But the more cautious knowingly predict that he began too soon. Certain it is that he hasn't waited for anybody to get the start of him. Practically, he has thus far, unaided, made the canvass for himself; while the great majority of politicians here and hereabouts have coolly waited and are waiting for him to spend himself in the effort, or to make such headway as to demonstrate that he has gone in to win, when his following will be vast indeed.—Washington Letter to Chicago Tribune.

The Fires of 1875.

We have managed to burn up during the year that is past property to the value of $86,828,035, of which loss $43,621,700 was distributed by means of insurance, and the remainder—a nearly equal amount—fell exclusively upon the owners. The tax we have paid to the "fire fiend" amounts on the average to about $10 per annum for each productive life in the country. And of this tax 75 per cent., at a moderate computation, was inflicted by causes entirely preventable—chiefly by carelessness and incendiarism.

Of the total loss, $65,373,900 was caused by the burning of 3,662 "specials," and on account of this the insurance companies paid $28,052,820. October bravely maintained its reputation as the most disastrous month of the year, the losses during that month being $12,953,095. Strangely enough, the months of March and September, notorious as months of turbulent winds, show the least loss—$4,095,490 and $4,876,750 respectively.

But the chief feature of our compilation, and that which gives it a value not easily to be calculated, is the report by months of special hazards burned in this country and Canada. The agent and the solicitor who wishes to convince the owner of any special hazard that his property is liable to burn, and the established rate is not extortionate, has only to produce this table.

First in the number comes hotels, of which no less than 337—nearly one per day—were burned during the year. And these burnings were distributed pretty evenly throughout the year. Hotels burn in all seasons—in season and out of season, and in all latitudes and longitudes.

Next in the list come saw mills, of which 261 burned—the greater "mortality" being in the summer months, when many of them are idle. Liquor stores make a brave effort to keep up with hotels and saw mills in inflammability, but only 168 of them succeeded in getting burned. Drug stores—which every druggist will tell you never burn—come in a good fourth, with 133 burning. Restaurants are close after them, with 126; and 119 livery stables were converted into chariots of fire.

Then come 107 losses on furniture factories, 96 on machine shops, 78 on flouring mills, 83 on planing mills, 78 on carpenter shops, and 73 on blacksmith shops.

Churches and lumber yards and public halls burn very evenly; 75 churches, 74 lumber yards, and 72 public halls.

Tanneries and woolen mills, newspaper offices and printing offices keep close together in the race for destruction—51 of the first three burning, and 48 printing offices.

Cotton mills, copper shops and carriage factories make about the same contribution to the total number of losses, and woodworking establishments of every kind do their utmost to swell the aggregate.—Insurance Chronicle.

Lay of the Poultry Editor.

The Springfield Union's special editor had a poetical inspiration the other day when thinking of the coming exhibition in that city; witness the result:

Cackle-ation for the times—a feeble "lay:" Oh, come, all hands, to the poultry show, and hear the Brahma roosters crow; oh, come and list to the songs of love, of the tumbler, fantail, and carrier-dove. Guinea fowls, pea fowls, pheasants, quails, rabbits and squirrels with showy tails; cockerels, pullets, and bantams gay, yellow and red and blue and gray. Brahmas dark and Brahmas light, gamey cockerels, good for a fight; Hamburgs white, spangled, and black, penciled and silver, and—bric-a-brac, Spanish and Leghorn and Dominique, Hamburgs and Polish, and all unique, white crested, black crested, buff, and blue; father hens, mother hens, and pullets, too. There'll be old buff cochin and young buff cochin, old buff cochin's son and young buff cochin who'll be buff cochin when old buff cochin is gone. Turkeys and ducks and swans and geese; African, Egyptian, and e'en Chinese; magpies and swallows and wise old owls, a full fledged mixture of birds and fowls. Then come, oh come to the poultry show, and hear the cocks and cockerels crow. Just come and see how the thing is done by Springfield's boys of the "Rod and Gun."—Hartford Post.

An Extraordinary Crime.

An extraordinary attempt at assassination is related by the Messenger d'Indre et Loire (France): "Jeunier and wife enticed Sieur Cattereau, who was out shooting, into their cottage, seized his gun after he had put it down to rest himself, and by threats of instant death extorted a promissory note for 2,000 francs from him. They bound him, and Jeunier coolly walked to the village to ascertain the validity of the bond. Meanwhile, the unfortunate gentleman broke away from his bonds and the wife, but the returning Jeunier captured him and brought him back on his shoulders. They bound him fast to a hook in the wall, and Jeunier attacked his victim with a hatchet, severing both his hands, and breaking off the whole of the corner of the hatchet. Providentially some passing children had heard the cries for help, which arrived barely in time to ave Cattereau's life."

REMEDY FOR WARTS.—Warts are very troublesome and disfiguring. The following is a perfect cure, even of the largest, without leaving any scar. It is a Frenchman's prescription, and has been tested by the writer: Take a small piece of raw beef, steep it all night in vinegar, cut as much from it as will cover the wart, and tie it on it; if the excrescence is on the forehead fasten it on with strips of sticking-plaster. It may be removed in the day and put on every night. In one fortnight the wart will die and peel off. The same prescription will cure corns.

CURRENT AFFAIRS.

THE New York World's [illegible] is Mr. Thomas G. Moore, a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, with long red hair and an extensive knowledge of political economy. He has written for the World since 1866. He is understood to be the principal author of the new Tariff bill.

DISPUTED will suits are apt to reveal strange family histories. One of these, narrated by the New York papers, shows that a wealthy man in that city during life [illegible] concealed his humble [illegible] that his next of kin, who are [illegible] negroes in Canada, have a fair prospect of inheriting his fortune by breaking the will.

ENCOURAGING [illegible] from the Argentine Republic. Commerce is reviving, immigration is increasing, and 804 miles of the railroad across the Andes have been built. It is satisfactory to learn that this progressive Republic will be well represented at the Centennial Exhibition, the Argentine Congress having voted a sum of money for that purpose.

THE people of San Rafael, Cal., were terribly startled recently by a man galloping at furious speed through the streets, crying as he went: "Flee to the mountains; the reservoir walls have given way!" San Rafael lies under the shadow of a 10,000,000 gallon reservoir, and the proclamation created the most intense excitement until it was discovered that the fast rider was a lunatic.

IN the United States Senate, the other day, Mr. McCreery, of Kentucky, astonished his colleagues with a substitute for the Centennial bill, inviting all of the people of the United States to assemble in their homes, hamlets, cities, or towns on the Fourth of July next, and there celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the nation in their own way and at their own expense.

WESTON, the walker, who has been beaten by nearly every pedestrian of note in America, has at last achieved a victory. Knowing from experience that competition with his own countrymen was a useless expenditure of wind and muscle on his part, he went to London, and has defeated Perkins, the English champion, winning a £50 cup. He had better remain in London.

PROF. SEELYE has been studying the Indian problem, and finds that each Indian costs the Government about $2,000 a year to keep him alive, but it would bankrupt the country to attempt to kill them off, for that seems to cost about $1,000,000 for every Indian. It only costs $2.50 a day to board them in Washington, so that it looks almost as if it would be economical to bring them all there.

THE House Committee on Levees of the Mississippi and its tributaries are perfecting a bill looking to the appropriation of $3,000,000 for the temporary relief of the States of Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Missouri. Then a plan for the permanent reclamation of the alluvial lands of the Mississippi delta will be arrived at, with the aid of Gen. Humphreys, Chief Engineer of the army.

THE New York Tribune publishes the following interesting paragraph, describing a new and important step in the direction of international copyright:

> Harper & Brothers publish George Eliot's, Edward Jenkins', and Wilkie Collins' new works as "Copyright, 1876, by Harper & Bros." The claim is that since the firm have purchased the MSS, by payment to the English authors, they are owners of the property, and entitled as citizens of the United States to copyright protection. The law, as amended some time ago, permits either authors or owners to claim copyright. As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in this matter purely clerical, the validity of this claim can be tested only in the courts. If it should be upheld, the present copyright law would virtually permit international copyright, for the English author or owner would simply be obliged to sell his property to an American citizen to obtain the advantage of full rights. The purpose of the larger publishing houses to prevent English publishers holding this market against them would not be fulfilled by this construction, because an English house could nominally transfer ownership to any American citizen as a dummy, or obtain copyright through a member of their house naturalized as an American citizen.

A Sly Old Fox.

The Reese River (Nev.) Reveille tells the following: "There was one old fox which for a period of several years had continually evaded the fleetest and keenest-scented hounds, the scent invariably being lost in the vicinity of a house situated in the woods and far removed from any habitation, and which was used as a storehouse for pelts. At last one day the hounds started the old fox, and away he went in the direction of the house, with a pack of young hounds in full cry after him, but on nearing the house he disappeared, leaving the hounds and hunters non-plussed as usual. While the hunters were gathering in and around the house discussing the frequent mysterious disappearance of the fox, a veteran hound came limping up, and, entering the door, set up a vigorous barking and tried to jump up on the wall. His singular action attracted the attention of the hunters, and an examination being made, the old fox was found suspended by his tail to a nail in the wall, keeping perfectly still, and looking, unless closely observed, like the pelts with which the walls were hung. This plainly showed that the old fox, when too closely pressed, had taken refuge in the house and hung himself up on the nail by his tail, which was the reason for the dogs always losing the scent at that particular place."

A Magnificent Clock.

A magnificent French clock is now on exhibition in the window of a Philadelphia jewelry store, which is for presentation to President Grant after it has been shown at the Centennial Exposition. It was patented by the French Republican Government, and made expressly for the Centennial Exposition, at a cost of 3,500 francs, by Mons. Le Moreau, 55 Rue Paradis Poissonière, Paris, and fifty-five of his finest mechanics, to represent the signers of the Declaration of Independence of the United States. This clock runs ninety days, shows the minutes, day, date and month of the year, also showing the four quarters of the moon. The movement is of the finest French make, striking the hours and half hours upon a fine silver-toned bell. It has fine exposed ruby pallets and double-index regulator, and is accurately adjusted to heat, cold and position. It loses but 4 minutes and 14 seconds in a year. The case is perfectly dust-proof, made of the finest French marble, ornamented with gold and malachite paintings. It weighs 127 pounds.

The Black Hills.

A letter from Custer City, in the Black Hills, dated Jan. 25, says: "Over forty houses are now built and sixty in process of erection. Water has been found at a depth of twenty feet. A steam saw-mill will be in operation in eight days. Flour is selling at $12 per 100 weight and bacon at thirty cents a pound. The new parties who arrived this winter have made new laws, and old pioneers find their claims jumped. Miners from the north, this side of the Big Horn, report new discoveries, far surpassing any yet made and [illegible] left here to-day to prospect them. Red Cloud and several hundred warriors have gone north. It is reported that they said they would die on the war path rather than remain on the reservation and starve. Sitting Bull will co-operate with them."

Dyspepsia from Eating Hot Bread.

Gen. Clingman, writing to the North Carolina Agricultural Journal, tells some truths and offers some suggestions about the causes and results of dyspepsia and indigestion, with especial reference to hot, doughy bread, which will apply to all parts of the country. Read, digest, and heed:

"It has been said that the frying-pan is the great enemy of our people. There can be no doubt but that it has slain its thousands; but bad bread is the slayer of tens of thousands. While traveling in Europe for eight months, I saw nothing but cold bread, nor did I, while there, see or hear anything that tended to induce me to believe that anybody in Europe had ever eaten a piece of hot bread. I invariably, however, found the bread good, and the people I saw appeared healthy and robust. Some, as the English and Germans, were especially so.

"With respect to the United States, the condition of things may be more strikingly and pointedly presented by reference to individual cases. Many years since I stopped at the house of an acquaintance, and, on seeing him, I said: 'You are not looking as well as usual.' 'No,' he replied. 'I have the dyspepsia powerfully bad.' When dinner was ready, there was an abundant supply of meats and well-baked corn bread. There was also, however, something called biscuit, which was, in fact, rather warm dough, with much grease in it. I saw that my host ate this freely with his meals. I remarked that I did not wonder that he had dyspepsia, for that I could not live a month in that way. I suggested that if he would eat well-baked corn bread, or better still, light bread, he would not suffer as he was doing. He answered vehemently 'that he would rather die than eat light bread.' I replied, 'This is a free country, and you have a right to die in this mode if you choose, and I have no doubt but what you will soon die.' I then referred to cases in which I had known people to die from such practices. My cool mode of discussing the question evidently made an impression on his wife. Next summer, on meeting him, I said: 'You are looking much better.' 'Yes,' he replied, bursting into a hearty laugh, 'I followed your advice, and took to eating light bread, and I am as well as I ever was in my life.'"

Knew How to Keep a Hotel.

Running over Ralph Waldo Emerson's new book yesterday we came upon the following passage:

> Courage to ask questions; courage to expose our ignorance. The great gain is, not to shine, not to conquer your companion—then you learn nothing but conceit—but to find a companion who knows what you do not; to tilt with him and be overthrown horse and foot, with utter destruction of all your logic and learning. There is a defeat that is useful.

We resolved to act upon the above at once. We called in our landlord and asked him what the rent of our room would be the coming month. He told us. That was a fair start. We had exposed our ignorance and mentally praised ourself for courage. Then we proceeded to multiply questions. We asked him where he lived before he came to Nevada. He informed us that he was by birth a near neighbor of the late respected Daniel Webster. That increased our respect for him. (For the landlord, not for Webster.) We then asked how much lumber was in the Granite State. He answered promptly—promptness is a characteristic of our landlord. Then we got the price of brick in New Hampshire, the value of mechanics' labor, the probable cost of a bed, carpet and washstand, and the rate of interest on money in the land of the White Mountains. We said to ourselves: "Emerson would be delighted could he but hear this."

At last we ventured to ask our host if he belonged to any religious denomination. He informed us that he was baptized in a mill pond on the Merrimac, and had tried to live a life becoming a Christian and a close communion Baptist. We then asked him how he could reconcile his conscience to charge us more rent for a room than it would cost to build a house in New Hampshire, and an interest on an investment here which is more per month than the State of New Hampshire permits landlords to take by the year. He eyed us a moment over his spectacles, and then said: "That's what you are driving at, is it? Let me tell you that a man who mixes religion with rents in Virginia City will not last long; and, further, that if you do not like this room there are plenty outside who would. The rate I spoke of is only for this month; next month it will be more."—Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle.

Generosity of the Khedive.

The Paris Figaro tells this story of Oriental generosity: A. M. Bavray obtained from the Khedive of Egypt a grant of land, on which he built a house. When the building was completed he invited the Khedive to visit it. The monarch was pleased with it, and asked how much it cost. "Fifty thousand pounds," was the answer. "Here are £60,000," said the Khedive. "Let me buy it." Of course M. Bavray complied with the royal request, and was commissioned to fit it up and furnish it, which he did at a cost of £120,000. When all was finished he went to see the Khedive, taking his little son with him. The monarch offered to kiss the boy, but he ran away, crying, "No, no, mamma says you are a naughty man." "Why?" asked the Khedive. "Because you have taken away our beautiful house." The Khedive wrote on a piece of paper and told the boy to give it to his mother. "You can kiss me now, little man," he said, "I am no longer naughty." The paper was a deed of gift of the whole property.

A Composition Non Compos.

The intelligent compositor was last night setting up an article for the Sunday Tribune (contributed), when he came across the following passage:

"Elvira," he cried in a passionate voice, "Elvira, fly with me!"

"Antonio," she sobbed, smiling through her tears, "I will, blame me if I don't."

At that moment a tall figure stepped between them, and the sullen voice of Hugo de Grubbs was heard:

"Avaunt, slight girl. And as for you, base minion—"

The intelligent compositor had just got as far as this, when an illegitimate idea was born to him, and with the remark, "The howling ignoramus! Why, minion wasn't invented until 1654, and this is a story of the Middle Ages," he changed the passage so that it read:

"Avaunt, slight girl. And as for you, base brevier—"

The foreman shot him with a shooting-stick. The sad event has cast a gloom over the community.—Chicago Tribune.

People and Things.

FLORIDA no longer imprisons debtors.

THE number of passengers who crossed from Calais to Dover in 1875 was 212,500.

GEN. MCCLELLAN refused the position of Chief Engineer to the Brazilian Government at a salary of $30,000.

THE band at the Military Academy at West Point has received a full set of new instruments, imported direct from Paris. There are forty-seven pieces, and they cost $2,000.

A RAILROAD man estimates that it costs $15 every time a buffer breaks, to replace it, and every time a train of cars is stopped it costs the company seventy-five cents.

JAMES B. BECK will be the arbitrator on the part of Virginia on the Maryland-Virginia Boundary-Line Commission in place of the late ex-Gov. Graham, of North Carolina.

REFUSE all $5 notes of the National Bank of Osage, Iowa, numbered over 1,750, for they are forgeries. The bills are genuine, but were stolen before being signed, and hence are worthless.

WE learn of a recently failed concern that began business a year or so ago with a capital of $15,000, and now offers to settle in such a way as to retain $20,000 to start again with.—Boston Transcript.

THE Public Health advises people to breathe through their noses, and remarks that hundreds of thousands breathe through the mouth, thereby bringing on more or less severe affections of the lungs or throat.

MANY persons are not aware that letters addressed to initials or box numbers alone are not deliverable, and that a Postmaster may decline to deliver such letters—yet that is what rule 27 of the department says.

DR. ROBERT BARNES, in the Obstetrical Journal, argues that there is a natural incompatability between science and the female brain, hence he questions the propriety of admitting women to the practice of medicine.

A YOUNG Brooklyn girl of respectable family has become such a victim to drink that she has made three efforts to hang herself. Her home is a pleasant one, but the disease has caught firm hold, and no efforts upon the part of loving friends appear to have any effect.

JUST because the lady wouldn't give him any maple syrup over his buckwheats, a Livonia (N. Y.) tramp the other day shied his plate through the window, spilled the tea-kettle all over the floor, and as a parting souvenir took the trouble to unhinge all the gates on the premises before he left.

THE ex-Empress Eugenie is thin and pale, but still very handsome. She and her son live in a plain and unpretending way at Chiselhurst; the late Emperor's place at table is daily decked with a little bunch of violets. The Prince is well made, good looking, and begins to display a dark brown mustache.

PROVIDENCE has a remarkable example of precocity in a girl, 10 years old, who, being the heiress of a large property, of which her mother has charge at present, has squandered, within a few months, $2,700, which she has got from her mother on various pretexts in small amounts, boxes at theaters, rides, and fine clothes being her specialties.

THERE would seem to be a good opening for an industrious and enterprising young man in starting a company for insuring the teeth. The New York dentists charge $1,000 a year for keeping a person's teeth in order; and when one has laid out as much as that in repairs he would naturally be willing to expend a trifle in insuring the property.

THE Rhode Island House of Representatives has passed a bill which provides that land occupied or owned by churches, schools, colleges and charitable institutions shall no longer be exempt from taxation. Buildings actually used for religious, educational or charitable purposes are still exempt. Buildings owned by incorporated libraries and free public libraries are exempted by the bill.

A LIGHT that will burn on or under water has been made, which will be of incalculable use at sea. A small box, weighted at one end, and ending in a small copper wire at the top, is filled with phosphate of calcium. When thrown overboard it stands upright in the water, and on removing the nib water penetrates the box, and the phosphureted hydrogen escapes through a perforated tube in a brilliant jet of light.

A PHYSIOGNOMIST writes that regular white teeth, seen at once upon the mouth opening, but not projecting nor always entirely seen, denote activeness, truth and goodness. Small, short teeth, which are seldom pure white, denote strength. Long teeth always imply weakness and want of spirit. Those which are firm and strong, whatever the color, denote strength and firmness. If the upper gum is much seen immediately on opening the mouth, it generally denotes dullness and coldness.

HE arrived at Cuthbert, Ga., late Saturday evening, and took quarters at the hotel on Sunday morning. He called at the college to see the girl he had seen but once before, and popped the question. He then returned to town, and by the assistance of the hotel man hunted up a merchant, purchased a clean shirt, procured a two-horse buggy, went back to the college, took in his intended, drove twenty-one miles to the town of Lumpkin, obtained the consent of her parents, procured his license, married the girl of his choice, and returned to Cuthbert, twenty-one miles, all the same day.

I did not love him. Long ago
Instead of yes, I gave him no.
I did not love him; but to-day
I read his marriage notice. Pray
Why was I sad, when never yet
Has my heart known the least regret
Over that whispered no? and why,
Reading the notice, did I sigh?
No analyst can guess the cause:
A woman's reason laughs at laws.
Sure, I am glad to know the wound
I gave is healed, that he has found
Love's blessedness and peace; and yet
A woman never can forget
The man who once has loved her; and
To-day I seem to see him stand,
With every glance a mute caress,
Still pleading for the longed-for yes.
His early love for me is dead—
Another lives in that love's stead;
And if he loves her well, as men
Should love their chosen ones, why, then,
He must be glad that long ago
Instead of yes, I gave him no.
Perhaps that is the reason why
I read the notice with a sigh.

Prehistoric Discovery.

In the Valley of St. Clair, near Marseilles, has been found a settlement of the prehistoric age. It is a cave which opens into a cleft of calcareous rock, with the places of habitation and of burial distinctly marked. At the bottom there is a heap of bones of men and women, and a number of stones dressed to be used as tools and arms, together with a quantity of rough pottery. Scientific men who have seen these relics are of opinion that there is sufficient evidence to show that the race to which the remains belonged was an inferior one.

DEKALB COUNTY NEWSPAPERS.

There is perhaps no single feature in the development of a community more important, and interesting as well, the impetus given it by newspapers; and among all the grand enterprises represented in the Centennial year of our national existence, none will reflect greater credit upon the invention or progressive genius of the age than the "Art preservative of all Arts."

The history of newspaper enterprises in DeKalb County begins nearly twenty years later than most of the other pioneer projects. Previous to 1850, the legal printing, required by law, was executed in Fort Wayne, they being geographically nearer than any others in operation. Subsequently to about that period was established the "Observer" at Albion, by S. E. Alvoid, Esq., For a year or two his paper enjoyed most of the limited patronage that DeKalb County had to accord, when early in the year 1852, he contemplated moving his establishment to Auburn, and pursuant to that purpose, he issued the first prospectus for a newspaper at that place, to be styled the "Auburn Observer." The project was not then carried into effect, it not receiving the encouragement sufficent to warrant the change. Soon after, previous to the opening of the Pierce and Scott campaign the establishment was sold to Messrs. Berry and Pierce, who straightway removed it to Auburn and started the "Democratic Messinger," the first newspaper published in DeKalb County. Although the proprietors were both practical printers, such was the worn condition of their material, the typographical appearance of the paper was very imperfect, but their enterprise received all the support promised, and met with general favor. It had, however, a pecarious existence. Before the first year of its publication expired, Mr. Berry retired from the concern, and Mr. Pierce having subsequently been elected County Auditor, the office was totally destroyed by fire on one of the closing days of the year 1855. It was in this office that J. C. Loveland, W. T. Kimsey, C. K. Baxter and the writer hereof acquired their first knowledge of the mysteries of their profession, each one of whom afterwards became connected with the press of the county.

The preparation of parties for the famous campaign of 1856, brought early into the field two candidates for public favor. First came W. C. McGonigal, Esq., who established the DeKalb Democrat, the organ of the Democrats, and a month or two later, J. M. Bromagem, Esq., established the first Republican paper printed in the County, viz: the Auburn Republican, when for the first time there were two papers published in Auburn. The rivalry of these two papers partook much of the spirit that pervaded the two parties in that noisy campaign, and at its close the Republican was discontinued, and the office removed by Mr. Bromagem to Angola, where he established the Steuben Republican. With increasing patronage Mr. McGonigal's paper was afterward enlarged, and so essentially improved in its typographical appearance as to excel any of its predecessors. In the year 1859 Mr. McGonigal moved his office to Wabash, Indiana, joined the Republican ranks and established the Wabash Plaindealer, making it the Republican organ of that county in the campaign of 1860.

Just previous to the Fall election of 1858. the publication of the DeKalb Co. Times, by Messrs. W. T. and J. M. Kinsey was commenced at Auburn. The three months of its existence demonstrated that its patronage was, insufficient to maintain its continuance, and the establishment was sold and removed to Waterloo. On the first Thursday in February, 1859, was issued the Waterloo Press, the first paper ever printed in the County outside of Auburn The following are the names of the publishers and proprietors of The Press, in order in which they had charge of the paper: T. Y. Dickinson, Dickinson & Baxter, T. Y. Dickinson, C. K. Baxter, Radcliffe & Long, Radcliffe & Kennedy, Baxter & Kennedy, C. K. Baxter

In the Fall of 1859, was established in Auburn, the New Era, by George Kuhlman, and subsequently passing into the hands of J. C. Loveland, its publication was continued until 1865, when the office was removed by him to Clyde, Ohio, where he started the Clyde Times. During the latter part of Mr. Loveland's career in the county, he called his paper the Observer and Reporter.

A very creditable appearing paper was started in Auburn by W. H. Dills in 1864, called the DeKalb Democrat. Afterward it was managed by Howard Coe, Esq. The office was burned up in the winter of 1867.

A few months later was started in its place a paper under the same name by H. D. Carll, but outliving its usefulness, it was discontinued the next year.

The first paper published in Butler was the Herald, started in 1866 by W. T. Kimsey. It reflected for one year very creditably the business interests of that place, when the office was removed by Mr. K. to Ligonier, where he started another paper.

About the year 1868, Emory Higley started a small paper at Butler, which he christianed The Banner of Liberty. After publishing it a few weeks, he removed it to Auburn, where he printed the Auburn Times, striving to become the democratic organ. Not succeeding in this, he discontinued the paper.

Withdrawing from the Press in December, 1868, Mr. J. F. Radcliffe started a new paper in Waterloo, styled the Air-Line and soon after sold the office to Prof. J. A. Barnes, the present School Superintendent of this County. Prof. B. published the paper until the close of the campaign of 1870. The Air-Line was then discontinued, the office being sold to Mr. T. C. Mays, who immediately removed it to Auburn, and established the Courier, which continues to maintain itself and enjoys a seniority over any of its predecessors.

The next effort at starting a paper was at Butler, by R. H. Weamer, in the summer of 1874. It was styled the "News," and after a few months was discontinued. Mr. Weamer removed the office to Auburn where he now publishes the "Republican."

Last December was commenced the publication of the first paper at the new town of Garrett, the "News," by Messrs. Wing and Maloney.

Butler, in its laudable effort to keep pace with the enterprise of neighboring towns, now possesses a model newspaper, the "Review," just published by Mr. B. D. Sherwood. If it meets the support that the initial number indicates [illegible] it will become [illegible] [illegible] of 1876.

1776. Centennial. 1876.

HEADQUARTERS

—FOR—

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing.

MILLER & CASEBEER,

—OFFER—

GREAT BARGAINS IN GOODS!

The largest and choicest line of Goods in the city. Call and see.

MILLER & CASEBEER.

Auburn Fruit House

JUST OPENED

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

Read the Following Prices

TEAS:

Young Hyson from	85 cents to $1.00
Japan "	90 cents to $1.00
Oolong "	70 cents to $1.00
Gunpowder "	60 cents to $1.00

OFFEES:

Roasted Coffee from	25 cents to 3
Best Rio	25 cents
Best Java & Mocha	38 cents
African Male Java	45 cents

SUGARS:

Double Refined A	11 cents
Brown from	8 cents to 10cts
Hard & Pulverized	12½ "

Canned Fruit from	10 to 32 cents	Lemons, per dozen	50c
White Fish per kit	$1.40	White Fish per half barrell	$5.50
Syrups from	75c to 1.00	Soap, endless variety, per bar	5 & 10c
Dried Beef, Hams and Peckeled pork		Western Reserve Cheese	15 ce'ts

Dried Fruits.

Apples from	11 to 12½
Prunes from	11 to 15
Choice Raisins from	15 to 20

Coal and Head Light Oil. Best Crackers of all kinds at the lowest prices.—Too many goods to enumerate. Call in and price them. Remember the place in the

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

E. E. WILLIAMS.

PIONEER

HARDWARE STORE

JNO. L. DAVIS, Pro.

This is the leading hardware store in our county, and keeps the best assortment of all kinds of

HARDWARE,

TINWARE, ETC.

This house is also the popular place for all kinds of the latest style

COOK AND PARLOR STOVES!

Store on Main Street, opposite Court House, Auburn. Special inducements offered in Sash and Doors. Call for prices.

Grand Display

The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of

Wall and Window Paper!

SHADES AND FIXTURERS.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Miscellaneous and Blank Books,
Pocket Books, Bibles,
Bill Books, Albums,
Wallets, Testaments,
Memorandas, Pass Books
PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONARY,

Pictures, Picture-cord and Tassel.
Box Papers in great variety.
School Supplies of all kinds,
—AT—
C. P. HOUSER'S,
Main Street, opposite Ford's Block. AUBURN, IND.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,
Jewelry,
Clocks, Silver Ware!
GOLD PENS,
Ladies GOLD Chains,
Gents Chains,
Gold and Silver Rings,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the latest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has an exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his potrons the benefit of the same.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Noblesville	7 44	[illegible]	2 10	1 20
Tipton	[illegible]	1 [illegible]	[illegible]	2 15
Miami	[illegible]	1 50	[illegible]	3 [illegible]
Kokomo	9 11	[illegible]	7 00
Peru	10 00	[illegible]	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Noblesville	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Tipton	[illegible]	[illegible]	7 41
Kokomo	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Miami	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Peru	[illegible]	[illegible]	6 00

[illegible], Supt. [illegible]
[illegible] HAWLEY, Master of Trans.
[illegible] ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R.

Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 21, 1875 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other stations as follows, daily except Sunays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	3:42 p. m.	3:35 a. m.	7:55 p. m
Waterloo	3:00 "	3:51 "	8:16 "
Sedan	3,07	4,03	8:28 "
Corunna	3,14	3,56	8:30 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.10 pm	11,35 am	9:35 a m
Sedan	2.20	11,40	9:40 "
Waterloo	2:37 "	11:50 "	8:52 "
Butler	2:47 "	a12:31a m	7:15 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. H. CURTIS, Division Su

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 50	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 20	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 30	10 27	8 23
Defiance	11 33	11 23	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 00am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 05	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 30	1 34
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44
Walkerton Junction	4 00	4 00
Chicago	7 20	7 20

GOING EAST.

Chicago	9 20 pm		8 40am
Walkerton Junction	12 13am		12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 41		6 39
Avilla	3 01		3 06
Garrett	3 16	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 38	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 16	8 42	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 16	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 48	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 28	1 00pm	9 12

L. COLE, Gen. Tick. Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Nov 21, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	2 00 pm	3 40p.m	pm
Ossian	2 55
Bluffton	3 25	5 06	7 00
Keystone	3 54
Montpelier	4 02	5 43	7 23
Hartford	4 25pm	6.08	7 50
Eaton	4 50	6 25	8 12
Muncie	5 20	6 45	8 45
McCowan's	5 37
New Castle	6 15
Cam. City	6 52
Bossons	7 11
Connersville	7 25
Indianapolis	7 40	9 30	11 15
Louisville		pm
Cincinnati	10 30	am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am
Louisville			pm
Indianapolis		7 35pm	4 45am
Connersville	10 48
Bossons	11 05
Cam City	11 18
New Castle	11 45
McCowans	12 30pm
Muncie	12 52	10 00	7 15am
Eaton	1 08	11 20	7 51
Hartford	1 27	10 48	8 15
Montpelier	1 51	11 10	8 45
Keystone	2 09		8 55
Bluffton	2 30	11 45am	9 32
Ossian	2 55		10 06
Ft. Wayne	3 45	15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
Robt. Rillie, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Int. Exp.
Cincinnati
Louisville	7 00pm			40
Indianapolis	4 45am			35
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 3		45
Auburn	11 33	6 1		43
Waterloo	11 50	6 4		01
Summit				50
Pleasant Lake				56
Ar Angola	12 45pm	8 00	5 30	10
Reading	1 45		7 00	38
Bankers	1 00		7 23	8 45
Jonesville	2 20		7 52	10 15
Jackson	3 3		9 30	[illegible]
Detroit	6 15p m		12 30	8 27
Grand Rapids	10 15			11 27
Lansing	5 45
Saginaw	8 08
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 40 a m			4 10p
Lansing	11 07			7 28
Grand Rapids	6 00			11 30a
Detroit	10 30			5 40p
Jackson Dep	1 20 p m			9 40
Jonesville	2 20			11 00
Bankers	2 36			11 20
Reading	2 47			11 35
Ar Angola	3 40	6 15		12 40
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 20	7 33		1 32
Auburn
Auburn Junction	4 56	8 00		1 52
Fort Arrive		9 30		2 45
Indianapolis	8 1.	10p		9 20
Louisvil	4 am	11 10
Cincinnati		10 30

H. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS

Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Nov. 21st, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 6 Fre't	No 4 Expre	No 2	STATIONS	No 1	No. 3	No. 7 L. F.
6.00p	4.00p	10 50	lv Logans't ar	11.00	[illegible]	[illegible]
6.30	4.13	10.48	Adamsboro.	10.48	6.36	12.26
7.04	4.25	10.57	Hoover's	10.33	6.27	12.00
7.20	4.43	11.06	Mexico	10.25	6.19	11.48
7.40	4.53	11.15	[illegible]	10.15	6.10	11.25
7.54	[illegible]	11.28	Chili	10.07	5.58	1.32
8.12	[illegible]	[illegible]	Roann	9.54	[illegible]	10.43
8.48	[illegible]	[illegible]	Laketon	9.40	[illegible]	10.10
9.12	[illegible]	12.17	N. Manchester	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
9.38	5.40p	[illegible]	[illegible] Mills	9.21	[illegible]	9.33
9.56	[illegible]	[illegible]	Collamer	9.10	4.57	9.14
10.04	5.56	12.39	S. Whitley	8.56	4.53	9.09
10.26	6.05	12.57	Taylor's	8.54	4.41	8.42
10.50	6.20	1 00	Columbia city	8.42	4.30	8.20
11.20	6.36	1.17	Coffin's	8.17	4.16	7.50
11.40	6.46	1.26	Churubusco	8.15	4.01	7.31
12.00	6.55	1.36	Potter's	8.06	3.56	7.14
12.10			G. R. Crossing
12.30	7.11	1.51	Cedar Creek	7.50	3.30	6.46
12.55	7.22	2.00	Aub. Juncti'n	7.36	3.25	6.32
1.00	7.25	[illegible]	Auburn	7.26	3.23	6.15
1.30	7.36	3.17	Mooresville	7.15	3.10	5.48
2.00	7.40	[illegible]	ar. Butler lv.	7.00a	3.00p	5.15

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R'ys. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw. At Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R'y. for Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTRAND, Gen. Supt

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R.

[illegible]

GOING WEST.

	No 1	No 5	No 3	No 7
Pittsburgh	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Rochester	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Alliance	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Orrville	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Mansfield	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Crestl'e ar.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
" lv.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Forest	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Lima	12 40 p.m.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ft. Wayne	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Plymouth	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Chicago	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex.	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail
Chicago	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Plymouth	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ft. Wayne	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Lima	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Forest	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Crestl'e ar.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
" lv.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Mansfield	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Orrville	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Alliance	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Rochester	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Chicago	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Through Mail, (Limited,) leaves Pittsburg daily at 5.50 p. m., stopping only at Alliance, [illegible] p. m., Crestline, 11.15 p. m. Fort Wayne [illegible], arrives at Chicago at [illegible] a. m.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works near the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes, etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND

IT IS HERE.

WHAT

The Largest Fine Stock of Fine

Hats, Caps,

GLOVES, ETC., ETC.

Ever brought to Auburn. Those wanting this line of good can get them from 100 to 150 per cent cheaper than they were ever sold before in the county by calling on

WILLIAM LESSIG

On The War Path

Terrible Slaugh'er in Dry Goods

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT THE

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,
Opposite Court Square
AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING

Of all descripti.ons, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

LORDIER,

THE FORT WAYNE,

Boot & Shoe!

Store

Is the popular place for all kinks of

BOOT & SHOES

All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely

LOW PRICES

Custom work done the best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.

Remember place

At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store, next to the Bank.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 6. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, MARCH 2nd, 1876. Number 9.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Jane's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office opposite N. W. Cor. Public Square,

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Auburn, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store. Cool's Block, North of Court House.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $1 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
G. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTEL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue Chicago. O SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FOBES, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE.

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

Thomas Baldock
Building Contractor
AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

NEW
Meat Market

The undersigned has opened a meat market at Markle's old stand, where he will keep constantly on hand a good supply of fresh meats of all kinds, at reasonable prices, and asks a share of the public patronage.
Nov. 1-3m. JOHN TRESCH.

Junction Hotel,

JAMES SMITH, Pro'r.

Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.
L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

THE AUBURN
Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

BAKER BROS.
PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!
AND
EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.
BAKER BROS.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,
CHAIRS
Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND

JAS. CLIFFORD.
WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,
Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

IT IS HERE.
WHAT
The Largest Fine Stock of Fine
Hats, Caps,
GLOVES, ETC., ETC.

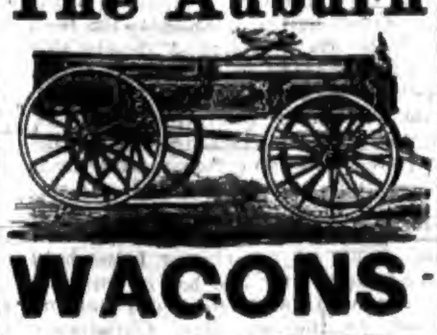
Ever brought to Auburn. Those wanting this line of good can get them from 100 to 150 per cent cheaper than they were ever sold before in the county by calling on

WILLIAM LESSIG

J. G. FLEDDERMAN
No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A
Has the largest and finest stock of
CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,
—AND—
CassimereS
in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of
Made up Clothing!
ever shown in Fort Wayne
Youths' and Children's Clothing!
Furnishing Goods, &c.
Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his large stock.

The Auburn



WAGONS
Made from the Best Materials,
And constructed with all the late improvements—
The new and extensive
WAGON SHOPS
—OF—
J. W. SHAFFER
South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

IT is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is usually driven by the power of two horses. It delivers tile at the two opposite ends of the machine. It may be converted into a single delivery machine. It has a simple and ready means of taking up the wear on the plunge head and sides of the chamber, thus preventing all leakage of mud, and adding years of service to the machine. It makes from 500 to 800 rods of tile per day. It is fully warranted. It may readily be adapted to Steam Power. The dies are finished with much skill. Dies and Trucks at moderate prices.
CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

NOTICE.

AUBURN, Feb., 1st, 1876.

Until further notice the tax duplicate of the town of Auburn, will be at the store of S. W. Ralston, at which place I will receive the taxes due thereon. The last day for payment is March 18th next.
D. K. HOUGHTON,
Marshal & Collector.

To live on the fat of the land without work is the aim of Traveling Agents.

We dont employ them but sell to the user at factory prices. Send for our free price list which will give you the price. Freight paid by us to your nearest R. R. to be paid for after you have tested and found satisfactory to that the purchaser absolutely runs no risk whatever. This is the way the best Scales in the world are sold by Jones of Binghamton, N. Y.
Jan. 13-1m

CARPETS,
FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock for all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusually fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,
On The War Path

Terrible Slaughter in Dry Goods

Therefore buy your
Dry Goods,
Notions, etc., of
CHARLES KLOTZ
AT HIS
Old Stand
ON MAIN STREET,
Opposite Court Square
AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING
Of all descriptions, and
HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!

LORDIER,
THE FORT WAYNE,
Boot & Shoe!
Store

Is the popular place for all kinds of

BOOT & SHOES

All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely

LOW PRICES

Custom work done the best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.
Remember place
At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store, next to the Bank.

THE FIRST
National Bank
OF AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of the U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:
J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:
JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.
April 29, 1875.

PENCIL AND SCISSORS.

Last Sunday was a bad day for church going people.

Call at this office for extra copies of the large Centennial paper, 48 columns. The best paper of the season, only 5 cents a copy.

J. Albright, Esq., has a new sign, in the shape of a clock, that looks neat and tasty.

The Goodman Bros. have erected a tasty lamp post in front of their place of business.

Oliver Twist, in four acts, was produced by local talent, at Pleasant Lake last Thursday night.

Married at the Auburn House, on the 19th inst, by Jacob Walborn, Esq. John W. Shutt, to Evia Smith.

School Examiner, J. Barnes, informs us that an examinations of teachers will be held at this place, Saturday, March 4th.

Dave Morris is lying quite ill, at Mr. Carey's residence, on South Main-st.—His sickness was caused from lifting too heavy.

Cooper Ralston has purchased H. Griswold's interest in the grocery line. The firm is now Cool & Ralston. We wish them success.

A Card.

All persons indebted to me either by account or note must call on me immediately or expect to have costs to pay. This is the last call for I must pay my own debts.

I can be found at Snyder's Excelsior Hardware.

Feb. 9 [illegible] V. A. BEARD.

Stop that Cough.

No [illegible] complaint however obstinate can resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of [illegible] Wild Cherry and its [illegible] ever cold [illegible] and effectually in coughs, colds, [illegible], sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Hooping Cough and Croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take. Consumption victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxyisms that threatened to choke them find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10 cts. Ask for Dr. Morris' Syrup take no other. F. E. Davenport Druggist.

DIED.

FRANKLIN TP Feb, 18, 1876.

EDITOR COURIER:—Died at his residence in this Township, on the 16th inst Philip Man, Sr., the oldest inhabitant of the township, age over 86 years. He resided in this township nearly 35 years ago. He was born in Union Co, Penn.

Died at the residence of his son, Daniel Grogg, near this place, Feb. 15, Mary Grogg, aged 93, 9 months and 10 days. Her maiden name was Snyder, and was married to Soloman Grogg, Feb 2nd, 1808, with whom she lived 53 years and 11 months. She was an exemplary member of the German Reform church from the time she was twenty years old. She was undoubtedly the oldest resident in the county, and beyond question lived to the greatest age of any who lie in our cemetry.

Same day the wife of John A Ditmore, aged about sixty years.

How to get Along.

Pay as you go.

Never fool in business matters.

Do not kick everyone in your path.

Learn to think and act for yourself.

Keep ahead rather than behind the times.

Don't stop to tell stories in business hours.

Have order, system, regularity and promptness.

Use your own brains rather than those of others.

Do not meddle with business you know nothing of.

A man of honor respects his word as he does his bond.

No man can get rich by sitting around stores and saloons.

If you have a place of business be found there when wanted.

More miles can be made in one day by going steadily than by stopping.

Help others when you can, but never give what you cannot afford because it is fashionable.

Learn to say No. No necessity of snapping it out dog fashion, but say it firmly and respectfully.

Jake was heard calling across the fence to his neighbor's son, a colored youth who goes to school at the Atlanta colored university:

"Look hyer, boy, you goes ter school, don't yer?"

"Yes, sir," replied the boy.

"Gittin eddykashun, ain't yer?

"Yes, sir"

"Larnin' rithmetick and figgerin' on a slate, eh?"

"Yes, sir"

"Well, it don't take two whole days to make an hour, do it?"

"Why no!" exclaimed the boy.

"You was gwine ter bring dat hatchet back in an hour, warn't yer?"

"Yes, sir."

"An' it's bin two days sence yer borrowed it. Now, what good's eddykashun gwine ter do you thick skulled niggers when yer go to school a whole year an' den can't tell how long it takes to fotch back a hatchit?"

The boy got mad and slung the hatchet over the fence and half [illegible] through an ash barrel.

If you discover that a person has swallowed poison by design or accident, give them water to drink, cold or warm, as fast as possible, a gallon or more at a time, and as fast as vomited drink more; tepid water is best, as it opens the pores of the skin and promotes vomiting, and thus gives the speediest cure to the poisonous article If pains begin to be felt in the bowels it shows that a part, at least, of the poison has passed downward; then large and repeated ejections of tepid water should be given, the object in both cases being to dilute the poison as quickly as possible. Do not wait for warm water, take that which is nearest at hand, cold or warm, for every moment of time saved is of immense importance, at the same time send instantly for a physician, and as soon as he comes turn the case into his hands, telling what you have done. The simple fact can not be too widely published. It is not meant to say that drinking a gallon or two of simple water will cure every case of poisoning, but it will cure many, and benefit all by its rapidly diluting quality.

Ten Millions Of Gold in One Pile

(San Francisco Correspondent of the Philadelphia Press.)

Speaking of this reminds me of a very well authenticated rumor that the Great Bonanza Kings, Messrs Flood, O'Brien, Macay and Fair, are going to send one hundred and fifty tons of gold and silver bullion from their Consolidated Virginia Mine to the Centennial and pile up the glittering bars in some conspicuous spot so that all the world can see what one mine produces in five months! The value of the bars will be ten millions of dollars in United States gold coin! If the idea is carried out it will be the grandest sight among a million of grand sights and I venture to say more people will visit his mountain of wealth than any other single thing in the building. Five millions of the bullion is now boxed for shipment and the balance will be ready in due season Few people ever saw such a vast sum as ten millions of dollars in gold and silver all in one or several piles and I think the proposition of Messrs Flood & Co if carried through will add much to the charm the wonder the eclat and the success of the Exhibition.

MUSIC.

MISS McCUTCHAN, teacher of instrumental music, harmony and thorough bass, is prepared to give instruction in music in a thorough and practical manner. For further information call at the residence of E. D. Hartman, near the Eel River depot.
Nov. 4, 1875.—tf

The Way They Do It.

Mr. Blaine would take the whole question of the Currency out of politics, and yet makes a bitter party speech upon the Currency. Mr. Blaine would unite and pacify the country and yet makes an intense personal, studied and sectional speech against general amnesty, and so disturbs the peace of the country. If this is statesmenship, we submit the specimen is of a very bad kind. If it is patriotism, we fear it is of that kind also, in a party sense, which Edmund Burke denounced so vehemently. If it is party policy, even them it is difficult to understand it unless the lowest ideas and grades of humanity can be addressed with the understanding that men can make more by hate and passion then by good will and good words. Nothing would be more wise patriotic, and just than, if possible after 15 years of suspension of specie payments, to forget party politics in settling a great question like the Currency, but it best suits the taste, temper and ambition of the Republican leader of the House both to denounce and misrepresent the Democratic party and to magnify his own party and himself. If Mr. Blaine had any qualities beyond that of a brilliant and aggressive debater or any patriotic or soldierly antecedents if he had even belonged to the home guard in war or the peace party in peace the country would listen with more patence to his tirades; but with any such antecedents Mr. Blaine would not be himself. He is simply upon the one hand aspiring and audacious, and upon the other selfish and ambitious to secure place and power at a cost which a wise man would not make. This is no time to advance such men. As they rule in Congress, so they would, if they could rule the land. The Republicans have been sixteen years in power and hold the Senatorial and Executive power now. What the currency is they made it both in quantity and quality. They have done noting but talk to change it or improve it, and this is just what the same party [illegible] now. Suppose they change their tactics, and instead of assailing others do something themselves. They have the Senate them begin there and by that concessions and manly effort let the Democrats also do somthing practical and positive towards the resumption of specie payments. In the meantime it would seem that a Republican leader who has so much to say against inflation but not one word for contraction, who in one breath, opposes both the President's and the Secretary of the Treasury's efforts to repeal the legal tender act; might be a little more charitable towards men who think either the all virtue does not rest in the Republican party or all wisdom in Mr. Blaine.

CATARRH.—If you would avoid being rendered deaf, or [illegible] in society, on account of foul and [illegible] discharges from gangrenous ulcers [illegible] use Dr. Detchon's celebrated [illegible]. It is the greatest cure and [illegible] destroyer, the world ever [illegible] every life threatened by it. It [illegible] its progress, and is persevering [illegible] never disappoint in a cure. Go to Davenport's Drug Store, and get a sample bottle free. Sept. 30 y

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life. When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomachs, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Billiousness, &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

COMSUMPTION CURED.

AN old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by and East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering he will send free of charge to all who desire it this receipt with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper.
DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Munroe Block, Syracuse, N. Y

GILES' LINIMENT
TRADE MARK
IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuraligia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Dr. William Osgood Page, of No 365 4th avenue New York, suffered for many years with stiffness and intense pain in his knee, and at times was unable to walk, caused by an injury received on the Hudson River Railroad. Tried every remedy that skill or science could devise, without benefit. Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia gave instant relief and effected a complete cure.

Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth Avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle
Sold by J. H. [illegible]

No. 3

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

[A rich man who had no children proposed [illegible] poor neighbor, who had [illegible] would consent, that he [illegible] property enough to make themselves and their other six children comfortable for life.]

Which shall it be? Which shall it be?
I looked at John. John looked at me,
And when I found that I must speak,
My voice seemed strangely low and weak,
"Tell me again what Robert said:"
And then I, listening, bent my head—
This is his letter.

"I will give
A house and land while you shall live,
If, in return, from out your seven,
One child to me for aye is given."
I looked at John's old garments worn;
I thought of all that he had borne
Of poverty, and work, and care,
Which I, though willing, could not share;
I thought of seven young mouths to feed,
Of seven little children's need,
And then of this.

"Come John," said I,
"We'll chose among them as they lie
Asleep." So walking hand in hand,
Dear John and I surveyed our band;
First to the cradle lightly stepped
Where Lilian, the baby slept.
Softly the father stooped to lay
His rough hand down in a loving way,
When dream or whisper made her stir,
And huskily he said: "Not her!"

We stooped beside the trundle bed,
And one long ray of lamplight shed
Athwart the boyish faces there,
In sleep so beautiful and fair.
I saw on James' rough, red cheek
A tear undried. Ere John could speak
"He's but a baby, too," said I,
And kissed him as we hurried by.
Pale, patient Robbie's angel face
Still in his sleep bore suffering's trace.
"No, for a thousand crowns not him!"
He whispered, while our eyes were dim.

Poor Dick! bad Dick! our wayward son—
Turbulent, restless, idle one—
Could he be spared? Nay, He who gave
Bade us befriend him to the grave;
Only a mother's heart could be Patient enough for such as he;
"And so," said John, "I would not dare
To take him from her bedside prayer."

Then stole we softly up above,
And knelt by Mary, child of love.
"Perhaps for her 'twould better be,"
I said to John. Quite silently
He lifted up a curl that lay
Across her cheek in a willful way,
And shook his head: "Nay, love, not thee,"
The while my heart beat audibly.

Only one more, our eldest lad,
Trusty and truthful, good and glad.
So like his father. "No, John, no!
I cannot, will not, let him go."
And so we wrote in a courteous way,
We could not give one child away;
And afterward toil lighter seemed,
Thinking of that of which we dreamed,
Happy in truth that not one face
Was missed from its accustomed place;
Thankful to work for all the seven,
Trusting the rest to One in heaven.

A REMARKABLE DREAM.

Some few years ago I was a resident in Hong Kong, and there became acquainted with the following circumstances. The story itself was related one winter's evening—for even in China there is a winter—around a glowing fire that put one in mind of home. The conversation during dinner had turned upon dreams, and some very curious theories were advanced in support of the interpretation of them. Our number consisted of eight persons; and after a protracted discussion, in which the number for and against there being any truth in dreams stood about equal, Capt. Topham proposed to settle the question by telling us a story of what actually happened to himself a few years previously. The cloth was removed, and at the invitation of our host we each drew our chairs round the fire, lit our cigar or pipe, [illegible] a glass of punch, the Captain related the following tale as nearly as I can remember:

"It is now, gentlemen, some ten years ago since I was first mate of the opium schooner Wild Dayrell. We were lying in Hong Kong harbor at the time, preparatory to sailing the next morning for Formosa. Then—and, for the matter of that, now—there was a great deal of smuggling done in that beautiful island of the Chinese. Our cargo consisted of thirty thousand dollars in sycee, one hundred and fifty chests of Patna and two hundred chests of Malwah opium, besides a few sundries, which could be bought cheap enough in Hong Kong or Shanghai, but upon which we turned a good round sum. Capt. Wilkes—whom I think you all know, gentlemen—commanded her, and had made many a voyage, and run many a risk for his owners to the same place. At about 4 in the afternoon the Captain left me to go ashore; but just as he was stepping in the boat, he cried out:

"'Topham! Upon second thoughts, I shan't stay on shore to-night, as I intended. I am going to old Douglas' to dine; and as, in all probability, it will be a noisy party, I shall slip away early; so you can look for me about eleven.'

"'Very well, sir,' I answered; and then turned to see that everything was all right for the morning.

"At 6 o'clock I and the second officer had tea; and after tea, he and I had quite a confidential chat about our voyage, the value of our cargo and the immense risk that was run in not shipping Englishmen, in place of the mongrel crew we then had. Our crew consisted, by the way, of fourteen persons, including the Captain. The Captain, myself, second officer and two sailors were Englishmen; a Lascar; two Manilla men; two Malays and two Chinamen, as seamen; a Chinese cook and Chinese steward—in all, fourteen souls. At about 8 o'clock the second officer had retired for the night, and had left me alone on the poop. I well remember how my thoughts then ran. I revolved in my mind the conversation that I had with Mr. Spencer, the second officer, respecting the immense value of our cargo and the risk that we ran, both from our own crew, should they turn traitors, and also from the hordes of pirates that continually infest the China seas, notwithstanding our gunboats, and the havoc that they make of them whenever they come within range.

"Well, gentlemen, upon that evening my thoughts were especially turned upon home, and a dear mother from whom I had received a letter by the last mail, and who was then in a very delicate state of health. I had answered her letter only that morning.

"I must have been on the poop about three quarters of an hour after Mr. Spencer had left me, and was thinking of returning to the cabin to look over some papers connected with the ship, when I observed a sampan, or Chinese boat, hovering round the stern. I called out to the men in the boat, and inquired what they wanted there; but their only answer, when they found they were observed, was to pull away from the ship in the direction of the middle of the harbor. Their movements I did not at all like, and leaning on the taffrail, I watched them until they were lost in the darkness. I suppose I must have remained in this position—that is, with my arms on the taffrail—about ten minutes, when, without warning, I felt myself lifted off my legs, and some one behind me endeavoring to throw me overboard. I am by no means a light weight, gentlemen, as you can see—weighing, I should say, then sixteen stone; but the person evidently depended upon the suddenness of the attack to accomplish his purpose. I struggled violently, holding on by my hands to the rail, and letting fly right and left with my feet; and in the end I was successful. The Chinaman tripped, and lay upon the deck in my power. Without a thought, without a moment's hesitation, I laid hold of him by the trowsers with one hand, and took a couple of turns of his pigtail by the other, and threw him overboard. After I had accomplished this, I made for the cuddy. Arrived there, I at once went to Mr. Spencer's cabin; but upon trying the door, found it locked! I gave one or two kicks, at the same time calling out to him to open the door. He sprang from his berth, and called out in reply that it was locked from the outside. I told him to stand clear, and with a good one, two, three, from the shoulder, I burst the door in. There is no doubt I must have looked very pale and very excited, as his first question to me was—

"'Why, Mr. Topham, what in the name of goodness is the matter? You look as pale as death.'

"I told him all that had happened, and likewise my suspicions that we had not seen the end of the affair, and that our best plan would be at once to arm ourselves. I told him to dress himself, whilst I went on deck to rouse our two English sailors, whom we could depend upon, and bring them aft to the cabin. I had planted one foot in the saloon, the other being still in Mr. Spencer's cabin, and had my eyes directed to the stairs of the companion, when, in the shade, I thought I descried a Chinaman. Thinking that it might be the steward, I called out to him by name, 'A Tong;' but no reply came, when I felt pretty certain that it was not the steward—in which belief I was not long left in doubt. I had turned my head into Mr. Spencer's cabin, to tell him of my suspicions, when I thought I heard steps stealthily approaching me. I gave a rapid glance, and there, not four feet from where I stood, were some five or six as villainous looking Chinamen as I had ever beheld, armed, some with bamboos about ten feet long, and others with swords. In an instant I had sprung into the cabin, and closed and bolted the door. With a yell, the whole of the gang made one simultaneous rush toward the door, but they had missed their mark by a second. I had planted my back against the door, and, thanks to my weight and the bolts, it resisted their combined efforts to force it. Other measures, however, I knew must be at once resorted to, and that instantly. Calling upon Mr. Spencer to move his chest of drawers against the door, and placing two trunks on the top of them, we patiently waited the coming events. Spencer very fortunately had a couple of Colt's revolvers in his chest of drawers, with which we armed ourselves. The gang outside were evidently in deep consultation as to their next mode of [illegible] all the others, and that one voice was, without a doubt, A Tong, our much-respected steward! From the little Chinese I was acquainted with, I gathered that they were bent upon the treasure, which had come on board from the Oriental Bank only that afternoon. It had been stowed away in the Captain's cabin, and was safely lodged in one of Milner's fire and thief-proof safes.

"They proceeded to the Captain's cabin; but in a very short time returned and, knocking at the door with their bamboos, demanded it to be opened. At first they used threats, then entreaties, promising us that not a hair of our heads should be hurt. But, though we feared their threats, we had no faith in their promises, and fully determined that, if the worst came to the worst we would sell our lives dearly. Oh, how we longed for 11 o'clock, for Capt. Wilkes' return. How patiently and eagerly we listened for the splash of the oars of the six stalwart boatmen! We heard four bells from the different ships in the harbor, some not a couple of hundred yards away; but it was impossible to reach or signal them. Instead of a large port-hole, there was only the small dead-light, through which we could not even manage to thrust our heads, much less our bodies. Well, sirs, when they found that neither threats nor promises would avail them, they at once commenced their work. I was standing on a camp-stool, endeavoring to see what they were doing, by looking through the iron grating on the top of the door, when I saw one of them with a spear, at what, in military phraseology, would be termed "shorten arms"—that is, with the spear drawn back to its fullest extent, ready to thrust through the door. I gave one spring from the stool, and lucky indeed I did so; for the next moment the point of a spear grazed my cheek. Another inch to the left and I would have been a dead man. We both then retired to the further end of the cabin, so as to keep out of harm's way. We knew that they dared not use firearms, for fear of attracting the attention of the ships in the neighborhood; and no doubt this was our salvation. Spear after spear was thrust through, some almost reaching us as we crouched down on the floor of the cabin, when all at once we heard a crash, and, on looking up, to our horror saw that one of the panels of the door had been forced in sufficiently for a man to thrust his body through. We both immediately sprang upon our feet grasping our revolvers more firmly, expecting that, in desperation, some of them would be hardy enough to try and force their way into the cabin. But they were far too cunning for that. Two of them now got upon chairs, but taking care to keep out of the line of fire of our revolvers, and by side-thrusts—by which they showed that they were adepts in the use of the weapon—compelled us to kneel and crouch behind the chest of drawers one moment, into the berths the next, and, at last, under the bottom of them, where we were for some time comparatively safe. But, emboldened by their success, they now faced the broken paneling; and we could plainly see that, in another minute or two, the matter would end by our both being speared like wild boars. I whispered to Spencer to fire at the first head that showed itself at the paneling, and I would do the same—he to take the right, and I the left, so that we should not waste ammunition through both of us firing at the same person. I remember as if it happened only five minutes ago, two heads suddenly appearing, and myself and Spencer in the act of presenting our revolvers at them, when, as a flash of lightning, two spears were suddenly thrust through the aperture, and the next instant I felt a twinge in the right side."

Here the narrator paused for a few moments, and after a good stiff pull at his punch, continued—

"I remember no more until six weeks afterward, when I was lying in bed in a strange room, very weak and very faint. There was my servant keeping me nice and cool with a large fan, whilst on my forehead was a cloth steeped in vinegar. By degrees, some slight recollection came back to my mind of the events that had happened on that fearful night; but when I interrogated my Chinese nurse, I could only obtain from him such replies as—"Me no sabby; doctor berry angry me talkee that pigeon." By which he meant that he knew nothing about the matter; and that, if he did, he was enjoined by the doctor to silence, otherwise he would be very angry with him. However, with a good constitution and careful attention, I was soon able to leave my room; and then, and not before, I gathered from my old friend, Charles Lawrence, one quiet afternoon, the following rather rambling account of the affair:

"'I have no occasion,' said Charley, 'to ask you to remember the 8th of March, for that you will do to the end of your days; but I have also reason to remember it; for on that day, as I learned by a letter from home by the last mail, an only brother was killed on the Great Western Railway, in the collision that occurred near Reading. Well, if you remember that evening, we were to have a great spread at Douglas'. Thompson, Wilkinson, and some twenty others were invited, including Capt. Wilkes. Of course, you know what a jovial fellow Wilkes is, good for a story or song, and can take his part in an argument with the best of them. Everything went off very well during dinner; and after the cloth had been removed, and one or two songs had been given, the call was for Wilkes. He, however, who is usually so ready and willing to oblige, made some excuse about hoarseness, which, however, was so palpably fictitious that we all burst out laughing; and upon being pressed again by some of us, including old Douglas, he positively refused, and intimated his intention of going on board at once. We could see that something had occurred to irritate him, but for the life of us none of us could guess. Before leaving the room, however, Douglas called him to one side, and asked him the cause of his going away so early. He replied that he was uneasy in his mind; that a depression of spirits, such as he had never felt before, had come over him within the last half hour, but for which he could not account; and asked Douglas kindly not to detain him, as he wanted to go on board to see that everything was all right; and if he felt better, they might expect to see him in the course of an hour or so. And in an [illegible] not to join our party, but to horrify us with the details of what had occurred on board the Wild Dayrell. Dr. Anderson, who was one of our party, went on board immediately to attend to you, and Capt. Wilkes and two or three of us proceeded to the police station to report the matter. The police took the matter up vigorously; and, thanks to a large reward offered by the owners, one of the gang turned Queen's evidence, and in the course of three or four days the whole gang was safely lodged in the Victoria Jail. They were brought up before the magistrate, and remanded until you are able to appear against them.'

"But I asked: 'What time did Capt. Wilkes arrive on board the Wild Darrell? It was some time after ten o'clock—of that I am sure.'

"'Yes,' he replied; 'I believe it was just half-past ten when he pulled alongside, for five bells were struck from all the other ships lying alongside of him, but not from his own, which at the time he noticed as very singular. As he approached the ship he saw two boats coming from the direction of her, but at the time he took no notice of them; but there is no doubt, he thinks, that these very boats contained the gang.'

"'But did they succeed in obtaining any of the treasure?' I again asked.

"'No, not a cent of it, thanks to Chubb, They had tried to pick the lock; and when they found that they could not succeed in that, they tried gunpowder, but with the same result. The two English seamen were found tied in their bunks, and quite drunk. They acknowledged that the steward had given them three bottles of brandy early in the evening, as a present; and they made good use of it, for they were half drunk the next morning. The rest of the crew were too much afraid of their own necks to offer any resistance or give the alarm. The Wild Dayrell sailed a couple of days afterward, but with a fresh crew.'" And so ended Charley's account.

"About a week after this conversation," continued the narrator, "I appeared at the Police Court, and swore to every one of the gang, eight in number. They were sent for trial to the High Court, and all found guilty of mutiny and conspiracy, and sentenced, four of them, to penal servitude for life, two for fourteen years, and the remaining two for seven years each."

The Old Elm Destroyed.

The historic and renowned old elm on Boston Common which sheltered Miles Standish and the Winslows, beneath whose boughs Benjamin Franklin played when he was a baby, and which was so old in 1776 that Israel Putnam and George Washington, when they assumed their military commands, were afraid it would fall down and kill somebody, was prostrated and destroyed by a gale lately. There is a sort of centennial propriety in the fall, and relic hunters spent the night in an affectionate scramble for bits of the boughs. It was one of the oldest trees known in this country, and probably older than the Stuyvesant pear tree. The limb blown off in the gale of 1860 plainly disclosed more than 200 rings. Now Boston will have another funeral—speeches, poems, tears, and a good time generally.—New York Graphic.

BRISTOW.

His Early Retirement Probable—A General Reorganization of the Cabinet—The Proposed Changes.

[Washington (Feb. 18) Telegram to the Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

The predictions made in these dispatches from time to time regarding the retirement of Secretary Bristow from the Cabinet are about to be realized. The matter of his retirement is no longer merely rumor, but is to-day spoken of as a positive fact. The Secretary himself is authority for such statements and has told many of his friends that his relations with the President were not such as would permit of their acting in harmony much longer. The New York Tribune, which is known here as a Bristow's organ, makes the announcement, on Bristow's authority, as follows:

"The fact need no longer be concealed that the President and Secretary of the Treasury must soon part company. Gen. Grant is no longer satisfied with Mr. Bristow, and the latter is becoming restive and dissatisfied with his present honors. The growing distance between the two gentlemen has not reached that point where personal intercourse of an agreeable nature is no longer possible, but each is more at ease in other society: whether from any known cause, if from any cause, is not a matter of discussion now; but there is a feeling between the two that is difficult to describe, but which produces a constant constraint and embarrassment. That it has its foundation in the Babcock matter is generally admitted, but until the case is disposed of by the court no discussion is vouchsafed. A change in the Treasury Department is possible within a few days. It cannot reasonably be delayed a fortnight. The Secretary expresses his differences with the President very mildly as a feeling that is difficult to describe, but which produces a constant constraint and embarrassment. The Secretary declines to state the cause."

Secretary Chandler, Edwin D. Morgan, of New York, and John C. New are mentioned, with probabilities in favor of the latter. A general reorganization of the department will follow a new appointment. Bluford Wilson will be one of the first removals. There are good grounds for believing that a general reorganization of the Cabinet will take place within a few weeks. Attorney-General Pierrepont will be a candidate for the Court of St. James, in place of Gen. Schenck, whose recall is certain. Judge Taft, of Ohio, is mentioned as Pierrepont's successor. Secretary Fish may possibly be selected to succeed Schenck, as it is said to be left entirely to his own preference. In that case Pierrepont will succeed Mr. Fish. Ex-Senator Ramsey, of Minnesota, it is stated, will take the Postoffice Department, in order that Mr. Jewell may enter the Gubernatorial canvass in Connecticut. As Assistant Postmaster, Gen. Barber, of Michigan, and Gen. Hawley, of Rock Island, are prominently mentioned.

Average Crops and Prices for 1875.

The bi-monthly report of the Department of Agriculture for January and February is mainly devoted to a review of the crops and prices for 1875, giving much interesting information. The eight largest corn-producing States show a very gratifying increase in yield. The average number of bushels per acre is given, as follows:

States.	1872.	1873.	1874.	1875.
Tennessee	28.8	22.5	16.8	30.5
Kentucky	31.2	29.5	25	35.0
Ohio	39.5	35	36	38.2
Indiana	38.7	25.6	27	34.5
Illinois	30.8	21	18	34.5
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Missouri	37	33.5	16	30.6
Kansas	38.5	30.1	10.5	38.4

The average prices obtained per bushel for the past four years were as follows:

States.	1872.	1873.	1874.	1875.
Tennessee	$0.48	$0.58	$0.60	$0.41
Kentucky	37	44	53	41
Ohio	34	42	58	44
Indiana	29	40	51	39
Illinois	24	32	56	34
Iowa	28	32	43	27
Missouri	32	38	74	28
Pennsylvania	80	80	76	58
North Carolina	63	64	72	60
Texas	43	80	75	83

The yield of the wheat crop showed a remarkable diminution compared with the three preceding years, as will be seen by this table of average bushels per acre:

States.	1872.	1873.	1874.	1875.
New York	12.5	13.8	15.5	9
Pennsylvania	10.8	14.2	14.8	12.8
Ohio	11.7	12	15	9.5
Michigan	13	12.2	14.2	13.5
Indiana	12.4	11.2	12.3	9
Illinois	12.1	13.5	11.5	10.5
Wisconsin	14.3	16.5	11.5	14
Minnesota	16.5	18.3	13.4	17
Iowa	12.6	13	11.6	9.7
Missouri	8.8	12.8	13.5	9
Kansas	11.6	14	13.7	12.5
California	12.3	13.5	13.2	11

The following are the average prices obtained for the past four years:

States.	1872.	1873.	1874.	1875.
New York	$1.65	$1.60	$1.26	$1.31
Pennsylvania	1.67	1.50	1.21	1.29
Ohio	1.42	1.31	1.04	1.09
Michigan	1.46	1.36	1.08	1.15
Indiana	1.32	1.22	94	97
Illinois	1.23	1.10	86	91
Wisconsin	1.03	97	88	91
Minnesota	83	80	70	86
Iowa	85	79	65	71
Missouri	1.41	1.13	83	96
California	1.11	1.32	99	1.16

Bismarck's Autograph—How a Michigan Girl Obtained It.

The Grand Rapids (Mich.) Eagle prints an extract from a letter written in Berlin, by a daughter of a resident of Grand Rapids, to Hon. Elliott T. Slocum of the same city. She says:

Among my Christmas presents was a beautiful autograph album, bound in in black and silver. I said, immediately, this shall be a distinctly German book; it will be a delightful souvenir of this winter passed in Berlin. "Oh, if I only could have Bismarck's autograph! I do admire him so much." Everybody laughed at me, and said perhaps some of the officers could procure for me a document which he had signed. But I thought it would be nicer to have something directly from him; so one day I sent the following note, written in English, so as to make more impression:

To His Highness Prince Bismarck:

A young American girl who, during two winters passed in Germany, has learned to truly love Das Vaterland, would feel inexpressibly honored to be able to carry back to America the autograph of the greatest living statesman. Begging that this request may not be considered a most unwarrantable intrusion, with the deepest respect,

LORRAINE F. WOOD.

I thought it very improbable I should received any answer. So imagine, if you can, my delight, when a large envelope was brought by the postman yesterday, with Bismarck's own private arms in a great red seal on the back. Inclosed was my note, with his written in a large, striking hand on the blank side of the paper:

I am sorry to state that I cannot do even for a young lady, what I have oftener refused to those of older years.

BISMARCK.

Was it not cunning in him to send his autograph while refusing to send it? Every one thinks he must be intensely amused at my having the courage to write, and that "the greatest living statesman," and my name Lorraine, which I took pains to write very distinctly, increased the effect. I am glad, too, that he returned my note, and shall paste letter, seal and all into my book; so I shall have the whole extent of the correspondence.

A CENTENNIAL VETERAN.

A Man Who Listened to a Speech from Washington, and Who Belonged to a Fire Company in 1799.

Michael Edwards, Sr., of Moundsville, Pa., is now in his one hundred and ninth year. When at Moundsville, a few days ago, a correspondent had a short interview with the old gentleman. It was something to look upon a man whose birth dated back to the 17th of August, 1767, and to hear him tell of seeing Gen. Washington in the streets of his native town ere yet the Father of his Country had reached the zenith of his great fame. Mr. Edwards thinks he remembers when the news of the Declaration of Independence was brought to York, Pa., where he then lived. He remembers hearing Washington make a short speech in York, after the war, in which, among other things, he said that there was likely to be, sometime in the future, a war, caused by office seekers, that would be worse than the Revolution. He cast his first vote for Washington, for President, and voted for him both times, and after him for John Adams. He left York in 1801 and went out to Washington, Pa., where he was married in 1805 to Miss Eleanor Cady, a lady nineteen years his junior. They lived together fifty-three years, she dying in 1858. The family consisted of four boys, all still living, the oldest of whom is now in his seventieth year. Mr. Edwards lived at Washington until 1835, at which time he moved to Moundsville, where he has since resided. He worked at his trade (gunsmithing) until he was between eighty and ninety years of age. When he was in his ninety-third year he walked from Wheeling to Moundsville in about two hours and a half, a feat that many young men could not rival. He has seldom been severely sick in his life, although he has never taken extra care of his health; chewed and smoked tobacco, and taken an occasional glass of liquor, although not addicted to drink. His general habit has been to rise and retire at an early hour, and during the most of his life has seldom slept after four in the morning. He comes of a long-lived ancestry, as do most persons who attain great age, his mother having lived to be upward of one hundred and three years old.

In the fall of 1870, in his one hundred and fourth year, Mr. Edwards revisited the scenes of his childhood in York, Pa., and while there received quite an ovation from its citizens. Among other tokens of respect, he was presented with a gold-headed cane by the members of the Laurel Company, of which company he was the oldest surviving member. The company had him charged on their books with a fine of 11 pence "for non-attendance on the evening of 30th March, 1799," and while there the Secretary, as a good joke, tendered him a bill, which, principal and interest, amounted to $4.81.

At the coming Centennial celebration at Philadelphia there will not be many greater curiosities to be seen than old Mr. Edwards. There will be present a few venerable men of the past like Mr. Edwards, who were children in 1776, who may perchance remember the Fourth of July of that eventful year, and they will be, as indeed they ought to be, among the most interesting features of the exhibition.

Name of the Deity in Forty-Eight Languages.

The following list, comprising the name of God in forty-eight languages, was compiled by the well-known French philologist, Louis Burger, in the following manner: One day, as he was walking along the streets of Paris, he heard a voice beseeching him to buy some nuts. Upon looking back he discovered that it was the voice of his old barber who was gaining a scanty living by selling nuts on the street. To aid him he hastily made out and gave him the following list:

Hebrew—Elohim.
Chaldaic—Elah.
Assyrian—Eleah.
Syriac and Turkish—Alah
Malay—Allah.
Arabic—Allah.
Language of Magi—Oris.
Old Egyptian—Teut.
Armorian—Teuti.
Modern Egyptian—Teun
Greek—Theos.
Cretan—Thios.
Eolian and Doric—Ilos.
Latin—Deus.
Low Latin—Diex.
Celtic and Gallic—Diu.
French—Dieu.
Spanish—Dios.
Portuguese—Deos.
Old German—Diet.
Provencal—Dieu.
Low Breton—Doue.
Italian—Dio.
Irish—Dia.
German and Swiss—Got.
Flemish—Goed.
Dutch—Godt.
English & old Saxon—God
Teutonic—Goth.
Danish and Swedish—Gut
Norwegian—Gud.
Slave—Buch.
Polish—Bog.
Pollacca—Bung.
Lapp—Jubinal.
Finnish—Jumula.
Runic—As.
Zemblian—Fetizo.
Pannonian—Istu.
Hindostanee—Rain.
Coromandel—Brama.
Tartar—Magatal.
Persian—Sire.
Chinese—Prussa.
Japanese—Goezur.
Madagascar—Zannar.
Peruvian—Puchecammae
Olalu Tongue—Deu.

By the sale of these lists the barber was enabled to make as good a living, if not better, than M. Burger himself.—Tablet.

Senator Christiancy and His Bride.

The Washington correspondent of the Troy Times writes: "Society has been struck to its profoundest depths this week by the marriage of Senator Christiancy, of Michigan, to Miss Lugerbeel, of the Bureau of Engraving. That is, she was a female Treasury clerk. She was poor, pretty and young, while he is rich, rather homely, and old. It was the union of spring and winter, youth and age, and of course the gossips will talk. Some of our elderly ladies hold that a man of sixty four has no business to marry a girl of nineteen, and that due respect to the late Mrs. Christiancy should have kept him out of a second marriage so soon as this, but the young lady was pretty and willing, and the Senator is a good deal of an "independent" and got married as he votes—to suit himself and his own convenience. Miss Lugerbeel steps from a clerk's desk into the forefront of Washington society, not only as a Senator's wife but as the wife of a wealthy man. A month ago she counted carefully her horse-car tickets, and now she has her carriage and pair like the wife of the British Minister!"

SHE stood in a wagon, in Loretto, Ky., and he was on a high doorstep. They tried to kiss each other, and leaned recklessly out of plumb. His nose was broken on the pavement, disfiguring him for life, and her head got so hard a thump that she was delirious for several days.

JOY OF INCOMPLETENESS.

If all our lives were one broad glare
Of sunlight clear, unclouded;
If all our path were smooth and fair,
By no soft gloom enshrouded;
If all life's flowers were fully blown
Without the sweet unfolding,
And happiness were rudely thrown
On hands too weak for holding—
Should we not miss the twilight hours,
The gentle haze and sadness?
Should we not long for storms and showers,
To break the constant gladness?

If none were sick and none were sad,
What service could we render?
I think if we were always glad
We scarcely could be tender.
Did our beloved never need
Our patient administration,
Earth would grow cold, and miss indeed
Its sweetest consolation;
If sorrow never claimed our heart,
And every wish were granted,
Patience would die and hope depart—
[illegible]

And yet in heaven is no night,
In heaven is no more sorrow!
Such unimagined new delight
Fresh grace from pain will borrow—
As the poor seed that underground
Seeks its true life above it,
Not knowing what will there be found
When sunbeams kiss and love it;
So we in darkness upward grow,
And look and long for heaven,
But cannot picture it below,
Till more of light be given.

Pith and Point.

A WASTE of "t"—Putting it in depot.

DIET for lovesick maidens—Tenderlines.

MAN alone is born crying, lives complaining and dies disappointed.

ISN'T an aim without a name synonymous with an ominous anonymous?

WHEN does a farmer double a sheep without hurting it? When he folds it.

A MAN who has tried it says that grumbling at meal-time helps meat to digest as well as laughter.

THE Princess Beatrice looks scornfully at poverty stricken suitors of noble birth. She does not wish to be understood as standing in the way of Americans.

Two Irishmen traveling, were robbed and tied in a wood. One, in despair, cried: "Och, I am undone!" Said the other: "Faix then I wished you would come and undo me."

GAS Company President—"Ah, we must accommodate ourselves to the times. Announce a reduction of ten cents a thousand feet in the price of gas—and add a couple thousand feet on each bill." —Comic Monthly.

WHEN a man detects a missing button after getting on a clean shirt, no one in the house is aware of the fact. He takes off the shirt and puts on another, quietly smiling all the while. He never, never speaks of it to a soul.

FORWARD and loquacious youth: "By Jove, you know—upon my word, now—if I were to see a ghost, you know, I would be a chattering idiot for the rest of my life." Ingenious maiden: "Haven't you seen a ghost?"

"MRS. SPLINKS," observed a boarder to the landlady of a Munson street caravansary; "the equal adjustment of this establishment could be more safely secured if there was less hair in the hash and more in the mattresses."—Danbury News.

NOT long since a little girl in Lexington, Ky., composed and published a sentence of forty-two letters, embracing all the letters of the alphabet. The sentence is as follows: "John Q. Pardy gave me a black walnut box of small size."

THE fighting among the Chinamen at Austin, Nev., continued until the lawyers began to send in their bills for defending the belligerents. Under this sudden stroke of civilization John wilted, and now he murmurs "dam big mouf takee allee heap," when a lawyer passes his way.

THE other day, up in Watertown, the wind blew a lady directly into a gentleman's arms, and ever since that time, whenever Old Probabilities indicates breezy weather, the sidewalks of the town are so crowded with young men as to render them almost impassable.

THE editor of the Boston Pilot is Mr. Patrick Donahoe, of which fact the following extract from his editorial columns contains inherent testimony: "Charles O'Conor is strong enough to attend to business—and all because he was a natural, healthy man, and took no physic. If people would let nature alone, or at most give her a helping hand, it would be well for them."

THERE is something so sensible in the following that it is worth setting down: The young woman who deliberately goes lately to church to attract attention as she scrapes down the aisle is a foolish virgin. The young man who plasters his hair down straight to a low, retreating forehead, bridges his nose with eye-glasses, and wears a loud cape, when he comes late to a concert, and strikes attitudes at the audience before the door while he glares about for a seat, and then stalks to it with the proud air of a prize mule at a country fair, is a snob.

HOW THEY DID IT.

They were sitting side by side,
And she sighed, and then he sighed.
Said he, "My darling idol!"
And he idled, and then she idled.
"You are creation's belle,"
And she bellowed, and then he bellowed.
"On my soul there's such a weight,"
And he waited, and then she waited.
"Your hand I ask, so bold I'm grown,"
And he groaned, and then she groaned.
"You shall have your private gig,"
And she giggled, and then he giggled.
Said she, "My dearest Luke—"
And he looked, and then she looked.
"I'll have thee, if thou wilt,"
And he wilted, and then she wilted.

To Preserve the Color of Calicoes.

Before washing almost any colored fabrics it is recommended to soak them for some time in water, to every gallon of which is added a spoonful of ox-gall. A teacup of lye in a pail of water is said to improve the color of black goods, when it is necessary to wash them. A strong, clean tea of common hay will preserve the color of French linens. Vinegar in the rinsing water, for pink or green, will brighten those colors, and soda answers the same purpose for both purple and blue. The colors of the above fabrics may be preserved by using a strong milk-warm lather of white soap, and putting the dress into it, instead of rubbing it on the material, and stirring into a first and second tub of water a large tablespoonful of ox-gall.

THE horse-car poetry has incited a rebellion in New York, and the cry is now: "No seat, no fare." This is a slip, between the cup and the lip, which the lyrical conductaire has not provided for.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, MAR., 2, 1876.

If the Chicago Tribune is not a truly loyal Republican paper, where are we to find one? And yet the Indianoplois Jurnal sneers at it because it called the convention there few days ago Indiana Idots.

There is some complaint already over the speculating in hotel accomodations at Cincinnati, and a movement is on foot to change the place of meeting of the National Republican Convention to Chicago or elsewhere. They claim at Cincinnati that this is a ruse of Morton and Blaine to take the convention away from that place because of the growing popularity of Bristow.

The health of speaker Kerr has been rapidly declining since he has been discharging the duties of speaker of the house, and last week that body, at his request, proceeded to elect a speaker pro tempore. Randall, of Pennsylvania was solicited by the speaker to take the position, but he declined, when Cox, of New York, was chosen. The friends of speaker Kerr are fearful that he will be unable to discharge the duties of the position at any time during the remainder of the session.

It is contrary to common sense and self-presevation to think it possible that the American people, through partisan political feelings, will sacrifice and abolish their patriotic, national name, independence and liberty, because of the cunning, tricky leadership of political demagogues, who wish and expect to ride into the presidential chair on the shoulders of an over-taxed oppressed deceived and betrayed people. It is our duty to our county, our children and to posterity to strictly examine and criticise the chance and pretentions of the different pretenders and bold aspirants for the office of president of the United States. Senator Morton feels confident of securing the desired prise and Congressman Blaine feels no less confident of triumphing over all competitors in the race for president in the year 1876. Both these aspirants have been bold, out-spoken political heroes who think and believe that their strong inflaming blazing speeches and opposition to the amnesty bill will land one of them in the white House—a bill intended by its originators to forget and forgive to bury the hatchet and to heal up the festering political wounds of the north and south. And the people of the north and south shall and will fraternise as one family of brothers and one nation of undivided patridtic people. It is the opinion of the most reasonable discreet and conservative part of our people that the anticonciliatory speeches of the trio of bloody shirt politicians Blaine B. Butler and Morton have a tendency to do anything but elevate such impolitic uncompromising firebrands to be president of the United States. To call either of these three crafty, gabby and irreconcilable politicians a statesman, would descerate the dignified name. The American people have too great a sense of generous feelings to their fellow-citizens of the southern states than to be influenced by demagogue partsian speeches of would-be presidents of this vast country and commonwealth.

President Grant as yet is in the background The Cincinnati republican convention will bring that notorious gentleman to the front. The vast army of rich bloated officeholders in order to secure and continue their money making will do anything and everything to secure his election their opposition rivals are yet unknown— Sufficient is the day the good thereof Time will prove.

Will the people or will they not re-elect to high office power and trust honorable and worthy gentleman whose names and characters are above suspicion and impeachment? The simple and honest people are surprised and stagnated when informed of the terrible and general system of government robbery by its own official employes and are known as republicans etc. The uncorrupted peomanry are emphatic in their bitter hatred against all government evil-doers as public demoralizers of the nation and cry aloud we must and will change the character of our rulers in both politics and morals. To accomplish this must be necessary and our people must select and elect the best and purest men of our country to fill all the offices which ought to be by election by the people; and when our reparsentatives—who are the honored servants of the people—act with fidelity honor and industry and do their duty to their constituents they deserve well of the people.

THE FAVORITE

HOME REMEDY.

Is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which the all-wise providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure any diseases caused by derangement of the liver or Bowels.

Stimulate the liver and prevent

CHILLS AND FEVER.

Simon's Liver Regulator, or Med'e

Is eminently a Family Medicine, and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour if suffering and many a dollar in time and doctors' bills.

After over forty years trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtue from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Emi ent physicians commend it as the most for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the shoulders Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth billious attacks, Palpitation of the heart pain in the region of the kidneys, despondency, gloom and forbidings of evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased liver.

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, poor appetite and tongue coated you are suffering from torpid liver, or billiousness and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the liver the largest organ in the body is generally the seat of the disease and is not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will come.

Armed with this antidote, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a remedy in Malarious fevers, Bowel complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice, Nausea, it is the cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world.

CAUTION.—Buy no powders or prepared Simons' Livert Regulator unless in our engraved wrapper, with Trade Mark Stamp, and Signature unbroken. None other is genuine.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.
Macon, Ga., and Philadelphia.

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug tore.

CHICAGO, ROCKISLAND AND Pacific Railroad.

The Direct Route for

JOLLIET, MORRIS, LA SALLE, PERU, HENON LACON, PEORI, GENESEO, MOLINE, ROCK ISLAND, DAVENPORT MUSCATINE, WASHINGTON IOWA CITY, GRINNELL, NEWTON, DES MOINES,

Council Bluffs and Omaha

WITHOUT CHANGE OF CARS,

Where it joins with the Union Pacific Railroad for Denver, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, San Francisco and

All Points West of the Pacific Coast.

Trains leave daily as follows:

Omaha, Leavenworth & Atchison Express, [Sundays excepted]	10 00 a m
Peru Accommodation [Sat ex]	5 00 p m
Omaha Express [Sun ex]	10 00 p m

KANSAS LINE.

The Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co, have now opened their Southwestern Division between Leavenworth and Chicago, connecting at Leavenworth with Kansas Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads and at Atchison with Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Central Branch, Union Pacific and Atchison and Nebraska railroads, for all points in Kansas, Indian Territories, Colorado and New Mexico.

This company have built a full complement of Palace Drawing room and sleeping cars, which for external beauty and interrior arrangements for the comfort, convenience and luxury of passengers are unexcelled if equalled, by any other cars of the kind in the world.

Through Tickets for sale at all General Railway offices in the States and Canada.

HUGH RIDDLE, Gen Supt.
A. M. SMITH Gen Pass Agent.

CALIFORNIA.

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY

Embraces under the management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the West and North-west, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, California and the Western Territories. Its

Omaha, & California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line.

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and for Madison, St. Paul Minneapolis, Duluth and all points in the great Northwest. Its

Winona and St Peter Line

Is the only rout for Winona, Rochester, Owotonna Mankato, St Peter, New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Jonesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghtion, Handcock and the Lake Superior Country. Its.

Freeport and Debuque Line

Is the only rout for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its.

Chicago & Milwauke Line

Is the old Lake Shore route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

Pullmun Palace Cars

are run on all through trains on the road.

This is the only line running these cars between Chicago and St Paul Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our sleepers connect with the Overland sleepers on the Union Pacific railroad for all points west of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago & North-Western Railway leaves Chicago as follows

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St Paul and Minneopolis, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, two trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four through trains daily, Pullman Cars on night trains Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta and Winona and points in Minnesota, One through train daily, with Pullman sleepers to Winona

For Debuque, via Freeport, two through trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, two through trains daily with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, two trains daily Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, four trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Jonesville, and other points, you can have from two to ten trains daily.

New York Office, No. 415 Broadway, Boston office No. 5 State Street, Omaha office, 253, Farnham Street San Francisco office. 121, Montgomery Street, Kinzie Street Depot, corner of W. Kinzie and Canal Streets Wells Street Depot, corner of Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agent apply to

W. STENNETT, Gen. Pass Agt. Chicago.
MARVIN HUGHITT, Genl Supt, Chicago.

S. U. Tarney
AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Store first door north of Miller & Caseboer's store.

1876. Our Centennial Gift! 1876.

A FREE GIFT.

A Round trip ticket to Philadelphia and return, good six months, gratis. A chance for any one to visit the greatest exhibiiion in the world's history.

SAM, PETE & MAX, offer a most magnanimous present to their multitude of friends. Every purchaser of Five Dollars worth of Clothing at our store will secure a chance to draw one of the ten (10) round trip tickets, to the Centennial, which will be distributed July 1st, place and manner of drawing will be made known in time through the press, and Famous Star Clothing House

SAM, PETE & MAX,

Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Geo. DeWald & Co.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Have always on hand the largest and best stock of Dry Goods, Notions and Ladies Dress Goods in the city. Our citizens when visiting Fort Wayne, should not fail call and examine their stock of

DRY GOODS.

They can make it to the interest of every person who trade with them. They buy for cash and sell for cash, keep the best goods and sell for one price. Also agents for the Domestic Patersns

Their store is located at No. 1 Columbia Street.

GEO. DE WALD & CO.

Fruit House Bulletin

All Goods Retailed at Wholesale Prices

This is the Only Secret of Our Immense Trade.

we purchase at first hands and sell direct to the consumer, so there is no middlemen to eat up profits. Some goods—take teas for instance—pass through four different hands before they reach consumers, and each one has to have his profit, so that 40 to 50 per cent. is added to price. the impore has his profit of 10 per cent., the jobbing merchant his profit of 10 per cent., the speculator and whol sale merchants, 10 to 20 per cent. and the retailer all he can get. So Sugars, Coffees, Spices, Prune. Fruits, Tobaccos, Liquors, or anything we deal in. Our customers get the benefit of all these inter mediate profits, No middlemen with us. We are having a great run on Prunes. The Finest

PRUNES ONLY 8c A POUND.

They hardly ever sell lower than 12½c, and when you consider that Dried Apples are 12c, we all know a pound of Prunes will go farther and are considered much richer eating.

TEAS REDUCED

"A penny saved is two pence got." Ten cents reduction on teas. The continued dullness in trade i a east, coupled with tee large number of failures in the tea trade, has completely demoralized th orket. Teas we used to sell at $1,40, and lately $1,10 per pound, we now sell at $1 per pound. Eithe oung Hyson, Imperial or Gunpowder, the very best qualities, now $1 per pound. The best uncolored Japan now 80c, was 90c, the best Oolong now 35c, was 95c. Other grades as low 25c per pound, up to 30 60, and 70c per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	20 and 30c
Second Best Rio,	23c

Sugars.

New Orleans and Refined Granulated Crushed and Powdered	11c	New Orleans clarified	9c
Coffee A.	10½c	" "	8c
" C.	10c	Good brown	6c

CANNED FRUITS.

Peaches per can	15c	Pumpkin per can	9c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Hominey per can	10c
Canned Corn, per can	10 and 20c

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia Raisins, per pound	12½c	Peaches per pound	22c
Pitted Cherries per pound	35c	Apples per pound	11c
Raspberries per pound	45c

Wines and Liquors.

Good Whiskey, one year old, per gallon	$1 00	Port and Sherry Wines, per gallon, bottle	1 50, in 50c
Rye Whiskey, two years old	1 25	Sweet Angelica and California Muscatel, per gallon, 3 00; in bottles	70c
Three year old	1 75 3 00	Whiskey in bottles	30c and 50c
The $3 is for medical use and no better is sold anywhere.
CANDIES—Best Stick per pound	18c	French Mixed, choice, per pound	20c

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

Good Navy and Twist, per pound.	45 and 50c	Smoking Tobacco	25c. best 40
Fine Kentucky Bright	60 and 70c	Shorts, best	37c

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Coal Oil and Kose Oil, per gallon,	20c	Machine Oil, Dark Virginia, per gallon
Fish Oil and Lard Oil, per gallon	1 00	Best Refined	70c
Neatsfoot Oil, per gallon	$1 00

We are Bound to Keep up Our Reputation of Underselling all others And Save You at least

25 Cents on the Dollar

Fruit House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

Having purchased the Furniture Store formerly occupied by Mr WM. LONG, I will keep a full assortment of everything in the line of

FurniturE

I buy for cash and can therefore sell at LOWER RATES than those who buy on time.

FINE BED ROOM SETS

AND PARLOR SETS.

furnished customers at prices that cannot fail to suit. First-class workman employed to manufacture to order. I especially desire everybody to call and price my goods before buying elsewhere.

Rooms on Main-st., opposite Shull's new brick.

A. C. Dawson

Lumber,

Lath, Shingles, Doors, Sash, Lime, &c.

than ever before brought to Auburn. We are selling at the Lowest Bottom Prices!

and Defy Competition.

Lumber by the WAGON or CAR load

ALWAYS ON HAND!

YARD ON SOUTH JACKSON STREET.

F. N. WRIGHT & CO.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR ALL KIDS OF

FAMILY GROCERIES!

The undersigned offers at the very lowest figures the following line of goods.

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Tobaccos, Flour, Canned Fruit, and all Kinds of Groceries found in a first-class establishment. Teas, from 40c to $1.00 per pound. Sugars from 6 to 12c best Rio Coffee 25c Fine Cut Tobacco 55c to $1,00 per pound

Also in connection with the above we have the largest and best assortment of

QUEENS WARE,

GLASS WARE.

STONE WARE

ever offered for sale in this county.

Highest CASH price paid for all kinds of country produce. Competent clerks to wait upon German customers. At Cool's old stand.

ROBERT ZACHER.

Rather Monotonous.

Six or seven days ago an old man entered the store of a Detroit hardware man, who also deals in seeds, and, inquiring for the proprietor, soon stood face to face with him.

"Want to see me?" asked the dealer.

"Yes, sir, I do! Seven years ago this coming spring I bought a paper of seeds of you!"

"I presume so."

"I'll swear to it, sir! Seven years ago, sir, and not one of those seeds came up!"

"Well, that's funny," laughed the other.

"You may think it was," said the old man, "but I'll make it cost you $10,000! When you sold me those seeds, sir, you did not know that you were dealing with Dodds."

"Well, you stop your blowing and get out of here!"

"Give me a package of cabbage seeds, sir!"

"I wont!"

The old man went away, but in an hour returned and said in a loud voice:

"Seven years ago this coming spring I bought a package of seeds at this store. Not one of those seeds arose from the soil!"

He was ordered out, and he went out. He was there next morning as soon as the proprietor was, and he said:

"Seven years ago this coming spring you sold me a package of seeds. Not one single seed matured to manhood!"

He was put out that time, but he returned in the afternoon, when the store was full of customers, and exclaimed:

"Seven years ago this coming spring I was swindled by that man there! He sold me a package of garden seeds, not one seed of which ever throve!"

When he went out something hit him three or four times in the back. He went down the street for awhile, and then returned and stood in front of the store and said to the people who passed:

"Seven years ago this coming spring this store here sold me garden seeds that never sprouted!"

He repeated the words over and over until a crowd began to gather, when he was called in and given a dozen papers of seed and told to forgive and forget.

"Six papers of onion seed to pay for the choking!" he said as he buttoned his overcoat.

They were given him, and when stowed away he remarked, "Six papers of cucumber seeds to pay for four kicks!"

After some argument these were handed him, and as he backed out of doors he said:

"It's all right. You've acted like a man about it, and if you want any vegetables next fall I'll make a discount to you!"—Detroit Free Press.

Clergymen's Salaries.

Some of the more distinguished of New York's clergymen will not suffer the pangs of hunger right away if their salaries are any indication of their abundance of the comforts of this life. The preacher who receives the highest salary in this country is the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. For several years past his salary has been $20,000 per annum. In addition to this, it is safe to say that he received $5,000 per annum for various lectures delivered by him in the winter season. His salary as editor of the Christian Union was $10,000 per annum, and from the Christian Union Publishing Company he one year received $10,000 for a "Life of Christ." Beside all this he is in receipt of an annual income as author's percentage on the sale of his works, so that his income for several years past has been in the neighborhood of $40,000 per annum. His salary this year, it will be remembered, was raised to $100,000. The Rev. Dr. John Hall has a salary of $10,000, gold, per annum, and he also adds to his income by writing and lecturing. The Rev. Dr. Hepworth, of the Church of the Disciples, was in receipt of a salary of $10,000 per annum until recently. The Rev. Dr. Storrs, of the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn, receives a salary of $10,000 per annum. He was offered an advanced salary by one of the New York Congregational churches some time ago, but was induced to remain with his old charge. The Rev. Dr. Budington, also one of the best known of Brooklyn pastors, receives $10,000 per annum. The Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, the Rector of Trinity, receives $10,000 per annum. He has two or three assistants, who receive from $4,000 to $6,000 each. The senior minister of St. Paul's receives $10,000, and his assistant $4,000. The Rev. Dr. Weston, for many years past the pastor of St. John's Church, receives $10,000 salary, and has an assistant at $4,000. The pastor who officiates at Trinity Chapel also receives $10,000, and has one or more assistants. The Rev. Dr. Chapin also receives $10,000 salary. The Rev. Dr. Schenck, rector of St. Ann's, the fashionable Episcopalian Church, Brooklyn, receives $10,000.—Chicago Tribune.

Needless Inconvenience.

Any person possessed of ordinary powers of observation cannot fail to discover a great deal of unnecessary work, which, by a little forethought, might be dispensed with. I do not now speak of those who fail to provide themselves with proper implements for doing work, and in this way waste time enough each year to more than replace them with the best and most approved patterns. I intend to speak of inconveniences some of which exist on almost every farm. All are said to have their failures in some particular, no matter how well arranged their business may be as a whole. I have seen premises apparently well ordered otherwise, which were provided with neither post or hook where a visitor could hitch a horse. Not one in a hundred is provided with a horseshed. I know an old man, now four score, who has always drawn his manure and produce through a deep slough, between his barn and field. Ten dollars expended in labor would have made a good road. The saving in a single year would have more than repaid the outlay, to say nothing of the increased comfort of all concerned. A neighbor has for years drawn his hay on wood wagons which would not carry more than half a load. The extra time wasted in loading and unloading, every year, would furnish good convenient hay racks. I knew a man who drew all the water for his stock in a leaky milk can attached to a rope. Half the water escaped before reaching the trough. I once knew a whole neighborhood who depended on one long cart which went the rounds as each one hauled out manure, or did any work which required a cart to be tilted. I have walked hundreds of miles out of my way, when tired, to cross a stream which lay between the house and the pasture. We afterward bridged it at a very few dollars' expense. I have known a whole highway district to turn out for years to avoid a stone, which has since been removed at the expense of only eight cents. These are only a few of the marked instances which have come under my observation.—Country Gentleman.

Fish Culture in Iowa.

The Fish Commissioners of Iowa have issued their first report, and it is a pamphlet of great interest. It not only states what has been done in the work of stocking Iowa lakes and rivers with the gamiest fish, but contains a large amount of information in regard to the science of pisciculture.

It was only two years ago that the Legislature of Iowa by an act created the Board of Commissioners, and set aside $3,000 to aid them in starting this noble enterprise. With that small appropriation a hatching house 20x40 feet, and two stories high, was erected near Anamosa, Jones County, under the supervision of Mr. B. B. Shaw, a resident of that place, and one of the Commissioners. The $3,000 not only paid for the house, but also the salary of an assistant and a great number of fish which have been distributed. From the report we learn that, in accordance with an act of the last General Assembly, all dams erected during the last two years have had fish-ways built under the supervision of the Commissioners. The cost of these fish-ways varies from $50 to $1,000, according to height of fall, amount of water, character of the dam, and other circumstances. The law requiring the building of these fish-ways was a wise enactment, indispensable to the success of the enterprise, and thus far has been strictly complied with. But the work of the General Assembly under this head is not completed. A general law requiring fish-ways to be constructed on all dams must be enacted, otherwise the labors of the Commissioners will be of very little avail. By making the work general, all the people will be benefited, and the value of property all over the State will be greatly enhanced. There is, no doubt, wisdom enough in the legislative body now in session to see this point, and that the needed law is secured.

New York, Michigan and other States are devoting $10,000 or $15,000 annually to pisciculture, and Iowa will need from $5,000 to $7,000 to carry forward the grand enterprise which she has commenced. Certain kinds of fish, not yet introduced, have to be transported in aquariums, and many other outlays will be necessary in order to perfect the work so nobly begun, and make it a paying enterprise to the commonwealth. The States which started years ago in fish culture are reaping a rich reward for the expenditure of funds, and Iowa, so noted for enterprise in many respects, will not halt in this.

A Spanish Note of Explanation.

The Spanish Government has sent to its representatives abroad a memorandum, instructing them to read it to foreign Ministers, and to leave a copy if required. The memorandum, after pointing out that the Cuban insurrection is no longer led by natives of the island, but by foreign adventurers, continues: "Negroes, mulattoes, Chinese, and deserters form the bulk of the insurgent forces. Their army contains scarcely 800 white Cubans, while more than 40,000 of the latter are serving with the Royal volunteers. Spain cannot come to any terms with such elements. She can only, after having obtained a complete victory, grant to Cuba all the liberties which, but for the insurrection, she would already possess, and which the neighboring island of Porto Rico, where slavery has been entirely abolished, enjoys. Reinforcements numbering 28,000 men have been dispatched to Cuba within twelve months. The duration of the insurrection is in consequence of the difficulties of the country. Notwithstanding the insurrection, the trade of Cuba has doubled during ten years. The more fertile parts of the island are untouched by the insurrection, and only a few districts have suffered from it. All foreigners sustaining losses will be indemnified, and the embargo on foreign goods will be raised." The memorandum is considered as an indirect reply to the last note from the United States.

"This is Sleep Year."

A few days since, a Whitehaller called to pay his respects to a lady. He was obliged to wait in the parlor for some time for her to dress. As the gentleman had been broken of his rest the previous night, he unconsciously fell asleep. The lady entered the parlor soon afterward, and, comprehending the state of affairs, and wishing to enjoy a joke at the gentleman's expense, she sat down in a chair on the opposite side of the stove to await the awakening, and enjoy the astonishment of her caller. In a few moments a feeling of drowsiness began to creep over the fair one. She finally dropped off, fast asleep. The gentleman awoke, and, taking in the situation, thought he would turn the joke on his fair joker. Taking a card he wrote on it: "My dear Miss ——: As this is sleep year, I willingly accord you the privileges that your sex is entitled to once in four years. Sleep on, fair friend, yours."—Whitehall (Mich.) Times.

The Work at Pompeii.

In the work of excavations steadily progressing at Pompeii, there was recently uncovered a series of wooden tablets containing the accounts of a banker named Lucius Eccilius Jocundus. They were inclosed in a small wooden box which had been considerably charred on the outer surface. The leaves of the tablets are thin as pasteboard, and are tied together in sets of threes by a cord passing through holes in the edges. The outer pages, serving as covers, are clean and smooth, and the inner ones are coated with wax, and filled with accounts, which appear to be mainly records of loans. Near the tablets was found a bronze bust of the banker, bearing his name. From forty to sixty men are continually employed in the excavations under a subsidy from the Government of 600,000 francs. Up to date two-fifths of the area of the city have been examined.

Cambric Dresses for Spring.

Harper's Bazar says: The furnishing houses are busily manufacturing cambric and gingham suits for spring. These are made of checked, striped, and plaid Scotch ginghams, or else of percales or cambrics in gingham plaids of old-time pink and white, of blue with gray, or perhaps shaded brown. There is very little of novelty in the manner of making. The lower skirts are arranged so that they train slightly in the house, or may be shortened for the street. One or two bias-gathered scanty flounces is the trimming. The overskirt is a long apron sloped to the figure, with full back breadths that are caught up in a puff behind by means of a sash of the dress material. An end of this sash is sewed into the side seams, and then a large, long-looped bow is tied in the middle. This draws the front smoothly over the figure, and the back breadths are pulled over the sash in a puff. This skirt has the advantage of being easily ironed, as the sash and back breadths are readily straightened out. A single deep, full pocket is on the front. A hem, facing, or other plain edge, such as a striped border, is more in keeping with these skirts than a ruffle or pleating. The body may be a belted basque or a side-pleated waist, or else the baby waists or blouses once so popularly worn. New belted basques have the side forms of the back beginning on the shoulders instead of in the armholes, thus making the long seams now used in all corsages. The neck is finished with an English collar that is very high behind, and is turned over in white points in front. The sleeves are ordinary coat shape, with very simple cuff, or else with a pleating that falls over the wrist.

SHE couldn't find the tack-hammer, and Dobson complained that she looked too cursorily. He'd have to find it himself, he presumed. "Yes," said Mrs. D., "I wish you would. You won't look long till you curse orally, too." And he didn't.

A WASH that would usually take all day with ordinary soap, can be done in three hours, with Dobbins' Electric soap (made by Cragin & Co., Philadelphia), and it cannot injure the finest fabric. Try it.

Dr. Pierce.

From the Toledo Blade.

"Success is never achieved without merit." A man may make a poor article and sell it once, and there being 40,000,000 people in the United States, the sale to each one would be enough to make a decent fortune. But an article that holds the field year after year, and the sales of which increase regularly and rapidly, must have absolute merit.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., occupies our entire eighth page to-day with his various articles. We admit it, because we know the Doctor, and know of his articles. We know him to be a regularly educated physician, whose diploma hangs on the wall of his office, and we know that he has associated with him several of the most eminent practitioners in the country. We know that parties consult him, by mail and in person, from all the States in the Union every day, and that they are fairly and honestly dealt with.

This grand result has been accomplished by two agencies—good, reliable articles—articles which, once introduced, work easily their own way—and splendid business management. They have succeeded because they ought to have succeeded."

If you would patronize Medicines, scientifically prepared by a skilled Physician and Chemist, use Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines. Golden Medical Discovery is nutritious, tonic, alterative, and blood-cleansing, and an unequaled Cough Remedy; Pleasant Purgative Pellets, scarcely larger than mustard seeds, constitute an agreeable and reliable physic; Favorite Prescription, a remedy for debilitated females; Extract of Smart-Weed, a magical remedy for Pain, Bowel Complaints, and an unequaled Liniment for both human and horse-flesh; while his Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is known the world over as the greatest specific for Catarrh and "Cold in the Head" ever given to the public. They are sold by druggists.

20 YEARS A SUFFERER—CURED BY THE GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DR. R. V. PIERCE:

Dear Sir: Twenty years ago I was shipwrecked on the Atlantic Ocean, and the cold and exposure caused a large abscess to form on each leg, which kept continually discharging. I was attended by doctors in Liverpool, Havre, New Orleans, New York, and at the hospital on Staten Island (where the doctors wanted to take one leg off). Finally, after spending hundreds of dollars, I was persuaded to try your "Golden Medical Discovery," and now, in less than three months after taking the first bottle, I am thankful to say I am completely cured, and for the first time in ten years can put my left heel to the ground. I am at home nearly every evening and shall be glad to satisfy any person of the truth of this information. I am, sir, yours respectfully, WILLIAM RYDER

87 Jefferson Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

CHICAGO LEDGER—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD.—If Vegetine will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can be truly called the great blood purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

CHAPPED hands, face, pimples, ringworm, saltrheum, and other cutaneous affections cured, and rough skin made soft and smooth, by using Juniper Tar Soap. Be careful to get only that made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, as there are many imitations made with common tar, all of which are worthless.

CHEAPEST, best family paper in the world—CHICAGO LEDGER. See advertisement.

READ the advertisement of Louisville Weekly Courier-Journal. The best paper published.

Consumptives, Take Notice.—Every moment of delay makes your cure more hopeless, and much depends on the judicious choice of a remedy. The amount of testimony in favor of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for consumption, far exceeds all that can be brought to support the pretensions of any other medicine. See Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing the certificates of many persons of the highest respectability, who have been restored to health after being pronounced incurable by physicians of acknowledged ability. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many, as these evidences will show; but the cure is often promoted by the employment of two other remedies which Dr. Schenck provides for the purpose. These additional remedies are Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. By the timely use of these medicines, according to directions, Dr. Schenck certifies that most any case of Consumption may be cured.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. STINSON & CO., Portland, Me.

HOUSEKEEPERS rejoice. AGENTS make money with our 3 NEW articles. CAPEWELL & CO., Cheshire, Ct.

$10 to $25 per day Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

The best investment—SILVER-TIPPED Shoes. Five cents laid out for Silver Tips adds one dollar to the worth of a pair of shoes. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

Bound to go because everybody wants them. CABLE SCREW WIRE Boots and Shoes. They are durable, easy and dry. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

THE CHICAGO LEDGER

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST PAPER IN THE COUNTRY.

$1.50 PER ANNUM

Unexcelled by any Weekly Literary Publication, East or West.

A THREE DOLLAR PAPER FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A HALF.

Send your name and address and get a specimen copy. Address

THE LEDGER,
Chicago, Ill.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

20 FANCY CARDS, 7 styles, with name, 10c. Address J. B. HUSTED, Nassau, Rens. Co., N. Y.

5 Packages Farm Seeds, circulars of Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Sporting Dogs, etc., sent free for 2 stamps. N. P. BOYER, Parkesburg, Pa.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Washington St., Boston.

DIVORCES legally and quietly obtained for incompatibility, &c.; residence unnecessary; fee after decree. A. GOODRICH, P. O. Box 1037, Chicago.

RICH Books, Kurious Goods, Sporting Articles, etc. 64-page Book for two 3c. stamps. BALDWIN & CO., 111 Nassau St., N. Y.

$350 A Month.—Agents wanted. 24 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

A Miniature Oil Painting on Canvas which will be your own Likeness, free, with The Home Weekly, sent 3 months on trial for 25 cts. Money to Agents. L. T. LUTHER, Mill Village, Erie Co., Pa.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents. Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT New Double Bill Revolver Sent with 100 Cart. $3.00 ridges for $3. Full Nickel Plate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Illustrated Catalogue Free. Address WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill.

WE PAY $85 A MONTH and traveling expenses to SELL our Goods TO DEALERS in every county in the U. S. NO PEDDLING. Cincinnati Novelty Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

300 Per cent. profit to Agents. Portraits, &c., drawn by Machinery. For full particulars address Smithograph M'f'g Co., St. Louis, Mo.

MIND READING, PSYCHOMANCY, FASCINATION, Soul Charming, Mesmerism and Lovers' Guide, showing how either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose instantly. 400 pages. By mail, 50 cts. Hunt & Co., 139 S. 7th St., Phila.

ROSES 700 SUPERB VARIETIES ROSES. Half a Million Greenhouse Plants. Mailing Plants a Specialty. Illustrated Catalogue Free. E. Y. TEAS & CO. Richmond Ind.

CASH $7.00 daily, selling Copyright. Infallible rules used in U. S. Treasury for detecting counterfeits, with list of counterfeits in circulation. Copy sent postpaid for 50c. Agents wanted. B. J. THURSTON, 87 Broadway, Cincinnati, O.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to learn Telegraphy. Situations furnished. Steady promotion guaranteed. We supply all operators hired by Metropolitan and American District Telegraph Cos., Chicago. Address, with stamp, N. W. TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE, Janesville, Wis.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY. AGENTS make $100 weekly by canvassing for it: 128 pages, 90 illustrations, $3.50 yearly, with elegant chromo. Send 20 cents for copy and terms to FRANK LESLIE, New York.

BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S New Book outsells everything. Don't worry about hard times. Sell this book and see how easy they are. Send for circulars to American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 TRANSPARENT VISITING CARDS, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. NOVELTY PRINTING CO., Ashland, Mass.

BOOK AGENTS. MOODY & SANKEY.—The only original, authentic and complete record of these men and their works. Beware of imitations. SEND FOR CIRCULARS. American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

WANTED—A few intelligent Ladies and Gentlemen to solicit orders for CAPT. GLAZIER'S new work, "Battles for the Union." Just the book for Centennial times. All expenses advanced. References required. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO., Hartford, Conn.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio.

5,000 AGENTS WANTED to sell the Oriental Stationery and Jewelry Package, the largest, most complete and best-selling Package in the World. Samples with complete SETS of GOLD plated sleeve buttons, shirt studs and collar button. By mail 25 cents. Catalogues of Chromos and Novelties sent free. ORIENTAL NOVELTY CO., 111 Chambers St., N. Y.

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS

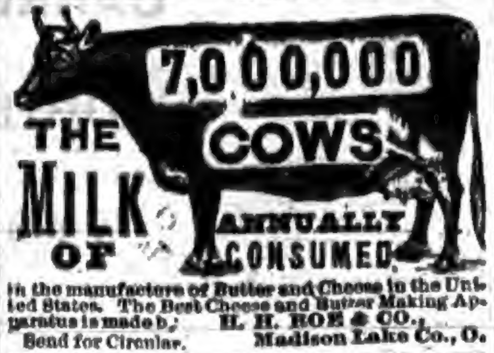
My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. WILLIAM E. BOWDITCH, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

ANY ONE WHO CANNOT GET LANDRETHS' GARDEN SEEDS. at home, can be supplied from Head-quarters, post-paid. Send 3-ct. stamp for Almanac, with Catalogue and prices.

D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

HO! For IOWA!!

TO FARMERS. Better Lands at Cheaper Prices cannot be had in the world, than from the Iowa R. R. Land Co. Soil and Climate strictly first-class. Pure Water abundant. Half Fare Tickets from Chicago out and back with Free Fare to Purchasers. A Descriptive Pamphlet with Maps of Over One Million Acres for sale at $5 and $6 on R. R. Terms sent free. Address Iowa R. R. Land Company, 92 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., or Cedar Rapids Iowa. JOHN B. CALHOUN, Land Commissioner.



in the manufacture of Butter and Cheese in the United States. The Best Cheese and Butter Making Apparatus is made by H. H. ROE & CO.,
Send for Circular. Madison Lake Co., O.

'76 —THE— LOUISVILLE WEEKLY '76
COURIER-JOURNAL

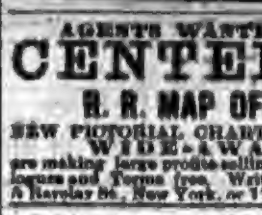
Is the great family newspaper of the country, adapted to every locality and to all the people. Live Editorials, Spicy Paragraphs. All the News, Copious Market and Finance Reports, Original Novels and Romances, Agriculture, and a full Grange Department—the very best general paper in the United States.

Standard Books, Magazines and Illustrated Papers in connection with the WEEKLY COURIER-JOURNAL at merely nominal prices.

Prentice's Poems, with Portrait and Biography, handsomely bound—a $2 book—and WEEKLY COURIER-JOURNAL one year, both postpaid, for only $3.

Terms—$2 a year, and $1.70, $1.60 and $1.50 in clubs. Best inducements to Agents and Subscribers ever offered. Sample copy and full descriptive circular FREE TO ANY ADDRESS. Write for them or send subscription to

'76 W. N. HALDEMAN, '76
Pres. Courier-Journal Co., Louisville, Ky.



Massillon Harvester
Buy the Best.
TWO men bind Ten Acres daily. Binders can ride or STAND. Address, EDWIN RUSSELL, Massillon, O.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL
R. R. MAP OF THE U. S.
NEW PICTORIAL CHARTS, Etc., for the TIMES.
WIDE-AWAKE MEN
are making large profits selling our fresh works. Catalogues and Terms free. Write to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., New York, or 174 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

S. H. HARRIS'
IMPROVED
CHICAGO SAFES
And VAULT DOORS are the Best.
Address S. H. HARRIS, Manufacturer, 53 and 55 Randolph St.

DO YOUR OWN PRINTING!
NOVELTY PRINTING PRESS.
For Professional and Amateur Printers, Schools, Societies, Manufacturers, Merchants, and others it is the BEST ever invented. 13,000 in use. Ten styles. Prices from $5.00 to $150.00. BENJ. O. WOODS & CO. Manuf'rs and dealers in all kinds of Printing Material, 49 Federal St. Boston.
Send stamp for Catalogue.)

MOODY! SANKEY!
Best Reports of the Great Revival are now published in the New York Witness. Trial Subscription price for One Month: Daily Witness, 25c.; Weekly Witness, 10 cents, postage paid. Every Farmer should take the Witness for the full reports of Provision, Grain, Live Stock Markets. Office, 2 Spruce St., New York. ☞ Please order it for a Month.

How to buy him. How to sell him. How to train him. How to tell a trotter. A NEW BOOK of great interest to Horsemen. Sent by mail for 50 cents. Address J. P. VINCENT, Box 50, Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza Young
BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19.
Selling at the rate of 1,000 a week. Full expose of the horrible system of Polygamy. Illustrated Circulars, with complete information free to all. Address nearest office of Dustin, Gilman & Co., Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O.

DEATH
Is delayed and life prolonged by using R. & T.'s Tonic Elixir and Liquid Extract of Beef. Physicians report many cures in Indigestion, Biliousness, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Piles, Lung, Liver, Bladder, Kidney and Blood diseases. Female Physicians say it never fails in FEMALE DISEASES and weaknesses, is a "God-send to females." Homeopathic and Old School Physicians report: "It never fails, the very medicine for children and females." "The only Liquid Extract of Beef with Tonics and Cathartics we will prescribe." Price $1 per bottle. RICHARDSON & TULLIDGE, CINCINNATI, O.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL
HISTORY OF THE U. S.
The great interest in the thrilling history of our country makes this the fastest-selling book ever published. It contains a full account of the approaching grand Centennial Exhibition.
CAUTION.—Old, Incomplete and Unreliable works are being circulated; see that the book you buy contains 442 Fine Engravings and 925 Pages.
Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

Oldest, Largest, Cheapest, Best.
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE.
The only Illustrated Family & Literary Paper in Phila. Larger than the N. Y. Ledger.
Only $2.00 a Year.
SPECIAL CLUB RATES:
4 copies, one year.....$7.00 | 10 copies, one year...$15.00
6 " " " ..... 10.00 | 20 " " " ... 25.00
An extra copy FREE to getter-up of club of ten or twenty. Sample copy and circulars FREE. AGENTS Wanted. Gold Premiums. All subscriptions can begin with a new story. Address
THE SAT. EVE. POST,
726 Sansom Street, Phila.

Smith Organ Co.,
BOSTON, MASS.
These Standard Instruments
Sold by Music Dealers Everywhere
AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN.
Sold throughout the United States on the
INSTALLMENT PLAN;
That is, on a System of Monthly Payments.
Purchasers should ask for the SMITH AMERICAN ORGAN Catalogues and full particulars on application.

A Farm of Your Own
—IS—
The Best Remedy for Hard Times!

FREE HOMESTEADS
AND THE
Best and Cheapest Railroad Land
Are on the Line of the Union Pacific Railroad,
—IN—
NEBRASKA.
Secure a Home Now.
Full information sent FREE to all parts of the World.
Address O. F. DAVIS,
Land Com'r U. P. R. R., Omaha, Neb.

BETTER SEND
a 3-cent stamp for a sample copy, when such terms are offered. ONLY 75 CENTS
now, and balance of
50 CENTS
on July 1st, which includes a copy of OUR OWN FIRESIDE for one year, and a choice of any Premium offered, to be sent by return mail.
FIFTH YEAR OF
OUR OWN FIRESIDE,
A LARGE EIGHT-PAGE
ILLUSTRATED HOUSEHOLD JOURNAL.
It contains the Best of Stories, Fashion News, COOKERY FOR THE KITCHEN, and all the requisites of a FAMILY LITERARY PAPER. Competent judges pronounce it the best paper of the kind published.
Price $1.10, including postage and a choice from a list of Premiums—or for $1.20, the fine Chromo,
"ASKING A BLESSING,"
from a painting by Prof. Jordan, of Dusseldorf. This is the best executed chromo ever offered as a premium. It is not to be classed with pictures generally offered as premiums, for they were made to sell by dealers at $7.50 each, but we bought up the entire edition. Or, when $1.20 is paid, we will send an order on a celebrated Florist for $1.00 worth of FLOWER SEEDS for the premium. Hence the prices are as follows: $1.10 cash a year, with a premium; $1.20 cash a year, with a finer premium; 75 cents a year, without premium. Or 75 cents now and 50 cents on July 1st, and choice of any premium. Send 3-cent stamp for sample paper. Address
OUR OWN FIRESIDE,
176 William St. New York.
AGENTS WANTED. ☞ Extra inducements. Send for terms.

The Wonders of Modern Chemistry.
Sarsaparillian and Its Associates.
Changes as Seen and Felt as They Daily Occur after Using a Few Doses of
DR. RADWAY'S
Sarsaparillian
Resolvent,
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and firmness of flesh and muscle, etc.

2. Strength increased, appetite improved, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awake fresh and vigorous.

3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples; the skin looks clear and healthy, the urine changed from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding, little or no sediment; no pain or weakness.

4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands, and functional harmony restored to the several organs.

5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to a clear, lively and healthy color.

6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs, air cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminishing of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system; stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles, legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation; hard breathing and paroxysms of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.

7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken, new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity, disease will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin diseases gradually disappear.

8. In cases where the system has been salivated, and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, (the principal constituent in the advertised Sarsaparillas, associated in some cases with Hyd. of Potassa) have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing caries of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.

9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous or Syphilitic diseases, however slow may be the cure "feel better," and find their general health improving, their flesh and weight increasing or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better," every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength and flesh.

The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in Consumption of the Lungs and Tuberculous Phthisis, Scrofula, Syphiloid Diseases, Wasting, Degeneration, and Ulceration of the Kidneys, Diabetes, Stoppage of Water (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using these instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder, and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in Chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.

In tumors, nodes, hard lumps and syphilitic ulcers; in dropsy and venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercles of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets; in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture, wherein this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.

In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.

Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $10 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

RADWAY'S
READY RELIEF
WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.
INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS,
CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS,
SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING,
PALPITATION OF THE HEART,
HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA,
CATARRH, INFLUENZA,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, MUMPS,
NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM,
COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the READY RELIEF to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will, in a few moments, cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water.

IT IS BETTER THAN FRENCH BRANDY OR BITTERS AS A STIMULANT.

Price 50 Cents. Sold by Druggists.

DR. RADWAY'S
REGULATING PILLS

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above named disorders. Price 25 Cents per Box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

A NOVEL IDEA—$4 for $2
THE HOUSEKEEPER—a first-class Magazine recommended by Jennie June, James Parton and others—will, on receipt of subscription price, $2, be sent one year, post-paid, and deliver FREE, A PREMIUM BOX of $2.00 worth best Groceries. N. Y. Weekly Sun, Jan. 12, 1876, says: "It is one of the best chances for agents ever offered." As we allow A LARGE CASH COMMISSION it is a rare chance to make money rapidly and secure a permanent business. C. F. Wingate & Co. (Limited), 60 Duane St., N. Y. Sample copy 10c.

THIS NEW ELASTIC
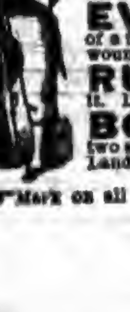
TRUSS
Has a Pad differing from all others. Its action is wonderful. Being cup-shape, with Self-Adjusting Ball in center, it adapts itself to all positions of the body, while the ball within the cup presses back the intestines just as a person would with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is perfectly easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Send for Circular and Truss to EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Marshall, Mich.

O. N. U. No. 8

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.



PENSIONS.
TO WHOM PENSIONS ARE PAID.
EVERY SOLDIER Disabled in the service of the United States, either by accident or otherwise, gets a pension. The loss of a finger, or the loss of the use of a finger, the loss of an eye, the loss of a toe, or any gun-shot wound, or other injury, gives a pension.
RUPTURE. A rupture, if but slight, will give a pension, or ruptured veins, or diseases of the lungs. If you are entitled to a pension, don't delay it. Let me file your case while there is yet time.
BOUNTY. Full Bounty paid to all soldiers discharged on account of wounds, rupture, or any injury, the same as if he served his full time. Send two stamps for a circular of Pension and Bounty acts. A BOOK of the Pension, Bounty and Land Warrant acts sent for 25 cents.
P. H. FITZGERALD, Indianapolis, Ind.,
☞ Mark on all letters P. O. Box 54. Authorized U. S. Claim Agency for Western Soldiers.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

H. E. LITTLE, : : : EDITOR.

Give us a rest on Centennial—will you please.

P. Reiling is on our streets again after a visit abroad.

W. McConnell, of Angola, gave us a brief call on Tuesday.

Why dont you send a Centennial paper to your friends.

F. [illegible] has commenced repairing boots or shoes in Ward's building.

The bridge on Seventh street, over Cedar Creek, is repaired.

T. M. Stevens has purchased an interest in the Hub and Spoke Factory.

Call on Mrs. Little & Fair if you want to have a nice Switch or Curl made.

F. D. Ryan has purchased the boot & shoe store formerly owned by Sprott & Son.

Ed Eldridge opened up his saloon last Monday and all the boys had a rallin' time.

Mr G. A. Porter, Esq., will take charge of the City Bakery on Saturday next.

The Indiana Democracy will hold their State convention on the 19th of April.

Extra coppies of the COURIER already in wrapper for five cents. Call as soon as possible.

Last week, on Saturday, their were forty-four loads of wheat unloaded at the depot at Corunna.

W. B. Adams, of Corunna, has bought another track of swamp land, with buildings complete thereon

A lady was lately hugged to death in Minnesota. Another "illustration of the power of the press."

The Auburn "Republican" failed to appear last week. Another nice thing to go before the public.

Court is in session and the lawyers seem to be happy. The court room is very tastefully arranged.

Mrs. Little & Fair have a new style of neckties. They are called Centennial.—Everybody will have one.

In our Centennial issue, last week, we neglected to mention the champion barber, Mr. H. Ritter, of Corunna.

Young Misses would rather have their corsets tight than their fellers. A fact worth remembering, young men.

Sam'l Searight, one of our chums in years gone bye, of Butler, gave us a brief but pleasant call last Wednesday.

Charley Baxter, of the Waterloo Press gave us a call last Saturday, but we was away from home. Call again, sir.

Don't fail to call on Mrs. Little & Fair for the latest novelty and most stylish Rushes, Laces and Ties at bottom prices

Jimmie Clark, of Fort Wayne, was in the city selling a book called The Centennial History of the United States

Yesterday we were visited by a snow storm and the probabilities are that the merry sleigh bells will be heard to-day.

Jas. Lowry gave us a call last Wednesday. He played Rip at Garrett and is on his way to the pin woods of Michigan.

Morton sponged his cow feed while governor, and now the Republicans have another man to carry who sponged his buttermilk.

In precisely twenty minutes, by an Elgin watch, 100 coppies of the Centennial COURIER was sold at Corunna, and 75 more ordered.

The plan for our new school building is now at the Auditor's office and every one that has looked at it is well pleased with the style.

The deputy sheriff arrested a man on the Saginaw train last week, for bigamy, but upon examination he proved himself innocent.

The record of some of the Republican candidates, it is said, will not pan out any better than that of Orth, when they are fully written up.

The Kendallville songsters will give a grand concert on March 4th, 1876. Miss Louie Hartsock, in her usual interesting way, will finger the piano.

We are sorry that we were obliged to condense the history of Garrett. Blame it to the printer with seven quarts of snakes in his abdoman.

The Garrett City "News" issued the best looking paper last week that has appeared yet. They either have a new typo or else they were all "budgy."

A steamship collision occurred a few days since in the English Channel, by which one steamer burred her boiler and sunk, carrying down fifty-two of the passengers and crew. The lost steamer was the Sirath Clyde and the other the Franconia. The latter vessel was badly damaged but managed to keep afloat.

We are crowded for help this week, and cannot get our paper out in its former shape. Next week we will try and be solid again.

We want parties who had extra notices in the Centennial issue to remember that we expect to receive our money immediately—no stand-offs on that paper.

W. Snider at the lower end of town, was the receiver of a baby that weighed but three pounds. And E. Kuhlman, was a happy father also.

Our Republican friends blow considerable over their quiet convention last week Ma-be they were all so drunk that they couldn't squeal. How am it, boys.

Sammy Pommert is making arrangements to have a new room for his barber shop, and will put in bath-tubs and employ a first-class workman.

The Waterloo "Press" appeared in a new dress week before last. This is the best Republican paper in the county and being an old established one will certainly succeed.

The Presbyterian social will meet at their Church Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock P. M. Refreshments from 5 to 6 P. M. All are cordially invited.

MRS. H. ELSON, Sec.

W. H. Rakestraw has removed his stock of goods to Shull's building, opposite Dawson's Furniture store on Main street, and invites all to call when needing anything in his line,

F. D. Ryan, at Sprott's old stand, has engaged W. W. Humes as foreman, and as Mr. H. is so well known as a first-class shoe maker it needs no extended notice to warrant the work done at this establishment.

W. H. Dills, Esq., has withdrawn his connection from the COURIER office and the paper will therefore be conducted by H. E. Little. Mr. D. Has our cincere thanks for his valuable services on our Centennial issue, writing all the pioneer sketches &c.

Wisconsin is not the strong-minded woman's paradise. She must seek another field for her triumphs as an advocate at the bar, for the Supreme court of that State has decided that woman lawyers cannot legally practice there.

The Maine legislature has passed law prohibiting the death penalty. Imprisonment for life will be the punishment for capiral offences in that state hereafter, provided the bill receives the signature of the governor.

Ed. Picker and Mr. Wiseman, of the Angola "Herald" have disolved partnership. The concert will go on as usual and the old tune, "I charged upon a flock of geese, &c." will close each entertainment.

Each business man should place on their corner one of those lamp posts like Davenport and Davis have. They look odd in their present condition, and would present a much finer appearance were the post painted black.

Rats that live in graneries are said be a professional rat catcher not to be poisonous, while those that live on refuse meat inflict painful wounds. This is another argument in favor of the vegetarian theory, and every pious family should keep a granery.

Blaine beat Grant on the religious and school question, he out-heroed Morton on the bloody shirt question, and he has got so ahead of Conkling on the money question that he now bids fair to distance the whole pack on their own ground.

Our beter-half lost a handkerchief, last Sunday between the Presbyterian church and the Rainier House. A reward worth seven times as much as the article is offered for the recovery of the same.

Mr. F. Buchanan's baby was baptised last week, in the same dress its grand-pa was baptised in. That is sufficient proof that their was no shoddy establishments in our grandfathers days.

We learn parties from Fort Wayne has visited our city and will establish a Woolen Mill here the coming summer. This is decidedly the safest and mos prosperous place in the State to invest in any kind of manufacturing establishments, being the County Seat and one of the best railroad points in Northern Indiana.

We visited the Dental Rooms of J. F. Bodine, Esq., last week, and think that he has the best arranged and most convenient rooms of any Dentist in DeKalb County. His chair is of the latest style and "at the word" can be arranged for a child or grown person He is located in the 2nd story of McIntyre's block, opposite Swineford House. Call and see him.

The passenger train on the Fort Wayne Railroad was ditched last week near Ly nn, though fortunately without injury to anyone as the engineer saw the obstruction and slacked the speed of the train before striking it. Some fiend had placed plank in a cattle guard in such a position as necessarily to throw the train off. This is the third attempt recently, to throw the train off,—and if the guilty parties can be detected summary punishment will be dealt out to them without regard to the slow process of law.

An exchange recommends onions and skunk grease well mixed as a sure cure for rheumatism. One brief smell and then the rheumatism walks right around the corner. We have not a particle of doubt as to its efficacy, and would recommend those rheumatically inclined to give it a trial.

SUICIDE.

HICKSVILLE, O., Feb. 28th, 1876.

Our citizens were surprised this morning, by hearing that Jesse Cook a farmer living one mile West of here, had committed suicide, by taking poison which he obtained at a Drug Store yesterday, stating he wanted it to kill rats that were destroying his hens eggs. Dr. Kinmont was called at once [illegible] but the victim was dead before he arrived. Domestic trouble supposed to be the cause. This is the third tragedy of the kind that has disturbed our quiet village within one year.

B. F. C.

The Senate has passed the bill relative to the transportation of animals. It provides that animals shall not be confined in railroad cars or steam or sailing vessels longer than 24 consecutive hours without unloading. Feeding rest and water must be given every 7 consecutive hours unless prevented by storm or other accidental causes. If the owners of animals refuse to pay the expenses of such detention, the railroad company or vessel owners must carry out the provisions of the law at the expense of the owners of the animals, under penalty of not less than one hundred or more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment not more than one year.

A man went to the livery stable of Ford & parent, last Thursday and hired a rig, stating that he wanted to go in the country to see if he could buy cattle. He returned and engaged the horse for the next day, saying that he was a clipper to travel, and that he could get up a car load of cattle in a few days. He started about 8 o'clock in the morning and 1 o'clock was in the city of Ft. Wayne. Here he sold the rig and "got up and got." The proprietors of the livery then offered fifty dollars for the horse or man and we were informed yesterday by Mr. P. that parties had recovered the rig, but the fellow is still on his way rejoicing.

Our Centennial Paper.

In publishing an extra size paper last week it crowded us very much, and on Thursday morning two of our printers crowded themselves with "forty rod" and done no more work the remainder of the week and the consequence was the greatest bulk of the work was left for two boys to finish. The proof was not corrected as we desired to have it but we done the best we possibly could and we hope our friends will sympathize with us if we have in anyway slighted them. If we live to see another Cintennial we will have a crusade mob at the bottom of the stairs, armed with all the necessary instruments to knock down seven printers a minute.

Squibs on Leap Year.

We would advise young ladies not to be rash; although it is leap year.

You had better look before you leap, because if you get a husband that don't suit you, can't change him for a better one, at least not without going to Chicago.

Above all don't marry a man unless you have a reasonable hope that he will support you in becoming style, for it is not a fair thing on the old gentleman who has been looking forward to the marriage of his daughter, as a happy release from millinery bills. Never disappoint your parents.

Husbands like other wild animals when caught young, can sometimes be trained to a great many useful things. they have ever been known to get up in The morningif it is not to cold and light a fire in the kitchen stove when the girl is gone away.

RICHLAND-TP, Feb. 26, 1876.

Richland Township Sunday School Workers' Institute convened according to previous adjournment, at Beard's School House center of South precinct Richland-tp. Exercises were opened by devoting exercises conduced by Rev Levi harding, of Corunna, followed by singing. An able address was then dilivered by Rev. L. Rice, on the subject of What are the week day duties of the S. S. workers, followed by remarks on the same subject by Rev. D. Harding. Song. Remarks on the same subject by S. Swihart, A. Britton and others, followed by singing. The question How shall we secure the attendace of parents in the Sunday School was then discussed at length by the following prominent S. S. workers A. Britton, Rev. S. Rice, L. Harding and others. Adjournment until 12:30.

Afternoon session opened by singing The question drawer was then opened and a number of the most important questions connected with S. S. labor was discussed by the Institute. The exercises being interspersed with singing Reports of an encouraging nature were given from the different schools in the township.

A motion was made and sustained that a township childrens' meeting, under the supervisions of the Institute be held in connection with the next meeting of the society. A motion was made and carried that the chairman furnish the county papers with a synopsis of the proceedings of the institute, for gartuitous publication.

Adjournment to meet at the W. B. Church, Corunna, on the last Saturday in May, 1876.

PETER GRAHAM, President

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 28, 1876.

DEAR COURIER—On reaching the capitol this morning I found the corridors already crowded with visitors, among them a large number of gaily and richly dressed ladies ready to open the battle anew in the various schemes which the female lobbyist is supposed to have most at heart. At ten minutes before twelve the hall and lobbies of the House are cleared and then begins the general attack for admission to these coveted places. No lady is allowed upon the floor of the House during its session, the only spot sacred from their invasion. The long corridor just south of where the speaker sets with carefully guarded doors at each end, and the waiting room adjoining is the haven to which all these lobbyists are attracted. This is where they congregate, for none can gain entrance here, except through the influence of a member. When once safely landed within, they go to work by penciling on a card the member they want to see, and send it by a messenger to his seat. Sometimes the member is out, and many heavy hours are often put in awaiting his return. Often the M. C. responds at once, and is soon seated tete-a-tete with his fair friend in the waiting room Then she unfolds her scheme step by step, and if possible enlists his sympathies, and if nothing else will fetch him a pressing invitation to call at her rooms often brings the game to hand.

There are some men proof against the dissembling ways of these handsome, elegant and engaging ladies, but a ladies' man is very susceptible and nonresisting. I have often seen the most prominent members in close conversation with these darling creatures, and if they are to be known by the company they keep, good husbands and fathers are not the greater part of our law-makers. This is a wicked, wicked city, and many of the temporary sojourners generally make up their minds that it is so, and act accordingly. But the lobbyist is not the only bad influence that the average congressman has to contend with. There is another element that tempts him to profligacy and sin, and if I were a wife to a member I should insist on being with him at the capital, because I would then know that as "stolen pleasures are the sweetest," his enjoyment would be lengthened by that fact. That element consists of the female employees of the government. Each congressional district is entitled to a certain member to be recommended by the sitting member at the time of any vacancy existing. Hundreds of applicants are in waiting; many of them pure and innocent, others ready to make any sacrifice for the position. I had a case recommended to me the other day of a pure, sweet-charming young lady with eyes of softest blue, and cheeks that would shame the rose. She came from a state famous for its beautiful women, and asked an appointment at the hands of her Representative. Her laughing, longing eyes and pouting lips, won for her, and she was duly installed in one of the departments as a clerk. She called to thank, oh, so earnestly, him who had assisted her to position. He was a handsome fellow, a perfect Apollo in physque, and winning and gracious in his manners; eye met eye and lips met lips; and—she is his mistress; to-day, while away down over the hills and valleys, far beyond the mountains, lingers a beautiful, loving wife, with prattling babes to comfort and cheer her in her loneliness. The question is, were they led estray, or did they go. This may be a rare occurrence as to detail, but there are others similar in respects. So you see that women wields some influence in the legislation of the country. Wendell Phillips used to say he could not stay in this city twenty-four hours without feeling its moral atmosphere. As to the criminal results of things here it is hard to speculate. A man who keeps a scrap book states that he has recorded 271 cases of child murder in Washington, during the past five years. These are simply the cases known to the newspapers. Who can enumerate secret crimes? And yet there are many good and honest men and women, and especially among those who are employed by the government.

POLITICAL.

The verdict in the Babcock case did not excite much surprise here. There were but few people about the capitol when the news was received, as both houses had adjourned early. The only member of the house in the hall of representatives when an excited telegraph operator came running in and announced the verdict was Mr. Randall, chairman of the committee on appropriations. He was deeply engaged in a conversation with a political friend, and merely raised his head and ejaculated, "Grant will not turn Bristow out now; he will punish him by trying his hands and letting him alone."

Ex-Speaker Blaine was found in the clerk's office busily engaged going thro' the newspapers. When the news was announced to him he glanced up and said, "That's good; there are two men very much relieved;" and went on reading. Somebody standing by said, 'There will be something heard to drop before long. Bristow will have to walk now." This time, without looking up, Blaine said significantly, "Never count your chickens till they are hatched." In the Senate Mr. Conkling went about, his face beaming with joy, and in his grave, quiet manner informed his republican brethren that he had just received a telegram from St. Louis informing him that Babcock was acquitted. There was no demonstration of any kind, but it was quite apparent that the news was not unwelcome

In the room of the Senate Committee on enrolled bills Senator Cameron was having a little fun with a few southern friends, when Mr. Purman, representative from Florida, rushed in and exclaimed: "Glorious news! Throw up your hats, boys! Babcock is acquitted!" There was a faint cheer or two and some handshaking and mutual congratulations, and then the party broke up, every fellow appearing anxious to get away to spread the glad tidings from the West. It is very clear to-night that there have been tremenduous efforts made during the last few days to curb the President's anger toward Secretary Bristow and Solicitor Winslow, and unless appearances are unusually deceptive there will be no outburst of the long bent-up wrath for some weeks to come. I did not at the time exactly apprehend the significance of Mr. Blaine's remarks in the house clerk's room about not counting the chickens till they are hatched, but on my way down from the capitol I chanced to fall in with a republican member who is unusually well informed about what transpires at the White House, although he is not a very welcome visitor there. I asked him "what he thought of the news from St. Louis?" and he replied by telling me a story. He said: "I met a lawyer yesterday who has been watching the Babcock trial closely, and reading the reports in the St. Louis papers carefully, and when I asked him what he thought of the case, he replied "The evidence on the government side was not conclusive, and until the defense began I was quite certain Babcock would be acquitted; but my confidence was considerably shaken when I read the letter carrier's testimony." "But what do you think will happen here?" I askad. Will Bristow have to go out?" "No; the party can't afford to have him turned out," replied my republican congressional friend. "But what does Grant do for the party?" "Not much perhaps; but he does not want to make Bristow his successor There has been a great change wrought within a few days. Five days since Grant would have short work with Bristow the moment the news of Babcock's acquittal was flashed to him, but the note of warning from the press of the country has been unheeded this time. Grant can suppress his feeling better than any other man I ever knew, if it is necessary to do so. He knows how to hide his time and wait for an opportunity." "But would it do Bristow so much good to be turned out? Would he drap out of sight after a little?" "He might or he might not; but one thing is certain; the Republican party would be redeemably injured by his dismissal at this juncture." "What do you think will be the effect on the whiskey trial?" "McKee will get a new trial, so will Avery; and they will both be acquitted. The tide of public opinion which has been moving with almost irresistible source in one direction for so long will be checked by this result in the Babcock case, and the prosecutions in Chicago and Milwaukee will gradually die out. I think the Babcock trial was the first turning point in the whiskey war. What would have happened if Babcock had been convicted?" "It would have been the end of the Republican party; Grant would have pardoned him instantly, and then the deluge would have come sure."

After leaving my Republican friend I met Judge Black, of Pennsylvania. I said to him, "Does the news from St. Louis surprise you?" "Not at all. "Did you ever suppose for one moment that this administration could afford to have Babcock convicted?" "Now, mind, I don't say he ought to have been convicted, for I haven't read any of the testimony and am not prepared to give an opinion on the merits of the case, but I know this administration does not scruple to find means to accomplish results when it is absolutely necessary to provide them." "Do you think Bristow will go out, Judge?" "No, Bristow can't afford to resign, and Grant can't afford to ask for his resignation."

Gen. Landers, of Indianapolis, delivered an exhausted speech upon the finance question, last Saturday. I heard but a small part of it, yet I believe he is on the popular side of the great question and think his chances for the Democratic nomination for Governor, are good. I believe he will make a strong race.

TOM.

Clothing at Cost.

Our entire stock must be SOLD before MARCH 1ST, '76, as we will make a change in our business at that time. If you wish to secure goods at new is the time. WE MEAN JUST WHAT WE SAY. Commencing to-day we will sell our goods at

Actual Cost

FIRST COST!

until March 1st, 1876. We mean BUSINESS. Call and see our prices and you will find that this is no Humbug.

DAVID KAHN & CO.

Concord Items.

CONCORD IND. March, 1st, 1876.

What is there in a name—ever so much indeed. We therefore take up its next meaning and state that with one accord. the neighbors of these corners proceeded to get up a petition for the establishment of a post-office at this place, and in a incredible short space of time through the enerjetic efforts of the petitioners, headed by the indomitable spirit Mr. Robert Culbertson, and through the very kind assistance of Hon. Mr. Baker, M. C. the object was obtained, and is now in full operation. So much for a beginning.

Immediately on the head of this enterprise, a second one was started, in the shape of a subscription for large Stock Scales, a joint stock concern; the full amount being subscribed in less than two days, and will be put up as soon as the weather will permit.

Now for the third and not the last enterprise, and this is the long sought for, but not yet forth coming switch. However, being encouraged by the success of the proceedings, the spirit of the unterified are aroused, and with one tremendous onslaughter, they will tackel the great Mogul B. & O. R. R. and never stop until they have shown and proven to this company that they are a live set of fellows at these Corners, who do not set down to be helped, but are willing, and able to help themselves, and relying on the devine promise that God helps those that help themselves, they are hopeful, they will and must have a switch, if they have to grade and lay the ties them selves. They are tired carrying their coal to New Castle, and claim that this is the granary of De Kalb county, and should have facilities for its shipment.

Enterprise fourth, and a very great convenience to the place, is the new Saw Mill, situated on the farm of G. W. Dragoo, and carried on by the Princess of all good fellows, the Feagler's, assisted by a good energetic young man, supposed to be of French extraction, judging by his name, which is Dan. Welch, formerly a civil engineer and conductor, of R. R., but more recently engaged in the Tonsorial art, in which he is quite an adept, performs surgical operations entirely new to the profession. This chief instrument being a razor, instead of the scalfet or lanset.

Overtures have been made to our esteemed fellow citizen Mr. H. Baker, to accept the position as engineer at the saw mill, he being fully competent for that position, but has declined this on account of very pressing engagements at the post-office.

B.

Surveyor's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the County Surveyor, will at my request locate and re-locate lines and corners in and adjoining sections one (1) and two, (2) township thirty-five, (35) North Range twelve (12) East, and that said Surveyor will meet all interested persons at the North-West corner of said section one, (1) on the morning of the 4th day of March, 1876.

WALTER W. CRISS, Applicant.

J. J. VANAUKEN, County Surveyor. 3w

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Before Jacob Walborn, J P Union-tp
De Kalb County. }

Thomas J. Shreve, vs James E. Shreve.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishment in said case has been served on the Baltimore, Pittsburg and Chicago, Railway Company, Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 10, of April A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M. to answer or demur to the complaint or the same will be determined in his absence.

Feb. 17, 1876. JACOB WALBORN, J. P.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, }
DeKalb County. }

Jacob W. Swaidner, vs. James Mahady, before Justice Walborn of Union Township.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found and it further appearing by affidavit filed herein that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishee in said case has been served on Samuel W. Ralston. Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 4th day of [illegible]ch A. D. 1876 at 9 o'clock A. M., and answer [illegible] demur to the complaint herein or the same will be determined in his absence.

JACOB WALBORN, J. P. [seal]

AUBURN COURIER.

THURSDAY, MARCH 2, 1876.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

THREE men were killed the other morning at Framingham, Mass., by the explosion of the boiler of a portable saw mill.... Miss Charlotte Cushman, the celebrated actress, died at Boston, last week, aged 60 years. Her disease was cancer.

An exciting scene took place in the Plymouth Church Advisory Council the other day. Mr. Beecher, toward the end of the morning session, arose to answer a question propounded by Rev. Dr. Fessenden respecting the interview which he held with Dr. Storrs. After detailing the interview and making some explanations, Mr. Beecher said: "If there is a man on earth that has anything to say to my detriment, I am here, and now challenge him to say it. [Cries of 'Good,' 'Good,' and loud applause.] I go farther than that. If there be an angel of God more prescient and omniscient, I challenge him to say aught. I go beyond that, and in the name of our common Redeemer, and before Him who shall judge you and me, I challenge the truth from God himself, and what is all this going to do?" These remarks were received with tremendous applause. Nothing like the excitement and crushing was ever witnessed in the church before.

IN the Congregational Advisory Council, at Brooklyn, the other day, one of the delegates referred to the statement that Henry C. Bowen had in his possession documents affecting the guilt or innocence of Henry Ward Beecher, and said he wished to ask Mr. Beecher if he knew of the existence of such documents. This brought the Plymouth pastor to his feet, who electrified his audience by the following bold defi to the world to produce the proofs of his guilt:

"I will answer as regards any paper that is in possession of any man, woman, or child on this continent, or on the sea, or on the land and beyond the sea. Anybody in Heaven, and anybody in hell, that has any document that I have ever written, or any information that touches me in any manner, I here give my permission to them to produce it, and challenge them to produce it; and if it is anything that will throw light on me, and inculpate me, I demand, by every consideration of honor, truth, and justice, that it be delivered now and here, and if not, thereafter everybody shall hold their peace."

MICHAEL FINNELL, the man that killed O'Baldwin, the Irish Giant and prize-fighter, has been acquitted by a New York jury.... The famous old elm in Boston Common has been blown down.... New Jersey has declared against railroad subsidies.

A TINWARE factory at Woodhaven, L. I., was destroyed by fire a few days ago. Loss, $500,000. About 450 employes are thrown out of employment by the fire.

THE Phœnix Mills, of Paterson, N. J., have suspended, throwing 800 people out of employment.... The 200th anniversary of the burning of Medford, Mass., by the Indians, under King Philip, was celebrated in that town on the 21st of February. Cannon were fired, bells were rung, and historical addresses were made, the whole concluding with a public dinner. In the morning a four horse wagon, filled with persons on their way to the celebration was overturned, and the Rev. Mr. Alger, of South Natick, and Sabin Smith, of East Somerville, were fatally injured, and others were seriously wounded.

A SLEEPING car on the Harlem Railroad of New York was burned a few nights ago, and Mr. Bissell, the proprietor of the Sherman House, Chicago, and his son perished in the flames. Ten other passengers are reported as having been badly burned.... The Brooklyn Advisory Council has concluded its work and adjourned. The action of Plymouth Church in connection with all the subjects specified in the letter-missive is fully sustained, and a new investigation of the charges against Mr. Beecher is provided for by a committee of five, to be appointed by a sub-committee of the Council from among a list of persons distinctly specified, and the commission is clothed with authority to decide whether an investigation shall be held at all or not.... A very exciting and unlooked-for denouement of the meeting between Henry C. Bowen and the Plymouth Church Examining Committee took place the other night at Rev. S. B. Halliday's mansion in Brooklyn. Bowen, armed with his charges against Beecher, consisting of fifty-two pages of closely-written manuscript, repaired to Halliday's house, where, besides the Examining Committee, he found seated in the parlor Beecher himself, B. F. Tracy, Thos. G. Shearman, Oliver Johnson, and other partisans of the Plymouth pastor. Bowen, being called upon for his statement, presented and read it. At the conclusion of the session Bowen and his sons came out of the house in a state of great agitation and called loudly for the "members of the press." Several reporters ran toward Bowen, when he exclaimed in an excited way: "Members of the press, I want you to publish this to the world: Beecher and his minions have attempted violence upon us!" Immediately afterward, Bowen and his sons drove off in their carriage, and, being interviewed, stated that, on the conclusion of the reading of the statement, Mr. Bowen was asked if he had anything further to state. On his saying that he had not, he says Mr. White locked the door of the apartment. Thinking the days of the Inquisition returned, Mr. Bowen ran to the rear parlor door, and, followed by his sons, escaped to the hall—S. V. White meantime calling to others of the committee to lock the doors. The contents of Bowen's paper have not been made public, but they are understood to be a severe arraignment of Mr. Beecher for his alleged manifold shortcomings.

THE WEST.

DOMINICO DAMINA, Antonio Catalano, and Bastiano Lombardo, three Italians, convicted last October of waylaying and murdering Francisco Palermo in the streets of St. Louis, were hung in that city on the 18th of February.... The Kern Valley National Bank, at Bakersfield, Cal., was entered by burglars, a few nights ago, while the Cashier was working at the accounts. They knocked down and chloroformed the Cashier, and robbed the bank of $77,000, of which $22,000 belonged to the County Treasury. The Cashier was found insensible on a table the next morning.... Ores have been found at Colorado Springs, Colorado, assaying $373 of gold and silver to the ton.

IN the Babcock trial at St. Louis, Col. Broadhead, the successor of Henderson, in his address to the jury for the prosecution, denounced President Grant quite as strongly as the displaced prosecutor. Referring to the famous order reversing the transfer of the Supervisors, Broadhead said that the reasons given by President Grant and Supervisor Tutton for reversing the order were not at all sufficient, as they amounted to really no reasons at all. There were other and more powerful influences brought to bear, and the exigencies of the case seemed to be such that the President stepped down from his high position to interfere with the duties of one of the department officers. The order was revoked, too, by telegraph, which of itself was a strange proceeding and questionable in law. This suspension was made the day after Joyce telegraphed Babcock to push things against the weakening enemy.

THE Iowa Legislature has appropriated $20,000 to secure a proper representation of the State at the Centennial Exhibition.... The Ohio Senate has passed a bill forbidding the administration of anæsthetics by surgeons.

A TERRIBLE affray, growing out of an old vendetta, occurred in Warren County, Iowa, one day last week. Two brothers, named George and John Homery, were instantly killed, and David Homery and James Groom dangerously stabbed. The assailants were the two Dillards, the two Westphalls, and Frank Bottler. The parties met on their way home from church.... The Wisconsin Legislature has materially modified the Potter Railway law. The new act repeals the more objectionable features of the Potter law, and renders the statute for the regulation of railroads less burdensome to the railway interest.... A singular and mysterious tragedy was enacted in Chicago a few days ago. Two boon companions, T. A. Commerwell and Fritz Schneider, were drinking together in a saloon when one of them, Commerwell, without uttering a word, drew a revolver and shot Schneider dead, after which he placed the weapon to his head and blew his own brains out. Both died almost instantaneously. It is believed that the men had mutually determined to commit suicide, and it devolved upon Commerwell to enact the role of dual murderer.

SHORTLY after midnight of Feb. 23 fire was discovered issuing from the Olympic Music Hall, [illegible]. With the high wind prevailing it soon spread into one of the most extensive conflagrations that city has ever known. In the space of two hours fourteen buildings and their contents were burned. The estimated loss is $100,000, not more than half covered by insurance.... The renowned Col. Mulberry Sellers, as represented by John T. Raymond, has arrived in Chicago, and appears nightly on the stage of McVicker's Theater. The combined efforts of Raymond and Mark Twain have made Sellers and his "millions in it" famous. People who have witnessed this admirable piece of acting pronounce it the finest representation of American humor ever attempted. People visiting Chicago should not neglect seeing it.... The great $30,000 four-mile race, which has been repeatedly postponed, came off at San Francisco on the 22d of February, and was won by Foster, an Oregon horse, in two straight heats. The race was witnessed by an immense concourse of people.

THE trial of Gen. Babcock on an indictment charging him with complicity with the revenue thieves was brought to a conclusion in the United States Court, at St. Louis, on the 24th of February. The Judge's charge was exceedingly favorable to the defendent, and the jury decided on a verdict of acquittal upon the first ballot. When the "Not guilty" was pronounced Gen. Babcock started suddenly from his chair and his face turned almost crimson. It was apparent that his emotions were deep and overwhelming. The small crowd present gave a slight applause, and his friends present came forward to offer their congratulations. Babcock, however, paid no attention to them, but made for the jury, which was passing out, and shook hands with each individual juror, thanking them with tears in his eyes for their kind and noble vindication. He then received the congratulations of his friends present, and, in company with his counsel, proceeded to his hotel. His appearance on the streets was the signal for repeated cheers, and he could scarcely elbow his way through the crowd that pressed around him. Throngs of people followed him along the streets to the Lindell Hotel. There he met the assemblage of friends who had heard the good news, and who overwhelmed him with their congratulations. In the evening Babcock was serenaded at the Lindell Hotel, and he and his friends indulged in a general jollification over the happy result of the trial.

SOUTH.

R. D. RUFFIN, colored member of the House of Delegates from Dinwiddie County, Virginia, has been expelled for abstracting money from the pay-book of the Sergeant-at-Arms. The missing money was traced to him, and he gave an order against his per diem for the amount.

THE Democrats in the Louisiana Legislature have abandoned their intention of impeaching Gov. Kellogg.

ADVICES from New Orleans represent that indictments will soon be found there which will make as much sensation in the country as those at St. Louis. The names of very prominent persons are used, but it would not be proper to give them in advance of the final action of the Grand Jury.

WASHINGTON.

THE Senate Committee on Elections have decided to hear arguments, in the case of the State of Alabama against Senator Spencer, under the charge of the specifications below mentioned. The charge that he holds his seat unlawfully will not be considered, as it is regarded as settled in the Sykes case. The following is the charge: That there was used, or caused to be used, corrupt means and corrupt practices to secure the election of the Hon. George E. Spencer to the seat he now holds in the Senate of the United States as a Senator from Alabama.

IN addition to the contemplated reductions in the General Appropriation bills the House Committee propose the following cutting down in some of the prominent items of expense incident to the public service, but not absolutely essential to its efficient administration:

	Estimate.	Amount proposed.
Public buildings to complete, repair and furnish	$5,363,446	$2,700,000
Lighthouses, beacons and fog signals	709,400	500,000
Arms and arsenals	917,218	200,000
Fortifications	2,044,000	100,000
Rivers and harbors	14,301,100	12,000,000
Building new State, War, and Navy Department	1,378,482	600,000
Washington aqueduct and grounds about Washington	658,492	300,000
Permanent buildings at seacoast fortifications	500,000	.....
Navy yards and stations	1,725,000	900,000
Capital grounds, Insane Asylum, Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Lying-In Hospital, Smithsonian Institute	800,500	250,000
Payment judgments Court of Claims	2,000,000	200,000
Bureau of Engraving and Printing United States securities	1,944,875	1,300,000
Light-House establishment	2,139,600	1,800,000
Coast survey	951,600	700,000
Miscellaneous, heating and furnishing public buildings, national currency paper	1,508,100	1,100,000
Miscellaneous, War Department	1,634,421	1,000,000
Survey of the public lands	1,165,200	500,000
Totall estimates	$34,631,414	$23,150,000
Proposed reduction	23,150,000
Balance	$11,481,414

THE bill introduced in the Senate by Mr. Sargent, and in the House by Mr. Piper, amendatory of the Silver Coinage laws, provides for the coinage of a new silver dollar equal in weight and value to two of the present silver half-dollars, and proposes to make it a legal-tender for amounts not exceeding $20. The bill abolishes the existing legal-tender provision regarding trade dollars. It also provides that silver half-dollars shall be a legal-tender for amounts not exceeding $10, and that the Government shall replace without loss to the holder all abraded silver coins.

IF the Treasury officials are to be believed, there is to be a currency famine in the Department unless Congress takes early action and passes the Deficiency bill for the Printing Bureau, amounting to over $300,000. The printing of currency, including greenbacks and National Bank notes, has been stopped, and the sum named is needed to continue work until the end of the fiscal year.... It is intimated that W. N. Riddle, Cashier of the Pennsylvania Bank of Pittsburgh, will succeed Mr. New as Treasurer of the United States.... The accumulation of silver and current production has reached such a point that resumption of silver payments in the immediate future is now a subject of earnest consideration at the Treasury Department. It is intimated that this desirable step is not at all improbable within thirty days. The silver now on hand is $12,000,000, which, with the monthly coinage, is considered ample to inaugurate the work.... The President has given orders to Gen. Sheridan that the Black Hills miners must not be disturbed.

"A PROMINENT member of the Cabinet," telegraphs the Western Associated Press Agent at Washington, "authorizes the assertion that all the published reports of the serious disagreement between the President and any member of the Cabinet are absolutely devoid of foundation in fact, and it is stated upon the same authority that there never has been either of recent date or at any time within many months, the occurrence of any event in the Cabinet sessions which could by any possible means be construed into an indication of bad feeling or premonition of a rupture. Most positively is this true of late."

POLITICAL.

GEN. KILPATRICK is of the opinion that Gov. Hayes' chances as a compromise candidate before the Republican National Convention are excellent.... The President has appointed Seth J. Comly Collector of Customs for Philadelphia.

CONGRESSMAN Hurlbut, of Illinois, thinks Mr. Blaine the best man for President.... The Illinois Republican State Committee, at its meeting in Chicago, a few days ago, called a State Convention of the party, to be held at Springfield, May 24.... The Republicans of Wisconsin, through their State Convention, have declared themselves in favor of Blaine and hard money.... The Indiana Republican State Convention, in session at Indianapolis last week, declared for Morton for President.... The New York Republican State Convention has been called to meet at Syracuse, March 22.... The Democratic National Committee met at Washington on the 22d day of February, and, after five ballots, decided to hold the National Convention, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President, at St. Louis, the 27th day of June being named as the time.

THE Indiana Republican State Convention was held at Indianapolis on Wednesday of last week, the attendance being larger than at any convention held since 1862. Hon. Godlove S. Orth was nominated for Governor. The resolutions declare for a specie basis, but demand a repeal of so much of the Resumption act as fixes a day for resumption, and ask Congress to let the currency alone, neither expanding or contracting it; favor reconciliation between the North and the South, indorse President Grant and his administration, particularly in the punishment of dishonest officials; demand absolute divorce of Church and State, and favor the present public school system. The following is the balance of the ticket: Lieutenant-Governor, Robert S. Roberts, of Allen; Secretary of State, I. P. Watts, of Randolph; State Auditor, W. M. Hess, of Hendricks; Judges of the Supreme Court—First District, Wm. P. Edson, of Posey; Second District, A. C. Voorhees, of Lawrence; Third District, H. C. Newcomb, of Marion; Fourth District, John F. Kibben, of Wayne.... The Connecticut Democratic State Convention was held at New Haven, Feb. 23, every town in the State having a full delegation. The old State ticket was renominated. It is as follows: Governor, Charles R. Ingersoll; Lieutenant-Governor, George G. Hill; Secretary of State, Marvin H. Sanger; Treasurer, William E. Raymond; Comptroller, Albert R. Goodrich.... April 19 is the day designated for the meeting of the Democratic State Convention of Indiana.... The Maryland Republicans will hold their State Convention on the 4th of May.

GENERAL.

ELEVEN car loads of articles from Sweden and Norway for the Centennial Exhibition have arrived at Philadelphia.

A REMARKABLE meeting was held at Hamilton, Canada, a few days ago, composed of people from New York, New Orleans, San Francisco, Owen Sound, Chicago, St. Catherines, etc. These people claim to be heirs of Lord Mar, whose son died in Montreal or Chicago in 1840 while on the way to Scotland to claim property, since which time the will cannot be found. The case was placed in the hands of Hon. Edward Blake, Minister of Justice for the Dominion. The property is covered by the manufacturing town of Paisley, Scotland, and is supposed to be worth $100,000,000.

WASHINGTON'S birthday was very generally observed throughout the country. At Washington the Government offices were closed, and the Fire Department paraded and passed in review before the President at the White House. The Fifth Maryland Regiment also honored the President with a marching salute on their way to Alexandria. In Philadelphia, the Centennial grounds were crowded with people, flags were displayed to an extent never known before, salutes fired, bells rung, whistles blown; bands of music paraded the streets, and a general jubilee took place, winding up with a magnificent illumination of the city in the evening.... The great $30,000 race in San Francisco finally came off on Washington's birthday. The race was four-mile and repeat, and was won by Foster; time, 7:38 and 7.53. ....Irwin, the Pacific Mail man, has been arrested for embezzling $750,000—and released on $50,000 bail.

FOREIGN.

A DISPATCH from Tucson, Mexico, via San Francisco, reports a severe battle between Mexican troops and revolutionists near Alamos, in which the latter were victorious.... Fifteen persons have been convicted of treason on account of the recent conspiracy at Rangoon, India. The head conspirator was sentenced to twenty-one years and the others to ten years transportation.... The Pope has written a letter to the Czar of Russia, reproaching him for the persecution of the Catholics in his dominions, and threatening the whole Imperial family with the chastisement of the Lord. He summons the Czar to the judgment of God.... The Correctional Tribunal of Paris has sentenced the editor of La Republique Francaise to one month's imprisonment with a fine, for attacking Minister Buffet.

THE woman movement has received a set-back in Russia. The Czar has promulgated an official ukase forbidding the gentler sex to exercise the functions of barristers.... Cable dispatches confirm the reports of a recent important victory by the Alfonso forces, and denote an early close of field operations. The routed Carlists have fled in large numbers across the French border, and have been interned by the authorities.... Winslow, the Boston forger, captured recently in London, says he wants to return immediately to Boston and help things along.

THE French Republicans, in the elections for Deputies to the Assembly under the new Constitution, have succeeded far beyond their expectations. Not only have they carried in the large cities, but in several of the remote provinces, where heretofore the Bonapartists and Legitimists have divided the honors, Radical candidates have been returned. Buffet, present Minister of the Interior, who tried his fortunes in four arrondissements, was defeated in every instance. Paul Cassagnac, the editor-duelist, is returned from the Department of Gers.

THE submarine cable between Sydney and New Zealand has been successfully laid and opened for traffic.... Egypt and Abyssinia are arranging a treaty of peace.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

FRIDAY, Feb. 18.—Senate.—The Senate was not in session.

House.—The proceedings in the House were flat, stale and unprofitable, nearly the whole day being devoted to the consideration of McCrary's bill to reorganize the judiciary.

SATURDAY, Feb. 19.—Senate.—The Senate held no session.

House.—The House met for general debate, as in Committee of the Whole, with Eden (Ill.) in the chair. Speeches were delivered by Chittenden and Townsend in favor of specie resumption, Kelly (Pa.) in advocacy of a greenback currency, and Pierce (Mass.) on the Presidential term of office, in favor of six years.

MONDAY, Feb. 21.—Senate.—A resolution was passed directing the Attorney-General to take steps to prevent the sale of the Wabash and Erie Canal by the Receiver.... Sherman presented a petition for the repeal of the Bankrupt law.... Allison, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported, with amendments, the West Point Appropriation bill. The increase recommended over the amount fixed by the House is about $46,000.... The bill for the sale of timber lands in California, Oregon and the Territories was passed.... A bill was passed making an appropriation to pay fourteen crippled and disabled Union soldiers employed in the House of Representatives from the 6th day of December, 1875, to the 30th of June, 1876.... Adjourned to Wednesday, 23d.

House.—A resolution was adopted calling upon Attorney General Pierrepont for the reasons which caused him to write a letter to District Attorney Dyer regarding the punishment of those in the whisky ring who turned state's evidence.... McCrary's bill reorganizing the Judiciary of the United States was passed.... Bills were introduced: By Cooke, limiting the power of Congress in making appropriations; by Whitthorne, to establish a mixed commission to inquire and report as to the future policy of the United States; by Burchard (Ill.), relating to distilled spirits; by McCrary, chartering the Atlantic, Chicago, Black Hills and Pacific Railroad Company; by Jones, for the transfer of the Pension Bureau from the Interior Department to the War Department.... A resolution was adopted for the appointment of a sub-committee to visit and inspect the levees of the Mississippi River.... Adjourned till Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 23.—Senate.—Logan presented a petition of disabled soldiers, asking that the provisions of the act of June 18, 1874, be extended so as to include all who lost an arm below the elbow, or a leg below the knee, and that they be allowed a pension of $24 per month.... Morton presented a petition signed by over 15,000 women in Indiana, and nearly 14,000 voters of that State, on the subject of temperance, asking Congress to appoint a commission to investigate and report as to the effect of the alcoholic liquor traffic.... Sherman, from the Committee on Finance, reported a bill amendatory of the acts of July 14, 1870, and Jan. 20, 1871, authorizing the refunding of the national debt.... Christiancy introduced a bill to regulate the elections and elective franchise in Utah.

House.—Fort's bill for the preservation of buffalo from wanton destruction, was passed.... The House indulged in a long and spirited debate on the bill to grant pensions to the veterans of the war of 1812.... Banning introduced his Army Reform bill, by which he hopes to effect an annual saving of $2,500,000.... A large number of resolutions of minor importance were introduced.

THURSDAY, Feb. 24.—Senate.—The House bill to reorganize the Judiciary of the United States was read and referred.... The bill conferring exclusive jurisdiction over Indian reservations upon United States Courts was debated at length and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

House.—A bill was passed to protect the revenues of the Patent Office. It provides that any officer who shall receive any money other than his salary for any work done shall be punishable by fine or imprisonment.... A bill was reported from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds appropriating $800,000 for a Custom-House at Memphis. After a long debate the amount was cut down to $400,000 and the bill passed.... The death of Representative Starkweather was announced, and appropriate eulogies pronounced.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Centennial Bill—Fortifications—Illness of Speaker Kerr—Mr. Cox in the Chair—Miscellaneous.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19, 1876.

The Senate passed the Centennial bill by a large majority, just as it came from the House. The President signed it with a pen made from the feather of an American eagle which now spreads its wings in the Centennial aviary, but which formerly soared aloft from the heights of Mount Hood in Oregon. The bird itself and that identical pen, which of course is mightier than the sword for an appropriation of a million and a half, will be on exhibition at Philadelphia. Now that the exposition is certain to go on with this express indorsement of the nation, I beg leave to remark it is the duty of us all to do everything in our power by word and deed to help make it worthy of our great Republic.

FORTIFICATIONS.

The Hon. William A. Wheeler, of New York, from the House Committee on Appropriations on Tuesday of this week reported the bill making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense. The bill appropriates for these purposes $315,000 instead of more than three and a half millions, the amount of estimates. Large estimates were made for new projectiles and ordnance. Mr. Wheeler showed that large sums had been annually appropriated and expended for these purposes, and that the changes constantly being made in warlike implements had crowded the arsenals and even the cemeteries with useless guns, and would continue to do so if these experiments were to go on. He thought they might well surcease in this our year of peace and jubilee. "We want no shotted guns pointed seaward," said he. The House agreed with him, and the bill was passed unanimously. If it shall go pass the Senate, as I trust it may, divers and sundry contractors in men-killing inventions will be sad, but the people will rejoice over this saving of more than three millions. This bill received the unanimous recommendation of the Appropriation Committee, and after Mr. Wheeler's statement of the facts in the case, there was no one to dispute the justice and wisdom of the measure. But I suppose there will be a lobby of contractors and inventors to worry and harass the Senate for money to experiment on projectiles which they will claim would blow whole cities sky high, or sweep an ordinary army into kingdom come at a single discharge. I hope the Senate will leave these fellows severely alone, and save the money according to Mr. Wheeler's bill. When the people of Christendom come to fully understand the terrible expensiveness of war they will abolish it, and join the Peace Society. Let us have peace. The success of the Wheeler bill would be not only a fine triumph of economy, but might well be regarded alone as one among the many encouraging signs of the times showing that the world is steadily moving on toward that glorious era when all men shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning-hooks; when nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more; when, in fine, the wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. For all of which see the Holy Scriptures passim.

ILLNESS OF MR. KERR.

It is well known that the health of the Speaker of the House has not been good for some time. He has suffered less or more for two or three years, and it was freely stated during the exciting canvass for the Speakership that he would hardly be able to endure the labors and difficulties of presiding officer of the House. The fears then expressed have become for the time being realized, and the Speaker is now absent in New York in the hope that physicians there and a short recess may restore him to vigor. I trust that it may be so. Whatever men may think of his politics, all who know him cordially agree that the Speaker is a man of great abilities and of the purest character. Like Mr. Wheeler, he is cordially respected by men of all parties.

I observe that the morning papers state that this is the first instance in which the absence of a Speaker has made the election of a Speaker pro tempore necessary. This is a mistake. The same thing occurred early in our history, when the distinguished Jonathan Dayton, of New Jersey, was Speaker. It occurred also about forty years ago, when John Bell was Speaker, and has occurred three or four times since then. Henry Clay twice resigned the Speakership after serving one session, so that there have been at least seven occasions up to this time when a new Speaker or one pro tempore has been elected by the House.

Mr. Cox has been selected to take the place of Mr. Kerr. He is a very good presiding officer. He appears much better in the chair than on the floor, where he is nervous and fidgetty, whereas in the chair he becomes at once sedate and dignified, and commands the respect of the House. His knowledge of parliamentary law is thorough; he is quick and firm in his decisions, and as a Speaker may be voted a success.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Theo. N. Vale, Esq., who recently took charge of the superintendency of the Railway Mail Service, in place of Col. George S. Bangs, resigned, has initiated himself into his new office, so to speak, by a long and very able letter to the Senate Postoffice Committee on the subject of postage rates. Mr. Vale takes the position that the present rates ought to be retained except that transient papers and periodicals ought to be carried at the low rates which formerly prevailed. He fortifies his argument with an array of facts and figures bearing upon the question which make his position impregnable. The paper makes a fine send-off for him in his new office.

Among the numerous bills on the currency question introduced in the House was one brought in the other day by Mr. Harrison, of one of the Chicago districts. It provides for inflation and resumption. It requires the Government and the national banks to reserve specie payment until they have an amount equal to one-third of the notes in circulation. At that time there could be resumption. It also provides that the Government shall issue greenbacks until the amount shall be equal to the amount outstanding at the date of the "Resumption act" of January, 1875. The bill is said to be very favorably received by a large number of members of the House, where Mr. Harrison stands deservedly high as a man of ability and character. In the great variety of financial projects now pending in Congress it seems likely the upshot will be—nothing at all.

L. M. N.

PASSING EVENTS.

SENATOR CHRISTIANCY'S courtship began, culminated and ended in three weeks. Beware of widowers!

A ROUTE through Pennsylvania has been discovered by which a grand double track freight railroad can be constructed that will have a grade not exceeding fifty feet to the mile coming west, or over forty feet going east. It is designed mainly to afford cheap transportation for Western produce, and is awakening a good deal of interest both in New York and along the line.

THE following statement of the exportation of tobacco and snuff during the six months ending Dec. 31, 1875, has been issued by the Internal Revenue Office. The quantity removed from manufactories for exportation was: Tobacco, 4,362,953¼ pounds; snuff, 12,899¾ pounds. The quantity accountable for, landed abroad, is: Tobacco, 3,705,019¾ pounds; snuff, 155,811¼ pounds.

PROF. SEELYE has been studying the Indian problem, and finds that each Indian costs the Government about $2,000 a year to keep him alive, but it would bankrupt the country to attempt to kill them off, for that seems to cost about $1,000,000 for every Indian. It only costs them $2.50 a day to board them at Washington so that it looks almost as if it would be economical to bring them all there.

AFTER the panic at Robinson's Opera House, Cincinnati, the following articles were picked up on the floor: Forty ladies' hats, 36 other hats, 15 muffs, 4 boas and 4 fur capes, 28 India-rubbers, 2 boots and 1 boy's shoe, 5 shawls, 12 boys' overcoats and capes, 2 ladies capes and scarfs; switches, gloves, veils and handkerchiefs without number. The heroine of the occasion was a young girl who, after fighting her way out of the fatal press, discovered that she had lost her mink cape, and thereupon fought her way back and recovered the article.

THE railways will not substantially benefit by the rates adopted at Louisville to the Centennial and return. The discount is not sufficient to induce people to go who would not go at full rates. In order to reach the masses and affect their decision to go or not to go, the rates should have been put down one-half on round trip tickets good for thirty days. The railroads can afford to carry on those terms, since the passenger traffic would be more than doubled. Twenty-five per cent. off is either too much or not enough.

THE late Reverdy Johnson was very anxious, the Baltimore American says, to do something to place the freedom of the press upon a firmer basis before he closed his long and brilliant career. The American refers to the offer of his services in the case of the libel suits brought by ex-Gov. Shepherd, against the editor of the Tribune, and mentions the fact that when the American was sued by the three highest executive officers of the State, Mr. Johnson also promptly volunteered his services in its behalf on the ground, as stated in his note to the editor, that the liberty and usefulness of the press seemed to be imperiled.

GEN. SHERMAN has written a second letter, explaining the one recently published. He says he did not intend the first letter for publication. As to the school question, he does not wish to be drawn into a discussion, but he feels that he had a right to express an opinion in a private letter. The relative cost of maintaining schools in different parts of the country has engaged his attention. In Washington his tax was 1 per cent. on valuation of real estate; in St. Louis it is one-half of 1 per cent. His experience is that the common schools, instead of trying to teach all children the rudiments, are drifting toward the classics and a university education.

IT is stated from Washington that the House Judiciary Sub-Committee, that is considering the question of jurisdiction of the House over the cases of Schumaker and Bill King, is understood to have reached this conclusion as to the right to expel: That the constitutional right of the House to expel members is not based upon the right to punish for crime, but upon other inherent power in the House to protect itself from violent, disorderly or unseemly persons; that this power is not for the punishment of guilty members, but for the protection of the House as a deliberative body. This question is being considered as a collateral one in connection with the general question of jurisdiction over offenses committed before this Congress began.

REVENUE COMMISSIONER PRATT has arrived at the conclusion that the ten Supervisors of Internal Revenue now allowed by law are more ornamental than useful. A close scrutiny into their expenses shows that last year these ten officers cost the Government over $130,000, or $13,000 each. Mr. Pratt does not deny that they are useful officers. He says they are too expensive. He does not suppose their offices can be abolished, although he thinks the service would survive their departure. He says he expects to collect $22,000,000 for internal revenue this year, as against $10,000,000 less last year, and that he intends to do this at a much less per cent. than last year. He estimated the expense of collection this year would be $5,000,000.

MR. INGALLS, of Kansas, has introduced in the United States Senate a bill for the protection of agriculture against injurious insects. It authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to appoint, upon the nomination of the National Academy of Sciences, a Commission, to consist of three eminent entomologists, to serve five years, at a salary of $5,000 per annum each, and to be allowed traveling expenses, etc., and to devote themselves to the investigation of insects most injurious to the great staples, especially the Rocky Mountain locust, army-worm, chinch-bug, Hessian fly, and cotton-worm, the results to be reported to Congress at least once a year. Mr. Ingalls remarked, upon offering the bill, that the Senate had already received information as to the ravages of insects upon vegetation in the West during the past year. The actual loss from the ravages of the locusts, chinch-bugs, army and cotton-worms and Hessian flies, exceeded $200,000,000, and from the locusts alone the amount exceeded $50,000,000. In seven counties of Minnesota, nearly 60,000 bushels of locusts were destroyed at a cost of $80,000.

Live Stock Transportation.

The bill relating to the transportation of live stock which passed the Senate of the United States is of vital interest to shippers of butchers' stock to Eastern markets. It provides that no corporation transporting animals from one State to another shall confine the same in vehicles, railroad cars, boats or vessels of any description for a longer period than twenty-four consecutive hours, without unloading the same for rest, water and feeding, for a period of at least seven consecutive hours, unless prevented from so unloading by storm or other accidental causes; that animals so unloaded shall be properly fed and watered during the rest by the owner or person having the custody thereof, or in case of his default in so doing, then by the company officials, at the expense of the owner or custodian; said officials not being liable and the company having a lien upon the animals for food, care and custody; that the penalty for failing to comply with the provisions of this law shall be a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. But when animals shall be carried in vehicles where they have proper food, water, space and rest, the provisions in relation to unloading shall not apply.

CHILIAN women have received the right to vote, the only qualification being they must be of age and able to read and write.

THE Puller hot springs of Southern Montana are becoming famous for their medicinal qualities.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	9	@ 12
HOGS—Dressed	8	@ 9
COTTON	12¾	@ 13¾
FLOUR—Superfine Western	5 10	@ 5 40
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1 17	@ 1 19
CORN	61	@ 62
OATS	47	@ 51
RYE	86	@ 88
PORK—New Mess	22 50	@ 22 75
LARD—Steam	12¾	@ 13¾
CHICAGO
BEEVES—Choice Graded Steers	5 75	@ 6 00
Choice Natives	4 75	@ 5 50
Cows and Heifers	2 50	@ 4 00
Good Second-class Steers	4 25	@ 4 75
Medium to Fair	3 75	@ 4 25
Inferior to Common	2 75	@ 4 25
HOGS—Live	7 75	@ 8 25
FLOUR—Fancy White Winter	7 25	@ 7 75
Good to choice spring ex	5 00	@ 5 50
WHEAT—No. 1 Spring	1 09	@ 1 10
No. 2 Spring	1 02	@ 1 03
No. 3 Spring	79	@ 80
CORN—No. 2	42	@ 43
OATS—No. 2	31	@ 32
RYE—No. 2	67	@ 69
BARLEY—No. 2	58	@ 60
BUTTER—Fancy	27	@ 33
EGGS—Fresh	14	@ 15
PORK—Mess	21 25	@ 21 50
LARD	13½	@ 13¾
DETROIT.
FLOUR—Choice White	6 25	@ 6 50
Ambers	5 75	@ 5 90
WHEAT—Extra	1 40	@ 1 41
No. 1 White	1 29	@ 1 30
No. 2 White	1 18	@ 1 19
Amber	1 28	@ 1 29
CORN	40	@ 42
OATS	37	@ 39
RYE	70	@ 73
BARLEY—No. 2	1 60	@ 1 70
BUTTER	18	@ 22
EGGS	14	@ 15
PORK—Mess	21 50	@ 22 00
LARD	13	@ 13½
CATTLE	3 75	@ 4 75
HOGS	7 50	@ 8 50
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 50	@ 1 51
CORN—No. 2	38	@ 39
OATS—No. 2	33	@ 34
RYE—No. 2	68	@ 69
PORK—Mess	22 00	@ 22 25
LARD	12	@ 13
HOGS	7 50	@ 8 25
CATTLE	2 25	@ 4 50
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 1	1 09	@ 1 10
No. 2	1 01	@ 1 02
CORN—No. 2	42	@ 44
OATS—No. 2	32	@ 33
RYE	69	@ 70
BARLEY—No. 2	80	@ 82
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—New	1 20	@ 1 25
CORN	42	@ 44
OATS	33	@ 43
RYE	77	@ 79
PORK—Mess	22 00	@ 22 25
LARD	13¼	@ 13½
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—Extra	1 38	@ 1 39
Amber	1 25	@ 1 26
CORN	46	@ 49
OATS	39	@ 41
EAST LIBERTY, PA.
HOGS—Yorkers	8 20	@ 8 50
Philadelphias	9 00	@ 9 20
CATTLE—Best	6 00	@ 6 25
Medium	5 00	@ 5 15
SHEEP—Medium	4 00	@ 5 00
Best	5 25	@ 6 00

AUBURN COURIER

T. G. MAYS, PUBLISHER.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Hill and Valley.

I can look down in the valley,
From my hill-top far and fair;
At my heart I smile for asking
Ever, "Here, or there?"
And I wonder at the question,
Stepping o'er my favored height;
Surely, heart, no longest seeking
Finds a fairer sight!

[illegible]
Only by the song of birds;
And the air seems breathing, softly,
Noble poet-words;
There the noise of little children
Breaks upon the sunlit air,
And the mothers listen, smiling—
Do they think it fair?

Here are gardens rich and stately,
Blossoms sweet and royal-rare;
Not a touch to mar their beauty,
Brightening all the air!
There the flowers that blossom wildly
Nestle low amid the grass;
And the maidens stoop to pluck them,
Singing, as they pass.

Here the sunset-glory lingers
Radiant on the stately domes;
There the tree-tops bend to shadow
Lowly cottage homes.
Here the mountain splendor glitters
Close and grand, by night or day;
There the soft low grasses border
All the common way.

I can look down in the valley,
From my hill-top, lone and grand;
Surely, heart, no fairer summit
Smiles in all the land!
And I wonder at the question,
Standing 'mid the glory rare;
Wondering at my heart for asking
Ever, "Here, or there?"
—Jennie Harrison.

Around the Farm.

MR. VICK says in his Floral Guide that ten drops of carbolic acid, to be obtained from any of our druggists, put in a pint of water and poured on the earth in flower pots, will destroy all earth worms, which do so much damage to the plants. A trial will satisfy all of its beneficial effects.

THE fact of the Duchess family of short-horns changing owners so often, and the sellers not being enriched by the thousands obtained sufficient to enable or induce them to keep on breeding, looks suspicious. Why did Messrs. Thorne, Sheldon, Campbell and Morris all sell out after such short ownership? —Moore's Rural.

CREAM should not be kept over two days or forty-eight hours. If kept longer its flavor will be hurt. Three days will show it; and the fourth it will be spoiled. After that good butter cannot be made from the cream, however carefully it may have been kept, and however pure the air and the milk from which it is made.

THE nest-boxes of hens should be movable, so that after hatching, and occasionally when used only for laying, they may be conveniently cleaned. One way of cleansing is to whitewash them, but another, preferred by some, is to kindle a fire inside and char them. This practice will effectually destroy vermin and their larvæ, and will thoroughly purify the nests by leaving a coating of charcoal inside.

IT is not well to prune vines or trees just at the time the sap begins to flow the most rapidly in spring, because it is likely to issue from the wounds, discoloring the bark below, and making the plants look unsightly, even if no further injury follows. But if trees or vines are pruned early enough to ensure a good frosting of the wounds for a few nights before the sap begins to flow, there will be little danger of what is usually termed bleeding.

A VETERINARY surgeon writes to the Country Gentleman that his experience with sawdust is that it is the best bedding to be had for horses or cattle. It is superior to straw in many respects. It is a much better absorbent than straw and is much cleaner. For a pawing horse, it is much better, inasmuch as he displaces the bedding only where the foot touches the floor of the stall, while stray, being long, is displaced generally by the act of pawing.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Inter-Ocean says that to destroy rats set Indian meal on a plate for three nights; the fourth night sprinkle strychnine over the meal. It may be placed under floors or boxes, putting blocks under the sides of the boxes, that the rats may have access to the meal; remove the plate and poison in the morning. If the poison is set the first night only one or two will get it, and others will take the alarm and leave. If the meal is set without the poison for several nights a great many will become accustomed to using it.

MEAT FOR EUROPE.—It is of interest to the farmers in the West to know that fresh meat can be successfully shipped from this country to English markets. We noted a short time ago that a cargo, as an experiment, had been shipped. We are now informed by cable, that it arrived in good condition. The shipments from Philadelphia will continue. This new trade bids fair to open up a new and profitable industry to this country, and as emigration has fallen off and they do not come here to eat our meat, we will furnish John Bull with his steaks on his native soil; providing, however, that he will encourage the industry by giving us good prices.

REPAIRING OLD TOOLS AND MAKING NEW ONES.—When the winds howl and the snow flies or the rain pours it is an excellent time to look over the tools that will be needed next summer; to put new teeth into the rakes and new knives into the machines; and also to look over the harness, and wash and oil them until they seem as good as new. But be sure and examine if they are rotten and liable to break if an extra strain comes upon them. A doctor's bill for caring for a broken leg, arm or head, to say nothing of the severe physical pain, the sleepless nights and long confinement would cost you more than several pairs of new harness. And, when all these things are attended to, new tools can be made, seed-planters, drills, hotbed sashes and frames, besides little conveniences for the kitchen which will lighten the work of the housewife, whose labors are never ended.

REPAIRING RURAL ROADS.—Every observer of our highway management must have seen that we have heavy guns—so to speak—in the care of our roads, but lack light artillery. Repairs are made deep, hollows filled, and knolls leveled, but it seems no one's duty to fill ruts and poke stones out of the tow-path. To lumber up two yoke of oxen for each small service is expensive. We need for this work light, airy teams. A big boy with a cheap horse and a diagonal road scraper could do the business nicely and often, with some person of mature judgment to set him on. Scrapings between scrapings are required to keep earth roads in shape. Somebody to run out after every muddy spell all summer long. A big boy—old enough to pay some regard to the footing of the school-ma'am—would make nothing of rubbing out eight or ten miles of ruts in a day, both ways, kicking now and then a stone out of the track, at a cost, say, of ten or twenty cents per mile.—Hartford Courant.

GOOD "HELP" DESCRIBED.—I have hired a good deal of "help" during the last eight years, and I find it very difficult to get good farm hands. Some are lazy, some are careless, some are good for nothing alone, and of all the hands I have hired I have only had two that I called first-class, good hands. Now, I will tell you what kind of men these two were. In the first place, they were honest, and willing to give a full day's work for a full day's pay. Next, they got up early in the morning, never having to be called, and proceeded about their work. They were faithful when left alone, doing a good day's work and taking care of everything. They saw when a gate wanted fixing, or a board needed nailing to the fence, and did it at noontime or morning or night, as the case might be. They never got the horses' shoulders sore, for they always saw that the collars fitted properly. They were just as good the last day they worked for me as they were the first, which cannot be said of every hand. In fact, they were profitable men to have around, and I kept them as long as I could.—Cor. Western Rural.

About the House.

A METHOD has been discovered for making more than the usual quantity of tea from any given quantity of the leaf. The whole secret consists in steaming the leaf before steeping. By this process fourteen pints of good quality can be brewed from one ounce of tea.

CEMENT FOR BROKEN CHINA.—Make a thick solution of gum arabic in water, then stir in plaster of paris until the mixture becomes a sticky paste. Apply with a brush to the broken edges, stick them together, and in three days the article cannot be broken in the same place.

PULLED BREAD.—Pull the soft portion of a new loaf into rough pieces; let them be of equal size, say about two or three inches each way. Dry the pieces in a slow oven or before the fire till they become a nice light brown color, and when they are quite crisp they will be ready for use. They are very nice with coffee.

BLACK WALNUT STAIN.—Take one quarter of a pound of asphaltum, one-half pound of common beeswax, and one gallon of turpentine. If the mixture is found too thin, add beeswax; if too light in color, add asphaltum; a very little will make a difference in the shade. Varnishing is not necessary, as the wax gives a good gloss. This is a good stain for pine.

ALWAYS fill the bowl of the lamp loosely with batting or raw cotton before putting in any oil, as in case of an accident by breaking or bursting the lamp, the oil cannot then be scattered all over the room. Less space will also be left for disengaged explosive gas, when the lamp from carelessness or accident is lighted after being allowed to get empty, or nearly so.

ORANGE CAKE.—One cup of sugar, half a cup of butter, two cups of flour, half a cup of sweet milk, a teaspoonful of baking powder sifted with the flour. Rub the butter and sugar to a cream, add the eggs, the whites and yolks beaten separately, then the milk, then the flour. Bake in jelly-pans. Squeeze the juice from an orange, add to it the grated rind, make it stiff with powdered sugar, and stir the white of one egg well beaten. Spread this on the cakes and lay one on another, like jelly cake.

HOG'S HEAD-CHEESE.—Thoroughly clean the head, which must be split open, put it over the fire, with plenty of cold water and a handful of salt. Boil until the bones drop out; it will require five or six hours, or perhaps longer, as it depends on the size of the head. When done, drain off the broth, take out every particle of bone, put the meat in a chopping bowl, season with pepper, red and black, half a teacupful of sweet marjoram; the same of summer savory; the same of sage; a teaspoonful of powdered allspice, two of cloves, a salt spoonful of powdered mace. Chop all together as fine as possible; add half a pint of the broth and the same of sharp vinegar; put in molds, and when cold cut in thin slices.

The Miners and the Emma Mine.

The Emma Mine was thoroughly examined by English experts. It gave every indication of being worth ten times the amount it was sold for in London. No distillery in Kentucky ever held up such a promise of wealth as did the Emma. We do not expect to convince Eastern people of the truth of this, but miners understand it perfectly. But while we hear from the Eastern papers all about mining properties bought by Englishmen that have proved to be unfortunate not a word is said about the other class. We would suppose that even Eastern people would stop to think that there was another side to the story, or Englishmen would not continue to invest here. We know one mine in this State which, since its purchase, has increased in value more than the Emma has depreciated, and yet, while to-day its stock is held at many millions, it does not look so well as the Emma did when it was sold. Emma was a misfortune, not an intended swindle, and that fact will yet be fully demonstrated.—Virginia City Enterprise.

WHILE riding in a Philadelphia street car, a few days ago, a lady discovered that her baby, nine months old, was blind. The fact was observed by another lady in the car, who spoke to the mother and gave her the first intimation she had ever had of the sad reality. Physicians say the child has been blind from birth. The neighbors of the mother now remember that the child was never seen to smile or notice anything.

PRESIDENTIAL TALK.

The [illegible] says: "Outside of New York, events seem rapidly shaping to make Gov. Tilden the candidate of the East in the National Convention. The lapse of a few months is likely to narrow the contest down to a [illegible] between him and one or two Western Democrats."

Blaine.

The New York Tribune says: "The report comes from Massachusetts that Mr. Blaine is very unpopular with the Republicans of that State, so much so that they would vote for Conkling in preference. The Springfield Republican says the assertion seems a bold one, but it believes it to be true."

A Kentucky Straw.

The latest Legislature to be sounded on the Presidential question is that of Kentucky. The inquiries were made only of Democratic members, of whom 45 were seen. Of this number 12 were for Hendricks, 13 for Allen, 7 for Thurman, 7 for Pendleton, 3 for Tilden, and one each for Bayard and Kerr.

Washburne.

The Minneapolis (Minn.) correspondent of the Chicago Tribune telegraphs: "The Evening Mail publishes political interviews with a large number of prominent citizens and business men. The prevailing sentiment is in favor of Washburne for President, with Blaine as the second choice."

Seymour.

The Utica (N. Y.) Observer observes: "We beg to inform these bogus newsmongers, who are fond of substituting fancies for facts, that Gov. Seymour is not a candidate for the Presidency; that under no circumstances would he accept a nomination; that if the office of President could be tendered him to-morrow, without the trouble of an election, he would peremptorily decline."

Adams.

The Adams party is growing. In fact, it has been doubled. There are two men in it now. The new recruit is the Boston Herald editor, but, like his Springfield companion, he shows a disposition to compromise on Bristow. This is what he says: "With Adams or Bristow, or, better still, Adams and Bristow nominated on one side, and Tilden or Bayard on the other, we should feel that a good centennial year's work had been begun."

Morton.

Senator Morton's friends profess confidence of his success as a candidate for the Presidential nomination. The Indianapolis Journal gives these grounds for such faith: "The Journal will not attempt, like some of its contemporaries, to predict the exact strength of each Presidential candidate on every ballot, but it can assure the public quite positively that Senator Morton will receive the solid vote of other States besides Indiana on the first ballot, and will develop a strength from the beginning that will surprise his opponents. This statement is based on information received from trustworthy sources, and may be accepted as reliable."

Conkling.

Gen. Boynton is inclined to think that the Conkling movement has been underestimated. He writes to the Cincinnati Gazette: "There is a great deal more in the Conkling movement than has been believed. His friends have made a very strong organization, composed of some of the keenest and most active men in the Republican party. They claim New York solid in the Convention, and are now working to secure the neighboring States as a nucleus. The battle-ground now is Pennsylvania. The Blaine men are certain of it. The Conkling men are confident they will get it. Meanwhile Simon Cameron is a sphinx, and is for the man that wins."

Third-Term.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post sends the following: "Two gentlemen who visited the White House on Thursday tell of an interesting and significant conversation which they had with Col. Fred. Grant on the third-term question. They were speaking of the candidates for the next Republican nomination for President, when Fred. burst out with an emphasis and earnestness that his hearers say convinced them of his sincerity, saying: 'If anybody thinks there's any third term here, he's mistaken. Father don't want to be President any more, and won't accept a nomination if the Cincinnati Convention offer it to him.' This was repeated in substance several times. The conversation turning to the chances of different candidates, Fred. expressed unbounded admiration for Senator Conkling, remarking: 'He's a statesman, a good Republican, and just the man for President.' He added the hope that Mr. Conkling would get the nomination, and said he thought he would slip in as Lincoln did in 1860. The gentlemen who heard him believe he only echoed the opinions of his father."

Sherman.

The New York Tribune has the following: "Here's a Presidential rumor that might be called a 'scarer.' A Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Times had his breath knocked out of him by it: 'A strong combination is in progress to make Gen. Wm. T. Sherman the Republican candidate for the Presidency, and it is confidently asserted that in a very short time it will display very formidable proportions. The movement for Gen. Sherman is concentrating the dissatisfied from all the camps, and has a shrewd manager in his brother, Senator Sherman, of Ohio. Ohio will present some other man than Hayes, and it looks now as if the result will be a united and earnest delegation for Gen. Sherman. He is a brother-in-law of the Ewings, the most powerful Democratic family in Ohio, and it is urged that he would sweep the Buckeye State at the election. What is most significant in this movement is the fact that it shows the entire absence of any concentration of sentiment among the Republican managers as to their candidate for 1876.' That extraordinary news will startle Ohio when it gets out there."

THE Balmoral Curling Club, which only played its maiden game last winter, has ceased to exist, orders having been sent to all the members of the club on the Royal estates to discontinue the game. Queen Victoria is understood to have said that she did not see much amusement in the game of curling, and that she was afraid it tended to encourage a love for malt liquor.

All Sorts.

PRACTICED coasters in Nevada are using a sled with but one runner.

A SISTER of Gen. Meade has received a position as copyist in the Pension Office in Washington.

SIX thousand cart-loads of snow were removed last week from the chief thoroughfares of Boston.

A GIRL inquired of the Mayor of Meriden, Ct., if he could not forbid her widowed mother to marry again. She thought the police ought to be made to interfere.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN introduced broom corn into this country. While examining an imported corn whisk he found a single seed, which he planted in his garden. From that seed the corn was propagated.

A WOMAN chased a man in Cincinnati, caught him, and clung to him until a policeman arrived. A year previously he had ended a friendly acquaintance by stealing her jewelry, and she had never ceased looking for him.

THERE are 203,000,000 British subjects, exclusive of those in the British Isles. About 5,000,000 are in America, nearly 2,500,000 are in Australia, 2,000,000 in Africa, about 176,000 in Europe, and nearly 193,000,000 in Asia.

A MAN with a large family was complaining of the difficulty of supporting all of them. "But," said a friend, "you have sons big enough to earn something for you." "The difficulty is," said the man, "they are too big to work."

A FRENCHMAN, who has lived in America for some years, says: "When they build a railroad, the first thing they do is to break ground. This is done with great ceremony. Then they break the stockholders. This is done without ceremony."

MR. SIPLEY, a noted hermit, of Pike County, Pa., is dead. He was formerly a wealthy merchant of New York, but financial reverses impelled him to go into the hermit business, and for thirty-five years he sustained himself by hunting and fishing.

A MAN named Gill sued the Grand Junction Canal Company, England, to recover compensation for the lunacy of his wife, which he swore resulted from fright caused by a boiler explosion on the canal in October, 1874. The jury awarded him £100.

A NEW HAMPSHIRE dealer in fancy fowls sings the praises of his favorite breeds in the following unique hymn:

If you want some feathered st
That will not your wishes m
When at their nests you daily kn ock,
Buy some eggs or get a fl
Of the famous Plymouth R

THE average speed of railway trains in Germany is twenty-eight miles an hour for fast trains, and twenty-one miles an hour for ordinary passenger trains. The greatest speed attained is on the Berlin, Potsdam and Magdeburg Railroad, where they run at the rate of thirty-four miles an hour.

A BALL was recently given by the Volunteer Fire Brigade of Coventry, and at 3 in the morning, while the dancing was in full progress, the gas was turned off, and the entreaties of the firemen could not persuade the authorities to turn it on. The result is that to-day Coventry is without any fire department.

"THIS loaded cigar business," says the Sacramento Record-Union of Jan. 31, "is being carried too far, and as a practical joke is becoming too serious to be amusing. Yesterday afternoon a citizen had his left cheek burst open by the explosion of one of them, and will, in addition to the pain and discomfort, have a bad scar to show as a result of some friend's 'fun.'"

WORKING tramps in Springfield, Mass., has thinned out the ranks of the fraternity very perceptibly. A year ago the applicants for lodging at the station house averaged from thirty-five to fifty per night, and now the average is but two. Among the applicants one night last week were a newly-married couple from Vermont. The groom was twenty-two and the bride seventeen.

A BILL has been introduced in the Maryland Legislature which makes it unlawful for the proprietor, lessee or manager of any public entertainment to mark or designate any seat as sold, reserved or taken, unless it has been actually sold one hour prior to the commencement of the entertainment. The violation of these provisions, and conviction thereof before a magistrate or court, will subject the proprietor to a fine of $5 for every seat thus marked.

A DREAM WITHIN A DREAM.

I stand amid the roar
Of a surf-tormented shore,
And I hold within my hand
Grains of the golden sand;
How few, yet how they creep
Through my fingers to the deep,
While I weep—while I weep!
Oh God! can I not grasp
Them with a tighter clasp?
Oh God! can I not save
One from the pitiless wave?
Is all that we see or seem
But a dream within a dream?
—Edgar A. Poe.

A CORRESPONDENT of the London Times, who signs his letter "Trojan Horse," draws attention to the strategical difficulties attending the tunnel scheme which is to unite England and France. He says it is not enough to guard against assault through the tunnel, but points to the danger of the Communists, Fenians, and others possessing themselves temporarily of the outlet on the English shore, which would enable them to obtain continuous aid from France. "Why," asks the writer, "risk the rare safety given by nature to the country?"

The Fortification Bill.

The Fortification Appropriation bill, as matured and adopted by the House of Representatives, appropriates $315,000, as follows:

For protection, preservation and repair of fortifications and other works of defense, $100,000.

For armament of sea-coast fortifications, including Gatling guns, and for all necessary expenses, $165,000.

For harbor defenses, torpedo experiments, etc., $50,000.

THE population of Kentucky is 1,666,525.

WEATHER TALK.

Weather Precedents—The Winters of a Century Ago.

[From the Springfield Republican.]

The "oldest inhabitant" has at last forsaken his hiding place, and referring to the journal kept by the Rev. Thomas Smith, of Portland, Me., makes the following interesting statements in relation to the winters of a century ago and more:

In 1735, January was pleasant and moderate, and February was a "summer month." In 1738, January came in like April; in 1749 there were but two snow-storms; February was a summer month again, and March the same. In 1751, January 15, the frost was entirely out of the ground, February was like spring, and "winter ends a wonder through the whole." In 1756, in January, the fish, as they are reported to have done this year, "struck in" from the sea, the weather being so warm. February was delightful, and March blustering, but soft as May. In 1773, Mr. Smith records a summer day in January 27, "wonderful moderate," and February 9, "no snow since December 29—wonderful weather. We saw two robbins."

In the year 1765, February 27, the New York Gazette and Post Boy reports that "last Thursday the weather was so uncommon warm that young lads went into the river to swim." In 1772 the temperature was so high in England that leaves came out on the trees in January, and birds hatched their broods in February. In 1789, the weather was equally mild, and the maidens of Cologne wore wreaths of violets and corn flowers on Christmas, and on Twelfth Day. In 1421 the trees flowered in the month of March, and the vines in April. Cherries ripened in the latter month, and grapes appeared in May. In 1572, the trees were covered with leaves in January and the birds hatched their young in February, as in 1772. In 1775 the same thing was repeated, and it is added that the corn was in the ear at Easter. There was in France neither snow nor frost throughout the winters of 1538, 1607, 1609, 1617, and 1659. Finally, in 1672, even in the north of Germany, the stoves were not lighted, and the trees flowered in February.

CLIMATE AND WEATHER.

Climate is geographically fixed, while weather is atmospherically variable; climate is a calculated quantity, while weather is an unknown one. All sorts of rules are applicable to climate, but none are applicable to weather. Climate is monarchy, weather is anarchy. Climate is a constitutional government, whose organization we see and understand; latitude and altitude are its king and queen; dryness and dampness are its two houses of parliament; animal and vegetable products are its subjects, and the isothermal lines are its newspapers, but weather is a red-hot, radical republic, all excitements and uncertainties, a despiser of old rules, a hater of propriety and order. Climate is a great, stately sovereign, whose will determines the whole character of the lives and habits of its retainers, but whose rule is regular, and therefore so little felt that it seems like liberty; but weather is a cruel, capricious tyrant, who changes his decrees every day, and who forces us by his ever-varying whims to remember that we are slaves. Climate is local; weather is universal. We are indifferent to climate because we are accustomed to it, but we are dependent on weather because we never know what form it will take to-morrow. Climate is the rule; weather is the exception.—Blackwood Magazine.

OTHER MILD WINTERS.

No doubt, were the records properly searched, there could be found parallels for the seemingly unparalleled mildness, thus far, of the present winter. Indeed, we have already been favored with a reminiscence or two which bear on the case. One old resident of the city informs us that the winter of 1837-38—during which the Patriot war was waging—was one of wonderful leniency, so much that vessels navigated Lake Erie during some part of every month of the season. Seven years earlier—1829-30—occurred a winter of still more marked Southern characteristics.

A veteran of Little Valley, Cattaraugus County, testifies to the local paper, as to this season, that in the middle of January he found an elder bush with green shoots upon it six inches long. He tapped his sugar bush on the 11th of February, and the same day found a snake basking in the warm sunshine. There was no sleighing that winter, and hardly a time that farmers could not plow their fields. The farmers of the present day will be encouraged to learn, moreover, that the summer following this unusual season was an exceedingly fine one.

Another interesting fact has been recalled in this connection, to-wit, that the first month of this centennial winter closely resembles that of 1776. The newspapers of that day speak of the extraordinary mildness of the season. It was even said that the lack of the usual ice in Boston harbor prevented Washington from crossing his forces and attempting a surprise of the city, and the Americans were enabled to continually send forth vessels from all parts of the harbor to the West Indies for munitions of war. The mild season also allowed Gen. Schuyler, in these first days of January, to dispatch his well-planned little expedition up the Mohawk Valley to surprise the Highlanders under Johnson.—Buffalo Daily Courier.

An Essay on Fish.

The following essay on "Fish" the Boston Herald attributes to a Cambridge boy: "Fish live in the Atlantic Ocean, Charles River, and some in Buzzard's Bay. When they are small they are called codfish and herrin, and sich; but when they grow up they are called whales. The fat of whales is cut up and biled and made inter kerosene oil fer gas light; their bones is made inter whalebone fer ivory pianer keys and dominoes; also for jack-knife handles and horn buttons. I wish a whale would swaller my school teacher, you bet. Fish is alwas eat Friday—darn a fish, I hate em; there's too many bones to pick out; I'd rather eat a paper of pins fried in lard, you bet."

AN SWEET Angelina hugged her sealskin sacque about her lovely form, she murmured: "Thou art so near and yet so fur!"

INDIANA ITEMS.

THE Sheriff of Brown County, weighs 300.

RICHMOND has organized a horticultural society.

PLYMOUTH, Marshall County, is building a Centennial opera house.

MRS. HEMPHILL, of Attica, 80 years old, is cutting her third set of teeth.

FOURTEEN bridges in Knox County have been carried away by high water.

LEWIS RAGSDALE, of Greensburg, lost an arm one day last week by an engine passing over it.

THE constitution of a new order styled "The Farmers' Union," of the State of Indiana, has been filed at the Secretary of State's office.

THE twenty-eight locomotives sold by the Rogers Manufacturing Company, at Indianapolis, brought only $99,268. Some sold as low as $2,000.

A SOCIETY young lady of Indianapolis tortures the envious eyes of her fashionable sisters by exhibiting a shawl presented to her by the Khedive of Egypt.

A YOUNG man named Bailey, of Vincennes, while out hunting the other day, was accidentally killed. Both barrels of his gun discharged themselves into his abdomen.

J. D. SMITH, living near Nebraska, was arrested the other day for the murder of a man named Taylor, at Boone Furnace, on Tiger Creek, Greenup County, Ky., in 1861. He admits the deed.

ON Saturday last M. G. Paisley, the murderer of James Redwine, at Fisher's Station, Hamilton County, in December last, was arrested in the hills in Kentucky, 100 miles south of Cincinnati, by Sheriff Jesup.

EX-POLICEMAN DAVID PEEL and Jacob Sear, along with Hiram Peel and Jacob Freeman, were upset from a skiff into the Wabash, about two miles south of Vincennes, last Sunday, resulting in the drowning of David Peel.

CONDUCTOR BENNETT, of Lafayette, has compromised his suit against the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad Company, for damages sustained while employed as a conductor on that road, from a train being thrown from Wildcat bridge, by accepting $1,000.

PETER MCCLUSKEY, water-man in the French mine on Sand Creek, near Rockville, while engaged in bailing water into a water-car drawn by a mule in the mine, was taken sick and got on top of the cart to rest, and fell asleep. The mule ran away, and McCluskey being between the roof of the mine and the car was terribly mangled. His life is despaired of.

THE trial of Quincy Orr, one of the men arrested about a year ago for arson, was dragging through the Laporte court last week. The jury brought in a verdict of acquittal Saturday afternoon, after being out nine hours. Orr has been East in an inebriate asylum since his preliminary examination. There was a great deal of interest taken in the trial, and public opinion is somewhat divided as to the justice of the verdict.

THE city of Madison was startled a few nights since by a bloody altercation between Deputy Marshal Peter Kimmel and Officer J. H. Hinds, which resulted in the very serious and probably fatal wounding of the former and the arrest of the latter. It seems a feud had existed between the officers for some time. Kimmel struck Hinds, knocking him down, and as Hinds arose he drew his pistol and fired three shots, one of which took effect in Kimmel's left side below the heart.

THE fourth annual report of the Indiana Reformatory for Women and Girls has been submitted to the Governor. From the Managers' report it is seen that of the $25,000 appropriated by the last Legislature $17,083 have been expended in improvements of various kinds, leaving a balance of $7,916, as from the commencement of the institution it has cost $117,461.49. The total legislative appropriations and allowances for 1875 figure up $58,057.93; total disbursements, $36,672.31. In conclusion the Board fixes the actual expenses of clothing and subsisting an infant committed to the Reformatory per year at $182, and concerning the workings of the Penal and Reformatory Departments pronounces the results gratifying. In the Penal Department, during December, which was an average month, there were 35 inmates, and the Reformatory held 171. Of the first, 12 are from Marion County; four each from Vigo and Vanderburgh; six are sentenced for life, one for 14 years, and the balance from two to six years. Marion County also has 46 in the Reformatory Department, Vanderburgh coming next with 18, and Vigo with 15. The receipts from all sources during the year were $20,869.01, of which $17,665 was from washing, and all this was expended save $734.57. The Managers are J. H. Kappes, F. S. Armstrong, and John A. Finch, and the Superintendent, Mrs. Sarah J. Smith.

THE cyclone that passed over a portion of Washington County a few days since was very destructive to property. A New Albany dispatch furnishes the following particulars: About three and a half miles southwest of Salem it struck the farm of Lewis Smith, unroofed his barn and all outbuildings, and damaged his dwelling; Isaac Richardson's barn was demolished; William Allen's house unroofed and his woodhouse torn to pieces; Dawson Lyon's house was wrecked; Jeptha Morris' barn was unroofed; Mr. Gross' house unroofed; and Mr. Munden's house unroofed; Samuel Knowling's barn was blown down, one mule killed and other stock crippled; W. Johnson's large barn was unroofed; Joel Denny had 1,000 peach trees torn up; Thomas Nicholson's house was blown down, his wife slightly hurt, and two children scalded by the stove turning over; Williams Nicholson's barn was blown down and one horse killed; Wiley Jones' house was partly destroyed, goods blown out and scattered and partially burned; Ben F. Nicholson's house was demolished, his large barn unroofed and almost completely wrecked, horses injured, agricultural implements broken, and a large orchard greatly damaged. His loss is probably 2,500. All along its course fences are destroyed, corn-cribs demolished, poultry killed and scattered, and forest trees uprooted and twisted off. There were many narrow escapes of persons from death. The money value of property destroyed is large.

1776 Centennial. 1876.

1876 1876
Everyone goes to the Cor. store.

HEADQUARTERS

—FOR—

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing.

MILLER & CASEBEER,

—OFFER—

GREAT BARGAINS IN GOODS!

The largest and choicest line of Goods in the city. Call and see.

MILLER & CASEBEER.

Auburn Fruit House

—o—

JUST OPENED

—o—

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

—o—

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

—o—

Read the FollowingPrices

TEAS:

Young Hyson from	85 cents to $1.00
Japan "	90 cents to $1.00
Oolong "	70 cents to $1.00
Gunpowder "	60 cents to $1.00

OFFEES:

Roasted Coffee from	25 cents to 3
Best Rio	25 cents
Best Java a Mocha	38 cents
African Male Java	45 cents

SUGARS:

Double Refined A	11 cents
Brown from	8 cents to 10cts
Hard a Pulverized	12½ "

Canned Fruit from	10 to 32 cents	Lemons, per dozen	50c
White Fish per kit	$1.40	White Fish per half barrell	$5.50
Syrups from	75c to 1.00	Soap, endless variety, per bar	5 a 10c
Dried Beef, Hams and Peckeled pork		Western Reserve Cheese	15 cc's

Dried Fruits.

Apples from	11 to 12½
Prunes from	11 to 15
Choice Raisins from	15 to 20

Coal and Head Light Oil. Best Crackers of all kinds at the lowest prices,—Too many goods to enumerate. Call in and price them. Remember the place is the

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

E. E. WILLIAMS.

CPIONEERO

HARDWARE STORE

JNO. L. DAVIS, Pro.

This s the leading hardware store in our county, and keeps the est assortment of all kinds of

HARDWARE,

TINWARE, ETC.

This house is also the popular place for all kinds of the latest style

COOK AND PARLOR STOVES!

Store on Main Street, opposite Court House, Auburn. Special inducements offered in Sash and Doors. Call for prices.

Grand Display

The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of

Wall and Window Paper!

SHADES AND FIXTURERS.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Miscellaneous and Blank Books,
Pocket Books,
Bill Books,
Wallets,
Memorandas,
Bibles,
Albums,
Testaments,
Pass Books

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONARY,

Pictures, Picture-cord and Tassel,
Box Papers in great variety,
School Supplies of all kinds,
—AT—
C. P. HOUSER'S,
Main Street, opposite Ford's Block, AUBURN, IND.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

Lady Elgin Watch

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,
Jewelry,
Clocks, Silver Ware!
GOLD PENS,
Ladies GOLD Chains,
Gents Chains,
Gold and Silver Rings,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts..

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils. Brushes, Combs. Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has an exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his patrons the benefit of the same.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	5 30a	12 20p	3 55pm	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 20	5 10	1 20
Tipton	8 20	1 15	5 57	2 15
Miami	8 57	1 50	6 38	2 55
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 04
Peru	10 05	3 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 15a	9 55a
Noblesville	4 47	3 13	8 34
Tipton	3 50	2 29	7 47
Kokomo	3 13	1 50	7 09
Miami	2 46	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 36	6 00

E. C. MURPHY, Supt. Mich. Div,
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. M. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst.Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 59	8 55	6 30
Fostoria	9 30	9 23	7 15
Deshler	10 35	10 32	8 38
Defiance	11 32	11 20	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 05am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 05	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 39	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 06	4 05	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25 pm	......	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	......	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 1	......	6 38
Avilla	3 01	......	3 06
Garrett	3 15	5 35am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 45	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 16	11 10	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 25	1 00pm	9 12

L. COLE, Gen. Tick. Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Nov 21, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	2 00 pm	3 45a.m	pm
Ossian	2 53
Bluffton	3 25	5 06	7 00
Keystone	3 54
Montpelier	4 02	5 43	7 22
Hartford	4 28pm	6 06	7 50
Eaton	4 50	6 25	8 12
Muncie	5 10	6 55	8 45
McCowan's	5 37
New Castle	6 15
Cam. City	6 52
Bessons	7 11
Connersville	7 25
Indianapolis	7 40	9 30	11 15
Louisville		pm
Cincinnati	10 30	am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am
Louisville			pm
Indianapolis		7 35pm	4 45am
Connersville	10 45
Bessons	11 00
Cam City	11 18
New Castle	11 55
McCowans	12 30pm
Muncie	12 42	10 00	7 15am
Eaton	1 05	11 30	7 41
Hartford	1 27	10 48	8 15
Montpelier	1 51	11 10	8 45
Keystone	2 00		8 55
Bluffton	2 30	11 45am	9 22
Ossian	2 55		10 05
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
Robt. Kullie, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Ind. Exp.
Cincinnati
Louisville	7 00pm			40
Indianapolis	4 45am			35
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 3		45
Auburn	11 23	6 1		41
Waterloo	11 50	6 4		01
Summit				50
Pleasant Lake				56
Ar Angola	12 40pm	8 00	5 30	10
Reading	1 45		7 00	32
Bankers	1 00		7 28	6 45
Jonesville	2 20		7 52	10 15
Jackson	3 8		9 35	6 00
Detroit	6 15p m		12 30	8 37
Grand Rapids	10 15			11 57
Lansing	5 45
Saginaw	9 06
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 40 a m			4 10p
Lansing	11 07			7 28
Grand Rapids	6 00			11 30a
Detroit	10 30			5 40p
Jackson Dep	1 20 p m			9 40
Jonesville	2 30			11 00
Bankers	2 28			11 20
Reading	2 47			11 35
Ar Angola	3 40	6 15		12 44
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 20	7 33		1 32
Auburn
Auburn Junction	4 30	8 00		1 52
Fort Arrive		9 30		2 35
Indianapolis	11 1.	10p		9 30
Louisvil.	4. am	10
Cincinnati		10 30

B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS

Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Nov. 21st, 1875.

Going East. No. 6 Fre't	No. 4 Expre	No 2	STATIONS	Going West. No 1	No. 3	No. 7 L. F.
6.00p	4.00p	10.30	lv Logans't ar	11.00	6.50p	1.0?m
6.38	4.18	10.45	Adamsboro,	10.45	6.38	12.25
7.04	4.25	10.57	Hoover's	10.33	6.27	12.00
7.20	4.45	11.06	Mexico	10.25	6.19	11.45
7.40	4.52	11.15	Denver.	10.18	6.10	11.25
7.54	4.59	11.36	Chili	10.07	5.58	1.12
8.22	5.12	11.48	Roann	9.54	5.40	10.43
8.55	5.26	12.04	Laketon	9.40	5.26	10.10
9.15	5.38	12.12	N. Manchest'r	9.30	5.15	9.50
9.39	5.4?p	12.20	Lib. Mills	9.21	5.09	9.33
9.58	5.52	12.30	Collamer	9.10	4.57	9.14
10.04	5.56	12.35	S. Whitley	9.06	4.53	9.05
10.28	6.08	12.47	Taylor's	8.54	4.41	8.42
10.50	6.20	1.00	Columbia city	8.42	4.30	8.20
11.20	6.34	1.13	Collin's	8.17	4.16	7.50
11.40	6.46	1.26	Churubusco	8.15	4.04	7.31
12.00	6.55	1.38	Potter's	8.05	3.54	7.16
12.10			G. R. Crossing
12.30	7.11	1.51	Cedar Creek	7.50	3.39	6.45
12.58	7.23	2.00	Aub. Juncti'n	7.34	3.28	6.22
1.00	7.28	2.04	Auburn	7.28	3.23	6.15
1.30	7.36	2.17	Mooresville	7.15	3.10	5.45
2.00	7.50	22.30	ar. Butler lv.	7.00a	3.00p	5.15

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y, for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R'y Saw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.
A. B. J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket. h A
S CUTRAHD, Gen. Supt.

Lake Shore & Mich. SouthernR.R

Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 21, 1875 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:48 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	7:55 p m
Waterloo	3:00 "	2:51 "	8:14 "
Sedan	3.07	3.01	8:28 "
Corunna	3.13	3.06	8:30 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.10 pm	11.35 am	9:35 a m
Sedan	2.20	11.40	6:40 "
Waterloo	2:37 "	11:50 "	6:52 "
Butler	2:47 "	x12:1? a m	7:15 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY. Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R

Condensed time card Dec, 12, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	5 50 pm	8 30 a.m	3 00 p.
Rochester	3 11 "	....	9 45 "	3 10 "
Alliance	5 25 "	8 35 pm	12 50 p.m	7 00 "
Orrville	7 12"	....	2 50 "	8 50 "
Mansfield	9 25"	———	5 14 "	10 58 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 00 "	11 40pm	5 50 "	11 25 "
" lv.	10 20 "	4 50am	6 25p.m	11 00 "
Forest	11 40 "	6 25 "	8 13 "	1 07 am
Lima	12 40 p.m	7 55 "	9 35 "	2 10 "
Ft. Wayne	3 00 "	10 45 "	12 01 a.m	4 10 "
Plymouth	5 06 "	1 43 pm	2 46 a.m	6 08 "
Chicago	8 20 "	5 35 "	6 30 "	9 20 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex.	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail
Chicago	10 20p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m	5 25am
Plymouth	1 56a.m	12 09 p.m	9 05 "	9 25 "
Ft. Wayne	4 55 "	2 40 "	11 45 "	12 30pm
Lima	7 08 "	4 35 "	2 10 a.m	3 40 "
Forest	8 20 "	5 37 "	3 10 "	4 08 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 20 "	7 00 "	4 40 "	6 45 "
" lv.	10 40a.m	7 20 "	4 50 "	6 00am
Mansfield	11 11	7 50 "	5 20 "	6 40 "
Orrville	1 15 p.m	9 50 "	7 12 "	9 10 "
Alliance	3 15 "	11 25 "	9 00 "	11 20 "
Rochester	5 15 "	1 25 a.m	11 12 "	2 07pm
Chicago	6 55 "	2 30 "	12 15 p.m	3 "

Through Mail, (Limited,) leaves Pittsburg daily at 5.50 p. m., stopping only at Alliance, 8.15 p. m Crestline, 11.45 p. m. Fort Wayne 2.50 a. m., arrives at Chicago at 8.55 a. m.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent

BALTIMORE & OHIO.

RAILROAD.

THE GREAT NATIONAL ROUTE
—TO—
Washington, Balt'r
Philadelphia, N. Y.,
THE EAST AND NORTH-EAST

All Trains run via Wash. City.

Among the characteristics of this Favorite route are Double Tracks, Steel Rails,
Magnificent Iron Bridges,
Gorgeous Mountain Scenery,
Unrivaled Eqipment,
Loughridge Air Brakes,
Unsurpassed Eating Houses,
(Owned and opperated by the Company)
And in fact all the Modern Appliances that conduce to.
PEED, SAFETY AND COMFORR

Pullman Palace Cars!
RUN THROUGH
WITHOUR CHANGE
BETWEEN THE PRINCIPAL
WESTERN and EASTERN Cities!

For through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of trains, Sleeping Car accommodations, ac. apply at ticket offices at all principal points, North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Tic. Agt.	L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt
THOS. P. BARRY, Wes'n Pass'gr. Agt.	T. R. SHARP Master of Tras

---

CREAT

New York Store

—IN—

GARRETT,

—o—

LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

Will be found a complete assortment of

FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

he goods have all been well selected, and make nice a stock as there is in the county. The ock consists of a complete assortment of
DRY GOODS,
LADIES' FANCY GOODS,
MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,
a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complete line of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Made to our order, and the nicest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 5 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices All invited to call and see us, whether they purchas or not. Come one, come all, and see our goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargains will be given as we will carry the largest stock Garret and we will make it an object for all buy. Call at the Brown building opposite lar hotel. The farmers will do well to come to trade in Garrett. You can sell your produce for highr market price and get the cash, and you can se goods as cheap as any place and you w be buyfied.
N satisfm — LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ford & Parent, Prs.

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, &c

are prepared to send out rigs at anytime and a reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 6. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, MARCH 9th, 1876. Number 10.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column.........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column.........	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column.......	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office opposite N. W. Cor. Public Square.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store, Cool's Block, North of Court House.

HOTELS.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTEL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue Chicago.
O SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society,

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door, north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE,

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

Thomas Baldock
Building Contractor
AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

NEW
Meat Market

The undersigned has opened a meat market at Markle's old stand, where he will keep constantly on hand a good supply of fresh meats of all kinds, at reasonable prices, and asks a share of the public patronage.
Nov, 1-8m. JOHN TREESH.

Junction Hotel,

JAMES SMITH, PRO'R.

Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.
L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

THE AUBURN
Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

BAKER BROS.
PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!
AND
EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.
BAKER BROS.

John M. Miller,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
FINE FURNITURE,
CHAIRS
Husk & Hair Matrasses
50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND

JAS. CLIFFORD.
WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,
Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the populor resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

IT IS HERE.
W A T
The Largest F Stock of Fine
Hats, Caps,
GLOVES, ETC., ETC.

Ever brought in Auburn. Those wanting this line of good can get them from 100 to 150 per cent cheaper than they were ever sold before in the county by calling on

WILLIAM LESSIG

J. G. FLEDDERMAN
No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A
Has the largest and finest stock of
CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,
AND
CassimereS
in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of
Made up Clothing!
ever shown in Fort Wayne
Youths' and Children's Clothing!
Furnishing Goods, &c.
Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promtly attended to. Go and see his largest stock

The Auburn

WAGONS
Made from the Best Materials,
And constructed with all the late improvements—
The new and extensive
WAGON SHOPS
—OF—
J. W. SHAFFER
South Main Street
re now in full running order and all orders fo
WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.

IT is well adapted to the wants of Tile Makers. It is [illegible] by the power of one horse. [illegible]

CHANDLER & TAYLOR
Patentees and Manufacturers,
Indianapolis, Ind.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

NOTICE.

AUBURN, Feb., 1st, 1876.

Until further notice the tax duplicate of the town of Auburn, will be at the store of S. W. Ralston, at which place I will receive the taxes due thereon. The last day for payment is March 18th next.
D. K. HOUGHTON,
Marshal & Collector.

To live on the fat of the land without work is the aim of Traveling Agents.

We dont employ them but sell to the user at factory prices. Send for our free price list which will give you the price. Freight paid by us to your nearest R. R. to be paid for after you have tested and found satisfactory to that the purchaser absolutely runs no risk whatever. This is the way the best Scales in the world are sold by Jones of Binghamton, N. Y.
Jan. 13-1m

CARPETS,
FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

On The War Path

Terrible Slaugh'er in Dry Goods

Therefore buy your
Dry Goods,
Notions, etc., of
CHARLES KLOTZ
AT HIS
Old Stand
ON MAN STREET,
Opposite Court Square
AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accomodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING
Of all descriptions, and
HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!

LORDIER,
THE FORT WAYNE,
Boot & Shoe!
Store

Is the popular place for all kinks of

BOOT & SHOES

All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely

LOW PRICES

Custom work done the best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.
Remember place
At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store, next to the Bank.

THE FIRST
National Bank
OF AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight
Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.
Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.
Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.
Loans negotiated and business papers discounted
Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:
J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.
Officers:
JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.
April 29, 1875.

PENCIL AND SCISSORS.

Last Saturday was a very busy day for our merchants, and they were in the best of spirits.

* * *

"I've thrown up everything for religion and gone in to convert sinders," is the way a New York song and dance man talks. The song and dance business doesn't pay just now, but this may not have influenced this man.

* * *

The United States is not alone in heavy failures and consequent financial depression. The mercantile failures in England during 1875 were largely in excess of former years. The list as published in the London "Times," is headed by three firms with liabilities over $15,000,000 each!

* * *

A New Jersey man is writing a history of that state and in it he is going to prove that George Washinton was a liar and extortioner. He says he has documents showing that George hated cats, and a man who hated cats will do most any mean thing.

* * *

When a North Carolina negro complained that he had never seen any one commit suicide his brother Jim replied: Sam, you hev ever been kind to me look heah, Sam and he went into the river and remained there until the coroner dragged the body out.

* * *

When a New Jersey farmer's wife puts the rat poison in the baking powder bottle, and then uses it to mix buiscuit for tea, and then makes a dying declaration that she was thinking about her new shawl all time, it is evident that store clothes are mighty scarce in Jersey.

* * *

Dull times are the best for advertising When money becomes scarce people are forced to practice economy. They always read the paper to see who sells goods the cheapest, and where they can deal to the best advantage of course they patronize. That's so.

* * *

Her Love Had Waned.

[Detroit Free Press.]

They came out of a Michigan avenue grocery, he carrying a big jug, and as they reached the walk he said:

"Now, Dolly, you carry the jug and give me that quarter of a pound of tea."

"I'd like to see myself!" she replied.

"Dolly, do you want to see your husband lugging an old brown jug through the crowded streets of the metropolis—do you want others to see him?"

"Come along with that jug!" she impatiently exclaimed.

"Dolly, there's a gallon of molasses in here, and we know it, but everybody else will think it's whisky if I carry it."

"Let them think."

"Dolly if you love me you will carry the jug."

"I won't carry it."

"Then I won't! I've got twice as much character to sustain as you have!"

"Sustain it then," she said as she started for the wagon around the corner.

He called to her, but she did not answer. Giving the big jug a terrific swing into the air he let go of his hold and it came down with an awful crash

"Lasses is nothing to principle!" he explained to the little crowd, and then followed on after Dolly.

Plead, Answer, or Demur.

He stood six feet high in his stockings, and he could trace his ancestory back to Ham. There was a look of weariness in his garments such a look as coats and vests and such acquire by struggling with time and the Fourth of July and a run down the alley to avoid a conversation with a policeman on the subject of:

"The clothes-line; is it a strictly American institution?"

William Sly, there's a report floating around here this morning that you kicked in a door last night," said his Honor. "I can't have such evil doings going on in this peace-loving city."

"Kicked in a doah, eh?"

"That's the charge."

"Put my foot right agin the doah, did I?"

"They say so."

"And dat doah flew right open, did it? Kinder flew right away from me did it?"

"What is your plea, William?

"Well, sah, you want to know all about dat doah business, I spects, and I kin tell you jist 'xactly how dat doah cum smashed."

"Go on."

"Dar was me, and two barbers and a hotel cook and a loose feller what don't work at all, and we went up to old Mrs. White's to git dat cook's coat. I knocked on de doah jes so and de old lady cried out: 'Woof! who's 'round hear dis time o' darkness.' I said I wanted dat coat. De old woman raised de wind, put her head out and speculated on de question as follows 'Now, all you niggers gallop along away from hear or I'll frow clubs at you wid dis yere shotgun!"

"She said that, did she?"

"She reflected dem very expressions, Judge, but we didn't speculate a word back. We jess went right away from dar, and in two minits de place which once node us didn't see us no moah.

"Who kicked it in?"

"Now, Judge, less demonstrate on dat a little. Dar de doah was it was an old doah."

"But you kicked it in?"

"Did I kick dat doah in Judge? Wasn't dat an ole raw-boned doah, and didn't de wind blow dem panels out?"

The officer swore that he arrested William while he was kicking, and the sentence was made for sixty days. I'll go up dar Judge," remarked the prisoner, "and I'll stay up dar till de sixty days have dispired, but after dat period I'ze gwine to fine out if dat ar doah fell in, blode in or was kicked in. I'ze got a character to keep up, and I'ze gwine to sue dat ole woman till she can't sit down."

Having closed out the accumulation of the night, Bijah adjourned the Court, reached behind the door for his cigar stub, and in ten minutes he was left alone with the broken backed chairs and the grease spots on the well.—Detroit Free Press.

* * *

Hon. Wm. S. Holman for Governor.

The following from the Columbus Democrat is so sound and agrees so fully with our views that we reproduce it entire. It briefly states the whole case and gives advice that should be carried out to the letter:

It sometimes happens in the history of parties that one of its members is forced into a position and required to perform public duties in opposition to his private feelings and against his wishes through an exigency having its origin now within and again without the organizations. This happened now nearly four years ago, when Governor Hendricks was tho't, by the circumstances which then existed, to be the most available and in fact the only candidate who could lead the domocracy to success. Mr. Hendricks refused the tender of the nomination, but the democracy said to him that it had the right to demand, and did demand that his private feelings should not stand in the way of his duty to his party. Mr. Hendricks very properly yielded and became the successful leader in the contest of that year. This year another crisis is upon us which absolutely demands that another of its trusted and honored members shall lay aside his private feelings and take a position in the public arena in behalf, and for the benefit of his party. Hon. William S. Holman, known and honored in every one of the ninety-two counties of the State, owes a duty to his party that the party now calls upon him to perform—which is to become its standard bearer in the State, for the great political fight, which will now soon be upon us. His name should be placed at the head of the ticket by the Democratic State convention, and in the meantime let the democratic press of he State urge upon him his duty to the party in this connection and call upon him as with one voice, to recall his declination to serve his party as its candidate for governor.

Institute Proceedings

FAIRFIELD CENTER, Feb. 19, 1876.

Institute met at the appointed hour, was called to order by the president; roll was then called to which but five teachers responded, but all were shortly present. Mr. Harms made a few remarks on penmanship. A class in spelling by Mr. Hursh. Lecture by Mr. Parsl subject, Mountain Systems, Causes and Effects. Class in Arithmetic, by Mr. Bair, Mr. David Martz then favored us with a fine piece of music. Mr. Shatto, a class in Orthography. Several discussions on who we deemed the best modes of conducting a class in spelling in common district schools. Adjourned for refreshment to meet at half past one o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. Baxter, reading. Music by Mr. Martzes. Problem, how much water fell in Fairfield township February, 9th, reconing the township to be six miles square, and the water to have fallen to the depth of three inches? Analized and explained by J. W. Squires. Mr. Essig then gave what he considered the best method of teaching Analysis in Grammar. Song. Mr. Ringber, Arithmetic, subject Interest. Music. A class in Physiology, conducted by Mr. Squires. Music. Declamation by Squires, subject The Farmer of Broad. Music. Dialogue by Harms and Shatto. Music. Declamation by Essig. Music. Declamation by Shatto. Music. Declamation by Squires. Music. Select reading by Baxter. Music. We then tendered thanks to the household of Fairfield Center for the hospitality shown toward us for providing refreshments for us. Second to the Mr Martzes' and the Miss Childses', for favoring us with music. It was then moved, seconed and passed that we the friends and teachers would adjourn.

J. W. SQUIRES, Pres.
A. GONSER, Sec'y.

* * *

A Dangerous Rival for the Plan.

He walked into one of the banks on Saturday morning with firm step, and going straight to the teller's window, he remarked:

"It's mighty close times."

"Yes, was the brief reply.

"Does yer know what ails dis yer country?" continued Mr. Jones.

There was no reply.

"Dar's de merchant, and de lawyer and de laboring man, all crying hard times," continued Jones. "an' nobody seems to know the remedy. Is dar a remedy?"

The cashier wouldn't compromise his bank by making a reply.

"Of course dar is exclaimed Mr. Jones in a veice showing contempt and indignation. "In de fust place labor governs capital, and in the next place capital governs bot. Don't you begin to see now? Isn't de solution perfectly defensible to view?"

The cashier wouldn't say.

De laboring man works for money, continued the financier, and when he gits money he laze it out in cloze and eatables and opera tickets. It circulates round from hand to hand, pays debts carries on business and de hull machinery moves. Don't you see now? Isn't it perfectly imparent to you?

The cashier still preserved silence.

De solution am dis said Mr. J., after a brief rest. "If all de folks what work will go to work at three dollars a day, dese hard times will be knocked nowhar in about five jiffs. Three dollars a day is $18 a week for the laboring man, and dat's unff for anybody. Den when he goes to work have all de lawyers get cases at $50 each. Dey can make $200 a week, and dat's nuff for the lawyers. Den have all de doctors get patients, and all de merchants heaps of customers, all de banks gib out money when a feller wants it, and don't the soluton strike you? Don't dat pilosophy allude to your financial judgment like a load of brick?"

The cashier didn't even smile.

Dat's de way to git along, continued Mr. Jones. "I've handled a heap of money in my time, and dar ain't a cullud person in Detroit dat pays de attention to de finances as I do. De solution is yours. I don't make any charge for it. I wants to see dis yere country run ahead and I want folks to know how it can do it.

He cast a lingering look at the cashier and then went out.—[Detroit Free Press"

* * *

Since the Beecher trial is over and Babcock's free, our dailies can now use their columns in placing the Republican platform of the State before the people.

* * *

The only defference between Belknap and the rest of them, is that Belknap got caught and they didn't.

* * *

It is strange passing strange, that the president consents to accept Belknap's resignation while he is under fire.

THE TRAPPER'S OPINION OF AFFAIRS IN THE "STATES."

"What? no! it can't be possible! Wal, darn my ornery skin
Ef hyar ain't old Sam Allison back from the States agin.
When did ye strike the hills again? Yer lookin jist as gay
An' full of nat'ral cussedness as when ye went away.
Yes, it's Sam, as sure as shootin', "Put 'er thar," ye durned old coon.
I hevn't felt so good fur years. Why, man, I'd jist as soon
Hev thought o' seein' my dad out hyar; I would, I swar to Joe—
An' he tuk sick an' "crossed the range" more'n forty years ago.
Le's see. It was in '71 when you left us up the creek;
Or war it '72? My mem'ry isn't nigh so quick
As 'twar a dozen years ago. I'm gittin old, ye see;
Ain't half the man I was the day we struck the Laramie.
Wal, what ye bin a doin? an whar all hev ye bin?
An' what in the name o' goodness ever brought ye back agin?
Black Hills, eh? Goin' to try yer hand at diggin' arter gold?
Durned ef I wouldn't foller ye ef I wan't so tarnal old.
But I'll hang on to the traps, I guess, fur I hevn't long ter stay
Out o' the ground; an' all I need's my grub from day to day.
Won't hanker arter riches, fur I b'lieve it'd be wrong;
I'll jist jog on an' thank the Lord fur leavin' me hyar so long.
An' how are matters in the States? I hear some tough old tales
About the goin's on back thar; I'll swar it knocked the scales
A boomin' off'n my eyes to hear the folks a comin' in
An' tellin' of frauds an' wickedness thet 'ud double discount sin.
How they manyfactur whisky unbeknown to Uncle Sam,
An' bank cashiers keep skippin out. Why, pardy, I'll be dam
Ef 'tain't hard ter swaller all the stories thet we hear.
They even say the preachers thar are actin mighty queer.
Especially some high toned ducks, who preach an' sing an' shout,
Then play right inter Satan's hand as soon as meetin's out.
Some on 'em's Christians, thet I know; but then, I am inclined
Ter think thar's lots o' preachin' now-a-days thet's all a blind
Ter hide the outside skirmishin'; fur I'm a tarnal liar
Ef I don't think with all thet smoke thar's bound ter be some fire.
They tell me, too, thar's murder goin' on 'mongst high an' low,
An' they allers find the murderers insane an' let 'em go.
Penitentiaries don't ketch 'em, an' hangin's most played out.
Why, dog my buttons, Sam! it's 'nuff to make the devil shout!
Ef things keep on a gittin' worse at this alarmin' rate,
They'll stick a notice sayin' "closed" up over Heaven's gate;
Fur it'll never pay expenses to run the place, thet's clear.
They wouldn't ketch an average of one good saint a year.
It makes me sick. I'm tryin' to think thet it isn't true.
Wal, by the jumpin' Judas! what are we comin' to?
I tell ye, Sam, I'm glad thet I ain't in thet country now;
I'll take these mountains ev'ry time in mine, I will, I vow.
Thar's no use tryin' to dodge it, pard; some day thar'll come a crash,
An' the whole infernal country'll go right plum ter smash.
Fur the Boss thet rules us all, up thar in Heaven's shiny land,
Ain't goin' ter stand no sich a game 'thout callin' fur a hand.
An' I'll bet my whole last season's "ketch" thet e He sets in the game,
He'll fill thet brimstone country up as long as thar's a flame.
Wall, I must be a toddlin' back; I've got my pelts all sold,
Ain't done so good this year as last, it's been so orful cold
Thet I couldn't git ter all my traps ter tend 'em as I'd ought;
But then, I won't complain, but thank the Lord fur what I've got.
"Put 'er thar" agin, old chum, an' I hope ye'll hev good luck
But ef she don't pan out jist right an' ye happen to git stuck,
Jist come to old Jack's cabin, an' ye'll find a place ter stop ong as ye live. Bye, bye, old pard. No, thankee, not a drop."

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

Circumstances of His Advent into Illinois—A Scrap of History with which the Public is Not Acquainted.

A letter from Meredosia, Ill., to the Quincy Whig says: Excepting Abraham Lincoln, there is not one of that remarkable cluster of public men who flourished about his time in this State and in the nation at large, regarding whom a historical reminiscence could be of more interest than one about Stephen A. Douglas. It is true that his life, after he became a public man, is pretty well known; but that portion of it lying between his arrival in Illinois and his getting a business foothold, so to speak, and down to the point of his first political adventures, has something in it not generally known. Shall I recount a little of it to you?

Nowhere is this period so well known as here, for here, and within 200 yards of where I am now sitting, Douglas first set foot on Illinois soil. It was in 1833—say early in the autumn of that year—as to the exact date I am not now particular to inquire. A boat had just arrived from St. Louis, and Mr. Daniel Waldo, then a merchant, now the Postmaster here, had gone to the landing to receive some goods. While thus engaged, a green-looking young man stepped up to him and inquired whether he knew of any place where a teacher was wanted. Mr. Waldo replied that if any place in this glorious domain of the screaming eagle needed a school, it was emphatically Meredosia, and that, if the young man would go up to the store and wait a few minutes, the subject should be properly canvassed as soon as the goods were disposed of.

Stephen A. was a young Douglas of good address, and in a few moments made the acquaintance of a clerk in the store by the name of E. D. Plasteridge, who had been a student at Castleton, Vt., and, as Douglas was raised within a short distance from that place, they immediately found interest in each other and were in busy conversation when Mr. Waldo returned. But the youths of Meredosia were not hungering and thirsting after knowledge, and, in fact, their parents were more absorbed in problems of prairie land, corn and pork than in "readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic." As a result, he failed to get a school, such as he wanted. There was then, of course, no place for popular education in the State, and if a subscription failed of obtaining enough signatures to warrant a teacher in devoting his time to the public secured, the children were let to run to grass. This is why so many of them went to seed.

Between the time spent in determining whether school could be secured and that used up in awaiting developments in some other direction, about three weeks were consumed here. During this time young Douglas employed himself in attending a small grocery for Willis Jones, his board being the only compensation received. He slept with Plasteridge in Waldo's store. He had nothing in the way of baggage or goods but a little bundle tied up in a yellow cotton handkerchief, and is believed to have been entirely without money.

About the end of the third week, James Ethel, Esq., of Bethel, happened in Meredosia, and Douglas inquired of him in regard to chances for getting a school. Ethel replied that they wanted one in Bethel, and the young stranger went with him to that place the same day. He began teaching there, and continued about three weeks; but he was not suited, and abandoned it. After getting the school he husked corn for Ethel a few days, some say as a compensation for the use of a team to carry him to Winchester, where he determined to try the experiment of teaching again; others say this work was done to pay his board bill, and it is probable the latter conclusion is the correct one, and that he walked to Winchester, as would appear from the following anecdote:

On the way to Winchester he came to a farmer's residence—a residence was a shanty then—where a large crowd was gathered for some purpose, he could not discover what, but he made free to inquire and learned that they had a public sale of farm property, that everything was ready to proceed; the auctioneer was there charged to the muzzle with all the stale jokes of his profession, that the requisite amount of whisky had been provided for the proper condition of the business, but that they were "clean done" for lack of somebody "to keep the reckoning," as they called it. That is, there was nobody there who could write, and so they had no clerk. Mr. Douglas indicated that keeping the reckoning was his strong point, and he was accordingly pressed into the service. The day's work being satisfactorily concluded, he received $2 for his services, and this was the first money he ever earned in Illinois.

He went to Winchester, secured a school and taught for about a year, awaiting the time when he could be admitted to the bar. During this time he was comparatively unknown at Meredosia.

The great Van Buren campaign came now, and the Democracy of Morgan County, then including the present Scott, Cass and Morgan Counties, undertook a thorough organization, and, at their convention in Jacksonville, nominated a full ticket for county officers, State Representatives and Senators. Among the nominees were such names as the Hon. Newton Cloud, Richard Walker, Col. William Waterford and Daniel Waldo. The business partners of the latter gentleman were dissatisfied with his going into politics, and he accordingly signified his intention of declining the nomination. There then sprung up a number of aspirants for the vacancy—the nomination was for Representative—and old Gen. McConnell, W. W. Happy and young Douglas all called on Mr. Waldo, soliciting his resignation in their favor. He was favorably inclined toward Douglas, but proposed holding an election on the three names in his district, the one getting the largest number of votes to be nominee. About two-thirds of the votes were cast for Douglas, and thus he was pretty fairly started toward the Legislature.

Time passed on and the campaign began to warm up. A political meeting was announced to be held at "Greasy School House," as it was called, a few miles south of Jacksonville, but the speaker sent word that it was impossible for him to come. The Hon. John Wyatt, well-known in the history of Morgan County, came up to Jacksonville expecting to secure Josiah Lamborn to fill the place, but he was out of town, and Douglas was induced to go out and speak rather than disappoint the audience. There is no remembrance of that occasion which would indicate that he showed anything like remarkable powers. At any rate, it was his first political speech in the State.

Some time thereafter, and during the session of the court at Jacksonville, the Whigs made a formal opening of the campaign on their part by a speech in the court-room from the brilliant E. D. Baker, then of Carrollton. The Democrats heard the arguments of Baker with dismay, for they had nobody in all the region at all competent to meet him. The next morning they held a meeting to decide what to do. They discussed the abilities of all their speakers, and finally adjourned till evening without any decision. In the evening again, when name after name had been mentioned and rejected, some one proposed Douglas. A committee waited on him as a last resort, and heard his answer: "If there is no one else to do it, I will speak and give him the best I have."

The next day, at the adjournment of the court, Mr. Waldo announced that Mr. Douglas would reply that evening, in the court room, to the speech of Mr. Baker. There were several prominent Whigs present, among them Gen. Hardin, and these and most of the lawyers seemed much amused at the idea of this young fellow's attempting to speak in reply to E. D. Baker. However, the court room was crowded in the evening, the speaker was introduced by Mr. Waldo, and of all the audiences Douglas addressed, he probably never addressed one that was so thoroughly surprised. His speech was triumphantly and enthusiastically received, and from this point his public career began and is generally known.

WHERE TWO SUNDAYS COME TOGETHER.

"Well, I never did——"

"I know you never did, my dear, but you may, one of these days, when our ship comes in and we start on that round of ours. We can't very well start until that metaphorical vessel does arrive; can't go out until she comes in. You see, the sinews of war are also the muscles of peace, and it needs a well-developed financial biceps to enable one to strike out effectively on such a round."

"What on earth are you talking of," said Mrs. Penn, "with such a jumble of finance and pugilism and maritime affairs? It strikes me that your metaphors are slightly mixed."

"Well, you said you never——"

"Yes, I was going to say that I never heard of where two Sundays came together."

"Exactly. And that is what I was talking of. I was about to explain it to you."

"Do you mean to say that there is such a place?"

"I do."

"And time?"

"And time."

"Then I should like to know what becomes of the Seventh Day of the strict Sabbatarians?"

"That is a theological question, my dear. We'll not meddle with it."

"But how do they make two Sundays come together?"

"Just in that way precisely. They make 'em come together. For instance, on board a naval vessel, say, when the officer in charge of that duty finds by an 'observation' that the sun is precisely over the line of the ship's meridian (i. e., the point or degree of longitude east or west of Washington or Greenwich where she then is), he knows that it is noon of that day (to a landsman; to him it is the beginning of the next day), and he reports accordingly to the proper officer: 'Eight bells, sir,' and receives reply: 'Make it so, sir,' usually with the agreeable addition, 'and pipe to dinner.' So it is that the ship's officer, upon occasion, makes two Sundays come together, or, for the matter of that, knocks Sunday out of the week altogether, according to circumstances."

"Knocks it out altogether? Only one Sunday in two weeks?"

"Precisely. He can jump from Saturday to Monday if he will."

"Worse and worse! Well, explain, please. Let me understand the 'circumstances' under which these nautical gentlemen so coolly double Sunday or drop it."

"Here goes, then: We were talking of that little proposed round of ours."

"O, yes! What round?"

"Why, round the world. Haven't we been speculating and castle-building on taking one of those through-tickets for the yet-to-be-fashionable tour, with lay-over coupons for Chicago and San Francisco and Yokohama and Hong Kong and Calcutta and Bombay and Suez and Brindisi and Paris and London? Well, it depends on which way we take that ticket, eastward or westward, whether we lose a day—Sunday it may be as well as any other—or make one on our trip. It is usually on the Pacific Ocean that this gain or loss is made, because, Washington or Greenwich being the 'given or governing meridian' from which American or English vessels calculate their longitude, it is only on that ocean that they find the one hundred and eightieth degree, or half-round-the world point, at which they effect the change."

"Yes, I see that by the globe. Here is the one hundred and eightieth degree west or east of Greenwich, right in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. Go on with your yarn."

"Thanks to common schools and the electric telegraph most landsmen now understand that a difference in longitude makes a difference in the time of day; that a message going westward arrives at its destination before its apparent hour of starting; or, as Pat would say, 'it'd rache St. Louis before ye sint it from New York.' Orreries have taught our youngsters that, as the earth turns toward the sun, at the point which is full-faced to that luminary it is high noon, while at one quarter of the earth's circumference toward the west it is just sunrise. This difference of time is, at the equator, just four minutes for each degree of longitude—eqal to six hours (360 minutes) for the ninety degrees, or quarter circumference, above noted. Thus at St. Louis, fifteen degrees west of New York, it is sixty minutes earlier than with us, or eleven o'clock when it is twelve here, and a ship circumnavigating the globe going westwardly thus gains on apparent time (laps over on to the next day) four minutes for each of the 360 degrees of westing, or twenty-four hours for the entire circuit of the earth. In other words, going west, and keeping her record of days from the day of the week on which she starts, on arriving back at her port on what to her is Monday she finds that it is Tuesday on shore, and she must jump from Monday to Wednesday to set herself right. Making the circuit eastwardly, the case is reversed, and arriving from the west it is Tuesday on her log, while to-morrow is Tuesday to her boarding-officer. The ship then doubles Tuesday and squares her record.

"But most seamen correct this seeming error on passing the half-way point; i. e., on reaching the 180th degree east or west of their governing meridian a day is dropped or repeated, and the ship arrives without being in next week or last week, when she should be in this. Landsmen's ignorance of these facts has caused some amusing scenes on steamers on the Pacific. Some twenty years ago the New Orleans, the first passenger steamer that ever crossed the Pacific Ocean, was on her way from San Francisco to Sydney with a load of gold hunters, including some Pike County men, whose nautical education was limited. The purser had posted his usual daily bulletin of latitude, longitude and distance run since the previous noon—always an interesting episode in the history of a day on a long voyage—dated, we'll say, Monday, the 10th. The next day it stood Wednesday, the 12th, the 180th degree having been passed meanwhile, and the intervening day duly dropped. The apparent blunder caught the eye of the eager readers at once.

"'Hallo, purser, what's this? You've made a mistake; you've dated this Wednesday.'

"'Yes, sir; that's all right.'

"'All right? Why, yesterday was Monday; here's your own bulletin up yet.'

"'Yes, sir. That's right, too.'

"'Right, too? Where in thunder is Tuesday?'

"'Knocked out!'

"'Oh, come, now,' said Pike, on the lookout for sailors' tricks on green hands, 'that won't do. None of that with us. Who ever heard of knocking a day out of the week?'

"Bets were finally made, to be settled at Sydney; and when the pilot boarded them the papers showed the purser to be right, and that it was the 16th, say, in Australia, while Pike was a day behind in his almanac. On the return trip from Sydney to Panama, on reaching the 180th degree, bulletins were posted 'Sunday, the 5th,' and the next day the same. Here was another fuss; the John Bulls on board were especially disgusted.

"'All 'umbug! Two Sundays! The Captain's a very clever man, no doubt, but that won't do, you know. No Yankee tricks on us!'

"The Captain insisted, with the intimation that that was the time when his notes fell due, and he was ready to meet them. So, you see, honest Jack has a real time in his mind, and means what he says when he promises to pay his debts if presented 'where two Sundays come together.'"

"Well," said Mrs. P., "the middle of the Pacific Ocean is a good place to go into liquidation."—Harper's Weekly.

Robbed and Mistaken for a Ghost.

The Mechanicsburg (Cumberland County, Pa.) Journal tells a story that seems almost incredible, though it is vouched for as strictly true. Samuel Erb, of East Pennsboro Township, had been to church one night, and as he approached his house was startled by a commotion in his chicken coop. On investigating the cause he discovered three men wringing the necks of his poultry. When the thieves saw him they fled with their plunder, seeking shelter among some bushes. Mr. Erb, with his dog, pursued them, but a couple of shots from the thieves caused the dog to retreat. A pistol was then presented to his breast by the robbers, who robbed him of his money and his watch, and then compelled him to take off his clothes, stripping him to his shirt and drawers. They then gagged him and tied his hands behind his back, and he was allowed to go home, the thieves taking their departure also. A correspondent of the Journal tells the rest of the story as follows: "The feelings of Mr. Erb can be easier imagined than described, as he walked home through the keen air. But his troubles were not yet over, for at his gate he was met by his dog, which had deserted him. Failing to recognize his master, he kept barking and snapping through the pales at his legs. Mrs. Erb being aroused by the noise, looked out of the window, and seeing his white figure dancing in the moonlight, thought it was a ghost, called her father, who was staying with her at the time, who came armed with the shotgun, and opening the door he called off the dog. He then desired to know the mission of one in so strange an attire. Never was man more willing to speak or more unable than Mr. Samuel Erb. So the only reply was a few nods of the head, accompanied by as many jumps with his feet. Mr. Boozer then brought his weapon to his shoulder, and taking aim at the supposed ghost demanded it to speak immediately or leave the premises. With this he coupled the promise that a failure to comply would cause him to fire. Mr. Erb was now in a great dilemma. Speak he could not. If he staid he would be shot, and if he went away he would freeze. In fact, he was nearly frozen already. He turned to go, and as he did so, his wife saw his arms were tied on his back. Telling her father this, that gentleman called to him to come back, but kept the gun pointed, saying as long as there was no evidence of hostility there need be no fear. Mr. Erb tremblingly obeyed, and on drawing near was recognized, taken in and cared for."

Ruth Hall.

The Boston correspondent of the Cleveland Plaindealer writes: "Mr. James Parton's bride is the 'Nelly' of Fanny Fern's novel, 'Ruth Hall,' the greatest literary bombshell that ever exploded in Boston. The book was published in 1856, just before its author's marriage to Mr. Parton, and as it contained caricatures of nearly all editors of the weekly papers in the city, a painfully unflattering portrait of Nathaniel P. Willis, Lady Blessington's 'Yankee Poodle,' and such a likeness of her father-in-law and his wife as a spirited woman would be likely to paint, the outcry against it was loud. Everybody protested that his feelings were not hurt, and defended everybody else from the 'malicious attacks' made by Mistress Fanny. Columns of leading articles were written to show that the portraits were libels, and the book was sold by thousands. Looking over it to-day, when the sting has quite departed from it, it seems rather bright but inartistic, and occasionally spiteful; and it is well known that the writer underestimated the kindness of her own and Mr. Eldridge's father. They decided after the death of her husband, who was not all the angel that her fancy painted him, to make her an annual allowance of $600, which in those days was enough to modestly support her and her two children. She was unsatisfied, and betook herself to literature to increase her resources, but it is not on record that she ever refused to draw her quarterly $150.

Beans in a Barrel.

The Lowell (Mass.) Courier says: "One day last week a party in a wholesale country produce store in this city proposed a guessing match in regard to the number of pea-beans in a barrel of that vegetable. There were several grocers in the store and their estimates varied from 40,000 to 4,000,000, all giving wild guesses. It was ascertained that there are about 566,000 pea-beans in a full barrel; this result being obtained by counting the number of beans in a pound weight, and multiplying that by the number of pounds in the barrel. This of course would give only an approximate number, as the figures for each pound will very probably vary slightly, and the stated number of pounds in a barrel may also vary. A gentleman of an advanced mathematical education who happened in the store was asked to guess the number of beans. He reached a result by measuring one bean, and then figuring how many of the beans could be put in the barrel. He placed the number in the barrel at 2,000 less than the result obtained by the easier method of calculation, and his figures may be even more correct than those by the loose method."

Saved from the State Prison.

Speaking of bank officers who allow forgers to escape after they have been detected, a leading Boston merchant and bank president says that many years ago he discovered that a note he held was forged. The forger was well known and respectable. He went to him, and the man begged for mercy, averring that there was only one other forged paper of his in existence—a note for $300. The holder not only "hushed up" his own case, but actually loaned him the $300 to take up the other note. The result was that the man was saved. Some years later he attempted to run for an important electoral position, but the discoverer of the forgeries sent him word that he mustn't—and he didn't.—Springfield Republican.

HORACE AND HENRY.

An Interesting Story of a Philosopher and a Senator.

The editor of the Johnstown (N. Y.) Daily Tribune, who writes whereof he knows, tells the following story of two distinguished characters. The writer was an attache of the Tribune establishment at the time the incident occurred as related, and tells the story from personal knowledge: Vice-President Wilson and Horace Greeley were alike in many respects, and in no one respect more than their dress. Especially when the former was overworked was he about as "slouchy" as the "old philosopher" dare be. This incident of the two men has never been in print, we believe, but it is good enough to be put there. In the old Tribune office Horace Greeley occupied a little eight-by-ten office off the main editorial room, with a small desk at which he sat with his nose down on the lid for hours at a time and ground out editorials by the column. That he might not be disturbed by ward politicians and other nuisances, he had stationed on a stool just outside the door an attendant whose duty it was to hear the applications of all persons who claimed admission. In the summer of 1867 there was stationed there a double-breasted, strong-fisted, ignorant Jerseyman by the name of Ben. One afternoon Horace was sitting down with his nose to the desk, as usual, and Ben was stationed on the stool outside the door, in his accustomed place; the editors were at work in the large room at their desks, and a large, broad-shouldered man made his appearance, looking as if he had just come into the city and had not taken time to wash, or, as Ben thought, had just come out of one of the saloons on Chatham street. He staved up to Greeley's door, passed Ben as if he had a right to go in, but the door was locked, and Ben, being aroused by this time, asked what he wanted. The visitor stated he would like to see Mr. Greeley. "You can't see him!" bawled out Ben. "But my business is important," said the visitor. "That's what you all say, but you can't see him." Finally the visitor induced Ben to go into Mr. Greeley's cubbyhole and inform him. Ben, opening the door, went up to Mr. Greeley, and in a stentorian voice, while Greeley kept running his pen diagonally across the page, bawled out: "Mr. Greeley, there's an old bummer wants to see you." Greeley, without taking his nose off the paper, in his usual squeaking voice, cried out: "Keep him out—keep him out!" Ben quickly turned to go where the visitor was, and in a bass voice bellowed, "You can't come in!" The visitor insisted, and plead and stated that Ben did not know who he was. Ben said he did, but finally consented to try another time. He again approached the philosopher with the expression, "Mr. Greeley, this old bummer says he must see you!" Again came from the top of the desk the same sentence, repeated thousands of times before in the same way, "Keep him out! keep him out!" Ben again went back and informed the visitor there was no other alternative; he could not see Mr. Greeley. The editors were by this time attracted by the conversation, and Amos J. Cummings, who was night editor, being at a desk near by, stepped up to the visitor and politely said: "Senator Wilson, how do you do? Do you wish to see Mr. Greeley?" The Senator informed him that he did, and Mr. Cummings opened the door, asked the Senator to step in, and the two going up to Mr. Greeley, who was yet undisturbed, Mr. Cummings spoke to Mr. Greeley, and stated that Senator Wilson wished to speak to him. "Oh," drawled out the philosopher, "is that you, Henry? Why, Ben told me that it was an old bummer wished to see me!"

Proposed Reduction of the Army.

Mr. Banning, of Ohio, has introduced in Congress a bill to promote the efficiency of the army, to provide for its gradual reduction, and the consolidation of certain of its staff departments. It reduces the number of cavalry regiments to eight, and of infantry regiments to twenty-three, and provides that there shall not be any new enlistments till the number of enlisted men shall be reduced to 20,000; that regimental organizations of artillery shall be abolished, and that the artillery shall be hereafter known as the corps of artillery, and shall consist of five batteries of light artillery and sixty batteries of heavy artillery. It merges the Quartermaster's and Subsistence Departments into one organization, to be known as the Department of Supplies. The Medical Department is to consist of one Surgeon-General, with the rank of Brigadier-General; one Assistant Surgeon-General, with the rank of Colonel; two Medical Purveyors, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel; five Surgeons, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel; forty Surgeons, with the rank of Major, and 125 Assistant Surgeons, with the rank of First Lieutenant, mounted, for the first five years, and with the rank of Captain, mounted, after five years' service. The number of Contract Surgeons to be limited to fifty. The office of Medical Storekeeper is abolished. The Paymaster-General is to have the rank of Brigadier-General, and there are to be no new appointments to the grade of Major in the Pay Department until the number of Majors shall have been reduced below twenty, at which number they are to remain fixed. It repeals the law that allows women to accompany troops as laundresses.

National Republican Convention.

The Chicago Tribune says: "Not a little stir has been created among the members of the Republican National Committee by the discovery that enterprising speculators have got a "corner" on the Cincinnati hotel accommodations, and will extort heavy profits from delegates and visitors. In view of this fact the committeemen are earnestly considering the propriety of reconsidering the vote by which Cincinnati was chosen as the place for holding the convention, and of designating Chicago instead. It is believed that a majority of the committee is already favorably inclined to this step, and that it is within the province of the committee to rescind its previous action.

At Wrexham, England, where Bishop Heber wrote the hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," the printer is still living, it is said, who first put the hymn in type, on the Saturday of its composition, for use the following day.

TWO LOVERS.

BY GEORGE ELIOT.

Two lovers by a moss-grown spring;
They leaned soft cheeks together there
Mingled the dark and sunny hair,
And heard the wooing thrushes sing.
O budding time!
O love's best prime!

Two wedded from the portal stept;
The bells made happy carollings,
The air was soft as fanning wings,
White petals on the pathway slept.
O pure-eyed bride!
O tender pride!

Two faces o'er a cradle bent;
Two hands above the head were locked;
These pressed each other while they rocked,
Those watched a life that love had sent.
O solemn hour!
O hidden power!

Two parents by the evening fire;
The red lights fell about their knees
On heads that rose by slow degrees
Like buds upon the lily-spire.
O patient life!
O tender strife!

The two still sat together there;
The red lights shone about their knees,
But all the heads by slow degrees
Had gone and left that lonely pair.
O voyage fast!
O banished past!

The red lights shone upon the floor,
And made the space between them wide
They drew their chairs up side by side,
Their pale cheeks joined, and said, "Once more
O memories!
O past that is!

Pith and Point.

A LITTLE editor is a "we" thing.

SOMETIMES gets out of temper—Steel.

A WELL-BRED woman never hears an impertinent remark.

WHEN you bury animosity never mind putting up a tombstone.

WHEN a widow with children marries she becomes a pa-taker at the wedding feast.

"WHAT is the origin of the word "news?"—the initial letters of the four points of the compass.

A YOUNG shaver had had several teeth extracted with the assurance that they would come again. With an eye to the immediate future little Johnnie inquired, "Will they come again before we have dinner?"

WHEN a young man calls on a girl for the first time, and when the conversation lags, and the subject of the weather has been torn all to pieces, then it is that the photograph albums step in and fill up the gap that nothing else in the world could bridge.

AT a young ladies' seminary recently, during an examination in history, one of the not most promising pupils was interrogated: "Mary, did Martin Luther die a natural death?" "No," was the reply; "he was excommunicated by a bull."

SENATOR CHRISTIANCY'S bride has let millions slip through her fingers, and has long been a young lady of note.—Cincinnati Commercial. Aye, and of title likewise; for the Senator's bride was for many years a countess in the Treasury Department.—Detroit Tribune.

MR. PUNCH, being asked his opinion of the present ladies' dress, replied: "I highly approve the present fashion, comprehending as it does the highest graces of the two most distinguished models of female beauty—having in front the Venus de Medici, behind the Venus de Hottentot!"

THE second night after her first husband died she sat by the open chamber window five hours, waiting for the cats to begin fighting in the back yard. Said she: "This thing of going to sleep without a quarrel of some kind is so new that I can't stand it! Let me alone till they begin, then I can doze off gently!"

PARTY with cold in his head to party opposite (referring to open window in railroad car), "Say, wid you shud up that wi'dow?" Middle-aged female in weeds, who has been talking the last half-hour, turning around indignantly, "What do you mean, sir? It is a pretty how-de-do when a woman can't open her mouth! I'll have you to know you can't shut me up!" Sensation.

POETICAL SOAP.

Messrs. Water and Oil
One day had a broil
As down in the glass they were dropping,
And would not unite,
But continued to fight,
Without any prospect of stopping.

Mr. Pearlash o'erheard,
And, quick as a word,
He jumped in the midst of the clashing;
When all three agreed,
And united with speed,
And Soap came out ready for washing.

A STRANGER entered a Detroit wine shop where four or five men were drinking, and in a loud voice inquired for the proprietor. That person came forward, and the stranger said: "I'm hard up, and I want to sell you a recipe. For two dollars I'll show you how you can make a gallon of best Catawba wine out of twenty cents' worth of drugs and whisky." "Would you insult me?" cried the dealer. "I have none but pure wines here! Get out of my place, sir!" The man got out, but hadn't gone a block when a boy came running after him and said: "Come around to the back door if you want to sell that recipe."—Free Press.

ONE of the interesting features of the Emma mine suit will be the revelations of the true nature of the bait at which the British gudgeons bit. It is stated that a part of the purchase consisted of £538,000 worth of ore in sight at the mine, and as this was counted as so much cash in hand, it would reduce the actual price of the mine to £462,000, or $2,310,000. The British gudgeon, claim that the mine was guaranteed to earn £800,000, or $4,000,000 a year, and this is a point which Schenck is entitled to make, viz.: that any man who believes he can buy a property which will pay for itself in seven months, and thereafter earn dividends at the rate of 170 per cent. on the first cost, is such a natural-born idiot that he does not deserve to have any money. This, of course, is not a legal defense, but it is a sufficient answer to the men who bought the Emma mine, with their eyes open, and now claim to have been swindled.

THE London World thus describes a new device for burying the dead: "You are placed in a glass box, to the top of which is affixed a metal rod. As soon as the earth is filled in, a battery is connected with the rod, and an electric shock shatters the coffin into a thousand pieces, thus allowing the earth to press upon the dear departed, and causing him to return to dust even quicker than in one of Mr. Seymour Haden's wicker baskets."

STUPENDOUS LAND SUIT.

One Hundred and Eighty Square Miles in Illinois and Missouri Claimed by French Heirs—"There's Millions in It."

It is well known how enthusiastically the French cheered in 1719 the foundation of the "Campagnie des Indes" for the purpose of cultivating and developing the immense riches of the Mississippi valley; every bit of land turned into shares was quoted at the Bourse of Paris. Four years afterward, however, an unparalleled panic followed this enthusiasm, and the shares which had been changing hands at 40,000 francs, were sold at one franc each; the real estate then was of no value and this explains the importance of the grant made by Messrs. de Boisbriand and des Ursins in the name of the "Campagnie des Indes" to Mr. Philippe François Renaut, general manager of the mines of Louisiana under date June 14, 1723. The grant, which was confirmed by the French Government in 1731, comprised, first, two leagues square, or thirty-six square miles, at a place called Mine Lamothe; second, one and one-half leagues front by six leagues deep, or eighty-one square miles, on the Little Merimeg, at Renaut's Fork; third, one league front by two leagues deep, or eighteen square miles, at Fort Chartres, and fourth, one league front by five leagues deep, or forty-five square miles, at Peoria, Ill., beginning one mile and a half from the old fort on Peoria, or Pimiteau Lake, being in the aggregate 180 square miles.

This grant has at this day the same guarantee it had in 1723 and 1731, being protected by the treaty of cession of Louisiana by France to the United States, signed in 1803 by Marquis de Lassus, whose son at this time is living at St. Louis. Until lately no serious reclamations have been made by the heirs of Renaut to recover possession of the lands granted to their ancestors. The Government of the United States, however, which canceled or sold the same, carefully inserted in all its deeds the clause, "subject to French claims," so that the present holders have only conditional titles, over which the sword of Damocles is constantly suspended by the heirs of Renaut.

It is impossible to sum up the immense interests dispersed all over Illinois and Missouri, which are depending upon this Renaut inheritance. A few examples will suffice: In 1872 the Mine Lamothe was sold to an English company for £1,000,000; the bargain was suspended for a year, in order to give the sellers time to procure a clear title, and was canceled afterward, as they were unable to obtain a quit claim deed of the Renaut heirs.

The city of Peoria, which was founded by the French in 1673, and which is at present one of the most important cities of Illinois, is entirely built on land belonging to said heirs, and from Peoria to the Mississippi a great many villages are in the same condition. From this it is easily understood that of late serious efforts have been made to hunt up the heirs of Renaut and to obtain their power of attorney. We know a large banking house in Chicago, Messrs. McMullen Brothers, who have expended $60,000 for this purpose during the last two years in this country as well as in France. Count de Tournon, living in Paris, who is one of the principal heirs, offered to sell his interest to Messrs. McMullen; an essential point in this transaction, however, is to establish by authentic documents the complete genealogy of the Renaut family, and to know all the surviving heirs, in order to be able to exhibit before the courts the power of attorney of all the heirs. We don't believe that the McMullens are in possession of these documents. The want of a single signature will set at naught all proceedings, and as Messrs. McMullen are going to begin their suit, we advise all parties concerned to take care of their interests.

We have in our possession all the letters and proofs of what we have stated in regard to the Renaut succession.—New York Courrier des Etats Unis.

Education of the Presidents.

The Syracuse University Herald has made up the following table of Presidents and their places of education, which is of interest:

Washington—Good English education, but never studied the ancient languages.
Adams—Harvard.
Jefferson—William and Mary.
Madison—Princeton.
Adams, J. Q.—Harvard.
Jackson—Limited education.
Van Buren—Academic education.
Harrison—Hampden Sidney College.
Tyler—William and Mary.
Polk—University of North Carolina.
Taylor—Slightest rudiments.
Fillmore—Not liberally educated.
Pierce—Bowdoin.
Buchanan—Dickinson.
Lincoln—Education very limited.
Johnson—Self-educated.
Grant—West Point.

Monroe and Harrison did not graduate. Monroe left college to join the Revolutionary army. Financial reverses deprived Harrison of a full course. Polk was the oldest when graduated, being 23; Tyler the youngest, 17. The majority graduated at 20, this being also the average age. Jefferson probably had the most liberal education and broadest culture. It is said that his range of knowledge would compare favorably with that of Burke. The drill at West Point may be considered equal to a college course, and in many respects superior. In discipline and mathematical training it is not equaled by any American college. Counting Gen. Grant, two-thirds of our Presidents have been college men. To be sure the two whose names have become household words, Washington, the Father, and Lincoln, the Martyr, were not liberally educated; but theirs were special missions. They live in the affections of the nation rather than in the intellect, as embodied in the Constitution and laws. Theirs was to execute, not to mold.

Illegal Contracts.

The New York and Hartford Publishing Company has turned up at Boston with suits against several prominent citizens for publishing biographical sketches of them, and ex-Mayor Wrightman has been obliged to shell out $92, in accordance with the agreement he made, some two years ago, when a canvasser for the company visited Boston. The claim was for $8,181, and Mr. Wrightman had actually signed an agreement that would bind him to pay that amount, but the court decided that the signature was gained under false pretenses. The contract bound him to pay the publisher one-third of a cent for each word, each and every issue (or each copy) and eight cents for each engraving of his portrait inserted in the work, also to pay the publisher two cents for every minute's time that elapsed between the date of the signature and the delivery to the publisher of the material of which the biography was to be made and for every minute's time elapsing between the receipt and return of proof-sheets of the sketch, and for every minute's time that passed between the asking for and the payment of the amount agreed upon. Others signed a similar agreement, and the company entered the suits with the evident expectation of making a big thing out of them.

Centennial Notes.

Mr. J. G. Swan, who is collecting curiosities in the Northwest for the Centennial Exhibition, has brought from Alaska to Portland, Oregon, a column 30 feet long and about 4x4 feet, carved with immense heads of Indians in various postures.

There is on exhibition in a shop window in Philadelphia a very valuable French clock, which was patented by the French Republican Government, and made expressly for the Centennial Exhibition at a cost of $700. It is to be given to President Grant.

The Japanese collection includes porcelain, with means for showing its mode of manufacture; tea, and its method of preparation; silks, satins, rare woods, and a school on the Japanese plan. What has already arrived comprises two houses, known as "yaskakis." One of these structures is a bazaar for the sale of goods, and the other a two-story dwelling house fitted to accommodate sixty persons.

Mr. Saunders, of the Agricultural Department at Washington, who is at the head of the Committee on Economic Woods and Trees for the Centennial Exhibition, has in preparation at the department and elsewhere more than four hundred different kinds of wood. The specimens are arranged to show the character of the log in sections two feet in length, having one or two sides finished in different ways, while one side shows the natural or rough bark.

The Swiss, who have announced their participation in the Exhibition, are divided into the following branches of trade: Chemical products, 20; hosiery, 16; silk manufactures, 19; embroideries 24; plaited straw work, 16; extracts and other preparations (condensed milk for example), 8; watch and clock work, 41; watchmakers' instruments, 10; scientific instruments, 5; typography, 19; photography, 9; edible preparations, 8; leather, 2; liquors, etc., 14; architecture and civil engineering, 58; sundry others, 24. Total, 414.

The allotment of space for the exhibits of foreign countries in Machinery Hall has been begun, and spaces, designated by different colored lines, have been marked for different countries in the eastern section of the building. The following are the spaces thus far allotted: Germany, 10,757 square feet; France, 10,139 square feet; Belgium, 9,375 square feet; Canada, 4,300 square feet; Brazil, 4,000 square feet; Sweden, 3,168 square feet; Spain, 2,448 square feet; Russia, 1,500 square feet; Austria, 1,536 square feet.

Application has been made for the erection of a Jewish restaurant on the Centennial grounds, where meals can be furnished to Israelites who adhere to the dietary laws. As there has been such a saloon at the Expositions at Paris, London and Vienna, there is no doubt the Centennial Commission will grant the permission. Ministers of various Hebrew congregations have approved the application. It is thought that from 50,000 to 75,000 Israelites will visit the Exhibition, the majority of whom adhere to the dietary laws of the Jewish religion.

The British Government has consented to defray the expense of transporting works of painting and sculpture contributed by British artists to the Exhibition, and the Committee of British Artists write to the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts that "there is now reason to hope that artists, and owners of pictures in England will send contributions to Philadelphia which shall present a fair and worthy idea of the state of the British art, and enable it to take its due and proper place in the estimation of the American public."

A circular has been issued in Brussels to all artists and art societies that intend to send their works to the Centennial Exhibition, saying that they must be transmitted to Brussels by the 5th of February, and that the Government will be responsible for the railway charges to that point. On the 10th of February a Commission appointed by the Government, will examine them, and all works of art which they consider worthy of acceptance must be sent to Antwerp, where they will be taken in charge and transmitted to Philadelphia by the Red Star Steamship Line.

The catalogue of the exhibits from Germany has been received. The number of exhibitors will be 1,033 and there will be 17 collective exhibits—that is, combinations of different trades. Of chemical products there will be 40 exhibits, one of the principal articles being the cologne so famous throughout the world. Of china, glass and porcelain ware there will be 25 exhibitors, including the Royal Prussian China Manufactory. Of physical and optical instruments there will be 25 exhibitors, of musical instruments 35 exhibitors, and of oil prints, pictures, etc., 50 exhibitors. Wines will be shown by 87 producers. Toys and fancy goods will have 36 exhibitors. Gephart & Co., of Eberfeld, a celebrated satin manufacturing firm, will occupy a space of four hundred feet.

BOARDING HOUSE keepers troubled with the persecution of certain high toned dead beats who do everything except to pay their board, will be interested in a plan pursued by a Brooklyn lady. She writes a letter to the Eagle minutely describing the last pair who swindled her out of her money. Mr. Frederick Waring, the man, is a lawyer, and his wife, or supposed wife, a tall lady with blonde hair. The practice of these worthies has been to take board for a week, put off payment for another week, and then decamp for fresh fields and pastures new.

Cure for Freckles.

Grate horseradish fine; let it stand a few hours in buttermilk, then strain, and use the wash night and morning. Or squeeze the juice of a lemon into a half goblet of water, and use the same way. Most of the remedies for freckles are poisonous and cannot be used with safety. Freckles indicate a defect in digestion, and consist in deposits of some carbonaceous or fatty matter beneath the scarf-skin. The diet should be attended to, and should be of a nature that the bowels and kidneys will do their duty. Daily bathing, with much friction, should not be neglected, and the Turkish bath taken occasionally, if convenient. If the exact cause of freckles was known, a remedy for them might be found. A chemist in Moravia, observing the bleaching effects of mercurial preparations, inferred that the growth of a local parasitical fungus was the cause of the discoloration of the skin, which extended and ripened its spores in the warmer season. Knowing that sulpho-carbonate of zinc is a deadly enemy to all parasitic vegetation (itself not being otherwise injurious), he applied this salt for the purpose of removing the freckles. The compound consists of two parts of sulpho-carbonate of zinc, twenty-five parts of distilled glycerine, twenty-five parts of rose-water, and five parts of scented alcohol, and is to be applied twice daily for from half an hour to an hour, then washed off with cold water. Protection against the sun by veiling and other means is recommended, and, in addition, for persons of pale complexion some mild preparation of iron.—Herald of Health.

Sherman's Funding Bill.

The United States Senate has passed the amendatory refunding bill introduced by Mr. Sherman, of Ohio. It provides as follows:

First, that the act to authorize the refunding of the national debt, approved on July 14, 1870, and on Jan. 20, 1871, be so amended that the amount of bonds bearing four and one-half per centum interest authorized to be issued be increased to $500,000,000, and that they be payable at the pleasure of the United States after thirty years from date of their issue instead of fifteen years; second, that this act shall not be construed to authorize any increase of the total amount of bonds provided for by acts to which this act is an amendment, or to authorize any increase whatever of the bonded debt of the United States, and all provisions of acts to which this act is amendatory, not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby continued in force and effect.

"Truth Stranger than Fiction."

THE BEST BORDER BOOK YET OUT.

The publishing house of J. C. McCurdy & Co., have lately brought out "Our Western Border, One Hundred Years Ago, by McKnight, author of "Old Fort Duquesne." It is a large, elegant octavo, of nearly 800 pages, filled with the stirring deeds and thrilling adventures of the dread-naught old borderers—such dauntless worthies as Boone, Kenton, Brady, Logan, Harrod, McColloch, McClellan, the Poes, the Zanes, and the Wetzels. It contains strange and thrilling narratives of daring deeds, desperate conflicts, exciting adventures, touching captivities, and is the best, fullest most complete, and most reliable portrayal of border life, struggle and adventure ever yet published.

Although sold for $3, it is equal in extent of contents to the ordinary $5 book, and is meeting with remarkable popular favor. It is most warmly indorsed by leading Divines and Historians, and is the most complete work of the kind we know of. Sold only by agents. Address, J. C. McCurdy & Co., Publishers, Philadelphia, Pa., Cincinnati, Ohio, Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

WHY should any one buy a soap half rosin or clay, when Dobbins' Electric Soap (made by Cragin & Co., Philadelphia), is for sale? It costs but a trifle more, and will go five times as far. Try it.

CHEAPEST, best family paper in the world—CHICAGO LEDGER. See advertisement.

DR. PIERCE'S Pleasant Purgative Pellets are so compounded from concentrated principles, extracted from roots and herbs, as to combine in each small granule, scarcely larger than a mustard seed, as much cathartic power as is contained in any larger pills for sale in drug stores. They are not only pleasant to take, but their operation is easy—unattended with any griping pain. They operate without producing any constitutional disturbance. Unlike other cathartics they do not render the bowels costive after operation, but, on the contrary, they establish a permanently healthy action. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them.

$500 Reward is offered by the Proprietor to any one who will detect in these Pellets any calomel or other form of mercury, mineral poison, or injurious drug.

They are sold by Druggists.

DR. TU-SEE says: "It is unnecessary for me to enumerate the diseases for which the Vegetine should be used. I know of no disease which will not admit of its use, with good results. Almost innumerable complaints are caused by poisonous secretions in the blood, which can be entirely expelled from the system by the use of the Vegetine. When the blood is perfectly cleansed, the disease rapidly yields; all pains cease; healthy action it promptly restored, and the patient is cured."

PIMPLES on the face, rough skin, chapped hands, saltrheum and all cutaneous affections cured, the skin made soft and smooth, by the use of Juniper Tar Soap. That made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, is the only kind that can be relied on, as there are many imitations, made from common tar, which are worthless.

SEE ADVERTISEMENT headed "A Remarkable Invention," in another column, and do not fail to send for an illustrated catalogue.

CHICAGO LEDGER—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

DR. SCHENCK'S STANDARD REMEDIES.—The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, and SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, and, if taken before the lungs are destroyed, a speedy cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Pulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative; the alkali of which it is composed mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of SIXTH and ARCH STS., Philadelphia, every Monday.

Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES

A penny saved here and there counts up at the end of the year. Buy only SILVER TIPPED Shoes and you will save dollars instead.

Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

Remember CABLE SCREW WIRE Boots and Shoes have no nails or pegs sticking through the bottom to prick the feet or wear the stocking.

CABLE SCREW WIRE

Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston, Mass.

20 FANCY MIXED CARDS, with Name, 10 cents, postpaid. L. JONES & CO., Nassau, N.Y.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

HOUSEKEEPERS rejoice. AGENTS make money with our 5 NEW articles. CAPEWELL & CO., Cheshire, Ct.

25 Repp or Damask Cards, with name, 20c. Address J. B. HUSTED, Nassau, Rensselaer Co., N. Y.

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Washington St., Boston.

500,000 Evergreens, 1 to 4 feet; 500,000 Osage Plants at prices that defy competition. Circulars free. Address Barnes, Creswell & Co., Kirkwood, Ill.

$350 A Month.—Agents wanted. 24 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

Stock Growers Colony, New Mexico. Great inducements offered to Colonists. Call or send for Circular. 130 Dearborn St., Chicago.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 40cts. by mail. Stowell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

WE PAY $85 A MONTH and traveling expenses to SELL our Goods TO DEALERS in every county in the U. S. NO PEDDLING. Cincinnati Novelty Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

$250 A MONTH.—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

A Miniature Oil Painting on Canvas which will be your own Likeness, free, with The Home Weekly, sent 3 months on trial for 25 cts. Money to Agents. L. T. LUTHER, Mill Village, Erie Co., Pa.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents, Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT New Buffalo Bill Revolver Sent with 100 Cartridges for $3. Full Nickel Plate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Illustrated Catalogue Free. Address WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill. $3.00

BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S New Book outsells everything. Don't worry about hard times. Sell this book and see how easy they are. Send for circulars to American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Lover's Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAMS & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

WANTED—A few intelligent Ladies and Gentlemen to sell it orders for CAPT. GLAZIER'S new work, "Battles for the Union." Just the book for Centennial times. All expenses advanced. References required. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO., Hartford, Conn.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio.

BOOK AGENTS. MOODY & SANKEY.—The only original, authentic and complete record of these men and their works. Beware of imitations. SEND FOR CIRCULARS. American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY. AGENTS make $100 weekly by canvassing for it; 128 pages, 80 illustrations, $2.50 yearly, with elegant chromo. Send 20 cents for copy and terms to FRANK LESLIE, New York.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to learn Telegraphy. Situations furnished. Steady promotion guaranteed. We supply all operators hired by Metropolitan and American District Telegraph Cos., Chicago. Address, with stamp, N. W. TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE, Janesville, Wis.

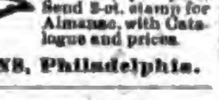
LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 TRANSPARENT VISITING CARDS, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. NOVELTY PRINTING Co., Ashland, Mass.

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS & SEEDS

My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. WILLIAM E. BOWDITCH, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

5,000 AGENTS WANTED to sell the Oriental Stationery and Jewelry Package, the largest, most complete and best-selling Package in the World. Samples with complete SETS of GOLD plated sleeve buttons, shirt studs and collar button. By mail 25 cents. Catalogues of Chromos and Novelties sent free. ORIENTAL NOVELTY CO., 111 Chambers St., N. Y.

CARDS.—50 white or tinted Bristol, 20 cts.; 50 Snowflake, Marble, Rep, or Damask, 35 cts.; 50 Glass, 40 cts.; with your name beautifully printed on them, and 66 samples of type, agents' price-list, etc., sent by return mail on receipt of price. Discount to Clubs. Best of work. W. C. CANNON, 46 Kneeland Street, Boston. Refers to S. M. PETTENGILL & Co.



Allen's Planet Jr. Silver Medal HAND DRILLS and WHEEL HOES. THREE new styles. They "sow like a charm," and hoe better, easier, and six times faster than the hand hoe. S. L. ALLEN & CO., Mfrs. 119 S. 4th St., Phila., Pa. Circulars free. A LIVE AGENT WANTED in every town.

ANY ONE WHO CANNOT GET LANDRETHS' GARDEN SEEDS at home, can be supplied from Head-quarters, post-paid. Send 3-ct. stamp for Almanac, with Catalogue and prices. D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

Kidney Complaint.

Probably there is no complaint that afflicts the human system which is so little understood at the present time as some of the varied forms of Kidney Complaints.

There is no disease which causes such acute pain or more alarming in its results than when the kidneys fail to secrete from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous substances which the blood accumulates in its circulation through the system.

If from any cause the kidneys fail to perform the functions devolving upon them, the cumulations are taken up by the absorbents and the whole system thrown into a state of disease, causing great pain and suffering, and very often immediate death. Hence the importance of keeping the kidneys and blood in a healthy condition, through which all the impurities of the blood must pass.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

There is no remedy known to medical science which has proved itself more valuable in cases of Kidney Complaint than the VEGETINE. It acts directly upon the secretions, cleanses and purifies the blood, and restores the whole system to healthy action.

The following extraordinary cures of great sufferers, who had been given up by the best physicians as hopeless cases, will speak for themselves, and should challenge the most profound attention of the medical faculty, as well as those who are suffering from Kidney Complaint.

THE BEST MEDICINE.

EAST MARSHFIELD, Aug. 22, 1870.

MR. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—I am seventy-one years of age; have suffered many years with Kidney Complaint, Weakness in my Back and Stomach. I was induced by friends to try your VEGETINE, and I think it the best medicine for weakness of the Kidneys I ever used. I have tried many remedies for this complaint, and never found so much relief as from the VEGETINE. It strengthens and invigorates the whole system. Many of my acquaintances have taken it, and I believe it to be good for all the complaints for which it is recommended.

Yours truly, JOSIAH H. SHERMAN.

PRONOUNCED INCURABLE.

BOSTON, May 30, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.:

Dear Sir—I have been badly afflicted with Kidney Complaint for ten years; have suffered great pain in my back, hips and side, with great difficulty in passing urine, which was often and in very small quantities, frequently accompanied with blood and excruciating pain.

I have faithfully tried most of the popular remedies recommended for my complaint; I have been under the treatment of some of the most skillful physicians in Boston, all of whom pronounced my case incurable. This was my condition when I was advised by a friend to try the VEGETINE, and I could see the good effects from the first dose I took, and from that moment I kept on improving until I was entirely cured, taking in all, I should think, about six bottles.

It is indeed a valuable medicine, and if I should be afflicted again in the same way I would give a dollar for a dose, if I could not get it without.

Respectfully, J. M. GILE, 361 Third Street, South Boston.

VEGETINE is SOLD by ALL DRUGGISTS

THE CHICAGO LEDGER

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST PAPER IN THE COUNTRY.

$1.50 PER ANNUM

Unexcelled by any Weekly Literary Publication, East or West.

A THREE DOLLAR PAPER FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A HALF.

Send your name and address and get a specimen copy. Address

THE LEDGER, Chicago, Ill.

HOME GROWN SEEDS OUR NEW CATALOGUE, 18 pages, containing the greatest variety of Garden and Flower Seeds, and the best strains of home grown seeds for Market Gardeners, Family Gardens, Amateurs and Florists, sent free to all who apply. HOVEY & CO. 53 No. Market St. Boston, Mass.

PILES WHAT ARE PILES? READ! "PLAIN BLUNT Facts," a Treatise on the Causes, History, Cure and Prevention of PILES. Published by P. NEUSTAEDTER & CO., 40 Walker Street, New York. Sent FREE to all parts of the United States on receipt of a letter stamp.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL R. R. MAP OF THE U. S. NEW PICTORIAL CHARTS, Etc., for the TIMES. WIDE-AWAKE MEN are making large profits selling our fresh works. Catalogues and Terms free. Write to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., New York, or 174 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

S. H. HARRIS' IMPROVED CHICAGO SAFES And VAULT DOORS are the Best. Address S. H. HARRIS, Manufacturer, 23 and 25 Randolph St.

MARCY'S SCIOPTICON, With new, improved and cheapened MAGIC LANTERN SLIDES. For Homes, Sunday-schools and Lecture-rooms it stands UNRIVALLED. Brilliant, and easy to show. Circulars of SPECIAL Offer free. Sciopticon Manual (5th Ed.) 50 cts. L. J. MARCY, 1340 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FOUTZ'S HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS,

FOUTZ
FOUTZ
FOUTZ

Will cure or prevent Disease.

INQUIRE FOR W. A. DROWN & CO'S UMBRELLAS. PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

How to buy him. How to sell him. How to train him. How to tell a trotter. A NEW BOOK of great interest to Horsemen. Sent by mail for 50 cents. Address J. P. VINCENT, Box 59, CHICAGO, ILL.

SEARS BRO. & CO. ENGRAVERS ON WOOD. EXCHANGE BLDG. CHICAGO, ILL.

FREE to all who wish their Seed directly from the grower, my elegantly illustrated Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue. Address, JAMES J. H. GREGORY, Marblehead, Mass.

WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND LIME.

Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil and Lime.—The great popularity of this safe and efficacious preparation is alone attributable to its intrinsic worth. In the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Scrofulous Humors, and all Consumptive Symptoms, it has no superior, if equal. Let no one neglect the early symptoms of disease, when an agent is thus at hand which will alleviate all complaints of the Chest, Lungs, or Throat. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, BOSTON. Sold by all druggists.

I AM THE LIGHT RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

"DOMESTIC" SEWING MACHINES. Liberal Terms of Exchange for Second-hand Machines of every description. "DOMESTIC" PAPER FASHIONS. The Best Patterns made. Send 5cts. for Catalogue. Address DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE CO. AGENTS WANTED. NEW YORK.

Oldest, Largest, Cheapest, Best. GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE. The only Illustrated Family & Literary Paper in Phila. Larger than the N. Y. Ledger. Only $2.00 a Year. SPECIAL CLUB RATES: 4 copies, one year.....$ 7.00 | 10 copies, one year....$15.00 6 " " " ..... 10.00 | 20 " " " .... 25.00 An extra copy FREE to getter-up of club of ten or twenty. Sample copy and circulars FREE. AGENTS Wanted. Gold Premiums. All subscriptions can begin with a new story. Address THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, 726 Sansom Street, Phila.

WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL, FOR ALL LUNG DISEASES. REGISTERED TRADE MARK

SAFE AND RELIABLE.
Have You Weak Lungs?
Have You a Cough or Cold?
Have You Pain in Your Breast?
Have You any Throat Disease?
Have You Consumption?
USE DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.
Are You Weak and Debilitated?
Do You Suffer from Indigestion?
Do You require a Tonic?
Have You No Appetite?
Do You need Building Up?
Do You wish to be Strong and Healthy?
USE DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.
Sold by all Druggists.
Principal Depot, No. 232 North Second St., Phila.

OPIUM Habit Cured At Home. No publicity. Time short. Terms moderate. 1,000 testimonials. 8th year of unparalleled success. Describe case. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza Young, BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19. Selling at the rate of 1,000 a week. Full expose of the horrible system of Polygamy. Illustrated Circulars, with complete information free to all. Address nearest office of Dustin, Gilman & Co., Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O.

Selected French Burr Mill Stones Of all sizes, and superior workmanship. Portable Grinding Mills, upper or under runners, for Farm or Merchant work. Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pulleys, Hangers, etc.; all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1430, Cincinnati, Ohio.

NO WOLF, NO #, NO b.

A secret mode of Tuning Organs; certain rapid. Mighty Original Truths for every musician and family. Read of Handel, Purcell, Smith, Bach, and others. Emerge from barbaric keyed music, or, lag behind. All Organ and Piano Music leads the voice astray. See our startling, minute definitions, of every sound. Read the origin of half notes, music scale, keyboard. Read our triumphant victory, new, perfect music scale. No more tempering Organs and Pianos; perfect tuning. Correct melodies, delicious chords, no new characters. Retain, or reject all music letters, sharps and flats. Every sound easily and accurately got without any. See new mode, no learning; Organ played first day. Book sent free to every address for 50 cents, by J. F. CORNELL, ex-Organ builder, P. O. Box 502, Chicago, Or call at Bookstore, 162 E. Madison street, Chicago, Ill.

OUR NEW CATALOGUE OF 1876 SEEDS JUST OUT. SENT FREE. Geo. S. Haskell & Co., ROCKFORD, ILLINOIS.

A REMARKABLE INVENTION! WOOTON'S PATENT,

CABINET OFFICE SECRETARY.

Wooton Desk Co., Designers and Manufacturers, INDIANAPOLIS, IND. Illustrated Descriptive Circulars furnished on application.

BETTER SEND a 3-cent stamp for a sample copy, when such terms are offered. ONLY 75 CENTS now, and balance of 50 CENTS on July 1st, which includes a copy of OUR OWN FIRESIDE for one year, and a choice of any Premium offered, to be sent by return mail. FIFTH YEAR OF OUR OWN FIRESIDE, A LARGE EIGHT-PAGE ILLUSTRATED HOUSEHOLD JOURNAL. It contains the Best of Stories, Fashion News, COOKERY FOR THE KITCHEN, and all the requisites of a FAMILY LITERARY PAPER. Competent judges pronounce it the best paper of the kind published. Price $1.10, including postage and a choice from a list of Premiums—or for $1.20, the fine Chromo, "ASKING A BLESSING," from a painting by Prof. Jordan, of Dusseldorf. This is the best executed chromo ever offered as a premium. It is not to be classed with pictures generally offered as premiums, for they were made to sell by dealers at $5.00 each, but we bought up the entire edition. Or, when $1.20 is paid, we will send an order on a celebrated Florist for $1.00 worth of FLOWER SEEDS for the premium. Hence the prices are as follows: $1.10 cash a year, with a premium; $1.20 cash a year, with a finer premium; 75 cents a year, without premium. Or 75 cents now and 50 cents on July 1st, and choice of any premium. Send 3-cent stamp for sample paper. Address OUR OWN FIRESIDE, 176 William St. New York. AGENTS WANTED. Extra inducements. Send for terms.

O. N. U. No. 9

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

PENSIONS. TO WHOM PENSIONS ARE PAID. EVERY SOLDIER Disabled in the service of the United States, either by accident or otherwise, gets a pension. The loss of a finger, or the loss of the use of a finger, the loss of an eye, the loss of a toe, or any gun-shot wound, or other injury, gives a pension. RUPTURE. A rupture, if but slight, will give a pension, or ruptured veins, or diseases of the lungs. If you are entitled to a pension, don't delay it. Let me file your case while there is yet time. BOUNTY. Full Bounty paid to all soldiers discharged on account of wounds, rupture, or any injury, the same as if he served his full time. Send two stamps for a circular of Pension and Bounty acts. A BOOK of the Pension, Bounty and Land Warrant acts sent for 25 cents. P. H. FITZGERALD, Indianapolis, Ind., Authorized U. S. Claim Agency for Western Soldiers. Mark on all letters P. O. Box 54.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, MAR., 9, 1876.

Evidence is accumulating to show that the president has been cognizant of Belknap's disgraceful conduct for several years past, and has refused to take action.

It is thought that Robeson was appointed secretary of war instead of some honest man, in order to carry out Belknap's other contracts with official subordinates.

If Grant received presents and then appointed the donors to offices, wherein morally, does he differ from Belknap whose wife received the money from the man Belknap appointed to office?

It was with great regret that Grant accepted Belknap's resignation. Naturally enough, for with the disgrace of the secretary of war, the last flickering chance for a third term forever disappeared.

Gen. John Coburn, of Indianapolis, may rise and explain. It is asserted that when he was chairman of the house committee on millitary affairs, full evidence of Belknap's infamy was placed in his possession but he steadily refused to take any action.

The Silence of Blaine.

No word of criticism upon the resignation of the Secretary and its acceptance bythe President in defiance of the House. Mr. Blaine had a fine opportunity in the House to show that he is interested in other matters than the legends of Andersonville,

The multiplication of newspapers with the same name sometime leads to unseemly disputes, the good things of one journal being credited to another. But a paper just started in Alabama has put such a thing out of the question by calling itself the Lixapalillan. The paper is named after a river which flows by the town where it is printed

The Republicans in the House voted for the impeachment of Belknap. He had committed the unpardonable offense of having allowed funds collected ensibly for the party to be appropriated by his own family. Under the circumstances he need expect no mercy at the hands of his old party friends and supporters.

Apropos of Longfellow, Here is a paragraph from the letter of an Ohio girl, just received, a dear and talented pupil friend of mine, who is now pursuing her musical studies under Professor Lang, of Boston. She writes: "I wish I could tell you all about a precious hour or two I spent, one afternoon, with our dear Longfellow. He wrote me to come to see him, too! Just think of it, because in a moment of impulse (inspiration?) I sent him some of my verses. I shall never forget how cordial and encouraging he was. He showed me many beautiful things, too—pictures, marbles, etc., and relics of famous writers. With reverence I went with him into his study, where so many beautiful thoughts have been written. It was much to me that he was so kind, and the afternoon who perhaps, the most delightful of all my little life. Could anything be more beautiful then the pensive, fatherly face of the great poet, bending kindly towards this young daughter of the West?

The Republican Party--Streams of Corruption and Demoralization.

The downfall of Secretary Belknap means the ruin of the republican party. It is only another of the many streams of corruption and folly that have flowed from the present administration and from the party now in power. How can we fail to draw the inference that is seen in nature, science and history, that when the river is polluted the poison is most likely in the source What foul streams have poured forth—the stream St. Domingo, with the violations of law, jobbery and coruption; the stream French arms, with its infraction of international obligations; the stream general order business, with its debasement of New York politics; the stream Akerman, with imbecility and oppression in the South; the stream Richardson with the Sanborn frauds; the stream Delano, with the infamies of the Indian Department; the stream Babcock, with the frauds in the revenues. These are the currents of the present corrupt party. It is about time that the responsibility for this endless and ever increasing flood should be placed where it belongs—on the party now in power.

Let us see how this party has made itself responsible for this demoralization. Richardson, who approved the Sanborn fraud, shameless and unblushing as it was, was made a judge. Shepherd, driven from power as one unfaithful to his trust, was made a commissioner, and is the leader of administration society. Williams, after his sins were confessed, was intrusted with high duties. Schenck, after he allowed his name and his office to be the means of swindling women and children out of their income by bogus mining shares, was protected. Babcock came from the dock of a St. Louis court the cell the cell if the jailbird McDonald, to become the private secretary to the President and Director of the Public Works. And now we have the Secretary of War, resigning his office, a confessedly corrupt and dishonest man, and protected from the just indignation of the House by the acceptance of his resignation.

THE FAVORITE
HOME REMEDY.
Is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which the all-wise providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure any diseases caused by derangement of the liver or Bowels.

Stimulate the liver and prevent
CHILLS AND FEVER.
Simon's Liver Regulator, or Med'e

Is eminently a Family Medicine, and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering and many a dollar in time and doctors' bills.

After over forty years trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtue from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the shoulders Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth billious attacks, Palpitation of the heart pain in the region of the kidneys, despondency, gloom and forbidings of evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased liver.

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, poor appetite and tongue coated you are suffering from torpid liver, or billiousness and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the liver the largest organ in the body is generally the seat of the disease and is not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will come.

Armed with this antidote, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a remedy in Malarious fevers, Bowel complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice, Nausea, it is the cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world.

CAUTION.—Buy no powders or prepared Simons' Liver Regulator unless in our engraved wrapper, with Trade Mark Stamp, and Signature unbroken. None other is genuine.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.
Macon, Ga., and Philadelphia.

For sale at F. E. DAVENPORT'S drug store.

GREAT
New York Store
—IN—
GARRETT,

LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

Will be found a complete assortment of

FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

The goods have all been well selected, and make as nice a stock as there is in the county. The stock consists of a complete assortment of
DRY GOODS,
LADIES' FANCY GOODS.
MENS YOUTHS' & CLOTHING,
a complete stock, and the latest styles of Hats and Caps. We have a complete line of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Made to our order, and the nicest stock of Gaiters for the ladies. We will offer our goods very low. Prints at 8 cents per yard, Bleached or Unbleached Muslin at 8 cents and 10 cents. The best bargains in Clothing and in Boots and Shoes, as we are receiving new goods most every day. Therefore we can afford to sell at the bottom prices All invited to call and see us, whether they purchase or not. Come one, come all, and see our goods before purchasing elsewhere. Bargains will be given as we will carry the largest stock in Garrett and we will make it an object for all to buy. Call at the Brown building opposite the hotel. The farmers will do well to come to trade in Garrett. You can sell your produce for highest market price and get the cash, and you can buy goods as cheap as any place and you will be satisfied. No satisfaction

LITMAN BROS. & GOODMAN

BALTIMORE & OHIO.
RAILROAD.

THE GREAT NATIONAL ROUTE
—TO—
Washington, Balt'r
Philadelphia, N. Y.,
THE EAST AND NORTH-EAST.

All Trains run via Wash. City.

Among the characteristics of this Favorite route are Double Tracks, Steel Rails,
Magnificent Iron Bridges,
Gorgeous Mountain Scenery,
Unrivaled Eqipment,
Loughridge Air Brakes,
Unsurpassed Eating Houses,
(Owned and opperated by the Company)
And in fact all the Modern Appliances that conduce to
SPEED, SAFETY AND COMFORR

Pullman Palace Cars!
RUN THROUGH
WITHOUR CHANGE
BETWEEN THE PRINCIPAL
WESTERN and EASTERN Cities!

For through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of trains, Sleeping Car accommodations, &c. apply at ticket offices at all principal points, North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Tic. Agt.	L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt
THOS. P. BARRY, Wes'n Pass'gr. Agt.	T. R. SHARP Master of Trans

OPIUM

Habit cured. Chinese mode of cure, painless.—No publicity. Does not interfere with business or pleasure. Cure guaranteed. Address or consult, DR. WILFORD, Toledo, O.

WOMEN

Diseases peculiar to women treated as a specialty. Cures guaranteed in all curable cases Address or consult DR. WILFORD, Toledo, Ohio

Chronic Diseases

S. U. Tarney
AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Store first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

Junction Hotel,
JAMES SMITH, Pro'r.
Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.

L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

1876. Our Centennial Gift! 1876.

A FREE GIFT.

A Round trip ticket to Philadelphia and return, good six months, gratis. A chance for any one to visit the greatest exhibition in the world's history.

SAM, PETE & MAX, offer a most magnanimous present to their multitude of friends. Every purchaser of Five Dollars worth of Clothing at our store will secure a chance to draw one of the ten (10) round trip tickets, to the Centennial, which will be distributed July 1st, place and manner of drawing will be made known in time through the press, and Famous Star Clothing House

SAM, PETE & MAX,

Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Geo. DeWald & Co.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Have always on hand the largest and best stock of Dry Goods, Notions and Ladies Dress Goods in the city. Our citizens when visiting Fort Wayne, should not fail call and examine their stock of

DRY GOODS,

They can make it to the interest of every person who trade with them. They buy for cash and sell for cash, keep the best goods and sell for one price. Also agents for the Domestic Paterens

Their store is located at No. 1 Columbia Street.

GEO. DE WALD & CO.

Fruit House Bulletin

All Goods Retailed at Wholesale Prices

This is the Only Secret of Our Immense Trade.

we purchase at first hands and sell direct to the consumer, so there is no middlemen to eat up profits: Some goods—take teas for instance—pass through four diferent hands before they reach consumers, and each one has to have his profit, so that 40 to 60 per cent. is added to price. The importer has his profit of 10 per cent., the jobbing merchant his profit of 10 per cent., the speculator and wholesale merchants, 10 to 20 per cent. and the retailer all he can get. So Sugars, Coffees, Spices, Prune Fruits, Tobaccos, Liquors, or anything we deal in. Our customers get the benefit of all those intermediate profits, No middlemen with us. We are having a great run on Prunes. The Finest

PRUNES ONLY 8c A POUND.

They hardly ever sell lower than 12½c. and when you consider that Dried Apples are 12c, we all know a pound of Prunes will go farther and are considered much richer eating.

TEAS REDUCED

A penny saved is two pence got." Ten cents reduction on teas. The continued dullness in trade in the east, coupled with the large number of failures in the tea trade, has completely demoralized the market. Teas we used to sell at $1,40, and lately $1,10 per pound, we now sell at $1 per pound. Either Young Hyson, Imperial or Gunpowder, the very best qualities, now $1 per pound. The best uncolored Japan now 80c. was 90c, the best Oolong now 35c, was 95c. Other grades as low 25c per pound, up to 30 60, and 70c per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	20 and 30c
Second Best Rio,	23c

Sugars.

New Orleans and Refined Granulated Crushed and Powdered	11c	New Orleans clarified	9c
Coffee A.	10½c	" "	8c
" C.	10c	Good brown	8c

CANNED FRUITS.

Peaches per can	15c	Pumpkin per can	10c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Hominey per can	10c
Canned Corn, per can	10 and 20c

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia Raisins, per pound	12½c	Peaches per pound	12c
Pitted Cherries per pound	35c	Apples per pound	11c
Raspberries per pound	45c

Wines and Liquors.

Good Whiskey, one year old, per gallon	$1 00	Port and Sherry Wines, per gallon,	1 50, in
Rye Whiskey, two years old	1 25	bottle	50c
Three year old	1 75 3 00	Sweet Angelica and California Muscatel, per gallon, 3 00; in bottles	30c
The $3 is for medical use and no better is sold anywhere.		Whiskey in bottles	30c and 50c

CANDIES—Best Stick per pound 18c French Mixed, choice, per pound 20c

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

Good Navy and Twist, per pound..	43 and 50c	Smoking Tobacco	35c, best 40
Fine Kentucky Bright	60 and 70c	Shorts, best	37c

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Coal Oil and Rose Oil, per gallon	20c	Machine Oil, Dark Virginia, per gallon
Fish Oil and Lard Oil, per gallon	1 00	Best Refined	75c
Neatsfoot Oil, per gallon	$1 00

We are Bound to Keep up Our Reputation of Underselling all others And Save You at least

25 Cents on the Dollar

Fruit House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

1776. Centennial. 1876.

1873
1876
Everyone goes to the Cor. store.

HEADQUARTERS

—FOR—

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing.

MILLER & CASEBEER,

—OFFER—

GREAT BARGAINS IN GOODS!

The largest and choicest line of Goods in the city. Call and see.

MILLER & CASEBEER.

Auburn Fruit House

JUST OPENED

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

Read the Following Price

TEAS:

Young Hyson from........85 cents to $1.00
Japan " ....90 cents to $1.00
Oolong " ....70 cents to $1.00
Gunpowder " ....60 cents to $1.00

OFFEES:

Roasted Coffee from........25 cents to 3
Best Rio ....25 cents
Best Java & Mocha........38 cents
African Male Java........45 cents

SUGARS:

Double Refined A ....11 cents
Brown from ....8 cents to 10cts
Hard & Pulverized ....12½ "

Canned Fruit from......10 to 32 cents	Lemons, per dozen........ 50
White Fish per kit........$1.40	White Fish per half barrell......$5.5
Syrups from........ 75c to 1.00	Soap, endless variety, per bar 5 & 10
Dried Beef, Hams and Peckeled pork	Western Reserve Cheese........15 ce's

Dried Fruits.

Apples from........11 to 12½
Prunes from........11 to 15
Choice Raisins from........15 to 20

Coal and Head Light Oil. Best Crackers of all kinds at the lowest prices.—Too many goods to enumerate. Call in and price them. Remember the place is the

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

E. E. WILLIAMS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

H. E. LITTLE, : : : : EDITOR.

The roads are still in almost impossible condition, making business a trifle dull.

Will some of our local poets give us a few lines on the "political death" of Belknap.

Oh, what a man they did tinker up in the organ of the Republican party of the county.

It is said the "Rep." lost a hundred, and the COURIER made over a hundred on their Centennial issue.

The commissioners met in session last Monday, and will have considerable business to transact during the present term.

Married at Avilla, March 2nd, by Rev G. A. Harter. Mr. C. Monroe Merica to Miss Minerva Mont, both of Cedar Creek, DeKalb County, Indiana.

At a regular meeting of the Town Board, Mr. F. Jones, was choosen to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Mays. Worked down to a pretty nice point, that.

Who couldn't get up a Centennial paper, when they had three others to copy from? That is the way with some. They must tread in footsteps of others.

Why did not the "Republican" give us credit for what it copied from our Centennial issue. You are welcome to it, but common courtesy required a credit to us.

Every democrat in the county should take the COURIER during the coming campaign. We expect to whoop up things in a general way.

Last Saturday at the Court House gate the Constable sold the household furniture of one W. Harkins. The goods sold at very low figures although there were many buyers present.

Those who want horse bills should bear in mind that we have several fine cuts and also that we do the best job work of any house in the county.

The Garrettites are to have a grand hop under the supervision of the F. & A. M's at Cudy's Hall, on Friday evening, Mar. 10, 1876. We return thanks for an invitation.

Read the letter from Washington, from the proprietor of this paper, but we say to our Republican readers not to loose any sleep, because the whole party is gone beyond where the woodbine twineth.

How does our Republican friends like the news of the Belknap swindle. This alone should be sufficient evidence for all well thinking people to turn from the corruptions, not only that we have had, but those that are likely to come.

The Teachers of this county meet at the school rooms, in Ensley's block, last Saturday, and Superintendent J. A. Barns tried their skill as teachers. We learn a good and prosperous time was had.

Bankrupt Sale.

Of Stoneware, No. 1 White Fish, and Cable Twist Tobacco. 1600 half barrels No. 1 White Fish, last fall catch. $3.00 half barrel, usual price $6.00. Car load Stoneware, 8c per gallon, all sizes. 50 butts Cable Twist Tobacco, 45c per pound, usual price 70c. Call soon, as these prices can't last.

FT. WAYNE FRUIT HOUSE,

Auburn has a population of 1,911.—[Fort Wayne News.

The above statement shows plainly that the "News" man never gets away from home. There is about as much difference between the population of Ft. Wayne and Auburn as there is between the two cars of a whale.

The Grangers held a spanking good meeting in the building known as the Rainier Hall, last Saturday, and a large crowd was in attendance. We did not learn the name of the speaker, but he was solid and understood his business, as his voice could be heard on the street, which sounded like a marshal band playing for a dress parade. We mean it was sent forth with as much force, and each word was to the point.

Street lamps has been put up on Main and Fifth and are to be the same on Seventh street. This is one improvement that not only shows a business point of view but will be very acceptible to our citizens and also to those who arrive in our city on the night trains The marshal in his usual go-a-head way is putting them in place as fast as possible and to-night "our light shines clearly."

Donation Party.

Our Methodist friends have made all the necessary arrangements to have a grand time to-night at the residence of Dr. J. H. Ford. Dr. F. is one of our most influential citizens, and is always found at the head of every good enterprise that may be presented. His house is large and commodious, for all who desire to donate and while away a few pleasant moments with their friends The occasion is gotten up for Mr. Welch and lady, and we hope to see a large party in attendance.

Smash up on the B. & O.

Last week the freight train on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, fell through the iron bridge, between Hicksville and Defiance. We learn that the train was a total wreck and a number of passengers and brakemen were seriously injured. The conductor on the train was killed. The mails at this place were not received and on inquiry as to this we learn the above facts. High water is supposed to be the cause for the bridge giving away.

She Meant Business.

"Nobby, you've been foolin round this claim for mighty neara year an' hev never yet shot off your mouth on the marryin' biz. I've cottoned to yer on the square clean through, an' hev stood off every other galoot that has tried to chip in; an now I want to come ter business or leave the ranch. If yer on the marry, an want a pord that'll stick right to ye till ye pass in yer checks an' the good Lord calls ye over the range, just squeal an' we'll hitch; but ef that ain't yer game draw out and give some other feller a show for this pile. Now sing a song or skip out.

J. S. Conover & Co. are getting up a Business directory in an altogether new style. The gentleman spoken of were informed that the work could not be done in the county, by a man who pretends to be a printer. The COURIER office has completed the job, and we want it distinctly understood that we have the facilities and workmen to execute any kind of work done in a printing office. The above gentlemen will visit the different towns in the county and get up a directory, and we hope they will be liberally patronized.

WANTED TO KNOW.—The readers of the "Republican" and the members of bar will pay a liberal reward to know who wrote "editorial" remarks of a certain law firm of this city, in its Centennial issue. An additional sum will be paid if the copy as furnished will be published. Still another sum will be paid if it will publish the original in which it says, 'that whenever they are to address a jury the people for miles to hear their eloquence, will flock to and fill the court house to overflowing"—like turkey buzzards to a dead carrion. Show up, Bah.

Parties in Ensleys block have been having considerable sport over a second rate cat, Cats may be a nice pet in the eyes of some people, but, we like Geo. Washington, take very little stock in them. We had a maltese cat some several years ago, and about the same period had a close-line post two feet and one inch from the bed room window. And why we don't uphold these critters is, that for seven long, weary weeks, we only got three winks of sleep each week It raises our blood to fever heat to even think of it, and if that young attorney at law don't go havers with us before the Sunday School bell rings next week, its our treat to the pea nuts.

The last few day we heard a number of persons speak of the manner in which our court house is filled, the moment, any low, filthy and disgusting case is on trial. Last when one of these cases was being tried, the court house was jammed to overflowing. This was not so unexpected as was the quality or kind who made up the crowd. Had it been of the low and vile scum still we would not been disappointed, but to see them from morning till night, standing all day, and straining every nerve to see and hear everything that was low and foul, old men who for years have been grandfathers, and those who have families of respectability, did stagger us. Nor were these men, who would like to be deemed "scum." No, there were church members and church officers, who seemed to delight in this filth, as would a "Bowery" boy. We felt ashamed of, and for them, and soon left in disgust. What a sad spectacle to see there those who should be examples of purity and morality to the young of our town, reveling in such mire.

SPENCERVILLE, March 3, 1876.

ED. COURIER:—Being much pleased with your Pioneer Sketches and I thought I could contribute a little to the matter in way of dates, I being an old settler.

—John Holton, settled on Fish Creek, in September, 1833. Thoms L. Yates, settled where Spencerville now is, in 1833, also David Butler and John Mathews, in the same fall. Daniel Rhodes, William Mathews, Brant, Lightle, H. Blake, and George Mathews, settled in 1834. John F. Rhodes, Jeremiah Rhodes and John Blair, settled in 1835.

David Butler and myself are the only surviving heads of families, who was here in October, 1835. I was here with my brother Daniel to look at the country when Yates was cutting his house logs, in October 1833.

Washington Robison, was the first Justice of the peace in the county, and the only man authorized to administer an oath, when the locating Commissioners met to locate the County Seat. They met at where Auburn now is, and sent all the way over to Vienna now Newville for the Justice to administer the oath to them.

The first church organized was the M. E. church, at Spencerville; organized at my fathers house, about 50 rods west of the village.

JEREMIAH RHODES.

Among the worst features of a badly minded daughter, we should first single out indolence, or to use the rough and more expressive English word, laziness A lazy, sofa-lolling, lie-a-bed late in the morning young woman, is an affront to her sex, and in her own family more a curse than a blessing to her mother. She is a burden and to her father an object of contempt. She is also a great promoter of domestic strife, and a shocking example to her young sisters. Such a being crawls instead of walking with tripping alacrity through life. She dawdles instead of works, her speech is vulgar, and altogether her ways are very bad indeed; and to add to her misdeeds her health suffers through her folly, and thus she wantonly imposes a grevious tax on the purse and patience of her parents.

For a girl to be idle in the flush of her youth is to invite any and all kinds of calamities to befall her with blistering anguish, and depend upon it, the downward career of most afflicted women may be primarily traced to this early and wicked habit, for it is nothing else, it being as easy for a young woman to be industrious as the reverse.

Court Items.

The Circuit Court commenced its session last week, Judge Best, presiding A large amount of civil and probate matter was disposed.

The criminal docket was not very large at the commencement, in point of numbers, but for offenses, greater than usual one being for rape, one for burglary and four or five for grand larceny.

The Grand Jury were busy all week, and returned again Monday. We notice a large number of young boys in and about the grand jury, from which it may be infered that the liquor sellers are being investigated.

We heard it whispered that the grand jury were going to investigate the Troy township election of 1874, whereby it was claimed that Mr. Waterman was fraudulently put in as the Representative, when Taylor should have been. We think after the investigation had on the contest between these gentlemen it looks quite thin, now be placing the county to the expense of two or three hundred dollars, just to vent a little spite. It is all bosh. But a lie well stuck to sometimes nearly as good as the truth.

STILES. This man fifty five years old last Saturday after the jury were out three hours, was convicted of that most heinous of crimes, rape on the person of, a girl ten years old, and that, his own step-daughter. He will have three years in the States Prison to repent his crime.

Besides the members of the county bar, we notice the following gentlemen in attendance at court: A. A. Chapin, L. E. Goodwin, Maines, of Kendallville, Olds, of Columbia City, Judge Anthony of Valpariaso, for the B. & O. R. R. Samuel Morris and the Ft. Wayne Sentinel's "Baron Vani Westrumb."

Court will consume its entire term, and then will be half through with the litigated business.

Circuit Court is in session, with the usual number of litigants, lawyers, loungers, lookerson, and loafers. Notwithstanding the stormy weather, we hear a large amount of business, has already been transacted in court, as well as by the grand jury. From outside appearance it seems there is to be a pretty general overhauling of the crimes great and small in the county, and especially the illegal dealers of liquor.

The Court says to the Weyer boy, for invoicing Jno. L. Davis' show case: "You can go to the place of the wicked for two years." The Centennial will have little attraction for him.

Next came Geo. Grey, from the 'pious' town of Garrett, and for stealing a shirt coat and vest, was also sent up for two years. Now, Mr. Grey will have a whole suit given him with nice little stripes "all 'round, all 'round."

A slander case is pending in court for which one woman called another naughty names. They hail from the rural district of Fairfield. Nearly the whole voting population are compelled to attend court as witnesses.

Sheriff Mcese has three fellows booked for the state prison at Michigan City with another on the "flutter" who has chances thenceward.

The Grand Jury had a good thing of it in setting until yesterday. This was the longest session of that body on record in this county.

Too much praise cannot be given Judge Best for the manner in which he has ordered repairs in the Court room. It looks decent and convenient.

A case of Belknapism is reported from the "future" city of Waterloo, as connected with wheat weigher and agent on the Lake Shore road. They have been bounced—gone where the woodbine twineth, DONATION—Resolved, by the official board of the M. E. church of Auburn, that in view of the untiring efforts of the Rev. J. W. Welch in building up the interests of Christianity in our midst that a special donation be given for his benefit.

In accordance with the above resolution it has been decided to give a donation to the reverend gentleman named, on Thursday evening, March 9th, 1876, at the residence of Dr. Ford. A cordial invitation is extended to all. To all who attend refreshment will be served free from eight to nine o'clock.

COMMITTEE.

The COURIER only costs two dollars a year.

Washington Letter.

DEAR COURIER:—Not since the 14th of April, 1861, when the news of the fire upon Fort Sumter was received here, has there been such intense excitement as that occasioned last Thursday, in the announcement of the terrible disgrace of Secretary Belknap. The distant rumbling of the thunder had been heard several days before, and it was intimated that lightning would strike in a prominent place, but when it was more appalling than at first apprehended. Being clerk of the committee by which the investigation was made, I knew the facts a week in advance, yet its public announcement was so unexpected and shocking in detail, the facts so conclusive and irrefutable in character, as to produce an effect not dissimilar to that of the murder of Lincoln in 1865. By some means the Baltimore "Gazette" on Thursday morning, published to the world the startling revelation that Belknap had been found guilty of high crime and misdemeanor. This was the first intimation to the public, and all day long throngs of people surged in the corridors leading to the south wing of the capitol, and the galleries of the House were crowded with spectators. Early in the morning the impending denouement in the case of Secretary Belknap began to be bruited about the hotels, and by high noon, when Congress assembled, these stories had been confirmed. Not more than half a dozen members of Congress knew the real nature of the developments which had been made during the past two days, and as these gentlemen began to arrive at the capitol and the fact became known that they were in possession of the awful secret, they were besieged at every turn by their fellow members and by excited correspondents, who had been beaten on this important piece of news by their more fortunate competitors.

THE LIGHTNING DID STRIKE,

In the meantime, down in a small room sat the committee of five, hearing evidence and steadily heaping up the facts that were soon to go before the world of a nation's disgrace. Belknap was there in the morning, completely broken down and undergoing a most frightful torture of mind. The day before he had appealed to the committee for mercy in such a way, that I pitied the man from the bottom of my heart, but I suppose I am more sympathetic by nature than others. Mr. Belknap proposed "that if the committee would so report the facts as to leave Mrs. Belknap's share in the transactions unmentioned he would give them a written confession of his crime." This was necessarily rejected, as no true report could in such case have been made, and to consent would have placed the committee in a fatally false position. Moreover, it was evident from the explanatory letters submitted by two of the committee that an attempt had been made during the course of the investigation to entangle them in some way so as to make them incapable of acting effectively. Cruel as the exposure of women seems in this case, as Mr. Clymer read on, it was generally admitted that the committee had performed a necessary, though painful act of duty—the more necessary because the gossip of Washington had already spoken of the friendly relations which existed between Mr. Belknap's family and some members of the committee.

After the morning session of the committee on Thursday, it adjourned until 3 o'clock, to give Mr. Belknap an opportunity to appear, and offer anything in extenuation of his crime. They met promptly at that hour, but no one appeared and their report was made accordingly. They were locked in their room, and messengers were posted at every approach to keep off the excited and intensely curious inquirers, who were eager to interview them.

The deepest anxiety was visible in the faces of all the people who thronged the galleries, and the members of the House gathered in little knots in the cloak-rooms and in the space in the rear of the seats to discuss the frightful revelation, the outlines of which they had found in the "Gazette." The republican members were manifestly much depressed, and altogether there was an air of solemnity pervading the chamber, which seemed to affect every person present. There was no levity noticeable on the democratic side, and in moving about among the gentlemen on that side, I did not hear a single remark that indicated anything like exultation. On the contrary, the manner and tone of the conversation made by democrats generally indicated a deep sense of humiliation and shame which this horrible revelation of official malfeasance must inevitably bring upon our country. At twenty minutes past four o'clock the committee on expenditures in the War Department quietly entered the hall, and Mr. Clymer and his democratic colleagues found seats close down to the bar of the House on the right of the Speaker. The instant their entrance was noted, a death-like stillness ensued, and quietly and gravely every member who had been lounging in the cloak rooms or standing in the rear of the seats found his place. In expectation of what was to come, Mr. Wood paused in the course of his speech, and Mr. Clymer rose and with the deepest feeling asked if his friend from New York would not suspend his remarks in order that he might have an opportunity to present a report, unanimously adopted by his committee, the grave character of which would, when its contents were made known to the House, fully warrant the request he had made. With, if possible, more than his unusual grace, the urbane Mr. Wood yielded, and then Mr. Clymer stated that in view of the haste with which his report had been prepared, he was satisfied that the clerk would not be able to read it, and therefore must beg permission to read it himself. One of his republican colleagues on the committe moved that he be requested to go to the reading clerk's desk and read the report. There being no objections, the Speaker requested Mr. Clymer to come to the desk, which he did, and in a clear, sonorous and most admirable manner read his report and the accompanying resolutions, together with all the evidence.

During the reading an unbroken silence was maintained. The effect of the details meantime produced as the disclosures came out was noticable in the faces of the members, but the pen of the most gifted word-painter would fail to present to the reader any adequate idea of it. After the reading of the report and evidence was concluded, Mr. Clymer in a neat and appropriate speech moved the previous question. There was a decided spirit of opposition manifested to this on the republican side and Kasson, of Iowa, attempted to give a political turn to the occasion but the prompt rebuke which he met at Mr. Clymer's hands settled him pretty effectually. The neatest and completest overthrow was that of Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, by Mr. Blackburn, of Kentucky, one of the members of the committee. Mr. Blackburn's efforts is admitted to have been one of the happiest that has been made in the House of Representatives for many years. He met the issue raised by Mr. Hoar as to the power of the House to impeach a civil officer after he has resigned as denned in Story's Commentaries on The Constitution, and signally defeated him. Mr. Hoar was wild with rage, and so far forgot himself as to claim that Mr. Blackburn had exceeded his time. The prompt and emphatic manner in which the Speaker stated that this was not true, sent Mr. Hoar back to his seat with a stern face. He subsided after this and was not heard from again. Mr. Kasson, of Iowa, made a pitiful and lame quasi defence of Belknap, and appealed to the House to refer the matter to the judiciary committee, but when the question of ordering the previous question was put there were but two or three faint noes, and on ordering the main question there was not one solitary nay heard.

J. R. LANNING,

Has just received and has now on sale at his store in Auburn, Ford's Block, in splendid styles new spring.

Millinery Goods.

ALL THE NEW STYLES.

Dress Goods, all the new and beautiful shades of fabrics.—New Fancy Goods and Notions, the latest of the season New Domestic Goods and Notions. Please call and examine styles and prices before buying

J. R. LANNING.

Auburn, Ind. March 9th 1876.

When the letter of the President was read, stating that he had accepted the Secretary's resignation at half-past ten o'clock, there was a murmur of amazement at what looked to everybody then like an act deliberately intended to shield Mr. Belknap, but when the terms of the letter were read, in which the President tells Mr. Belknap that he excepts his resignation with great regret, people turned to each other with indignation at something which seemed to them an open defiance of decency and of public opinion.

THE FEELING OF THE SENATE.

The news of Mr. Belknap's fall created a profound impression in the Senate, especially among the republicans. They were exceedingly solemn and gathered in groups and conversed in low, earnest tones during the day. Senator Edmunds said that the exposures were terrible and sickening. It has been given out by him that he was to speak in the Pinchback case, but the flying rumors of Belknap's resignation and suicide dampened the ardor on Louisiana matters, and Mr. Edmunds said that he should postpone the delivery of his speech. Senator Logan made no concealment of his regret at the Secretary's downfall. He characterized it as a most terrible calamity and said that his resignation ought not to have been accepted by the President. "Mr. Belknap ought to be tried, impeached and sent to the penitentiary, the same as myself," said the Senator, "if I were guilty of the whisky charges, as alleged by the independent press." Mr. Logan went on to say that he and his wife had been criticised because they did not make more display in society and give frequent receptions. He was opposed to the reckless extravagances of fashionable political life in Washington. He believed in plain living. Senator Cameron repeated the words. "Terrible, terrible." "The only way for people to live," said he, "is within their means. Mr. Buchanan and myself used to pay from $8 to $10 a week for board and two rooms and we lived well. The Scripture is right—Lead us not into temptation."

Vice President Ferry says that it is a very sad thing and a great shame to think a man holding such a high position of trust could not prove true to it. He felt very much dejected about it, and thought it was likely to have a very bad effect on the coming election in New Hampshire and Connecticut.

The scene at the other end of the avenue was a very different one. At a very early hour this morning Mr. Belknap, accompanied by ex-Attorney General Williams, drove in a close carriage to the White House, and were closeted with Gen. Grant until twenty minutes past ten o'clock There were present at the interview Boss Shepherd and Secretary Chandler. Mr. Belknap presented his resignation, and made a full and complete confession to the President, who promptly accepted the resignation after Belknap had concluded his statement.

The parallel that was everywhere drawn to day was between the conduct of Secretary Bristow when his chief clerk was found to be connected with the whisky frauds and Grant's conduct in this case. Bristow would not permit Avery to resign, but suspended him, while Grant with all the facts before him, with the confession of Belknap yet ringing in his ears, accepted Belknap's resignation for the purpose of shielding him from impeachment.

And now the people will see the utility of their electing a Democratic House. This scandal of Belknap's has been charged time and again, and was brought before a committee in a former House, but they did not dare to reveal it. I believe every department of the Government is more or less tainted with these terrible crimes The committees are getting down to work, and it is expected that lightning will strike again and disclose the utter corruption of the civil service.

You, that have read my former letters on the grand receptions and lavish display in this city, will now have a correct idea of how a poor man, in official position, keeps up the extravagance into which they plunge themselves. What a fearful corrupt city, the proud capitol of our nation is. How much longer will the people, who are being daily robbed, submit to this pretence of honesty. Must the nation be dishonored, the people robbed, for the sake of a party. Heaven forbid.

TOM.

PERSONAL.

—We noticed W. H. Keeran of New Era, on our streets this week.

—Miss Mary McNerny, of Ohio, is in the city, a guest of Miss Kitty Elwell.

—Mr. Reynolds, Wife and baby are visiting their paternal home in this city.

—Mrs. W. L. Penfield's father and mother, of Bucyrus, Ohio, are visiting friends in this city. They contemplate locating here.

—Charley Yandes a son of our jovial P. M. has been under the weather for several days.

—Geo. Grund, of Fort Wayne, has been employed by S. Pommert. He is said to be a first-class barber.

—Dr. Snyder, of Corunna, gave us a brief, but agreeable call, last Monday. The doctor has worked up a fine practice at the above place.

—Gust. Deppen, formerly with Jno. Hebel, of this city, has opened up a nice Saloon on Calhoun street, Fort Wayne, Ind.

—M. L. Duck, of North Manchester is in the city, Mr. D, was a former resident of this place.

—Wm Hoffman, attorney at law at Garrett, was in attendance at Court this week, brother to P. V. Hoffman of this city.

—Mr. & Mrs. M. E. Martin, of La Otto formerly residents of this city, were visiting friends during the fore part of he week.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Administratrix of the Estate of Robert Bell, late of DeKalb county, deceased. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

MARGARET A. BELL, Adm'x.

MUSIC.

MISS McCUTCHAN, teacher of instrumental music, harmony and thorough bass, is prepared to give instruction in music in a thorough and practical manner. For further information call at the residence of E. D. Hartman, near the Eel River depot.

Nov. 25, 1875.—tf.

Surveyor's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the County Surveyor, will at my request locate and re-locate lines and corners in and adjoining sections one (1) and two, (2) township thirty-five, (35) North Range twelve (12) East, and that said Surveyor will meet all interested persons at the North-West corner of said section one, (1) on the morning of the 4th day of April 1876.

WALTER W. CRISS, Applicant.

J. J. VANAUKEN, County Surveyor. 8w

CATARRH.—If you would avoid being rendered deaf, or unfit to mingle in society, on account of foul and nauseating discharges from gangrenous ulcers in the head, use Dr. Detchon's celebrated Catarrh Remedy. It is the greatest cure and control for the hideous destroyer, the world ever saw. It will save every life threatened by it. It immediately arrests its progress, and if perseveringly used, will never disappoint in a cure. Go to Davenport's Drug Store, and get a sample bottle free. Sept. 30 y

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life.—When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Billiousness, &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

COMSUMPTION CURED.

AN old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by and East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering he will send free of charge to all who desire it this receipt with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Munroe Block. Syracuse, N. Y

Stop that Cough.

No pulmonary complaint however obstinate, can resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound.—Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectually in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Hooping Cough and Croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take. Cough worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxyims that threatened to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10 cents. Ask for Dr. Morris' Syrup take no

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Before Jacob Walborn, J P Union-tp.
De Kalb County. }

Thomas J. Shreve, vs James E. Shreve.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishment in said case has been served on the Baltimore, Pittsburg and Chicago Railway Company, Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 10, of April A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M, to answer or demur to the complaint or the same will be determined in his absence.

Feb. 17, 1876. JACOB WALBORN, J. P.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ford & Parent, Prs.

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, &c

are prepared to send out rigs at anytime and at reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House

GILES' LINIMENT

IODIDE OF AMMONIA

Cures Neuralgia, Face ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, chilblains, sore throat Erysipelas, Bruises or Wounds of every kind in man or animal.

Dr. William Osgood Page, of No [illegible] 4th avenue New York, suffered for many years with stiffness and intense pain in his knee, and at times was unable to walk, caused by an injury received on the Hudson River Railroad. Tried every remedy that skill or science could devise, without benefit. Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia gave instant relief and effected a complete cure.

Sold by all Druggists. Depot No. 451 Sixth avenue, New York. Only 50c and $1 per bottle. Sold by J. H. KELLERS.

No. 3

AUBURN COURIER.

THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1876.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

LOUIS J. JENNINGS, late editor of the New York Times, has sold his nine shares of stock in the concern to George Jones for $100,000.

THE WEST.

FOUR persons, consisting of the wife and three children of a man named Niermann, were burned to death recently at Lemars, Iowa, by the destruction of their house by fire.

CHICAGO packers have slaughtered over a million and a half of hogs the present season. ....A terrific storm recently passed over the town of St. Charles, Mo. The cyclone lasted but five minutes, but in that brief space nearly every building in the village was more or less damaged, many of them being swept away entirely. Two or three persons were killed, and many seriously injured. The pecuniary loss is estimated at half a million dollars.... The Mary Bell, said to be the largest steamboat on the Mississippi river, was destroyed by fire the other day. A large cargo of cotton and the baggage of 200 passengers were lost.... A feud has existed for some time between J. N. Hawkins, of the Carrollton, Mo., Journal, and A. S. Kierolf, of the Democrat, which culminated a few days ago in Kierolf shooting Hawkins four times, once in the face, and twice in the breast and bowels, inflicting wounds from which he cannot recover.

PRINCETON, Ind., suffered great damage by a terrific tornado that swept over it last Sunday night. Several persons were killed, and many badly injured. Some forty houses were demolished. The loss in money is about $300,000....Dr. Joseph Hooper, of Bay City, Mich., editor of the Michigan Odd Fellow, died suddenly on the morning of the 28th of congestion of the lungs.

SITTING BULL has determined to try conclusions with the United States troops on the question of the observance of the treaty requiring his tribe to remain on the reservation. He has collected 1,500 braves at the mouth of Powder River, in the Yellowstone country, and defies the combined forces of Gens. Custer and Crook, numbering 2,000 men, to convince him that the Government really amounts to anything. An expedition is already en route for the neighborhood of the obstinate redskins, and it is safe to predict that before many moons are wasted Sitting Bull will cease to be a sitting bully in that locality.

SOUTH.

THE Mississippi House of Representatives has adopted the report of the Ames Investigating Committee, and ordered the impeachment of the Governor. The report recommends that he be impeached and removed for official misconduct, on eleven separate and distinct charges, including a failure to remove certain dishonest officials, for causing bloodshed at Vicksburg in Crosby's case, for calling for Federal troops and having them eject the Sheriff of Warren County; for arming the colored militia and attempting to incite a war of races.

IN the Louisiana House of Representatives, on Feb. 26, the House Committee appointed to investigate the conduct of Gov. Kellogg, made their report, which is to the effect that "they find on investigation that the said William P. Kellogg has committed many violations in his official capacity of the Constitution and laws of the State of Louisiana; has been guilty of many and divers high crimes and misdemeanors in office against said Constitution and laws of Louisiana; therefore, be it resolved, etc., that a committee of five members of this House be appointed by the Speaker to go to the Senate, and, at the bar thereof, in the name of the House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana, impeach William P. Kellogg of high crimes and misdemeanors in office, committed since April 14, 1875."

THE Louisiana House of Representatives, by a vote of 61 to 45, has adopted the report of the Kellogg Investigating Committee, together with the resolutions recommending that articles of impeachment be preferred against that officer. The Senate was then notified of this action, and the House adjourned. The Senate organized into a court of impeachment for judicial proceedings, examined into the charges against the Governor, and dismissed the case.

THE Mayor of Atlanta, Ga., in accordance with an understanding with the Board of Trade, the State authorities and the railway companies of Georgia, has sent invitations to members of commercial bodies, the city authorities, and members of the press and leading business men, throughout the Northwest, to visit Atlanta, on or about the 15th inst., to accept the hospitalities of the city, and to take free excursions on the railroads of Georgia, from Chattanooga to Atlanta, Augusta, Port Royal, Savannah, Thomasville, and Albany, and return.

POLITICAL.

THE Republican Senators in Congress have decided, in caucus, that they will not vote for the bill recently introduced to pay soldiers of the war of 1812 pensions who were stricken from the rolls on account of disloyalty.

A FAVORABLE report has been made in the Senate on the bill fixing the salary of the President of the United States from and after the 4th of March, 1877, at $25,000, and it has been replaced on the calendar....A meeting of New York workingmen was held last week, under the auspices of the Legal-Tender Club, at which resolutions were adopted demanding that the policy of specie resumption be abandoned, and that the restoration of greenbacks to par (gold) be brought about by promoting the industries of the people.... The Connecticut Republicans have nominated the following State ticket: "Governor, Henry C. Robinson; Lieutenant-Governor, Frederick J. Kingsland; Secretary of State, Francis A. Walker; Treasurer, Jeremiah Onley; Comptroller, Eli Curtis. The platform declares in favor of free schools and a coin currency. The preference of the Convention for Marshall Jewell as a Presidential candidate was indicated, but the delegates were left unpledged to any man.

THE Republican Convention of Rhode Island is called for March 23.

THE Democratic Caucus Finance Committee of the House have agreed upon a bill to be supported by the party in that body. The measure is entitled "a bill to privide for the gradual resumption of specie payment," and is a modification of the bill offered by Mr. Payne, of Ohio. By its provisions the date set for resumption—Jan. 1, 1879—is further extended.

WASHINGTON.

THE news of Gen. Babcock's acquittal caused great joy among his friends at the Capital. President Grant, who, from the beginning, announced himself confident of the acquittal, expressed no surprise, but did not conceal his gratification at the result. When the news was received by Mrs. Babcock, she fainted from excitement, and remained a long time in hysterics....It is announced from Washington that Congress will order a complete investigation of the whisky-ring matters....It is certain that the salaries of Congressmen will be reduced from $5,000 to $4,500. The amount saved will be about $400,000....The rich Senator, Sharon, of Nevada, has reached Washington, and taken his seat for the first time since his election, two years ago....The House Committee on Foreign Affairs have been furnished by Secretary Fish with the correspondence concerning the connection of Minister Schenck with the Emma Mine scandal. It includes a communication from Minister Schenck, in which he says that he invested in the Emma Mine stock, but it was a private speculation, for which he cited precedents. He was not ashamed of what he had done. At the suggestion of the President, however, owing to the scandal, he resigned as Director of the company....A Washington telegram to the Chicago Tribune says: "If the close of the Babcock trial can have any bearing on the relations of the Cabinet, it would seem to render the retirement of Gen. Bristow less certain. Members of the Cabinet say, with the strongest assurance of knowledge, that Bristow is sure to remain."

SECRETARY BRISTOW, in his annual report to Congress, stated that the work of refunding the national debt was hindered by the shortness of the time the 4½ per cent. bonds have to run, fifteen years. In accordance with his recommendation the Senate has passed a bill extending the time to thirty years. The House will no doubt concur. It is now thought that these bonds will be much sought after for long-time investments.... The report that Gen. Babcock was about to resign his position as Private Secretary to President Grant is contradicted. Gen. B., in conversation with his friends, says a Washington dispatch, states that he has no present intention of resigning, nor does he consider it at all necessary to renew his request for an army Court of Inquiry to vindicate him from charges which have already been disposed of after a full and fair trial by a civil tribunal.

THE Washington Daily Tribune, heretofore an independent paper, is now issued as a Democratic organ.

MR. WADDELL, of North Carolina, has presented a bill in the House the object of which is to restore the franking privilege.

THE nation's debt was reduced $3,272,733 during the month of February just past. Appended is the official statement:

Six per cent. bonds	$ 984,999,650
Five per cent. bonds	697,884,750
Total coin bonds		$1,682,884,400
Lawful money debt	$ 14,000,000
Matured debt	18,102,080
Legal tenders	371,011,844
Certificates of deposit	38,045,000
Fractional currency	45,120,122
Coin certificates	32,918,000
Total without interest		$ 497,091,976
Total debt		$2,202,158,457
Total interest		30,412,026
Cash in Treasury:
Coin	$70,028,772
Currency	9,529,404
Special deposits held for redemption of certificates of deposit	38,045,000
Total in Treasury		$ 117,610,176
Debt less cash in the Treasury		$2,119,232 039
Decrease of debt during January		3,272,733
Decrease since June 30, 1875		13,738,419
Bonds issued to the Pacific Railway Companies, interest payable in lawful money: Principal outstanding		$ 64,623,572
Interest accrued and not yet paid		646,236
Interest paid by the United States		30,141,513
Interest repaid by transportation of mails, etc.		6,724,317
Balance of interest paid by the United States		23,417,195

A WASHINGTON dispatch announces that the House Appropriation Committee have virtually decided not to make any appropriation to meet the deficiency in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, so as to resume the printing of fractional currency, but to report a resolution to the House expressing the opinion that the time has come when the Secretary of the Treasury ought to begin paying out silver instead of fractional currency.

THE President, immediately upon the retirement of Gen. Belknap, appointed Secretary Robeson, of the Navy, Acting-Secretary of War.

GENERAL.

STATISTICS of the Babcock trial: The evidence in the case covers 3,200 pages. The cost to Babcock for lawyers' fees and all amounts to about $32,750. The cost to the Government for legal and witness' fees and court expenses will be a little over $17,000.

IT appears that the hotel proprietors of Cincinnati are putting up their rates to exorbitant figures for the entertainment of the people who who are expected to attend the Republican National Convention in June. The Republican National Executive Committee is investigating the facts in the case, and if the reported advance in rates be true, the place of holding the convention will probably be changed to Chicago.

JAS. E. LYON, of Racine, Wis., has testified before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs as to his connection with the celebrated Emma Mine. He was one of the original owners of the mine, and explained the secret history of the scheme to entrap English financiers. His statement, if true, is very damaging to the good name of several persons of high position.

FOREIGN.

A COLOSSAL statue of Bismarck is to be exhibited at the Philadelphia show.....Many organized battalions of Carlists have already surrendered to Alfonso's forces; thousands of rebels in detached bands are asking amnesty, and it is apparent that the insurrection in Spain is about ended....Refugees from Herzegovina are denied an asylum in Austria.

ONE effect of the recent French elections has been to render necessary a more liberal construction of the new Press laws, which under Buffet were enforced, especially against the Republican newspapers, with such strictness as to call forth the unanimous condemnation of that class of journals. Many cases arising during the recent political contest, have, by order of Dufaure, Buffet's successor, been allowed to lapse, this course being, in the opinion of the Government, the wisest under the circumstances.

AN English trading vessel was seized by some Spanish coast-guards the other day, about five miles from Gibraltar; but the prize crew were overpowered by the Englishmen, who brought the merchantman, with all on board safely into the fortress....Reports of the floods in the Hungarian section of the valley of the Danube, show the devastation to be of vast extent and most distressing in its consequences. Two thousand people in a single city are houseless, and a hundred large manufactories in New Pesth have been destroyed. The suffering among the houseless and impoverished people is terrible.

A CADIZ telegram says a proclamation has been published there declaring that the King, his brave army and Government, with the patriotic co-operation of all parties, have put an end to the civil war in Spain....Fifty thousand Spanish soldiers will immediately go to Cuba, to put down the insurrection in that island.... A London dispatch announces that Russia has incorporated Khokand among her possessions. Gen. Scobeleff has been appointed Governor of the new province, to which the name of Ferghan is given....Advices have been received at The Hague announcing the death, by cholera, at Acheen, of Gen. Pel, commander of the Dutch forces.

THE marriage of Prof. Tyndall to Miss Louisa Claude Hamilton took place March 1, at Westminster Abbey. The ceremony was performed by Dean Stanley. Thomas Carlyle, Prof. Huxley, Dr. Hooker, and Sir F. Pollock were present....In repairing the direct cable at sea, the ship Faraday discovered evidence that it was maliciously cut. There were marks of three or four blows with a hatchet or ax.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

FRIDAY, Feb. 25.—Senate.—The Senate passed the bill authorizing the increase of the amount of 4½ per cent. bonds to be issued from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000, and extending the time for their payment to thirty years....The West Point Appropriation bill was before the Senate, and a long debate ensued regarding the propriety of the proposed reduction of salaries.

House.—The House refused to adopt the report of the Conference Committee for the payment of the interest on the District of Columbia 3.65 bonds, and postponed it for one week....Speaker Kerr received a telegram announcing the death of his brother, and Cox was called to assume the duties of Speaker pro tem....A number of private bills were passed.

SATURDAY, Feb. 26.—Senate.—Not in session. House.—The House met for debate only, Eden (Ill.) in the chair. Speeches were delivered by Riddle and Landers in favor of the repeal of the Resumption act, and by Durham in relation to the improvement of the natural highways of the country.

MONDAY, Feb. 28.—Senate.—Sharon, of Nevada, took the oath of office....A bill was passed enabling persons who have lately acquired citizenship in Colorado to vote upon the new Constitution in that Territory, and appropriating money to pay the expenses of a constitutional convention....The West Point Appropriation bill was discussed, and the Senate went into executive session.

House.—A letter was received from the Attorney-General, in response to a resolution offered by Mr. Lord, calling for an explanation of his order touching the testimony of accomplices in the whisky prosecutions. The Attorney-General states that such instructions as he issued were merely in confirmation of arrangements already made, and that as these instructions and arrangements relate to matters now in progress, the House would readily see the propriety of withholding special information relating directly thereto until the trials are over. The matter was referred to the Judiciary Committee....Bills introduced: By Warren, authorizing the payment to the executor of Henry Wilson, late Vice-President of the United States, a sum equal to the salary of the Vice-President for the unexpired portion of the term for which he was elected; by Willis, to simplify the existing laws imposing duties on imports, and to reduce the rates thereon, also to restore the duty on tea and coffee, and to enlarge the free list; by Waddell, to restore the franking privilege; by Vance, to provide for stationary Chaplains in the army; by Young, a law authorizing the payment for all cotton seized after 1865; by Oliver, to repeal the law in reference to the amount for which silver coin shall be legal-tender, and to enact a substitute therefor; by Mackey, to aid in the completion of the Washington Monument; by Tufts, for holding United States District Court at Davenport; by Phillips, for the liquidation of the debt of the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company to the United States; by Kidder (Dakota), declaring the Black Hills open to exploration and settlement; by New, to reimburse States for expenses incurred in the late rebellion.

TUESDAY, Feb. 29.—Senate.—The Chair laid before the Senate a message from the President, accompanied by a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, in regard to the deficiency of supplies at the Red Cloud Agency. Both urged immediate action on the estimates for that purpose, in order that the Indians may have no reason for an outbreak. Ordered printed, and referred.... Sherman, from the Finance Committee, reported adversely on the bill permitting national banks to organize with a capital of $50,000. The bill, with the adverse report, was ordered on the calendar. ....Morton rose to a personal explanation with regard to the testimony of J. L. Lyon before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, as to his (Morton's) connection with the Emma Mine affair. The Senator stated that in 1871 he was offered a fee of $20,000 as counsel in the case, which he had promised to consider favorably; but upon ascertaining that he could not, as a Senator, properly take part in it, he declined to go to Salt Lake City, where a meeting was appointed. It was Senator Stewart who made him the offer, and upon his becoming satisfied that the object of the parties was to secure his political influence for the removal of Judge McKean, he declined to have anything to do with the matter....The West Point Appropriation bill was passed as it came from the Appropriation Committee of the Senate, but it differs from the bill as it came from the House. The amendment adopted by the House for the pay of the band—$14,880—was nonconcurred in.

House.—The President's message in regard to Indian appropriations was laid before the House, and referred....Kelly, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill empowering the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, and the Librarian of Congress to report to the House such measures as will most effectively restore the writing in the original manuscript of the Declaration of Independence, with the signatures appended thereto, which is now in the Patent Office....The House went into committee of the whole on the bill granting pensions to the soldiers of the war of 1812.

WEDNESDAY, March 1.—Senate.—Frelinghuysen, from the Committee on Agriculture, reported adversely on the Senate bill to provide for an investigation as to the habits of the Rocky Mountain locusts or so-called "grasshoppers," and it was indefinitely postponed. He also reported from the same committee, favorably, on the Senate bill for the protection of agriculture against injurious insects, with amendments, which was ordered to be printed and the bill placed on the calendar..... After debate, the Senate passed, without amendment, the House bill appropriating $700,000 for the purchasing of material and continuation of the work on the building for a Custom House and Post-office at St. Louis....A bill was passed authorizing the purchase of additional ground for the Custom House at Nashville....On motion of Morton, the Senate took up the resolution for the admission of Pinchback as Senator from Louisiana, but after some debate, participated in by Alcorn, Norwood, and Edmunds, the Senate went into executive session.

House.—A resolution was adopted instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire what legislation is necessary to secure indemnity for the United States for the interest on the subsidy bonds of the Pacific Railway Company, and also to secure indemnity against the liability of the United States to pay the principal; also, to what extent the rates of freight and transportation on those roads can be regulated by Congress so as to make them less burdensome to the public.

THURSDAY, March 2.—Senate.—The proceedings in the Senate were wholly devoid of interest.

House.—The only business of importance in the House was the presentation by Clymer of articles of impeachment against Secretary Belknap. The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Bowen's Statement.

The Brooklyn Eagle says: "Mr. Henry C. Bowen declines to give the text of his statement against Mr. Beecher to the newspapers, and the Plymouth committee say they will not. Eagle reporters called upon Bowen and members of the committee, but they were all firm. The substance of the statement, however, has been ascertained. Bowen does not claim to have any knowledge of guilt on Beecher's part. He says he believes him guilty because of what he has heard from divers parties. The only names mentioned by him are Mr. and Mrs. Richards, who, he said, told him that Mrs. Tilton confessed to them. Another woman, whose name he declines to give, told him, he says, that in 1858 she saw Mr. Beecher enter in a suspicious manner the study of Plymouth Church with a woman whose name he also declines to mention. His informant did not say that she knew adultery was committed there, but she believed there was. The third and chief case cited by Mr. Bowen is that of a woman who, he says, told him that she had been twice outraged by Mr. Beecher, and that subsequent to the outrages she remained improperly intimate with him. Who this woman was, where the alleged outrages took place, or when they took place, are facts which Mr. Bowen declares that he cannot be induced to disclose. Apart from these three cases the statement is devoted to a defense of Mr. Bowen's behavior toward Mr. Beecher and the public since he became convinced of Mr. Beecher's guilt."

A Man Cuts off His Own Head.

A French artisan living in London committed suicide the other day by guillotining himself. One evening he was observed to take home two large planks of wood and a large double-handled knife. With these, as it was subsequently discovered, he constructed a guillotine. Grooves were formed in the wood for the knife, and down these, after having been drawn up with a pulley, it was forced by heavy stones. The unfortunate man's head was completely severed from his body.

MR. TOLLEMACHE, and English minister of the Gospel, has shot one of Lord Lonsdale's hounds, and has forbidden fox-hunters to trespass upon his premises. This independent action has excited the anger and disgust of nearly all the men in the county; and if Mr. Tollemache had not his cloth to protect him there is no telling what might happen to him.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Babcock Trial as Viewed at the Capital—Great Raid on Bristow—The Work of Congress—The Judiciary Bill—Measures of Finance.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27, 1876.

The topic of universal interest at this metropolis during the past week has been the trial of Gen. Babcock at St. Louis. It has been talked about day and night, from the Executive Mansion down to the basement gin-mills. I presume there has been a general interest in it all over the country, but I doubt whether a stranger to Washington would appreciate the all-absorbing nature of the matter here. You see Gen. Babcock has been not only the Private Secretary of the President, but has stood in close intimacy with him socially and politically. Not only that, but Babcock and "Boss" Shepherd have long been on terms of intimate friendship—frequenters of the same club, moving in the same "society" circles, by common rumor members of the same associations for speculation. So both on general account and for local reasons the people of Washington could not help feeling the liveliest interest in the St. Louis trial. That Babcock has many warm friends here no one will deny, but that the general sentiment has been heavily against him from the beginning is equally true. And I believe it would largely preponderate against any one known to have been the intimate friend and associate of "the Boss," who, in spite of his great wealth, is the most odious man who ever stepped within the limits of Washington.

GREAT RAID ON BRISTOW.

But this is not all. One of the most formidable political intrigues which have ever been concocted at this head-center of intrigues resulted from the Babcock trial. Or rather that trial was the occasion of it. I refer to the determined assault which was made on Secretary Bristow, and which is still going on while I write.

It is known to all men that the attack of the Treasury Department on that numerous, wealthy, formidable and most corrupt combination known as "the whisky ring" has simply been tremendous "all along the lines." Many men of influence in politics, many men of that standing in society which great riches and diamond breastpins give, many sworn officials of the Government were found to be guilty of the grossest crimes against the revenue laws, and of conduct utterly demoralizing to all honesty in business and in politics. It was impossible that the Secretary should deliver so heavy an assault and maintain the fight with such persistent vigor and unfaltering pluck, without raising up against him a powerful opposition. This opposition culminated on the occasion of the Babcock trial. All the friends of men in the whisky ring, all the toadies of power—and they are numerous in every party—even not a few of the champions of certain aspirants for the Presidency united, or seemed to unite, in an attack upon Bristow. They asserted that the prosecution of Babcock was an attack upon the President, and day in and day out they have used all sorts of influence to get up "bad blood" between the President and the Secretary of the Treasury. As Gen. Grant is known to be especially strong and adhesive in his friendships these men undoubtedly made considerable impression upon his mind. And the great question of to-day is "Will Bristow go out?" This is the conundrum everybody at Washington is asking, while "waiting for the verdict." Meanwhile I beg leave to remark that, whatever may be the truth as to Gen. Babcock, if these unconscionable intriguers shall succeed by any means in driving the brave and honest Secretary of the Treasury from the Cabinet, the fact will be nothing less than appalling to all men of all parties who demand honesty in politics and in government. And I can say this with the more emphasis and appropriateness because I care no more for Bristow's political aspirations, if he has any, than I care for last month's moonshine.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

The actual accomplishments of Congress have not been much during the past week, though either house has made considerable progress in the work before it. The most important measure passed by the House was the bill of the Judiciary Committee reorganizing the United States Courts, by constituting an Intermediate Court of Appeals, between the District Circuit Courts as they now exist and the Supreme Court. This Intermediate Court will be composed of the District Judge, the Circuit Judge and one of the Judges of the Supreme Court, and will have appellate and final jurisdiction in certain cases which are now taken by appeal or writ of error to the Supreme Court. The object of the bill is to relieve the Supreme Court of the trial of many cases of a comparatively unimportant nature. The docket of that court is now greatly overburdened. It is very far behind, and is getting farther behind all the time notwithstanding the great and constant labors of the court. If the bill becomes law it will accomplish the object intended, facilitate the administration of justice, and cause o additional expenditure. It is regarded as a wise measure and of very considerable value to the public. I believe that Mr. McCrary, of Iowa, is the author of the bill, but it had the hearty approval of the whole Judiciary Committee

MEASURES OF FINANCE.

The majority party of the House has had several caucuses at which the currency question has been discussed, but without, as yet, any definite conclusion. Indeed, it has been stated, and I think with truth, that several gentlemen will not be bound by a caucus resolution on this subject. The truth is, there is such a variety of opinion upon the subject of finance and especially upon the currency among our public men, whether of one party or another, that I greatly doubt whether the Congress at this session will accomplish anything whatever. I do not look for actual legislation herein till after the President-making business is accomplished. Meanwhile we have speeches on the subject till one can't rest, and no end of bills. If things should keep on at present rate a few months our currency "bills" would be nearly as numerous as our bank bills and our greenbacks, and they would be infinitely more varied in character. I do not think anything practical will come out of all this chaos for some time. It now looks very much as though Congress would go home leaving this question in statu quo ante bellum. I think the representative men of both parties believe this is the best course, or rather the safest course, for party purposes. If I am right herein, the whole subject will be left severely alone so far as the statute-book is concerned.

L. M. N.

P. S.—The verdict of acquittal in General Babcock's case is received here with divided opinions. Some most heartily rejoice over it as a complete vindication. One newspaper says, "enthusiastic men on the streets were nominating him for the Presidency, and betting fifty to one on his election." They must have been very "enthusiastic." Others there are who rejoice at the verdict, but think the escape was a narrow one, and that Babcook ought to be severely on his good behavior, from this time forth. These think that the General's heart must be taken for granted as all right, but that he had a weak head. The dupe of such men as Joyce and McDonald, they say, ought to come down and out from a position of large political influence. The latter class of persons is greatly the more numerous, but the former is the more noisy and enthusiastic."

THE EMMA MINE SWINDLE.

Gen. Schenck's Connection with the Affair—The Story of James E. Lyon—A Complicated Piece of Business.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs has been investigating Gen. Schenck's connection with that institution. Among other testimony taken was that of James E. Lyon, of Racine, Wis., one of the owners of the Monitor lode, which afterward became the Emma mine. This witness testified that the mine was an unmitigated fraud from the beginning. When suits arose the Directors had great difficulty in obtaining a trial in the courts of Utah, because Judge McKean was engaged in trying in his own court a case in which he was interested, being President of, and a large stockholder in a company engaged in litigation with another similar mining company. McKean was also interested to the extent of $100,000 in the Tunnelling Company, which organized with a capital of $1,000,000. The other justices were joint partners in the Emma Mine with interests adverse to him. The Marshal of the Territory was also interested in Emma mine stock. Therefore it was considered necessary to effect the removal of Judge McKean, and the assistance of Senator Morton was called in as an attorney, he being promised $20,000 if the schemes of the speculators were successful; but that gentleman declined to have anything to do with the affair when he ascertained that the parties wished to use his political influence as a Senator. Lyon was to receive $500,000 as his share of the plunder of the English investors in the mine, and because it was not forthcoming he now exposes the scheme. He says that the sale to the English capitalists was made by wholesale corruption and bribery. He charges that Prof. Silliman received $20,000 for making a favorable report of a mine already exhausted; that Gen. Schenck was given 500 shares, with the guarantee that they should yield him £20 a share; that Baron Grant received $500,000, Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. $125,000, and others still other specified sums.

On June 4, 1872, Lyon testifies, the Emma Mine literally caved in, or collapsed, and has not since been repaired. When ex-Senator Stewart was asked how they could satisfy the English stockholders for the non-production of ore, he replied that was easily arranged. They could say the snows of Utah were so deep as to prevent hauling, but they could make up for lost time during the summer. Mr. Park wrote to Anderson, connected with the company, on the 29th of July, 1874, after his return from Salt Lake City, that while he expected to see in the Emma Mine large beds of ore, the sight of them went far above his expectations. There was no report concerning the vast products of the mine but what fell far short of the truth. On such false representations the stock as a consequence advanced.

Gen. Schenck's statement to the English stockholders materially differs from the above. It is to the effect that he, as well as the Englishmen, had been swindled, and all that can be justly laid at his door is the charge of gross impropriety in consenting to the use of his name as a Director in a mining company while he was the United States Minister at the Court of St. James.

The General says he first met Senator Stewart and Trenor W. Park in a London hotel in company with Mr. Evarts, who was then on his way to Geneva to represent the United States as counsel in the Geneva case. Mr. Evarts introduced Park, and at subsequent meetings he and Stewart urged upon Schenck the value of the Emma Mine shares as an investment, till at last Park offered to advance the money on Schenck's note, with security for one year. It was not until after this that Gen. Schenck was requested to become one of the Directors, as he says, and he only consented after the question of propriety had been settled by the showing that other men prominent in diplomatic circles were serving in a similar capacity in other stock companies. His confidence in the scheme betrayed him into giving it this additional indorsement, and when he retired from the Directory his letter of resignation expressed continued confidence in the value of the mine. By the following card it will be seen that Minister Schenck asks an opportunity to be more fully heard on the subject:

LONDON, March 1.

In some London papers this morning were published telegraphic dispatches purporting to give a report of Lyon's testimony before a committee of Congress. I denounce his whole statement concerning me as a tissue of infamous falsehoods. Having obtained leave from my Government for the purpose, I shall sail in the next steamer for the United States to confront my calumniators and vindicate my reputation.

R. C. SCHENCK.

The matter is to be thoroughly investigated, and it is probable that the committee will be granted leave to sit during the recess of Congress. Mr. Schenck has telegraphed his attorney to retain the professional services of Wm. M. Evarts, and to have Park and Stewart summoned.

THE FINANCIAL PROBLEM.

Another Scheme for Specie Resumption—A Gold Lock-up Said to be Gaining Some Favor.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune telegraphs as follows: The committee appointed by the Democratic caucus to devise some compromise financial measure, besides considering the bills and resolutions which have been introduced in the House and Senate, and which have also been referred to it, has also been giving a hearing to several members of Congress who desired to speak on the subject. One Representative from New York, who had addressed the committee on Tuesday last, submitted a measure which it is hoped will be satisfactory, not only to the hard-money men of the East, and Texas, and the Pacific Coast, but which also will secure the support of Southern and Western members who are opposed to contraction, but who see the necessity of yielding some of their opinions in arranging a compromise measure. This proposition contemplates the annual accumulation in the United States Treasury of $30,000,000 in gold coin or bullion. At any time after the amount so accumulated shall have reached $150,000,000, the Secretary of the Treasury may, at his discretion, and after due notice, begin the redemption of United States notes in coin, and it shall be obligatory upon him to do so when the amount of gold accumulated in the Treasury shall be $200,000,000. In order to provide for securing the gold thus to be accumulated, the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to discontinue the sale of gold received as revenue and to use all surplus revenues of the Treasury for the purchase if necessary. He is also temporarily relieved from the necessity of providing for the sinking fund to the extent of the amount of gold annually accumulated, and, should there still be a deficiency, he may issue either 4½ or 5 per cent. bonds of the United States for the purpose of purchasing coin or bullion. If at any time, owing to the operations of this plan, the revenues of gold should be insufficient to meet the annual appropriations the Secretary of the Treasury is to be allowed to issue Treasury notes bearing interest, at a rate not exceeding 6 per cent, to be redeemed at the end of one year, the total amount of such notes outstanding at any one time not to exceed $3,000,000.

By this plan the National Banks are also forbidden to dispose of the gold received as interest on their bonds deposited in the Treasury of the United States, but may be allowed to lend a portion or the whole of it, to be repaid in gold, and to count any balance in their possession not so loaned as a part of the reserve which they are required by law to have. The bill also provides for the repeal of that part of the Resumption act of last year which directs the Secretary of the Treasury to begin the redemption of the outstanding greenback circulation on the 1st of January, 1879.

A Rat Kills an Alligator.

Some time ago, says the Toledo Commercial, "Mr. O. D. Benjamin came into the possession of two healthy young alligators which he placed in a tank in his billiard hall, where they have since attracted considerable attention. The other evening one of them crawled over the side of his domicile down on to the floor, and was attacked by a huge rat. The alligator showed fight and the combat raged fast and furious for several minutes, both contestants being severely bitten. The rat finally turned tail ignominiously, and left his antagonist in full possession of the field. It soon became evident, however, that the victor had received his death wound in the fray, and throughout the night its piteous cry, mutch resembling that of a kitten, could be heard at intervals. In the morning it breathed its last.

DR. SARTORI, a professor of languages, who died in Richmond, Va., a few days ago, is said to have played chess with Napoleon the Great.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	9 @ 11
HOGS—Dressed	8 @ 9
COTTON	12½@ 13½
FLOUR—Superfine Western	5 10 @ 5 40
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1 17 @ 1 19
CORN	60 @ 61
OATS	45 @ 50
RYE	78 @ 80
PORK—New Mess	22 00 @22 00
LARD—Steam	13½@ 13¼

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Choice Graded Steers	5 75 @ 6 00
Choice Natives	4 75 @ 5 50
Cows and Heifers	2 50 @ 4 00
Good Second-class Steers	4 25 @ 4 75
Medium to Fair	3 75 @ 4 25
Inferior to Common	2 75 @ 4 25
HOGS—Live	7 50 @ 8 00
FLOUR—Fancy White Winter	7 25 @ 7 75
Good to choice Spring Ex.	5 00 @ 5 50
WHEAT—No. 1 Spring	1 08 @ 1 09
No. 2 Spring	97½@ 98
No. 3 Spring	79 @ 83
CORN—No. 2	42 @ 43
OATS—No. 2	30 @ 31½
RYE—No. 2	61 @ 62
BARLEY—No. 2	51½@ 53½
BUTTER—Fancy	30 @ 34
EGGS—Fresh	13 @ 16
PORK—Mess	20 50 @22 00
LARD	12½@ 13

DETROIT.

FLOUR—Choice White	6 25 @ 6 50
Ambers	5 75 @ 6 00
WHEAT—Extra	1 39 @ 1 40
No. 1 White	1 27 @ 1 28
No. 2 White	1 17 @ 1 18
Amber	1 25 @ 1 25
CORN	43 @ 46
OATS	36 @ 38
RYE	70 @ 72
BARLEY—No. 2	1 60 @ 1 75
BUTTER	22 @ 24
EGGS	14 @ 15
PORK—Mess	23 25 @23 50
LARD	13 @ 14
CATTLE	3 75 @ 4 75
HOGS	7 50 @ 8 00

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 46 @ 1 47
CORN—No. 2	38 @ 39
OATS—No. 2	33 @ 33½
RYE—No. 2	65 @ 67
PORK—Mess	22 25 @23 75
LARD	12 @ 13
HOGS	7 25 @ 8 00
CATTLE	3 25 @ 4 60

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 1	1 00 @ 1 09
No. 2	1 00 @ 1 01
CORN—No. 2	41 @ 42
OATS—No. 2	30 @ 31
RYE	66 @ 67
BARLEY—No. 2	72 @ 75

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—New	1 18 @ 1 26
CORN	43 @ 44
OATS	35 @ 41
RYE	76 @ 78
PORK—Mess	22 25 @22 50
LARD	12½@ 13½

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—Extra	1 34 @ 1 36
Amber	1 24 @ 1 26
CORN	45 @ 47
OATS	38 @ 40

EAST LIBERTY, PA.

HOGS—Yorkers	7 75 @ 8 25
Philadelphias	8 50 @ 9 00
CATTLE—Best	4 50 @ 6 00
Medium	4 25 @ 5 25
SHEEP—Medium	4 00 @ 5 50
Best	6 00 @ 7 00

AUBURN COURIER

T. G. HAIS, Publisher.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Little Brown Hands.

They drive home the cows from the pasture,
  Up through the long shady lane
Where the quail whistles loud in the wheat fields
  That are yellow with the ripening grain.
They find in the thick, waving grasses,
  Where the scarlet-tipped strawberries grow;
They gather the earliest snowdrops,
  And the first crimson buds of the rose.

They toss the new hay in the meadow;
  They gather the elder bloom white;
They find where the dusky grapes purple
  In the soft tinted October light.
They know where the apples hang ripest,
  And are sweeter than Italy wines;
They know where the fruit hangs the thickest
  On the long, thorny blackberry vines.

They gather the delicate sea weeds,
  And build tiny castles of sand;
They pluck up the beautiful sea shells—
  Fairy barks that have drifted to land.
They wave from the tall, rocking tree tops
  Where the oriole's hammock nest swings,
And at night time are folded in slumber
  By a song that a fond mother sings.

Those who toil bravely are strongest;
  The humble and poor become great;
And from these brown-handed children
  Shall grow mighty rulers of state.
The pen of the author and statesmen—
  The noble and wise of the land—
The loving and motherly women,
  Who'll wisely mold all with her hand.

Around the Farm.

A correspondent gives his rural friends the following timely hints: Keep busy; when the hands are idle, use the head; it is a profitable labor, when well employed. Read your agricultural papers and write for them.

Gain in Grinding.—The grinding of grain to be fed to stock, and mixing it with cut hay or straw, operates as a saving of at least twenty-five per cent. Draining of wet lands and marshes adds to their value by causing them to produce earlier, and a greater quantity and better quality, and improves the health of neighborhoods.—Enquirer.

Waste of fodder must be carefully guarded against if feeding is to be done in an economical manner. Cattle and sheep should be fed in racks, and as far as possible under shelter. Stock will often trample under foot and waste almost as much as they will eat, especially if the weather is open and the ground muddy. The cost of preparing and storing this provender has been too great to allow of any wastefulness in using it.

Choked Cattle.—The following recipe is a sure remedy: Take of fine-cut chewing tobacco enough to make a ball as large as a hen's egg; dampen it with molasses so it can be pressed into a ball, and will adhere closely; elevate the animal's head, pull out the tongue and crowd the ball as far down the throat as possible. In fifteen minutes it will cause sickness and vomiting, relaxing the muscles, so that the potato, or whatever may be choking it, will be thrown up.—Country Gentleman.

My wife had some geraniums and other plants she was anxious to keep over winter. I made a tight box of pine boards, large enough to set the pots with the plants into, and my wife pasted several thicknesses of newspaper inside of the box, so as to make it almost a perfect non-conductor of heat. At night she would heat some half dozen bricks, so as to be rather hot to hold in your hand. These she put into the box with the pots and plants, and wrapped up the whole tight with several blankets, and in this way she saved her plants, which are now blooming, although some nights water standing in a pail froze over an inch thick with ice.—Fruit Recorder.

A turkey hen belonging to Mr. Lucius Tuttle of Canton, N. Y., has an eye to business of the most commendable character. Mr. Tuttle reports that he set this turkey on 17 eggs, and in due time she ushered into the world 17 young turkey chicks which was sufficient glory for one turkey. But in addition to this exemplary conduct she had laid one egg each day that she had been setting, and when the 17 chicks were removed had 27 eggs in process of incubation. And now she brings out one chick every day and still continues to lay her daily eggs, causing her lucky owner to believe that she must have swallowed a perpetual motion machine, or a "Keely" motor.

Treasury Department Whitewash.—The recipe for whitewashing sent out by the Lighthouse Board of the Treasury Department has been found by experience to answer on wood, brick or stone nearly as well as oil paint and is much cheaper. Slake a half bushel of unslaked lime with boiling water, keeping it covered during the process. Strain it, and add a peck of salt, dissolved in warm water; three pounds of ground rice put in boiling water and boiled to a thin paste; one-half pound powdered whiting and a pound of clear glue, dissolved in warm water; mix these well together, and let the mixture stand for several days. Keep the wash thus prepared in a kettle or portable furnace, and when used put it on as hot as possible with either painters' or whitewash brushes.

A suit at law was recently brought in Kentucky to recover damages laid at $2,000 from the owner of a dog which had destroyed a flock of valuable sheep. The plaintiff gained a verdict for the whole amount claimed. To any reasonable person there should seem nothing but the simplest and clearest justice in this, and yet there are some who think that sheep owners were created for no other purpose than to become victims to the ferocity and viciousness of dogs, whose owners are to be held perfectly free from liability for their depredations. As the sheep interest is now rapidly reviving, we may look for a change in public sentiment in this regard, and by-and-by find the useful sheep better protected than it has hitherto been.

Quantity of Feed for Sheep.—Farmers who have reared and fattened sheep for many years state that every full-grown animal should have 3 per cent. of its live weight in food; a little more if fed upon hay and roots exclusively. If a sheep weighs a hundred pounds, it should have about half a pound of corn or an equivalent in other grain, a pound of good hay, and two pounds of straw, the three being nearly equivalent to three pounds of good hay. A little observation will soon fix the quantity needed, and prevent over or under feeding—both serious errors. Many farmers who have fattened sheep with satisfactory profit state that each sheep is supplied with one pound of Indian corn per day, all the clean and bright straw it will eat, and one-fourth of a pound each of good hay.

Husband the Strength.—Men break down and become unable to perform any regular duties long before their allotted time because of injudicious management of themselves during their early years of vigor. It does not pay to abuse ourselves because we have an abundance of strength, for payment will come for any waste in a manner least acceptable to a man or his friends. The man who makes a slave of himself upon the farm, and works early and late every day in the year, lacks common sense. By and by he will be helpless in consequence of the overstrain, and not only a burden upon himself but upon others. Judicious work is the thing to develop a vigorous manhood, but it is wrong for a man to abuse his strength when young and pay for it so dearly in old age, when he should be in the enjoyment of what he has acquired.

How to Make a Lawn.—There is nothing that will add so much to the general attractiveness of a town or country home, as a properly kept plat of grass. It makes no matter how small in size it may be; if kept cut often enough, it becomes a constant source of pleasure to the owner. In laying out new suburban places, the grass plat around the house is usually made up by sodding. This is not by any means the cheapest or best way to get a stand of grass for garden decoration. Sods for this purpose are, as a rule, cut from some worn-out pasture, neglected public "common," or maybe the roadside—places where the finer qualities of grasses have, perhaps, long since been crowded out by the rank growth of the coarser sorts—grasses wholly unfitted for lawn purposes. The surest way, although it may take a longer time, is to sow the seed of an approved selection of grasses, that are known to make a good turf, and that will, if frequently cut, give that velvety surface for which English lawns are noted. It should be clearly understood that these finer qualities of grasses will only thrive on soil in good heart. It will be time and money thrown away to sow these grasses on poor soil. The soil should be made deep, mellow and rich, by frequent stirrings and liberal applications of well rotted yard manure, bone dust, or superphosphate of lime.

About the House.

Champagne Cider.—Let the cider ferment until palatable, then put an ounce of sulphite of lime to every four gallons of cider. Mix it well, and let it stand until clear, then it is fit to use.

Half a pound of borax, finely pulverized and scattered around where cockroaches frequent, will clear an infested house thoroughly. One advantage of this application is the harmless nature of the borax.

Home-made Hair Oil.—Take a sufficient quantity of fresh butter and filter it through tissues of fine letter paper, and then cut it with alcohol. It can be scented with any essence that is liked, makes a good soft dressing for the hair, and is not at all expensive.

Potatoes are adapted to be eaten with lean meat—the starchy potatoes furnishing the fattening and heating elements which lean meat lacks, while the lean meat supplies the bone and muscle-making elements not afforded by potato or fine flour bread. Fat meat affords heating and fattening element, like potato, but in a form less easily digested by most persons.

Cream Muffins.—One quart of rich milk, or half cream and half milk; one quart of flour, six eggs, one tablespoonful of butter, one of lard, softened together. Beat whites and yolks, separately, very light; then add flour and shortening and a scant teaspoonful of salt, and stir in the flour the last thing, lightly as possible, and have the batter free from lumps.

To Improve the Complexion.—Many French ladies are said to bind raw beef on their faces at night. The Russian ladies are said to use the following recipe: Diffuse a handful of well-sifted wheat bran, add to it five yolks of eggs and two grains of musk, and distill the whole. Bottle, and keep carefully for fifteen days. Apply at night, and wash in the morning with tepid water.

For damp closets and cupboards which generate mildew, a trayful of quicklime will be found to absorb the moisture and render the air pure; but of course it is necessary to renew the lime from time to time as it becomes fully slaked. This last remedy will be found useful in safe and storing rooms, the damp air of which acts frequently most injuriously on the valuable deeds and documents which they contain.

To Clean Garments.—Wet a sponge in warm water, and squeeze it out till dry; then sponge one place after another until all the garment has been cleansed. All the dust and soil will be absorbed by the sponge. But if the garment is very much soiled, wash the sponge in clean water several times, squeezing it as dry as possible by wrapping it in a piece of black alpaca. This method of cleansing is more effectual than a hand brush, and many spots will disappear by the use of pure water.

Eating Rats.

An English contemporary suggests that the health of sailors and the comfort of life on board ship would be promoted if the practice were introduced of eating rats which swarm in most ships. There is really no reason why rats should not be eaten as well as rabbits and squirrels. They are clean feeders, and extremely particular as to keeping their bodies free from dirt. Rats which have existed in the hold of a grain-carrying ship might be a toothsome delicacy.—Scientific American.

This year's peach crop promises to be but a partial success. On trees that were kept growing last year by cultivation a quarter of the buds are alive, but on those that made their growth early and were not cultivated not more than 5 per cent. have been saved.

It is said that Fanny Fern, with her dying breath, urged her husband to marry her daughter.

ACQUITTAL OF BABCOCK.

Interesting Scenes in the Court Room Previous to and Following the Reading of the Verdict.

[St. Louis Letter to Chicago Times.]

It was an hour after the usual time of opening the United States Circuit Court, this morning, when the jurors were brought in from an outside room. The counsel had been in their places a half hour, and the defendant was waiting in the Clerk's office. At five minutes after eleven the Judges came in, Dillon carrying a huge bundle of manuscript. The jury was polled, and then Judge Dillon commenced reading the charge, very rapidly. He read on for two hours with only a single interruption, when District-Attorney Dyer raised a question as to the signature of one of the telegrams. A reference to the original showed that the Judge was right, and he continued his reading, closing at 1:15 p. m. The bulk of the charge was made up of the telegrams, letters, and portions of the President's depositions, and seemingly everything in the case was included. The charge was favorable to the defendant in many particulars. Still, it was by no means an instruction to aquit. After raising a doubtful point, the Court endeavored to show to the full extent the weakness of the evidence, and invariably concluded by telling the jury it was for them finally to weigh the testimony pro and con.

Immediately after the reading of the charge, the jurors were conducted to a room in the third story of the building, and locked up. Judge Dillon sent word to them that if they desired to examine the instructions a copy was ready for them. The reply came back, very promptly, that the jury, having heard the charge, did not need it. This was told around among the crowd in front of the building and was at once received as an indication that the decision would be unfavorable. After the jury was charged, the court adjourned till 3 o'clock.

The crowd outside grew steadily, and the prospective verdict was the chief topic. Thousands of dollars offered on acquittal then would have found ready takers. About 3 o'clock Gen. Babcock, accompanied by Gen. Williams and Judge Porter, came down from the hotel, and went into the building, followed by the curious glances of the crowd. At 15 minutes past 3 the court re-assembled. The audience was small, and scattered about without regard to the order that had previously been maintained. Col. W. H. Hatch and Judge Chester Krum, of counsel for McKee, were in the Court room for the purpose of attending to matters belonging to that case. They were intending to present some reasons why he should be granted a new trial. Just as they were about to address the court, Bailiff Wheeler appeared before the bench and Judge Dillon inquired if the jury was ready. Wheeler replied that it was, and was directed to bring the jurors in. Maj. Eaton, Mr. Bliss, and Mr. Peddrick were already in the court room, and when the news that the jury was ready was carried into the side room, Gen. Babcock, accompanied by Judge Porter and Mr. Williams, entered the room. Mr. Storrs was absent on the side of the defendant, and Col. Dyer, of the prosecution. The jury seated themselves, and Judge Dillon asked, "Have you agreed upon a verdict?"

The foreman, R. N. Blackwood, replied, "Yes, sir."

The Judge, evincing a great degree of excitement, which he could not conceal, asked:

"What is it?"

And as he saw the foreman hand Deputy Clerk Selby a folded paper, added:

"Oh, it's written."

The scene at that instant was a painful one. Babcock's face assumed a livid hue, and his hands clenched. Porter looked at the Clerk with a stony, petrified stare. A nerve thrill went through the little audience of court attaches and reporters. There was no indication on the jurors' countenances what the verdict would be. The paper shook like an aspen leaf in the hands of the Clerk, and as he opened it every one present held his breath. In a tremulous voice, he read:

"We, the jury, find the defendant not guilty."

There was a pause of one instant, when Judge Chester Krum turned toward Gen. Babcock and warmly shook his hand. This was the signal for general confusion. The blood surged up in the defendant's face, which had been so pale a moment before. Porter awoke from his lethargy, and, springing to his feet, stamped on the floor dramatically, and said: "Thank God! truth and justice are vindicated." There were faint symptoms of applause, but these were checked. Col. C. W. Babcock hurried to his brother and grasped him by the hand. About this time Mr. Storrs entered from the ante-room. Through his heavy beard the blanched cheeks were visible, and he, too, was trembling. When immediately in front of the bench he hesitated an instant. He had heard of the verdict while in the ante-room, but could scarcely believe it. He stopped simply long enough to learn the truth, and rushed forward to Gen. Babcock, taking him by both hands.

The court room was in an uproar. Those who had never spoken to Gen. Babcock before partook of the enthusiasm displayed by his friends, and congratulated him. Amid the noise Judge Dillon cried out: "Gentlemen of the jury, you are discharged. The Marshal will settle your fees, so that you can leave for your homes at once."

This reminded Judge Krum of a point that had been overlooked in the excitement of the moment, and he said:

"I ask your honor to discharge the defendant."

The Court—Are there any more indictments against him?

Mr. Krum—None.

The Court (heartily)—The defendant is discharged.

Judge Porter pressed in among the jury and began shaking hands with each one, saying, "God bless you," and using other expressive terms to return his thanks. Gen. Babcock followed his example, shaking each juror heartily by both hands, but it was some time before he could find voice to utter a word, tears standing on his cheeks. Then the jury passed out, and the Marshal called order. Gen. Babcock and party left by way of the ante-room, and at each step he was met by persons extending their hands. As he passed through the hall he was surrounded by his counsel and Mr. Filley, Mr. Newcombe, Mr. Campbell, Col. Luckey, and other personal friends. Col. C. W. Babcock brought up the rear. At the foot of the stairs the men had gathered so thick and gazed so steadily at Babcock that he took refuge in the Postmaster's room, where he remained until the crowd dispersed. He then walked to the Lindell, accompanied by his counsel and immediate friends. When he appeared in front of the Custom House, on his way to the Lindell, there was a faint cheer, which he recognized by taking off and waving his hat.

Most of the jurors are still in the city, and are being subjected to all kinds of interviews to-night. One of them stated that after they retired to the jury room they took an informal ballot and found that they were all agreed on acquittal. Later, before returning to the court room, they took a formal ballot, and were still agreed. There was very little discussion, and no dissension. Blackwood, the foreman of the jury, stated to-night that after Storrs' speech the jurors had a talk on Monday night, and came to the conclusion that a case had not been made out, and after that nothing occurred to change their opinion. About 9 o'clock to-night the jurors gathered at the Lindell, and walked up to Gen. Babcock's room, where they were received by the late defendant and his brother. The meeting was a rather awkward one until a seedy old granger blurted out, "General, we had to do it, 'cause you see we couldn't do anything else." The jurors remained half an hour, conversing pleasantly, and were entertained with cigars and wine, and withdrew, after shaking hands all around.

All day long Gen. Babcock's room at the Lindell was full of callers, not a Government or army officer in the city failing to call with his congratulations. A large number of personal friends and some prominent citizens also visited the General's room. At 9 o'clock to-night a large party of army officers came up from the arsenal, bringing with them the post band. At the Lindell they joined Gen. Sherman, who was in citizens' dress, and his staff, who were in full uniform, and a serenade to Babcock was given. The General, attended by his counsel, came down stairs and took seats in a carriage in front of the hotel, about 1,200 people having gathered. After an air by the band Col. William H. Hatch, an ex-Confederate, and one of McKee's counsel, addressed the crowd. He referred to the lost cause, and assured his hearers that the verdict was to be taken as an indication of good feeling, and the dawn of better days. He quoted Lincoln as saying that when the South was captured the songs of the South were captured, and called on the band to play "Dixie." The Southern tune was received with cheers, and following it Gen. Babcock was called for. He arose in the carriage and was introduced by Judge Krum. He said: Gentlemen of St. Louis, I thank you for all your expressions of kindliness toward me. My heart is too full for me to make a speech to you to-night, if I could do so under other circumstances. I must thank you all, most deeply, and I will present to you my counsel, Mr. Storrs, of Chicago, who will speak for me.

The Drowning at Golconda, Ill.

[Golconda Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

The sad fate of six stalwart young men who were sailing on the river cast a pall of gloom over the town. They had been out all the afternoon on the broad and swift Ohio, sporting on the waves in the merry breeze. While sailing along the Kentucky shore they saw the storm coming, and hastened for the Illinois bank, but when about midway of the river a terrific gust tore the sail in shreds and capsized the boat. The wind and rain beat upon them, and the waves were like the hills. Clinging to the overturned skiff, their fingers gripped in the seams, the current hurried them on, and for a moment they were merry, but in less than five minutes Gus Felthouse and William Faubusch, after vain struggles, sank to rise no more. Then it was the others realized their peril, and with cries for aid they mingled prayers to God. On they were borne, ever and anon dashed from the skiff, and regaining their hold, until they had gone four miles, crying, struggling, praying in the cold waves, when William Lowry said: "Boys, we will all be drowned at the skiff; I shall make for the Kentucky shore," and started, but went only a little distance and perished. In fifteen minutes, Frank Mechan, growing weaker, and twice saved by his companions, requested them to take his watch, and if saved, give it to his wife, but he went down leaving no memento.

The survivors seeing the approach of a steamboat, were encouraged, but their cries and screams were unavailing, and when they saw the boat pass, James Sheridan's strength was gone, hope fled, and life departed. Darkness reigned, the waves rocked the sole survivor. On he went, his strength fast failing. His feeble voice pierced the winds and reached the shore. Three tramps, in a skiff, made over the waves to the dying, and found Charles Queen lying on the bow of his boat, rendered unconscious at the sight of relief, and he was picked up more dead than alive.

A farm house, eight miles from the scene of the accident, was soon reached, and in a little while an expedition, headed by J. H. Hall, from Golconda, in search of the missing, reached the spot, and Queen, recovering, related the sad fate of his friends, and his own deliverance, which he ascribes, not to his own strength, for he was one of the weakest of the party, but to the mercy of God.

A Woman Speaks in Her Coffin.

Mrs. Harriet Westervelt, of Bloomingdale, died last week, and her body was placed in a coffin by the undertaker for burial. Before the burial arrangements were completed he said to the woman's daughter, "Are you really sure she is dead?" as she looked so life-like. He had hardly spoken before the supposed corpse sat up and frightened them by saying in a loud voice, "My God! what are you doing with me?" Then she fell back and became unconscious. Mrs. Westervelt was removed from the coffin to a bed, and Dr. M. Withey was summoned, but by the time he arrived the woman had expired.—New York Sun.

A Greenland, N. H., man has recovered $1,400 from the town because his horse shied at an old log by the road, and threw him out of the wagon, breaking his ankle.

BELKNAP'S DISGRACE.

The Secretary of War Leaves the Cabinet Under a Cloud—Articles of Impeachment Presented Against Him in the House.

Since the impeachment of President Johnson, no event has created half the excitement that was produced in all the official and private life of the National Capitol by the announcement of the impeachment of Gen. W. W. Belknap, Secretary of War, for high crimes and misdemeanors. The House Committee on the Expenditures of the War Department, of which Hon. Heister Clymer, of Pennsylvania, is Chairman, has been for some time investigating the doings of the War Minister. There have now and then been rumors of the discovery of crookedness in the department, but no one dreamed of the thunderbolt that was about to descend. It appears that Gen. Belknap had gained some knowledge of the disclosures before the Clymer Committee, and had tendered his resignation early in the morning of the 2d inst., the President accepting it at once. Notwithstanding this the House proceeded to impeach him for high crimes and misdemeanors. Accordingly, near the close of the day's proceedings, Mr. Clymer rose in his seat and presented a resolution of impeachment against William W. Belknap, late Secretary of War, for high crimes and misdemeanors in office. In the midst of great excitement, and with unusual stillness in the House, Mr. Clymer rose and said: "I ask permission of the House to make a report from the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department, of so grave importance that I am quite certain that when it is heard this House will agree that I am justified in asking that permission at this time."

Permission was given, and Mr. Clymer, taking his position at the Clerk's desk, read the following report:

The Committee found at the very threshold of its investigation such unquestioned evidence of malfeasance of William W. Belknap, then Secretary of War, that they found it their duty to lay the same before the House. They further report that this day, at 11 o'clock, a letter of the President of the United States was presented to the Committee accepting the resignation of the Secretary of War, together with a copy of his letter of resignation, which the President informed the Committee was accepted about 10:20 this morning. They therefore unanimously report and demand that said William W. Belknap, late Secretary of War, be dealt with according to the law of the land, and to that end submit herewith the testimony in the case taken, together with several statements and exhibits thereto attached, and also a report of the proceedings of the committee had during the investigation of this subject, and submit the following resolutions:

Resolved, That Wm. W. Belknap, late Secretary of War, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors.

Resolved, That the testimony in the case of Wm. W. Belknap, late Secretary of War, be referred to the Judiciary Committee, with instructions to prepare and report, without unnecessary delay, suitable articles of impeachment of said Wm. W. Belknap, late Secretary of War.

Resolved, That a committee of five members of the House be appointed and instructed to proceed immediately to the bar of the Senate, and there impeach William W. Belknap, late Secretary of War, in the name of the people of the United States, of high crimes and misdemeanors when in office, and to inform that body that formal articles of impeachment will in due time be presented, and to request the Senate to take such order in the premises as they deem appropriate.

Mr. Clymer then proceeded to read the testimony of Caleb P. Marsh, taken before the committee, showing that he had paid Secretary Belknap about $20,000 in consideration of his appointment as Post-Trader at Fort Sill, Indian Territory. The reading was listened to with intense interest by members of the House and by a large audience in the galleries. In the more pathetic portions of the narrative Clymer was frequently forced by his feelings to pause until his voice recovered from its tremulousness and himself from his agitation.

At the close of the reading, and after many members who had taken up positions near the Clerk's desk—the better to hear the testimony and accompanying statements—had returned to their proper seats, Mr. Clymer, who had also gone to his seat, again rose and said with great emotion:

Mr. Speaker—I would not if I could, and I could not, in my present condition, if I would, add anything to the facts just reported to the House. Another occasion may be afforded me to do so. They are so plain, that everywhere throughout this broad land, and throughout Christendom, wherever the English language is read or spoken, they will for long years constitute a record of official corruption and crimes such as there is no parallel for in our own history, or that of any country that I know of. In this hour, if one sentiment of pity, one word of sympathy, could find utterance from me, it would be because I feel that the late Secretary of War is but the proper outgrowth, the true exponent, of corruption, extravagance and misgovernment, that have cursed this land for years past. That being my own reflection, I will discharge my duty best to myself and to this House by demanding the previous question on the adoption of the resolution.

After some debate the House proceeded to vote on the resolutions, and they were unanimously adopted.

The Speaker appointed as the committee to notify the Senate of the action of the House Messrs. Clymer, Robbins, Blackburn, Bass, and Danforth—these members composing the Committee on Expenditures of the War Department making the report.

The effect of these disclosures in Washington official and social life can be better imagined than described. It seems that Secretary Belknap's wife, formerly a Miss Tomlinson, of Harrodsburg, Ky., went before the Clymer committee and acknowledged the truth of the charges of blackmail made against her husband by Caleb P. Marsh, and also revealed other irregularities of a startling and disgraceful nature.

A Model of the City of Mexico.

One of the most curious things at the Philadelphia Exposition will be an architectural plan of the city of Mexico. Its dimensions are 330 by 231 feet. It will display all the characteristics of the city, and will be peopled by 60,000 leaden figures dressed in appropriate costumes, some for the opera, ball and social, and others vending fruit and ice cream, carrying baskets and rolling barrels. In the streets will be 1,900 coaches, an equal number of other vehicles and a lot of artillery pieces.

It has been reserved for Prussia to produce a General who has really passed eight decades in active and retired military service. Field Marshal Count Wrangel was a "junker" in 1796, and is consequently a survivor of the first French revolutionary war, when Napoleon I. had yet to make his way. The Nestorian General will complete his eightieth year in the Prussian military service in August next.

INDIANA ITEMS.

The revivalists in Fort Wayne saved 262 souls.

The new school house at Albion is estimated to cost $15,300.

The estimated cost of the Custom House at Evansville is $298,319.75.

School-teachers of this State will be taken to the Centennial, kept five days and returned, for the small sum of $32 each.

An "untimely death" is announced from Dublin, where Joseph Becton (colored) died, a few days since, aged 116 years.

The City Council of Fort Wayne, at its last meeting voted down a proposition to purchase a portion of the Wabash and Erie Canal at the sale which took place at Terre Haute.

The State Poultry Association have decided to hold a fair the 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th of January, 1877, with a premium list of $1,200. Dog-raisers will be invited to participate.

The Grangers have secured a tobacco warehouse in Warrick County, and are going to handle and ship the tobacco belonging to the Grangers, obviating the use of middlemen.

James Beverly, of Evansville, who has been on trial for several days past for trying to kill his wife's paramour, James Binan, has been found guilty and sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

T. T. Wire, a prominent lawyer, was found dead at his residence in Wabash one morning last week. Supposed apoplexy. He had been staying alone for a few days, the family being absent. He probably died the previous day.

A fire at Evansville, on Thursday morning, destroyed the commission house of George H. Start & Co., the ice house of Ingle Bros., and damaged the foundry of Lindenschmidt. The loss is estimated at $15,000; the insurance is $13,500.

George Brown, a saloon-keeper at Orleans, Orange County, is a victim of the wrath of the crusaders in that part of the State. He paid no attention to their demands on him to quit the business, and about 250 of them paid him a visit last week. The stock of liquors was destroyed, and the house burned down.

Jos. F. Greenough has been appointed receiver of the Cincinnati and Martinsville Railroad Company, extending from Martinsville to Fairland, at which point it connects with the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette Road. The liabilities of the company are estimated at $400,000, of which $300,000 is represented by the receiver.

At Bourbon, one night last week, some unknown persons calling themselves a vigilant committee posted handbills warning W. S. Snyder, a highly respected citizen, to leave town within five days under threats of violence. He is charged with incendiarism. He is the main witness in a bankrupt suit, and this method is taken to prevent his appearance at the trial. The citizens are much enraged, and promise their protection if he will stay, which he has concluded to do.

A recent dispatch from Bloomington says: "For many years past there has been living in Indian Creek Township, this (Monroe) County, a married couple named Dicks. About a week ago Zachariah Dicks, the husband, made a will in which it was provided that should he die first, all the property should go to the children, and they were to provide for their mother until her death. Mrs. Dicks very sternly objected to such a disposition of the property, and demanded that the will be changed, but her husband heeded her not. Becoming convinced that coaxing would do no good the old lady began to threaten, and finally left her husband's roof. She never would taste another morsel of food. This threat did not move the old man, but the old lady kept her word. For fourteen long days she ate not a mouthful, and only occasionally would she wet her lips with water. Friends and neighbors called on her often to try to turn her from her dreadful purpose, but she would not even see any of them. At the approach of footsteps to her house she would crawl under the bed, or hide in some other manner, and thus she finally adhered to her vow until death came to her release. The deceased was 75 years of age."

A recent dispatch from Lafayette says: "Joseph Tinkler, a well-known grain dealer, railroad and express agent at West Lebanon, Warren County, this State, has absconded, leaving behind him unsettled claims variously estimated from $40,000 to $70,000. Twenty-seven thousand dollars of this is bank paper, which is indorsed by C. Tinkler and others of this city. One note of $1,400 is held by a farmer near Marshfield. He was behind with the Wabash Road, United States Express Company, and something over $1,000 in the school fund, of which he was a Trustee. Milmine & Bodman, of Toledo, are creditors for about $6,000. Grain had been shipped out of warehouse with the pretense that it would be replaced, and the money collected and appropriated. Mr. Tinkler was in this city on Wednesday, and was then going to Toledo to arrange some business matters. Since then nothing has been heard from him except a letter mailed from Indianapolis, in which he said he was off for the Black Hills to make his fortune or lose his hair. He was but recently married. His wife seems innocent of his doings or intentions, and is very disconsolate. He leaves valuable papers, leases, and grain house, which have been taken possession of for the benefit of his creditors."

Jay Gould's recent illness cost him his eyebrows, which were formerly very long and shaggy. The operators on the street have been rummaging the medical books to discover what kind of disease causes loss of eyebrows. They have arrived at the conclusion, it is said, that an overdose of Union Pacific may cost a man every hair on his body. It is what our country doctors call a "searching" medicine.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

Having purchased the Furniture Store formerly occupied by Mr WM. LONG, I will keep a full assortment of everything in the line of

FurniturE

I buy for cash and can therefore sell at LOWER RATES than those who buy on time.

FINE BED ROOM SETS

AND PARLOR SETS.

furnished customers at prices that cannot fail to suit. First-class workman employed to manufacture to order. I especially desire everybody to call and price my goods before buying elsewhere.

Rooms on Main-st., opposite Shull's new brick.

A. C. Dawson

Lumber,

Lath, Shingles, Doors, Sash, Lime, &c

than ever before brought to Auburn. We are selling at the Lowest Bottom Prices!

and Defy Competition.

Lumber by the WAGON or CAR load

ALWAYS ON HAND!

☞YARD ON SOUTH JACKSON STREET.

F. N. WRIGHT & CO.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR ALL KIDS OF

FAMILY GROCERIES!

The undersigned offers at the very lowest figures the following line of goods.

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Tobaccos, Flour, Canned Fruit, and all Kinds of Groceries found in a first-class establishment. Teas, from 40c to $1.00 per pound. Sugars from 6 to 12c best Rio Coffee 25c Fine Cut Tobacco 55c to $1.00 per pound

Also in connection with the above we have the largest and best assortment of

QUEENS WARE,

GLASS WARE.

STONE WARE

ever offered for sale in this county.

Highest CASH price paid for all kinds of country produce. Competent clerks to wait upon German customers. At Cool's old stand.

ROBERT ZACHER.

PIONEER

HARDWARE STORE

JNO. L. DAVIS, Pro.

This is the leading hardware store in our county, and keeps the best assortment of all kinds of

HARDWARE,

TINWARE, ETC.

This house is also the popular place for all kinds of the latest style

COOK AND PARLOR STOVES!

Store on Main Street, opposite Court House, Auburn. Special inducements offered in Sash and Doors. Call for prices.

Grand Display

The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of

Wall and Window Paper!

SHADES AND FIXTURERS.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Miscellaneous and Blank Books,
Pocket Books,
Bill Books,
Wallets,
Memorandas,
Bibles,
Albums,
Testaments,
Pass Books

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONARY,

Pictures, Picture-cord and Tassel,
Box Papers in great variety,
School Supplies of all kinds,

—AT—

C. P. HOUSER'S,

Main Street, opposite Ford's Block, AUBURN, IND.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT

ABRICHT'S

In American & Swiss Watches,

TOYS

FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that, I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,

Jewelry,

Clocks, Silver Ware!

GOLD PENS,

Ladies GOLD Chains,

Gents Chains,

Gold and Silver Rings,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts..

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SC OOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has an exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his potrons the benefit of the same.

RAIL ROADS.

Indiananapolis Peru & Chicago R.R.

TIME-TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward.

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30a	12 25p	4 45p	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	13 29	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 20	1 18	5 57	2 16
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 28	2 55
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 04
Peru	10 00	3 15	7 40

Southward.

Stations.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 15a	9 56a
Noblesville	4 49	3 13	8 34
Tipton	3 56	2 20	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	1 50	7 02
Miami	2 40	1 15	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

E. C. MURPHY, Supt Mich. Div,
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.
C. B. ROBINSON, General Sup't,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 59	8 53	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 33
Defiance	11 32	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 03am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 06am
Avilla	1 32	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 08	4 06	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25 pm	......	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am	......	12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 1	......	6 39
Avilla	3 01	......	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 16	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 25	1 00pm	9 12

L. COLE, Gen. Tick. Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Nov 21, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	2 00 pm	3 45a.m	pm
Ossian	2 55
Bluffton	3 25	5 06	7 00
Keystone	3 54
Montpelier	4 02	5 43	7 23
Hartford	4 28pm	6 06	7 50
Eaton	4 50	6 25	8 12
Muncie	5 20	6 55	8 45
McCowan's	5 37
New Castle	6 15
Cam. City	6 52
Beesons	7 11
Connersville	7 25
Indianapolis	7 40	9 30	11 15
Louisville		pm
Cincinnati	10 30	am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am
Louisville			pm
Indianapolis		7 35pm	4 45am
Connersville	10 45
Beesons	11 00
Cam City	11 18
New Castle	11 55
McCowans	12 30pm
Muncie	12 42	10 00	7 15am
Eaton	1 08	11 30	7 51
Hartford	1 27	10 48	8 15
Montpelier	1 51	11 10	8 45
Keystone	2 00		8 55
Bluffton	2 30	11 48am	9 32
Ossian	2 53		10 05
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. RILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Ind.	Exp.
Cincinnati
Louisville	7 00pm			40
Indianapolis	4 45am			35
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 3		45
Auburn	11 33	6 1		41
Waterloo	11 50	6 4		01
Summit				50
Pleasant Lake				56
Ar Angola	12 45pm	8 00	5 30	10
Reading	1 45		7 00	39
Bankers	2 00		7 23	6 45
Jonesville	2 20		7 52	10 15
Jackson	3 3		9 35	6 00
Detroit	6 15p m		12 30	8 37
Grand Rapids	10 15			11 57
Lansing	5 45
Saginaw	9 08
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City				4 10p
Saginaw	7 40 a m			7 28
Lansing	11 07			11 3 6
Grand Rapids	6 00			5 40p
Detroit	10 30			9 40
Jackson Dep	1 20 p m			11 00
Jonesville	2 20			11 20
Bankers	2 30			11 35
Reading	2 47
Ar Angola	3 40	6 15		12 44
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 20	7 20		1 32
Auburn	4 36	8 00		1 52
Auburn Junction		9 30		2 45
Fort Arrive		10p		9 30
Indian	11 1	11 10
Louisvi	4 am	10 30
Cincinnati

B. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Nov. 21st, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 6 Fre't	No. 4 Expre	No 2	STATIONS	No 1	No. 3	No. 7 L. F.
6.00p	4.00p	10.30	lv Logans't ar	11 00	4.50p	1.00a
6.38	4.13	10.45	Adamsboro.	10.45	6.36	12.25
7.04	4.25	10.57	Hoover's	10.33	6.27	12.00
7.29	4.43	11.08	Mexico	10.25	6 19	11.46
7.40	4.52	11.13	Denver.	10.15	6.10	11.25
7.54	4.59	11.36	Chili	10.07	5.58	1.12
9.22	5.12	11.48	Roann	9.54	5.40	10.43
8.55	5.26	12.04	Laketon	9.40	5.26	10.10
9.15	5.33	12.12	N. Manchest'r	9.30	5.15	19.50
9.33	5.42p	12.20	Lib. Mills	9.21	5.08	9.33
9.56	5.52	12.30	Collamer	9.10	4.57	9.14
10.04	5.56	12.33	S. Whitley	9.06	4.53	9.06
10.28	6.08	12.47	Taylor's	8.54	4.41	8.42
10.50	6.20	1.00	Columbia city	8.42	4.30	8.20
11.20	6.34	1.13	Collin's	8.27	4.16	7.50
11.40	6.46	1.26	Churubusco	8.15	4.01	7.31
12.00	6.55	1.36	Potter's	8.05	3.54	7.16
12.16			G. R. Crossing
12.30	7.11	1.51	Cedar Creek	7.50	3.39	6.45
12.53	7.23	2.00	Aub. Juncti'n	7.34	3.28	6.22
1.00	7.26	2.04	Auburn	7.28	3.23	6.15
1.30	7.36	2.17	Mooresville	7.15	3.10	5.45
2.00	7.50	22.30	ar. Butler lv.	7.00a	3.00p	5.15

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern, for Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

A. B. J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket. b A
S COURARD, Gen. Supt.

Lake Shore & Mich. SouthernR. R

Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 21, 1875 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'n
Butler	2:42 p. m.	x 2:35 a. m.	7:55 p. m
Waterloo	3:00 "	2:51 "	8:14 "
Sedan	3,07	3,01	8:28 "
Corunna	3,19	3,06	8:30 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.10 pm	11.35 pm	6:35 a. m
Sedan	2.20	11,40	6:40 "
Waterloo	2:37 "	11:50 "	6:52 "
Butler	2:47 "	x12:11 a m	7:15 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. E. CURTIS, Division Su

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R

Condensed time card Dec, 12, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night ex
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	5 50 pm	8 30 a.m	3 00 p.
Rochester	3 11 "	....	9 45 "	4 10 "
Alliance	5 35 "	8 35 pm	12 50 p.m	7 00 "
Orrville	7 12 "	....	2 50 "	8 50 "
Mansfield	9 25 "	....	5 14 "	10 58 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 00 "	11 45 pm	5 50 "	11 20 "
" lv.	10 20 "	4 50am	6 25 p.m	11 50 "
Forest	11 40 "	6 35 "	8 13 "	1 07 am
Lima	12 40 p.m	7 55 "	9 35 "	2 10 "
Ft. Wayne	3 00 "	10 45 "	12 01 a.m	4 10 "
Plymouth	5 06 "	1 48 pm	2 55 a.m	6 08 "
Chicago	8 20 "	5 35 "	6 30 "	9 20 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail
Chicago	10 20p.m	9 20 a.m	5 35 p.m	5 25am
Plymouth	1 56a.m	12 09 p.m	9 05 "	9 25 "
Ft. Wayne	4 55 "	2 40 "	11 45 "	12 20pm
Lima	7 08 "	4 35 "	2 10 a.m	2 48 "
Forest	8 30 "	5 37 "	3 10 "	4 08 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 20 "	7 00 "	4 40 "	5 48 "
" lv.	10 40a.m	7 20 "	4 50 "	6 00am
Mansfield	11 11	7.50 "	5 20 "	6 40 "
Orrville	2 15 p.m	9 50 "	7 12 "	9 10 "
Alliance	3 15 "	11 25 "	9 00 "	11 20 "
Rochester	5 45 "	1 25 a.m	11 12 "	2 07pm
Chicago	6 55 "	2 30 "	12 15 p.m	3 "

Through Mail, (Limited,) leaves Pittsburg daily at 5.50 p.m., stopping only at Alliance, 8.15 p.m Crestline, 11.35 p. m. Fort Wayne 2.50 a. m., arrives at Chicago at 6.55 a. m.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass, and Ticket Agent

CHICAGO, ROCKISLAND

AND

Pacific Railroad.

The Direct Route for

JOLLIET, MORRIS, LA SALLE, PERU, HENON LACON, PEORI. GENESEO, MOLINE, ROCK ISLAND, DAVENPORT MUSCATINE, WASHINGTON IOWA CITY, GRINNELL, NEWTON, DES MOINES,

Council Bluffs and Omaha

WITHOUT CHANGE OF CARS,

Where it joins with the Union Pacific Railroad for Denver, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, San Francisco and

All Points West of the Pacific Coast.

Trains leave daily as follows:

Omaha, Leavenworth & Atchison Express, [Sundays excepted]	10 00 a m
Peru Accommodation [Sat ex]	5 00 p m
Omaha Express [Sun ex]	10 00 p m

KANSAS LINE.

The Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co, have now opened their Southwestern Division between Leavenworth and Chicago, connecting at Leavenworth with Kansas Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads and at Atchison with Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Central Branch, Union Pacific and Atchison and Nebraska railroads, for all points in Kansas, Indian Territories, Colorado and New Mexico.

This company have built a full complement of Palace Drawing room and sleeping cars, which for external beauty and interrior arrangements for the comfort, convenience and luxury of passengers are unexcelled if equalled, by any other cars of the kind in the world.

☞Through Tickets for sale at all General Railway offices in the States and Canada.

HUGH RIDDLE, Gen Supt.
A. M. SMITH Gen Pass Agent

CALIFORNIA.

THE CHICAGO & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY

Embraces under the management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the West and North-west, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, California and the Western Territories. Its

Omaha & California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dekota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and for Madison, St. Paul Minneapolis, Duluth and all points in the great Northwest. Its

Winona and St Peter Line

Is the only rout for Winona, Rochester, Owotonna Mankato, St. Peter, New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesoto. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Jonesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghtion, Handcock and the Lake Superior Country. Its.

Freeport and Debuque Line

Is the only rout for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its.

Chicago & Milwauke Line

Is the old Lake Shore route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

Pullman Palace Cars

are run on all through trains on the road.

This is the only line running these cars between Chicago and St Paul Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winono.

At Omaha our sleepers connect with the Overland sleepers on the Union Pacific railroad for all points west of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago & North-Western Railway leaves Chicago as fellows

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St Paul and Minneopolis, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, two trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four through trains daily, Pullman Cars on night trains Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta and Winona and points in Minnesota, One through train daily, with Pullman sleepers to Winona.

For Debuque, via Freeport, two through trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains

For Debuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, two through trains daily with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, two trains daily Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Genevy, four trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Jonesville, and other points, you can have from two to ten trains daily.

New York Office, No. 415 Broadway, Boston office No. 5 State Street, Omaha office, 253, Farnham Street San Francisco office, 121, Montgomery Street, Kinzie Street Depot, corner of W Kinzie and Canal Streets Wells Street Depot, corner of Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or informatson not attainable from your home ticket agent apply to

W. STENNETT, Gen. Pass Agt. Chicago.
MARVIN HUGHITT, Genl Supt, Chicago.

Recorder's Offi

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 6. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, MARCH 16th, 1876. Number 11.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column......	5 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column......	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	60 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office opposite N. W. Cor. Public Square.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben Counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Devenport's Drug Store, Auburn, Ind. All calls promptly attended to.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store. Cool's Block, North of Court House.

HOTELS.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.

E. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTEL.

NOS. 34 & 36 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue Chicago.

O SANDS, Prop'r.

$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.

J. H. FORD, Pres't.

J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE,

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

NEW

Meat Market

The undersigned has opened a meat market at Markle's old stand, where he will keep constantly on hand a good supply of fresh meats of all kinds, at reasonable prices, and asks a share of the public patronage.

Nov, 1-3m. JOHN TREESH.

Junction Hotel,

JAMES SMITH, Pro'r.

Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.

L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, &c.,

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND

JAS. CLIFFORD.

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the travelling public, we would say that this is the popular resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

IT IS HERE.

WHAT

The Largest Fine Stock of Fine

Hats, Caps,

GLOVES, ETC., ETC.

Ever brought to Auburn. Those wanting this line of good can get them from 100 to 150 per cent cheaper than they were ever sold before in the county by calling on

WILLIAM LESSIG

J. G. FLEDDERMAN

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the largest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

AND

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

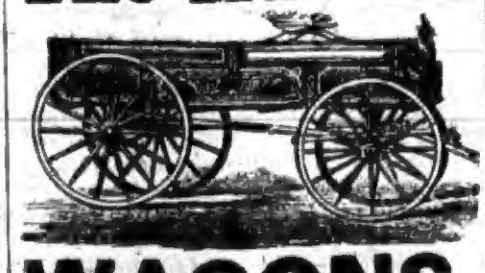
Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Mrchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his largestock

The Auburn



WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—

The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

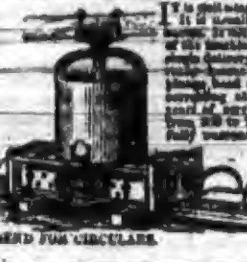
South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders in

WAGONS BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

THE PHŒNIX TILE MACHINE.



CHANDLER & TAYLOR Proprietors and Manufacturers, Indianapolis, Ind.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

To live on the fat of the land without work is the aim of Traveling Agents.

We dont employ them but sell to the user at factory prices. Send for our free price list which will give you the price. Freight paid by us to your nearest R. R. to be paid for after you have tested and found satisfactory to that the purchaser absolutely runs no risk whatever. This is the way the best Scales in the world are sold by Jones of Binghamton, N. Y.

Jan. 13-1m

CARPETS,

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings
in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

On The War Path

Terrible Slaugh'er in Dry Goods

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

LORDIER,

THE FORT WAYNE,

Boot & Shoe!

Store

Is the popular place for all kinks of

BOOT & SHOES

All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely

LOW PRICES

Custom work done the best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.

Remember place

At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store, next to the Bank.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of th U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.

April 29, 1873.

PENCIL AND SCISSORS.

Daniel Murphy, of Talure, Cal., has bought 9,000 square miles of land in Mexico at two cents an acre.

Will the National Republican Convention have the cheek to pass the usual resolution claiming to be the soldier's friend?

It crops out that Grant wanted to appoint some others than Tast and Dana the important positions they have accepted but the cabinet interfared.

They don't kill seals in Alaska with Gatling guns. Senator's sons, with gloved hands do the work in other ways with neatness and dispatch.

The Republicans has been befriending the soldiers in about the same style that the Radical condidate for governor of Indiana defriended the widow.

If a senator can get congress to give a company the exclusive right to kill seals in Alaska, and then succeed in getting his son in a secure office at $10,000 a year, hasn't he done a good thing for the family.

There are started at Washington very many rumors against Democrats as well as Republicans, but the difference is that the rumors against Democrats do not pan out well, while every Republican charged has to face the witnesses.

The Fort Wayne "Sentinel, says "The few German Republicans of the city are very much offended over the nomination of that arch know-nothing Godlove S. Orth, of Lafayette, who is remembered as a prominent conspirator in the midnight lodges of that now defunct order.

Bankrupt Sale.

Of Stoneware, No. 1 White Fish, and Cable Twist Tobacco. 1000 half barrels No. 1 White Fish, last fall catch, $3.00 half barrel, usual price $6.00. Car load Stoneware, 8c per gallon, all sizes. 50 butts Cable Twist Tobacco, 45c per pound, usual price 70c. Call soon, as these prices can't last.

FT. WAYNE FRUIT HOUSE,

A Great Mistake.

Boys and men sometimes start out in life with the idea that one's success depends on sharpness and chicenery. They imagine if a man is able always to get the best of a bargain, no matter by what deceit and meanness he carries his point, that his prosperity is assured This is a great mistake. Enduring prosperity cannot be founded on cunning and dishonesty. The tricky and deceitful man is sure to fall a victim sooner or later to the influences which are forever working against him. His house is built upon the sand and its foundations will be certain to give way. Young people can not give these truths too much weight The future of that young man is safe who eschews every phase of double dealing and dishonesty and lays the foundation of his career in the enduring principle of everlasting truth.

BELKNAP'S DISGRACE.

Comments of the Press on the Sad Affair.

[Terre Haute Express—Rep.]

The most shameless piece of official scoundrelism that has ever disgraced our country's annals comes to light this morning. General Belknap, Secretary of War, an honored and favored man, is convicted, with his two wives, one living and one dead, of villanies that would blacken a common thief. And yet, startling as the news is, the fall of this man is not so remarkable. The times are out of joint. The spirit of greed is dominant, and corruption, dishonesty and shome fill private and public places. The large number of swindlers discovered point unerringly to the larger number who are not found out. Society is rotten all through, and the country approuches crisis. We have come upon the same voluptuousness, luxury, corruption and towering avarice that sapped the vitals of the Roman Republic. This is the blassom and fruit of the nation's hunderdth year. We can not stand the pressure long. It will end in the tempest of a great and possibly of a terrible reform or it end in the decay of our liberties, the obliteration of virtue and the barkening of our civilization.

[St. Louis Republican—Ind.]

It is hard to tell what ought to be done. The crime is too shameful and the criminal too exalted to be the subject of ordinary penalties. To try him and punish him as a felon would aggrevate the scandal before the world. Besides, no inflicting of legal penalties on the bribed functionary would relieve the sense of dishonor that overwhelms the country, and causes every man's check to tingle with shame. All that the country can do, perhaps, is to bear its share of disgrace with what patience it may, dismiss the offender to his infamy, and hold President Grant's Administration and the party that put it in power to a reckoning for the shocking and multiplying scandall that are following each other in such rapid succession and disgracing us and our Government in the eyes of the world.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat—Rep.]

A Cabinet officer, who has, up to the present time, enjoyed the respect and esteem of men of all political parties, has been suddenly revealed to the world as a malefactor of the most contemptible description—a bride-taker, whose real victims were the private soldiers of the army to which he himself once honorably belonged, and of which he was, until yesterday, the virtual commander. General Belknap leaves nothing be to said in his favor. His conduct and his confessions strengthen the case made against him by the Investigating Committee; and we are inclined to agree with the members of that body who charges him with adding cowardice to crime by attempting to shield himself behind an accusation of dishonor against his wife. The unanimity with which the House of Representatives voted in favor of his impeachment, in face of a serious doubt whether he had not, by his voluntary resignation, placed himself beyond its jurisdiction, only shows how deeply rooted is the conviction of his guilt..

[National Banner—Legonier Ind.]

The Banner has heretofore called attention to the manner in which Uncle Sam is being fleeced by way of fraudulent contracts, by extravagance in the Navy, &c., &c. This week we propose to note another abuse which the democratic majority in Congress has resolved to abate, to wit: the renting of buildings for the use of the government It has been found that a regular business is carried on by the renting of these buildings at enormous rates from political or personal favorites of the administration. In the city of Washington, where piles of marbles and granite have been reared for the government, $80,000 is paid every year for rents. Space in these government edifices is so abundant that a year or two ago a chief of bureau took possession of some rooms in one of them and converted them into private apartments for himself and a larger family But notwithstanding this, outside buildings are rented at extravagant prices. The total rents paid throughout the country amount to $182,096, exclusive of course of rents for post offices. In the District of Columbia $12,000 a year is paid for the use of a building for general office of the War Department, which the committee investigating the abuse have ascertained to be hardly worth two years rent. Boss Shepherd, that zealous friend of the government, is paid $4,800 a year rent for a house used by the postoffice department, which would not yield $1,200 for private use. The Interior Department is at an expence of $33,000 a year for outside offices though the immense Interior building is the one which afforded apce for private apartments for one of its officials. This the Harrisburg Patriot remarks, is one of the small frauds which the Democrats in Congress have resolved to abate and it will of course be sneered at by the organs of administration as another instance of candle-end economy. Such trifles are not worthy of the consideration of the open-handed and generous republican officials who dispense the money of the tax payers of the country but they go to the making up of the reduction of $40,000,000 a year which the Democrats of the House have resolved to effect in spite or the grimaces of the tax eaters and the resistance of their partisan advocates.

Pinchback Rejected--Morton's Complete Downfall.

If Morton were not already politically dead, his last effort and failure to place Pinchback in a seat in the Senate had done the business for him. For three years he has been pressing his claim for a seat. For three years he has persistently urged his claims to the place, keeping Louisiana unrepresented. Morton to further the claims of Pinchback, and pave the way for his admission, made in the Senate several characteristic outrage speeches, threw the whole power of his ability and influence into the scale, and labored with might and main to accomplish his purpose. He desired and indorsement of Louisiana for the presidency in the national convention. One state south might become an entering wedge to overthrow the hopes of any other aspirant with the Southern state. If Pinchback had been seated Louisiana would have ranged herself alongside of the Indiana Republican in favor of Mr. Morton. But by the honesty of Christiancy, Edmunds the Morrills and a few others in the Senate, Mr. Morton's resolution that Pinchback be admitted to a seat in the Senate had a not put in the heart of the sentence by amendment and the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate was directed to admit Pinchback no longer to the privileges of the Senate and the dissappointed would-be-senate retired to private life. This was Morton's last card, and it did not win, and now he is clearly marked out for the defeat before the convention. A series of complications have worked adversely to Mr. Morton's presidential hopes. He has been very closely identified with the administration of Grant. He has advocated nearly all of Grant's measures, and when the country was convinced four years ago that the government was corrupt, Mr. Morton came to the rescue and declared that the civil service was the best and purest in the world. Very naturally then he falls with Grant. The alarming exposures that are being made will, without doubt, inculpate Morton before they are ended The New York Herald correspondent shadows forth some facts that will prove terrible damaging if not explained, and how that now can be done does not appear. His nephew had a responsible position, it is charged, under the fallen secretary, appointed on the principle, says the Herald, that "if you scratch my back I'll scratch yours." Morton also made a great blunder in this state in making his party indorse Grant and his administration. He has not made a single motion looking to the presidential nomination that has not been a blunder, and now while we write the telegraph brings the news that in the Senate yesterday he fiercely beat the air and waved high the bloody shirt as if determined to die game going down with the bloody shirt around him' —[Indianapolis Sentinel.

Somewhere down in the wilds of Jersey—if Jersey has any wilds these present Centennial days—one McDaniels dwells in all the patriarchal comfort and dignity which attach to the English Lord of the Manor. He has a park, a stately mansion, groves of timber, and—above all the most famous racing stables in America. These royal establishments contain some of the finest and fleetest horses in the world. Among them is Harry Bessett, a monarch of the turf, who sometime ago, met with an accident to one of his slender and priceless limbs. Without wasting a moment in doubtless experiments, Mr. McDaniels applied some of Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia, and in half a day the horse was as sound as the proverbial silver dollar. No wonder McDaniels tells Dr Giles to send sceptics to interview himself and his horse in Jersey.

It is the Ligonier Banner which, remarks that "Godlove S. Orth has one decided advantage in canvassing the State he can make speeches in two languages. It will be so very interesting to hear 'Unser Gottieb' explain in faultless German why it was that he became a fanatical Know-Nothing in 1854."

Is the Ligonier Banner Correct? To judge from what his acquaintances say, it would be devilish hard for him to make a speech in the English language, let alone in German.

AUBURN COURIER.

THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1876.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

The extensive dry goods house of Wood, Marsh & Co., on Market street, Philadelphia, has been destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $500,000.

Last fall the authorities of Mt. Moriah Cemetery, Philadelphia, refused to allow the body of Henry Jones, a colored man, to be buried in the cemetery, although his widow owned a lot there. The case was taken into the courts, and up to the Supreme Court. That tribunal has just decided that Jones or any other negro's bones have the same rights in cemeteries as those of white folks.

A terrible casualty is reported from Brooklyn. The Home for Aged People, located in the Eastern division of the city, took fire, and so rapid was the spread of the flames that over twenty of the aged inmates perished, their bodies being burned to a crisp.

William Mitchell, of Troy, N. Y., was drowned in the Owasco River, the other day, together with John Savage and Bertie Dixon, boys whom he was trying to rescue.... New York city has recovered a verdict against William M. Tweed for over $6,500,000.

Another heavy failure in New York—that of S. A. & A. T. Meyer, real estate operators.... The wife of Senator Burnside died at Providence, R. I., last week.

THE WEST.

The Senate of Iowa has decided that a bushel of oats weighs 32 pounds.... Sergt. Sullivan, company F, 4th infantry, was recently shot and instantly killed near Fort Fetterman, by "Persimmon Bill," who claimed some ponies which were stolen from Indians, and which Sullivan, with several Indians, was sent by the commanding officer to recover. Bill and his companions escaped to the hills.

J. D. Pitts, County Collector of Hickory County, Mo., has absconded with about $20,000 of public and private funds. The forgery of notes in his private business for large sums is also discovered.... Kemangus, Iowa, was recently visited by a terrible tornado, which passed through the very center of the town, going in two narrow lines, tearing down and unroofing houses, and demolishing out-buildings, trees, and fences. The town was almost completely wrecked. Fortunately no loss of life is reported.

A dispatch from Yankton, Dak., says: "A four-horse daily stage and express line will hereafter make regular trips from Yankton to the Black Hills. Letters and papers sent via Yankton to any point in the Hills will be forwarded through by regular mail to Pierre City, and from there by an independent and responsible line to their destination. A train composed of twenty-three wagons and 135 men departed to-day for the gold fields."

News comes from the Black Hills that the new mining town of Custer City has been attacked by Indians, who succeeded in driving off all the loose stock grazing in the suburbs. There was great excitement, and every able-bodied white man had been enrolled to fight the red-skins. The miners apprehended a war with the Indians.... Western Wisconsin, Northern Iowa and Southern Minnesota are having their spring freshets. Recent heavy rains, melting snows and a general breaking up of the ice in the streams have flooded the valleys and low lands to an unusual degree, causing much damage, and bringing railway operations to a standstill on many of the roads.

The Cincinnati Price Current publishes returns of the pork packing at five of the six leading Western cities. The general average is 9¼ pounds net increase in average weight, and 2 pounds increase in average yield of lard. The total number of hogs packed at these six cities is slightly over 3,200,000, and indications as to interior points are that the entire deficiency in numbers at all points in the West will reach 700,000, with over 400,000 shortage in the crop, as shown by decreased shipments to the seaboard cities.... The tide of emigration to Western Iowa has set in this year at an unprecedented rate. For the last few weeks the western-bound trains have taken twenty to thirty cars daily of emigrants and their effects bound for points between Fort Dodge and the Missouri river.

SOUTH.

The Arkansas Republican State Convention has been called to meet on the 27th of April. .... Charles I. Brent, bookkeeper of the Falls City Tobacco Bank, of Louisville, raised $90,000 by means of forged drafts and checks, and fled to Europe last week.

During the past month, in South Carolina, the operations of the revenue agents have resulted in the breaking up of thirty-three illicit distilleries, the capture of twenty-eight copper stills, caps and worms, 48,000 gallons of mash and beer, and the arrest and binding over for trial of forty-four illicit distillers.

Every one is expected to believe this story, which is telegraphed from Louisville, Ky., to the Western Associated Press: "A special to the Courier-Journal from Mount Sterling, Ky., conveys the intelligence that during the 9th inst. a most wonderful phenomenon transpired in that section. The correspondent said that during sunshine and a clear sky there fell from the heavens quivering flesh, which came down in large quantities and filled acres of territory. Hogs and chickens eagerly devoured the flesh, specimens of which have been sent to this city for scientific examination.

WASHINGTON.

The case of the late Secretary Belknap was discussed at length in Cabinet meeting the other day. The President is represented to have been very decided in the matter, and directed the Attorney-General to examine the statutes and have criminal proceedings instituted at once, and push all prosecutions which the law called for with the utmost vigor. This will involve the prosecution of Gen. Belknap for accepting money for an appointment, of Marsh for bribery, and of Tomlinson as accessory after the fact.

A member of the Committee on Expenditures of the War Department is authority for the statement that the Committee are of the opinion that before it gets through the post-trading sale business it will be able to show that Secretary Belknap is worth at least $250,000. There is no doubt that the sale of post-sutlerships has been a systematized business, the sums paid for privileges of this kind ranging from $500 to $25,000 a year.... Another object likely to be investigated by the Clymer Committee is the manner of letting contracts for headstones for soldiers' graves, for which an appropriation was made by Congress. It is said the lowest bid by $68,000, made by a Tennessee firm, was rejected, and the contracts given to a personal friend of Belknap's.... Upon the order of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secret Service Agents the other day secured the arrest of Capt. Craig and G. W. Bryant, of Colorado, charged with having conspired to defraud the Government of $23,000. This sum was paid to one of these men on account of the loss of mules and wagon train, which were alleged to have been stolen by the Indians. The claim is said to have been entirely crooked.

Hon. Richard H. Dana, Jr., of Massachusetts, has been appointed by the President as Minister to England, in place of Gen. Schenck, resigned.... The number of words sent by the Western Union Telegraph Company on the night of the Belknap impeachment has only been once exceeded in the history of Congress. That exception was the night that the secret Credit Mobilier evidence was made public. It comprised 125,000 words. The dispatches sent from Washington, to the press, describing the Belknap impeachment, amounted to 114,000 words.

The rumor that Babcock had been relieved from duty as Private Secretary to the President is fully confirmed.... Judge Alphonso Taft, of Cincinnati, has been appointed by the President to succeed Belknap as Secretary of War.

A Washington telegram of the 8th inst. says: "At the meeting of the Cabinet last Friday the President submitted the names of three persons, and asked the members which one they would advise him to tender the vacant secretaryship. The names submitted were E. B. Washburne, the present Minister to France, Senator Morrill and Judge Hoar. The Cabinet was unanimously in favor of Mr. Morrill, and on Saturday morning the President formally tendered him the place, and it was not formally declined until early yesterday morning. The President then decided to ask Judge Taft into the Cabinet, which course was approved by all the Cabinet."... Maj. Richards, Chief of Police of Washington, made a formal arrest of Belknap, ex-Secretary of War, on the 8th inst., and brought him into the Police Court. Belknap was accompanied by his counsel, ex-Senator Carpenter, who said they waived an examination and were prepared to give bail for Belknap's appearance before the court. Judge Snell fixed the amount of bail at $25,000. Belknap showed by his movements, during the short time he was in the court-room, that he was much depressed in spirit, covering his face with his hands and sighing deeply.... An army officer who has interviewed Belknap, reports him an apparent wreck, but still assuming a tone of confidence, and asserting that he has a much better defense than the public are yet aware of. He complains bitterly of the humiliation to which he is subjected by the Attorney-General and the District police, in the presence of guards around his house.

Prof. Silliman has testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee that his connection with the Emma mine was merely professional, that he was employed to make an examination, and was left to fix his own compensation. His terms were $5,000 in advance, and after the completion of the work not less than $10,000 nor more than $20,000. He received $10,000, and for the performance of other scientific services was compensated, his entire receipts amounting to $25,000.

Orvil Grant was before the Committee on the Expenditures of the War Department the other day, and was interrogated regarding his connection with post-traderships. He said he was interested in contracts under the Indian Bureau. He made application for the trading-post at Fort Peck, and received a letter from the President in reply, which was favorable. The President notified him that there would be vacancies at Fort Peck, Fort Belknap and Standing Rock, and he applied for these places in pursuance of knowledge given him by the President. These were the only trading stations on which witness had any interest. He was not only not required to furnish capital, but not required to go out to attend to any business. He always felt grateful to his brother, the President, for his influence in procuring the offices. He had influence with the President to manage such matters to some extent, although he did not always find the matters to be profitable. He testified that he procured the offices from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and that neither the President nor Secretary of the Interior had any knowledge of his receiving money.

GENERAL.

Ex-Senator Stewart, of Nevada, characterizes Lyon's testimony before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, in relation to the Emma Mine scandal, as a tissue of falsehoods. He asserts that Lyon, after having accepted a large sum of money as a compromise, "sold short" on the stock, and resorted to his damaging stories in order to depreciate the value of the shares and enable him to "cover his shorts."

Prof. Silliman has written a letter in which he charges Lyon, the witness who testified in the Emma Mine investigation, with perjury.... Gen. Babcock's friends in New York, Philadelphia and Washington have undertaken to raise a fund of $80,000 to reimburse him for the expense attending his late trial at St. Louis.... The friends of Gen. Belknap insist that Mrs. Belknap is alone responsible for his fall. They say that the true story is this: When Mrs. Belknap, then Mrs. Bowers, tempted by the ambition to rival the gay dames of our capital, accepted the Marsh bribe and used her influence with her sister to secure the purchased office, she concealed from the Secretary all of the iniquitous transactions. After, when she became Mrs. Belknap, the Secretary was made to believe that the $20,000 that came to her from the policy on her former husband's life had been intrusted to Mr. Marsh, who had been very successful in its investment. He had increased it to $100,000, and the money she received was from that source.... The witness Marsh, who testified to Belknap's bribery before the House committee, has fled to Canada.

Attorney-General Pierrepont has written a lengthy letter explaining that famous letter about witnesses in the whisky cases, and the manner by which it reached the newspapers. In self-defense, the Attorney-General has been compelled to "lay down" on Babcock. Of that letter there were but two copies—one of which was mailed to the District-Attorney at St. Louis, and the other to the President. It was subsequently discovered that a copy of the letter was furnished to a Washington reporter by Storrs, one of Babcock's counsel. How did Storrs get it? Dyer did not divulge it. Then it must have been furnished from the President's office. So said the Attorney-General. The President had not shown it to any one, and so confronted the Attorney-General with the private secretary. Then Babcock confessed that he had surreptitiously taken the letter from the President's private papers and given it to Storrs, who had it telegraphed far and wide.

While a way freight train, with a passenger car attached, was crossing a bridge over a narrow passage on the Harper's Ferry and Valley Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway, sixty-three miles from Harper's Ferry, a few nights ago, the middle span gave way, and the engine, tender and train fell through and were wrecked. Ten persons were killed outright, and six or seven seriously wounded.

Ex-Secretary Belknap, after his resignation, began to make arrangements to leave the country. His plan, it is said, was to leave Washington secretly by a Potomac River steamboat, go to Fortress Monroe, where a Norfolk steamer to Boston was to be intercepted, from which place he could take a Cunard steamer to Southampton, where they intended to cross into Belgium, with which country the United States have no extradition treaty. Information to this effect having reached the ears of the Attorney-General, that official, through District-Attorney Wells, swore out a warrant and placed it in the hands of the Superintendent of Police, who, accompanied by several officers, proceeded to Gen. Belknap's residence and notified him that while they did not propose to take him away, they had been requested to place him under arrest and have him consider himself a prisoner in his own house. Gen. Belknap seemed very much distressed at his arrest, but thanked the officers for the privilege of remaining in his own home.

At the annual meeting of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, held at Boston last week, Sidney Dillon was re-elected President, Elisha Atkins Vice-President, and E. H. Rollins Treasurer.... An extraordinary scene occurred in the House of Representatives at Washington, the other day. The Sergeant-at-Arms appeared at the bar with a witness, O. D. Wolf, whose arrest was ordered by the House for refusing to answer certain questions before the Committee on Naval Affairs. The witness was given a seat in the space in front of the Clerk's desk, and Mr. Whitthorne, Chairman of the committee, was about to make a statement, when the witness fell back in his seat in a convulsive fit, and was at once extended and was laid on the floor. The Speaker inquired whether any physician was in the gallery of the House. The scene was something never before witnessed in the House. All business was suspended, and many ladies in the galleries were so affected that they were compelled to leave. In a few minutes the physician had succeeded in restoring Wolf to partial consciousness, and he was carried to the lobby.

There is reason to believe, says a Washington dispatch, that Great Britain will, at the proper time, make a formal claim for indemnity on the United States in behalf of Englishmen who suffered by the Emma mine scheme, having been deceived into the belief that it had the indorsement of the United States through the American minister as trustee.

POLITICAL.

George H. Pendleton denies the story that he paid money to Mrs. Belknap to secure the payment of a claim to the Kentucky Central Railroad, and has asked to be allowed to testify before the Clymer Committee of Congress.... First gun for Bristow! At the Republican Territorial Convention of Wyoming, held at Evanston, last week, delegates were elected to the National Convention, and resolutions adopted instructing them to vote for Bristow for President.

After more than three years hard knocking and impatient waiting at the door of the Senate for admission as the only accredited representative of the State of Louisiana in that body, the door is slammed in his face, and Pinchback is informed that he can't come in. The vote on the question stood 32 to 29, the following Republicans voting with the Democrats against the admission of Pinchback: Edmunds, Christiancy, Paddock, the two Morrills, Dawes, Robertson and Wadleigh.

The Iowa Republican State Convention, for the appointment of delegates to the Cincinnati Convention, has been called to meet at Des Moines, May 31.

The Missouri Republican State Convention meets May 24.... The Arkansas Democracy will hold their State Convention at Little Rock on the 14th of June.... A convention of the Republican party of Nebraska has been called to meet at Fremont on May 23.... Pinchback still hopes to get into the Senate by virtue of an appointment from Gov. Kellogg as Senator from Louisiana.... The California Republican Convention has been called for April 26.

FOREIGN.

The London Hour, of March 4, has the following: "We understand that a writ returnable in the Queen's Bench was served upon Mr. Schenck, United States Minister, yesterday, at the instance of the Emma Mine Company. The writ was served as Mr. Schenck was entering the train at Easton Station. Mr. Schenck referred the officer to Lord Darby."

A London dispatch says Don Carlos arrived at Folkestone from Boulogne after a two hours' rough passage, during which he suffered from sea-sickness a great deal. When leaving the Southeastern Railway Station for London, a large crowd assembled. Some cheered and others hissed and groaned. His arrival in the metropolis created no excitement whatever. .... A cablegram from Constantinople announces that the Sultan of Turkey has granted the insurgents complete amnesty. Refugees, upon returning home, are to be supplied by the Government, with material for the reconstruction of their houses, and with grain for sowing. It is also stated that all tithes are to be remitted for one year, and other taxes for two years. Several of the insurgent chiefs have issued manifestoes rejecting the reforms proffered by Turkey, calling upon the great powers for the guaranteed independence of the insurgent provinces, and appealing to Servia and Montenegro for assistance.

Albert Grant, the noted London financier, pronounces James E. Lyon's story about the Emma mine swindle a sheer fabrication so far as it relates to him, and has announced his intention to visit Washington and personally testify before the House Committee.... Three young men, named Rynis, Nealey and Edgar, while in the woods near St. Johns, N. F., one day last week, were overtaken by a snowstorm, and perished.

Advices from Iceland, via of Copenhagen, report that 500 inhabitants of the Westmanna Islands, a group lying to the south of Island, are dying of starvation.... There is, according to our London letter, considerable disagreement in the British Parliament regarding the propriety of Queen Victoria assuming the title of Empress of India. Mr. Disraeli and the ultra Tories are in favor of augmenting the royal style, but Mr. Lowe and most of the Liberals take a different view, foreseeing that the new title may lead to endless perplexity and confusion.... The net results of the elections to the French Chamber of Deputies give the Republicans a compact force of 350 members, while the Bonapartists, the only other faction of respectable strength, numbers between 80 and 90.... The Republic has been proclaimed in Servia, the Obrenovitch dynasty deposed, and Prince Milan escorted to the frontier.... A Vienna dispatch says horrible accounts of Turkish cruelties continue to arrive from Bosnia.

The appointment of Mr. Dana as Minister to England is favorably commented upon by the British journals. The London Daily News says: "The appointment of Richard H. Dana, Jr., as the American Minister to the Court of St. James is one of the most acceptable that could be suggested. It revives the old tradition of honoring men of letters with important positions. Mr. Dana will be welcome here on many accounts. His appointment seems to indicate a healthier sense of public duty in the distribution of posts."

Five of the most wealthy and populous States in Mexico are reported to have pronounced in favor of Diaz for President.... The French ministry has been definitely constituted as follows: M. Dufaure, vice-president of the council and minister of justice; M. Ricard, interior; M. Waddington, public instruction and worship; M. Christophle, public works; M. Teisserenc de Bort, agriculture and commerce; Admiral Fourichon, marine; M. Leon Say, finance; Gen. D'Cissey, war; Duke de Cazes, foreign affairs. .... The Turks have been defeated by the insurgents in a severe engagement at Muratovizza.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Friday, March 3.—Senate.—At 1 o'clock the committee of the House of Representatives, composed of Messrs. Clymer, Robbins, Blackburn, Bass, and Danforth, appeared at the bar of the Senate and were announced by Sergeant-at-Arms French. Upon being recognized by the President pro tem. of the Senate, Mr. Clymer said: "Mr. President, in obedience to the order of the House of Representatives, we appear before you; and in the name of the House of Representatives and of all the people of the United States of America, we do impeach Wm. W. Belknap, late Secretary of War of the United States, of high crimes and misdemeanors while in office; and we further inform the Senate that the House of Representatives will in due time exhibit articles of impeachment against him, and make good the same, and in their name we demand that the Senate take order for the appearance of the said Wm. W. Belknap to answer." Mr. Ferry, the President pro tem. of the Senate, said: "Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee: The Senate will take order in the premises." The committee then retired. Edmunds then submitted the following: "Ordered, That the message of the House of Representatives relating to the impeachment of W. W. Belknap be referred to a select committee to consist of five Senators." The order was adopted, and the President pro tem. announced as the Select Committee Messrs. Edmunds, Conkling, Frelinghuysen, Thurman, and Stevenson.... Bills were introduced by Hamlin fixing the rate of postage on third-class matter, and by Robertson to restore the franking privilege.... Morton, from the Committee on Privileges and Elections, reported favorably on the Senate bill to provide for and regulate the counting of votes for President and Vice-President, and the decision of questions arising thereon. Placed on the calendar.... Adjourned till Monday, 6th.

House.—Clymer, Chairman of the Impeachment Committee, made the following report: "In obedience to the order of the House, we proceeded to the bar of the Senate, and, in the name of this House and of all the people of the United States of America, we impeached, as we were directed, W. W. Belknap, late Secretary of War of the United States, of high crimes and misdemeanors while in office; and we demanded that the Senate shall take order to make him appear before that body to answer for the same, and announced that the House would soon present articles of impeachment, and make them good; to which response was made: 'The order shall be taken.'".... No other business of importance was transacted.

Saturday, March 4.—Senate.—Not in session.

House.—The House, as customary on Saturdays, met for debate only. Speeches were made to empty benches by Reagan, Ward and Jacobs on the Hawaiian treaty, and by Woodworth on the subject of bounties.

Monday, March 6.—Senate.—Edmunds, from the select committee to which was referred the resolution and message from the House in regard to the impeachment of Belknap, reported a preamble and resolution, declaring that the Senate will take order in the premises, according to its standing rule, and directing the Secretary to notify the House of Representatives. Agreed to.... A resolution was adopted calling on the Secretary of the Interior for a statement showing the annual expenditures of the Indian Bureau since its organization. Bogy delivered a long speech in support of his finance bill, introduced early in the session. Sherman also addressed the Senate upon the finances, opposing the repeal of the Resumption act.

House.—Randall introduced a bill to declare the immunity of witnesses for the United States. It provides that a witness shall not be liable to arrest at any time after he has been subpoenaed, or after testifying; that he shall never be convicted on account of any matter disclosed by him in his testimony, and that it shall be a penal offense to intimidate or attempt to intimidate any witness by threatening him with prosecution...... Morrison introduced a bill to exempt from criminal prosecution witnesses testifying before Congressional Committees...... Williams (Mich.) introduced a resolution from the Iowa Legislature, proposing an amendment to the Constitution to provide for members of Congress holding their seats for three years, one-third of the number to vacate their seats each year.... Resolutions were offered by Buckner and Knott, and adopted, looking to investigations in the affairs of the District of Columbia, and the alleged collusion of Attorney-General Pierrepont with Babcock's counsel.

Tuesday, March 7.—Senate.—Gordon introduced a resolution instructing the Finance Committee to ascertain, if possible, what amendments to the Revenue laws are necessary to prevent frauds in the collection of the revenue. Laid over.... Frelinghuysen's bill for the protection of agriculture against injurious insects was passed.... The Pinchback case was again debated without reaching a vote.

House.—Laurence introduced a bill to prevent monopoly and exorbitant charges in trading establishments at military posts, and to secure good order at the same; also, a bill to protect witnesses in the trial of impeachment cases.... Cason (Ind.) introduced a bill to repeal so much of the Resumption bill as provides for the redemption of legal tender notes.... Clymer, Chairman of the Committee on Expenditures of the War Department, rising to a question, stated that a subpoena had been served on him to appear before the Grand Jury of the District Court and bring with him all papers, checks, documents, etc., and to testify in regard to the charges pending in that court against the late Secretary of War. Two of his colleagues, Robbins and Blackburn, had been similarly subpoenaed. He (Clymer) had appeared before the court, and had stated that in obedience to law he appeared at the bar to obey its order, but that as a member of the Committee of the House he felt it would be prejudicial to the highest interests of the country that his colleagues and himself should be compelled to state what had transpired in their committee-room. A long and exciting debate followed, participated in by Blaine, Lamar, Kasson, Hoar, Knott, Danforth and others. The Republicans intimated that the witness Marsh had been allowed to escape the country through some motive which the Democrats had, and it was charged on the Democratic side that the President and Cabinet were instrumental in driving him out of the country through intimidation. It was finally decided by the House—yeas, 130; nays, 75—that it would not be proper for the members of the committee to go before the grand jury.

Wednesday, March 8.—Senate.—Cameron (Wis.) presented a petition, signed by over 16,000 persons, praying that a law be passed prohibiting members of secret societies from holding office under the Government or serving as jurors.... Wright presented a concurrent resolution for an adjournment of Congress on the 1st of May. Referred to the Appropriation Committee.... The Pinchback case was finally disposed of, by the adoption of a resolution declaring that he is not entitled to a seat as Senator from Louisiana.

House.—The Speaker announced the appointment of the following committee on matters connected with the so-called whisky frauds and the Attorney-General's office: Knott, chairman; Harris (Va.), Glover, Cochrane, McMahon, McCrary, and Plaisted.... Randall, the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, reported the Legislative and Executive Appropriation bill, and made a statement as to the reduction proposed in it. The estimates from the departments for the subjects embraced in the bill amounted to $20,773,306. The appropriations in the same bill, at the last session, were $18,734,000, and the appropriations reported in this bill were $12,799,883, so that it was a reduction of about $8,000,000 on the estimates, and a reduction of about $6,000,000 on the bill of last year. Besides that, the committee had laid, in this bill, the foundation of further reductions to the amount of $5,000,000.... The Judiciary Committee, through Knott, the Chairman, made a report to the House stating that Caleb P. Marsh, the witness upon whose testimony articles of impeachment against Belknap had been framed, had absented himself from the country, and that probably his attendance as a witness before the Senate cannot be procured to convict said Belknap of high crimes and misdemeanors in office; they therefore recommend that the resolution instructing the Committee on the Judiciary to prepare articles of impeachment against William W. Belknap, late Secretary of War, for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, be recommitted to said committee, with power to take further proofs, to send for persons and papers, to sit during the sessions of the House, and to report at any time. The committee also reported to the House two bills—one to protect witnesses who shall be required to testify before Congressional committees, and another for the punishment of witnesses who shall willingly absent themselves when subpoenaed—with a recommendation that they be immediately passed. A long and bitterly partisan debate ensued, which was participated in by Knott, Lawrence, Kasson, Blaine, Clymer, Blackburn, Danford, and others. Each party charged upon the other the responsibility for the escape of the witness Marsh. The impeachment resolutions were then recommitted to the Judiciary Committee, the bill for the protection of witnesses passed, and the bill for the punishment of recusant witnesses referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Thursday, March 9.—Senate.—Gordon called up his resolution of Tuesday in regard to the collection of the revenue, and proceeded to speak in support of it. He made a severe attack on the administration. A hot partisan contest followed, in which Gordon, Morton, Sherman, Withers and Edmunds took part.

House.—Clark (Mo.) introduced a bill to regulate the salaries of postmasters. It provides that the maximum salary and compensation of any postmaster shall not exceed $4,000, except in New York, where it shall be $6,000.... A bill was passed authorizing the sender of any third-class mail matter to write on the outside wrapper his or her name or address, with the number of the articles inclosed.... A resolution was adopted instructing the committee on Indian affairs to inquire into the expediency of opening up the Indian territory to settlement.... Lewis offered a resolution directing an investigation into the charge that Representative Hayes (Ala.) had been guilty of selling a West Point cadetship.... Tucker introduced a set of resolutions defining the duties and prerogatives of the house in matters of impeachment, which were referred.

Novel Cure for Heart Disease.

A Charleston merchant had been treated by the best physicians of the South for heart disease, of which they assured him he was liable to drop dead at any moment. Being once at his father's house in New York, he was persuaded to consult Dr. ——, which he did with no shadow of hope, but simply to satisfy his father. "Well, sir, what is the matter with you?" were the doctor's first words. "I have disease of the heart," answered the gentleman. Upon this he was placed standing with his head and heels against the wall, while the doctor applied the stethoscope very carefully, and then vigorously pounded the patient's chest for some time; and as he was released from the wall and turned to go, he was further treated to a severe blow right between the shoulders. This was more than the young man could well bear, and he turned furious with anger. The doctor warded him off with his arm, saying good-naturedly, "It is all right, my dear sir. I find you have no heart-disease. If you had had that blow would have killed you." Of course there was nothing to do but to take this extraordinary treatment in good part. From that day all symptoms of heart-disease vanished.

GREAT SNAKES.

The Prince of Wales sees Some of Them in India—A Native Serpent Show at Calcutta.

[Correspondence of the London Telegraph]

To leave Calcutta without seeing the snakes at the general hospital would have been an omission of which, at any rate, the prince could not be guilty. Dr. Fayrer had accordingly the honor, in company with Dr. Ward, of exhibiting to his royal highness the powers of poisonous serpents and the cleverness of native snake keepers. Unable to be present at this entertainment, I was invited to a private view of the collection on the following morning. Bear in mind that no snake-charmer was present, that neither pipe nor whistle was used, that every snake had its poison fangs or teeth in capital order, and that no means save the marvelous skill of the native operators was employed in the exhibition which followed, and you will have a good idea of the peril through which those Hindoos passed. It was early in the morning—not, however, before the snakes, which were in a series of wire-covered boxes, were awake and lively—that we were shown into a stone-floored room some twenty feet long and twelve broad. In the boxes were the strongest and deadliest snakes in India; pythons, ophiophagi, cobras, korites, Russell snakes, and many others. The Hindoos who had charge of them were two slim, wiry little men, nude to the waist, as most of their countrymen are. They wore neither gloves nor any other protection, and had no instrument of any kind in the place. After showing the varied collection under their care, they proceeded to open the python cage, and one of them, putting his hand in, seized a monster serpent and threw him upon the floor close to our feet. The python objected to such treatment, and began to hiss, making at the same time a vigorous effort to rise. But the snake-keeper was waiting for this, and no sooner did that huge shining back begin to curve than the keeper put out his hand, and, by seizing the creature's tail, pulled it back with a jerk. Instantly the python was powerless—hissing, but unable to move; the more he struggled the more tenaciously did the keeper hold his tail, explaining meanwhile that so long as the reptile was controlled in that fashion there was no danger of its doing mischief; then, just as its rage was becoming ungovernable, the man lifted it quickly, and with a jerk deposited it in the box. Its companion was now taken out in a similar manner, and slapped and buffeted till throughout its entire length—some twelve feet—it quivered with passion, but all to no purpose; it too was presently replaced in the cage, and shut up to hiss at its leisure.

The fact that an ophiophagus in in the Regent's Park Zoological Gardens rendered the next exhibition more interesting, although it may be doubted whether the sudden throwing into so small a room of a snake seven feet long was agreeable to the visitors. However, there was really no danger, for the venomous creature was so completely in its keeper's power that we had no occasion for fear. One bite from the reptile, and any one of us would have been dead in five-minutes, for it was exceptionally strong and lively; but it was no more able to bite us than the little mongoose caged outside the door. Up rose its head, out came its slithering tongue, its eyes dilated, its huge throat swelled, and all seemed ready for a desperate attack, when the keeper struck the reptile's mouth with the back of his hand, and before it could strike him had seized it just under the head. Then it struggled, but only to get away—it had met that native before, and did not at all approve of his treatment. The other native now seized its center and tail, and without more ado the terrible creature was hoisted into the air as harmless as a butterfly, and its fangs exposed by the aid of a small piece of wire. Those teeth were literally full of poison—enough to have killed a dozen persons. At length, our curiosity satisfied, this monster was put into his cage, and his brother plucked out by the naked native, with the hand, and thrown on the floor. He, too, was truculent for a minute, endeavoring to follow the unpantalooned Hindoo round the room; but he had reckoned without his host, or rather his keeper, for he was seized presently by the tail and hoisted up just as the other had been. In vain he hissed and spat. His tongue might move in and out as often as it pleased, but all to no purpose; whether on the floor or in the air, its efforts to bite were perfectly unavailing, and when the cage was opened it slunk in, a disconcerted serpent. A cobra was the next to be turned out, a strong, healthy snake, nearly five feet in length, with a hood, the power of moving which somewhat startled us. But move as it might, the agile native was too quick for it. He would put his knee within a foot of it as it stood up ready to strike, and it would make a dart, as futile, however, as it was sudden. Then it would hiss as though hoping to frighten its adversary; it might as well have hissed at the wall. And, just when it had got up again, and was so enraged that it could scarcely wait for a good opportunity to strike at the native's knee, which was moving before it in a most tantalizing manner, the keeper's hand was quietly placed under its head, and it was removed like its predecessors. "Will it bite?" I asked. "See," said the native. Taking up a piece of bamboo stretched across a shell, he held the wood to the serpent's mouth. Instantly the reptile seized the proffered bait, its eyes glistening, its neck distended, and crunched the wood as though it was tinder. Two or three moments elapsed as the teeth penetrated farther into the fibre, and then we saw the poison falling in white drops into the shell, which acted as a kind of saucer. I was particular in noticing two points in regard to this incident: First, that the poison did not come from the fangs immediately the bite was inflicted—a fact which will account for the mongoose living sometimes after he is bitten by the cobra; and, next, that the quantity of venom emitted was much greater than is generally supposed. There were five or six large white drops in the shell, and probably one or two absorbed in the bamboo. When forced to surrender the wood the serpent seemed by no means exhausted; the fibre was much torn, for the teeth had penetrated nearly a quarter of an inch.

For all that, I should mention that when presently another cobra equally large was examined, it was shown that the teeth were set back some distance in the head, and that they were by no means so large as those of a viper which was shown afterward, and which was so quick in its movements that it had to be lifted out of its box by means of a hooked stick. Cobras and ophiophagi might be seized with the hand, but not so this huge viper, which made such desperate attempts to strike one or two of us that we were by no means sorry when the keeper seized him by the neck and tail and opened his mouth. His fangs were undoubtedly large—larger than a cobra's by one-half, and very strong. They must have contained a great quantity of venom. However, he was not invited to try them, and by the time he got back into his box was, I think, heartily tired of the exhibition. A "Russell" snake, with a golden spotted back, was the next on the floor, and it hissed violently, but was taken up just as easily as the others after it had been provoked to a great rage for several minutes. A korite, proverbially deadly, had been played so many tricks before that it was slow to take part in the fun. Once or twice it struck viciously at the keeper, but without any effect, and at last ceased any effort to bite the Hindoo. There was no need to play a pipe or tom-tom to awe that snake. It was only too glad to get away into his blanket and box again. The exhibition was ended by the showing of a biscobra, or small guava.

A Second-Hand Clothier's Trick.

Here is a trick of one of our second-hand clothes dealers. He shows a hesitating customer a pair of pantaloons which he says had been made by a fashionable tailor for a wealthy gentleman who brought them back after wearing them once, as they did not fit him. The customer pivots himself around before the mirror, examines the length of the legs, sounds the depth of the pockets, and closes the bargain. When well out of sight of the clothing store, he examines for the first time an article which, as he revolved before the mirror, his hands had encountered in one of the pockets. "Yes," the customer had said to himself, that's a pocket-book. I know by the feeling of it. Mr. —— must have left it in here the night he wore these pants." The reader can supply the further details of the story. A twenty-five cent paper-lined pocket-book proved the means of selling a $2.50 pair of cottony satinet trousers at a profit of $4.25.—San Francisco Alta California.

Effects of a Cash Subscription.

The effect of a cash subscription in a Glasgow (Kentucky) sanctum was thus photographed on the spot the other day: "Immediately the proprietor's chair began to tilt backward, his face to take on an ecstatic glow, and his polar diameter to lengthen. Dovetailing his fingers over his corpulency, he closed his eyes meditatively, and his lips moved in silent invocation, and with the determined air of a fellow who didn't care a cuss, he pulled out a jeans purse and crammed the dollar in it, regardless of the feelings of bystanders.

Women Murdered in New York.

During the past five years forty-two women have been murdered by men in New York City. Not one of the murderers has been hanged, and only six were sentenced to imprisonment for life; twelve were given sentences of seven years and under in the State Prison, two were sent to the Penetentiary for ten and thirteen years, respectively, and two received sentence, one for nine and one for thirteen months. Seven of the wife-murderers committed suicide; the rest escaped punishment.

Prince Louis of Battenberg, who is to marry the Princess Beatrice of England, and have with her an allowance of £6,000 per annum, is a poor man himself. But he has plenty of blue blood, which has its market value like all other commodities. The Princess Beatrice is "hawty" and disagreeable in temper.

The other night a farmer named Michaels, of Butler County, Pa., got out of bed with the remark to his wife that they had lived together long enough. On Sunday his remains were found in a creek.

"Hoe your own row" is homely, but solid.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

Beeves	8 50	@11 00
Hogs—Dressed	8	@ 9
Cotton	12½	@ 13½
Flour—Superfine Western	5 00	@ 5 50
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 27	@ 1 28
Corn	60	@ 61
Oats	45	@ 50
Rye	78	@ 83
Pork—New Mess	22 80	@23 00
Lard—Steam	13½	@ 14

CHICAGO.

Beeves—Choice Graded Steers	5 75	@ 6 25
Choice Natives	5 00	@ 5 50
Cows and Heifers	3 00	@ 4 00
Good Second-class Steers	4 60	@ 4 85
Medium to Fair	4 25	@ 4 50
Inferior to Common	3 25	@ 3 80
Hogs—Live	8 00	@ 9 75
Flour—Fancy White Winter	7 25	@ 7 75
Good to choice spring ex	4 75	@ 5 25
Wheat—No. 1 Spring	1 08	@ 1 09
No. 2 Spring	97	@ 98
No. 3 Spring	82	@ 82½
Corn—No. 2	43	@ 44
Oats—No. 2	32	@ 32
Rye—No. 2	63	@ 64
Barley—No. 2	55	@ 60
Butter—Fancy	30	@ 35
Eggs—Fresh	14	@ 15
Pork—Mess	22 00	@22 25
Lard	13	@ 13½

ST. LOUIS.

Wheat—No. 3 Red	1 49	@ 1 50
Corn—No. 2	39½	@ 40
Oats—No. 2	38	@ 39
Rye—No. 2	63	@ 64
Pork—Mess	22 75	@23 00
Lard	13	@ 13½
Hogs	8 00	@ 8 75
Cattle	4 70	@ 5 60

MILWAUKEE.

Wheat—No. 1	1 08	@ 1 08½
No. 2	1 00½	@ 1 01
Corn—No. 2	42	@ 43
Oats—No. 2	30	@ 31
Rye	66½	@ 67½
Barley—No. 2	77½	@ 78

CINCINNATI.

Wheat—New	1 10	@ 1 25
Corn	47	@ 48
Oats	35	@ 40
Rye	73	@ 78
Pork—Mess	22 50	@23 00
Lard	13	@ 13½

TOLEDO.

Wheat—Extra	1 34	@ 1 36
Amber	1 23	@ 1 23½
Corn	45	@ 47
Oats	34	@ 35

EAST LIBERTY, PA.

Hogs—Yorkers	8 00	@ 8 50
Philadelphias	9 25	@10 00
Cattle—Best	6 00	@ 6 25
Medium	3 00	@ 4 00
Sheep—Medium	4 00	@ 4 75
Best	6 00	@ 7 00

AUBURN COURIER

I. G. [illegible], Publisher.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Dig for it at Home.

Would you have the shining metal?
Do not o'er the wide world roam,
Following a fleeting phantom—
Stay and dig for it at home.

Do not heed the luring story,
Treasures distant hills uphold;
Ten adventurers, disappointed,
Stand for every ounce of gold.

Wishing still for something better
Many fancies youth will rear;
Mountains of the yellow mines,
In the distance gold appear.

And the longing is contagious,
Drinking from a leaden cup,
For the means of grander living,
On highways to pick it up.

But dame fortune is too fickle
In her train afar to roam,
Would you win her golden treasure
Stay and dig for it at home.

In the land that lies before you
Find your wealth by honest toil;
Never votary disappointed
Rightly sought the generous soil.

Only faint, weak hearts repining
Cast away the good at hand;
Fortune's smile will rarely crown them
Sought for in a distant land.

But success rides on before you,
Grapple it and you will win;
Lo! e'en now, the mists are rifting
And the tides are rushing in.

Let no foreign expedition
Lure your restless steps to roam,
Gold is nearer than the mountains,
Stay and dig for it at home.

—National Record.

Around the Farm.

THE cabbage is a good crop to raise for cattle food in fall and early winter. It thrives on good corn land, well manured, and yields 20 tons per acre.

THE London Live Stock Journal says that in the London dairies short-horns are very largely in use. In fact, pure bred short-horns and their crosses constitute the principal source of the metropolitan milk supply.

THESE figures of short-horn sales may be left to speak for themselves; but it is impossible to avoid the suspicion that purchasers will not in the long run get the best of the bargains.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A NOVA SCOTIA farmer who sent a sample barrel of apples to the fruit exposition at Birmingham, England, has been informed officially that, "though there was an exceptionally good show of English apples his fruit beat them all in size, and were very fair indeed in color."

IF any family will, for a season, keep an account of the value of the products used from their gardens, at the price at which they are furnished at the nearest grocery, they will certainly be astonished at the amount they have saved, aside from their increased freshness and quality.

GET a quantity of empty barrels and boxes, and during the coldest time in the winter put a few inches of water in each; the evening, when cold is most intense, is the best time to do this. After the water is frozen solid, fill up again, and keep on doing so until the packages are full of solid ice; then roll them into the cellar, cover them up with plenty of straw, or tanbark and sawdust, and you will have good, pure ice cheap, and the crop safely harvested.—Prairie Farmer.

THE Scientific American is responsible for the following: A horse was taken to a veterinary surgeon recently to be cured of a corn in the foot. In paring the corn the operator found a worm about ⅜ of an inch long, 1-16 of an inch thick, and sharp at each end as a needle. One end was black and the other end white. The black end was nearest to the sole and the white end was in the flesh. After removing the worm and burning with nitric acid the corn was entirely removed and the horse permanently cured of his lameness."

THE preference for colored cheese is one of the strangest commercial infatuations we are acquainted with. The Yorkshire people, shrewd as foxes in things generally, have a notion that plain cheese is not genuine, for some reason or other, that it is not so rich as the other, whereas it is really the colored cheese that is not genuine—that is, actually adulterated with annatto to produce the deep tint which they unwisely prefer. If these good people were to taste just a teaspoonful of annatto, such as is used to color cheese with, we venture to predict they would eschew colored cheese for the future. However, this fallacy is gradually being extinguished. —London Agricultural Gazette.

NO PLANTS ever grow without seeds to start from, and no animals come without parentage; we have no spontaneous trees and plants, nor any spontaneous cows, pigs and geese. The fact that many seeds are minute and inconspicuous, and when mixed with the soil are not seen, and do not germinate until brought up near the surface, has led some superficial observers to think they grow without seed. We know of some plants, the small seeds of which scattered through the soil do not constitute a millionth part of its bulk, which, when circumstances favor growth, will spring up and cover the whole surface.—Country Gentleman.

COST OF A BUSHEL OF CORN.—Mr. J. Hapgood, of Shrewsbury, who stated his method of raising corn at the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture at Haverhill, Mass., and showed some remarkable samples of his corn, has furnished us a statement of the cost per acre. Mr. Hapgood raises five or six crops with one dressing of eight cords of barn-yard manure, and hence he charges but one-quarter of the manure to the corn crop. His statement is as follows:

Plowing three-quarters of a day with a swivel plow	$ 3.75
Two cords manure at $9	18.00
Spreading manure and harrowing	3.50
Furrowing and laying manure in hill	6.00
Seed and planting	3.50
Cultivating and hoeing one	4.00
Harvesting and husking	8.00
Total	$46.75
Deduct three tons stover at $8	24.00
Net cost	$22.75

Yield eighty-one bushels at $1.
Cost of raising, per bushel, twenty-eight cents.

About the House.

To RESTORE the appetite, take half a pound of valeria root and make tea of it. Take a wineglass full at night, on going to bed.

THE surest remedy for chapped hands is to rinse them well after washing with soap, and dry them thoroughly by applying Indian meal or rice powder.

DELICATE SPONGE CAKE.—Use the Whites of ten eggs, one and one-half tumblers of flour, teaspoonful of flour, teaspoonful of cream of tartar, half a teaspoonful of salt; lemon to suit the taste. Bake about thirty minutes or more.

SOAP-BUBBLES.—There is a right way of making soap-bubbles, and this is it. Dissolve a quarter of an ounce of Castile or oil soap, cut up in small pieces, in three-quarters of a pint of water, and boil it for two or three minutes, then add five ounces of glycerine. When cold, this fluid will produce the best and most lasting bubbles that can be blown. This is commended to the juvenile Isaac Newtons who wish to find out for themselves the thickness of the films of soap-bubbles.

HONEY RECIPE.—White or brown sugar 20 pounds, soft water 6 pounds, pure bee's honey 8 pounds, cream of tarter 80 grains, essence of roses 24 drops. Mix the above in a brass kettle, boil over a charcoal fire five minutes, take it off; add the whites of two eggs well beaten; when almost cold add two pounds more bee's honey. A pint of the decoction of slippery elm, of the consistency of cream, will improve the honey, if it be added while cooling.

BACKED RICE PUDDING.—Boil one coffeecupful of rice in just enough water to absorb it. When nearly done, add one teacupful of milk, three tablespoonfuls of finely-chopped suet. Set it aside to cool when it has boiled for ten minutes. When nearly cooled, add two or three eggs, well beaten, and turn the whole into a pudding dish, grating nutmeg over the top of it. Bake in a slow oven for half an hour. Butter can be substituted for the suet, and the eggs can also be left out, or only one used, but without them the pudding will be very plain.

WHEN a teaspoonful of any medicine is prescribed by a physician it should be borne in mind that the quantity meant is equal in volume to forty-five drops of pure water at sixty degrees Fahrenheit. It is a good plan to measure off this amount in water in a small wine-glass, and mark on the latter the exact height of the fluid. This will give an accurate and convenient standard for future use. Teaspoons vary so much in size that there is a very wide margin of difference in their containing capacity. It is well to remember, also, that four teaspoonfuls equal one tablespoonful, or half a fluid ounce. A wineglassful means four tablespoonfuls, or two fluid ounces; and a teacupful, as directed by cookery books, indicates four fluid ounces, or one gill.

Whereabouts of Mrs. Tilton.

What a pity that innocent children should be the victims of so much prurient curiosity arising out of a scandal for which they are not in any wise responsible. A few days ago, walking along Bedford avenue, in Brooklyn, I saw a bright little fellow running along the street followed by a troop of children halloaing, "Ralph Tilton, where's your father?" The first child was little Ralph Tilton, son of Theodore Tilton. He is attending a Kindergarten school on Bedford avenue, and was on his way to his mother's home. Mrs. Tilton is living with her mother—the former Mrs. Morse—on Madison street, near Nostrand avenue. She has her two sons with her, and the father has charge of the daughters. Mrs. Morse pays the expenses of the Tilton boys' schooling, and it is believed Theodore Tilton himself is contributing largely to his wife's present support. She is a regular attendant of Dr. Duryea's church on Classon avenue, and frequently appears on the street. There is a sad, weary, dejected look on her face, however, which strictly comports with the painful notoriety she has obtained before the public.—New York Letter.

A Long-Vexed Question Settled.

The Supreme Court has decided that the eastern terminus of the Union Pacific Railroad is on the Iowa shore, at Council Bluffs, and that the Omaha bridge is a part of the road and must be operated in connection with the whole line. This is not pleasant news for the Union Pacific Company, or the bondholders of the bridge company, heretofore treated as a separate corporation, having the right to exact tolls on freight, &c., passing over the river between the East and West. It has, however, carried happiness to the innermost souls of the Council Bluffers, who are rejoicing with exceeding great joy at their good luck.

RUSSIA'S conquests and annexation of of territory on her southern border in Central Asia have been conducted under circumstances sufficiently similar to those long existing on the southern frontier of the United States, to strongly suggest the propriety, if not the necessity, of adopting a similiar policy. The Khanates were independent states, possessing nominally organized governments, but not holding their turbulent and reckless border ruffians under sufficiently stringent control to insure the safety of their neighbors. Instead of permitting her merchants and other citizens to be plundered year after year by the predatory tribes infesting the frontier, as we have done with the Mexicans, Russia has proceeded to occupy the country, and will at once colonize and civilize it after the Russian fashion. The absorption of Khokand, now about complete, puts the Russian authorities in a position to effectually protect their own people, and to bestow upon the inhabitants of the conquered territory something like a substantial government.

THEY do say of Senator Christiancy's bride, that when the aged Senator proposed she at once accepted, and returned an engagement ring to a suitor who had her promise of marriage in Georgia. Having done this, she urged the statesman to make no vexatious delays, inasmuch as she anticipated that the discarded Georgian might come up and make trouble. Very few men would care to tamper thus with the feelings of an unregenerate Georgian.

MRS. SWISSHELM would like to have a short conversation with the man who called her a Centennial relic.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

A Period of Intrigues—Investigations—Slow Work in Congress—Reform in the Internal Revenue Bureau—The Belknap Sensation.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, March 3, 1876.

The winter weather of this latitude is always in February and March, the worst of it in March usually. I think the ugliness of the weather has a tendency to make men "ugly;" to generate "bad blood," and draw out bad dispositions all around. At any rate I have often observed that "the winter of our discontent" among our politicians has often been contemporaneous with our mean-nasty weather.

And the centennial year of grace 1876 is no exception to the rule. The Republicans have been having plenty of trouble within their own lines, and so have the Democrats. It may be truthfully said as to either side that at Washington everything has been unlovely and the goose has been stretched out low. The terrific snow-storm of the first of March found the political elements here in sympathetic hurly-burly. The trial of Gen. Babcock was made the occasion of a powerful effort to get Bristow out of the Cabinet and Solicitor Wilson removed. This amounted to a political conspiracy, or at all events to an intrigue so adroitly arranged and conducted that it was cousin-german to conspiracy. Many men were so far imposed upon by the conversations, acts, and boastings of the conspirators as to believe that Grant and Bristow had actually quarreled. They mistook outside clamor for inside fact. Nevertheless, I believe the intrigue would have succeeded in driving both Bristow and Wilson from office but for the tremendous protest which came in here in tones of thunder from the country. This frightened the conspirators, and they retired from the fight. They still keep up a desultory firing on Wilson, but I greatly doubt whether they will be able to bring him down. If they do, score one more victory for the infamous whisky ring.

The Democrats have been in trouble, too. It has looked as though they thought they had drawn an elephant and didn't know what to do with him. Just how many caucuses they have held during this wintry weather it would be difficult to tell. Most of them have been stormy, and not one decisive of any line of policy. The friends of different gentlemen who have been named for the Presidency have been uncommonly active. Then there has been angry discussion on the currency question, and on other topics in respect to which the authoritative creed has not yet been promulgated.

All this shows that the main business in hand is President-making. This is the principal thing with either party. One is no more to be blamed about it than the other. But meantime Congress fails to give that large attention to the material interests of the country which they ought at this time of business dullness to receive. No candid man, I think, could observe the situation here without concluding that it would be better to have a Presidential election only once in six years.

INVESTIGATIONS.

I believe there are now between sixty and seventy investigation committees at work. There must, of course, be a general overhauling. Whatever has occurred of late years that has been bad or suspicious will be found out. Unfortunately most of the testimony given in these cases is altogether ex parte, and is to be received with many grains of allowance. It is now stated by persons whose opinions are entitled to weight that it will be impossible to complete the investigations of several matters before autumn, and that Congress will take a recess during the summer, authorizing the committees to sit. I do not think this will be done. Reports spread before the country just before the elections would have no influence with the people whatever. They ought to have time to examine the testimony and to hear what "the other side" has to say. This idea of a recess, though now entertained by many, will most likely be abandoned.

SLOW WORK IN CONGRESS.

The House adjourned on Wednesday a few minutes after the expiration of the morning hour, because there was not a single committee which had any business to report. This is due to the fact that so much time is occupied with investigations. These are necessarily slow. After a while reports of investigating committees will begin to come in, and then look out for lively times and exciting debates. Then the main business of the session, namely, President-making, will move on the lightning-express train, in comparison of which Col. Bangs' famous "fast mail" will be an old-fashioned slow-coach.

About the only legislative event of note of the week is the passage, by the Senate, of the Military Academy Appropriation bill, with a number of amendments. Among these is an item for the pay of the West Point band. I beg leave to hope the House will agree to this item. I am sure the cadets would go into a decline and die but for the music of the band and the sublime struttings of the drum-major. Every boy of 'em would say: "I know not what others may think, but as for me give me the drum-major or give me death." Here is the very embodiment of military fuss and feathers. Abolish him? Perish the thought! I am bound to say, in all seriousness, however, that the West Point band is the best in the country, that music is necessary in the army, and that our gallant boys in their bob-tail claw-hammers ought to have it, at a reasonable price.

INTERNAL REVENUE REFORM.

There will shortly be a very considerable reform in the management of the Internal Revenue Bureau. The Supervisors will be mustered out of service, and collection districts all over the country will be further consolidated. This latter reform has been going on for some time, and would have been carried out still more but that Secretary Bristow was overruled in several instances by the President, upon whom a tremendous political influence was brought to bear. The reform is one greatly needed in the interest of economy and of faithful public service. In the case of the abolition of Supervisors I am not so certain of its wisdom, but economy will be the result, and perhaps similar service can be as well done by officers of less grade and less pay. If so, well. If there is anything certain under the sun, it is that our army of office-holders is by much too large and too expensive.

THE CASE OF GEN. BELKNAP.

The excitement into which this community was suddenly and most unexpectedly thrown, on yesterday, by the revelations of the official misconduct of Secretary of War Belknap has not been equaled since the day after the battle of Bull Run. The feeling on the terrible murder of President Lincoln was, of course, more nearly universal and was inexpressibly agonizing. But in that case there was the knowledge that the President had fallen by the crime of a stranger. In the case of Gen. Belknap the fall, so far as is known, was by his own act; and as those who had known him longest and best had the most unbounded confidence in his integrity, intelligence of his wrong conduct was at first received with absolute incredulity. Then all sorts of distortions of the truth began to be whispered about, and it was late in the day before the general fact was correctly understood by the public at large. Then men began to stare at each other in blank amazement, and were lost in astonishment and surprise. Every one looked upon it as a terrible calamity. The community was stirred as the earth is stirred by a great earthquake.

The crime of selling the offices in one's patronage need not be characterized by me. This is the offense of which Belknap stands, according to all reports, confessedly guilty. That one who spent years in the military service of his country with great honor to himself, who has long been surrounded by troops of friends, who might well have hoped for continued honors, should thus fall by the way is to me almost inexplicable. I hardly know how to account for it, and I will not in these moments of great feeling undertake to do so. Permit me to say, however, that there must have been some unusually powerful temptation, either of a general or personal nature, which could have caused this long honest man, a galiant soldier and the son of a gallant soldier, to have deflected from the line of honor. It may be that there is some explanation which will leave him in a position more favorable to his reputation than at this time seems likely. If it shall so turn out it will be gratifying to me, as I know it will to all honorable men. Every person of right feeling must be pained at the fall of a man in eminent place. If such new light shall appear, I will be immeasurably happy in placing it before my readers.

L. M. N.

PASSING EVENTS.

SENATOR SPENCER has employed ex-Senator Carpenter to defend him against the prosecution brought by the State of Alabama to unseat him in the United States Senate.

PEOPLE who intend to exhibit at the Centennial Exposition and have already engaged space on the grounds should not delay to put in an appearance until within a short time of the opening day. April 26 is the last day on which articles for exhibition can be received, but it is desirable that as much as possible should be done before that time approaches. The great buildings are nearly all completed, and ample facilities for the arrangement of goods are furnished.

AFTER a long, persistent, and, to say the least, manly fight for a throne, Don Carlos, like Prince Charles Edward Stuart of Scotland, has been compelled to throw up the sponge. He has displayed a reckless species of bravery, a good deal of strategy, and strong personal magnetism; but possession is nine-tenths of the law in kingdoms as in private property, and the prince who fights against a throne backed by money and an army, however able he may be and endeared to the hearts of the people, is pretty sure in the long run to lose the game.

AMIDST the talk in Congress of shutting miners out of the Black Hills reservation, the New York Graphic pertinently remarks: "So long as it is currently believed that there is plenty of gold in the Black Hills that can be got by the taking it will require an iron fence a hundred feet high, with an armed picket behind every post, and a ditch wide and deep enough for a fleet of iron-clads, to keep the enterprising Yankee from pioneering civilization into that interesting region. If the Sioux will not dig himself he may as well pocket his claim and quit."

IN the Kansas Legislature, the other day, the general topic of discussion was the discovery that a bill passed a few days previously providing for the appointment of a County Auditor for Leavenworth County was materially changed after its passages and before the publication. The alterations make the Auditor appointed by the probate instead of the District Judge, and increase the term of the office from two to four years. The responsibility for this proceeding is charged upon Senator Johnson, of Leavenworth County, a candidate for the office to which the bill relates. A criminal proceeding will probably be instituted upon the report of the investigating committee.

A GREAT many articles at present stored in the Patent Office at Washington are being prepared for shipment to the Centennial. Among these is the original Declaration of Independence. A double-proof-against-fire-and-water safe has been made expressly for this document, and it will be guarded as though the country could not exist if it were destroyed or stolen. Franklin's first printing press will be sent, if an arrangement can be made which will save it from falling to pieces in transportation. George Washington's books, in which he kept an account of every cent received and expended in the most exact and truthful manner, will be shown to all the little boys to prove that story about the cherry tree which so many wicked newspaper writers make light of.

THE Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune says the House Committee on Indian Affairs will, when it is called again, report a bill for the transfer of the care of civilized Indians in the States of New York and Michigan from the General Government to that of the States in which they reside. This will be the first step in an important movement, which the advocates of it hope will finally result in a satisfactory solution of the entire Indian question. The majority of the Indian Committee, it is believed, will favor the transfer of the Indian Bureau to the War Department, and report a bill somewhat similar to that already agreed to by the Committee on Military Affairs. The President has recently expressed himself as opposed to this transfer, and in conversation with members of the Committee on Indian Affairs has stated his objections to it in very pointed language.

GEO. S. STEVENS, Judge of the County Court of Nelson County, Virginia, is to be removed from office by act of the House of Delegates. The Judge is fond of draw-poker, and according to the testimony is quite successful at the game. One Sunday in January last, and on several days thereafter, he engaged in his favorite game with William H. Fowle, a member of the House of Delegates, and on these divers occasions managed to extract from this foolish Fowle money, checks, and bonds to the amount of $7,200. This Fowle having lost his feathers, complained to his fellow-delegates, or in some way got the incident before them in such shape that a committee of investigation was appointed, which found the facts to be as above stated, and recommended the removal of Stevens on the ground that the exalted moral worth necessary in a jurist to command the confidence of the people is incompatible with indulgences in games of chance for money.

THE FRONTIER.

Gen. Sheridan Asks for the Establishment of Two Military Posts on the Yellowstone—His Opinion of the Black Hills and other Regions Farther West.

The Military Committee of the House of Representatives having requested Lieut.-Gen. P. H. Sheridan to supplement his testimony on military affairs, recently given before the committee, that officer has made the following additional suggestions: It will be seen that he has cut down the appropriation required by the bill introduced by Mr. Maginnis from $300,000 to $200,000. In view of the immigration to the Black Hills, and the present military expedition, this communication of the Lieutenant-General has peculiar interest:

HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DIVISION OF MISSOURI, CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 26, 1876.

The necessity for two military posts on the Yellowstone has been apparent to me for two years past, and I have recommended their establishment in my annual reports. So strong have I been convinced of this necessity that I have, without any expense to the Government, made an examination of the Yellowstone River, and selected the points at which they should be built.

The Indian question in the Black Hills must now be settled by the establishment of the Indians on the Missouri River, and, in the accomplishment of this purpose, the two posts mentioned will have to be located, one at or near the mouth of the Big Horn River; the other at or near the mouth of the Tongue River. These posts can be supplied by steamboat up the Yellowstone, and can be constructed of material found in the vicinity of the points selected. I think I can have them built for $100,000 each; in other words, I will try to build both for $200,000, instead of the $300,000 mentioned in the bill.

The Black Hills country will probably be covered with towns and villages during the next five or six years. Its value will cause the extension of the Northern Pacific Railroad on the south side of the Yellowstone, as far as the Gallatin valley, in Montana, and will also build another railroad from North Platte Station, on the Union Pacific Railroad, to the Black Hills.

I am of the belief that the largest deposits of gold are further west than where the miners are now working. The headquarters of Wind River are gold-bearing; the Owl Creek Mountains are gold-bearing; the Big Horn Valley is gold-bearing; Powder River is gold-bearing; also Clark's Fork of the Yellowstone. Besides this, the Black Hills have abundance of good timber for the treeless country south of them and west of the Missouri River.

The success of all these interests depends on the establishment of the two posts.

Military operations have now been commenced against the hostile bands of Sioux, by request of the Interior Department, and I consider the appropriation so necessary that I especially request immediate action on it.

(Signed), P. H. SHERIDAN,
Lieutenant-General.

SILVER CURRENCY.

Preparing to Resume—The Amount of Silver in the Treasury Vaults.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune telegraphs as follows:

The House Appropriations Committee have devoted much time lately to considering the policy of recommending the Secretary of the Treasury to begin silver substitution without delay. The Secretary already has full power in the premises conferred by the first section of the Resumption act, but he hesitates to follow his instincts without sharing the responsibility. He said recently in a committee meeting that he would like to have some expression of opinion from the members or some directions from Congress before beginning to replace fractional currency with silver coin, for, said he, if it fails where will the lightning strike? The discussion this morning indicated that the majority of the committee favor the proposition. The subject comes home to them, as they are asked to pass a special bill for $300,000 to enable the department to resume printing greenback currency. The Secretary then proposes to put out silver in place of fractional currency, and the committee are of opinion that either one or the other is unnecessary. It yearly costs nearly a million dollars to print, count, and reduce fractional currency. If it is replaced by silver, which is worth less according to the market reports, it will cost nothing, for the silver is already on hand and being coined. There are, according to reports, about $14,000,000 of silver coin in the Treasury and Sub-Treasuries. This is lying idle, and even the interest at 5 per cent. would amount to $700,000. Thus we have a million and a half, which, at 5 per cent., would pay the interest on $30,000,000.

For several days the Treasury has been busy sending silver coin to the different sections of the country to the Sub-Treasuries, Postoffices, etc., ready for orders to pay out for fractional currency. Even the order on the proper officials has been prepared at the department, and nothing now remains but for the Secretary to affix his name, and fourteen millions of dollars in silver coin go jingling into the pockets of the people. The Nevada mines, alone, will, in two or three months, when the shafts and mills are completed, produce $7,000,000 a month of gold and silver. If the people are disposed to fill their stockings with silver coin and lay them away, there may be plenty more to take their place.

INDIANA ITEMS.

JAY COUNTY is infested with horse-thieves.

MAPLE-SUGAR camps are starting up in this State.

DR. MUNNELL converted 262 Vincennes sinners.

BUILDING promises to be lively in Indianapolis this summer.

A MADISON cow ate up $110 that her owner dropped in the pasture.

FEMALE highwaymen are said to occupy the road between Troy and Tell City.

A BEAR valued at $800 recently died at Lafayette. It had been under training three years.

A NUMBER of Indianapolis saloon-keepers have been indicted for violating the liquor law.

THIRTY-SIX graduates received diplomas from the Indiana Medical college Friday night.

PETER A. WALLACE, Trustee of Owen township, Warrick county, has absconded; liabilities $2,800.

THOMAS SHANNON, a noted jail breaker of Ohio, was arrested in Monroeville, Allen County, the other day.

RICHMOND expended, for the quarter ending March 1, $2,000 for the relief of paupers. That is what the township trustees report.

MARTIN SHILOR, a farmer near Emerald Station, while cutting timber was struck on the head by a falling limb which killed him instantly.

WITH the last day of February the pork-packing season closed at Indianapolis; 323,824 hogs were killed. Last year there were 278,339 killed, an increase of 44,745.

A CONVICT in the Northern Penitentiary of Indiana has just drawn a piano raffled off at a fair given by the Sisters of Charity at Plymouth. He purchased the ticket before his arrest.

A YOUNG lady in Marshall County runs her father's farm of eighty acres with the aid of a younger brother, and this winter she has cleared seven acres of land, chopping all the trees herself.

Two young men of St. Joseph County, after procuring a marriage license for one of them, went into a Justice's office and besought him to appoint a deputy to enact the power granted in the license.

BONEWITZ & SECRIST'S store, at Asherville, near Knightsville, was destroyed by fire on Friday night of last week. Loss, 2,000; partially insured. The Postoffice was destroyed, with all the letters.

THE faculty of the State University have changed the calendar so that the commencement exercises will be held this year on the 14th of June, about two weeks earlier than last year. The graduates for this year number twenty-six.

SPENCER HOWELL, a well-known citizen of Rockport, and an attache of the Cincinnati and Rockport Railroad, committed suicide last week by blowing out his brains with a shot-gun. Almost the entire head was blown off. No reason is assigned for the deed. He was in tolerably good circumstances and a steady, industrious man.

A GREAT deal of breath and annoyance is saved by a plan adopted in Fort Wayne by the workmen on the 3,000 feet bore in progress for an artesian well. A large sign is painted, containing the usual questions: "How far are you down?" "What are you boring through now?" "Any sign of water yet?" "When do you think you will strike a vein?" etc., etc., and a blackboard and chalk is kept for a daily bulletin of answers.

WOMBAUGH and Scanlin, the Indianapolis policemen who shot and killed Phillips when attempting to escape from them on Thursday last, are now in jail in default of $5,000 bail each, awaiting the action of the Grand Jury. The citizens are greatly incensed at their conduct, and the colored people talk of making an attempt to take Wombaugh from the jail and lynch him. Both are equally guilty, and will probably be convicted at least of manslaughter.

IN the U. S. Court at Indianapolis, last week, upon calling the case of the United States vs. John W. Bingham, Judge Gresham inquired of the District Attorney why the Government did not move for sentence against J. W. Bingham, as it is understood that the reason for delaying his sentence has ceased. The District-Attorney replied that the Attorney-General of the United States had directed him not to move for sentence until further orders, for reasons satisfactory to the Government.

THOMAS SHANNON, a horse-thief arrested and taken to Fort Wayne the other day, made a desperate fight of it. He was arrested in the country and fought his captors the whole distance in the vain endeavor to escape. In front of the jail he made a last desperate attempt to get away, and did succeed in throwing himself and two captors into the gutter, but the latter bravely kept hold of him, and after a hard tussel succeeded in getting the prisoner in his cell. Shannon, on account of this resistance, was terribly used up, his clothing torn off, and badly pounded about the head and body. His captors were also completely worn out in the struggle.

A SANGUINARY affair occurred at Middlebury, Clay county, last Friday night. Geo. W. Watts and his brother Thomas appeared in the street with butcher knives, counter weights, and pistols, and assaulted Freeman Reed and Louis Zeigley, whom they (the Wattses) supposed had shot through their store door, and were indignant at it, whereupon they made the murderous assault. George Watts was shot in the left temple, and died in about thirty minutes. Freeman Reed was struck in the head with a heavy weight, and stabbed in the back on each side of the spinal column with a large butcher-knife, which was driven in to the handle and broken off at the point in the body. Reed, after he saw Watts fall, made his escape home, which he tried to do when Watts first assaulted him, but could not until he was mortally wounded. He reached home and got up stairs, and tried to secrete himself in the garret, when his mother heard him and went to him and put him to bed, when he expired in about thirty minutes. The two men died about five minutes apart.

MR. BEECHER has engaged his usual summer quarters at the Twin Mountain House.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, MAR., [illegible], 1876.

Judge Taft, of Ohio, has been appointed to fill the place of Belknap. Who is Taft? Probably one of Grant's cousins.

Gen. Grant's boy, Fred, has been ordered to the plains. Probably some new region is to be opened up, or a trader's post is to become vacant soon.

Advices, as we go press, from an unknown and obscure source, proclaim the recent election in New Hampshire in favor of the patry of corruption and bribery—much to our astonishment. "Belknappish."

The desperation and skill with which the Republican leaders are fighting to raise a new issue in the Belknap case shows how terribly frightened they are and with what apprehension they await the popular verdict therein. It must be confessed that they are developing wonderful resources, and that in fertility of expedient and adroitness they are more than a match for the democratic leaders. Their prime object is to raise a cloud of dust over the escape of Caled P. Marsh, under cover of which they can escape the responsibility of the hideous corruption of the present administration. Hence they pounce down upon Belknap like a pack of hungry and enraged Sibeaian wolves and expect the country to believe that their simulated zeal in pressing his prosecution is the genuine outburst of honest indignation at this horrible disclosure of official rottenness. Now the truth is that if the Republicans, who are fiercely yelling for Belknap's punishment, feel any indignation at all, it is simply because he was fool enough to be found out. The secretary of the Republican National Executive committee expressed the real sentiment of the leaders of his party the other day in a reply which he made to an inquiry from a friend who asked him why the President was in such haste to accept Belknap's resignation: I don't know, indeed, replied the gentleman aforesaid, unless it was from two very good and sufficient reasons " "Pray tell me what they are anxiously asked his friend. "First because he was stupid enough to be found out and second because he was such an infernal fool as to confess replied the secretary.

THE STATE DEMOCRACY.

Official Call for the Meeting of the Convention..

There will be a delegate convention held at the city of Indianapolis on Wednesday, April 19, 1876, for the nomination of a State ticket and the transaction of business incident thereto. The ratio of representation in the convention will be one vote for every one hundred vote cast in the various counties for Governor Thomas A. Hendricks at the election in 1872, and one additional vote for every fraction of fifty votes and over.

The Committee invites the co-operation and support of all voters who desire a return to.

1. Correct constitutional principles in the administration of public affairs, be they either national. State or local.
2. The most frugal and rigid economy in all departments of government.
3. The punishment of crimes and criminals of high or low degree; the impartial enforcement of the law upon all with favor to none.
4. The protection of the labor and industrial interests of the country from the encroachments of monopolies of any and all character.
5. The largest liberty to the individual citizen consistent with a just and vigorous administation of the laws.
6. A currency sufficient to meet the demands of trade, and which shall be alike receivable by all classes of people.
7. Equal taxation of property with just discrimination.
8. The repeal of the resumption act passed by a Republican Congress, in order that the business and commercial interests may recover their vigor, and a new stimulus be given the industries and enterprise of the country.
9. The freedom of conscience in all matters of religion; no connection between Church and State.
10. The punishment of malfeasance and corruption in office without partiality or favor.
11. The nomination of none but honest and competent men for office
12. The maintenance of our present admirable public school system, the outgrowth of the Democratic party's foresight and wisdom.

To this end we invite the voters of Indiana, irrespective of past political affiliations to meet the Democracy of the State in convention for the purpose of adopting a platform of principles, and to nominate candidates to be supported at the October election for the following offices, viz.:

1. Governor.
2. Lieutenant Governor.
3. Four Judges of the Supreme Court.
4. Secretary of State.
5. Auditor of State.
6. Treasurer of State.
7. Clerk Supreme Court.
8. Reporter Supreme Court.
9. Attorney General.
10. Superintendent of public Instruction.

The representatives of the different counties number, 1,899—Dekalb County 19.

From the moment that Blaine and his friends in the House recovered from the daze into which the announcement of Belknap's downfall threw them they have been making the most terrific efforts to distract the public mind from the contemplation of the rottenness of every branch of the public service, which Belknap's case simply illustrates, by constantly harping on a mere incident of this dreadful scandal. The Democrats very properly and truthfully insisted that the corruption of the Secretary of War was the legitimate outgrowth of the system of administration which we have had in this country for a decade and a half, under republican auspices. Indeed every fair-minded man in the country who knows anything of public affairs, believes that for ten years and more every department of the government has been as thoroughly demoralized as the War Department is now proved to have been under Belknap's administration. There is not a decent Republican in Congress to-day who does not believe in his heart of hearts that Delano, Williams and Creswell are as bad as Belknap's, and that they have made as much money out of the corrupt use of power as ever Belknap's or his wife did.

Stop that Cough.

No pulmonary complaint however obstinate, an resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound.—Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectually in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Hooping Cough and Croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take.—Cough worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxyims that threatened to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10 cents. Ask for Dr. Morris' Syrup take no

COMSUMPTION CURED.

AN old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by and East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarah, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering he will send free of charge to all who desire it this receipt with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Munroe Block, Syracuse, N. Y

Shearer & Wilson.

THE above named gentlemen are conducting a Paining Mill on South Jackson street. They are prepared to execute all kinds of scroll work, re-sawing turning matching and moulding of all discriptions, and can, in consequence, give the best figures possible, having this advantage over competitors. Their work for the past is a sufficient recommendation as to their competency and responsibility. They also take contracts for all kinds of wooden work.

NOTICE.

OFFICE OF THE
BALTIMORE, PITTSBURGH & CHICAGO RAILWAY,
(Indiana Division,)
GARRETT, Ind., March 13, 1876.

The stockholders of the Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Company (Indiana Division) are hereby notified that the annual meeting for the Election of Directors of said Company will be held at the office of the Company, at Garrett, Ind., on WEDNESDAY, April 5, 1876, at ten o'cloc'. A. M.

WM. WING,
Auburn, Ind., March 15, 1876. Secretary.

NOTICE.

IS HEREBY GIVEN that the undersigned, administrator of the estate of Landslot Ingman, deceased, by order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, will, on Saturday, the 22d day of April, 1876, sell, at public sale, at the dwelling house on the premises, the undivided two-thirds of seventy-eight acres of land off the west side of the northeast quarter of section thirty-three (33), township thirty-four (34) north of range thirteen (13) east, said undivided two-thirds to be subject to the right-of-way of the Detroit, Eel River and Illinois Railway over said tract. Sale to be between the hours of two and four o'clock P. M. of said day. Terms: One-third down, one-third in nine, and one third in eighteen months, with interest, and secured by note and mortgage, waiving valuation and appraisement laws.

J. P. WIDNEY,
March 15, 1876. Administrator.

BALTIMORE & OHIO.

RAILROAD.

THE GREAT NATIONAL ROUTE

—TO—

Washington, Balt'r
Philadelphia, N. Y.,

THE EAST AND NORTH-EAST

All Trains run via Wash. City.

Among the characteristics of this Favorite route are

Double Tracks, Steel Rails,
Magnificent Iron Bridges,
Gorgeous Mountain Scenery,
Unrivaled Eqipment,
Loughridge Air Brakes,
Unsurpassed Eating Houses,
(Owned and opperated by the Company)
And in fact all the Modern Appliances
that conduce to.

SPEED, SAFETY AND COMFORT

Pullman Palace Cars!

RUN THROUGH

WITHOUT CHANGE

BETWEEN THE PRINCIPAL

WESTERN and EASTERN Cities

For through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of trains, Sleeping Car accommodations, &c. apply at ticket offices at all principal points, North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Tic. Agt.
L. M. COLE, Gen. Tic. Agt
THOS. P. BARRY, Wes'n Pass'gr. Agt.
T. R. SHARP Master of Tran

1776. Centennial. 1876.

1876
1876
Everyone goes to the Cor. store.

HEADQUARTERS

—FOR—

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing.

MILLER & CASEBEER,

—OFFER—

GREAT BARGAINS IN GOODS!

The largest and choicest line of Goods in the city. Call and see.

MILLER & CASEBEER.

Fruit House Bulletin

All Goods Retailed at Wholesale Prices

This is the Only Secret of Our Immense Trade.

we purchase at first hands and sell direct to the consumer, so there is no middlemen to eat up profits. Some goods—take teas for instance—pass through four different hands before they reach consumers, and each one has to have his profit, so that 40 to 50 per cent. is added to price. The importer has his profit of 10 per cent., the jobbing merchant his profit of 10 per cent., the speculator and wholesale merchants, 10 to 20 per cent. and the retailer all he can get. So Sugars, Coffees, Spices, Prunes Fruits, Tobaccos, Liquors, or anything we deal in. Our customers get the benefit of all these intermediate profits, No middlemen with us. We are having a great run on Prunes. The Finest

PRUNES ONLY 8c A POUND.

They hardly ever sell lower than 12½c. and when you consider that Dried Apples are 12c, we all know a pound of Prunes will go farther and are considered much richer eating.

TEAS REDUCED

A penny saved is two pence got." Ten cents reduction on teas. The continued dullness in trade last, coupled with too large number of failures in the tea trade, has completely demoralized the market. Teas we used to sell at $1,40, and lately $1,10 per pound, we now sell at $1 per pound. Either Young Hyson, Imperial or Gunpowder, the very best qualities, now $1 per pound. The best uncolored Japan now 80c. was 90c, the best Oolong now 85c, was 95c. Other grades as low 25c per pound, up to 30 60, and 70c per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	20 and 30c
Second Best Rio,	23c

Sugars.

New Orleans and Refined Granulated Crushed and Powdered	11c	New Orleans clarified	9c
Coffee A.	10½c	" "	8c
" C.	10c	Good brown	8c

CANNED FRUITS.

Peaches per can	15c	Pumpkin per can	10c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Hominey per can	10c
Canned Corn, per can	10 and 20c

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia Raisins, per pound	12½c	Peaches per pound	[illegible]
Pitted Cherries per pound	35c	Apples per pound
Raspberries per pound	45c

Wines and Liquors.

Good Whiskey, one year old, per gallon	$1 80	Port and Sherry Wines, per gallon,	1 50, in
Rye Whiskey, two years old	1 25	bottle	50c
Three year old	$75 3 00	Sweet Angelica and California Muscatel, per gallon, 3 00; in bottles	50c
The $3 is for medical use and no better is sold anywhere.		Whiskey in bottles	30c and 50c
CANDIES—Best Stick per pound	18c	French Mixed, choice, per pound	20c

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

Good Navy and Twist, per pound..	45 and 50c	Smoking Tobacco	25c. best 40
Fine Kentucky Bright	60 and 70c	Shorts, best	37c

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Coal Oil and Rose Oil, per gallon	20c	Machine Oil, Dark Virginia, per gallon
Fish Oil and Lard Oil, per gallon	1 00	Best Refined	75c
Neatsfoot Oil, per gallon	$1 00

We are Bound to Keep up Our Reputation of Underselling all others And Save You at least

25 Cents on the Dollar

Fruit House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

1776 Spring Trade 1876

ROOT & COMPANY'S

POPULAR DRYGOODS AND CARPET ESTABLISHMENT.

46 and 48 Calhoun-st, Fort Wayne, Ind.

OUR STOCK THIS SEASON

Is much larger than usual and our Prices invaribly low. It will pay you to

EXAMINE OUR

Black and Colored Silks, Fine and medium price Dress Goods, Mourning Goods Spring Shawls and Cloaks, Lace Shawls, House-keeping Linens and Cottons, Cloths, Cassimeres, Hosiery, Gloves, Embroideries, Laces, Fancy Goods, Parasols, Notions, etc., etc.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

We keep the largest and most complete stock in the State, and our prices are very low. Body Brussels, Tapestries. Extra Superingrains, Hall and Stair Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Rugs, Mats, Lace Curtains, Shades, Hollands, Fixtures etc, etc.

N. B. Samples sent to any address. Orders receive careful attention. Goods are delivered free at Railroad Depots.

ROOT & COMPANY.
46 and 48 CALHOUN STREET, FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

1876. Our Centennial Gift! 1876.

A FREE GIFT.

A Round trip ticket to Philadelphia and return, good six months, gratis. A chance for any one to visit the greatest exhibition in the world's history.

SAM, PETE & MAX, offer a most magnanimous present to their multitude of friends. Every purchaser of Five Dollars worth of Clothing at our store will secure a chance to draw one of the ten (10) round trip tickets, to the Centennial, which will be distributed July 1st, place and manner of drawing will be made known in time through the press, and Famous Star Clothing Hous

SAM, PETE & MAX,

Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Auburn Fruit House

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

TEAS:
COFFEES:
SUGARS:
Dried Fruits.

ALL AT BOTTOM PRICES.

☞ Dont Fail to Call and examine PRICES ☜

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

E. E. WILLIAMS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

H. E. LITTLE, EDITOR.

Go to the Cantata to-night.

Yesterday was a real winter day.

Chas. Eaton has his new room completed.

If mud was a blessing wouldn't we all be O. K.

The roads are yet in a bad condition for trade.

Candidates for county officers are showing up fast.

The ice men are mum, and don't care how the thing pans out.

Several beggers have visited our town last week and this.

Mich Houston has opened up a meat market, on Seventh street.

Court is in session and a number of persons are in attendance.

The snow fell all day Sunday, but the merry bells were not heard.

When can a lamp be said to be in a bad temper? When it is put out.

Sam. Weaver has started a pretzel factory and supplies the lager beer halls daily.

The new drug store of Totton & Bodine, in McIntyre's build is in operation Give them a call.

The creek is on a high old bender again. Our fishermen anticipate a good run next season.

Look at the advertisement of Jo. Beugnot, dealer in Wines and Liquors, on Seventh street.

The duller the times the cheaper Miller & Casebeer sells goods. Corner store at Case's old stand.

The Democratic State Convention of Indiana will be held on the 19th day of April.

The creek is very high again, doing damage to property, bridges, &c, along the stream.

If you want something nice in the Boot or Shoe line, call on F. D. Ryan, at Sprott's old stand

Those of our citizens who have not witnessed the Cantata of Queen Esther, should go to-night,

F. D. Ryan, Esq., has been overhauling and fixing up his store room. It now presents a very tasty appearance.

School closes this week. The teachers have won a merit for their success in this direction from the people of our thriving city.

We still have a few Centenial copies left. We mail them to any address that parties desire for five cents—postage paid.

We had occasion to drop into several saloons Saturday last, and in each one we counted from four to six in position to "look at the races."

Wm. Seaton has purchased Mr. Henry's interest in the target gun, on Seventh street. It is now owned by Maxfield & Seaton.

We received an invitation to a ball to be given at Kendallville to-night, for which the committee will please accept our thanks. Brick, fill our place.

We learn that arrangements have been made to have an exhibition, at Ensley's Hall, Saturday night, by our school scholars.

Billy Humes has a wide reputation of being a first-class Boot and Shoe man. He is now with F. D. Ryan, at Sprott's old stand.

Our job department has been crowded with work for the past week. Parties should bear in mind that all orders received by mail are promptly attended to.

Thos. Leasure has purchased the stock formerly owned by W. E. Rush, and has added a great many new articles usually kept in a grocery store.

See the new advertisement of the Auburn Fruit House. Prices lower than any other house in Northern Indiana, E. E. Williams, Proprietor.

There's no use talking we're going to have a Woolen Factory. The parties from Fort Wayne who were looking at the prospects here, have decided on this place for the mills.

We hear it whispered among those who "like to dance to the music," that there are being arrangements made to have a masquerade ball in a short time.

A Cornet has been introduced in the choir of the Presbyterian church at Elkhart. Something of the kind would draw crowded houses here.

Our readers are directed to the advertisement of J. R. Lanning, Esq., dealer in Dry Goods, Fancy Goods, &c., in Ford's Block, on Main street

Go to Sprott's old stand of you want something nobby in the Boot and Shoe line. F. D. Ryan has purchased the stock and added thereto largely, on Main street.

The proprietor of this paper, Tom. C. Mays, Esq., has sent us a picture, showing the committee investigating the Belknap disgrace. Tom can be seen at his clerk's desk in the rear end of the room.

See the card of Dr. Littlefield Physician and Surgeon, in another column. The doctor has returned to our city and will be permantly located here "henceforth and forever."

Dr. Yarnell represents an institution of high standing and undoubted responsibility, and has performed some remarkable cures in this vicinity. Will be at the Auburn House Tuesday only.

Thos. Sommers and his good-looking and obliging brother, have made great improvements in the saloon on Seventh street. Many are the boys that were waiting for a change to take place there.

We hope that our street lamps will not become an "old thing" in a few weeks and be neglected. It is one enterprise which will always be of good value.

The average husband has a clouded brow, notwithstanding the near approach of the glorious spring with its balmy breezes, when all nature should be gay. House cleaning time draweth near.

Several items have appeared in the columns of the COURIER, of a personal nature, this winter, that should have read as communications, but being away from the office for several weeks, they were not arranged as such.

Chas. Fox has procured the services of Thos. Sommers to conduct his establishment until in June, when his license expires. The Dr. has had a large practice for several years and has cured (or killed) patients from all parts of the globe.

All. Dawson has the neatest and best arranged furniture store in the State. Everything looks characteristic of the proprietor. After closing the door you can stand still and pick out what you want, so systematically is everything arranged.

MR. EDITOR:—I take great pleasure in acknowledging the very liberal donation given at the residence of Dr. J. H. Ford's, on last Thursday evening, and can assure the friends participating that the favor is most fully appreciated.

J. W. WELCH.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Root & Company, the popular and enterprising dry goods and carpet firm, of Ft. Wayne, Ind. Those of our citizens visiting "Wayne" will do well to give the above-mentioned firm a call. Accommodating salesmen will wait upon you. See adv.

Queen Esther, is again to be produced by our "Local Singers" on Thursday night. The bill before us gives no date or place of performance, but we suppose the performance will be at Ensley's Hall We were informed that the performance will be to-marrow night. Admission 35c. Let there be an immense gathering.

While we have no reason to complain of our readers these hard times for not being prompt in the payment of subscription dues, yet there are still a good many who ows us that we will be compelled, in justice to ourselves, to call upon. We set out in a quiet way to close up our books. Call and thus save us the disagreeable task of calling upon you.

Elsewhere will be seen notice of select school, conducted by Mrs. Thomas. The lady spoken of has gained the confidence of the people of Auburn, as well as her large number of scholars, now under training. Having been next door to us all winter, we could see how well she conducted her school, and are safe in recommending her as a first-class teacher.

Last week one of the B. & O. trains came puffing into the Junction with three sheep loaded on the cow-catcher. When the train halted two of the sheep jumped off and run for all that could be imagined, the other one having a broken leg stayed for a more convenient time to get off. An engineer on a "street car" wouldn't be guilty of such a sheepish trick.

Our street lamps were lighted last Saturday night, for the first time, and they give Main and Seventh streets a tasty appearance. Although each lamp shown bright and clear, we noticed one fellow that failed to comprehend it in "that light." After picking himself out of the ditch about two feet from one of them, he said to a passer-by. "I'm taxed fo· ese (hic) 'amps, and they're gotter to be lighted—or (hic) bust.

MR. EDITOR:—Rev J. W. Welch and his many friends of this place, beg leave to express through the columns of your paper, the warmest thanks to Dr. Ford and lady, for throwing open their beautiful parlors, last Thursday evening, and receiving and entertaining them so pleasantly. Their hospitality was fully appreciated by all. The donation was a success, financially, as well as socially. Financial result—one hundred and two dollars and fifty cents. Result socially—many happy hearts. The donors went home, fully realizing the truthfulness of the Scriptural saying, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," and the recipients looked so pleasant, we concluded there must be a "little blessedness" connected with receiving, also.

COMMITTEE.

A. C. Dawson, Esq.

We visited the immense establishment of the above named gentleman yesterday, and gazed upon the new lot of goods just received. Mr. D. went to Chicago himself and purchased them, and with all the writing we could do, we would fail to do justice to the Bed Room and Parlor Sets. We ask our readers all over the county to call at this popular furniture store, before buying. The prices are the cheapest, the goods the best, the stock the largest in Northern Indiana.

The Garrett City "News" devotes the most of its local space in telling that Auburn boys came there, and got drunk We don't know who the parties were, but there is no man in the bounds of civilization that can go to Garrett and come away perfectly sober. The atmosphere is drunk for one mile around that city.

The closing exercise of the Auburn Graded School will be held at Ensley's Hall on Friday P. M. at 2 o'clock the intermediate and primary grades, will give an entertainment, consisting of dialogues recitations, &c. Saturday evening the High School and grammar department will perform commencing at 8 o'clock. Admission in afternoon 10c, for evening 15c.

Jas. Potter.

The above gentleman has started a Shoe Store, in Eldridge's building up stairs, and is now fully prepared to make to order any and all kinds of Boots, Shoes, Slippers, &c. Having everything new and buying the best of stock, he can warrant his work, and do it cheaper than any other house in Indiana. Give him a trial.

Two persons were baptised at the Creek last Sunday, one young and one old lady It was one of the most stormy, disagreeable days we have had this winter, and there is no question but that the water was cold. Even the small audience that witnessed the scene held their breath as the victim was dipped under. It may be all right and proper to baptise in this way, but as for ourselves we would choose a bright, May morning, and when the choir would sing "Shall we gather at the River?" we could make up our mind quicker than we could last Sunday.

The School House Question.

It is impossible to listen to the public speakers of to-day, and be reminded of the great eloquence of the orators whose lives were identified with the early history of our country. This proves conclusively, that oratorical powers can no more be acquired, than a fool can acquire intelligence. It is a grand gift of nature, polished by proper practice. A man may attend a sitting of a congress of the present time clear through, and not witness an example of that pathetic eloquence that was an every day treat while Webster, Clay, and their kind, graced the hall. But the nearest good, sound and most eloquent discourse we have heard for years was that of an attorney last Saturday night. The air was calm and sky was dark but as our ear caught his words we haulted. He was hugging a lamp post on Main street and got it off in about these words: "If the Trustees sold the school house, and there was nothing said about the desks that were nailed and screwed down, of course gentleman of the jury, the teacher was innocent. The night Police tapped him on the shoulder and told him to "let up."—as the teacher was a femal. And he did.

An Old Sow Breaks up an Elopement.

The other night on Ensley's Avenue. Smithers' oldest daughter, Milinda Jane took it into her head to elope with a young man by the name of Snellers. She had written to him telling him, when to come, and how to help her out of the house. The appointed hour found him on the ground. He placed a ladder which he had found leaning against the barn, to Milindy's window, and went to the top to help her out. Now this same ladder had been placed against the barn with some straw over it to protect an old sow and her family from the cold. As soon as the old sow discovered that the ladder was gone, she started in search of it; she found it just as the lovers were decending. She at once commenced to root a place at the end of it, for a nest, but she rooted a little too hard. The ladder came down with a crash into the bed-room window of old Mr. Smithers, throwing Snellers into the cistern and Milindy into her bandbox smashing her new bonnet as flat as a pan-cake. Mrs. Smithers jumped up and yelled robbers, thieves, murder, fire and everything she could think of. Old man Smithers crawled under the bed and yelled to the old woman to give them thunder, and put them out. One of their neighbors rushed into the house with a Babcock Fire Extinguisher and let about three gallons of water fly over the old lady before he found out what the fuss was about. Snellers was helped out of the cistern and struck out for Garrett City as fast as his legs would carry him, and has not been heard of since. Milindy is going to devote the rest of her life to the heathens and the poor. She says she never did care much about getting married any way.

We extend our most sincere thanks to the Committee of the Cantata, for complimentary tickets.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, March 14, 1876.

Mrs. Belknap took in the downfall of the Secretary as was to be expected. Some are sympathetic, and palliate her shortcomings, while others denounce her as the main cause of her husband's fall. I think that while she deserves to some extent her great disgrace, she is undergoing a most terrible punishment. She is charged with having burdened her husband with her showy extravagance, and living beyond her means, in order to keep pace with those of her position in society. But has not Washington society something to do with this? The prevailing fashion here, as I have described in former letters, contemplates an endless outlay of money, and none but the rich, and those who obtain money fraudulently, can afford this dazzling show. It's a terrible temptation for a beautiful woman to be placed in a high position and not be able to keep pace with her equals, or even those inferior to her in the official world. Yet society exacts this of her, while her husband is receiving a salary only sufficient to support him in a less pretentious way. A radical change is needed in the higher order of society here.

Perhaps the worst feature of this Belknap affair was that ostentation was so wholly unnecessary. There are better men than Belknap ever dared to be—Senators, great legal lights, scholars, scientists—who to-day occupy in Washington quarters almost humble, and they are none the less respected. Senator Logan—"fighting Black Jack of the Army of the Tennessee"—lives in a boarding-house with his intellectual and handsome wife. It is a boarding house kept by a cultured lady, it is true, and it is full of charming people—but its unpretentious character and its modest drawing-room would astonish Flora McFlimsey, of Madison Square, whose papa gets his house re-furnished in the latest style every two years. Proctor Knott occupies rooms in a modest lodging-house, and I suppose forages for meals in the neighborhood, as many sensible folks do in Washington. Other Senators and other Representatives live in hotels which would be considered below New York. Women bearing names which instantly proclaim them the descendants of some of the best and wisest statesmen this country ever knew appear with splendid courage in the most brilliant drawing-rooms clad in flimsy silks and muslins which have been on intimate terms with the washboard.

Amid this great crowd of excellent, sensible, worthy people, there are a few conspicuous individuals who make themselves the cynosures of neighboring eyes. Some are born beautiful: some have a rent-roll long as my arm in fertile acres in Merrie England. Mr. Yoshida, the Japanese Minister, is of gentle birth and of enormous wealth; in his own country he inhabits a palace, wherein 1,000 guests are easily entertained at once; Mrs. Yoshida is the fourth lady in Japan in point of rank. What right have your Belknaps to try to cope in social magnificence with such screaming swells as these.

In the good old Democratic days (this is not political) no such extravagance was known. People lived here comfortably, and they were not subject to the vanities of a false and shoddy aristocracy. And yet Mrs. Belknap is not an unfeeling woman. This superficial life has not robbed her of all those attributes that ennoble and beautify female character. She dressed in something like grandeur, and was somewhat foreign in her costumes and tastes. When she was Miss Tomlinson she was the bosom friend of the wife of Congressman Blackburn, who is a member of the committee that developed the bribery of Belknap. Mrs. Belknap, as a last effort, determined to appeal to Mrs. Blackburn to intercede for her husband. Blackburn had just returned from the House in the evening, after the terrible exposure was made, and told his wife all was lost. It was one of the few cold, stormy nights experienced in Washington. The ground was covered with an inch of slush, the snow melting as it fell. As she appeared at Mrs. Blackburn's it was almost impossible to recognize her. A plain cloak was thrown over her, and her babe was pressed in her arms. She had barely reached the inside door when she fell in a faint.

Recovering she fell upon Mrs. Blackburn's neck. She raved piteously to save her husband and child. She would bear all the blame. She alone was guilty. They might hang or imprison her, but spare her babe and her husband. During the scene Mr. Blackburn came in, and two women clung to him, his wife almost as much moved as the wretched wife and mother. Blackburn says he was never so moved in his life. And yet this man, with the other Democratic members of the Committee, are being abused and villified by the Radical press because they done their duty and exposed the corruption that had been feasting upon the late prosperity of the country.

During the season just passed, Mrs. Belknap received every Wednesday after the first of January to the end of February. She had never looked handsomer than this winter, and betrayed to none by her look or manner the anxious suspense she must have been enduring. Towards the last it was observed that she looked pale and jaded, and it was supposed she was feeling weary from the labors incident to the festivities of the season. On Monday, February 28, she appeared for the last time in public as the wife of a cabinet officer. This was at a dinner given by Mme. Bergmann, to which some of the members of the Cabinet and their wives were invited, some of the diplomatic corps and a few others. General Belknap was the escort of the wife of Justice Field on this occasion and Admiral Alden took Mrs. Belknap to the table. Mrs. Fish was escorted by Justice Field. In view of what was revealed within three days afterwards this dinner party becomes one of the most interesting social events of the year. Mrs. Belknap had been in consultation with Marsh throughout the day—so says the evidence—wherefore it is small wonder that even with her wonderful self-command she could not entirely conceal from the company the nervousness and anxiety which were undermining her strength. It was observed that she seemed ill, her manner was nervous and excitable, and one of her friends said to her, "Why dont you excuse yourself if you feel too ill to remain?" She would not avail herself of the pretext, and stayed until the other guests began to withdraw. No doubt she feared to excite suspicion by leaving earlier than the others.

Here is a little piece of gossip current here: In the summer of 1873, while Mr and Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Bower were traveling in Europe, a report was received in Washington that Mrs. Marsh had been guilty of an intrigue in Paris with a French gentleman. Mr. Belknap to whom Mrs. Bower was engaged, wrote to her that it would be prupent for Miss Bower to leave the marsh family, and naming another party, requested that she would join them. This event enraged Mrs. Marsh, who declared she would get even with the imperious and haughty woman for putting on so many airs. At last the opportunity offered. Mrs. Marsh received a summons to go before the investigating committee, and knowing that it would involve his wife if the truth should be made known, he packed his trunks for a foreign voyage, explaining to his wife that business of importance demanded his presence in Montreal, and from thence he should proceed to Halifax. Ascertaining the cause of this proposed journey, Mrs. Marsh protested, and insisted he should not leave, but unbosom himself to the committee. For that purpose, and to prevent the Belknaps or Dr. Tomlinson from persuading him not to do so, Mrs. Marsh accompanied her husband to Washington, and the country knows the rest. But it was not to end here. The Marsh family having brought the Belknaps into humiliation, Mrs. Belknap now intends to let the world know what motive actuated Marsh in making the revelations he did. It is a family feud, Marsh vs. Belknap.

I cannot close without calling attention to the fact of the great assistance the Republican press of this city is lending to carry on these investigations. Personal abuse of the members of the committee, long tirades about what was done fifty years ago, and all the filth and slime that can be thought of, is brought forth and thrown in the way of a fair investigation. They first intended to be in favor of an expose of this fearful corruption, and then when an attempt is made to show up the rottenness of the present administration, they call to their aid the vile billingsgate, and impede by every artifice, any laudable effort in behalf of the people, for honest government. I sometimes believe the Republicans of the House do not want Belknap impeached, but are dodging about, starting here and there to prevent any further developments. They charge that the committee should not have let Marsh, the witness, go; but they do not explain why the Attorney-General did not subpœna him, after the Cabinet meeting at which Belknap's resignation was accepted, when he had several hours to do so.

Other developments will soon be made, as the investigating committees are at work day and night to ferret out these fraudulent transactions. The Democrats will not be deterred by these interpositions—these attempts at blackmail—but will show up the guilty in their true light.

TOM.

An author says that one of the uses of adversity is to bring us out. That is true, particularly at the knees and elbows.

J. R. LANNING,

Has just received and has now on sale, at his store in Auburn, Ford's Block, in splendid styles new spring

Millinery Goods.

ALL THE NEW STYLES.

Dress Goods, all the new and beautiful shades of fabrics. New Fancy Goods and Notions, the latest of the season New Domestic Goods and Notions. Please call and examine styles and prices before buying

J. R. LANNING.

Auburn, Ind. March 9th 1876.

PERSONAL.

J. A. Barnes, of Waterloo, was in the city yesterday.

Authur Arnold, formerly of this city, is now visiting friends here.

Fred Kimball, of Fort Wayne, droped into our sanctum yesterday,

Mr. and Mrs. Sheffer's little daughter, Lura, has just recovered from a severe attack of lung fever.

Mrs. Joe. Rainier has been quite ill for several weeks, but we are informed is improving somewhat.

Harley Miller, after trying western life for a long period, has returned to the city again.

Stephen Masters, of Corunna, gave us a call last Tuesday. He reports things at Corunna in a quiet state.

W. H. McIntyre, Esq., has been suffering for several weeks with rheumatism but is better at present.

Mr. Bonell, yard-master of the B. & O. R. R., at Garrett, Ind., who was hurt recently while coupling cars at that place, is on his feet again.

J. V. Hazzard of the Frst National Bank, has been quite sick for several weeks, but is now at his post again.

Sammy Morris, Esq., of Fort Wayne, was in the city several days ago, attending to legal business.

Won't every one be glad when this centennial winter with its dismal round of mud, and rain, and clouds, is over? Who will not gladly change the mental weariness, this sense of oppression born of the harassing multiplicity of petty details in arranging for the smallest expedition through the mire, and the monotonous round of indoor life, for the genial life-renewing influences of settled, unclouded weather; for soft sunshiny spring? The season is upon us. Come, golden promise of summer days, Come also thoughts of a purer life, of resolves strengthened; of doubts subdued; forgetfulness of past failures and disappointments. Come, hearts filled with gartitude and peace, confident with hope for the future, for though good thoughts may pass and perish, even sooner than the seasons yet if they are ours for but the day, or the hour, who shall say we are not made better.

Will the Garrett City "News" tell us whether our boys paid for "what they got, or not?" Last week several Garrett roosters were in the city, and after they "had it down," would hold up their index finger. We suppose they meant "take the big finger for that."

SELECT SCHOOL.

MRS. THOMAS will open a Select School, in the new school building, March 20, 1876, where she will be pleased to meet all her old scholars, and as many new ones as may choose to come The tuition will be from three to four dollars for the entire term.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, } Before Jacob Walburn, J P Union-tp.
De Kalb County. }

Thomas J. Shreve, vs James E. Shreve.

It appearing by the return of the writ herein that said defendant is not found, and it further appearing by affidavit filed that said defendant is a non resident of the State of Indiana. A writ of garnishment in said case has been served on the Baltimore, Pittsburg and Chicago Railway Company, Indiana Division.

Notice is therefore given to said defendant to appear to said action at my office on the 10, of April A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M. to answer or demur to the complaint or the same will be determined in his absence.

Feb. 17, 1876. JACOB WALBORN, J. P.

Surveyor's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the County Surveyor, will at my request locate and re-locate lines and corners in and adjoining sections one (1) and two, (2) township thirty-five, (35) North Range twelve (12) East, and that said Surveyor will meet all interested persons at the North-West corner of said section one, (1) on the morning of the 4th day of April 1876.

WALTER W. CRISH, Applicant.

J. J. VANAUKEN, County Surveyor. 5w

JOSEPH BEUGNOT,

PROPRIETOR OF THE

BILLIARD HALL AND SALOON.

On Seventh Street, west side of Bank, which will be known as the St. Nichols Saloon. All kinds of choice

Wines and Liquors

ALWAYS ON HAND

Is also agent for Bentlivore's Jr. BOTTLED BEER, now the best in use.

JOS. BEUGNOT.

Auburn, March 1[illegible], 1876.

AN HORATIAN LYRIC.

O blest is he, from business free,
Like the merry men of old,
Who tills his land with his own stout hand,
And knows not the lust of gold.

No sailor he on stormy sea,
No soldier, trumpet stirred;
And he shuns the town and the haughty frown
Of the courtiers' fawning herd.

But he bids the vine with her tendrils twine
Around the poplar tall;
And he adds a graft, with a gardener's craft,
To the tree that climbs his wall.

Or a grazier keen, on the pastures green
He sees his oxen feed;
Or he shears his flock, or he brews a stock
Of his rustic nectar mead.

And when autumn at length, in his manly strength
Has raised his fruit-crowned head,
He plucks the pear with its flavor rare,
And the grape with its clusters red.

With his knee on the sod he thanks his God
For His mercies and His favors free;
And he lays him along, while he lists the song
Of the thrush in the old oak tree;

While the waters glide with the rippling tide,
And the zephyrs softly creep
O'er the quivering leaves, 'midst the murmuring trees,
And lull the senses to sleep.

But when thundering Jove from his stores above
Sends wintry snows and rain,
And rock and wood, and field and flood,
Lay bound in his icy chain,

With many a hound, in the woods around
He hunts the grizzly bear;
And ere daylight fade his gleaming blade
Is red with the monster's gore.

When the sun has set he spreads his net,
And the partridge, fluttering, dies;
He takes the hare in his crafty snare,
And the crane—a goodly prize.

'Mid joys like these what ills can tease—
Who could remember pain?
He feels no wrong, and he laughs at the throng
Of the cares that swell love's train.

If a loving wife—best staff of life—
Be his, and children dear,
The fire burns bright with its ruddy light,
His homeward step to cheer.

At the cottage door, when his toil is o'er,
She stands with her smile so sweet,
And holds up her face with a modest grace,
His welcome kiss to meet.

And children glad swarm round their dad,
But the hungry man must dine;
So she spreads the cloth, and he sups his broth,
While she pours out her home-made wine.
—Blackwood's Magazine.

REMINISCENCES OF 1812.

An Eye-Witness' Account of the War on the Border and Surrender of Detroit.

The Maumee Valley Pioneer Association met at Perrysburg, Ohio, recently, and a number of addresses were made and papers read by old settlers. Among the number was a paper by Gen. John E. Hunt, extracts from which we give herewith:

Judge Thomas Dunlap then read the following recollections of the olden time, entitled "Sixty Years Since," embracing mainly reminiscences from Gen. John E. Hunt's experience.

On the march from Miami to Monroe, when about half way, news reached us of the declaration of war.

The British got the news before we did, through a fur company's agent, who took it by express direct to Canada.

The Canadians might have taken Detroit by surprise before Hull got there. Hull stopped two days at Monroe to make a display of his troops.

Thence we marched up the River Huron; there we camped in an open prairie. We could see from our camp the masts of the brig 20-gun ship, Queen Charlotte, which lay in the lake off Malden. Some Indians were observed at a distance. During the night we were aroused by a false alarm. Hull's apprehension of an attack by a force which might be landed from the Queen Charlotte gave color to the alarm. It was afterward learned that the Indians were Wyandotts, who offered themselves to us as allies at Detroit. Their services were not accepted, as our government's orders to Hull were to have nothing to do with them.

At that time there were no British troops on board the Queen Charlotte. On the occasion of this false alarm it was whispered in camp that the old man Hull was a good deal frightened. The next day we went into camp at the River Rouge, seven miles from Detroit. We marched in great disorder, strung along five or six miles. Hull halted there eight or ten days to prepare his men to make a display through the streets of Detroit. Detroit was then a town of from ten to twelve hundred people. Then he marched his men through Detroit and back again to camp on the River Rouge. After some days he moved up and crossed the Detroit River in batteaux below Belle Isle. One beautiful morning they crossed without opposition and made a fine display, marching down opposite Detroit with colors flying and music playing. There they made a fortified camp and remained. A two-story brick house in the center of the camp was the General's headquarters. There I first saw Gen. Cass, then a Colonel.

It was a warm July morning, and I was taking my breakfast at a boarding house kept by a man whose name was Deputy. At the table sat Maj. Munson, of Zanesville, Ohio. A red-faced young man with a morning gown on, came in, and, as he took a seat alongside of Maj. Munson he said something severe against Gen. Hull. Maj. Munson said: "Col. Cass, what is the matter with you?"

Cass replied he had been two hours with that old fool and could not get him to make a push on Malden, all he could do. "He has agreed to let me go down with my regiment and two companies of the Fourth United States Infantry, and if God lets me live I'll have Malden before I get back."

The British had a two-gun battery at the River Canard, four miles above Malden, so posted as to rake the causeway and bridge at that point. A day or two before a regiment of our militia had been driven back from there. Cass sent two companies of the United States Fourth Infantry, under Capt. Snelling, to ford the stream above the battery. When Snelling made his appearance approaching the British on their flank, Cass moved forward with his main force upon the bridge. The enemy opened fire upon him, but when they discovered Snelling on their flank they retreated. Cass followed them to within a mile and a half of Malden, when it became so dark he thought it prudent to go back to the battery at the bridge. From thence he sent an express to Hull for reinforcements, so as to attack Malden the next morning. Instead of doing so, Hull sent his aid to Col. Wallace, of Cincinnati, and ordered Cass back.

Cass had frequently told me that he has always regretted he did not disobey orders and march on Malden. He afterwards learned the British had all their valuables ready to leave, and loaded on board the Queen Charlotte. If he had made his appearance in the morning the British would have blown up their fort and sailed away to Niagara. This would have prevented an Indian war and saved Detroit. Cass returned to camp, and a few days after Hull, on hearing of the advance of Gen. Brock, retreated across the river to Detroit, where he occupied Fort Shelby. This fort was situated right about the center of the present city of Detroit, about the fourth street back from the river.

Gen. Brock, at Niagara, had overreached Gen. Dearborn, another superannuated revolutionary officer, who was then in command of that frontier, and had concluded with him an armistice of thirty days. This gave time for the Queen of Charlotte to sail from Malden to the lower end of Lake Erie, and return with himself and force, which captured Detroit. Soon after Hull crossed back, Brock moved the Queen Charlotte up the river and anchored off Sandwich, covering with her guns the crossing to Detroit. While the ship was stationed there, Capt. Snelling asked Gen. Hull, in my presence, liberty to take two twelve-pound guns down to Springwells and sink her or start her from her position.

Hull said, "No, sir; you can't do it." Brock had built a battery on the Canada side, opposite Fort Shelby. As soon as it was finished, when the sun was about an hour high, he opened fire on us. During the night shells were thrown at intervals. At the dawn of day a heavy fire of bombs and solid shot was opened. I was taking a drink of water at the door of one of the officer's quarters, in company with a boy of my age, who afterward became Maj. Washington Whistler, United States army, and died in Russia of cholera many years after. At the next door to us, and about twelve feet from us, four of our officers were standing together. They were Capt. Hanks, Lieut. Sibley, Dr. Blood, and Dr. Reynolds, of Columbus. A thirty-two pound shot came from the enemy's battery, killing Hanks, Sibley, and Reynolds, and wounding Dr. Blood. They were knocked into a heap into a little narrow entry way—a narrow, confined space. Their mangled remains were a terrible sight. Capt. Hanks was lying on top, his eyes rolling in his head. Directly came along Gen. Hull, who looked in upon them and turned very pale, the tobacco juice running from the corners of his mouth on to the frills of his shirt. In a short time after the white flag was hoisted, that ball seeming to unman him.

After these men were killed I left the fort of to reconnitre. On the street in front of Maj. Whipple's house, a quarter a mile in front of Fort Shelby, I found two 32-pound guns in position. Capt. Bryson, of the artillery, had placed them there to rake the British column of 1,500 men, who had made a landing and were approaching the city by way of Judge May's long lane. They had landed at Springwells and were marching up the lane to reach a ravine which crossed it and through which they could file and be protected from any battery we had.

They were marching in close column, in full dress uniform of scarlet, in perfect order, at a steady, regular pace, without music. As they came on, followed by their Indian allies and some twenty whites dressed as Indians, my boyish fancy was struck with their appearance, as I expected every moment to see them torn to pieces by those thirty-two pounders double charged with canister and grape.

My brother Thomas stood ready at the guns. In his hand a lighted match was held up in the air. He was in the very act of firing, when Collace, the aid of Gen. Hull, came up and said, "Don't fire, the white flag is up." And that instant Capt. Hull, who had been across the river with a flag of truce, fell in with us on his return. Col. Wallace said to him, "It's all up, your father has surrendered." Capt. Hull exclaimed, "My God, is it possible?"

Capt. Hull afterward showed great bravery on the Niagara frontier, where he was killed.

During the British occupation of Detroit the following incident occurred between the British officers and myself, at the house of Mr. McIntosh, in Sandwich.

McIntosh was the agent of the N. W. Fur Company in Canada, and by brother had married a sister of his. I had been in the habit of going over to spend Sunday and going to church in Sandwich.

The church there was the only Protestant church in that part of the land at that time. There were also some nice young ladies there, the daughters of Mr. McIntosh. On the Sunday after the surrender I went over with my brother. To my surprise I found Gen. Brock with his staff officers dining with McIntosh.

The host called on all the officers present for toasts, beginning with Gen. Brock. Toward tea time the old gentleman called on me, putting his hand on my shoulder, saying in his broad Scotch: "Come, my lad, give us a toast." I had become much attached to Capt. Hull, son of the General. On the trip to Detroit he had shown me much attention on account of my family connections. So I shoved my chair back, stood up, and gave them "Capt. Hull." Whereupon Brock slapped his hand on the table, saying, "By George, that's a good one." "Well, gentlemen, we will drink to a brave man if he is an enemy." He had heard the day before of Capt. Hull in the frigate United States taking the British frigate Guerriere. The joke was I meant Capt. Hull of the army. They drank the toast to Capt. Hull of the navy. I did not disabuse their minds because I thought the taking of the Guerriere pretty good offset to our surrender at Detroit.

McIntosh slapped me on the shoulder and said, "That's right, my boy, always stick to your country."

Col. Cass, with the officers taken at Detroit, went on board the Queen Charlotte as prisoners, sailed down the lake and were landed at Niagara. Gen. Brock being aboard the same vessel, Cass asked him how he could have thought of such a thing as coming up to take Detroit with the small force he had. "Why, sir," said he, "I knew there was something the matter with your army. I could not tell whether the fault was in the army or in the general. It was a forlorn hope with me; unless I could conclude an armistice with Dearborn, bring my whole force to Detroit, and succeed in taking it, I knew we should lose upper Canada."

During the succeeding winter I lived at Sandwich and went to school. Proctor's headquarters were there.

THE DIAMOND MAN.

Such a sight may never be seen in Detroit again—twelve diamond pins artistically arranged on a piece of white cardboard—twelve glittering, glistening, sparkling, resplendent diamonds, not one of which would have looked out of place on the shirt-front of Duke Alexis.

The diamond merchant was not a young man; neither was he old and broken down. He was just about old enough to sell diamonds, and just about seedy enough to make folks believe he would discount a thousand dollars on each precious stone for the sake of obtaining cash down. He first tackled the special policeman at the Central depot. He held up the card, flashing the twelve diamonds in the officer's eyes, and sweetly said:

"You are a noble-looking man. I've visited the principal cities of Europe and Africa, and I never saw a more noble-looking officer than you are. There is only one thing lacking—you should have one of those diamonds."

"Can't afford it," said the officer, feeling to see if the lone $2 bill in his watch-pocket was safe.

"These diamonds are being sold by all first-class jewelers at $500 each," whispered the man; "but I tell you what I'll do. I took 'em on a chattel mortgage, and I'll let you have one for $25."

"Snide," replied the officer, as he examined them.

"Snide! Dear me! but I thought you were a keen, sharp fellow. Go with me to a jeweler, and if he denies that these are diamonds of the first water I'll give you the whole twelve."

The officer couldn't buy. The man came down to five dollars, and at last dropped to two, but it was Saturday, and a policeman loves chicken for his Sunday dinner. There was a great many hackmen around the depot. The stranger went out among them, selected one whose make-up betokened good taste, and drawing him away from the rest he asked:

"You wouldn't go back on a poor man, would you?"

"Never," was the earnest reply.

"Here's some diamonds I stole in Paris," whispered the stranger as he pulled out the card. "I'm hard up, and will sell one or two."

The hackman gazed on the jewels for half a minute, handed them back, and began to unbutton his overcoat.

"You have had a good bringing up," whispered the stranger, "and you can wear one of these diamonds and be consistent. There are men in De——"

"I'll hurt you if you don't go away!" growled the hackman.

"As I said, I stole these diamonds in Paris, and I've got to part with one or two to pay current expenses," continued the peddler.

"You keep right away, or I'll make a sand-bar of your nose," replied the hackman. When I want a dollar diamond I'll whittle one out of basswood!"

"A dollar diamond! Basswood! Whittle! Is there no taste in Detroit!"

The hackman rushed at the peddler, and the peddler had to leave the neighborhood of the depot. He went over to where a city expressman sat on his sleigh, waiting for a job, and such a soft, tender, pie-plantish smile as he smiled would almost make cabbage plants sprout in January.

"It isn't very often that one sees a man of your stylish look driving an express wagon," remarked the stranger.

"Take your trunk up, sir?" asked the driver; "any part of the city for fifty cents."

"Your looks go to show that you once moved in high circles," continued the stranger, and I have no doubt that you once wore one of these."

"Ah! those are beauties," said the driver, as he saw the card of diamonds.

"Guess they are beauties. One of them on your shirt front would look well."

"It would, that."

"And, owing to the way I got hold of 'em, I can sell you one cheap. I found 'em on the street in New York city, where a thief dropped 'em, and I'm hard up, and will sell you one almost at your own price."

"And I must have one," replied the driver. "Do you warrent 'em real diamonds?"

"Of course I do."

"And the pin is gold?"

"Pure gold, sir."

"And you want how much?"

"Well," whispered the stranger, as he looked all around, "if you won't blow on me I'll let you have one for seven dollars."

"Seven dollars," yelled the driver, "do you think I can find food for a horse and nine children, and pay rent, and buy clothes, and spend seven dollars for a diamond? Why, I can buy diamonds for two shillings!"

"Oh, no you can't. If I wasn't hard up I wouldn't sell one of these for less than $500."

"Haven't I driven an express wagon in Detroit for fourteen years? Don't I know the price of diamonds? Wasn't I in the army for three long years? I'll give you twenty cents and no more."

"I couldn't do that."

"Then leave me alone, you swindler you! I believe you came here to steal my horse-blanket!"

The two had a fight. It was a one-sided fight. The stranger had his head jammed into the snow and his breath shut off, and when he got up his twelve diamonds were missing. Although valued at $6,000, he did not stop to look for them, but with thumb and finger down behind his coat-collar to pull out the snow, he made haste to be somewhere else. The driver borrowed a pin to take the place of a shirt button, and feelingly remarked:

"When they runs diamonds up above twenty-five cents, they touch a tender chord in every poor man's heart."—Detroit Free Press.

At the marriage of an Alabama widower one of the servants was asked if his master would take a bridal tour. "Dunno, sah; when old missus's alive he took a paddle to her; dunno if he take a bridle to de new one or not."

A LUCKY LOCKSMITH.

From Abject Poverty to a Coronet and a Vast Fortune in the Tyrol—A Father's Death-bed Repentance.

The New York Mercury prints the following story:

One year ago Jacob Heydebrand was a poor locksmith at No. 116 Hester street. One day, while on a Fulton-ferry boat, he met an acquaintance, who asked him if he was the Jacob Heydebrand whom the Austrian Consulate was advertising for. His friend had some difficulty in persuading him to go to the Consulate and ascertain whether or not he was the person wanted. At the Consulate he was asked if he had been in 1850 at Bockenheim, near Frankfort-on-the-Main. He replied in the affirmative. "Did you board there with a family named Schoen, and did you meet at their house an Austrian officer?" Heydebrand replied again in the affirmative. "What was the name of that officer?" "It was Count Jacob Von Heydebrand. He was captain in the Ninth Regiment of Austrian Hussars," he answered. "Well, then you are the man we want." So saying the Consul handed the astonished locksmith a bundle of documents, which he said he had better have examined by some German lawyer, and he also informed him that he was instructed to pay him the sum of $2,000. The German lawyer to whom Heydebrand gave the papers was greatly surprised at their contents, which were to the following effect: Count Aloysius Von Heydebrand, a wealthy nobleman, had died in 1872, having confessed on his death-bed that the Austrian officer, Colonel Jacob Von Heydebrand, who had hitherto passed as his only son, was only an illegitimate child, his real son and heir, who had borne the same name, having been set adrift in the world after his mother had died, by his mistress, Bernhardine Hoelzel, who had borne him a son about the same time. That wicked woman had possessed such a power over him that she had wrung from him the consent to substitute her son in the place of little Jacob, whom she had taken to her relations in Darmstadt. The old count implored his illegitimate son, the Austrian colonel, to leave nothing undone in order to make amends for the great injustice that had been done to his legitimate heir, and to restore to him, if he should be able to ascertain his whereabouts, his paternal estate. It was then that the colonel remembered having met at Bockenheim, twenty-two years before, a young locksmith, whose acquaintance he had sought because the latter had borne the same name. So he applied to the Schoen family, who were still living at Bockenheim, and from that he obtained the information that the young locksmith had left that place many years ago for America. The colonel thereupon applied to the Austrian legation in Washington, and Jacob Heydebrand was extensively advertised for, until found in New York. Among the papers was an autograph from his illigitimate brother, the colonel, offering to restore his paternal estates to him, and expressing regrets at the injustice that had been done to him for so many years. Meanwhile Heydebrand had married a poor German servant-girl, who had borne to him several children. The wife was overjoyed upon learning the unexpected change in her husband's fortune, and she prevailed upon him to go with her immediately to Innspruck to enter upon the enjoyment of his new position. At Innspruck his right as the sole heir of Count Heydebrand was formally recognized, and the poor Hester-street locksmith is now one of the wealthiest magnates of the Austrian Empire. His wife, the former servant-girl, was ennobled by a special decree of the Emperor.

NARROW-GAUGE.

Advantage of the Narrow-Gauge Ove the Full-Gauge for General Railroad Purposes.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican of a recent date says: There are now twenty-three miles of narrow-gauge railroad in Massachusetts, and the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad, which cost exceptionally high, on account of tunnels and bridging, closes its first year with a dividend of 8 per cent. The Worcester and Shrewsbury Road, two and three-fourths miles, cost only $35,000, is run at an expense of $10 a day, and pays dividends. The advantages of these roads, for city purposes, are their cheapness, their adaptation to difficult grades and sharp curves, and their speed as compared with horse cars. There has not as yet been much trial of narrow-gauge as a rural railroad in New England. The most promising attempt to lay one was the scheme for piercing and connecting a series of interior valleys of the Green Mountain range, extending from the Deerfield valley in Massachusetts up through Wilmington, Sherburne, Rochester and Moretown, in Vermont, to the Vermont Central north of Montpelier. The towns were just beginning to bond themselves in aid of this project when Gov. Smith killed it, by drawing the towns in the upper valley of White River into support of a scheme for a branch railroad to join with the Vermont Central at Bethel. Whether this branch is ever built may be doubted, but the proposition served its purpose in knocking the other schme in the head.

The advantage of the narrow-guage for general railroad purpose is, that, for nearly all agricultural regions where travel and freight are merely fed to a through route, it meets the whole necessity of the case, without requiring more than half the outlay of a full-guage. Compared with the regular guage, the cost of the three-foot guage is said to range as follows: Cost of road-bed, as 36 inches to 56½; cost of superstructure, from one-half to three-fifths; the cost of equipment and operation are much less, owing in a great measure to the saving in the transportation of dead weight, in comparison with the live-weight or paying freight. Wherever there is a large freight in coal or articles in bulk, of which the transhipment would amount to more than the cost of freighting, the necessity of breaking bulk at the junction of gauges would violate economy, but this is not the case with many roads, and the extent to which it should offset the obvious advantages of narrow-guage is a matter of calculation and experiment in each case.

Narrow gauge has been tried more fully in California and Colorado than elsewhere, three-fourths of the 2,250 miles in the country probably being located within their limits. Definite statements as to their success are rather rare, but they are succeeding better than the average of railroads, and wherever the circumstances of any new project throw doubt upon its ability to pay, the narrow gauge has surely a claim to consideration. As we get over the "through business" mania, which has pervaded and distracted all our railroad enterprise, and realize that the great majority of roads must depend on their local business to make a profitable return on their first cost, we shall be more ready to moderate our ambitions, and to reduce that first cost to its lowest terms even at the risk of not furnishing the "missing link" in the grand line from Liverpool to Pekin.

WHAT MADE THE SUNSET?

Samuel Sullivan Cox and the Orb of Day.

There are a great many people who do not know Sunset Cox's real Christian name, and wonder how it was that he came to sport such a wild title as that which is given to the declining of the glorious God of Day sloping slowly over the Western hills. He was not always called Sunset. When a prattling child he was named Samuel Sullivan, and not until he became the prattling editor of the Ohio Statesman, in 1853, did he win his gorgeous epithet. He is an able man—quick-witted, lively, and provocative of criticism—and sound when he chooses to be, but it was for no brilliancy that he gained the title of Sunset. On May 19, 1853, the following magniloquent description appeared from him in the Ohio Statesman, and then he bade adieu to Samuel Sullivan, and ever since has been known as Sunset—a name which is his not without desert:

"What a stormful sunset was that of last night! How glorious the storm, and how splendid the setting of the sun! We do not remember ever to have seen the like on our round globe. The scene opened in the west, with a whole horizon full of a golden interpenetrating lustre, which colored the foliage and brightened every object in its own rich dyes. The colors grew deeper and richer, until the golden lustre was transformed into a storm cloud, full of finest lightning, which leaped in dazzling zigzags all round and over the city. The wind arose with fury, the slender shrubs and giant trees made obeisance to its majesty. Some even snapped before its force. The strawberry beds and grass plots 'turned up their whites' to see Zephyrus march by. As the rain came, and the pools formed, and the gutters hurried away, thunder roared grandly, and the fire bells caught the excitement and rung with hearty chorus. The south and east received the copious showers, and the west all at once brightened up in a long, polished belt of azure, worthy of a Sicilian sky. Presently a cloud appeared in the azure belt, in the form of a castellated city. It became more vivid, revealing strange forms of peerless fanes and alabaster temples and glories rare and grand in this mundane sphere. It reminds us of Wordsworth's splendid verse in his 'Excursion:'

> The appearance instantaneously disclosed
> Was of a mighty city, boldly say
> A wilderness of buildings, sinking far
> And self withdrawn into a wondrous depth,
> Far sinking into splendor without end!

"But the city vanished only to give place to another isle, where the most beautiful forms of foliage appeared, imaging a paradise in the distant and purified air. The sun, wearied of the elemental commotion, sank behind the green plains of the west. The 'great eye in heaven,' however, went not down without a dark brow hanging over its departing light. The rich flush of the unearthly light had passed and the rain had ceased; when the solemn church bells pealed, the laughter of children out and joyous after the storm is heard with the carol of birds, while the forked and purple weapon of the skies still darted illumination around the Starling College, trying to rival its angels and leap into its dark windows. Candles are lighted. The piano strikes up. We feel that it is good to have a home—good to be on the earth where such revelations of beauty and power may be made. And as we cannot refrain from reminding our readers of everything wonderful in our city, we have begun and ended our feeble etching of a sunset which comes so rarely that its glory should be committed to immortal type."

Anecdotes of Charlotte Cushman.

The Philadelphia Times has culled the following recollections of Charlotte Cushman from actors in Philadelphia who were professionally associated with her: Owing, perhaps, to the fact that she had no great pretensions to personal beauty, she once (in 1845), experienced great difficulty in obtaining an engagement by Maddox, a Hebrew, who managed the Princess' Theater. But she had energy and perseverance, and having been often repulsed, but never conquered, she applied again, and exclaimed: "I know I have enemies in this country; but (throwing herself on her knees, and raising her clenched hands aloft) so help me God! I'll defeat them!" She uttered this with the energy of Lady Macbeth and the prophetic spirit of Meg Merrilies. "Hel-ho!" said Maddox, "s'help me! she's got the shtuff in her!" And Maddox engaged her. So much for her pluck.

She was in the habit of saying "my dear," when addressing the ladies of the company. When I, says Mr. Pugh, brought her to act at the Chestnut, the whole company was demoralized. But she soon brought order out of chaos. At first it was difficult, but when they saw her acting at rehearsal as real as if she were before a crowded audience, they soon imitated her. I remember once when a page was unable properly to approach her throne as a messenger in "Henry VIII.," when she performed Queen Catherine, she finally descended from the throne and acted the page herself, in order to instruct him, with as much grace and dignity as in her own character. But the most amusing incident was at a rehearsal of the little comedy of "Simpson & Co.," at the Walnut, when her acting was so ludicrous and she was so brimful of fun that her support were hardly able to utter their words for laughing. One little French lady, particularly, could not look at her without bursting into a laugh, and Manager Hall, who was present, had to leave the theatre whenever he saw her acting in that part, as he could not restrain himself from laughing at the remembrance of the rehearsal. She had a fund of humor, was brilliant in conversation, and took and enjoyed a joke hugely. I remember when we were traveling on the Pennsylvania Railroad at one time, she was taking a sip of iron water through a tube, in the cars, how she enjoyed a joke of mine, that "if she kept on drinking iron water, she would certainly have an iron constitution." "And become an iron-clad," was her merry reply, and the idea tickled her for some time afterward.

Fresh—"I wonder why my mustache doesn't grow under my nose as well as at the corners of my mouth?" Soph—"Too much shade." (Cries of more.)

LINES ON LEAP YEAR.

Hark! I hear a sound of croaking;
Frogs, in one attempt at joking
Joining all their voices, say,
"This is leap-year. Jump away!

"Leap, ye various deer and stags,
Chamois, on Helvetian crags,
Leap, ye goats, upon Welsh mountains,
Leap, ye cataracts and fountains,

"Leap, all monkeys and baboons,
Squirrels, 'possum and raccoons,
Antelopes, gazelles and gnus,
Catamounts and kangaroos,

"Leopards, leap all you like fun,
Lions, tigers, every one;
Panthers, pumas and jaguars,
Leap—if but against your bars.

"Horses, carrying men to hounds,
Leap all intervening bounds,
Fences, hedges, brooks, and dykes,
Gates, and palings crowned with spikes.

"Steed, careering in the race,
O'er the flat or steeple-chase,
Leap, without a balk or check,
Lest thy rider risk his neck.

"Leap, ye salmon, and ye trout,
From the purling streams leap out;
Leap, ye grasshoppers and fleas;
Hop and skip, ye mites in cheese.

"Yah, ye toads and tritons all,
Newts and slow-worms, creep and crawl;
Slug and snail and spider too—
Leap-year's not the year for you!"

Pith and Point.

Always open to conviction—A thief.

Something that always soots—A chimney sweep.

We learn from the New Orleans Republican that kettledrum entertainments are popular in Southern society.

A blonde girl, deserted by her lover, silently pines away and dies, but a brunette lives on to make it a hell upon earth for the man who deceives her.

Lying is trying to hide in a fog—if you move about you are in danger of bumping your head against the truth; as soon as the fog blows up you are gone anyhow.

It is the wife who has the making of a man's home says an exchange. True, and now and then she makes his wig wam, too.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Pious Mrs. Spilkins has stopped praying for her husband because, as she naively remarks: "I have prayed so long without effect that I think the Lord has just as poor an opinion of that man as I have!"

An editor once received the following: "Dear Sir: I have looked carefully and patiently over your paper for six months for the death of some individual I was acquainted with, but as yet not a single soul I care anything about has dropped off. You will please to have my name erased."

"Seems to me as though all rich men were made and set up in business afore my time," was the remark of a sad-eyed man, and then, with a deep sigh, he added: "There's no use 'n tryin'. Nothin's left for a feller now-a-days 'cept to start a monument fund and be treasurer of it."

The new governess (impressively): "Oh, Tommy, when I was a little girl and made a blot on my copy-book I used to cry." Tommy (earnestly): "What! really?" New governess (still more impressively): "Yes, really cry." Tommy (still more earnestly): "What an awful little duffer you must have been." —Punch.

"Pity the poor Treasury girls, pity the poor Treasury girls," is the familiar echo of the Washington correspondence. Better pity the aged and unprotected Senators, who, far from the restraining influences of home, are exposed to all the blandishments of gay and beautiful women.—Chicago Tribune.

HABITS OF SHEEP.

Never jumps a sheep that's frightened
Over any fence whatever,
Over, wall, or fence, or timber,
But a second follows after,
And a third upon the second,
And a fourth, and fifth, and so on,
When they see the tail uplifted—
First a sheep, and then a dozen,
Till they all in quick succession,
One by one, have got clear over.

Bank catechism: "Papa, what's a safe?" "A safe, my child, is a charitable institution, in which benevolent old people and orphans lay up their money for the use of sickly burglars in paying hotel bills at Saratoga!" "What's a cashier?" "A cashier, my child, is a sign-board established by amiable bank directors to point out the way into the safe!" "What's a detective?" "He's a burglar's brother-in-law and always boards with his rich relatives."

Revivalist (to rural visitor at hippodrome)—"My friend, did you come here from curiosity?" R. V. (slightly deaf) —"No, sir, I didn't; I came here from Staten Island." Revivalist—"You don't understand me. Did you come from curiosity alone?" R. V.—"Yes, came alone; the old woman's got corns and had to stay at home." Revivalist (rather impatiently)—No, no, my good sir; what brought you here to-day?" R. V. (smiling)—"O, I see! Why—the horse-car did."—New York Advertiser.

The Living Dog and the Dead Lioness.

The death of the lioness "Old Girl," so well known to Dublin folks, was attended by a touching incident. When dying, old lions are much tormented by rats gnawing their tails. During health they rather welcome the vermin, and lie blinking at them as they frisk about their cage, nibbling the bones left from their (the lions') dinner. To prevent this annoyance, a terrier was put into "Old Girl's" cage. At first she growled, but when she saw the dog "fetch" the first rat, toss it up and catch it in a professional manner across the back, with one quick, fatal snap, she drew the brave animal to her, licked it and fondled it, and in her shaggy breast it slept every night, her great, protecting paw over it. During the six weeks of the lioness' illness the rats had rather a hard time of it. "Old Girl" had borne fifty-four cubs, and had reared fifty, bringing in by the sale of her progeny £1,300 to the Gardens. She was the handsomest lioness ever reared in the country.—London Letter.

The Philadelphia Legislature has hit upon a novel and ingenious method of curing abuses in public institutions. Having become satisfied that there has been gross cruelty practiced at the State Reform School it proposes to decline any further appropriation of funds for carrying on the school until there is a change in the officers of the Board having charge of the institution.

ZACH CHANDLER'S HEROISM.

How He Saved the Life of His Little Daughter, and what He Suffered in Consequence.

Robert Creighton, a personal friend of Secretary Chandler, of the Interior Department, gives, in a letter to the Danbury News, this interesting account of an incident in the life of the latter which explains the sanguine hue of his face:

Perhaps you would like to know something of Zach Chandler. You and I have heard and read a great deal about him, and it's time we knew something of him. He is a great big man, about six feet four, and about sixty years old. He and Horace Greeley were born within a cat-call of each other, and still no single man did as much as Zach Chandler to defeat the philosopher for the Presidency. He has a lumbering, heavy walk, of certain stride and steady gait. He carries an alternate white and red face in front and high, a cane in one hand and a bundle of paper in the other. He never walks for pleasure. He is always on business. He spits every eight minutes—always to the left, seldom straight, and with the same regularity that punctuates his every action. High and in front, like the figurehead of a great ship, he carries his great, broad head and variegated face. On a cold day his countenance beams almost like the red glare of a locomotive head light. Ninety-nine men who pass him on a frosty morning make ninety-nine remarks freighted with the information that "Old Zach has had his bitters." But, O Lord, how this world is given to lying! This red face has a history, this crooked spitting has a reason, and I will give you both.

It is now seventeen years since Zachariah Chandler, being remarkably successful in business, built for his family a new and elegant house in Detroit. When nearly finished he moved into it.

On the first evening, immediately after the gas was turned on and lit, the smell of the escaping gas aroused the family and servants, and search was made for the leak. The daughter, now Mrs. Hale, then a child, with a lighted candle, detected it in a closet off the back parlor. The father knowing the danger of an explosion, hurried to the closet with a servant, took the candle from the daughter's hands and shielded her just in time to receive the full blast himself, burning his head, neck, and hands almost to a crisp. The nose, ears, eyes, lips, and flesh of the face were so completely cooked that old Zach embraced the opportunity and murmured through his blistered lips, "Bring on your cannibals. I'm cooked." A physician was immediately sent for, who after a few moments' examination shook his head in the most unhopeful manner. With a fortitude which characterizes Mr. Chandler to this day, he submitted to the examination, and at the close demanded to know the worst. The physician, Dr. Clark, wisely endeavored to postpone the giving of his opinion until the next day, but Mr. Chandler insisting, the doctor reluctantly answered his questions.

"Well, doctor, my nose feels bad. How about it?"

"Mr. Chandler, you'll lose your nose."

"And my ears, I suppose, too?"

"I am sorry to say, yes; they are completely cooked through."

"My forehead—how about that?"

"Well, I don't see how the skin will ever grow there again."

"My lips?"

"The upper lip, Mr. Chandler, I shall have to take almost completely off."

"That's bad, for a man to lose his upper lip. Won't the under one do?"

"I am sorry to say I shall have to remove a portion of that also."

"Eh! Well, go on."

"There, that will do. I'll know better in the morning."

"You can't leave me until I know all. Go on, doctor, anything else?"

The doctor hesitated.

"Go on, doctor, my eyes?"

"Your eyes?"

"Yes. Go on."

"Mr. Chandler, you will lose the sight of both eyes."

"That's enough, doctor, you can go now."

Nearly a year passed before Zachariah Chandler was seen on the streets of Detroit again. No one could recognize him except by his voice and immense frame. His face, once round, full and muscular, was shrivelled and muscleless. His heavy jaw, indicative of firmness of purpose, was almost without a shred of flesh. And as he said himself, he was "the most thin-skinned man in the whole Northwest."

Such is the history and the reason of his red face and crooked spitting.

To Get Running Water on the Prairie.

I have lived in Linn County, Iowa, three miles southwest of Cedar Rapids, on a dry prairie farm, for eleven years. My only method of watering stock was by drawing or pumping water for them all. Last August, during a dry spell, my well in the pasture got very low, so I had to contrive some plan to furnish more water for the stock. My plan was this: To go up to the head of a slough above the pasture. The well is in the meadow, six rods above the pasture. I dug the well and ditch at the same time, so the water would run off and not obstruct the digging. The right grade or fall was easily found in this way. The well is eight feet deep, ditch twelve rods long, well one foot deeper than the upper end of the ditch, ditch dug as narrow as possible—so as to be able to work in it. The well is curbed up with first quality of pine fencing, the curbing reaching one foot above the surface, so that dirt cannot wash in. The pipe, or spouting, leading from the well down the bottom of the ditch into a large trough in the pasture, is made of the same quality of fencing, ripped up in strips, two and four inches wide, which makes a spout two inches square on the inside. Pieces of spouting sixteen feet long. The ends are mitred together in white lead. A small piece of board is imbedded in the mud under each joint.

After the spouting was all completed and the water running a steady stream—faster than one cow could drink—I filled the ditch in with team and scraper, scattered on some grass seed, and put a tight platform on the well. The work was complete in about one week, all done with my own hands. This was done in August, 1875, and I have not pumped a stroke for my stock in the pasture since, but there has been a continuous stream running in the trough all the time. The trough is about one foot below the surface of the ground. I think this is better on account of not freezing. The ground on the east side of the trough is scraped out so the stock have easy access to the water. A shallow ditch carries the water off from the lower end of the trough.

I consider this the best improvement I ever made on my farm. Doubtless others will improve on this. This is my first experiment, but the principle is a good one.—W. B. Parkyn, in Prairie Farmer.

OUR WHEAT SUPPLY.

The Quantity in Sight—With an Average Season to Come, Prices Must Come Down.

At least such is the opinion of a Canadian, who writes the following letter from Kingston, Canada, to the Chicago Times:

As much interest prevails, especially on this continent, as to the probable demand for wheat, I take the liberty of sending you a few very carefully compiled figures, showing that the quantity in sight is ample to supply every want to the end of the present cereal year, and prices in your market must decline unless the weather here and in Europe proves most unpropitious for raising cereals.

At the commencement of the present cereal year (Sept. 1, 1875), the stocks of foreign wheat and flour in Great Britain were equal to 1,100,000 quarters; imports to Feb. 23, 1876, were 7,723,830 quarters, and the out-turn of the marketable home-grown crop, taken at a minimum estimate, is 10,500,000 quarters. There is at the present date 1,066,650 quarters afloat for direct ports and ports of call in the United Kingdom. This is exclusive of steamer shipments from America and sail and steamer shipments from the Baltic ports.

Last year's consumption of wheat and flour in the United States was equivalent to 21,350,000 quarters. Suppose we compute this year's consumption at 22,000,000 quarters, which leaves say 2,000,000 quarters to be provided, and I do not think England will experience any difficulty in getting this quantity even at much lower prices than are at present offering. Odessa alone has nearly 2,000,000 quarters (most of which is of the 1874 crop) in store, which must be shipped in the spring.

Remember, France is not a competitor with England this year (as she has been for the past two or three years) for foreign supplies; on the contrary, she can easily afford to export over 2,000,000 quarters, and is only waiting until the growing crops present a favorable spring appearance to do so.

I am strongly of the opinion that nothing can prevent the downward tendency of wheat, except war or a wet and cold spring and summer. I remain, yours truly,
Mark Lane.

The Finance Problem—An Original Idea.

Some politicians, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, anxious to avoid the perplexities which finance brings into national politics, have suggested a novel method for the resumption of specie payments. They propose to leave it to the decision of the United States Supreme Court. That court has determined that the issue of the legal-tender notes was lawful in time of war to meet the exigencies of war, but this original act provided that they shall only be reissued while the exigency remains in force. It was held that the exigency was the necessity of collecting a forced loan, and that, when a legal-tender note is returned to the Treasury, in liquidation of a tax, it conveyed to the Government a title to the thing borrowed; by its issue by the Treasury it is, therefore, not money, but only evidence of a debt paid, as much as a receipted bill. If reissued, it works the collection of a new forced loan in time of peace, when no exigency exists, and it is insisted that such reissue is unlawful upon the very reasoning by which the court justified the original issue in time of war. It is not improbable that the question may be brought before the Supreme Court very soon, by the refusal of citizens to receive in payment of a debt legal-tender notes recently issued from the Treasury, and bearing a date which is itself sufficient evidence that they were issued since the exigency for which they were allowed has ceased.

Washingtoniana.

The following description of Washington's personal appearance, written in 1778, says an English newspaper, "by a native of America," contains some points not generally known:

"Gen. Washington is now in the 47th year of his age. He is a tall, well-made man, rather large, and has a tolerably genteel address. His features are manly and bold; his eyes of a bluish cast and lively; his hair a deep brown; his face rather long, and marked with the small-pox; his complexion sunburnt and without much color, and his countenance sensible, composed and thoughtful. There is a remarkable air of dignity about him, with a striking degree of gracefulness; he has an excellent understanding, without much quickness; is strictly just, vigilant and generous; an affectionate husband, a faithful friend, a father to the deserving soldier, a gentleman in his manners, in temper rather reserved; a total stranger to religious prejudices which have so often excited Christians of one denomination to cut the throats of those of another, in his morals irreproachable; he was never known to exceed the bounds of the most rigid temperance."

"A farmer" propounds to us the following problem: "A man borrows $100 for five year's with interest at 10 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, but pays beside the interest a bonus of $8 for the money. To what rate of interest does this actually amount?" He receives $92 and pays $150, which leaves $58 to pay for the use of $92 for five years, which is at the rate of $11.60 for that sum for one year, and $11.60 is nearly 12.7 per cent. of $92. Our answer, therefore, is that he pays a fraction less than 12.7 per cent. interest. The question of the time of the payment of the interest or the bonus has, in our judgment, nothing to do with determining the rate.—Sioux City (Iowa) Journal.

EXPORTING COTTON GOODS.

Unexpected Success of the Fall River Movement—A Steady Demand from England for Goods.

The Fall River correspondent of the Boston Journal writes that the beneficial results accruing from the shipment of cotton goods to England are becoming every day more apparent, and the outlook is decidedly hopeful and encouraging. The success of Mr. George F. Hathaway's visit to England is shown in the great activity and busy bustle among the Fall River mills. About 15,000 pieces of print cloths—one-eighth of the entire production of the city—are now exported each week, and for these goods better net prices are received abroad than at home. It has been said that the Fall River manufacturers sought by this movement simply to "tide over" an unusually depressed period, and the inference has been drawn that with the return of a brisk home demand they would gladly throw the goods back again into the home channels. But the developments that have arisen from the endeavor have given to the project a degree of certainty and of permanence that the manufacturer themselves did not anticipate. They expected to sell mainly the 26-inch goods, which are two inches narrower than the American make, and to manufacture which would involve very little change in their machinery. They are now selling these goods and receiving as high a price as the 28-inch goods bring in this country, while the cost of making is much less.

The wider styles of print cloths so much in vogue in England, the 32, 34 and 36-inch goods, they did not expect to sell. But the English buyers offered such desirable prices for these goods that the manufacturers decided to make such changes in their machinery as would furnish a stated supply. But larger orders have been received and are yet coming forward, and several corporations are now placing their mills largely on this kind of cloth. Manufacturers elsewhere, moreover, are consulting with spinners respecting the preparation of their mills for similar goods, and in neighboring States arrangements to make a like description of cloth for exportation have been or are being made. These things, therefore, indicate that the manufacturers feel assured that the movement has in it elements of permanence and stability, and they are now taking means to form an association and to agree in any event to ship abroad a certain portion of their production. The superiority of these goods, as compared with those of English manufacture, is readily apparent. They are made of better cotton, are firmer, and of much handsomer texture. The goods on the other side are so filled with sizing that when they come to be printed the shrinkage is enormous, averaging, it is said, fully one-fifth, while the shrinkage of the American cloths is comparatively trifling, averaging at the outside not over 5 per cent. In fact, so high an opinion have the English manufacturers of the cottons made on this side that they not unfrequently place upon their foreign shipments the American trade mark in order to dispose of them to better advantage.

We trust the time will come when every one will use Dobbins' Electric Soap, (made by Cragin & Co., Philadelphia.) Its sale is daily increasing, as is always the case with articles of merit. Try it.

Twelve men have been killed at the Centennial buildings in three months.

Cheapest, best family paper in the world—Chicago Ledger. See advertisement.

Where Does It All Come From?

Pints and quarts of filthy Catarrhal discharges. Where does it all come from? The mucous membrane which lines the chambers of the nose, and its little glands, are diseased, so that they draw from the blood its liquid, and exposure to the air changes it into corruption. This life-liquid is needed to build up the system, but it is extracted, and the system is weakened by the loss. To cure, gain flesh and strength by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which also acts directly upon these glands, correcting them, and apply Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, the only method of reaching the upper cavities, where the discharge accumulates and comes from. The instrument and both medicines sold by druggists and dealers in medicines.

"Vegetine," says a Boston physician, "has no equal as a blood purifier. Hearing of its many wonderful cures, after all other remedies had failed, I visited the laboratory and convinced myself of its genuine merit. It is prepared from barks, roots and herbs, each of which is highly effective, and they are compounded in such a manner as to produce astonishing results."

Chapped hands, face, pimples, ringworm, salt rheum, and other cutaneous affections cured, and rough skin made soft and smooth, by using Juniper Tar Soap. Be careful to get only that made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, as there are many imitations made with common tar, all of which are worthless.

Chicago Ledger—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

Dr. Schenck's Standard Remedies.—The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic, and Schenck's Mandrake Pills, and, if taken before the lungs are destroyed, a speedy cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Pulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative; the alkali of which it is composed mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday.

Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES — Ragged stockings and protruding toes are not seen on the feet where SILVER TIPS are worn. Parents remember this, they last twice as long. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

Something for everybody. Cable Screw Wire — CABLE SCREW WIRE — Boots and Shoes, elegant, durable, easy, and keep the feet dry. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

20 FANCY CARDS, 7 Styles, with name, 10c. Address J. B. Husted, Nassau, Rens. Co., N. Y.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. Stinson & Co., Portland, Me.

Chicago Business Directory.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.
CHICAGO SCRAPER & DITCHER CO., 96 LaSalle.
AUCTION AND SALE ROOMS OF HORSES, CARRIAGES AND HARNESS.
WESTON & CO.'S, 198 and 196 E. Washington, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at 10 a. m.
AUCTION MART FOR THE SALE OF HORSES, HARNESS AND VEHICLES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT AUCTION AND PRIVATE SALE.
NORTHWESTERN TATTERSALLS, 1 to 9 Monroe.
AWNINGS, TENTS, TWINES AND CORDAGE.
GILBERT, HUBBARD & CO., 205 to 208 South Water.
BAKING POWDER AND EXTRACTS.
DR. PRICE'S, Steele & Price M'f'rs, 201 & 203 S. Water, Chicago, 204 N. 2d, St. Louis, 144 Main, Cincinnati.
BANNERS AND GLASS SHOW-CASE WRITERS.
MUNN & DRUM, 219 W. Madison.
BOOTS AND SHOES—AUCTION AND COMMISSION.
JAS. P. McNAMARA & CO., 87 E. Washington.
COWING'S DRIVE AND WELL PUMPS, &c.
DOWNER & WOOLNER, 98 and 100 Franklin.
CROCKERY, CHINA AND GLASSWARE.
ABRAM FRENCH & CO., 101 and 103 Wabash-av.
ENGRAVER, SEALS, PRESSES, STEEL AND BRASS STAMPS, STENCIL TOOLS AND STOCK.
C. H. HANSON, 38 South Clark.
ENGRAVERS.
S. D. CHILDS, JR., & CO., 115 Franklin.
ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER & MANFR. OF STENCILS.
L. BOCHE, 171 E. Randolph.
ENGRAVERS ON WOOD, Etc.
SEARS BROS. & CO., S.W. cor. Clark and Washington.
FLOWERS AND STRAW GOODS—SPECIALTY.
DALY, HENROTIN & CO., 144 and 146 Wabash-av.
FURNITURE.
A. L. HALE & BRO., 200, 202, 204 and 206 Randolph.
GRASS AND FIELD SEEDS.
ALBERT DICKINSON, 117 and 119 Kinzie.
GUNS—CUTLERY MANUFACTURERS.
W. E. SPENCER & CO., 54 State. Send for price-list.
HARDWARE AND CUTLERY—WHOLESALE.
EDWIN HUNT & SONS, 58 and 60 Lake.
HEAVY HARDWARE—WHOLESALE.
KIMBARK BROS. & CO., 80 to 84 Michigan-av.
HOTELS.
WOOD'S HOTEL, 116 & 118 Fifth-av. Enoch Wood, prop., late proprietor of Wood's Hotel, State-st.
BREVOORT HOUSE, 143 and 145 E. Madison. On the European plan. H. M. Thompson, proprietor.
METROPOLITAN HOTEL—$2.50 per day. Cor. State & Wash'n, site of old St. James, opp. Field, Leiter & Co.
OGDEN HOUSE—First-class in every particular. Barber & Forrey, prop're. Cor. Washington and Franklin.
LUMBER.
THE PESHTIGO CO.—Green Bay Lumber. North Pier. W. E. Strong, Pres't; G. C. Hempstead, Sec'y.
MNFRS. OF WARWICKSHIRE AND COLUMBIA SAUCES, IMPORTED CATSUPS, FLAVORING EXTRACTS.
LE VIN & CO., 165 E. Kinzie. Send for price-list.
REAL ESTATE.
JAS. B. GOODMAN & CO., 73 Dearborn.
SAW MANUFACTURERS.
HENRY DISSTON & SON, N.W. cor. Randolph & Market
SEWING MACHINE COMPANIES.
HOME S. M. CO., Johnson, Clark & Co., 141 State.
WATCHES, JEWELRY AND JEWELERS' SUPPLIES.
COGSWELL, WEBER & CO., 105 and 107 State.
WILSON'S PATENT ADJUSTABLE CHAIR FOR INVALIDS, IRON FOLDING BEDSTEADS, ETC.
M. KLEIN, 227 South Dearborn. Send for circular.

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. COULTER & CO., Chicago.

20 FANCY MIXED CARDS, with Name, 10 cents, postpaid. L. JONES & CO., Nassau, N.Y.

$10 to $25 per day Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. Bufford's Sons, Boston, Mass.

Housekeepers rejoice. AGENTS make money with our 5 new articles. Capewell & Co., Cheshire, Ct.

5 Packages Farm Seeds, circulars of Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Sporting Dogs, etc., sent free for 2 stamps. N. P. Boyer, Parkesburg, Pa.

WANTED—Agents—$100 per month and expenses with $11.25 capital. Business pleasant and respectable. B. Bickwell & Co., 174 Elm st., Cincinnati.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Washington St., Boston.

RICH Books, Kurious Goods, Sporting Articles, etc. 64-page Book for two 3c. stamps. BALDWIN & CO., 131 Nassau St., N. Y.

DIVORCES legally and quietly obtained for incompatibility, &c.; residence unnecessary; fee after decree. A. GOODRICH, P. O. Box 1037, Chicago.

$350 A Month.—Agents wanted. 36 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich

Stock Growers Colony, New Mexico. Great inducements offered to Colonists. Call or send for Circular. 130 Dearborn St., Chicago.

WE PAY $85 A Month and traveling expenses to Sell our Goods TO DEALERS in every county in the U. S. No Peddling. Cincinnati Novelty Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT New Buffalo Bill Revolver. Sent with 100 Cartridges for $3. Full Nickel Plate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Illustrated Catalogue Free. Address WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill. $3.00

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents. Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

A Miniature Oil Painting on Canvas which will be your own Likeness, free, with The Home Weekly, sent 3 months on trial for 25 cts. Money to Agents. L. T. LUTHER, Mill Village, Erie Co., Pa.

WANTED Men to sell our goods to DEALERS. No peddling from house to house. $80 a month, and traveling expenses paid. MONITOR MANUF'G CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ROSES 700 SUPERB VARIETIES ROSES. Half a Million Greenhouse Plants. Mailing Plants a Specialty. Illustrated Catalogue Free. E. Y. TEAS & CO. Richmond Ind.

BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S New Book outsells everything. Don't worry about hard times. Sell this book and see how easy they are. Send for circulars to American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

MIND READING, PSYCHOMANCY, FASCINATION, Soul Charming, Mesmerism and Lovers' Guide, showing how either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose instantly. 400 pages. By mail 50 cts. Hunt & Co., 139 S. 7th St., Phila.

LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 Transparent Visiting Cards, for 25 Cents. Each card contains a scene which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. Novelty Printing Co., Ashland, Mass.

BOOK AGENTS. MOODY & SANKEY.—The only original, authentic and complete record of these men and their works. Beware of imitations. Send for Circulars. American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

5,000 AGENTS WANTED to sell the Oriental Stationery and Jewelry Package, the largest, most complete and best-selling Package in the World. Samples with complete SETS of GOLD plated sleeve buttons, shirt studs and collar button. By mail 25 cents. Catalogue of Chromos and Novelties sent free. ORIENTAL NOVELTY CO., 111 Chambers St., N. Y.

WANTED—A few intelligent Ladies and Gentlemen to solicit orders for Capt. Glazier's new work "Battles for the Union." Just the book for Centennial times. All expenses advanced. References required. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO., Hartford, Conn.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY. AGENTS make $100 weekly by canvassing for it; 128 pages, 90 illustrations, $3.00 yearly, with elegant chromo. Send 20 cents for copy and terms to FRANK LESLIE, New York.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to learn Telegraphy. Situations furnished. Steady promotion guaranteed. We supply all operators hired by Metropolitan and American District Telegraph Cos., Chicago. Address, with stamp, N. W. TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE, Janesville, Wis.

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS

My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. William E. Bowditch, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

A secret mode of Tuning Organs, certain rapid. Mighty Original Truths for every musician and family. Read of Handel, Purcell, Scarlatti, Bach, and others. [illegible] All Organ and Piano Music [illegible] voice astray. [illegible] Read the origin of half notes, [illegible] keyboard. Read our triumphant victory, [illegible] perfect music scale. No more tempering Organs and Pianos; perfect tuning. [illegible] no new characters. Retain or reject all [illegible] sharps and flats; [illegible] J. T. [illegible] Chicago, Or call at [illegible] Chicago, Ill.

Massillon Harvester. Buy the Best. TWO men bind Ten Acres daily. Binders can SIT or STAND. Address, EDWIN BAYLISS, Massillon, O.

AGENTS! 150 NEW BOOKS are most completely represented in our GRAND COMBINATION PROSPECTUS, by sample pages, bindings, illustrations, etc. All are picked, popular works on every subject. Why risk all on one doubtful book, when you can make success sure by offering customers choice of 150? Our Agents have the inside track, and are delighted with their quick sales. Fail not to send for particulars at once to Valley Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL R. R. MAP OF THE U. S. NEW PICTORIAL CHARTS, Etc., for the TIMES. WIDE-AWAKE MEN are making large profits selling our fresh works. Catalogues and Terms free. Write to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., New York, or 174 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

HO! For IOWA!! TO FARMERS. Better Lands at Cheaper Prices cannot be had in the world, than from the Iowa R. R. Land Co. Soil and Climate strictly first-class. Pure Water abundant. Half Fare Tickets from Chicago out and back with Free Fare to Purchasers. A Descriptive Pamphlet with Maps of Over One Million Acres for sale at $5 and $6 on R. R. Terms sent free. Address Iowa R. R. Land Company, 92 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., or Cedar Rapids Iowa. JOHN B. CALHOUN, Land Commissioner.

How to buy him. How to sell him. How to train him. How to tell a trotter. A NEW BOOK of great interest to Horsemen. Sent by mail for 50 cents. Address J. P. VINCENT, Box 58, Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza Young BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19, selling at the rate of 1,000 a week. Full expose of the horrible system of Polygamy. Illustrated Circulars, with complete information free to all. Address nearest office of Dustin, Gilman & Co., Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O.

DEATH is delayed and life prolonged by using R. & T.'s Tonic Elixir and Liquid Extract of Beef. Physicians report many cures in Indigestion, Biliousness, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Piles, Lung, Liver, Bladder, Kidney and Blood diseases. Female Physicians say it never fails in FEMALE DISEASES and weaknesses, is a "God-send to females." Homeopathic and Old School Physicians report: "It never fails, the very medicine for children and females." The only Liquid Extract of Beef with Tonics and Cathartics we will prescribe.—Price $1 per bottle. RICHARDSON & TULLIDGE, CINCINNATI, O.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL HISTORY OF THE U. S.

The great interest in the thrilling history of our country makes this the fastest-selling book ever published. It contains a full account of the approaching grand Centennial Exhibition.

CAUTION.—Old, Incomplete and Unreliable works are being circulated; see that the book you buy contains 443 Fine Engravings and 925 Pages.

Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

"AN ACTIVE AGENT."

"97 subscriptions in 15 hours have been obtained in this city for THE HOUSEKEEPER by the Agent, Mr. Charles R. Potter. For $2—the subscription price—he delivers a large Premium Box of family necessities, valued at $4.06, and the best magazine published, for one year, free of postage. $4.06 for $2. No such offer was ever made before."—[From the Middletown (Conn.) Daily Constitution of Feb. 28, 1876.]

The commission on above amounted to $38.80 net, or over $2.50 per hour.

AGENTS, male or female, can make more money getting subscribers for THE HOUSEKEEPER than at anything else. Send 10 cents (half-price) for sample copy of magazine and full particulars, to CHAS. F. WINGATE & CO. (limited), Publishers, 60 Duane St., N. Y.

Oldest, Largest, Cheapest, Best.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE.

The only Illustrated Family & Literary Paper in Phila. Larger than the N. Y. Ledger.

Only $2.00 a Year.

SPECIAL CLUB RATES:
4 copies, one year.....$ 7.00 | 10 copies, one year...$15.
6 " " " .....10.00 | 20 " " " ...25 00

An extra copy FREE to getter-up of club of ten or twenty. Sample copy and circulars FREE. AGENTS Wanted. Gold Premiums. All subscriptions can begin with a new story. Address THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, 726 Sansom Street, Phila.

EGGLESTON'S
SENSIBLE TRUSS

THIS NEW ELASTIC TRUSS

Has a Pad differing from all others. Its action is wonderful. Being cup-shape, with Self-Adjusting Ball in center, it adapts itself to all positions of the body, while the ball within the cup presses back the intestines just as a person would with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is perfectly easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Send for Circular and Truss to EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Marshall, Mich.

THE MILK OF 7,000,000 COWS
ANNUALLY CONSUMED

in the manufacture of Butter and Cheese in the United States. The Best Cheese and Butter Making Apparatus is made by H. H. ROE & CO., Send for Circular. Madison Lake Co., O.

Smith Organ Co., BOSTON, MASS.

These Standard Instruments

Sold by Music Dealers Everywhere

AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOWN.

Sold throughout the United States on the INSTALLMENT PLAN! That is, on a System of Monthly Payments.

Purchasers should ask for the Smith American Organ Catalogue and full particulars on application.

CHICAGO LEDGER FOR $1.00, POSTPAID.

In order that everybody may be enabled to take this great Story and Family Newspaper, we have determined to offer it till Jan., 1877, for $1.00, postpaid. It is the LARGEST, HANDSOMEST, BEST, and most widely circulated Newspaper in the West. Send money addressed THE LEDGER, Chicago Ill.

The Wonders of Modern Chemistry. Sarsaparillian and Its Associates.

Changes as Seen and Felt as They Daily Occur after Using a Few Doses of

DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent, THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and hardness of flesh and muscles, etc.

2. Strength increases, appetite improves, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awaken fresh and vigorous.

3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples; the skin looks clear and healthy, the urine changed from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding, little or no sediment, no pain or weakness.

4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands, and functional harmony restored to the several organs.

5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to a clear, lively and healthy color.

6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs, air cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminishing of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system; stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles, legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation; hard breathing and paroxysms of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.

7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken, new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity, disease will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin diseases gradually disappear.

8. In cases where the system has been salivated, and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, (the principal constituent in the advertised Sarsaparillas, associated in some cases with Hyd. of Potassa) have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing caries of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.

9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous or Syphilitic diseases, however slow may be the cure, "feel better," and find their general health improving, their flesh and weight increasing, or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better," every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength and flesh.

The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in Consumption of the Lungs and Tuberculous Phthisis, Scrofula, Syphiloid Diseases, Wasting, Degeneration, and Ulceration of the Kidneys, Diabetes, Stoppage of Water (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using those instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder, and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in Chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.

In tumors, nodes, hard lumps and syphiloid ulcers; in dropsy and venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercles of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets; in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture, wherein this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.

In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.

Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $10 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER,
INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS,
CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS,
SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING,
PALPITATION OF THE HEART,
HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA,
CATARRH, INFLUENZA,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, MUMPS,
NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM,
COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the READY RELIEF to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will, in a few moments, cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water.

IT IS BETTER THAN FRENCH BRANDY OR BITTERS AS A STIMULANT.

Price 50 Cents. Sold by Druggists.

DR. RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above named disorders. Price 25 Cents per Box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

DO YOUR OWN PRINTING. NOVELTY PRINTING PRESS. For Professional and Amateur Printers, Schools, Societies, Manufacturers, Merchants, and others. It is the BEST ever invented. 13,000 in use. Ten styles. Prices from $5.00 to $150.00. BENJ. O. WOODS & CO. Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of Printing Material, Send stamp for Catalogue.) 49 Federal St. Boston.

G. N. U. No. 16

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

PENSIONS.

TO WHOM PENSIONS ARE PAID.

EVERY SOLDIER Disabled in the service of the United States, either by accident or otherwise, gets a pension. The loss of a finger, or the loss of the use of a finger, the loss of an eye, the loss of a toe, or any gun-shot wound, or other injury, gives a pension.

RUPTURE. A rupture, if but slight, will give a pension, or ruptured veins, or disease of the lungs. If you are entitled to a pension, don't delay it. Let me file your case while there is yet time.

BOUNTY. Full bounty paid to all soldiers discharged on account of wounds, rupture, or any injury, the same as if he served his full time. Send two stamps for a circular of Pension and Bounty acts. A BOOK of the Pension, Bounty and Land Warrant acts sent for 20 cents.

P. H. FITZGERALD, Indianapolis, Ind.,
Authorized U. S. Claim Agency for Western Soldiers.

☞ Mark on all letters P. O. Box 54.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

Having purchased the Furniture Store formerly occupied by Mr WM. LONG, I will keep a full assortment of everything in the line of

FurniturE

I buy for cash and can therefore sell at LOWER RATES than those who buy on time.

FINE BED ROOM SETS

AND PARLOR SETS.

urnished customers at prices that cannot fail to suit. First-class workman employed to manufacture to order. I especially desire everybody to call and price my goods before buying elsewhere.
Rooms on Main-st., opposite Shull's new brick.

A. C. Dawson

Lumber,

Lath, Shingles, Doors, Sash, Lime, &c

than ever before brought to Auburn. We are selling at the Lowest Bottom Prices!

and Defy Competition.

Lumber by the WAGON or CAR load

ALWAYS ON HAND!

☞YARD ON SOUTH JACKSON STREET.

F. N. WRIGHT & CO.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR ALL KIDS OF

FAMLY GROCERIES!

The undersigned offers at the very lowest figures the following line of goods.

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Tobaccos, Flour, Canned Fruit, and all Kinds of Groceries found in a first-class establishment. Teas, from 40c to $1.00 per pound. Sugars from 6 to 12c best Rio Coffee 25c Fine Cut Tobacco 55c to $1.00 per pound

Also in connection with the above we have the largest and best assortment of

QUEENS WARE,

GLASS WARE.

STONE WARE

ever offered for sale in this county.

Highest CASH price paid for all kinds of country produce. Competent clerks to wait upon German customers. At Cool's old stand.

ROBERT ZACHER.

PIONEER
HARDWARE STORE

JNO. L. DAVIS, Pro.

This s the leading hardware store in our county, and keeps the est assortment of all kinds of

HARDWARE,

TINWARE, ETC.

This house is also the popular place for all kinds of the latest style

COOK AND PARLOR STOVES!

Store on Main Street, opposite Court House, Auburn. Special inducements offered in Sash and Doors. Call for prices.

Grand Display

The Largest, Finest and Cheapest Stock of

Wall and Window Paper!

SHADES AND FIXTURERS.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Miscellaneous and Blank Books,
Bibles,
Pocket Books,
Albums,
Bill Books,
Testaments,
Wallets,
Pass Books
Memorandas,
PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONARY,

Pictures, Picture-cord and Tassel,
Box Papers in great variety,
School Supplies of all kinds,
—AT—
C. P. HOUSER'S,

Main Street, opposite Ford's Block, AUBURN, IND.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES AT
ABRICHT'S
In American & Swiss Watches,

Lady Elgin
Elgin Ill

TOYS

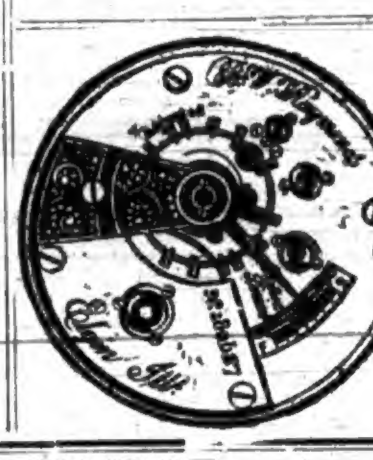
FANCY GOODS,

and everything kept in a first class jewelry establishm'nt It will pay you to call and be convinced that, I am selling goods cheaper than any firm in Northern Indiana.

J. Abright.

Repairing fine Watches a Specialty

Ladies Gold Watches,
Jewelry,
Clocks, Silver Ware!
GOLD PENS,
Ladies GOLD Chains,
Gents Chains,
Gold and Silver Rings,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,



THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has an exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his potrons the benefit of the same.

RAIL ROADS.

Indianapolis Peru & Chicago R. R.

TIME TABLE No. 12—Dec. 20, 1874.

Northward

Stations.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Indianapolis	6 30am	12 20p	3 55pm	12 20
Noblesville	7 44	12 29	5 10	1 30
Tipton	8 20	1 18	5 57	2 15
Miami	9 37	1 50	6 38	2 55
Kokomo	9 11	2 26	7 01
Peru	10 06	3 15	7 40

Southward

Stations.	No 2	No. 4	No. 6
Indianapolis	6 00p	4 15a	9 55a
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Tipton	3 56	2 20	7 44
Kokomo	3 13	1 50	7 02
Miami	2 40	1 16	6 35
Peru	2 10	12 35	6 00

E. C. MURPHY, Supt. Mich. Div.,
E. M. HAWLEY, Master of Tran.,
C. B. ROBINSON, General Sup't.,
F. P. WADE, Gen. Ticket Agt.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

IN EFFECT JUNE, 1875.

GOING WEST.

STATIONS:	Exp.	Fst. Line	Fast E
Chicago Junction	7 30am	7 50pm	5 15pm
Tiffin	8 59	8 58	6 39
Fostoria	9 30	9 25	7 15
Deshler	10 33	10 32	8 33
Defiance	11 32	11 33	9 50
Auburn	1 00pm	1 03am	11 50
Auburn Junction	1 03	1 07	11 55
Garrett	1 10	1 15	12 05am
Avilla	1 39	1 34	......
Milford Junction	2 47	2 44	......
Walkertown Junction	4 08	4 09	......
Chicago	7 30	7 30	......

GOING EAST.

Chicago	8 25 pm	......	8 40am
Walkertown Junction	12 13am		12 17pm
Milford Junction	1 1	......	6 39
Avilla	3 01	......	3 04
Garrett	3 15	6 25am	3 20
Auburn Junction	3 33	6 34	3 48
Auburn	3 36	6 40	3 52
Defiance	5 10	8 43	5 30
Deshler	6 12	10 00	6 34
Fostoria	7 16	11 16	7 40
Tiffin	7 46	11 51	8 11
Chicago Junction	8 23	1 00pm	9 12

L. COLE, Gen. Tick. Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Nov 21, 1875.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	2 00 pm	3 45a.m	pm
Ossian	2 55
Bluffton	3 25	5 06	7 00
Keystone	3 54
Montpelier	4 02	5 43	7 23
Hartford	4,28pm	6 05	7 50
Eaton	4 50	6 25	8 12
Muncie	5 20	6 55	8 45
McCowan's	5 37
New Castle	6 15
Cam. City	6 52
Bessons	7 11
Connersville	7 25
Indianapolis	7 40	9 30	11 15
Louisville		pm
Cincinnati	10 30	am

Going North.

Cincinnati	7 30am
Louisville			pm
Indianapolis		7 35pm	4 45am
Connersville	10 45
Bessons	11 00
Cam City	11 38
New Castle	11 55
McCowans	12 30pm
Muncie	12 42	10 00	7 15am
Eaton	1 06	11 20	7 51
Hartford	1 27	10 48	8 15
Montpelier	1 51	11 10	8 43
Keystone	2 00		8 55
Bluffton	2 30	11 48am	9 32
Ossian	2 55		10 05
Ft. Wayne	3 45	1 15	11 00

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Supt.
ROBT. BILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Aug. 15,—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.		Ind. Exp.
Cincinnati
Louisville	7 00pm			40
Indianapolis	4 45am			55
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 3		45
Auburn	11 33	6 1		41
Waterloo	11 50	6 4		01
Summit				50
Pleasant Lake				56
Ar Angola	12 45pm	8 00	5.50	10
Reading	1 45		7 00	30
Bankers	2 00		7 20	6 45
Jonesville	2 20		7 52	10 15
Jackson	3 3		9 35	6 00
Detroit	6 15p m		12 30	8 37
Grand Rapids	10 16			11 37
Lansing	5 45
Saginaw	9 08
Bay City

Going South.

Bay City
Saginaw	7 40 am		4 10p
Lansing	11 07		7 28
Grand Rapids	6 00		11 3 a
Detroit	10 30		5 40p
Jackson Dep	1 20 p m		9 40
Jonesville	2 20		11 00
Bankers	2 36		11 20
Reading	2 47		11 35
Ar Angola	3 40	6 15	12 41
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	4 20	7 32	1 32
Auburn Auburn Junction	4 36	8 00	1 52
Fort Arrive		9 30	2 45
Indianapolis	11 15	1 10p	9 30
Louisville	5 45 am	11 10
Cincinnati		10 30

G. LOOMIS, Pres't
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Nov. 21st, 1875.

Going East.				Going West.
No. 6 Fre't	No. 4 Exprs	No 2	STATIONS	No 1	No. 3	No. 7 L. F.
6.00p	4.00p	10 30	lv Logans't ar	11.00	6.50p	1.00n
6.38	4.13	10.45	Adamsboro.	10.45	6.38	12.25
7.04	4.25	10.57	Hoover's	10.33	6.27	12.00
7.20	4.43	11.05	Mexico	10.25	6.19	11.45
7.40	4.52	11.15	Denver.	10.14	6.10	11.25
7.54	4.50	11.36	Chili	10.07	5.58	1.12
8.22	5.12	11.48	Roann	9.54	5.40	10.42
8.55	5.26	12.04	Laketon	9.40	5.26	10.10
9.15	5.53	12.12	N. Manchest'r	9.30	5.15	19.50
9.38	5.42p	12.20	Lib. Mills	9.21	5.08	9.33
9.56	5.52	12.30	Collamer	9.19	4.57	9.14
10.04	5.56	12.35	S. Whitley	9.08	4.53	9.05
10.28	6.08	12.47	Taylor's	8.54	4.41	8.42
10.50	6.29	1.00	Columbia city	8.42	4.30	8.20
11.20	6.34	1.13	Collin's	8.17	4.16	7.50
11.40	6.46	1.26	Churubusco	8.15	4.01	7.31
12.00	6.55	1.36	Potter's	8.05	3.54	7.16
12.16			G.R. Crossing
12.30	7.11	1.51	Cedar Creek	7.50	3.39	6.45
12.53	7.22	2.00	Aub. Juncti'n	7.34	3.28	6.22
1.00	7.26	p.04	Auburn	7.28	3.23	6.15
1.30	7.36	2.17	Moorenville	7.15	3.10	5.48
2.00	7.50	22.30	ar. Butler lv	7.00a	3.00p	5.15

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Raw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.
A. B. J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket. h A
SCUZRA BD, Gen. Supt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R
Air Line Division

On and after Sunday, Nov. 21, 1875 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:42 p.m.	2:35 a.m.	7:35 p
Waterloo	3:00 "	2:51 "	8:14 "
Sedan	3,07	3,01	8:28 "
Corunna	3,13	3,06	8:40 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.10 pm	11.35 am	9:35 a m
Sedan	2.20	11.40	6:40 "
Waterloo	2:37 "	11:50 "	6:52 "
Butler	2:47 "	12:10 a m	7:15 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt
J. B. CURTIS, Division Su

Pittsburg, Ft. W. & C. R. R

Condensed time card Dec. 12, 1875.

GOING WEST.

	No 1 Fast ex.	No 5 Mail.	No. 7 Pac. ex.	No. 3 Night
Pittsburgh	2 00 a.m	5 50 pm	8 00a.m	3 00p.
Rochester	3 11 "	....	9 48 "	4 10 "
Alliance	5 25 "	9 35 pm	12 50p.m	7 00 "
Orrville	7 12"		2 50 "	8 50 "
Mansfield	9 25"		5 14 "	10 50 "
Crestl'e ar.	10 00 "	11 40p.m	5 50 "	11 20 "
" lv.	10 20 "	4 30am	6 25 p.m	11 50 "
Forest	11 40 "	6 25	8 13 "	1 07 am
Lima	12 40 p.m	7 55	9 35 "	2 16 "
Ft. Wayne	3 00 "	10 45 "	12 01 a.m	4 10 "
Plymouth	5 06 "	1 48 pm	2 55a.m	6 08 "
Chicago	8 20 "	5 35 "	6 30 "	9 50 "

GOING EAST.

	No. 4 Night ex	No. 2 Fast ex.	No. 6 Pac. ex.	No. 8 Mail
Chicago	10 20p.m	9 20a.m	5 35 p.m	5 25am
Plymouth	1 56a.m	12 00 p.m	9 05 "	9 25 "
Ft. Wayne	4 55 "	2 40 "	11 45 "	12 20p.m
Lima	7 08 "	4 35 "	2 10 a.m	2 48
Forest	8 20 "	5 37 "	3 10 "	4 06
Crestl'e ar.	10 20 "	7 00 "	4 40 "	5 45
" lv.	10 40a.m	7 20 "	4 50 "	6 00a.
Mansfield	11 11	7 50 "	5 20 "	6 40 "
Orrville	1 15p.m	9 80 "	7 12 "	9 10 "
Alliance	3 15 "	11 25 "	9 00 "	11 20 "
Rochester	5 45 "	1 25a.m	11 12 "	2 07pm
Chicago	6 55 "	2 30 "	12 15p.m	3

Through Mail, (Limited,) leaves Pittsburg daily at 5.50 p.m., stopping only at Alliance, 8.15 p.m Crestline, 11.55 p.m. Fort Wayne 2.50 a. m., arrives at Chicago at 6.55 a. m.

F. R. MYERS,
General Pass. and Ticket Agent

CHICAGO, ROCKISLAND
AND
Pacific Railroad.

The Direct Route for
JOLLIET, MORRIS, LA SALLE, PERU, HENRY, LACON, PEORI. GENESEO, MOLINE, ROCK ISLAND, DAVENPORT MUSCATINE, WASHINGTON IOWA CITY, GRINNELL, NEWTON, DES MOINES,

Council Bluffs and Omaha

WITHOUT CHANGE OF CARS,

Where it joins with the Union Pacific Railroad for Denver, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, San Francisco and

All Points West of the Pacific Coast.

Trains leave daily as follows:

Omaha, Leavenworth & Atchison Express, [Sundays excepted]	10 00 a.m.
Peru Accommodation [Sat ex]	5 00 p.m.
Omaha Express [Sun-ex]	10 00 p.m.

KANSAS LINE.

The Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co., have now opened their Southwestern Division between Leavenworth and Chicago, connecting at Leavenworth with Kansas Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads and at Atchison with Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Central Branch, Union Pacific and Atchison and Nebraska railroads, for all points in Kansas, Indian Territories, Colorado and New Mexico.

This company have built a full complement of Palace Drawing room and sleeping cars, which for external beauty and interrior arrangements for the comfort, convenience and luxury of passengers are unexcelled if equalled, by any other cars of the kind in the world.

☞ Through Tickets for sale at all General Railway offices in the States and Canada.

HUGH RIDDLE, Gen Supt.
A. M. SMITH Gen Pass Agent

CALIFORNIA.

THE CHICAGO & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY

Embraces under the management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the West and North-west, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, California and the Western Territories. Its

Omaha & California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dekota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and for Madison, St. Paul Minneapolis, Duluth and all points in the great Northwest. Its

Winona and St Peter Line

Is the only rout for Winona, Rochester, Owotonna Mankato, St Peter, New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Jonesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghtion, Haudcock and the Lake Superior Country. Its.

Freeport and Debuque Line

Is the only rout for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its.

Chicago & Milwauke Line

Is the old Lake Shore route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

Pullman Palace Cars

are run on all through trains on the road.

This is the only line running these cars between Chicago and St Paul Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our sleepers connect with the Overland sleepers on the Union Pacific railroad for all points west of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago & North-Western Railway leaves Chicago as follows

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St Paul and Minneapolis, two through trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, two trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four through trains daily, Pullman Cars on night trains Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta and Winona and points in Minnesota, One through train daily, with Pullman sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, two through trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, two through trains daily with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, two trains daily Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, four trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Jonesville, and other points, you can have from two to ten trains daily.

New York Office, No. 415 Broadway, Boston office No. 5 State Street, Omaha office, 253, Farnham Street San Francisco office, 121, Montgomery Street, Kinzie Street Depot, corner of W. Kinzie and Canal Streets. Wells street Depot, corner of Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agent apply to

W. STENNETT, Gen. Pass Agt, Chicago.
MARVIN HUGHITT, Genl Sup't, Chicago.

Recorders Offi

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 6. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, MARCH 23rd, 1876. Number 12.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,........$2. | Six Months,.......$1.

Advertising Rates.

Space.	1m.	3m.	6m.	1y.
One Square......	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column........	10 00	18 00	30 00	60 00
One Column......	15 00	30 00	60 00	100 00

Legal Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion, 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business cards Five Dollars.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

Penfield & Moody.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office under Odd Fellow's Hall north of Court House, Auburn, Ind. Practice in all Courts of the State.

ROSE & HARTMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Have complete abstracts of the records of DeKalb County. Office in Case's Block, Auburn, Indiana.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office opposite N. W. Cor. Public Square.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

A. F. PINCHIN

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

McBRIDE and MORLAN

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

PHYSICIANS.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Devenport's Drug Store, Auburn, Ind. All calls promptly attended to.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

W. S. ALLEN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office over McQuiston's store. Coal's Block, North of Court House.

HOTELS.

AVELINE HOUSE,

MILLER & MORITZ, Prop's., corner Calhoun & Berry Sts., Fort Wayne, Ind.

AMERICAN HOUSE

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
G. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

WOOD'S HOTEL.

NOS. 24 & 26 EAST WASHINGTON STREET, opp Field, Leiter, & Co's retail dry goods store; and adjoining D. B. Fisk's wholesale millinery store, between State street & Wabash Avenue Chicago. O. SANDS, Prop'r.
$2.00 per day. GEO. S. PALMER Clerk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

PRINTING.

COURIER OFFICE,

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experience corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

NEW

Meat Market

The undersigned has opened a meat market at Markle's old stand, where he will keep constantly on hand a good supply of fresh meats of all kinds, at reasonable prices, and asks a share of the public patronage.
Nov. 1-3m. JOHN TRESCH.

Junction Hotel,

JAMES SMITH, Pro'r.

Auburn Junction, Indiana

This House is new and fitted up in good style throughout. Accommodations for traveling men cannot be better in the State.
L. H. SMITH, Clerk.

THE AUBURN

Marble Works!

The undersigned beg leave to announce that they have permanently located in Auburn, and are now prepared to attend to all orders for

Monuments, Tomb-Stones, etc.,

which they are prepared to turn out in a superior manner at reasonable rates. Works west the Bakery.

J. A. SAWYER & CO.

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND

JAS. CLIFFORD.

WATERLOO, IND.

Keeps constantly on hand the best and choicest brands of all kinds of

Wines and Liquors,

Cigars, Tobaccos, &c.

He also has, in connection with the above a first-class

BILLIARD HALL.

To our citizens and the traveling public, we would say that this is the populor resort at Waterloo. First door south of the railroad.

IT IS HERE.

WHAT

The Largest Fine Stock of Fine

Hats, Caps,

GLOVES, ETC., ETC.

Ever brought to Auburn. Those wanting this line of good can get them from 100 to 150 per cent cheaper than they were ever sold before in the county by calling on

WILLIAM LESSIG

J. G. FLEDDERMAN

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the largest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Merchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his large stock

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—

The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS, BUGGIES &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give a call and ascertain our prices.

THE PHOENIX TILE MACHINE.

CHANDLER & TAYLOR

Indianapolis, Ind.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

To live on the fat of the land without work is the aim of Traveling Agents.

We dont employ them but sell to the user at factory prices. Send for our free price list which will give you the price. Freight paid by us to your nearest R. R. to be paid for after you have tested and found satisfactory to that the purchaser absolutely runs no risk whatever. This is the way the best Scales in the world are sold by Jones of Binghamton, N. Y.
Jan. 13-1m

CARPETS,

FOR 1875.

Are offered at prices lower than have prevailed for many years. Our stock fo all grades is large, well selected and we invite inspection. We have added to our stock and the line is unusally fair.

Wall Paper

Terrys,
Reps,
Gimps,
Fringes and a general line of Upholstery Goods with Shades,
Lace Curtains,
Oil Cloths,
and Mattings

in great variety. The manufacture of Lambrequins a specialty.

ELSWORTH, ANDREW & CO,

On The War Path

Terrible Slaughter in Dry Goods

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accomodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

LORDIER,

THE FORT WAYNE,

Boot & Shoe!

Store

Is the popular place for all kinks of

BOOTS & SHOES

All kinds of these goods kept constantly on hand, and at extremely

LOW PRICES

Custom work done the best manner, and all kinds of repairing promptly attended to.
Remember place
At the Fort Wayne Shoe Store. next to the Bank.

THE FIRST

National Bank

OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital Stock $50,000

Deposits received on time or subject to check on sight.

Exchange, available in the United States, Canada and Europe, furnished.

Checks and drafts, payable in any part of the U. S. cashed at our counter, or collected and proceeds accounted for to holder.

Collections made and promptly remitted for on day of payment.

Loans negotiated and business papers discounted Government and other securities bought and sold.

Directors:

J. R. LANNING, J. H. FORD,
S. W. RALSTON, WM. McINTYRE,
GEO. HAZZARD.

Officers:

JOSEPH R. LANNING, Prest.
JAS. V. HAZZARD, Cashier.
April 29, 1875.

PENCIL AND SCISSORS.

Joseph E. Beugnot, Esq., has two new counter tables which he will sell at very low figures.

Our sportsmen are after the wild ducks. They are said to plenty this season.

Last Saturday was not as busy a day as it might have been, had the roads been in good condition for traveling.

A little set-to took place on the corner of Main and Seventh streets, last Saturday. Our Marshal was soon on the ground and put an end to it.

Sugar making is in progress in various portions of the county. As yet there has but little if any, maple sugar found its way to this market.

There is not much probability that the growing wheat will be injured by cold, freezing weather. There will probably be an abundant crop the coming harvest

J. B. Stoll, of the Banner, asks for $5,000 damage in the libel suit commenced against C. O. Myers, of the Standard We understand that his attorneys are Capt. Mitchell, of Goshen, and Judge Tousley, of Albion.

We have received in the last few days a well selected stock of cardboard of the latest styles suitable for calling cards—something new and stylish—which you should see before ordering from cheap stock, else where that has been out of style for several seasons.

A gentleman at Auburn on last Saturday, while crossing the B & O Railroad caught his foot in a frog, and in attempting to get loose twisted his leg off, the bone penetrating through his pants.—[Angola Herald.

A young woman remarked to a friend while passing along the street the other day, that a certain young lady in town, needn't stick up her nasal appendage so high, that if she had her education she would be just as good looking as she.

One way to kill a town is to speak disparagingly of every stranger who locates in your midst—turn the cold shoulder upon him—be unsocial—circulate false reports about him to injure his business let him understand by your acts that you consider him an interloper who has no business in the community—in short drive him out. This recipe is an infallible one.

Bond's Novelty Store has been removed from 21 West Main street to 18 West Berry street, Fort Wayne, Ind., nearly opposite the Fruit House. This popular place for trading is filling up rapidly with new spring goods and it will amply repay the citizens of this vicinity to inspect the stock and learn prices. Customers will receive polite attention Goods sold for small profits, and warranted to be as represented or the money refunded. A general line of staple and fancy goods, notions, small wares, white goods, etc., etc. Come and see. We will do you good. No. 18 West Berry street.

It is generally considered that a newspaper adds as much to the permanent prosperity of a town as anything that can be established in it, provided that it is a firstclass paper and one that has no axe to make upon any of its citizens, but is alive to the interests of the town and ready always to labor for its growth and prosperity. Such a paper we are endeavoring to make of The Auburn Courier, and no labor nor expense shall be spared to make it one of which every citizen of Auburn should be proud. In return, all we ask is that it receives the support it is entitled to at your hands.

It is no small wonder that there is annually a large deficiency in the revenue of the Postoffice Department, judging from the manner in which the department has permitted the government to be swindled by mail contractors. John A. Scudder, of St. Louis, President of the St. Louis and Memphis Packet Company, testified before the House Postoffice Committee that in 1871 his company made a bid for the contract to carry the mail from White River, Arkansas to Vicksburg, proposing to do the same for $7,000 a year. A straw bid of $6,840 was placed in the department and Dr. B. H. Peterson was awarded the contracts for $18,000, Scudder's bid being entirely ignored. Peterson went to Scudder and sub-let the contract to him at $10,000 a year, or $3,000 more than Scudder offered to do the work for. This left Peterson $8,000 clear the first year by some means, he managed to receive receive $27,000 a year for work he was sub-letting for $10,000 a year. Thus, in about four years, he made $80,000 and the government paid out about $70,000 more than it would have done had the contract been let to Scudder's company.

Republican Retrenchment.

The New York "World" says: "A few weeks ago the Republican county Treasurer of Yates county, was announced as a defaulter, having used several thousand dollars of the people's money in his private speculations.

The Republican Treasurer of Saratoga county, about the same time fled from his home, having retrenched the taxpayers' money of that county to the tune of $160,000.

A short time ago the Republican State Treasurer of K[illegible] removed from office for the misuse of the public fund having been engaged in a retrenchment of the public money for his own use.

The Republican Auditor of this State has been suspended from office for speculation in claims, and for reasons which his own testimony justified.

The Republican Treasurer of the City of Buffalo has absconded after retrenching the tax-payer's money of that city to the tune of some $850,000 or more. Now the fact is being shown that he commenced his system of retrenchment the moment that he entered upon the duties of his office.

This kind of Republican retrenchment appears not to be new. Comptroller Hopkins in his report a year ago announced that the larger portion of the twenty-seven millions raised for soldiers bounties in this State never reached the soldiers. It was retrenched by Republican officials in the same way. Do we not need reform? And are we likely to get it from the grand old party?

A looker on in Venice," writing from Elkhart to the Chicago "Times, contributes the following choice bit of political gossip: The Republican crucible in the Thirteenth congressional district of the State of Indiana begins to boil. The immediate cause of its effervescence is the apparent affiliation of its congressman, Hon. John H. Baker with the Democrats. It will be recollected that Baker was elected in a district usually giving 8,000 Republican majority, by just 58 votes. His competitor was Freeman Kelly, the granger of DeKalb county. It was contended by the Democrats that Baker's 58 majority was fraudulent, and curses loud and deep were uttered respecting it, and threats made of contesting his election on the assembling of congress, with the prevailing belief that it would result in his being incontinently ousted, and his seat occupied by the triumphant Kelly. To the surprise and gratification of the Republicans, however, and the disgust of the rank and file of the Democrats, the matter was permitted to pass and Baker took his seat by default. The history of the past week has thrown a light upon the subject as brilliant as it was unexpected. The Goshen Democrat, the leading Democrtic paper in the district, printed at the home of Baker, discloses the fact that he has been voting with Democrats on nearly every measure,—says that he used to be a Democrat,—knows by instinct the Democratic side of every question; also knows which side his bread is buttered, and he finds safety in keeping step to the Democratic movement." etc. The Wakarusa Sun, a liberal paper with Democratic tendencies, says: The Hon. John. H. Baker is not the bigoted Republican that some of his constituents took him for, and has not as yet put in one straight party vote, while its special correspondent from Kendallville accuses him of appointing to a postal clerkship, a "rampant Democrat," and winds up by saying that what made this appear more unsatisfactory was the fact that several reliable Republicans were applicants for the place, but were unceremoniously set aside.

Now, from the above, one of two things is evident. 1. John H. Baker is forced to vote with the Democrats for the privilege of retaining a seat which the Democrats claimed to have been fraudulently obtained; or 2. While professing an honest approaching godliness, he has proved himself to be a demagogue of the very first water, and in either case his chances for re-nomination by the Republicans are as scarce as white black birds.—[Plymouth Democrat.

WE ARE PROUD OF IT.

We Mean the Great Dry Goods House of Root & Co.

Having occasion, a day or two since to enter the mammoth dry goods house of Root & Co., we were met near the threshold by Mr. Rurode, the gentlemanly proprietor in charge d'affaire, who at our request, politely escorted us through the various departments of the immense concern, and from whom we gleaned considerable information respecting the business of this leading establishment.

We noticed a good many improvements under way, made necessary by the constantly increasing demands of trade. In the rear part of the store, and on the ground floor, workmen were engaged in constructing new counters for the display and sale of fine goods in the lines of silks, velvets, etc., of which an immense stock is carried by this now celebrated house. The cloak room, which formerly occupied this space, has been removed to the second floor, where a very tasteful apartment has been set apart for the exhibition of styles in cloaks, suitings and goods of that class. It was found that the counter for wrapping parcels was entirely inadequate to the demands of the business, and consequently a very great addition has been made for the purpose of facilitating the preparing of packages.

On the second floor, some other changes have been introduced, made necessary by the bringing up of the cloak department. Carpets, of which no finer assortment was ever displayed in this city, are now shown at the front end of the room and on the north side of the same. The wholesale department, on the third floor, has not been changed.

It is really interesting to note the discipline which characterizes the workings of this great establishment. The whole business runs as smoothly as clock-work The entire corps of clerks—and their name is Legion—act together with a unity of purpose that is simply astounding. The perfect management denotes the presence of a master mind; it shows that this house has at its head men who are organizers, systematizers and strict disciplinarians. There is no clashing of the complicated macinery—all departments are divided into sub-divisions with polite and affable clerks presiding over each. The customer is piloted from one department to another by genteel assistants, who make the otherwise bewildering plan of business as plain as day, and the purchaser is thus enabled to secure his goods without delay and in the most satisfactory manner.

We are pleased to learn from Mr. Rurode that, notwithstanding the panic, the business of their house had been exceedingly gratifying during the past year, and that he has hopes of even better trade the coming season.

It is with pleasure that we speak of such firms as this, for they are a credit to our State, and should be the pride of our people. Outside of Indianapolis, no city can boast of a firm doing anything like the amount of business that is transacted by our Root & Co.; and we question if there is a store at the city above named as fine as theirs. One reason why our people should feel an especial pride and interest in this house is because of its financial success. There is no concern anywhere whose credit is better than that of Root & Co. Prompt to meet their obligations, and always taking advantage of discounts for cash Eastern dealers look upon this firm as one of the soundest in the United States, and in this way Root & Co., help the good name of our city. No stranger should leave Fort Wayne without first visiting this Palace of Trade.—Fort Wayne News.

A RARE OLD POEM.

Friar Philip.

Poor Friar Philip lost his wife,
The charm and comfort of his life;
He mourned her just like married men,
For ladies were worth having then.
The world was altered in his view,
All things put on a yellow hue;
Even ladies, once his chief delight,
Were now offensive to his sight;
In short, he pined and looked so ill,
The [illegible] [illegible] to make a will.

At last he made a vow to fly,
And hide himself from every eye;
Take up his lodgings in a wood,
To turn a hermit and grow good.
He had a son, you now must know,
About a twelvemonth old or so;
Him Philip took up in his arms,
To snatch him from all female charms,
Intending he should never know
There were such things as girl's below,
But lead an honest hermit's life,
Lest [illegible] might lose his wife.

The place he chose for his retreat
Was once a little country seat;
Far in a wild, romantic wood
The hermit's little cottage stood,
Hid by the trees from human view;
The sun himself could scarce get through.
A little garden, tilled with care,
Supplied them with their daily fare—
Fresh watercresses from the spring,
Turnips, or greens, or some such thing.
Hermits don't care much what they eat,
And appetite can make it sweet!

'Twas here our little hermit grew:
His father taught him all he knew,
Adapted, like a cheerful sage,
His lessons to the pupil's age.
At five years old he showed him flowers,
Taught him their various names and powers—
Taught him to blow upon a reed,
To say his prayers and get the creed.

At ten he lectured him on herbs
(Better than learning nouns and verbs),
The names and qualities of trees,
Manners and customs of the bees;
Then talked of oysters full of pearls,
But not one word about the girls.
At fifteen years he turned his eyes
To view the wonders of the skies;
Called all the stars by their right names,
As you would call on John or James;
And showed him all the signs above,
But not a whisper about love.

And now his sixteenth year was nigh,
And yet he had not learned to sigh;
Had sleep and appetite to spare;
He could not tell the name of care;
And all because he did not know
There were such things as girls below.
But now a tempest raged around,
The hermit's little nest was drowned,
Good-by, then, to poor Philip's crop;
It did not leave a turnip top.
Poor Philip grieved, and his son too!
They prayed—they knew not what to do,
If they were hermits, they must live,
And wolves have not much alms to give

Now, in his native town he knew
He had disciples—rich ones, too—
Who would not let him beg in vain,
But set the hermit up again.
But what to do with his young son—
Pray, tell me, what would you have done?
Take him to town he was afraid,
For what if he should see a maid!
In love, as sure as he had eyes!
Then any quantity of sighs!
Leave him at home? the wolves, the bears!
Poor Philip had a father's fears.

In short, he knew not what to do,
But thought, at last, to take him too—
And so, with truly pious care,
He counts his beads in anxious prayer,
Intended as a sort of charm
To keep his darling lad from harm;
That is, from pretty ladies' wiles,
Especially their eyes and smiles;
Then brushed his coat of silver gray;
And now you see them on their way.

It was a town, they all agree,
Where there was everything to see,
As paintings, statues and so on,
All that men love to look upon.
Our little lad, you may suppose,
Had never seen so many shows;
He stands with open mouth and eyes,
Like one just fallen from the skies;
Pointing at everything he sees—
"What's this? what's that? Oh, here? what's there?"

At last he sees a charming thing,
That men call angel when they sing—
Young lady, when they speak in prose—
Sweet thing! as everybody knows.
Transported, ravished at the sight,
He feels a strange, but sweet delight.
"What's this? what's this? oh, heavens!" he cries,
"That looks so sweetly with its eyes;
Oh! shall I catch it? is it tame?
What is it, father? what's its name?"

Poor Philip knew not what to say,
But tried to turn his eyes away.
He crossed himself and made a vow—
"'Tis as I feared, all's over now;
Then, pr'ythee, have thy wit's let loose?
It is a bird men call a goose."
"A goose! O pretty, pretty thing!
And will it sing, too, will it sing?
O come, come quickly, let us run;
That's a good father, catch me one!
We'll take it with us to our cell;
Indeed, indeed, I love it well!"

THE STORY OF AN ELOPEMENT.

It commenced by Mrs. Sawyer's arrival at Mrs. Muffit's early in the forenoon, evidently in a state of great excitement, and full of news. With an air of profound mystery, she drew Mrs. Muffit from the wash-tub to the sitting-room, and said to her:

"What do you think has happened?"

Now Mrs. Sawyer was well known in Myrtleville as "newsy," as one who lost no opportunities of collecting the most reliable and startling items of information regarding the sayings and doings of the Myrtlevillians. Accordingly Mrs. Muffit prepared her mind for tidings of moment.

"What is it?" asked she, drying her hands on her apron and settling down in a chair for a "good talk."

"You'll not tell I told you?"

"Never."

"Because it wasn't intended for me to hear. I just happened over to Mrs. Seymour's this morning, and Mrs. Kitely was in there, and the door stood open, and I couldn't but hear what was said, you know, and——"

"But what was it?" cried Mrs. Muffit, as Mrs. Sawyer paused for breath.

"Fred Seymour and Belle Grainger have eloped."

"Eloped!"

"Mrs. Seymour was telling Mrs. Kitely as I went in. As soon as they saw me coming, they began to talk about the news in the morning's paper; but you can't throw me off the track in that way."

"Oh, my goodness!" cried Mrs. Muffit, suddenly, as if some inspiration had seized her.

"You've heard something too," cried the widow.

"No, but I saw Belle Grainger this morning, quite early, passing by here, in the direction of the depot, and she had on her traveling dress, and her waterproof, and carried her satchel."

"Going to meet him on the 8 o'clock train. Oh, the sly, deceitful thing. Think of her poor father."

"And her sick mother. It is awful. And everybody knows Fred Seymour is as good as engaged to Susy Belknap."

"There! I'll go right over to Belknap's," cried Mrs. Sawyer. "Somebody ought to break it gently to poor Susan. Poor girl. No wonder they went off slyly."

And away bustled Mrs. Sawyer to find Mrs. Belknap and Susan in the sitting room, sewing. It was a keen satisfaction to tell the news there, for Mrs. Belknap, being in delicate health, and possessing ample means, kept a servant and lived in a style of refinement that Myrtleville generally condemned as "putting on airs." To take her "down a peg," as Mrs. Sawyer mentally resolved to do, was a vulgar triumph she enjoyed greatly in anticipation. But it was in anticipation only. Mrs. Belknap and her daughter received the news in a quiet way, as if the gossip possessed no special interest for them, asking no questions, and manifesting no chagrin. The story had grown a little on its way through Mrs. Muffit's sitting room, and Mrs. Sawyer had now a full description of the runaway bride's costume, and the train was specified upon which the young couple traveled.

But after Mrs. Sawyer had gone to [illegible] her news elsewhere, Susy turned a pale face to her mother, asking pitifully:

"Oh, mamma, can it be true?"

"I will go over to Mrs. Seymour's, dear, if you wish it."

"Not for the world. If it is true, we must never let any one know how we feel it;" and her lips quivered. "Fortunately, no one knows we are actually engaged. If it is not true ——"

"It seems to come very direct," said Mrs. Belknap, as she drew her daughter in a close, motherly embrace. "Mrs. Sawyer is a terrible gossip and a busy-body, but I never knew her to be guilty of absolute falsehood."

"Mrs. Kitely is very intimate with Mrs. Seymour. I have heard Fred say they were schoolmates. So it is quite natural for her to be telling Mrs. Kitely, and speak of something else when Mrs. Sawyer went in."

"I can scarcely believe it of Fred," said Mrs. Belknap.

"Nor I. And Belle, too, who has been my friend so long, and her only interest in Fred seemed to be in his love for me. Oh, mother! I can't believe it."

In the meantime the story was spreading from house to house, gaining a little here, a little there, as it was repeated. Mrs. Gray had seen Fred Seymour going in the direction of the depot at half-past seven, and it did not seem to occur to the gossips that, as his business was in New York, this was a sight of daily occurrence. Another one had always thought Miss Grainger's quiet, modest manners, covered a deceitful heart. Some pitied Susy, some congratulated her upon her escape. The young couple were discovered to have every fault the imagination of their accusers could summon up, and Mrs. Belknap and Mrs. Seymour shared the odium and pity with Mrs. Granger, who certainly should have attended more strictly to the education of her daughter, and given her a more careful moral training.

Every mother in Myrtleville was piteously thankful it was not her daughter who had so disgraced herself, and the daughters, as a general rule, secretly wished they had had Miss Grainger's chance, for Fred Seymour was decidedly a beau in Myrtleville, and his mother was known to have a property from her late husband that would make the young man independent, when, in the course of nature, it reverted to him. He was engaged on one of the daily evening papers of the great metropolis, and considered talented and upright, a man who in time would make a name and position of honor. His attention to Susy Belknap, though the fact of their engagement had not yet been published, had been too marked to escape the notice of eyes so prying as those possessed by the good people of Myrtleville, and his inconstancy was a matter of course, as Susy was a maiden whom any man might have been proud to win.

When the 4 o'clock train came in, Mr. Grainger, a little, nervous man, all excitability, was amazed at the sympathizing faces that greeted him on the platform. A chill like death seized his heart. For years his wife had been an invalid, suffering from spine complaint. Had she died while he was away? White as a sheet, he turned to a friend standing near, saying:

"Why do you look at me? What is the matter at home?"

"My poor friend, have you heard nothing?"

"A choking sensation came over the loving husband, but he struggled against it, saying:

"Quick, tell me! Is it Mary?"

"No. Mrs. Grainger is as well as usual, I believe; but there is a very sad story to break to you regarding your daughter."

Wrath took the place of terror.

"My daughter!" cried the little man, furiously. "Who dares to carry stories about my daughter?"

"Well—you—see," stammered his friend, "the women folks say she eloped this morning with Fred Seymour."

"Fred Seymour! Why, he's head over ears in love with Susy Belknap. My Belle! Why, she has been engaged for two years to Lieut. Weston of the navy, though we did not publish the fact for the benefit of all the tattlers in Myrtleville."

"I am afraid, was the reply, that it was the fact of these engagements that drove them to secrecy and elopement."

"I tell you the whole story is false!" roared the excited father. "I'll make these mischief-makers eat their own words! My Belle, indeed! They must be crazy."

But on his way home, Mr. Grainger met the report in so many places, heard it in such plausible versions, that he entered his wife's room with a very grave face, from which all angry excitement had vanished.

"Where is Belle, Mary?" he asked.

"She went to New York this morning to do some shopping. She will stay at her Aunt Maria's to-night."

"Did young Seymour go up on the same train?"

"I suppose so. He usually goes at eight, and that was the train that Belle took."

Mr. Grainger was on the point of telling his wife the whole story, but on second thought he restrained the impulse. Sure in his own fatherly confidence in his gentle, modest child, that there was some mistake admitting of explanation, he said nothing. After all, it was a subject of congratulation that none of the busy bodies of Myrtleville had invaded the sick room, and he easily made some trivial excuse for going out again. He was determined to sift the gossip thoroughly before alarming the invalid, and his first visit was to the telegraph office at the railway station.

"Is Belle at your house?" flashed over the wires, and was carried to a handsome house in the city.

"Yes. Will be down on the next train," was the answer; for poor Belle imagined there was death or frightful illness to cause her father's message when a visit to her aunt's was such a common occurrence.

Satisfied on this point, Mr. Grainger quietly waited until the train came in, walked up Main street, with his daughter on his arm, left her at home, and started out to defy all Myrtleville.

From house to house he traveled with exemplary patience, and followed the snake like coils of the story, till he faced Mrs. Sawyer, who earnestly assured him:

"Mrs. Seymour and Mrs. Kitely were in the sitting-room as I came in the back way through the kitchen. They were talking, and just as I got to the door, Mrs. Seymour told Mrs. Kitely that her son and Belle Grainger had eloped. They saw me then, and Mrs. Seymour said very carelessly: 'Here are the morning papers, Mrs. Kitely,' just to change the conversation."

"And you rushed off to carry the news all over Myrtleville," said Mr. Grainger.

"Well, I thought it must be true, from such an authority."

"Pshaw! You misunderstood what was said."

"I tell you I heard her as plain as I hear you now."

"Telling Mrs. Kitely her son and my daughter had eloped?"

"Yes. I'd swear it on my oath," said Mrs. Sawyer, as if there was several other ways of swearing, if she chose to take her choice.

"Suppose you step over to Mrs. Kitely's with me?"

"Well, I will."

But to Mrs. Sawyer's discomfort, Mrs. Kitely denied the story entirely. Mrs. Seymour had never given her any such information, either in confidence or otherwise. Mrs. Sawyer tearfully persisted in her story; and finally the trio went to Mrs. Seymour's. The hero of the story was by this time at home, and eating his supper when the visitors entered.

It was an awkward story to tell, but it was told; and Mrs. Seymour's face was a picture of indignant surprise.

"I!" she cried—"I said my Fred had eloped with Belle Grainger! Why, Mrs. Sawyer, you must surely be dreaming!"

"You said so. I heard you," sobbed the widow.

"Said what?"

"You said distinctly, 'Belle Grainger ran away with my son, this morning.'"

At this moment Mrs. Seymour burst into a fit of uncontrollable laughter, to the great consternation of her audience. She laughed till she was obliged to wipe the tears from her eyes; when, catching sight of Mr. Grainger's disturbed face, she said, with sudden gravity:

"Pardon me, Mr. Grainger, I see I have most innocently caused you a serious annoyance. The truth of the story is this: Fred, as you know, has all the morning papers sent to him on the early train, and many of the neighbors come in to borrow them. Mrs. Kitely always likes to see the Sun, and I save it for her; but this morning your daughter stopped on her way to the depot for a paper to read as she rode to the city, and took the Sun. When Mrs. Kitely came for the papers, I said to her, 'Belle Grainger ran away with my Sun this morning!'"

"And all Myrtleville has been busy with the scandal Mrs. Sawyer manufactured out of your remark," cried Mr. Grainger; "but let us hope that the originator of the rumor will be as active in contradicting it as she was in circulating it."

Pretty Susy was not left long in doubt, for Fred, having drawn from Mrs. Sawyer the confession that she thought it a duty to tell the Belknaps the first thing, hastened over to his betrothed wife, to give vent to her indignation against all tattlers and mischief-makers.

Very soon after Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Seymour's wedding cards put the final contradiction to the Myrtleville scandal.

The Law Under which Belknap is to be Tried.

[From the United States Revised Statutes.

Section 1,781.—Every member of congress, or any officer or agent of the government, who directly or indirectly takes, receives, or agrees to receive any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever from any person for securing or aiding to procure any contract or office or place of the government, or any department thereof, from any officer of the United States, for any person whatever, or for giving any such contract, office, or place to any person whomsoever, and every person who, directly or indirectly, offers or agrees to give, or gives or bestows, any money, property, other valuables or consideration whatever for procuring, or aiding to procure, any such contract, office, or place, and every member of congress who directly or indirectly takes, receives, or agrees to receive any money, property, or other valuable consideration whatever, after his election as such member, for his attention, service, action, vote, or decision on any question, cause, or proceeding which may be pending, or may by law or under the constitution, be brought before him in his official capacity or in his place as such member of congress, shall be made guilty of misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not more than two years and fined not more than $10,000, and any such contract or agreement may, at the option of the president, be declared absolutely null and void, and any member of congress or officer convicted of a violation of this section shall, moreover, be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the government of the United States.

IN France they take chicken feathers whose harsh stems have rendered them useless, chip the plume part from the stems with scissors, and put the plumes in a bag, which, when full, is closed and kneaded with the hands, so that the feathers are felted together, forming a down of unbroken fabric and great lightness, which sell in Paris for two dollars a pound.

IN Naugatuck Valley, Ct., the ice accumulated so thickly on the trees that the bending branches interfered with the railroad trains. One train was stopped a number of times while the brakemen cut off the ice-laden branches.

RICHARD HENRY DANA, JR.

A Sketch of the New Minister from the United States to Great Britain.

Mr. Dana has not figured prominently in the arena of national politics, but he comes of sterling stock, and is known in the East as a scholar and a gentleman. The following is taken chiefly from the American Cyclopedia: Richard Henry Dana, Jr., is the son of Richard Henry Dana, and grandson of Chief Justice Francis Dana, and was born at Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 1, 1815. He graduated at Harvard College in 1837. Having been compelled by an affliction of the eyes to suspend his collegiate course in 1834, he made the voyage described in his "Two Years Before the Mast" to California, then an almost unknown region. He was a member of the law school from 1837 to 1840, and during two years of that time was also adjunct to Professor Channing in the department of rhetoric in the university. He was admitted to the Boston bar in 1840, and was at once employed in admiralty cases. In 1841 he published a manual of sea usages and laws under the title of "The Seamen's Friend," republished in England as "Seamen's Manual." His practice now became general in the law courts. He was a member of the Massachusetts constitutional convention in 1853. Having been one of the founders of the free soil party, a delegate from Boston to the Buffalo convention in 1848, and a popular speaker in the Republican movement of 1856, he has remained attached to the Republican party, advocating the election of Lincoln in 1860 and 1864, when he delivered political addresses in several States, and that of Grant in 1868 and 1872. In 1859 and 1860 he made a tour round the world, revisiting California, and visiting the Hawaiian Islands, China, Japan, Ceylon, India, and Egypt, and returning through Europe. In 1861 he was appointed United States attorney for Massachusetts, and held that office until 1866, arguing every prize case that came up in the district. He also, in conjunction with Mr. Evarts, argued the prize cases for the government before the supreme court. Mr. Dana also drew up the prize act of 1864, which repealed all prior acts on the subject and completed a prize code for the United States. He was counsel for the United States in the proceedings against Jefferson Davis for treason in 1867–68. In 1866, by request of the family of Mr. Wheaton, he published an edition of Wheaton's "Elements of International Law," covering the period between Mr. Wheaton's death in 1848, and the time of publication. His note No. 215, on the legislative, judicial, and diplomatic history of the neutrality laws of the United States and Great Britain, was printed by the government, and translated into French for the use of the arbitrators in their opinions. In 1867 and 1868 he represented Cambridge in the Massachusetts Legislature, and was Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary. In 1868 he was a candidate for Representative in Congress in opposition to B. F. Butler in the Essex District and was defeated by a large majority. He has been a member of the diocesan convention of the Episcopal church for more than twenty years. The literary production by which Mr. Dana is best known is "Two Years Before the Mast."

Peeled.

Can't something be done about it? We are tired enough to cry, and it has been going on for weeks. We got a cord of newspapers in last night's mail, and sat down to the task of skimming them over. Being in a "hark-from-the-tombs" frame of mind we read:

"The world is full of snares and pitfalls, and the feet of the young are turned into forbidden paths; gray-haired fathers weep for the untimely taking off of their sons, who might have been saved by Dr. Jenkins' diamond medical discovery."

We fling away the paper, and take another:

"Moody and Sankey, the revivalists, are stirring the Quaker City from turret to foundation stone. Thousands of people daily assemble at the drug stores inquiring for Dr. Jenkins' diamond medical discovery."

We tear the paper into bits, and hop around and sweep the room in three seconds. Then William slides down in his easy chair, puts his feet against the mantel vase, and asks to be soothed:

"To raise good onions, select moist, well drained soil, work it mellow, lay out your beds, mark the drills a foot apart, and when comes a warmish day, go to your home grocer and get good solid sets, and Dr. Jenkins' diamond medical discovery."

We choked with wrath, and William squeaked out, "Why don't you go on?"

"You miserable man, if you want advertisements, read, read them yourself." We take a "Bosting" sheet, and sail in carefully:

"As there are two sides to every question, there must be two sides to the school question, and the best intellects of the age stand arrayed against each other on this fateful battle-ground; but, while men debate and disagree upon minor topics, they all assent to the established fact that Dr. Jenkins' diamond medical discovery——"

We hope this latter day essayist will die like the buchu man. We hope his wife will leave him as Mrs. Vinegar Bitters has her husband. We hope there may be a special earthquake under his feet that will open a crack big enough to take in one man. We only read the deaths and marriages now, and avoid the comments on them. If some fellow-sufferer will catch the man and hold him, we'll raise an army and march on to Buffalo with his "compositions," and shout them in his ears till he is deaf, and then cram them in his mouth and sew it up, and put his eyes out with "medical discovery."—Detroit Free Press.

Why President Buchanan Remained a Bachelor.

In an elegant mansion near the Arlington hotel, in this city, reside two ladies of the olden aristocracy—Mrs. Freeman and her sister, Miss Coleman. About the latter lady a little romance clings which makes her interesting. She was the second and the affianced bride of the late President Buchanan, his first love having died in her youth, and until he met Miss Coleman he was almost a recluse from ladies' society. He was engaged to her when sent abroad as American Minister to the Court of St. James in London. At that time Miss Coleman resided in New York. He returned to this country on a visit, and on the evening he arrived Miss Coleman was giving a grand entertainment. He was fatigued, and instead of dressing and paying his respects to her immediately, retired to his room, and early next morning called to see her. She had taken offense at his not calling the evening before and refused to see him, and they never met again. What regrets were felt the world has never known, but many an angry impulse has wrecked the happiness of men and women beyond reparation.—Washington Cor. Chicago Journal.

Claims to be an Honest Man.

An officer of the army describes to a Washington correspondent a visit he made the other day to the late secretary of war:

In reply to my card a subdued-looking domestic came to me and told me that Mr. Belknap would see me in the rear parlor. The manner of the servant was as lugubrious as an undertaker when he says, "You will now take a last look at the deceased." I had to wait but a moment. I heard a faltering step upon the stairs; an uncertain tread in the hall; then the door opened slowly as the ex-secretary entered. My god! Words fail to express how this man has aged and suffered during the last few days. His flowing silky beard was knotted and tangled; his hair was unkempt; great black rings were under his eyes, and his sunken cheeks made up a picture of woe and despair that would have touched a heart of stone. I was so moved that I sprang forward with a word of comfort. Regardless of truth, I said, "Mr. Secretary, I believe you to be an honest man." Belknap at this caught me by the hand and burst into tears. He was completely unmanned. He choked and sobbed several moments, when he managed to stammer out, "I am going to prove it to the people of this country that I am an honest man before this business is over." The officer concludes his story by saying that Belknap said repeatedly that he had a much better defense than people supposed. He has, by the advice of counsel, kept it back until summoned for trial. Then he claims that he will be able to make a showing that will create a change in popular opinion in his favor. He was especially indignant at the presence of the policemen in his house. He disclaimed any intention of running away, and passionately exclaimed that his former friends were trying to urge him to desperation by constant heaping up of indignities upon him.

Man in the Raw.

A maiden lady writes: Let us take a bird's-eye view of the men as we now find them—men with their "noble passions"—their prominent qualifications. What is their love? Egotism. Their heroism? Brutish dare-develism. Their cleverness? Imaginary. Their vows of love? Perjury. Their faith and fidelity? A broken reed. And where they are good-natured you may be sure it is from stupidity. They are saving when they are to settle household accounts. Generous toward girls—young, inexperienced chits. Severe judges of morals—toward their wives. Full of devotion—to pretty house, nurse, and waiter girls. They tenderly care for their horses, dogs, etc., and are amiable everywhere but at home. The married man can be classified as:

Henpecked,
Sour and glummy,
Rakes,
Tyrants,
Every-day people, thirteen to the dozen,
Conceited jackanapes,
Simpletons, and
Paul Prys.

Men are like scarecrows—they are found on forbidden grounds. They are like bees, the hum around and surround the most ravishing flowers, taste their sweets and fly away. Men are like swallows, they often seek the dirtiest corner to build their nests. They are like California gold, sought after in places where they are not found, and found where nobody would suspect them to be. Like organs, their tenderest tones are nothing but wind. Like cigars, more smoke than fire. It would be easy to continue, but I desist, in the hope that I have said enough to warn my inexperienced sisters. Beware of them, or, rather imitate one who knows, and make them beware of you.

Centennial.

On the 4th of July, 1776, George Washington was 44 years old; Martha Washington, 43; Sam Adams, 54; John Adams, 41; Abigail Adams, 32; John Quincy Adams, 9; Thomas Jefferson, 33; Patrick Henry, 40; James Madison, 25; Thomas Paine, 39; James Otis, 51; Fisher Ames, 18; William Pitt, 68; Josiah Quincy, Jr., 32; Nathaniel Green, 34; Edmund Burke, 46; Jonathan Trumbull, 36; Roger Sherman, 55; Aaron Burr, 20; Benedict Arnold, 36; George Clinton, 37; Alexander Hamilton, 19; Robert R. Livingston, 29; Philip Livingston, 60; Philip Schuyler, 43; Benjamin Franklin, 70; Benjamin Rush, 31; Robert Morris, 42; Charles Carroll, 39; Cæsar Rodney, 46; Edward Rutledge, 27; William Moultrie, 45; Horatio Gates, 48; John Rutledge, 37; Thomas Sumter, 42; Charles C. Pinckney, 30; Charles Pinckney, 18; James Monroe, 18; Tim Pickering, 31; Anthony Wayne, 31; Israel Putnam, 58; Rufus King, 21; John Hancock, 39; Elbridge Gerry, 32; Richard Stockton, 46; George Wythe, 50; Marquis La Fayette, 19; Francis Marion, 44; Henry Knox, 26; Richard Henry Lee, 44; John Jay, 31.

LET no one say that the Chinese do not appreciate our free institutions and republican ideas. They have appointed an attorney to represent them in the lobby of the California Legislature, where he is to protect their fishing interests in San Francisco Bay by appropriate devices.

THERE is a family of persons named Rudisill in York County, Pennsylvania, whose ages aggregate 450 years. They are aged respectively 94, 92, 90, 88, and 86 years.

FARMERS about Johnstown, Pa., fear that the great number of wild pigeons in that vicinity will remain long enough to eat all the seed to be sown.

THE EDITOR'S CENTENNIAL.

The waves of time have lashed their spray
Against our sinking pebble world
One hundred times since that great day
That freedom's banner was unfurl'd
Above the smoke where heroes stood,
Prepared to die at Freedom's call,
Which was rung out o'er town and wood
From grand old Independence Hall!

Brave colonists with hearts so true
They dared throw off their galling yokes—
("Why, Uncle Jake! how do you do
This morning? How are all the folks?
Glad to hear they're well.") and with
The steel and sword and bayonet
Defend the right—("No, Mr. Smith,
Your posters are not printed yet.")

They met, nor flinched, nor bent the knee
To hirelings from a foreign shore;
Their cry was "Death or Liberty!"
("Come back, you [illegible], and shut the door!")
War's thunder rolled! Columbia's skies
Were veiled, and lofty mountains shook—
("A quarter, sir, will advertise
Your lost morocco pocketbook.")

And fields were dyed with many a drop
Of crimson gore—though it did flow—
("Get shaved? You'll find a barber shop
The other side, second door below.")
Did flow—until the ground was wet
And dotted o'er with clotted pools—
("No! haven't any copy yet.
Tell them to sit upon their stools!")

They fought ("No!") like the sons of Troy,
And drove the British from our shores
That we to-day ("Yes!") might enjoy
The peace (Oh, curse the office bores!")—
The peace ("Whose poodle dog is that?
Get out! Now, let the 'devil' come,
I've copy for him, and it's fat!")—
The death of—Pandemonium!

Pith and Point.

A SPIRIT-LEVEL—The gutter.

NOT meet to be eaten—Bob veal.

"WHAT are you doing there?" said a grocer to a fellow who was stealing his lard. "I am getting fat," was the reply.

A DANBURY man had a bag of oats last week, which he calls the Seamless, as they won't have to be sown. Some one stole them.

"THIS is spanking fine vinegar," said John Henry. "Ought to be spanking," replied the young hopeful, "there's 'mother' in it."

"DO YOU know who I am?" asked a policeman of a fellow whom he had seized by the throat. "Not exactly, sir; but I fancy you are the malignant collarer."

A NEW dish is grape leaves fried in egg batter; it is called a French dish. An exchange remarks: "We can't think of anything that would be more delicious than fried grape leaves, unless it is a circus poster on toast."

ADIRONDACK MURRAY says that "men were made to think and women were made to talk," and the Chicago Times asks him "to mention any occasion since Eve commenced with the serpent, when women had to be made to talk.'"

A LADY on the West Side found her tongue entirely paralyzed last week—the result, it is believed, of playing the harmonicum. The opinion seems to be gaining ground that a harmonicum is of more real value in a family than a stalled ox.—Norwich Bulletin.

"ELIZA," said a clergyman to one of his parishioners, whom he saw with her hair in curling papers, "if God had designed your hair to curl, He would have curled it for you." "He did, sir, when I was a child," was the reply; "but He thinks now I am old enough to do it myself."

HE entered a car door. When the brakeman came inside and took a key out of his pocket, unlocked the stove, put in some wood, and locked the door again, he asked him what he locked the stove door for. The brakeman shut his left eye, and said he locked the door so the fire couldn't go out.

MRS. VENEERING has discontinued a custom originated by her of having visitors write their names in a book in the hall in event of her absence. Why? Because the milk man came and wrote: "Bill Smith called to collect a bill of long standing, and is sorry Mrs. Veneering didn't leave the amount with the girl, as she agreed."—New York Mail.

THIS quaint epitaph Miss Kate Field copied from a gravestone near Cyford, England:

Here, deep in the dust,
The old moldy crust
Of Nell Batchelor lately was shoven,
Who was skilled in the arts
Of pies, puddings and tarts,
And knew every use of the oven.

When she had lived long enough,
She made her last puff—
A puff by her husband much praised—
Now here she doth lie
And makes a dirt pie
In the hope that her crust may be raised.

A COLLEGE professor at Burlington, Vt., thought to make a night capture of riotous students, each of whom was making his own nightcap, sure, with the aid of a little sugar. The professor, in his stocking feet, stole down a corridor until he suddenly stepped on a jungle of upturned carpet tacks. He gave himself away in an exclamation of anguish and rage, and hopped back to his quarters. The studious silence that prevailed next day when he limped into the recitation-room was almost painful.

THERE isn't much excitement in Detroit over the Black Hills. Once in a while, when a citizen is out late and returns home to find his wife pacing the sitting room, he quietly observes: "Well, you can be easy in your mind after this." She gets ready to pour a torrent of reproach at him, but he continues: "I had some idea of going to the Black Hills in the spring. I didn't want to say anything to you till I'd heard more about 'em. I was at a meeting to-night, and I found out that the gold excitement is all a sell. I'm going to stay right here with my loving wife!"—Free Press.

Acquitted by Mistake.

A great deal has been said of persons convicted of murder by mistake, but the people of Johnstown, New York, think they have a clear case of a murderer acquitted by mistake. The man in question is Frederick Smith, lately tried for the murder of Edward Yest and acquitted. The prosecution failed, through inability to show that Smith ever had a revolver like the one with which the murder was committed; but since the acquittal two witnesses have turned up who identify the weapon as one seen in the possession of Smith, one of them being a machinist who mended it. Of course the murderer cannot be tried again, and that is what annoys the people; but as he is under arrest for arson they will probably console themselves by getting him convicted of that crime whether he is guilty or not.

FOR THE LADIES.

Spring Bonnets.

Harper's Bazar says: Spring bonnets trimmed ready to wear have arrived, and are a creamy white mass of chip, ribbons, lace and flowers, all of the one shade that is already becoming monotonous. The chips are very fine, and the preference for yellowish-white is marked, for although colored chips—brown, gray or black—are imported untrimmed, but one colored bonnet is found among the large importations of trimmed bonnets for models. The new rough-finished yet glossy straw bonnets are very handsome, and are brought out in the best shapes. These are not the coarse rough-and-ready straws formerly used, but are fine satin-faced rice straws of ecru tint, yet with raised braids that give them a stylish rough surface. The new shapes are close at the sides, project above the forehead, are short behind, and those most in favor with the best milliners have square crowns; yet there are many round crowns, and many poke bonnets of more or less pronounced shapes; the latter are rejected by leading dealers, but young ladies have found out that they are becoming and are easily trimmed, hence those who do their millinery at home will select the pokes for another season. A few bonnets have the front slightly rolled in coronet shape, but the flaring brims that now encircle the face like a halo are passe. The straw curtains described last week are not largely represented.

Fresh Fripperies.

Very long paletots are made of white woolen materials for peignoirs and negliges; trimmed with white faille facings.

Old-fashioned organdies and lawns, in border patterns, to be self-trimmed and made up with flowers, are numbered with "centennial" goods.

A new description of oriental embroidery, employed for the trimming of China silk morning wrappers, is net of the finest web worked with fine floss.

Long mittens are to be worn in the evening, several of the most fashionable Parisian ladies having led off this fashion. They are worn in black and cream-colored silk, and show the arm to such advantage that they are likely to come into very general use.

Clusters of small fruits, especially cherries, are used on white imported dresses. Old-fashioned crape, thin and crinkled, once so much worn for evening dresses, is now being revived for bridesmaids' toilets. This fabric puffs, crimps and pleats prettily, and holds its own better than tulle.

Coarse chip braids and straws, in the cream tints, will furnish many of the spring bonnets, which will not be any larger than those of the present season. In their trimmings cashmere laces will play a conspicuous part. The cream tint will pervade silks, flowers and other garniture used on bonnets.

A new belt for evening wear, called La Juive, is made of black velvet embroidered with real bullion that will not tarnish; the gold and silver threads form an effective pattern in long stitches placed closely together. These belts are intended to be worn with quaint gold or silver jewelry and black dresses.

Secretary Taft.

When Secretary Taft presents himself before the president, that dignitary will see a man of massive form, dignified bearing, and kindly, thoughtful face, in the full strength of manly vigor, who has, by an exemplary course through life, became eminently fitted for the position of a cabinet officer. Judge Taft was born in Townshend, Vt., Nov. 5, 1810. He was early bent on obtaining a collegiate education, and, at the age of 16, was teaching school to earn money needed to pay his expenses. He succeeded in going through a course at Yale college with honor, and subsequently was employed there as tutor for two years.

In the meantime he studied law, and in 1838 he came to Cincinnati, where he was admitted to the bar, and began his practice in 1839. He has remained at the bar since that time, with the exception of six years, from Jan. 1, 1866, to Jan. 1, 1872, during which he sat as judge of the superior court of Cincinnati. During this period he was so popular as judge that he received the nomination of both parties, and was elected without an opponent. He resigned at last to join his sons in a law partnership. Since he returned from the superior court bench he has been busily engaged in a large practice. Quite recently he has been honored with the appointment of trustee of the Cincinnatti southern railway. Judge Taft has also given much attention to educational matters. He was for a long time member of the union board of high schools, and a trustee of the university of Cincinnati.

Judge Taft is a man of untiring energy and unwearying patience in the prosecution of any work intrusted to him. As a judge he was painstaking to the last degree, and no suiter ever left his court with a feeling that his case had not been fully considered. His politics have been Republican. He has been a faithful party man without allowing himself to become a partisan.

In view of the circumstances attending Secretary Belknap's fall, it may be of interest to add a word about the new secretary's wife. Mrs. Taft is also from Vermont. In intellect, culture, and in practical common sense, she is a fitting companion for her husband, and her influence on Washington society cannot fail to be of a most salutary character.—Cincinnati Gazette.

Three Innocent Men.

Three innocent-looking men were waiting at the central depot the other evening for a western train to go out. They were meek and lowly in general appearance, and as they walked around they became known to each other, and finding that they had a whole hour to spare, one of them proposed to go across the street and get some lemonade. While en route a second moved to make it lager beer. When they got over the third intimated that whisky would suit him, and all took whisky straight. This broke the ice and they decided to play a little game of cut-throat euchre. After playing a game or two it was decided to increase the interest by putting up a little money.

"I can spare that much," said the first, as he threw down a counterfeit five dollar bill.

"I'll see that and say nothing about the premium," said the second, as he took out a bill from a broken Canadian bank.

"I'll put this Jurguson down as security," gravely added the third, as he pulled out the gold-washed case of a watch which answered him for a tobacco box.

A peaceful smile stole over each face as the strangers scrutinized each other. They went in and got some more beverage and returned to the depot, wondering how it was that human nature is so unreliable.—Detroit Free Press.

A Stupendous Centennial Bust.

A recent number of La Staffetta, an Italian journal, informs us that the Italian sculptor, Pietro Guarnerio, of Milan, who won a prize at the Viennese Exposition for two groups of his which were purchased by the Emperor of Austria, and repetitions of which were afterward ordered by the Emperor of Germany, has now in hand a most wonderful bust of Washington. Signor Guarnerio, it appears, understands it to be the intention of our Centennial Commissioners to erect a single building covering an area of 2,578,000 square metres, and representing, therefore, a length of more than one statute mile on each side, together with a tower to be of thrice the height of the so-called "Tower of Babel," of the Cathedral of Milan, or, in round numbers, about 1,075 feet. Naturally enough Signor Guarnerio has come to the conclusion that anybody who expects any work of his to be so much as visible in so vast an edifice, the like of which, he justly observes, "has never been seen before on earth that we know of," must put himself to unusual pains in the way of conception and execution. So Signor Guarnerio is now engaged in making a colossal bust of the father of our country "at the moment when he gave the United States their Constitution," and, in order to give this bust "dimensions adequate to the circumstances," he has purchased four car-loads of modeling clay, and is making a figure, the little finger of the left hand of which is to be twenty-six centimetres, or about a quarter of a yard in length! It is gratifying to know, on the authority of La Staffetta, that in this remarkable work "the great citizen" of America is represented in the most simple and natural attitude possible, and expresses the satisfaction of a stainless conscience which, having fulfilled a sublime act, and being convinced that it has discharged its duty thoroughly, feels that it has touched the summit of its wishes.

Beds and Bedrooms.

Never use anything but light blankets as a covering for the sick. The heavy impervious cotton counterpane is bad for the reason that it keeps in the exhalations from the pores of the sick person, while the blankets allow them to pass through. Weak persons are invariably distressed by a great weight of bedclothes, which often prevents them from getting any sound sleep whatever. It is better to sleep in a cool room and dress in one that is well warmed, than the opposite. If it is necessary to heat the bedroom, let it be by means of an open grate fire, rather than by a register or flue. In view of the fact that most people pass one-third of the twenty-four hours in bed, the importance of having only the best bedding needs no argument. There is no wisdom, therefore, in buying cheap or second-class articles for the sleeping room; but true prudence directs to get the very best bedding that your means will command; a first-class hair mattress will outlast two of inferior quality. The same difference will also be found in respect to feathers, and with the latter, as with hair, the best is always cheapest. Too many young housekeepers neglect to follow this rule, and pursue a penny-wise and pound-foolish policy, where they might just as well have adopted the opposite practice.

Mother-in-Law.

Why is it (says Harper's Monthly that the English-speaking man loves not the presence and is indifferent to the memory of the mother-in law? And why, as a general thing, do they chuckle over such statements as this?

"It was the night on which John Todd made his great speech to the colored population on Munjoy Hill. Capt. Morrill from time to time awoke the echoes with his cannon. A man rushed up to him and said:

"'For God's sake don't fire any more!'

"'Why not?' asked the astonished John.

"'There's a dead woman lying in the next house.'

"'Well,' said John, 'if she's dead the noise won't hurt her; and the country must be saved.'

"'Yes,' groaned the man, 'I know that; but she's my mother-in-law, and I've heard that guns will awake the dead.'"

Score One for the Ulster.

A neat little trick was recently played on a hotel-keeper in New Haven: A stranger lost at throwing dice in a saloon, and the proprietor proposed, as he had no money, that he leave his Ulster coat as security. Instead of the coat, the stranger left his trowsers. He left the saloon, his high top boots and long Ulster concealing the loss of his trowsers, and engaged a room in a hotel for the night. In the morning he complained to the landlord that his trowsers, with $20 in the pockets, had been stolen from his room during the night. The landlord, anxious to preserve the good name of his house, immediately bought the swindler a new pair of trowsers, replaced the money supposed to have been lost, and sent him on his way rejoicing. —New Hampshire Palladium.

It appears from a Government report that the number of persons who settled in Canada from abroad declined from 39,973 in 1874 to 20,410 in 1875. Although immigration was dull everywhere last year, this city fared somewhat better proportionately than the Dominion, 84,560 immigrants having arrived at our wharves, against 140,000 the previous year.—New York Tribune.

The county auditor at Sioux City can't tell a coon from a wolf skin, and it makes the boys laugh when he pays out the bounty money and asks if the wolves are thick out their way.

Presidents.

The following table, prepared for reference, shows the political sentiments and the date of the inauguration of each President, the length of time he lived after that event, and his age at the time of his death:

1. George Washington, Independent, inaugurated 1789; lived 10 years; age 68.
2. John Adams, Independent, inaugurated 1797; lived 29 years; age 90.
3. Thomas Jefferson, Democrat, inaugurated 1801; lived 25 years; age 83.
4. James Madison, Democrat, inaugurated 1809; lived 27 years; age 85.
5. James Monroe, Democrat, inaugurated 1817; lived 14 years; age 73.
6. John Q. Adams, Whig, inaugurated 1825; lived 23 years; age 81.
7. Andrew Jackson, Democrat, inaugurated 1829; lived 16 years; age 78.
8. Martin Van Buren, Democrat, inaugurated 1837; lived 25 years; age 80.
9. W. H. Harrison, Whig, inaugurated 1841; lived 1 month; age 68.
10. John Tyler, V. P., Independent, inaugurated 1841; lived 21 years; age 72.
11. James K. Polk, Democrat, inaugurated 1845; lived 4 years; age 54.
12. Zachary Taylor, Whig, inaugurated 1849; lived 16 months; age 66.
13. Millard Fillmore, V. P., Independent, inaugurated 1850; lived 24 years; age 74.
14. Franklin Pierce, Democrat, inaugurated 1853; lived 16 years; age 65.
15. James Buchanan, Democrat, inaugurated 1857; lived 11 years; age 77.
16. Abraham Lincoln, Republican, inaugurated 1861; lived 4 years and 1¼ months; age 56.
17. Andrew Johnson, V. P., Independent, inaugurated 1865; lived 10 years; age 67.
18. General Grant, Republican, inaugurated 1869.

Tyler and Fillmore were elected Vice-Presidents as Whigs, and Johnson as a Republican. Their "independence" followed their inauguration as Presidents.

Mrs. Hough died in Alexandria, Va., last week, at the age of 96. She grew up to womanhood in the State of New Jersey, where she was born, and when just 21 cast a vote for Thomas Jefferson for President—a property qualification in that State then entitling a woman to vote.

The general talk is Dobbins' Electric Soap (made by Cragin & Co., Philadelphia). There never was a soap so highly and generally praised. It tells a story of its own merits, that cannot be contradicted. Try it.

"Know Thy Opportunity."

The grim monster, Death, was stealthily approaching. I could almost feel his hot, fiery breath upon my forehead. My faithless goddess, Hygeia, had utterly deserted me. Only now and then would Morpheus befriend me, but on this auspicious day he had deigned to moisten my eyelids with heavenly ambrosia, and I slept. As I slept, behold, I had a dream! I thought that I was roaming upon foreign soil whither my physician had sent me to recover my health. I was in a great metropolis—one of the grand marts of the world. In one of my strolls I chanced to meet a man who had in his hand a handsomely-bound volume, entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," and who said that he was an agent for the sale of the book. The title was such a novel one that I was impelled to give the work a casual notice. As I hastily glanced over its pages, I observed that it contained treatises not commonly found in medical works. But I had too many times been hoaxed by appearances, and I determined that I would have nothing to do with it. A voice within me, like a faithful mentor, whispered, "Know thy opportunity; in that book is thy salvation!" I began reasoning with myself. Although doubtful and distrustful, yet I put forth my hand to take the book, and, lo! the agent was gone! I was miserable. In my agony I awoke. Great drops of perspiration were upon my brow. By my bedside was a friend who had called during my slumber to see me. Said my friend, "I have brought with me a book, just published, which I thought might interest you." One glance at the work, and I was assured that it was "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. Surely, this was the veritable book which I had seen in my dreams. My friend loaned me the work, and every day, as my strength permitted, I perused its pages. Although it contained very interesting treatises on Biology, Cerebral Physiology, Human Temperaments, Nursing of the Sick, etc., yet, being an invalid, I was most interested in the subjects of Diseases and Remedies. I believed that I had a liver affection, and yet more than one medical attendant had pronounced my disease Consumption, and that I would fall with the autumn leaves. I reasoned thus: "Any man who can so truthfully depict my feelings, and apparently understand my constitutional tendencies, must know just what my physical system demands. I will trust my case with Dr. Pierce. I will take his Golden Medical Discovery as recommended for my disease." The result is, that after having perseveringly followed his prescribed treatment, I once again enjoy the blessings of health. Therefore, I would say to the afflicted, "Know thy opportunity," and take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Quis.

Chicago Ledger—Best story paper going. See advertisement.

Scrofulous Humors.—The Vegetine has cured many cases of scrofula of five, ten, and twenty years' standing, where the patient has had many physicians, tried many of the known remedies; and, after trying the Vegetine, the common remark is: "It acts differently, works differently, from any medicine I have ever taken." Vegetine will cleanse scrofula from the system. Try it.

Pimples on the face, rough skin, chapped hands, saltrheum and all cutaneous affections cured, the skin made soft and smooth, by the use of Juniper Tar Soap. That made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, is the only kind that can be relied on, as there are many imitations, made from common tar, which are worthless.

Cheapest, best family paper in the world—Chicago Ledger. See advertisement.

DR. SCHENCK'S STANDARD REMEDIES.—The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic, and Schenck's Mandrake Pills, and, if taken before the lungs are destroyed, a speedy cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Pulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative; the alkali of which it is composed mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday.

Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country.

SILVER TIPPED SHOES. From Maine to California millions of children are wearing SILVER TIPPED Shoes. Why not? they are the cheapest and never wear through at the toe. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles.

To convince you of the great popularity of the CABLE SCREW WIRE you need only see the base imitations and vain attempts to get up something similar. Also, try Wire Quilted Soles. CABLE SCREW WIRE

$10 to $25 per day. Send for Chromo Catalogue. J. H. Bufford's Sons, Boston, Mass.

$5 to $20 a day at home. Samples worth $1 sent free. Stinson & Co., Portland, Me.

All Diseases of the Blood

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

Seventy-one Years of Age.

East Marshfield, Aug. 22, 1870.

Mr. Stevens:

Dear Sir—I am seventy-one years of age; have suffered many years with Kidney Complaint, Weakness in my Back and Stomach. I was induced by friends to try your VEGETINE, and I think it the best medicine for Weakness of the Kidneys I ever used. I have tried many remedies for this complaint, and never found so much relief as from the VEGETINE. It strengthens and invigorates the whole system. Many of my acquaintances have taken it, and I believe it to be good for all the complaints for which it is recommended.

Yours truly, JOSIAH H. SHERMAN.

Best Evidence

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Best, Pastor M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians; also those suffering from the same disease as afflicted the son of the Rev. E. S. Best. No person can doubt this testimony, and there is no doubt about the curative powers of VEGETINE:

Natick, Mass., Jan. 1, 1874.

Mr. H. R. Stevens:

Dear Sir—We have good reason for regarding your VEGETINE a medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age; for the last two years he has suffered from Necrosis of his Leg, caused by Scrofulous affection, and was so far reduced that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying, two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies; that even amputation could not save him, as he had not vigor enough to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him VEGETINE, and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed his studies, thrown away crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of VEGETINE, but lately uses but little, as he declares that he is too well to be taking medicine.

Respectfully yours,
E. S. BEST.
MRS. L. C. F. BEST.

VEGETINE is SOLD by ALL DRUGGISTS

Housekeepers rejoice.—AGENTS make money with our 6 new articles. Capewell & Co., Cheshire, Ct.

20 FANCY MIXED CARDS, with Name, 10 cents, postpaid. L. Jones & Co., Nassau, N. Y.

WANTED AGENTS. Samples and Outfit free. Better than Gold. A. Coulter & Co., Chicago.

ASTHMA. The only sure remedy. Trial package free. L. Smithnight, Cleveland, O.

Imitation Gold Watches. Send for Circular. Collins Gold Metal Watch Co., P. O. Box 3696, New York.

$20 A DAY. HOW TO MAKE IT. Something New. Coe, Yonge & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

$12 a day at home. Agents wanted. Outfit and terms free. Address True & Co., Augusta, Maine.

40 FANCY CARDS, 7 Styles, with name, 10c. Address J. B. Husted, Nassau, Rens. Co., N. Y.

DEAFNESS RELIEVED. NO MEDICINE. Book free. G. J. Wood, Madison, Ind.

500,000 Evergreens, 1 to 6 feet; 300,000 Osage Plants at prices that defy competition. Circulars free. Address Harnish, Creswell & Co., Kirkwood, Ill.

ATTENTION!—Before moving West, or investing in Land, write for information of the Garden Spot of Kansas to ROSAN & COMPANY, Hutchinson, Kansas.

WANTED—Agents—$100 per month and expenses, with $11.35 capital. Business pleasant and respectable. E. Bicknell & Co., 174 Elm st., Cincinnati.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 40cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

$350 A Month—Agents wanted. 36 best selling articles in the world. One sample free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

WE PAY $85 A Month and traveling expenses to Sell our Goods TO DEALERS in every county in the U. S. No Peddling. Cincinnati Novelty Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

MONEY Made rapidly with Stencil and Key Check Outfits. Catalogues and full particulars FREE. S. M. Spencer, 117 Washington St., Boston.

300 Per cent. profit to Agents. Portraits, &c., drawn by Machinery. For full particulars address Smithograph M'f'g Co., St. Louis, Mo.

The particulars will do all they claim.—Weekly Sun, N. Y. Jan. 12, 1876. 4 DOGS FOR 2. Send stamp for particulars. C. F. Wingate & Co. Limited, 80 Duane st., N. Y.

A Miniature Oil Painting on Canvas which will be your own Likeness, free, with The Home Weekly, sent 3 months on trial for 25 cts. Money to Agents. L. T. Luther, Mill Village, Erie Co., Pa.

BOOK AGENTS. MOODY & SANKEY.—The only original, authentic and complete record of these men and their works. Beware of imitations. Send for Circulars. American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

Stock Growers Colony, New Mexico. Great inducements offered to Colonists. Call or send for Circular. 130 Dearborn St., Chicago.

LOOK Your Name Elegantly Printed on 12 Transparent Visiting Cards, for 25 Cents. Each card contains scenes which is not visible until held towards the light. Nothing like them ever before offered in America. Big inducements to Agents. Novelty Printing Co., Ashland, Mass.

OPIUM Habit Cured At Home. No publicity. Time short. Terms moderate. 1,000 testimonials. 6th year of unparalleled success. Describe case. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

35 Mixed Visiting Cards—Snowflake, Damask and Repp—sent postpaid for 25 cts. Acquaintance Cards 10 cts. per pack. Agents Wanted. Terms and samples for green stamp. Agent's full outfit 25c. F. S. Tolman, Brockton, Mass., Box 301.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

OPIUM and Morphine habit absolutely and speedily cured. Painless; no publicity. Send stamp for particulars. Dr. Carlton, 187 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

$77 PER WEEK GUARANTEED to Agents. Male and Female, in their own locality. Terms and OUTFIT FREE. Address P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Maine.

REVOLVERS!! SEVEN SHOT New Buffalo Bill Revolver Sent with 100 Cart- $3.00 ridges for $3. Full Nickel Plate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Illustrated Catalogue Free. Address WESTERN GUN WORKS, Chicago, Ill.

WANTED Men to sell our goods to DEALERS. No peddling from house to house. $80 a month, and traveling expenses paid. MONITOR MANUF'T'G CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to learn Telegraphy. Situations furnished. Steady promotion guaranteed. We supply all operators hired by Metropolitan and American District Telegraph Cos., Chicago. Address, with stamp, N. W. TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE, Janesville, Wis.

BOOK AGENTS. MARK TWAIN'S New Book outsells everything. Don't worry about hard times. Sell this book and see how easy there are. Send for circulars to American Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

AN ENERGETIC BUSINESS MAN WANTED in every County in the Union as General Agent for a first-class staple article in the Grocery line. The business can be made to pay $2,500 yearly. Address Stetson, Carpenter & Co., 43 Jay Street, New York.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY. AGENTS make $100 weekly by canvassing for it; 128 pages, 80 illustrations, $3.50 yearly, with elegant chromo. Send 20 cents for copy and terms to FRANK LESLIE, New York.

WANTED—A few intelligent Ladies and Gentlemen to solicit orders for Capt. Glazier's new work, "Battles for the Union." Just the book for Centennial times. All expenses advanced. References required. DUSTIN, GILMAN & CO., Hartford, Conn.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Lover's Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAM & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

BOWDITCH'S FLOWERS. My Illustrated Floral Catalogue for 1876 is now ready. Price 10 Cents, less than half the cost. WILLIAM E. BOWDITCH, 645 Warren St., Boston, Mass.

[illegible] Northwestern Claim Collection and Pension Agency. [illegible] WEBBER, Chicago, Ill. [illegible] Information guaranteed in all cases.

5,000 AGENTS WANTED. $50 to $50 a Week and Expenses, [illegible] All the new and standard Novelties and Chromos, Prize Packages, Watches, Jewelry, etc. [illegible] to Agents everywhere. We send Valuable Samples, with Circulars of our Goods, free to all. R. L. FLETCHER, 111 Chambers St., New York.

CARDS—[illegible] V. C. HARMON, 66 Kneeland [illegible] Boston. Refers to S. M. Pettengill & Co.

Allen's Planet Jr. Silver Medal Hand Drills and Wheel Hoes. [illegible] S. L. ALLEN & CO., [illegible] Phila., Pa. Circulars free. A Live Agent Wanted in every town.

AGENTS! 150 NEW BOOKS ARE MOST COMPLETELY REPRESENTED IN OUR GRAND COMBINATION PROSPECTUS, by sample pages, bindings, illustrations, etc. All are picked, popular works on every subject. Why risk all on one doubtful book, when you can make success sure by offering customers choice of 150? Our Agents have the inside track, and are delighted with their quick sales. Full out is sent for particulars at once to VALLEY PUBLISHING CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

WANTED AGENTS For the GREAT CENTENNIAL HISTORY. UNIVERSAL HISTORY to the close of the first 100 years of our National Independence, including an account of the coming Grand Centennial Exhibition. 700 pages, fine engravings, low price, quick sales. Extra terms. Send for Circular. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 501 S. Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL R. R. MAP OF THE U. S. NEW PICTORIAL CHARTS, Etc., for the TIMES. WIDE-AWAKE MEN are making large profits selling our fresh works. Catalogues and Terms free. Write to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., New York, or 174 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

DO YOUR OWN PRINTING! NOVELTY PRINTING PRESS. For Professional and Amateur Printers, Schools, Societies, Manufacturers, Merchants, and others it is the BEST ever invented. 13,000 in use. Ten styles. Prices from $5.00 to $150.00. BENJ. O. WOODS & CO. Manuf'rs and dealers in all kinds of Printing Material, 49 Federal St. Boston. Send stamp for Catalogue.

AGENTS should write for Agency for new book by Ann Eliza Young BRIGHAM'S WIFE No. 19, selling at the rate of 1,000 a week. Full expose of the horrible system of Polygamy. Illustrated Circulars, with complete information free to all. Address nearest office of Dustin, Gilman & Co., Hartford, Ct., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O.

How to buy him. How to sell him. How to train him. How to tell a trotter. A NEW BOOK of great interest to Horsemen. Sent by mail for 50 cents. Address J. P. VINCENT, Box 58, Chicago, Ill.

FOUTZ'S HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS. Will cure or prevent Disease.

INQUIRE FOR W. A. DROWN & CO'S UMBRELLAS. PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK.—The qualities marked with their name are confidently recommended.

PORTABLE SODA FOUNTAINS. $40. $50. $75. $100. CHEAP & DURABLE. Will yield 400 per cent profit. SHIPPED READY FOR USE. Send for Catalogue. Address the only Manufacturers CHAPMAN & CO. Madison, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE CENTENNIAL HISTORY OF THE U. S. The great interest in the thrilling history of our country makes this the fastest-selling book ever published. It contains a full account of the approaching grand Centennial Exhibition. CAUTION.—Old, Incomplete and Unreliable works are being circulated; see that the book you buy contains 442 Fine Engravings and 925 Pages. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

FREE to all who wish their Seed directly from the grower, my elegantly illustrated Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue. Address, JAMES J. H. GREGORY, Marblehead, Mass.

Oldest, Largest, Cheapest, Best. GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE. The only Illustrated Family & Literary Paper in Phila. Larger than the N. Y. Ledger. Only $2.00 a Year. SPECIAL CLUB RATES: 4 copies, one year.....$ 7.00 | 10 copies, one year...$15.00; [illegible] 10.00 | 20 [illegible] 25.00. An extra copy FREE to getter-up of club of ten or twenty. Sample copy and circulars FREE. AGENTS Wanted. Gold Premiums. All subscriptions one begin with a new story. Address THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, 726 Sansom Street, Phila.

CHICAGO LEDGER FOR $1.00, POSTPAID. In order that everybody may be enabled to take this great Story and Family Newspaper, we have determined to offer it till Jan., 1877, for $1.00, postpaid. It is the LARGEST, HANDSOMEST, BEST, and most widely circulated Newspaper in the West. Send money addressed THE LEDGER, Chicago, Ill.

WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL. TRADE MARK. "NATURE'S GREAT REMEDY." This Cordial is a CERTAIN CURE for Coughs, Colds, Inflammation of the Lungs, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, and if taken in time, will arrest that fatal disease Consumption. The basis of this medicine is a preparation of Tar obtained by a peculiar process from the sap of the Pine Tree, the medicinal properties of which are well known. With this powerful element are thoroughly incorporated several other vegetable ingredients, each of which possess soothing and healing attributes, thus making it the most POTENT ANTAGONIST to all diseases of the pulmonary organs that has yet been introduced.

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL Is not a new remedy that has never been heard of before, but an OLD, RELIABLE, AND WELL-TRIED medicine that has been in daily use by families and intelligent physicians for the last sixteen years, and is spoken of in the highest terms by all who have used it, as thousands of UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS prove. If you suffer from any disease for which this Cordial is recommended, we unhesitatingly say: "TRY IT, WE KNOW IT WILL DO YOU GOOD." A single bottle will demonstrate its valuable qualities. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AND STOREKEEPERS. PRINCIPAL DEPOT, 232 North Second St., Philad'a.

HOME GROWN SEEDS. OUR NEW CATALOGUE, 18 pages, containing the greatest variety of Garden and Flower Seeds, and the best strains of home grown seeds for Market Gardeners, Family Gardens, Amateurs and Florists, sent free to all who apply. HOVEY & CO. 53 No. Market St. Boston, Mass.

OPIUM Morphine Habit AND Intemperance. Speedily cured by DR. BECK'S only known and sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call on or address Dr. J. C. BECK, 112 John St., Cincinnati, O.

PORTABLE GRINDING MILLS. Best French Burr, [illegible] under-runners, [illegible] for Farm or Merchant Work. Superior Mill Stones of all sizes, Genuine Dutch Anker Bolting Cloth, Mill Picks, Corn Shellers and Cleaners, Gearing, Shafting, Pulleys, Hangers, etc., all kinds of Mill Machinery and Millers' supplies. Send for Pamphlet. Straub Mill Company, Box 1460, Cincinnati, O.

WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND LIME. Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil and Lime.—The great popularity of this safe and efficacious preparation is alone attributable to its intrinsic worth. In the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Scrofulous Humors, and all Consumptive Symptoms, it has no superior, if equal. Let no one neglect the early symptoms of disease, when an agent is thus at hand which will alleviate all complaints of the Chest, Lungs, or Throat. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists.

"DOMESTIC" SEWING MACHINES. Liberal Terms of Exchange for Second-hand Machines of every description. "DOMESTIC" PAPER FASHIONS. The Best Patterns made. Send 5cts. for Catalogue. Address DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE CO. Agents Wanted. NEW YORK.

$1,700 IN PREMIUMS TO BE AWARDED BY B. K. BLISS & SONS TO POTATO GROWERS. $600 to be divided among the six most successful growers who shall produce the largest quantity from 1 lb. of RUBY and ALPHA potatoes. Price of each, $1 per lb. CENTENNIAL PREMIUMS. $150 to be awarded for the best collection, one peck each, of potatoes introduced by us since 1867. $50 for the best and most promising seedlings raised this year from Pringle's Hybridized Potato Seed. Packets of 25 seeds, 50 cts. The collections for which the last two premiums of $200 are offered will be exhibited at the Centennial Exhibition, in Philadelphia, in October and premiums will be awarded by their committee. For conditions and full particulars send for our Potato Premium Circular, mailed free to all. Bliss's Illustrated Seed Catalogue and Amateur's Guide to the Flower and Kitchen Garden, contains a descriptive list of 2500 varieties of Garden, Field and Flower Seeds, with explicit directions for culture, 200 pages, several hundred engravings, and a beautifully colored lithograph. Sent postpaid, for 35 cents. Bliss's Gardener's Almanac and Abridged Catalogue of Garden, Field and Flower Seeds, 116 pages, beautifully illustrated, mailed to all applicants inclosing 10cts. Bliss's Illustrated Potato Catalogue contains a descriptive list of all the new varieties recently introduced, with many other desirable sorts, also much useful information upon their cultivation. 32 pages, 10 cents. B. K. BLISS & SONS, P.O. Box No. 5712. 34 Barclay St., N.Y.

C. N. U. No. 11

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

MERIDEN CUTLERY CO. THE "PATENT IVORY" HANDLE TABLE KNIFE. MANUFACTURE ALL KINDS OF TABLE CUTLERY. Exclusive Makers of the "PATENT IVORY" or Celluloid Knife, the most durable WHITE HANDLE known. The Oldest Manufacturers in America. Original Makers of the HARD RUBBER HANDLE. Always call for "Trade Mark" "MERIDEN CUTLERY CO." on the blade. Warranted and sold by all Dealers in Cutlery, and by the MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., 49 Chambers Street, New York.

PENSIONS. TO WHOM PENSIONS ARE PAID. EVERY SOLDIER Disabled in the service of the United States, either by accident or otherwise, gets a pension. The loss of a finger, or the loss of the use of a finger, the loss of an eye, the loss of a toe, or any gun-shot wound, or other injury, gives a pension. RUPTURE. A rupture, if but slight, will give a pension. [illegible] Let me file your case while there is yet time. BOUNTY. Full Bounty paid to all soldiers discharged on account of wounds, rupture, or any injury, the same as if he served his full time. Send two stamps for a circular of Pension and Bounty acts. [illegible] Land Warrant acts sent for 10 cents. P. H. FITZGERALD, Indianapolis, Ind. Authorized U. S. Claim Agency for Western Soldiers. [illegible] Mark on all letters P. O. Box 54.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, MAR., 23, 1876.

Democratic Central Committee.

In view of the early meeting of the Democratic State Convention, April 19, and the absence of the chairman, T. C. Mays, on the advice of political friends, I, as one of the committee, request the members of the Democratic Central Committee of this county, to meet in Auburn at 10 o'clock a. m. to make such steps as may be deemed necessary to select 10 delegates to the State convention, and transact such other business as may come before them.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7th, 1876,

JAMES McCLELLAN.

We will publish the names of the Committee next week.

Those mules are kicking back at Bristow and they are likely to lame him so he can't take the track in the radical hurdle race at Cincinnati.

Some more radicals in high position are trembling in their boots. When the whole story of Barlow, Sanderson & Co. is told there will be a few more politicians laid upon the shelf.

It does the Republican soul good to involve a few Democrats in the current exposures. They receive no sort of quarter, and the sins of one Democrat hide a multitude of Republican rascalities.

The New York Times sets up a mournful howl over the expense that will be incurred in publishing the reports of investigations now going on. How careful these honest Republicans are of the public treasure!

It will not be long before the Republican papers will be excusing the simple-minded and trusting Belknap, for being led away into the by and forbidden paths of sin by that unprincipled democrat, Caleb March.

It is now rumored that Storey has sold a part of the Chicago "Times, and that it will hereafter be run as a Democratic paper. We don't know whether the report is true or false.

The trial of Palmer for the shooting of Murray, of the South Bend Herald, is set for trial the present term of the St. Joseph circuit court. A special venire for forty-eight jurymen has been, ordered by Judge Stanfield.

Hendricks introduced General Love to the Secretary of War in 1866. Gen Love was interested in the Gatling gun. Now Hendricks is charged with criminal complicity because of this courtesy. That is about the sum and substance of the charge.

Blaine says if the case of Belknap was given over to the Republicans they would impeach him, and send him to the penitentiary, too. Well Babcock was entirely in their hands, unmolested by the Democrats. They had all the witnesses, courts, jury, counsel and the Ingalls now claims that he is a poor man and asks what has become of the money he is suppposed to have received from the sale of his soul? That tinted satin memorandum to Mrs. Grant accounts for four thousand four hundred dollars of it. This was the price paid for the position he holds, and perhaps a large portion of the proceeds therefrom passed into the same family. The head of the household must have received something.

The fact that a disposition is being manifested all along the republican line just now to bombard Gov. Hendricks with charges of all kinds involving his personal and official character, shows that he is regarded by his political opponents not only as the man most likely to be nominated at St. Louis, but also as the one whom they most fear. The charges now trumped up against the governor are of the most puerile and flimsy description, and have been thoroughly exploded in several campaigns. The nothing new or of a more damaging nature can be produced against a man who has been in public life so long is the best proof that his career has been one of stainless and unblemished rectitude.—Fort Wayne Sentnial.

The only consolation the Republican papers are able to extract out of the fall of Belknap is, that they have found in looking over some ancient history that the decapitated Secretary was at one period of his life a rock rooted Democrat. Therefore they conclude that the Democratic party is accountable for the disgraceful conduct which compelled President Grant to address the crooked Secretary the following tender epistle:

"Dear Sir: Your tender of your resignation as Secretary of War with the request to have it accepted immediately is received and it is hereby accepted with great regret. Yours, U. S. Grant.

The probabilities are, that it will not be long before these same papers will be trying to show that the President, himself, was, at one time in his life also a Democrat. It is not stated as yet whether Schenck was ever a Democrat or whether Babcock, Ross Shepherd and the rest of the Washington thieves were ever in any way connected with the Democratic party.

plain letter of the law to help them, and yet they let that guilty man escape. If they had furnished the House of Representatives the evidence against him as faithful as they did Babcock's lawyers from the attorney general's office, he would have been impeached long ago.

Commissioners Allowances, for March Term, 1876.

EXPENSE OF PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Crane, Duncan & Co. bal. due for buildin' new Jail & Sheriffs residence	$[illegible]
Bush & Hagin, bill seed for furnace	3 50
C. C. Shaffer, repairing Clerk's office	45 00
Russel Bumpus, repairing court room per order of Circuit Judge	[illegible]

EXPENSE OF COURT.

W. L. Meese, sum'g Jurors & Com	37 80
" " serving com. court Mar. term	16 00
Spring & Robertson, statutes court room	20 00
To sandry persons, Dec. term 1875, circuit court allowances	815 75

EXPENSE OF CRIMINALS.

Russel Bumpus, making troughs for Jail cistern	10 25
W. L. Meese, committing, boarding pris'rs	[illegible]
H. H. Stamets, goods furnished Jail	16 75
" " " prisoners	1 00
J. D. Williamson " "	2 [illegible]
Robert Zacher " "	5 80
F. D. Ryan " "	4 60
S. W. Sprott & Son " "	6 15
V. A. Beard " "	1 00
C. Clots. Clothing " "	6 50
C. C. Shaffet	25 51
W. L. Meese cash advanced for furnace	6 00
Spring & Robertson, handcuffs, &c

EXPENSE OF INSANE.

W. L. Meese, persons from insane asy'y	48 90
G. H. K. Moss, fees in matter of insanity.	3 15

EXPENSE OF SALARY.

Nicholas Ensley, Co. Treas. qur. Mar. 4,	280 00
Isaac Hague " Aud. " "	412 75
James A. Barns " Supt " "	146 50
C. R. Wanamaker " Com. " "	38 00
Geo H. Duncan " " " "	38 00
Nelson Griffith " " " "	[illegible]

EXPENSE OF BOOKS STATIONERY & PRINTING.

Wing & Co publishing notices	4 25
W. B. Burford. blank books & stationery	265 65
R. H. Weamer pub. notices & road recp'ts.	40 20
Cameron, Amburg & Co. blank books	149 50
C. K. Baxter, publishing notices &c	55 35
Davis Bros, duplicates for year 1876	73 05
T. C. Mays, publishing notices &c	7 08

EXPENSE ILLEGAL TAXES.

Geo. Long, poll tax refunded	1 50
Wm. Allen " "	1 75

EXPENSE RETURNING FINES.

D. Altenberg, J. P. fee	25
C. Smith " "	2 85

EXPENSE OF BRIDGES, ROADS & DITCHES.

Peter High superintendin' buildin' bridge	4 00
M. Casseleman buildin' bridge Smit'd-tp	73 00
Nelson Griffith Supt. Bridges	12 00
Geo H. Duncan " "	20 00
D. Culver repairing bridge Union-tp	94 40
David Smith piling "	15 60
D. Culver repairs on bridges "	3 00
Same building bridge Butler-tp	57 94

ROADS.

W. L. Meese serving notices on road viewers & precincts on Trustees	28 00

Jacob Shuman	$1 50	Jacob Bechtel	1 50
Simon McInterfer	3 00	Timothy McClure	1 50
John Lutz	1 50	Nathen Crooks	3 00
R. G. Daniels	3 00	John McCosker	3 00
Daniel Gonser	6 00	J. T. St Clair	1 50
Jeremiah Plum	1 50	Henry Bechtel	1 50

DITCHES.

John Buchanan	$1 50	Jacob Brumback	1 50
L. J. Britton	3 00	James McClellan	3 00
Christian Sheets	3 00	J. J. VanAuken	3 00
Amos Britton	3 00	same	3 00
John Buchanan	3 00	John Buchanan	15 00
J. M. Brumback	9 00	Willard Childs	10 50
James A. Dirlan	3 75

J. J. VanAuken Surveyor & Engineer and locating ditches	83 50

EXPENSE OF POOR.

Jacob Kahn goods furnished poor	$15 00
" " " " "	5 40
H. W. Coburn " " "	15 00
Steifel & Ochs " " "	24 06
R. E. Williams " " "	9 62
Paterson & Co " " "	15 80
D. Moody " " "	4 00
C. C. Shaffer " " "	28 50
Robert Zacher " " "	5 95
F. D. Ryan " " "	2 70
S. W. Sprott & Son " " "	15 10
C. Klotz " " "	2 90
J. E. Shilling " " "	15 40
S. W. Ralston " " "	67 75
T. B. Totten " " "	9 75
Cool & Ralston " " "	3 75
V. A. Beard " " "	12 21
J. L. Davis " " "	9 15
J. D. Williamson	9 23
A. C. Brown, boardin' clothing Wm. Barday a pauper	18 50
R. Till, goods furnished D. Deer, poor per'n	14 08
R. N. Crooks, cash advanced on pauper ac	16 25
N. H. Mathews goods & provisions furnished R. Recker	5 00
B. B. Long livery looking after poor	2 00
J. A. Cowen, medical attendance on poor	9 00
F. Snyder " " "	50 00
Jared Spooner Co Physician " "	46 50
S. Stow " "	5 00
W. Long 2 coffins furnished poor	13 50
M. P. Baker provisions furnished poor	7 80
Hoopengarner & sons, medicines "	2 50
John W. Murphy, coffin	3 00
W. H. Rodarmer, pauper to Co Asylum	8 00
B. F. Moody, clothing & furni'g poor family	34 00
T. C. Ford, cash advanced send away pau.	7 50
Ford & Parent, livery, looking after poor	7 00
G. Wagoner, work for "Poor Farm"	4 00
H. A. Shull, brick furnished "	10 90
Geo. Clark, service of horse "	15 00
Sarah Fales, work done "	18 00
W. La Rose, cash & "	6 85
L. D. Pattee cash and salary as supt.	86 43
F. E. Davenport medicine for a poor person	1 90
J. W. Swaldner keeping "	1 50

MISCELLANEOUS EXPENSE

G. H. K. Moss, freight and expressage paid on books	1 45
N. Ensley, 1 per cent on the collection of $10,000 and P. O. stamps for office	105 25
I. Hague 1 per cent for managing school funds	198 84
I. Hague 1 per cent for postage stamps &c for use of office	3 05
J. Showalter, renovating, repairing pump	6 50
W McIntyre settling with Trustees &c	12 00
J. J. VanAuken one engineers level.	80 00
F. E. Davenport goods for county	8 85
C. P. Houser, window shades, bill files &c for Clerk's and Sheriffs office	11 85
Ford & Parent, livery, looking after county business	1 50
J. L. Davis goods furnished county	54 12
D. D. Snyder, oil cloth, door bell &c for Sheriffs residence	27 89

ISAAC HAGUE, AUDITOR.

JOSEPH BEUGNOT,

PROPRIETOR OF THE

BILLIARD HALL AND SALOON.

On Seventh Street, west side of Bank, which will be known as the St. Nichols Saloon. All kinds of choice

Wines and Liquors

ALWAYS ON HAND

Is also agent for Sentlivere's Jr. BOTTLED BEER, now the best in use.

JOS. BEUGNT.

Aubusn, March 16, 1875.

Surveyor's Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the County Surveyor, will at my request locate and re-locate lines and corners in and adjoining sections one (1) and two, (2) township thirty-five, (35) North Range twelve (12) East, and that said Surveyor will meet all interested persons at the North-West corner of said section one, (1) on the morning of the 4th day of April 1876.

WALTER W. CRISE, Applicant.

J. J. VANAUKEN, County Surveyor. 3w

SELECT SCHOOL.

MRS. THOMAS will open a Select School, in the new school building, March 30, 1876, where she will be pleased to meet all her old scholars, and as many new ones as may choose to come. The tuition will be from three to four dollars for the entire term.

NOTICE.

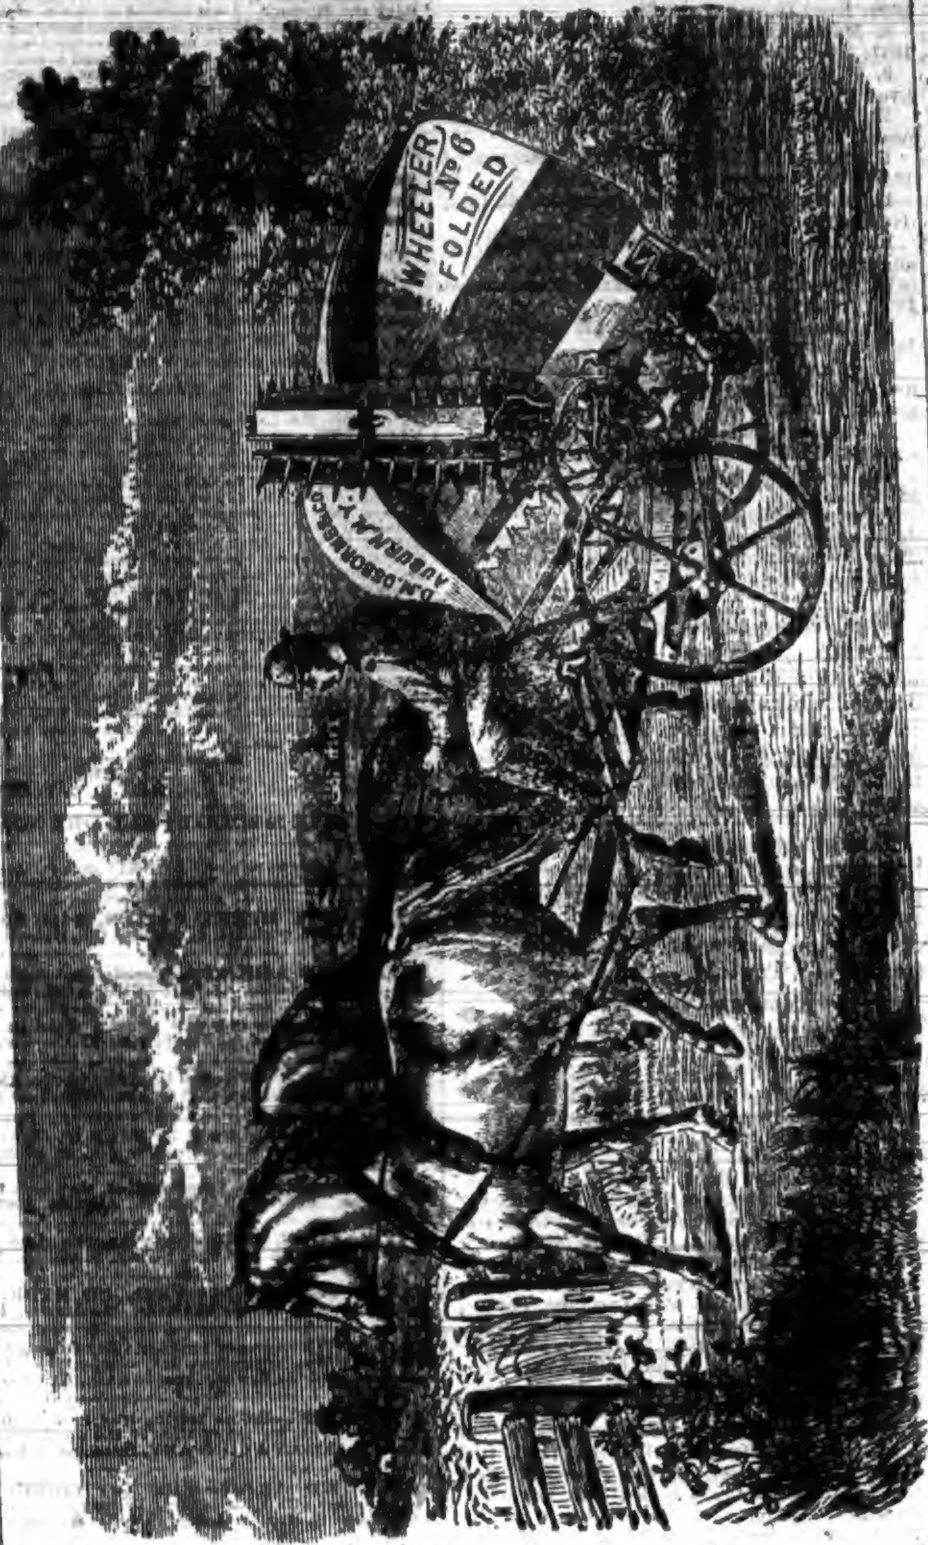
IS HEREBY GIVEN that the undersigned, administrator of the estate of Landslot Ingman, deceased, by order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, will, on Saturday, the 22d day of April, 1876, sell, at public sale, at the dwelling house on the premises, the undivided two-thirds of seventy-eight acres of land off the west side of the northeast quarter of section thirty-three (33), township thirty-four (34) north of range thirteen (13) east, said undivided two-thirds to be subject to the right-of-way of the Detroit, Eel River and Illinois Railway over said tract. Sale to be between the hours of two and four o'clock P. M. of said day. Terms: One-third down, one-third in nine, and one third in eighteen months, with interest, and secured by note and mortgage, waiving valuation and appraisement laws.

J. P. WIDNEY,
Administrator.

March 15, 1876.

We Chalenge the World for a Superior Combind Machine!

This is the only MACHINE in the world upon which the Reaping Table can be folded, thus making a Reaper that will pass through any where that a team can go These Machines with the Illustrious Burdick Reaper and all kinds of farming Implments, for sale by



James A. Matson,

WATERLOO, IND

Fruit House Bulletin

All Goods Retailed at Wholesale Prices

This is the Only Secret of Our Immense Trade.

we purchase at first hands and sell direct to the consumer, so there is no middlemen to eat up profits. Some goods—take teas for instance—pass through four different hands before they reach consumers, and each one has to have his profit, so that 40 to 50 per cent. is added to price. The importer has his profit of 10 per cent., the jobbing merchant his profit of 10 per cent., the speculator and whole sale merchants, 10 to 20 per cent. and the retailer at the rate. On Sugars, Coffee, Spices, Prune Fruits, Tobaccos, Liquors, or anything we deal in. Our customers get the benefit of all these intermediate profits. No middlemen with us. We are having a great run on Prunes. The Finest

PRUNES ONLY 8c A POUND.

They hardly ever sell lower than 12½c, and when you consider that Dried Apples are 12c, we all know a pound of Prunes will go farther and are considered much richer eating.

TEAS REDUCED

A penny saved is two pence got." Ten cents reduction on teas. The continued dullness in trade east, coupled with the large number of failures in the tea trade, has completely demoralized the market. Teas we used to sell at $1,40, and lately $1,10 per pound, we now sell at $1 per pound. The best uncolored Young Hyson, Imperial or Gunpowder, the very best qualities, now $1 per pound. The best uncolored Japan now 80c. was 90c, the best Oolong now 35c, was 90c. Other grades as low 25c per pound, up to 30, 60, and 70c per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

Best Rio, per pound,	25c	Roasted Coffee,	26 and 30c
Second Best Rio,	28c

Sugars.

New Orleans and Refined Granulated Crushed and Powdered	11c	New Orleans clarified	9c
Coffee A.	10½c	" "	8c
" C.	10c	Good brown	8c

CANNED FRUITS.

Peaches per can	15c	Pumpkin per can	10c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Hominey per can	10c
Canned Corn, per can	10 and 20c

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia Raisins, per pound	12½c	Peaches per pound
Pitted Cherries per pound	35c	Apples per pound
Raspberries per pound	45c

Wines and Liquors.

Good Whiskey, one year old, per gallon	$1 60	Port and Sherry Wines, per gallon,	1 50, in bottle 50c
Rye Whiskey. two years old	1 25	Sweet Angelica and California Muscatel, per gallon, 3 00; in bottles	30c
Three year old	1 75 2 00	Whiskey in bottles	30c and 50c
The $3 is for medical use and no better is sold anywhere.
CANDIES—Best Stick per pound	18c	French Mixed, choice, per pound	20c

TOBACCOS, TOBACCOS.

Good Navy and Twist, per pound..	45 and 50c	Smoking Tobacco	25c, best 40
Fine Kentucky Bright	60 and 70c	Shorts, best	8?c

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Coal Oil and Boss Oil, per gallon	20c	Machine Oil, Dark Virginia, per gallon	75c
Fish Oil and Lard Oil, per gallon	1 00	Best Refined
Neatsfoot Oil, per gallon	$1 00

We are Bound to Keep up Our Reputation of Underselling all others And Save You at least

25 Cents on the Dollar

Fruit House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

1776 Spring Trade 1876

ROOT & COMPANY'S

POPULAR DRYGOODS AND CARPET ESTABLISHMENT.

46 and 48 Calhoun-st, Fort Wayne, Ind.

OUR STOCK THIS SEASON

Is much larger than usual and our Prices invaribly low. It will pay you to

EXAMINE OUR

Black and Colored Silks, Fine and medium price Dress Goods, Mourning Goods Spring Shawls and Cloaks, Lace Shawls, House-keeping Linens and Cottons, Cloths, Cassimeres, Hosiery, Gloves, Embroideries, Laces, Fancy Goods, Parasols, Notions, etc., etc.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

We keep the largest and most complete stock in the State, and our prices are very low. Body Brussels, Tapestries, Extra Superingrains, Hall and Stair Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Rugs, Mats, Lace Curtains, Shades, Hollands, Fixtures etc, etc.

N. B. Samples sent to any address. Orders receive careful attention. Goods are delivered free at Railroad Depots.

ROOT & COMPANY.

46 and 48 CALHOUN STREET, FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

1876. Our Centennial Gift! 1876.

A FREE GIFT.

A Round trip ticket to Philadelphia and return, good six months, gratis. A chance for any one to visit the greatest exhibition in the world's history.

SAM, PETE & MAX, offer a most magnanimous present to their multitude of friends. Every purchaser of Five Dollars worth of Clothing at our store will secure a chance to draw one of the ten (10) round trip tickets, to the Centennial, which will be distributed July 1st, place and manner of drawing will be made known in time through the press, and Famous Star Clothing Hous

SAM, PETE & MAX,

Star Clothing House, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Auburn Fruit House

The Largest Stock of GROCERIES & PROVISIONS ever opened out in DeKalb County

AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION

TEAS:
COFFEES:
SUGARS:
Dried Fruits.

ALL AT BOTTOM RICES.

☞ Dont Fail to Call and examine PRICES ☜

Odd Fellows room, north Court House

E. E. WILLIAMS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

H. E. LITTLE, : : : : EDITOR.

Tuesday was a busy day.

Don't forget the Bell Ringers.

The saw mills have a notion to start up.

The voice of the musical frog is hushed.

We enjoyed a little sleighing on Tuesday last.

We learn that William Long has left the city.

Go to Dave Snyder and get the best plow on record.

Lyman Jackman and wife have located in our city again.

Look out for a fine sugar run after the present cold snap.

W. B. Dancer will sell household goods at auction next Saturday.

Small-pox is prevailing in some of our neighboring towns.

The shirt-pattern man was in town last week. Get measured, eh!

Auburn has more handsome girls than any place of its size in the State.

Call and examine the new spring goods at Miller & Casebeer.

Business of every kind remains dull on account of the bad condition of the roads.

Last Monday this locality was visited by the heavest fall of snow of the winter.

Too proud to beg, too honest to steal, is the mournful wail of the itinerent cuss.

Willis Randall, an old employee of the COURIER office, was in town this week.

A masquerade ball is talked of in the near future. Get it up boys, we'll agree to trip the "light fantastic" with you.

Miss Hattie Griswold will open a select school, in the North end school building, up stairs, March 20th 1876.

Old Mr. Moore has the contract for lighting the street lamps. One move in the right direction, and no chance for Belknap.

Whisky is said to be seventy-five cents a drink at the Black Hills. Nobody goes to the Black Hills from this office.

Walt Peterson, of the "Republican" talks of leaving the city and spending the summer days under the paternal roof.

D. D. Snyder is selling the Diamond Metal Plow, which is acknowledged by our best farmers to be the best in the world.

T. M. Stevens has bought and sold the restaurant known as Link's stand Tom. beats 'em all in the swapping business.

When the Waterloo "Distress" copies any of our articles, in regard to Grangers —or no Grangers—we wish they would publish it in full. Charley, brace.

The appearance of a sleigh on the streets of Auburn, last Monday, was something unusual this winter, and about the first instance of this kind.

Coming events cast their shadows before—therefore look out for the masquerade ball, (time not fixed) and the bell ringers on the 24th inst.

We notice that Miss Ida Chamberlain, of Waterloo, is with Miss Orpha Bodine in the dress making department at H. H Stamets.'

W. A Palmer, who shot that ghastly hole through Murray of the South Bend Herald has resigned his office of Justice of the Peace.

State Sentinel states that the Republican party of Indianapolis is in the hands of "bummers and hoodlums." God have mercy upon the tax-payers.

Lyman Jackman, well known throughout the county, will canvass the coming season for fruit and ornamental trees.— Save your orders.

Jas. Lowrie, in his usual and pleasing manner, is on our streets again. He is putting on a play that will eclipse everything heretofore presented.

Mr. Sol. Olinger, appeared on our streets last Momday, with the finest span of approaching three year old colts we have seen for a long while.

Just Received at Miller & Casebeer's a splendid lot of Jamestown alpaccas and Mohairs in all the new shades. The best goods for the money in town.

MILLER & CASEBEER.

Farmers, do not fail to examine the adv. of J. A. Matson, in another column. His Wheeler No. 6 is certainly the boss. Mr. M. keeps a large stock of farming implements. Call and see.

After a Jury stays out all night and have decided on a case, it goes 'kinder tough to have one of them say "hedid'nt see the point," and have the Judge waltz them back again. Who sets 'em up?

Saw gone, saw-buck broken, local news scarce, Myer's with a libel suit on his hands, Stoll ditto, Wiseman charging on the geese—well, what's the use of living anyway.

Unlimited credit is undoubtedly a very nice thing, but unlimited butter would be far more acceptable, to a portion of our citizens, at least, at the present time.

Old dog tray may be very useful, and almost a necessity in all well regulated families, but when the "husband and father" persists in converting the kitchen and parlor into a dog kennel, there is apt to be trouble in that family.

The Black Hills fever is beginning to attack individuals in this city. A company of eight or nine are making arrangements for starting in a few weeks, and we hear of a number more talking the matter over.

Some remarks from us on the weather would, perhaps, be in order, but as all signs have failed so far this year, including the time-honored groundhog and "Old Probs," we have a decided objection to making any conjectures.

Out in the Black Hills gold region, when you buy a bowl of bean soup, you take off your coat, dive for a bean, and when you come up with it the proprietor of the saloon takes it away from you and says you only paid for soup.

MARRIED—March 19th, 1876, at the parsonage in Spencerville, by Rev. T. E Lancaster, Mr. A. Johnson, of Jackson-tp., and Miss M. Moore, daughter of L. and M Moore, of Concord-tp. All of DeKalb Co.

It is a good thing that the COURIER office had plenty of wood this winter.— If every man, woman and child pays us back the wood they have borrowed, we want to sell, at $1,50 a cord, 100 car loads. Orders from a distance promptly filled.

H. H. Stamets will move his millinery and fancy store in McIntyre's block in a short time. With the style of the room and the extra quality of goods kept by Mr. S. will make it one of the finest appearing sale rooms in Northern Ind.

Those who desire to see or purchase some of the very finest blooded pigs in the county, will call on our friends Cuppy & Ralston at the Eel River depot. We will assure all that they will be happily disappointed at the sight as well as price.

The pretzel-man called on us last week and donated us a bountiful supply of that article. In the present tight times they are a great luxury to an editor's ordinary diet. Call again, we like dot pretzel, don'd id.

Brother Wiseman, of the Angola Herald, called at our office the latter part of last week, but found us absent. By his own confession he proceeded to sing, "We charged upon a flock of geese" and then took his silent departure. Come again.

The Auburn Dramatic Co will on Friday Eve Mar. 31st, present for the first time in Auburn the beautiful Comedy from the Pen of T. W. Robertson entitled Caste, or the life of an Actress to be followed by a grand musical Olio by Mr Jas Lowrie.

An old granger the other day asked us "If you should see a young rooster crowing around a house in which there is a nice plump pullet a cackling from the upper window, what would be the result?" We answered "a brood of chickens, of course." "Not by a darned sight said he "she is my girl."

We were very much disappointed in not receiving and laying before our readers, the usual communication of the editor from Washington, this week. His duties there would not permit his doing so. We hope our readers will bear with the disappointment as we do.

When you come across a man who thinks he knows everything, has seen everything, and can account for the most improbable occurrences, by things that have transpired under his positive knowledge, or always has "something similar," to buckle to anything he hears, you may set him down as a dolt and an idiot, or in the language of one departed, "a horse thief and a liar."

Last Saturday Mr. Arthur Arnold procured a mixture of Nitric acid and some other substance, which lacked chemical affinity, and proceeded to brighten up a watch with it, but was stopped in his work by the explosion of the cleansing material, which burned him quite seriously about the head and face.

Last Friday was St. Patrick's day and it was duly celebrated throughout the country by the "Son's of Erin," both natives of the "Green Isle" and those of American birth. The festivities on this occasion are usually hilarious, and all well-bred Irishmen give their time and talent to the honor of Erin's patron saint.

Frank Benedict, Esq., has been in the city for several days, looking up the interest of some brick structures, to be located where the old frame buildings are now standing, on Main street. He has made arrangements between Clotz, Martin and himself to build three story brick business houses in the spring. Several others talk of doing likewise.

NOTICE.—I hereby notify all persons not to trust my son, Jacob Lochmer, as he has left my bed and board, and I will not be responsible for any debts he may contract. HARRY LOCHMER

Yesterday evening the young ladies of our city prepared a fine supper and "taffy pull," at Ensley's Hall, for the Presbyterian church. The supper was served from 5 to 7 o'clock p. m. and many of our citizens ate from the bounteous tables, and all went home without hunger and longed for a place to rest their weary—guess.

Sheriff Meese took his men to the State Prison this week. The Weyer boy, says the deputy Sheriff, acknowledged that he burned the school house and woolen mills, and when he robbed Jos. L. Davis' hardware store he was disguised in an old greasy conductor's cap, long grey whiskers and other ways so as to not be recognized should he meet any one who knew him.

Although the proprietor of the Central has been confined within doors all winter, we are glad to know he keeps a good house. During the three weeks of court he was filled to overflowing, and daily dined from 40 to 50. Court being over, on Sunday morning, he let three "orphan" batchelors to his tables as "regulars." So say the two "Billy's and Joe."

A young fellow sat on the stair-way and talked to himself thusly: "I wish I had nothing to do only to help them 'ere big gals carry wood, water sweep out the Hall, and sich. After while I want to link on to one of 'em and I want to show 'em I'm not afeared to work."— He took from his mouth a quarter of tobacco, and placing it in his pocket started up-stairs to see if there was anything for him to do.

The First National Bank, of this place are making arrangements to erect a three story brick banking building, the present spring, on Main and Ninth streets, next to the McIntyre building. The work will be superintended by Mr. McIntyre in person and our citizens may expect a structure which will be a credit and an ornament to our town, as anything Mr. M. undertakes is certain to be well done and in the latest style of architecture.

There is nothing improbable under the sun. We are led to make this assertion from an idea which appeared in the Fort Wayne Sentinel, stating that a tramp faking for a meal, which he procured, proceeded to ask a blessing from the "meek and lowly," before he swallowed the tempting viands. Such a mark of true christianity should be registered on the "roll of honer," as it is a certain foreshadowing of the approaching Millenium—or this is the Centennial year.

Owing to the terrible condition of the roads, our country friends have been unable to supply the town people with a sufficiency of that "oleaginous rol'," and both old and young benedict's may be seen charging about from house to house, "just to borrow a little, you know." Old dish rags, bacon rinds, etc., boiled down, will answer as a substitute for a short time, but won't do for steady diet. Give us butter, or give us — butter!

The Cantata of Queen Esther, which was produced at Ensley's Hall, last Friday evening, the proceeds of which were to be appropriated to the benefit of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, of this place, was not patronized to the extent it deserved. The managers of this entertainment were put to considerable labor and expense in preparing it for the public, and the seeming lack of its appreciation by our citizens, has left them a little behind financially. In other words they failed to make expenses, and thus the churches have lost a benefit, of which they stood much in need.

Robison's Swiss Bell Ringers will give a grand entertainment at Ensly's Hall, next Friday evening, March 24th 1876. This troupe comes highly recommended by the press. They have ten first-class performers, a splendid silver cornet band and orchestra, and a full troupe of bell ringers, Many of the performers have travelled with Leavitt's troupe of bell ringers. Jimmie Field, the favorite humorist and facial delineator, is with them; also Bessie Field, serio comic vocalist, and Miss Henrietta, the celebrated English vocalist. The troupe is a grand combination and worthy of patronage. Give them a full house. Admission 25 and 35 cents.

St Clair, of the Waukarusa "Sun," is out of humor. He is flat with erysipelas, and his subscribers are thus informed of it: "Gentlemen, we are not well, and slightly out of humor. We can't expect to get to heaven so long as we lay here on our back, and look over our delinquent subscription and advertising list to the tune of a thousand dollars. It makes us feel wicked when we think how faithful we have performed our part of the contract, and how shabbily you have served us. You can't make us believe you can't send us the dollar or two you owe us, every one of you. Now we shall not stop your paper, but we will make you pay if it costs ninety cents on every dollar to collect it. So you had better send in your little check without further trouble, and we will respect you in a business point of view."

Berkshire Pigs for Sale.

I have for sale a few English Berkshire pigs, crosses of Crown Prince and Canada Bell. Crown Prince won the first prize at the Royal Show at Bedford England, July 12th, 1874. I guarantee full pedegree.

A. D. MOORE,
Moores Station, DeKalb Co., Ind.

Local poets, are as a usual thing, calculated strictly below par, but we hold our special rimer, Mr. R. M. Widney, up to the criticisms of the best students of the muses. However, we hope he will not furnish the same poetry for the two papers, as the COURIER is always ahead, and it is somewhat detrimental to the Republican concern.

Select School.

A select school will be commenced at the rooms in Ensley's block, on Monday April 3rd 1876, and continue three months. The rooms are light, pleasant and centrally located. An excellent opportunity is here offered to those who wish to advance themselves in the common branches and higher English. Pupils living out of town, will be assisted in finding boarding places, or rooms for boarding themselves, by calling on the Principal, or any of the Board of Trustees.

RATES OF TUITION.

High School	$4 00.
Grammar Department	3 00.
Intermediate "	2 50.

W. MCINTYRE, Presi't.
O. M. RECORD, Prin'l. 3w.

Mr. D. D. Snyder, agent for the Diamond Plow, informs us that he has disposed of a vast number of them to farmers of DeKalb and adjoining counties, and that they are giving perfect satisfaction to all who have purchased them. He also showed us a sword made from the same material as the plow (the Diamond metal) which held as fine an edge and as smooth a polish as though it were manufactured of the best of steel. The superiority of this plow over all others, for the soil of this locality is manifested in its perfect scouring qualities, its lightness of draft, and its perfect adaptation to all conditions of the earth at the breaking season. He sells this plow upon its merit, and farmers in want of an improvement of this kind, who are not satisfied after an optical examination of its superior qualities, can test them to their entire satisfaction. Mr. Snyder first introduced these plows in this locality, and the success he has met with, warrants us in making these remarks. Call on him when you need anything of this kind.

The closing exercises of the Auburn Public Schools took place on Friday afternoon and Saturday evening of last week. On Friday afternoon the small scholars gave their entertainment, consisting of recitations, declamations, etc., and although we were not present to witness the exercises, we understand, that without a single exception, all acquitted themselves creditably, and showed that their pains-taking teachers had spared no diligence in their efforts to instruct the youth of our place. All honor is due them for their faithful exertions, and we think the citizens of Auburn fully appreciate their labors. On Saturday evening the pupils in the higher grades gave a splendid entertainment at Ensley's Hall, which was listened to by a large and appreciative audience. To make mention of any particular feature of these exercises is unnecessary, as the performance throughout was a perfect success. Each participant seemed to be stimulated, by the liberal patronage extended to them, to vie with one another in making the entertainment pleasing to the audience, a credit to themselves, and an honor to their faithful instructors. Great credit is due to both pupil and teacher for their great advancement in this last school term, and our citizens gave them a hearty approval of their efforts by a large attendance to their entertainment.

As will be seen in another place the call of members of the Democratic Central Committee of this county, to meet at this place April 6th, to make arrangements for the selection of the delegates to the State convention, which meets at Indianapolis April 19th prox. This is done in the absence of the chairman, our editor, who will beyond question sanction the move. All we can say is, that in the ardious duties as clerk of the committee, which is unearthing the most terrible frauds ever practiced upon a civilized country, now going on before the committee on expenditures of the War Department, he has, beyond a question, overlooked this matter. Even had he thought of it for a moment he undoubtedly contented himself with the thought, that the Democracy of bold little DeKalb, would be on hand and well represented. Nor did he do so out of disrespect, for we have heard him say he was proud of the position conferred on him as their chairman. In the absence of our cheif we, in justice to him, say this for the seeming neglect, he undoubtedly feeling that he doing God's service, not only to the country, but the party, to which he is loyal. The call by Mr. McClellan, one of the committee, is perfectly regular and we hope to see a full attendance of the committee. Also as the honored customs, we would invite all Democrats, who desire a change in the present damnable administration of public affairs, to meet with them and give their influence in the coming campaign, which will prove the most exciting ever had in our country. Therefore let all attend and see that the county is fully represented.

J. R. LANNING.

Has just received and has now on sale, at his store in Auburn, Ford's Block, in splendid styles new spring

Millinery Goods.

ALL THE NEW STYLES.

Dress Goods, all the new and beautiful shades of fabrics.— New Fancy Goods and Notions, the latest of the season New Domestic Goods and Notions. Please call and examine styles and prices before buying

J. R. LANNING.

Auburn, Ind. March 9th 1876.

THE FALL OF BELKNAP.

BY R. M. WIDNEY.

Well loud ye pompous thieves,
Who dwell in mansions rich and fine,
And think no mortal but believes,
Your hearts as pure as truth's rich mine.

Another high toned, sneaking wretch,
Who felt guilts piercing scorpion sting,
Another thief is made to stretch,
Upon the rack that baseness brings.

Oh, can it be that men will prove,
So recreant to every trust?
So faithless to the land they love,
And sink so deep within the dust?

Has heaven-born virtue lost her sway,
O'er those who most should feel her power,
That they so lightly cast away
Their honor in temptations hour?

Arouse each sun-browned son of toil,
With honest heart and toughened hand,
Whose calling is to till the soil,
And scatter plenty through the land.

All who detest the cursed rings,
That bring upon our land disgrace.
Rise and assist the power of kings,
And teach vile thieves to know their place

Back to your dens ye skulking crew,
Who fain steal our hard earned wealth
We'll let you know we're after you,
Back to your dens and save your health

Ye men of honor, friends of right,
For you stand your country calls,
Gird on your armor urge the fight,
'Till base corruption groans and falls.

New Subscribers.

While we are not making the least effort to extend the list of subscription, from the fact we have all we can accommodate with our facilities we, of course, feel complimented in adding names to the list, for by that act we know our efforts are appreciated. Daily we are adding to our list, and thus we are daily encouraged by these reminders. These remarks are called out from the fact that Messrs P. Reinohl and A. & J. Smith, of the N. W. part of the county, each handed us two dollars for the COURIER for one year.

To our friends we will state that we hope before long to improve our office and fixtures that we can accommodate all with the COURIER who may desire it, make it a better paper, give more reading matter, and call upon all of our subscribers in the county, and in fact try and get a few hundred more names on our list. We believe we have the best paper in the county, and more subscribers by far than any other, but now we desire to have before mid-summer more subscribers than all the rest of the papers in the county; and we will do it, if work, and the signs of the times amount to anything.

As the Garrett City "News" is everlastingly remarking about tramps we feel it our duty to uphold a certain class of "trmps" and in the language of a "back-woods poet" say, that the little town of Garrett, situated on the B. & O. road, is perhaps, the finest specimen of a "mushroom" growth to be found in any section of this country. In seeking a site for a town it is invaribly the custom and a mark of good sense to pick upon a locality that has some natural advantages, a spot that nature has blessed with some resources tending to build it up in population and prosperity, yet the founders of this little "berg" have ignored these "fundamental principles," ignored the biblical teachings of the wise man, who was commanded to found his house upon a rock, and following the precepts of the foolish man, have built or founded the city upon an infirm foundation. The place is merely ephemeral and it is only a matter of time as to its decay. In establishing a newspaper the prime object is, to make its appearance, (typographically) and its columns in the way of selections and original local news, up to the standard of excellence expected by newspaper patrons of the present day. How well the Garrett News fills these requirements we leave it to its patrons and general readers, and in our humanity, to all newspaper enterprises we will add nothing more severe than that we deem it the "finest" specimen of newspaper "pegged" work that finds a place on our exchange table. Do a little "sewed work," gentlemen.

It has transpired that during the seven years that Blaine was Speaker of the House many things occurred in his career which will not bear public scrutiny. This explains his frantic efforts of last to connect prominent Democrats with government rascalities. A thorough investigation of all men charged with scoundrelism is demanded.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF AUBURN, IN THE STATE OF IND. AT THE CLOSE OF BUSINESS, MARCH 10th, 1876.

RESOURCES:
Loans and discounts	$54,[illegible]
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation	30,000.00
Due from approved reserve agents	804.31
Due from other National Banks	664.38
Due from State banks and bankers	18.92
Real estate furniture and fixtures	5,000.00
Current expenses and taxes paid	370.00
Premiums paid	4,500.00
Fractional currency, including nickels	[illegible]
Legal-tender notes	7,000.00
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer	1,350.00
Total	$105,074.38
LIABILITIES:
Capital stock paid in	$50,000.00
Surplus fund	500.00
Other undivided profits	2,283.14
National Bank notes outstanding	27,000.00
Individual deposits subject to check	17,301.79
Demand certificates of deposit	7,988.40
Due to other National banks	[illegible]
Total	$105,074.38

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County } ss

I, Jas. V. Hazzard, cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief. JAS. V. HAZZARD, CASHIER.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 11th day of Mar., 1876. Attest: GUY PLUM, N. P.

S. W. Ralston,
J. R. Lanning, } Directors.
W. McIntyre,

We learn that Jno. Robbins, at Garret is quite sick.

Mr. W. E. Rush has opened out a feed and Produce store next to Dawson's furniture store.

On the 10th inst. a fearful tornado visited Hazle Green, Wis., a thriving town situated in the middle of a large and fertile prairie about 12 miles north of Galena, Ill. Death and destruction were dealt out at a terrible rate. Nine persons are known to have been killed outright a large number were seriously injured, and the damage to property was appalling. The storm-wave rolled over Dubuque and vicinity, though with its force far spent, and considerable damage was done by the lightning, rain, and wind.

Stop that Cough.

No pulmonary complaint however obstinate, can resist the healing influence of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound.— Nothing that we have ever sold acts so promptly and effectually in coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, asthma and all diseases of the throat lungs and chest, leading to consumption. It is a certain cure for Hooping Cough and Croup. Contains no opium and is pleasant to take.— Cough-worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxyims that threatened to choke them, find speedy relief in its use. Trial size 10 cents. Ask for Dr. Morris' Syrup take no

CONSUMPTION CURED.

AN old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by and East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering he will send free of charge to all who desire it this receipt with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Munroe Block, Syracuse, N. Y

Is Your Life Worth 10 Cents.

SICKNESS prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life.— When sick, the object is to get well; now we say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour stomache, Heart-burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Billiousness, &c. can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this, go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents, and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

CATARRH.—If you would avoid being rendered deaf, or unfit to mingle in society, on account of foul and nauseating discharges from gangrenous ulcers in the head, use Dr. Detchegon's celebrated Catarrh Remedy. It is the greatest cure and control for the hideous destroyer, the world ever saw. It will save every life threatened by it. It immediately arrests its progress, and if perseveringly used, will never disappoint in a cure. Go to Davenport's Drug Store, and get a sample bottle free. Sept. 30 y

Shearer & Wilson.

THE above named gentlemen are conducting a Planing Mill on South Jackson street. They are prepared to execute all kinds of scroll work, re-sawing, turning matching and moulding of all discriptions, and can, in consequence give the best figures possible, having this advantage over competitors. Their work for the past is a sufficient recommendation as to their competency and responsibility. They also take contracts for all kinds of wooden work.

NOTICE.

OFFICE OF THE
BALTIMORE, PITTSBURGH & CHICAGO RAILWAY,
(Indiana Division.)
GARRETT, Ind., March 13, 1876.

The stockholders of the Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago Railway Company (Indiana Division) are hereby notified that the annual meeting for the Election of Directors of said Company will be held at the office of the Company, at Garrett, Ind., on WEDNESDAY, April 5, 1876, at ten o'clock, A. M.

WM. WING, Secretary.

Auburn, Ind., March 15, 1876.

AUBURN COURIER.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1876.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

The house of a wealthy farmer named Colby, in Northern New Jersey, was robbed of $30,000 in money and other valuables by masked burglars a few nights ago....Josephus Sooy, Jr., the defaulting New Jersey State Treasurer, has been sentenced to confinement in the State prison for three years, and until the costs of the prosecution are paid. He wept bitterly on hearing his sentence. He is over 60 years old, and has a family who are highly respected....Daniel Drew, the well known New York capitalist and stock operator, has gone into bankruptcy. His liabilities are about $1,500,000.

The National Bank of the State of New York, of New York city, has suspended. The usual bad effects of such a failure are somewhat neutralized by the announcement that depositors and customers of the institution will lose nothing.

Following the example of the Bank of California, the stockholders of the broken Bank of the State of New York have resolved to pocket their losses of capital, and reorganize on what is left, with a more prudent administration.

The town-house of Norwich, Ct., has been destroyed by fire. Several of the inmates perished in the flames....The woman's suffrage movement is looming up again in Massachusetts, the Upper House of the Legislature of that State having, by a vote of eighteen to ten, passed the female-suffrage amendment to the Constitution.

THE WEST.

Sixty-four thousand beeves were slaughtered and packed in Chicago last season....The village of Hazel Green, Grant county, Wis., has been almost obliterated by a tornado. The town was built of wood, and the cyclone swept a clean track through it, destroying some thirty buildings. Nine persons were killed and a dozen or more seriously injured. The same storm swept over a large section of country, demolishing farm houses, fences, etc., and destroying a vast amount of property.

A destructive tornado recently passed over a section of Northeast Missouri, doing great damage. The town of Shrinkey, in Monroe county, was almost totally demolished. Two persons were killed and twenty wounded, some of them seriously. At Rensselaer, a station of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, two children carried away by the storm have not yet been found. The wife and child of Allan Johnson, residing four miles from Hannibal, were instantly killed. The destruction of houses, barns, outbuildings, stock fences, stock, grain, etc., was very great.

Advices from the scene of the recent destructive storm in southeast Missouri, state that in the line of the hurricane, from a point some two miles west of Elizabethtown up to where the damage ceases, near the Mississippi bluffs, there were seven persons killed, seventeen wounded, three or four of them dangerously and probably fatally, some thirty houses blown down, and unlimited damage done to orchards, timber and fencing.

We learn from the Chicago papers that ex-Congressman and ex-United States District Attorney Jasper D. Ward has been indicted for complicity with the whisky ring.

R. R. Webber, of Linn county, Iowa, is one of the heirs to a very large fortune in Holland, worth about $20,000,000. About a month ago he received notice that the Government of Holland had surrendered all claims to the money, and that the same will be sent to this country and distributed among the heirs within the present year. But few being equal in the line of consanguinity to Mr. Webber, his portion of the money, it is expected, will reach $4,000,000.

SOUTH.

Lieut.-Gov. Antoine and sixteen other prominent colored republicans of Louisiana signed a card addressed to senator Ferry, protesting against his action in ordering the exclusion of Pinchback, an ex-governor, from the floor of the senate. They say "this action seems unjust, and a painful reflection on our race through its highly-honored representative."

The Alabama Legislature, just before adjourning last week, adopted resolutions declaring that "the occurrence of the first centennial of the declaration of American independence is a fit occasion for rejoicing on the part of all the people of the United States, and thereby extends this greeting of fraternal good will to all the people of every State and Territory of the American Union."....A Louisville scientist having examined some of the specimens, has given his opinion regarding the shower of flesh that recently fell in Bath county, Ky. He says the matter presents ever indication of being the dried spawn of frogs.

The Senate of Mississippi, sitting as a court of impeachment, has found Lieut. Gov. Davis guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors.

WASHINGTON.

A canvass of the senate shows that that body is opposed to the proposition to transfer the control of Indian affairs to the war department....The military committee of the house of representatives have agreed to report a bill to equalize the bounties of all United States soldiers and sailors who served for any time in the late civil war.

Judge Alphonso Taft was sworn in as Secretary of War on the 11th inst., the oath being administered by the Chief Justice of the United States....One of the most important changes in the civil service proposed and likely to be carried through the House of Representatives is the reorganization of the Pension Bureau as a branch of the War Department. The appropriations committee has already provided for the transfer, and last week the Committee on Pensions reported a bill providing the method for the transfer of the Bureau from the Interior Department to the War Department.

George H. Pendleton has explained to the House Committee on War Expenditures the part he took in procuring the payment by the War Department of the claim of the Kentucky Central railroad. He stated that the owners of the road agreed that he should have 50 per cent. of the amount collected. He succeeded, after several months, in getting the claim, amounting to nearly $150,000, allowed, and had not paid one cent to Belknap, or any member of his family, for allowing the claim, but had paid over the proceeds of the claim to the railroad company. He said that, as the administrator of the Bowers estate, he had made a contract with himself, as President of the Kentucky Central railroad, to collect this claim, whereby he received $60,000 and the road $68,000....Kilbourne, the agent of the Washington real estate pool, was brought before the bar of the House the other day, and, for refusing to answer certain questions, propounded by the committee investigating real estate affairs in the District, was remanded to jail. He was accompanied by Judge Black and David Dudley Field as counsel....The Senate Foreign Affairs Committee has decided to report adversely on the nomination of Richard H. Dana, Jr., to be Minister to England. The committee was led to this course by evidence that Mr. Dana, some years ago, when editing "Wheaton's International Law," plagiarized some of the notes of Gov. William Beach Lawrence, of Rhode Island, who had previously edited the same work. When Dana's name was first sent to the Senate, Lawrence went to Washington and commenced working against his confirmation, and was materially aided, it is said, by Ben Butler, an old-time foe of Dana.

The President has appointed R. P. Derrickson Collector of Internal Revenue for the First Illinois (Chicago) district, vice Gen. J. D. Webster, deceased.

The members of Congress are becoming alarmed at the increasing sickness of Representatives and the condition of the hall. A chemical expert has examined the condition of the ventilation of the House. He found that while 50,000 cubic feet of air are required for health, the hall is at present supplied with only 15,000 feet....Hallock, one of the thieves who some time ago stole $40,000 from the treasury, has been convicted.

GENERAL.

Room for another star. The state of Colorado will be admitted on the 4th day of July next, and the United States senate has just passed a bill which, if it becomes a law, and the people interested accept its provisions, will enable the president to issue his proclamation about the 1st of next December, declaring the State of New Mexico admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States, without any further action whatever on the part of congress.

The death of Mrs. Carl Schurz is announced. She died in New York city of puerperal fever, two days after giving birth to a child.

POLITICAL.

David A. Wells has been nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Third Connecticut District.

The Democrats of Congress held another finance caucus on the evening of the 15th inst. Speeches were made by leading Representatives from all sections of the country, including Morrison, Scott, Dike, Hooker, Seelye and Payne. The first vote was upon the Bright bill, which was defeated. The next vote was upon Sayler's substitute for the Bright bill, which was the Bright bill with the section of the Payne bill relative to the partial repeal of the Resumption act. This was defeated. A vote was then taken upon the Payne bill, which was adopted by a vote of 80 to 42. The measure agreed upon provides for gradual resumption by hoarding gold to an amount equal to 3 per cent. of the legal-tender notes outstanding. It also requires the national banks to set aside an amount of coin equal to 3 per cent. of their circulating notes, and repeals so much of the Specie-Resumption act of Jan. 14, 1875, as designates Jan. 1, 1879, as the date of resumption....Returns of the New Hampshire election from all but ten towns give Cheney 42,240; Marcy, 37,447; Kendall and scattering, 419. Cheney's majority, 3,847. The Republicans elect nine out of twelve Senators. The Council stands four Republicans, one Democrat. In the House there are 207 Republicans and 178 Democrats. The Republican majority, it is thought, will be 25 or 30 in the House. The vote is increased about 1,200 over last year, being nearly 81,000, and it is the largest ever cast in the State.

The New York State Greenback Convention was held at Syracuse on the 15th inst. Augustus Schell presided. The resolutions declare opposition to any repudiation of the nation's obligations, but assert that the act of Congress of March, 1869, promising to pay five-twenties in gold is a gross violation of the contract whereby said bonds were issued; that legal-tenders should pay the bondholder his interest and all other debts, private and public, including duties on imports; that the act pledging resumption in 1879 is a failure, and its immediate repeal is demanded; that legal-tenders are the standard of value, while gold constantly fluctuates for various reasons. The convention recommended the several assembly districts to send delegates to a State Convention, in order to select delegates for the National Democratic Convention at St. Louis, and ask their admission into that body as true representatives of the Democracy of New York.

FOREIGN.

Great excitement prevails in Brussels over the discovery of an extensive defalcation in the national bank there. It appears that 6,000,000 francs have been embezzled by one of the clerks of the bank....Japan has declared war against Corea.

The recent murder of the captain and pilot of a German schooner by Chinese pirates has aroused the ire of Bismarck, and he will require absolute satisfaction from the Pekin Government. The claim is supported by the American and English representatives, and Admiral Ryder, of the British navy, has tendered his squadron to aid the German war ships if necessary.

The Prince of Wales has grown weary of hunting elephants and tigers in India, and is now on his homeward voyage....A landslide at Coateant, a small town on the Rhine, in Northern Germany, caused by the recent heavy rains, buried eight houses and twenty-six persons....Smokers will be interested in learning that the Cuban tobacco crop promises to turn out almost a total failure.

England has a domestic and social scandal of a high order. The wife of Lord Aylesford has eloped with that prince of rakes, Marquis Blandford, who is the eldest son of the Duke of Marlborough. This escapade is at present all the talk in the social circles of London....A severe battle was recently fought between the Egyptians and Abyssinians, resulting in the disastrous defeat of the latter. The Abyssinian King, his Grand Visier, ex-chiefs, and 5,000 men were killed. The Egyptian losses were also heavy.

England and France and Germany have just been experiencing the unpleasant effects of a March cyclone. Numerous shipping casualties are reported, and considerable damage was caused on land. The gale was particularly violent in Paris and vicinity, unroofing houses, uprooting trees, and playing havoc with telegraph wires. Several fatal casualties occurred in the city....The French National Assembly has organized by electing Duc D'Audriffet Pasquier president of the Senate, and M. Grevey president of the Chamber of Deputies.

The announcement that Japan and Corea were about to go to war was premature. A treaty of peace has been concluded between the two countries.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Friday, March 10.—Senate.—The proceedings in the senate were devoid of interest, a large portion of the day being devoted to the consideration of the bill enabling New Mexico to form a constitution and come into the union as a state. The bill was finally passed.

House.—The most of the time of the house was consumed by the members of the committee on expenditures of the war department in making explanations of the part each played in the Belknap investigation, and wrangling over the escape of the witness Marsh and the responsibility therefor.

Saturday, March 11.—Senate.—Not in session.

House.—Cook, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill to equalize the bounties of soldiers....Jenks introduced a bill to transfer the Pension Bureau from the Interior to the War Department....Banning presented the protest of the Cincinnati distillers against any law changing the tax on whisky....Townsend (Pa.) delivered a speech in opposition to the reduction of Congressmen's salaries, alluding to Randall's vote for increased salary at the last session. Randall replied that the people had condemned that measure, and he accepted the verdict. White—Do I understand the gentleman to say he realized the fact that the country condemned his vote on the back-salary question? Randall—It is none of your business what I realize. [Laughter.] I have made my statement in that connection. White—Does not the gentleman believe that the country would be better pleased if that back salary was refunded? Randall—That is none of your business either. [Laughter.] When I do aught here that does not become a representative, the people will take care to consign me back to private life. The law gave it to me. My people have approved of me since, and it does not lie in the power of any miserable man here—[laughter]—to talk about my conscience.

Monday, March 13.—Senate.—Allison introduced a bill providing for an agreement with the Sioux nation with regard to a portion of their reservation....The Senate devoted nearly the entire day to the consideration of Morton's bill to regulate the counting of the votes for President and Vice-President.

House.—Campbell presented a petition of citizens of Illinois asking for the repeal of the Specie Resumption act....Several bills were introduced, including the following: By Hewitt (Ala.), prohibiting contributions from the officers and employes of the Government for political purposes; by Dibrell (Tenn.), for the benefit of the distillers of a less quantity than 500 barrels per year; by Landers, to allow seventy days' vacation, with pay, to all Government employes, to attend the Centennial celebration; by Fort, to reorganize and consolidate the Territories, and to provide for their speedy admission as States, also, to impose a tax on the sales of stocks and bullion; by Brown, granting the right of way to railroad companies through the Indian Territory; by Cannon, to exempt persons engaged in the postal service from militia duty and from jury service; by Blaine, regarding the regulation of commerce and navigation, and of steam vessels, also, by request, declaring the 14th of April, 1876, a legal holiday in Washington city; by Meade, by request, to provide for a more certain resumption of specie payments on Jan. 1, 1879.....Baker (Ind.), offered a resolution reciting that "the people of the United States constitute one nation and not a confederacy of States or nations; that the Constitution was formed by the people acting in their primary and individual capacity, through their delegates thereto duly constituted; that the Government under the Constitution is one of the people, by the people, and for the people, and that in its appropriate sphere the Government of this nation is sovereign and supreme; that in its nature it is permanent and indissoluble, except by the action and consent of the whole people; that no State has any right or authority to judge of the constitutionality of the laws enacted by Congress, or to nullify the execution of the same; and that all overt acts by any State or people thereof, of secession therefrom, or of rebellion, against the same, constitute treason, and that the late war of the rebellion for the dismemberment of the Union was causeless and indefensible on any theory of right or of constitutional law." He moved that the rules be suspended and the resolution adopted, and he called for the yeas and nays, which were ordered. Cox asked whether the resolution was divisible The Speaker responded that the motion to suspend the rules and adopt the resolution was not divisible. The motion to suspend the rules and adopt the resolution was rejected—yeas, 91; nays, 71—two-thirds not having voted in the affirmative. Cox then offered the following resolutions: Resolved, That the people of the United States constitute a nation in the sense, to the extent, and for the purposes defined in the Federal Constitution. Resolved, That the Government of the United States is a Federal Union, and was formed by the people of the several States in their sovereign capacity; that the rights and powers of the United States Government are defined and limited by the Federal Constitution, and these rights and powers cannot be enlarged or diminished except by an amendment to the Constitution. Resolved, That the rights of States have the same sanction of security in the Constitution as the rights and powers of the Federal Government, and that local domestic government by the several States within the limits of the Constitution is absolutely necessary for the preservation of the liberties of the citizen and continuance of our republican system of government. Resolved, That the doctrine that any State has the right to secede from the Union is in conflict with the idea of a perpetual union as contemplated by the Constitution, and should be regarded as being forever extinguished by the result of the recent civil conflict. Holman called for the yeas and nays, and they were ordered. Blaine expressed the hope that every Union man in the House would vote against the resolutions. The motion to suspend the rules and adopt the resolutions was adopted—yeas, 150; nays, 42.

Tuesday, March 14.—Senate.—The Senate bill to amend the revised statutes so as to permit national banks to organize with a capital of $50,000 in towns irrespective of population, was stricken from the calendar and indefinitely postponed....Logan presented a petition of 3,000 ex-soldiers asking for the passage of a bill for the equalization of bounties similar to the one passed by the last Congress....The Senate passed the bill reducing the salary of the President from $50,000 to $25,000. The vote on the question was as follows: Yeas—Allison, Bogy, Christiancy, Clayton, Conkling, Cockrell, Dawes, Ferry, Goldthwaite, Hamilton, Harvey, Hitchcock, Kernan, Key, Logan, McCreery, McDonald, Maxey, Morrill (Vt.), Morton, Patterson, Stevenson, Thurman, Wallace, Whyte, Wright—26. Nays—Bayard, Boutwell, Cooper, Davis, Dorsey, Frelinghuysen, Hamlin, Howe, Ingalls, Jones (Fla.), Jones (Nev.), McMillan, Mitchell, Paddock, Robertson, Sargent, Sharon, Spencer, Windom, Walters—20.

House.—Kasson offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the committee on Public Buildings to examine into the causes of the bad ventilation of the Hall of Representatives, and to direct such improvements therein as may be found expedient to increase the purity of the atmosphere. Several members ventilated their opinions upon the "murderous atmosphere" of the hall, and the alarming increase of illness among members as the result of the bad ventilation, and it was pretty generally agreed that something must be done to remedy the evil immediately, even if the cost was very large. ....Sparks, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported a substitute for the bill to transfer the Indian Bureau from the Interior Department to the War Department. A long and somewhat heated discussion took place between the members of the Indian Committee and the Military Committee as to which of these committees had the more legitimate jurisdiction of the matter....Thurston, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a resolution calling on the Attorney-General for copies of all letters, telegrams and papers asking for the removal of Judge Belford, of Colorado. Adopted.

Wednesday, March 15.—Senate.—Wright, from the Committee on Claims, reported adversely on certain claims for damages arising from Morgan's raid, and asked that the committee be discharged from further consideration on the subject. Agreed to....Allison, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported, with amendments, a bill providing for an agreement with the Sioux Nation in regard to a portion of their reservations, and for other purposes.

House.—The House spent nearly the whole day in general debate upon the Legislative Appropriation bill. The speeches took a wide range, and had little relation to the subject matter....Faulkner offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Foreign Affairs to inquire into the powers conferred upon A. B. Steinberger as a Special Agent or Commissioner to the Samoan or Navigator Islands. Adopted.... A very significant feature of the House proceedings was the action of the Appropriation Committee respecting the Senate amendments to the West Point bill. The House non-concurred in all the twenty-seven Senate amendments, but declined to ask for a conference committee. This seems to indicate that the House will refuse to recede from its position on the bill, and will seek to force the Senate to reconsider its amendments.

Thursday, March 16.—Senate.—Windom introduced a bill to establish the Territory of Pembina....A resolution was adopted calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for a statement of the annual product of gold and silver in the United States from 1845 to 1875, the amount in other parts of the world for the same period, and an estimate of the amount in this country at the present time.... The bill to regulate the counting of votes for President and Vice-President was discussed by Christiancy, Thurman, Morton, Frelinghuysen, Howe and Johnston.

House.—The House adopted the resolution calling upon the Attorney-general for all the letters and papers relating to the removal of Judge Belford, of Colorado....The House devoted some time, in Committee of the Whole, to the consideration of the bill to supply the deficiency in the Printing and Engraving Bureau of the Treasury Department. Young, from the Sub-Committee on Ventilation of the House, made report to the effect that it was impossible to force into the House a sufficient supply of fresh air for the supply of 600 persons, and with it a resolution to exclude from the galleries all persons except those who have the privilege of the reporters' and diplomatic galleries, and such as may be admitted on cards of members. After debate, the report was recommitted....Landers (Ind.) offered a resolution to restore the elective government in the District of Columbia.

Suicide as a Fine Art.

Auguste Chere, a Frenchman, committed suicide in London, last month, by guillotining himself. He constructed the frame himself, erected it in his room, and by means of a pulley was able to set the knife in motion. When found the head was completely and neatly severed from the body. But he was not the artist that another Frenchman was, who, a few years ago, committed suicide in the same manner in an interior French city. His guillotine was an artistically constructed arrangement, constructed in the doorway leading from his bed to his sitting room. The frame was covered with crimson velvet and edged with gold, and the knife was keen and polished as a Damascus blade, and the machinery was so admirably constructed that it ran without any noise. He constructed a basket, padded and lined with satin, in which his head was found after the suicide, while the body reposed on a cushioned platform.

Sleeping Stories.

M. Plater, the celebrated lutanist, or lute-player, one evening dropped asleep while playing, after partaking of an unusually liberal supper. He continued to "discourse sweet music" correctly and tastefully until roused from his drowsy nap by the noise of his lute falling on the floor. A "reader" in a printing office fell asleep while reading for the correction of proof, but continued reading down to the bottom of that page. In this case the probability is that his sleep only went to the extent of drowsiness; at any rate, when roused up he could not remember the words which he had just been correctly reading. Sir John Moore, during his ever-memorable retreat to Corunna, had to make forced marches night and day, as the only mode of averting capture by a vastly larger French army; his poor, tired soldiers often slept as they marched, or marched as they slept. A truly remarkable manifestation of somnambulism is that which can be brought about by the influence of other persons on the sleeper. External voices and sounds can move him to action even when his consciousness is asleep. Dr. Carpenter and other physiologists have recorded many instances of this kind. A young naval officer, signal lieutenant to Admiral Lord Hood at Toulon, sometimes continued his anxious duties for eighteen or twenty hours at a stretch; going to his berth and falling instantly asleep, his mind was nevertheless so far awake on one particular subject that if a comrade whispered "Signal!" in his ear it roused him at once and irresistibly. A young military officer voyaging with his regiment in a troopship displayed a tendency which some of the mischievous wags about him took an unfair advantage of. When he was asleep in his berth they would whisper in his ear, giving him all the details of a duel, a shipwreck, or a battle; his mind unconsciously followed the narrative, until he was roused to action by the climax, and woke by springing out of bed; fortunately for society such cases are rare. —Chambers' Journal.

Concerning National Holidays.

The recent action of Congress in making, for the first time, the twenty-second of February, being the anniversary of Washington's birthday, a public holiday in the government offices, brings into notice the question of national holidays. Speaking strictly, it may be asserted that we have no national holiday in this country, with the single exception of the Fourth of July; and even this day, so universally observed, is not a holiday throughout the country by act of congress. In fact congress has no power over the subject of social and religious observances generally. These are matters which, under our peculiar form of government, are reserved to the States and to the people.

The most that congress can do or has ever assumed to do is to legislate with regard to what days may be treated as holidays in the departments at Washington and in the offices of public business throughout the country. Even the recent joint resolution which led to the observance of the twenty-second of February in the public offices of the government was confined by its terms to the present year, as the centennial year of American independence. Subsequently to the twenty-second of February Senator Edmunds introduced a bill to make the anniversary of Washington's birthday a holiday in the District of Columbia, and Senator Conkling, on occasion of the joint resolution which adjourned both houses of congress over the twenty-second of February, took occasion to intimate his belief that the time would soon come, if it had not already arrived, when it would become congress to take the same official notice of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, by setting it apart as a holiday for congress and the departments.—Cincinnati Commercial.

Origin of the Belknap Investigation.

The following is given as the origin of the Belknap investigation: While in search for a house for his family in Washington, in December, the Hon. B. B. Lewis, of Alabama, was referred to G. O. Armes, real estate agent in that city. During their search for a house Mr. Armes, in conversation, stated to Mr. Lewis that he had formerly belonged to the army, but was dismissed through the enmity of Belknap; but that if he had the assistance of a member of Congress he could develop facts that would force Belknap to resign. Lewis tendered his assistance, and they subsequently had several interviews. Lewis being impressed sought the advice of Mr. Randall, who advised that the facts be brought before Clymer, Chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department. Lewis and Armes saw Clymer, and the latter gave a list of witnesses, including Marsh. Afterward Clymer thought Armes was acting in bad faith, as the Secretary said Armes had proposed if he was restored to the army and certain other conditions complied with, he would drop the matter. Lewis said that if Armes was seeking only to levy blackmail of course they could have nothing to do with it, but advised, as Armes had furnished the names of witnesses, that they be called and examined, which was done

Crime in New York.

During the five years ending December, 1875, says the New York Times, there were 281 homicides committed in the city of New York. Some of them were premeditated, many of them were unprovoked, and a large majority were utterly without palliation. Nevertheless, out of all this appalling number of man-killers the perpetrators who suffered death were only seven. Only twenty-four were sent to prison for life. And reviewing this dreadful list, we discover that more than one-fourth of the criminals were never brought to trial at all. Some of them escaped, and were never followed up and arrested. A few have ended their own worthless lives after they have committed crime, and more evade detection. These are in hiding to this day. Possibly some of them, variously disguised, return to their old haunts and live securely in the belief that "the thing has blown over."

When an Albany firm wished to purchase ice on a small lake at Lebanon, the Shakers told them to cut it free.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Belknap Malversation—The Ex-Secretary in Court—How He Acts Under the Terrible Ordeal—The Rejection of Pinchback.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

Washington, March 13, 1876.

The great and constant sensation of the past week has been, of course, the impeachment by the House of the late Secretary of War, for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, and matters connected therewith. It will be recollected by my readers that this terrific thunderbolt had exploded in a clear sky, astounding all men, just about the time of my last epistle, and that I spoke of it then in general terms. No man who was not present in Washington can imagine the tremendous effects of this revelation of almost openly-confessed guilt on the part of an official who up to that time had been almost universally regarded as the very embodiment of open, manly candor, and of personal integrity. Belknap had no enemies here except a few ex-officers of the army who had been cashiered for crimes and nasty conduct. Among the princesses of society his wife reigned the acknowledged queen—a woman of rare beauty, magnificent taste, and the most fascinating personal and intellectual charms. Nor was she more splendid in society than she was affectionate and lovely at home—a devoted wife and even an uncommonly loving and tender mother. The investigations of the committee had been conducted with perfect secrecy. Even the newspaper men of the journals of the city knew nothing of what was going on till they got the news from a Baltimore paper.

And thus the awful blow falling so suddenly and unexpectedly created the most intense and universal excitement ever witnessed at this excitable capital. There was a political panic more excited than any financial panic which ever sent dismay and ruin through Wall street, or frightened the brokers of London out of their seven senses. In the excitement of the moment men lost their wits. This was palpably the case with the House of Representatives, which impeached the offending ex-Secretary almost without debate, under the operation of the previous question, to discover afterward that the action was unwisely hasty, and that the managers of this proceeding had been so intent upon securing formal impeachment that they had utterly neglected to secure the means of making that impeachment successful at the bar of the Senate.

And upon this grave mistake we have had debate after debate since, in which a good deal of party heat has been emitted. I do not charge the responsibility for the acknowledged mistake which has been committed upon either party. But the result, wherever the responsibility belongs, is a serious dilemma. It is this: The ex-Secretary of War having been unanimously impeached by the House, the House has now to admit that there is not a particle of evidence within its reach on which Gen. Belknap could be convicted! This is the situation at this moment. Belknap is impeached and his trial cannot go on for want of testimony. The point of dispute is, who is responsible for this want of testimony. Upon this we have had crimination and recrimination enough to make a volume of abusive epithets. I do not pretend to decide the point. I must be permitted to say, however, that I regret the fact that any party debate has arisen upon a subject of this kind, and to hope that the offending official may in due time have a fair, full, and impartial trial before the august tribunal which the Constitution provides for cases of such momentous importance.

BELKNAP IN COURT.

It is well known that the impeachment of an official in no wise interferes with his trial in a court of criminal jurisdiction for any offense against the law. A judgment of impeachment may be described as a moral and political punishment. It consigns the offender to the condemnation of mankind, and deprives him forever of the privilege of holding office of honor or trust. The meaning of conviction in a criminal court all men understand. Criminal proceedings against Gen. Belknap were instituted a few days ago, and he was compelled to go before the justice of a petty police court and enter into bonds for his appearance before the Supreme Court of the District in case of his indictment by the grand jury. Upon this occasion Gen. Belknap was accompanied by his counsel, Montgomery Blair and Hon. Matt. Carpenter, of Wisconsin. The ex-Secretary appeared much subdued in manner. His deportment was modest, the expression of his face exceedingly sad, or perhaps it would be better described as awe-struck. There was, too, a certain manly air about him, which instantly forbade any feeling of derision, which indeed caused the spectators to give him a sort of mournful respect, and to express regret at the fall of a man of such imposing presence and so many fine qualities. By reason of some accident his bondsman did not arrive for an hour or two. The General was taken to a private room in the building, where he remained without interruption, moodily walking up and down the apartment. At his house, lately so gay and joyous, he receives calls from friends who have the pluck to stand by "the under dog in the fight," to all of whom he gives a sorrowful but grateful greeting. He says nothing whatever of the dark cloud that now lowers on his house.

PINCHBACK.

The congressional event of the week, so far as results are concerned, was the rejection of the claim of P. B. S. Pinchback, of Louisiana, to a seat in the Senate. This was accomplished on Wednesday by the close vote of 32 to 29, there being 12 not voting. Those generally accounted Republicans who voted against Pinchback were Messrs. Christiancy, Edwards, both the Morrills, and Paddock.

Every one knows that this case has occupied the attention of the Senate, and, through the press, of the country for a long, long time. I guess the country had become very tired of it, and will be glad that it has been put out of the way. Mr. Pinchback is a colored man without much color. When he first came here, some three years ago, he put up at the Arlington Hotel. At that time some actor or other, whose name I forget, was "starring" here, and when he came in and saw "Pinch's" name on the register, he made a big hullaballoo about it. The clerk smoothed the matter over the best he could, and was aided by a guest, standing by, so that at length the actor sought his virtuous couch up stairs. About 9 o'clock next morning, the aforesaid clerk entered the dining-room, and, approaching our aforesaid guest, who was near the center of the apartment, said, "O, my Lord! look over there at the table near the door. See that actor? See that other man? By the Lord, that is Pinchback!" And sure enough there they were taking breakfast at the same table in blissful ignorance of any mutual antipathy. In truth, Mr. Pinchback has so little colored blood that a stranger would always take him for a white man. His rejection by the Senate was not decided by his color, but on questions of law. I think it cannot be made of any considerable political significance.

L. M. W.

Weights and Measures

The following is the scale of weights and measures recognized by the laws of the United States, as well as by the laws of most of the States:

Bush.	Lbs.	Bush.	Lbs.
Wheat	60	Blue grass seed	44
Shelled corn	56	Buckwheat	52
Corn in the ear	70	Dried peaches	33
Rye	56	Dried apples	24
Oats	32	Onions	57
Barley	48	Salt	50
White beans	60	Stone coal	80
Irish potatoes	60	Malt	38
Sweet potatoes	55	Bran	20
Castor beans	46	Plastering hair	8
Clover seed	60	Turnips	55
Timothy seed	45	Unslacked lime	80
Flax seed	56	Corn meal	48
Hemp seed	40	Fine salt	55
Millet seed	50	Hungarian grass seed	50
Peas	60	Grounds peas	20

	African.	Tenn.	Virginia.
Peanuts, per bushel	22 lbs	28 lbs.	22 lbs.

A box 24 by 16 inches, 22 deep, contains....1 bbl.
18 by 16¼ inches, 8 deep, contains....1 bush.
8 by 8¼ inches, 8 deep, contains....1 peck.
4 by 4 inches, 4¼ deep contains....½ peck.
4 by 4 inches, 4-10 deep, contains....1 quart.

The standard bushel of the United States contains 2150.4 cubic inches. "The imperial bushel" is about 68 cubic inches. Any box or measure, the contents of which are equal to 2150.4 cubic inches, will hold a bushel of grain. In measuring fruit, vegetables, coal and other substances, one-fifth must be added. In other words a peck measure five times even full makes one bushel. The usual practice is to heap the measure.

The standard adopted by the United States is the Winchester bushel, 18½ inches in diameter inside, 8 inches deep and contains 2,150 42-100 cubic inches. It is the legal bushel of each State, having no special statute bushel of its own. A half bushel measure should contain 1,075 21-100 cubic inches.

The United States standard gallon measures 231 cubic inches.

A barrel contains 40 gallons or 9,240 cubic inches.

Five yards wide by 968 long contains 1 acre.

Ten yards wide by 484 long contains 1 acre.

Twenty yards wide by 242 long contains 1 acre.

Forty yards wide by 121 long contains 1 acre.

Sixty feet wide by 726 long contains 1 acre.

One hundred and ten feet wide by 396 long contains 1 acre.

Two hundred and twenty feet wide by 198 long contains 1 acre.

A Worthy Couple.

There is a man living in Wilson, N. C., 54 years of age, who never owed a cent to a living soul in his life, and, as the records will show, was the first man for the past thirty years to pay his taxes to the sheriff. Though a blacksmith and plow-maker by trade, he cuts and makes his own clothing, and when engaged at this work if there is a call at the shop his wife goes to the anvil and will shoe a horse, brace a plow, upset an ax, or perform any other job in the line with as much skill as her husband.—Courier-Journal.

The canal interest in New York expects a grand raid, this season, from Bergh, who, by recent legislation, can take off tow-horses with shoulder-galls. As nearly all tow-horses have shoulder-galls, they charge that Bergh will suspend the canal business. We shouldn't wonder if such improvement were made in draft-harness as to obviate the necessity of shoulder-galls. It is one of the cases where self-interest has to have its intelligence nudged by a little exercise of authority.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	8 25	@11 00
Hogs—Live	7 50	@ 8 25
Cotton	12½	@ 13½
Flour—Superfine Western	4 25	@ 5 00
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 24	@ 1 25
Corn	61	@ 63
Oats	41	@ 49
Rye	80	@ 85
Pork—New Mess	22 50	@22 75
Lard—Steam	13	@ 13¾
CHICAGO
Beeves—Choice Graded Steers	5 25	@ 5 75
Choice Natives	4 50	@ 5 00
Cows and Heifers	3 00	@ 4 00
Good Second-class Steers	4 25	@ 4 50
Medium to Fair	4 00	@ 4 25
Inferior to Common	3 25	@ 3 80
Hogs—Live	7 75	@ 8 00
Flour—Fancy White Winter	7 25	@ 7 50
Good to choice spring ex	4 75	@ 5 25
Wheat—No. 1 Spring	1 06½	@ 1 09½
No. 2 Spring	99	@ 1 00½
No. 3 Spring	89	@ 94½
Corn—No. 2	43	@ 43½
Oats—No. 2	31	@ 32
Rye—No. 2	63½	@ 64
Barley—No. 2	56	@ 57
Butter—Fancy	33	@ 36
Eggs—Fresh	12½	@ 13
Pork—Mess	21 75	@22 00
Lard	13	@ 13¼
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 45	@ 1 46
Corn—No. 2	40	@ 41
Oats—No. 2	32	@ 33
Rye—No. 2	62	@ 63
Pork—Mess	22 50	@22 75
Lard	13	@ 13
Hogs	7 25	@ 8 2[illegible]
Cattle	4	@ [illegible]
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	1 09	@ 1 [illegible]
No. 2	1 03	@ 1 [illegible]
Corn—No. 2	43	@ [illegible]
Oats—No. 2	29	@ [illegible]
Rye	68½	@ [illegible]
Barley—No. 2	61	@ [illegible]
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—New	1 05	@ 1 [illegible]
Corn	43	@ [illegible]
Oats	35	@ [illegible]
Rye	71	@ [illegible]
Pork—Mess	22 50	@[illegible]
Lard	13	@ 13½
TOLEDO.
Wheat—Extra	1 38	@ [illegible]
Amber	1 24	@ [illegible]
Corn	43	@ 47
Oats	33	@ 34
EAST LIBERTY, PA.
Hogs—Yorkers	8 00	@ [illegible]
Philadelphias	9 25	@ [illegible]
Cattle—Best	6 00	@ [illegible]
Medium	3 00	@ 4 00
Sheep—Medium	4 00	@ 4 50
Best	5 50	@ 6 25

AUBURN COURIER

[illegible]

INDIANA ITEMS.

Farmers in some parts of Indiana are planting tobacco.

An observatory for the Indiana State University is proposed.

Patent medicine men are no longer licensed to peddle in Lafayette.

There are now 584 convicts in the State Prison South, which is a much larger number than has ever been there before.

Chas. W. Nestor, a little man who has traveled over the country as Commodore Foote, is studying law at Fort Wayne.

The father and mother of Gen. Jeff C. Davis, celebrated their golden wedding at their residence in Memphis, Clark county, recently.

In Spiceland, Henry county, the public library, postoffice, and village brass band occupy the same room. That is what they call a "harmonious whole."

Joseph Wall, a colored man, of Fort Wayne, who was to have been hanged on the 13th for the murder of Albert Cronkheit last July, will have a second trial.

Wallace Dennis, a boy 6 years old, was run over and killed at Indianapolis, the other day, by street cars. It was an unavoidable accident, caused by the boy's own carelessness.

The New Albany Ledger advises young men who can't afford to pay the fare to the Centennial to band together in squads of fifty and walk. It would take about five weeks.

At Indianapolis, one day last week, Wm. Ryan, a fireman on the Cleveland, Columbus and Indiana Central railway, while attempting to make a coupling, fell under the engine, and was killed.

A farmer named Asa Saunders, near Sanford, Vigo county, while chopping a tree didn't notice that his little son Frank was under it. The little fellow's head was crushed. He died in a few minutes.

W. D. Richardson, of Springfield, Ill., has been awarded the contract for building an addition to the Northern Indiana State Prison, located at Michigan City. His bid was $40,000, and the lowest.

The barn of the county house at Cambridge City, along with thirty head of cattle, three horses, and all the agricultural implements, was burned last Sunday morning. The estimated loss is $2,500.

A recent fire at Cordovia, just north of Knightsville, destroyed Niblack, Zimmerman & Alexander's storehouse, with goods valued at $1,000 belonging to Fleming, Black & Co.; also three small dwellings. The total loss is $3,500; insurance, $1,600.

Samuel McConnell, of Oxford, this State, while visiting his sister, in Warren county, Iowa, Friday evening, left the house to go to a neighbor's. The next morning his dead body was found where he had fallen with heart disease. He was a wealthy bachelor.

